Dry Chicago is a new idea even if it is for Sunday only.

State Treasurer Andrew Russel is starting proceedings to compel the payment of state taxes by Cook county which are long over due.

The literary digest is making an effort to learn the prevailing opinion of the editors of the United States with reference to candidates for president. There is little doubt that Illinois will show a first choice for Senator Sherman.

In spite of the repeated warnings about burning leaves after night-fall, the practice is quite common. Leaves are the purifying organs of the tree and the unburned material in the smoke carries germs of many diseases. A little thought will cause forgetful persons to do the burning early in the afternoon.

The navy department is working out a policy of guarding the coast against foreign invasion. Theoretically a hostile fleet is approaching. This will give opportunity to show efficiency in handling fleets and the results will soon be made public.

Baseball fans are watching with interest the contest between the Boston Americans and the Philadelphia Nationals. These two cities were the contenders for the championship last year but the teams are not the same. The Boston Nationals could not repeat their winning tactics of one year ago.

The merchants of Sullivan report good business last Saturday. This is as it should be for they are making an effort to make their advertising mean something to the people of this country and there is just enough competition to insure good values in all lines of merchandise. If you make Sullivan your trading place, you will find your business men trying to give you the best values for your money. Have you read their ads in this paper?

What Editors are Saying

Rock Island Union: So strong is the administration against fostering American industries—and consequent high wages for our labor—that it proposes ethical measures to keep out foreign made goods. Where do the benefits come in? Such action, if successful, would permit high prices with no benefits. Our government is running behind at a rate of $200,000,000 a year now.

Mattoon Journal-Gazette: There are a whole lot of people who think that the oiled dirt roads is the solution of the road question in Illinois. Their opinion is worth giving attention. It may be. Consequently The Journal-Gazette believes that the experiment on the Gays road will be worth trying and paying for.

Jacksonville Journal: Mr. Mann is an able congressman but does not have the down state strength that is accorded Sherman, and in the determination not to compete with Sherman shows some of the political acumen which has helped make his course notable.

Freeport Journal-Standard: The farmers have been kept on the anxious seat all season on account of the unfavorable weather, but now that good crops are assured, they have the foot and mouth disease to contend with. The life of a farmer is not all sunshine.

Peoria Transcript: Democratic newspapers fear the Thompson-Deneen reaction will ruin the Republican party. This is the open season for Democratic fears.—Ex

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE TOP COAT

For Dress It Is Developed In Velours de Laine and Velvet, For Sports In Leather, Tweed, and Novelty Fabrics.

FUR A FAVORED TRIMMING

New York October 2—Early in the season when Paris placed her stamp of approval on the frock of taffeta, and then a little later adopted the one-piece frock of serge and gabardine, on Princess and semi-Princess lines, for almost every occasion, a demand was straightway created for the separate coat. Designers are now giving much of their attention to this important garment.

A Season of Separate Coats
It is essentially a season of separate coats. At any public gathering the predominance of the one-piece dress with its accompanying coat is very noticeable. Princess and semi-Princess frocks of serge or gabardine, braid trimmed, and rather severe, are preferred for morning; to wear with these frocks Paris has given us an all-enveloping coat, also of blue serge or gabardine, called the coat dress. Then there are many other models on the Redingote order, with revers excuffed, and banded around the lower edge with beaver. Large crocheted buttons of antique gold cord closed the coat and finished the wide girdle of green velours. A smart little turban of the beaver completed a most attractive ensemble.

The Collar Makes the Coat

It appears as if all the designers' ingenuity has been centered on the collar of the coat. There are wide cape collars, Chin-Chin collars, Quaker collars, wide crush collars, "A" collars, collars dating from the time of Incroyables, high Directorie collars, and many others. Often these are of fur, one of the short haired pelts, preferable, beaver, nuthria, seal, or krimmer; and then again they are of the material of the coat, elaborately trimmed with embroidery, or a smartly worked-out design in Angora wool. This latter is a very new and effective touch brought out at the early Paris openings. Cuffs, too, come in for their share of attention. Some flare, some are made gauntlet fashion, some are cut to fit the forearm snugly from elbow to wrist, where they flare slightly, and others are merely straight bands of the same, or contrasting material.

Sleeves on both coats and frocks are varied most attractively, the models being taken from a number of different clothes periods.

Clothes for Sports

Paquin introduced at her recent showing, a coat of suede; at a tennis match some weeks ago, a duplicate of this same coat was worn, with matching spats, hat band, and girdle of the suede. It is an unusual fad, but one that is practical for motoring and all-out-of-doors amusements.

A Great Coat in Raglan Style tending collar to hem; one or two designs showing the Louis XVth influence, and the 1870 period, with slender, fitted backs and waists, and full circular, flaring basques.

Frocks of taffeta and faille are accompanied by harmonizing coats of velours de laine, velvet, or plush, cut Redingote fashion, or on short, tight-fitting lines. Velvet is one of the smartest coat materials of the season. On the Avenue, and in the tea rooms every afternoon, one may see any number of smart little frocks of taffeta or faille, with short, full skirts, and harmonizing small coats, or basques of velvet or plush. Some of these chic velvet basques, fitting snugly over the bust, curving at the waistline, button from the top of the high shaker collar to the pointed lower edge, often forming pannier-like draperies over the hips. There is no material richer or more becoming than velvet.

The Russian Influence

In the more dressy coats one notices a decided leaning toward the Russian. There is something smart and youthful about the double breasted, high collared Russian coat, with its trimming of fur which makes it appeal to many. These models are made in various lengths, according to the purpose for which they are intended. One of the smartest coats of the season was developed in Petrograd green velours de laine, on Russian lines, collared,

Two Adaptations of the Favored Norfolk

Stripes, checks and rather vivid plaids are popular for the sport coat as well as the various attractive tweed mixtures. One smart motor coat of plaid, in a subdued tone of gray, noted at the tennis games, was trimmed with emerald green suede, collar, wide belt, and cuffs. The effects was unusual and extremely effective. Leather is a trimming detail of many coats this fall.

The huge motor coat of warmly colored plaid, heavy curly cloth, rough tweed, and various other warm, light-weight fabrics, is often collared, cuffed, and belt-

GREATFUL ENGLAND

An Exchange Makes the Following Comment on Foreign Policy.

"It seems now to be pretty well settled that America is to finance the great war to the extent of giving an enormous credit to England and France. Notwithstanding the unexampled favor this loan, (without security) will be to Great Britain, it is interesting to note the arrogant attitude that government is assuming at the very moment when her representatives are soliciting this favor. What did the "Mistress of the Seas" do to show her regard for America at this time—nothing, only to confiscate through her prize courts $12,000,000 of American beef, consigned to neutral ports. This is a fair sample of British gratitude. And it is only one of the unnumbered similar examples that have been heaped upon this country since revolutionary times. Never until the present time however, has the American people been so completely subservient to British dictation, and not until this present moment has the American Eagle in so humiliating a manner fawned before the British lion.

Indifference as to Personal Welfare

By Samuel G. Dixon, M. D., Commissioner of Health for Pennsylvania

Benjamin Franklin said, "Nine men in ten are suicides." The indifference of individuals to their continued personal welfare which inspired this remark 169 years ago is just as great today. Conditions have changed in many ways and some of them are less beneficial for the individual.

Carefully accumulated statistics show that there has in all probability been a steady increase in Bright's disease and other degenerative diseases incident to advancing age within the last few years. Certainly the number of deaths from this cause is sufficiently high to warrant the serious consideration of every individual advancing toward middle life. Of course everyone nowadays is familiar with the doctrine of fresh air, exercise and simplicity of diet and so forth, which make up the creed of the sanitarian.

Few are willing to go to the fancied discomfort of denying themselves the pleasures of eating, drinking or indolent ease. They are perfectly aware, to be sure, that indulgence is unwise. They have been warned by other people's experiences and not improbably have been admonished by their medical advisers as to the evil effects of certain favorite indulgences. But the fact that a single gratification of their weakness is not likely to be accompanied by any of the forecast ill effects seems to lead the majority of people on, regardless of the ultimate accounting which nature is certain to demand. The way of least resistance seems to be the popular path.

Probably every individual will admit to himself that he is running a risk and that the ultimate outcome will probably prove serious. Nevertheless, continue he will and so there is more than a modicum of truth in what Poor Richard said.

Self-denial and temperance may seem Spartan virtues to the self-indulgent, but they are worth cultivating if one would challenge Father Time and his grim companion.

Custom of Raising Hats to Ladies

By Richard McBride, Rochester, N. Y.

The custom of raising the hat when passing a lady or when speaking to one dates back to the days when helmets with visors were worn. A knight, entering a large gathering, invariably wore his helmet with the visor down, for enemies were likely to be lurking in the throng. When meeting a lady or when a woman's voice accosted him, however, as a matter of courtesy and to show that he regarded all women as friends and knew that they would take no advantage, every knight raised his visor.

In a later age, when full armor was less worn, the helmet being principally a steel headpiece, the custom still prevailed of removing the sign of warlike protection, and this, absolutely unchanged, has continued through the ages.

Little by little the custom of keeping the hat off during an entire conversation with a lady in the street is dying out, but the rule still holds good that the hat should be raised in meeting a lady, should be taken off and kept off while conversing with her; each party to the conversation being about to separate, but that in the event of the gentleman's turning to walk beside her the hat should be replaced.

Late Experiments With Falling Bodies

By Thomas G. Clifford, Manchester, Eng.

Some interesting experiments have been made recently with falling bodies. It is stated, for instance, that a car of broken rock could be dumped into the shaft of a mine a mile deep without injury to a man standing directly underneath.

The reason is that the rock would never reach the bottom, but would lodge in the sides of the shaft on timbers that protrude a few inches at intervals—that is, the rock would not fall straight, since these shafts are exactly vertical.

In the experiments conducted two round metal balls were dropped into the center of a shaft by burning threads by which they were suspended, so as to give them no lateral motion. It was tried to catch the balls in a box of clay at the bottom of the shaft. None of them were caught. One ball was never found afterward. The other was found in the east wall of the shaft, only a few hundred feet below the surface. The explanation is that the earth is revolving from west to east, which gives the ball an eastward component in its fall, because a particle on the surface of the earth is traveling at a higher rate of speed than one nearer the center, although at the same angular velocity.

Keep Bubbling Boy Out of Mischief

By Lonnie B. Ezell, Charlotte, N. C.

Do you know the easiest way to keep that brimming, bubbling boy of yours out of mischief? It is a perplexing problem, yet one easily solved. The only way is to turn that superabundance of life and spirits into some useful channel; in short, give the boy something to do. Activity and accomplishment are parts of the boy's nature, and there must be some outlet for this energy. Therefore it is up to every parent to give his boy something to do, something into which he can put his energy and enthusiasm. Give him something to do that falls in with his own plans, not something diametrically opposed to them.

Have some regard to his personality and you will see him doing the right thing. Hours formerly spent in mischief will be put in on the woodpile. In the workshop he will make the chips fly, and when he gets out into the great workshop of the world he will continue to make the chips fly. He will do something and be somebody, and the world will hear from him.

So, if you would be proud of your boy, fond parent, give him something to do.

Conversations Over Telephone Too Long

By Cora A. Calkins, St. Louis, Mo.

All social and business conversation over the telephone could be conducted in five or seven minutes. Yet I have heard people talk an hour straight. Often each one conversing seems reluctant to take the initiative and say good-by.

Talking so long on the telephone not only prevents people from getting you, which is very important, but it also prevents another member of the family from using the phone.

This has reference, of course, only to unlimited phones, as the nickel instruments are already restricted to five-minute conversations.

Not Cause of Cancer. Explaining why such substances as soot, arsenic, tobacco, petroleum and some aniline dyes produce cancer, Dr. H. C. Ross of the Lister Institute, London, writes to Nature "that the terms, 'industrial cancer,' 'smoker's cancer,' 'arsenic cancer,' etc., namely the diseases caused by the commodities mentioned, refer in reality only to a predisposition to the disease. The commodities themselves do not actually cause cancer; they merely render the tissues prone to it, which seems to occur in a specific manner. The commodities always in the first instance produce cell-proliferation, usually in the nature of a wart growth, and it is not until an open ulcer has appeared, generally at the base of the wart that malignancy supervenes."
