AT THE GRAND

BETTE DAVIS AND CHARLES BOYER IN BRILLIANT NEW FILM.

The momentous first meeting of the screen's greatest dramatic stars, Bette Davis and Charles Boyer, takes place in "All This And Heaven Too," Warner Bros., screen adaptation of the world-applauded novel by Rachel Field. The film comes to the Grand on Sunday and Monday, August 4-5.

A screen match that was literally made in "Heaven," the teaming of Miss Davis and Goyer brings together two of filmdom's greatest dramatic stars in a story which, although it is an actual record of events which took place almost a hundred years ago, might have been written just to fit them. So pleased was author Rachel Field with their performances that she wrote: "I feel that the screen version is not only the book as I wrote it but a projection of the characters themselves, heightened by the art of Miss Davis and Mr. Boyer."

"All This And Heaven Too" is the highly dramatic story of a little French governess, seemingly designed for a life of spinsterhood, who became the stormcenter of a Parisian murder scandal which shook Europe nearly a century ago, but who survived the ordeal to find peace and happiness in America.

Besides Miss Davis and Boyer, the film features a notable cast which includes Barbara O'Neil, Jeffrey Lynn, Virginia Weidler, Walter Hampden, Henry Daniell, George Coulouris and many more. Anatole Litvak directed, from the screen play by Casey Robinson, based on the novel.

The Third Term Nomination

By MARK SULLIVAN

This is one of the times when it would be enlightening if we could assay and reduce to words that intangible thing called "the atmosphere of Washington." Here are Democrats returning from the proceedings at Chicago. Here are Republicans who remained in the capital, awaiting the reassembling of Congress. What do these groups feel about the momentous thing that was done at Chicago last week—the abandonment of the third term tradition by one of America's two great parties?

The Republicans wish it had not happened. Their wish is not based on any belief that some other nominee than Mr. Roosevelt might have been easier for the Republicans to beat. Their regret goes deeper than politics. They feel that something far-reaching has happened, far-reaching and ominous.

When Republicans meet their Democratic friends, the attitude is not, on either side, one of genial "kidding". They may do that publicly. But privately their attitude is one of shared seriousness. The greeting of a Republican to a Democratic friend is like a greeting to one in whose family something regrettable has occurred—something one would not speak of, except it is so sensational that silence about it would be pointed. And the response of the Democrat to his Republican friend is in much the same spirit.

In both parties, the men who rise toward the top and remain there, those who are repeatedly re-elected to Congress and come to have leadership there, have a common quality. They are rivals, of course. As spokesmen of their respective parties, they debate and wage party war. But they hold in common a sense of trust for the American form of government including the traditions that go with it.

Essential in the American form as they see it, is the limitation of the presidential tenure to two terms. This tradition is now impaired. In the election next November it may be destroyed. This is regretted by the more thoughtful leaders of both parties. The superficial disposition, shown to the public may be for the Republicans to attack the Democrats for doing it, or permitting it or condoning it.

The newspapers seek out Democrats who announce that they will leave the party on the third term issue, as Democratic Senator Burke of Nebraska has done. But the larger measure of Democratic dissent is to be found among men who do not announce their opposition yet, or may never announce it. It would be almost rash to suppose that the Democratic campaign this year will be fought with the same earnestness and resolution as in 1936 and 1932. It is not merely that the third term issue will introduce doubt and reluctance into the hearts of some of the ablest and most highly placed Democratic leaders. In addition the absence of National Chairman, Farley—and the reason for his absence, which every prominent Democrat understands—will work to the same end.

To one group, the New Dealers, as distinct from the Democrats, the third term nomination is completely pleasing. It is their triumph. They are largely responsible for the maneuvering which, over a period of a year and a half, brought about the third nomination. They will fight whole-heartedly for the election of Mr. Roosevelt in November. It is common to say of the New Dealers that they have little influence with the electorate. In the ordinary sense that is true. Almost none of the New Dealers now and recently high in influence was ever elected, either to his present office or any other office. That intimate of the President, who pulled the wires at Chicago, Secretary of Commerce, Harry Hopkins, is as strange to politics as he is to commerce.

But if the New Dealers have little influence in politics in the ordinary sense, they have much influence in a new form of politics largely introduced into America by themselves. They have influence in what may be called class politics. They have command of immense funds, which go out to voters in the form of largesse.

The New Dealer who is now the Democratic candidate for Vice-President, Mr. Henry A. Wallace, is Secretary of Agriculture and titular head of AAA. As such, he has command of a larger quantity of public funds, and a larger army of subordinates than was ever commanded by any chairman of a political party. True, there is the Hatch act, supposed to limit political activity by government employees. Nevertheless it is safe to say that a principal reason for nominating Mr. Wallace was the feeling that he would be supported by beneficiaries of AAA.

It would be as safe to say, as any other generalization that the atmosphere of Washington is still one of slightly dazed shock. The third-term nomination was generally expected. Nevertheless, any innovation so portentous is more serious in the accomplished reality than was possible for the mere expectation to be. Further, it was generally expected by the Democrats that even if Mr. Roosevelt brought about his own renomination, he would stop at that. The belief was practically universal that the convention would be left free to choose the nominee for Vice-President. When Mr. Roosevelt decreed that nomination there was an uncomfortable realization that power seeks more power. And that is precisely the argument against a third term.

RECORD HARVEST OF SOYBEANS PREDICTED THIS YEAR

Soybeans which have produced handsome dividends in the grain belt the past few years, promise a record breaking harvest this season and a higher cash return to farmers than in 1939 if today's price relationships are maintained.

The nation's 1940 acreage, exceeding 10,000,000 acres for the first time on record, is 14 per cent greater than last year and although reports indicated that heat and drought have caused some decline in condition, prospects still are favorable if moisture relief is sufficient. In Illinois, major producing state, some fields are weedy but much of the acreage has been planted in rows.

Greater Acreage.
The 10,286,000 acres planted compare with 9,023,000 sown last year of which 4,226,000 acres were harvested for hay. The yield was 20.7 bushels per acre, or a crop of 87,400,000, bushels, by far the largest on record and about five times the size of normal production prior to 1934.

If the percentage of acreage harvested for beans and the yield are the same as last season, a 1940 crop of close to 100,000,000 bushels could be harvested, experts estimated. They said the amount of acreage taken for beans would depend largely on prices, condition and supplies of other hay crops and feeds.

At current prices of approximately 75 cents a bushel for 1940 beans on the Chicago market, 8 cents higher than a year ago, a 10,000,000 bushel crop would be worth around $75,000,000, compared with a valuation a year ago of around $59,000,000.

J. J. Schreiner, board of trade soybean expert, said that if a domestic surplus were raised, for the first time some export outlet would be necessary to maintain a fairly high price. "Every year I see more and more cornland turned to beans and this year the increase has been so pronounced that a surplus is possible," he said.

Prospect Clouded.
The export prospect is clouded by war. Shipments in April amounted to only 318 bushels, smallest for any month since 1937, and trade has shown no signs of improvement. The United Kingdom and Sweden apparently are the only European markets accessible, trades said, although Finland recently took 400 tons of refined soybean oil.

Europe is expanding production. Reports indicate that the Danube basin may have more than 550,000 acres in cultivation, compared with 345,000 last year and only 5,000 in 1934.

TUBERCULOSIS DEATH RATE DROPS STEADILY.

"One of the great achievements of the 20th century will be the subjugation of tuberculosis," predicted Dr. Henry D. Chadwick, retiring president of the National Tuberculosis Association in an address at the Annual Meeting of the National Association held recently in Cleveland, Ohio.

The tuberculosis mortality dropped 33 per cent and 32 per cent, respectively, in the last two decades. Assuming that the average decline of approximately one-third every ten years can be maintained the tuberculosis rate would be 32 (per 100,000 population) in 1950, 21 in 1960, 14 in 1970, and 40 years from now, in 1980, a rate of 9 or 10 may be anticipated. Therefore, "the bells that ring in the year 2,000 may sound the death knoll of the tubercle bacillus," said Dr. Chadwick.

However, Dr. Chadwick warned against being content with past accomplishments, and said that though the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States has dropped 76 per cent in the last 40 years, 60,000 lives are still taken each year by the disease. He urged education of the public concerning ways and means of prevention of tuberculosis, and proper treatment for those suffering from the disease.

OPPORTUNITIES IN ARMY AIR CORPS FOR YOUNG MEN

Many opportunities exist within the U. S. Army Air Corps for eligible young men of the nation due to the vacancies created by the Air Corps Expansion Program, which increases the enlisted strength to 45,000 men. The Chanute Field Branch of the Air Corps Technical School at Rantoul, Illinois, offers the chance for young men to acquire an education—an education on a par with that of any aeronautical institute of the nation—without cost to themselves or their families. During the next two years, 17,882 men will have the chance to learn a highly specialized technical trade. The opportunities that now await qualified and ambitious young men may best be realized by summing up the total number of graduates from each course:

Airplane Mechanics	6,980
Radio Repairers-Operators ..	2,934
Aircraft Machinists	323
Aircraft Welders	271
Aircraft Metal-Workers	590
Parachute Riggers	414
Carburetor Specialists	240
Instrument Specialists	616
Electrical Specialists	2,498
Propeller Specialists	336
Link-Trainer Specialists	96
Clerical	2,400
Aircraft Armors	1,584
Photography	600
Total	17,882

These courses are all given at the Chanute Field Branch of the Air Corps Technical School, with the exception of the last three which are given at the Lowry Field Branch (Denver, Colorado). Persons from all Air Corps Fields are sent at the government's expense to take these courses which range from 16 to 24 week's duration.

The magnitude of the task at Chanute Field may be realized when it is considered that until recently one-tenth of the present number were graduated annually. The Air Corps Technical School has become the "bottleneck" of the expansion and to meet the situation, a new $9,000,000 station is rising on the site of the old war-time structure at Chanute Field. A new barracks of 2200 man-capacity is rapidly nearing completion. A modern central-heating plant is already in operation. Concrete roads and walks checkerboard the new area. Two new School buildings and hangars, the most advanced type in the army, are in operation with an additional structure to be completed in the near future. A modern hospital, 120 bed capacity, will be ready for occupancy about July 1, 1940. Warehouses, paved aprons, quarters, sewerage, water and lighting system and numerous other installations go to make up the enlarged physical plant of the Field.

Entrance requirements for enlistment in the Army Air Corps are: American Citizen, un-married, between the ages of 18-35 years, high school graduate, good physical and mental fitness with good character and moral background. References are required from persons of recognized standing such as high school teachers, local ministers and business-men. Every effort will be made to send the applicant to the Air Corps Technical School to pursue the course that interests him and for which he is best adapted. However, before enlistment the applicant must pass a series of tests given to determine his eligibility for any one of the courses. While in the Service, food, clothing, living quarters and medical attention are provided. In addition, pay ranges from $21.00 to $240.00 monthly, depending upon the individual's initiative and ability.

The young man enlisting in the Air Corps of today is in a much better position than ever before to realize benefits from his enlistment. If the man who has completed a course chooses to remain with the Service, he will advance rapidly, consistent with his ability and initiative. To the man who finds it impossible to continue his military career, a three year enlistment would be advantageous. After graduation from the airplane mechanics course, for example, and spending the balance of his term on the "flying-line", he will be thoroughly qualified to work on modern aircraft and will find it comparatively simple to obtain employment in commercial aviation.

Information relative to the Air Corps Technical School and enlistment in the Army Air Corps may be obtained from the Personnel Officer, Chanute Field, Ill.; or from any regular Army Recruiting Station for those who are interested in serving at other Air Corps' stations.

For The HOMEMAKER

MAKE YOUR MAIN DISH COLD.

The wise menu planner will contrast hot and cold dishes during the summer. But when days are particularly torrid a cold main dish, supplemented by a hot vegetable, will go far toward dispersing hot weather discomfort.

COLD MEAT LOAF.

2 lbs. lean pork ground.
2 whole eggs.
1 can tomato soup.
1 finely chopped onion.
Mix hamburger, pork and eggs with half can of soup, diluted with half a can of water, add onion and enough cracker crumbs to make into a loaf. Over the top of this pour the remaining half can of soup. Place in a moderately hot oven and bake one hour.

CHICKEN JELLIED.

1 cup blanched almonds.
1 cup chopped celery.
1 to 2 tsp. unflavored gelatin.
4 lbs. chicken.
2 slices onion.
1-2 tsp. salt.
Put chicken in a stew pan with onions. Cover with boiling water, and cook slowly until the meat falls from the bones. When cooked add salt, remove chicken, skim fat. Decorate bottom of mold with parsley, pack in meat freed from bone, add salt and paprika to taste, add nuts, celery and gelatin according to amount of stock. Dissolve with the stock and pour over other ingredients. Chill until firm. Pimientos, green pepper and hard boiled eggs may be added.

Dear Suzie—

New York City,
July, 1940.

This letter promises to go rather slowly, even though I have all kinds of things to tell you about. You see, this morning I stuck my left index finger into our electric fan—and typing without the use of a left index finger means developing an entirely new system from that I learned under Miss Edmiston when I was in high school. Whenever I arrive at any of these letters: rtfv45 and the capitals of same, I have to shift my whole familiar method. Oh well, it may be slow going but I'll try to tell you a little bit anyhow. Because things happen too fast to let them stack up too long.

This week I made my first shopping (i. e., on foot) trip down town. And consequently my first subway ride. Subways are amazing. A whole world exists in the subterranean regions of the city—an underworld you might call it. And it's a world of noise and bustle. I skulked down the steps marked Subway—Downtown, expecting any minute to have a subway side up and grab me by the scruff of the neck or something equally drastic. But other people seemed to be coming out and going in with perfect confidence, so I went up to the man in the change-for-a-nickle booth and asked where to catch the downtown express; he grunted and pointed through a car that was sitting on the tracks, so I put in my nickle and went through the turnstile and through the car and to where a sign miraculously indicated the downtown express. So far so good. So I followed a couple of people (luckily it wasn't a rush hour) onto the train and tried to look bored, as truly Eastern people do. Pretty soon the dragon belched forth a toot and a blast, and gathered himself together for a plunge into that blackness ahead. And off we went. I have not ridden on a local. But I can speak for the express (which stops about four times from 96th Street to the lower end of Manhattan); they tear along with a kind of mad fury. We whirl through darkness with the noise of a great rushing of wind and wheels. Oh, the inside is light, and there are the eternal car ads and people read newspapers just as if they weren't having an Adventure. But one never knows—he might land in the ocean or in some strange land after once embarking on that demonic monster. And then the first thing I knew lots of little posts bore the legend "42nd St." and "Times Square," and there I was. And I staggered out, unbelievably, into a world of perfectly civilized activity, like a railway station. Except there were strange sights like gardenias for a dime and towers taller than dreaming.

And pretty soon there was Fifth Avenue and smooth window displays labeled with names that exist only in Vogue and Mademoiselle and Harpers and such places. (Men might as well give up right now. This is a woman's world I'm talking about.) Names like Saks Fifth Avenue and Lord & Taylor and B. Altman and Tiffany and Best & Co.—you know the kind. Macy's were famous and disappointingly crowded and sort of crummy—but these places were famous and smooth as well. Which was a relief.

One of the stores—and I can't remember whether it was Saks or Best—had a very clever window display. They had, in each window, two costumed figures: one was dressed in a smart black dress with accessories in (what they called) Capuchin pink (different costumes, but the same colors in each window); the other in each window was dressed in an authentic costume of 1911, 1912, 1914, 1916, 1918, 1920, and 1925. And if you think back you can tell me which won all prizes for passing snickers and horror-stricken: "Did we look like that!" the 1925 job, and its funny bottle green color, long waist, awkward medium-short skirt, etc. And I heard many a lady say "Why we've got a picture of my cousin—in a dress just like that!" . . . Need I say that those windows drew the attention of the passing crowd more than any others.

If you're interested in fashion predictions, this week's windows indicate black, slim silhouettes with hidden fulness in the skirt or unusual flares someplace in it, and the above store shouts abroad about Capuchin pink (a lovely soft shade) for accessories, while Lord and Taylor devoted every window to the charms of topax with black. And maybe both will have changed their minds by next week.

And then there is a pair of Woolworth's stores standing brazenly in the midst of this dignified splendor. But I think they realize where they are, for they have more sedate building fronts and windows, than usual.

And there are little import shops with Bohemian blouses and dresses and fascinating little wood-carvings and embroideries. And fur stores and coats that almost made me covetous—even on a scorcher of a day.

Then I tooted up to the Astor Hotel (famous for many things, even for a recent song) which must be a favorite meeting place, from the crowds in the lobby and on mezzanine. Tommy Dorsey was on the roof, some Senator was being paged in the lobby. . . . gosh! And as I stood waiting, some strange lady walked up to me, and smiled, and then said "That's the first time I've seen a Mortar Board pin in years—it's nice to meet one. I'm a graduate of Ohio State—where are you from. . . ." Well, it was the thrill of the day; because she was the first strange person who had spoken to me in this city, except clerks and such people, of course. I'd worn my pin in hopes of just such an encounter—and it was heart-warming.

Then D came, and we had dinner in a nice, half-foreign place near Times Square. And then strolled around looking at the theatres and stores and famous places like "Diamond Jim's" and "Longchamps," etc. And ended up (my feet already were) at the Empire State Building. The building itself is a miracle of design and decoration—marble and metal. And the view at dusk and at night fell was unbelievably lovely. Visibility wasn't too great as we were rather clouded-up, but three miles is still wonderful when it's as full of lights and life as this place. Sometimes, they tell us, they can see twenty-five miles! New York began to resolve itself into a lighted pattern, and I am beginning to feel that I can trace at least some of that pattern.

The very top observation tower is glassed in, and so not so exciting. But 86 stories up there is a wind-swept balcony all around, and there the sight and the feel of the breeze is all you could dream of. There's no description for places like that. I can say we saw lights and mists and clouds . . . and that doesn't tell you; I can say that the streets became little dotted ribbons running up the island—that the Statue of Liberty was a blur with its distant light shining through the fog; but you have to see it and feel it to put the vision into those words. I can't do it for you.

Now I think I'll go rest my finger—which has developed a throb in the mid' of all this exercise—on a pillow. The boy who delivered the groceries about five paragraphs back said, "Whn't ya go for a swim in this weather stead a typin' alla time? 'S hot!"

And so it is—but so it is there in Illinois, or has been. And we're promised a break today. When I start talking about the weather, it's time to stop.

'By now,

Patty

BIG CHECKER TOURNEY TO BE HELD AT SALEM.

The checker reunion, basket dinner and checker tournament will be held at Salem Sunday, Aug. 11. At this meeting the Earl Walker trophies will be presented to the State Champion and leaders in Class B and Class C in the Illinois State tournament in March of this year. The executive board of the Illinois Checker association will meet to transact such business as may come before it.

The annual checker reunion basket dinner and tournament was originated by Ora R. Aikman of Salem and has proven to be the biggest checker meetings held in Illinois. It is held under the auspices of the Egyptian Checker Association.

From all over the state and adjoining states checker players from rank beginners to masters gather, bring their women folks and enjoy the day at their favorite game. They bring their dinner which is spread out on the long table and the children can enjoy the day in the playground of Brian's park where the meeting will be held.

Last year twenty-seven towns were represented as well as four states. The indications are this year that the meeting will be larger than last.

In order to handle the large crowds which always come to this meeting it is advisable to come early and also advisable to bring boards and checkers. Two associations, the Egyptian and Central Illinois will bring all their boards, but this may not be sufficient for the large number of checker players who attend the Salem meetings.

There is only a nominal registration fee and no cash prizes are awarded. The checker players come from all over the state and adjoining states to enjoy the day and meet checker players from other communities.

Eugene Winter Awarded State Champion Trophy.

Eugene Winter of Chicago earned the title as State Checker Champion at the State tourney held at Sullivan, March 16th and 17th. Walker, Chairman of the Earl Walker Trophies committee has informed President Gurley the trophy for Class C will go to Murdock.

It appears that Albert Kool of Streator stood first in the interstate match.

The Illinois state tourney this year was one of the largest gatherings of checker players ever held. There were sixty-four registered players from forty-one cities.

Strange Is the Okapi

The okapi's coloration is truly remarkable. The forehead is red, the cheeks are yellowish white, while the neck, shoulders and body range from jet-black to purplish and wine red. The hind quarters and the hind and fore legs are either snowy white or light cream color, touched with orange and transversely barred with purplish black stripes and blotches. These colors serve as an effective camouflage and partly explain why so large an animal remained so long unknown to the scientific world.

Lacquers Kill Bacteria
Bacteria-killing lacquers made of artificial-resin derivatives and dyes, have been perfected in Germany. They can be used in dairying, for example, to protect against milk acid and disinfecting materials.

The terms that are used out on the course are for the most, incorrect. Bogey, twosome, threesome, are frequently misused.

According to Harry Grayson, authority on golf, the rules committees of the United States Golf Association straightens us out after all these years.

For example, "Bogey" does not mean "one over par," as we have always believed. It means the score which a fair player should make on a given hole and so for an entire course. It parallels par. If a word meaning "one over par" is needed, the committee suggests a word to be coined which will not conflict with one of established meaning. "Birdie" and "eagle" are such useful words.

"Twosome" is not a golf term at all.

If one man plays against another, the match is a "single". In stroke play, two players competing together are a "couple".

"Threesome" designates a match in which one player plays against two, playing alternate strokes with one ball, such a match is rare. The word does not mean three players each playing against the other. That is a three ball match. Neither does "threesome" correctly designate three players competing together in a stroke competition, the proper word, in that case, should be "three".

"Foursome" covers two players playing alternate strokes with one ball against two others playing one ball in match play, or against the field in stroke play. The committee suggests that "foursome" and "Medal play" has crept in as a synonym for "stroke play," but the latter is correct.

When a player, or his side, is as many holes up as there are holes to play, he, or his side, is "dormie". It is incorrect to say that the opponent or match is "dormie".
So watch your golf language.

The story is making the rounds that there is to be a new golf course and country club near here whether this is merely rumor or the truth, remains to be seen. However land that is available has been priced and there was some talk about how the course would be laid out.

Shining in the Heart God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.—II Corinthians 4:6

There's the Danger If men make their plan of service and then ask God to help them, they may, by that very assertion of self, quench the Holy Spirit.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for August 4

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE TWO WAYS

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 1: Matthew 7:24-27. GOLDEN TEXT—For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous; but the way of the ungodly shall perish.—Psalm 1:6.

The most important thing in life is living. That is not an attempt to make a striking statement, but a sincere effort to present a fact which too often escapes our attention. We are so concentrated upon making a living, or making money, or making a name for ourselves, that we often fail to make a life. God is more concerned about what we are than what we do.

There are only two ways—the right way and the wrong way. We build our life either on the true foundation or the false. There is no middle way, no half-good foundation. We must choose, and it is either one or the other.

I. Two Roads (Ps. 1). Scripture is not at all concerned about mixing figures of speech, so long as the truth is graphically expressed and fully understood. Here it speaks of a man walking in the way, a tree planted by a river, the chaff of the threshing floor; and then returns to the figure of walking in the way. All of these present the same truth, for essentially the idea is that of the two ways in which men walk.

1. Choosing the Way (vv. 1, 4, 6). Even the choice of his way of life marks a man as either blessed or wicked. Some seem to think that they can choose or just drift into the wrong way and still have hope that all will be well. Their choice, or their failure to choose, has put them in the one class or the other.

Making a choice is a vital and serious matter. Let us do it carefully. Walking in the counsel or philosophy of the wicked soon results in a man lingering in the way of sinners, and before he is aware of it he will find himself so at home, that he will sit among them and scoff.

2. Continuing in the Way (vv. 2-4). The man who will permit the law of God to control every detail of his life will never go astray, but will prosper in everything he does. Observe that to prosper does not necessarily mean to have money, position or recognition in this world. It means to be a success in the thing which God has given one to do.

Much that this world calls prosperity is nothing but an empty show, while at the same time some lives which the world says have been wasted are prosperous in the sight of God because His will has been done.

3. At the End of the Way (vv. 5, 6). Every road of life comes to an end. "It is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment" (Heb. 9:27). Ah yes—the judgment—what will it be in your life and in mine?

The wicked cannot stand in the presence of the divine Judge. All the bold front and boastful talk which went over so well before men, loses its flavor and the wicked man can only expect judgment. It is a dark and dreadful scene, but man need not go in the way which ends there, but may turn to God in faith and repentance.

II. Two Houses (Matt. 7:24-27). Two men build houses evidently much alike, but we find that there is a great difference between them.

1. The Builders (vv. 24, 26). "Wise" and "foolish" are the builders, and what made them so was their choice of a foundation. No matter how brilliant a man may seem to be in the learning of this world, if he rejects God's Word he is foolish and bound to suffer the loss of everything.

2. The Foundations (vv. 24, 26). The foundation of life is really everything. Built on the sands of human philosophy or personal desire and in the rejection of God's will, man prepares only for disaster. But—here is a glorious thought—the Son of God says that if a man will hear His sayings and build on them, no storm can destroy his building. Blessed assurance!

3. The Testing (vv. 25, 27). The time of testing always comes. It may come early in life, or it may be delayed, but be certain that it will come. To the believer in Christ it is only that—a testing, to prove that his house will stand. But to the one who has rejected Christ the testing time brings dreadful destruction.

'Round The Square

There was a very excited lady last week . . . she was walking along the square and noticed a man's legs sticking out from under a car that was parked along the street . . . another man was lying down on the pavement along the side of the car . . . the woman in the story screamed, and started to run for the phone, evidently to call an ambulance . . . while she was running away two voices could be heard coming from under the car . . . "Now I told yah that this thing hooked onto that one."

What had happened was that two of the members of the court house lawn forum had become engaged in an argument as to the construction of one of the new cars . . . so no one was injured . . . except their pride . . .

A sign on the theatre Tuesday "Babies For Sale" 10c . . . pretty cheap but is not the original cost, its the upkeep . . . so they say.

When the rain on Wednesday morning began in earnest several of the men around the square were heard to yell and shout . . . who wouldn't after about 19 days of hot and dry weather . . . one young farmer was seen going along the square walking in the rain and whistling . . . "Pennies From Heaven" . . . and that is right too.

The story goes that Billy Queen, driver for the Standard Oil Co., encountered some bees while driving his route this week . . . and the bees won. Billy says that there were no bees . . . and that he won . . .

CHURCH OF GOD

Corner Water and Washington
Rev. Gerald R. Weaver, Pastor.
Residence—710 W. Hunter St.
Here and there, in our country are those whose hearts God has touched and upon whom there has come a real burden for a true revival. They are the intercessors who are crying mightily to God for a world-wide revival of his work. Without controversy, this is the world's greatest need today.

All that can save the world today from going head-long into anarchy, revolution, and spiritual chaos is a revival that is spirit-born, heaven-sent, God-honored, man-stirring, devil-enraging, and sin-killing. Everywhere false issues and doctrines of devils abound and multitudes are giving heed to seducing spirits. Men are walking in profound darkness and know not at what they stumble. It is a money-mad, pleasure-seeking, jazz-crazed age.

If a true revival was ever needed it is now; all has been tried and substituted, but the standard of morality and spirituality has fallen lower and lower. Nothing but a revival prayed down from the skies can subdue the passions of men, or stay the mad onrush of the nation to a hopeless ruin.

Sunday Unified Service — 9:30-11:00 a. m.
Our attendance showed further increase last Sunday. We are praying and working for a new church building in the near future, which is needed greatly to take care of everyone.

Everyone come with your prayers for a great evangelistic effort for the salvation of souls, spiritual enlightenment, and the unity of Christian people (John 17:21). Several young people have been converted recently and some have made complete consecrations and the church is being strengthened. To God goes all the glory.

Tuesday—Music school, 7:00 p. m. Everyone welcome.
Wednesday—Prayer and Praise Service, 7:30 p. m. Come, we would like to hear the testimony of every Christian.

CHURCH OF CHRIST.

Our protracted meeting will begin Sunday, Aug. 4th, with Bro. Harold Shastean and Bro. Bert Cain, two young men of local acquaintance, able to stand up and preach the gospel in a plain, forceful manner that can be understood and enjoyed by all.

We sincerely hope you'll be a regular visitor at every service and consider the things that are said in the light of God's divine word.
There will be some special sermons you'll want to hear without fail, so the best way to keep in touch with the subjects in advance, is to attend services regularly.

We will have two all-day meetings, the 11th and 18th, with each family bringing lunch to spread together at noon and afternoon speaking by various brethren.

"Right Up In Front---As Always"

Organization Director's Column By T. N. Wright

Roy Ward, Farm Bureau Director from Marrowbone Township and the writer of this column were in attendance at The Midwest Farm Bureau Training School held at Lincoln, Neb., July 21-25. Eleven states, namely Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin comprise the group. Delegates from all of the above states were present, also a number of officials from the American Federation of Farm Bureaus.

The Host, The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, gave us a very hot reception (111 in the parade). The meetings were held in the student Union Building, University of Nebraska. This beautiful, well equipped, air conditioned building with all the courtesies and good will of our host, made our stay in Lincoln a most pleasant and profitable one.

The Farm Bureau, The Associated Women of the Farm Bureau and Rural Youth, all had a part in this school.

I will state just a few things brought out and that should be continually kept in our minds.

Why A Farm Bureau?
 "The purpose of the American Farm Bureau Federation shall be to correlate and strengthen the State and County Farm Bureaus; to promote, protect and represent the business, economic, social and educational interests of the farmers, of the nation, and to develop agriculture."

Note what the women have to say: "The purpose of the Associated Women of the American Farm Bureau Federation is to assist in an active organized way in carrying forward such phases of the American Farm Bureau Federation programs as inevitably enlist the creative interest of women, namely, to help accent the fundamental importance of organized efforts to bring about better educational, social, and spiritual opportunities for rural people; to strengthen and support the extension organizations associated with home demonstration work throughout the United States; to serve as a means for the exchange of experience in this field of adult education relating to home and community life; to provide nationalization for the state organizations of rural women in the United States, in order that they may participate in national councils of American women in cooperation with national organizations of city women and to give to the rural womanhood of America the means of expression and strength that comes from unity in organized efforts that are dedicated to the development of a more abundant country life."

One Man Alone.
 The day has passed when a farmer, working alone, can hope to solve his own problems.

All Of Us Together.
 There is nothing so awfully mysterious about the play of economic forces. They are too powerful for one man alone. They are not too powerful for all of us working together.

The spiritual side of farm life was frequently stressed. One of our great leaders uttered these words: "May we never forget the Giver of all good things and realize our utter dependence as farm folk upon Almighty God."

—T. N. Wright.

PAVING THE WAY.
 The way is gradually being paved for future beneficial and valuable services for livestock producers by their continued support of the cooperative marketing movement in this country. More and more throughout the nation, those engaged in the livestock producing industry, are realizing that the cooperative program has been proven sound and that it is the most logical and safest way of marketing livestock.

There has been developed an efficient nationwide livestock marketing system over which livestock producers themselves can exercise direction and control and exert their combined influence towards securing improvements to benefit themselves.

In their own organizations, stockmen and feeders have personal representatives on their markets. Their organizations constantly safeguard and promote their best interests and seek to benefit them not only by rendering additional services, but by returning to the pockets of the stock farmers more of the profits from their products.

RECORD BREAKING AMOUNTS OF LIME USED.
 Evidence of the acceptance of limestone by Illinois farmers as an important part of their soil improvement programs is the 10 million tons of limestone which they have spread the past 15 years. During the past four years they have spread nearly 5 million tons. During 1939 the record amount of 1 1/2 million tons was spread.

With special emphasis being placed on limestone, along with other conservation practices, to enable farmers to get more conservation of soil, water and human resources, the limestone tonnage spread on Illinois farms in 1940 is expected to exceed last year's record.

LIFE DEPENDS ON AGRICULTURE.
 "The well-being of a people is like a tree; agriculture is its root, manufacture and commerce are its branches and life; if the root is injured, the leaves fall, the branches break away and the tree dies," said Shonmung, Chinese Emperor and inventor of agricultural implements 2800 B. C.—Canadian Forest and Outdoors for May.

Wheat Needs Phosphorus
 A good supply of phosphorus will make a better stand, more resistant plants, reduce winter killing and add to the yield and quality of the crop. Use at least one thousand pounds an acre of

FOUR LEAF POWDERED ROCK PHOSPHATE
 The quick action of the much disintegrated Four Leaf Phosphate gives high early benefits. The value extends to any legume seeding in the wheat, often doubling clover hay, and carries forward for corn when it follows. See our representative:

SEPT. 30 DEADLINE FOR SPREADING AAA LIME, PHOSPHATE.

Since Sept. 30 is the deadline for farmers to spread limestone and phosphate and receive credit for the practices under the 1940 AAA farm program, Moultrie county farmers who haven't already placed their orders should do so as soon as possible according to Earle H. Cruit, chairman.

Delay in placing orders may make it difficult for the farmers to receive their deliveries in time to spread the limestone or phosphate before the closing date of September 30, Cruit said.

Because of the variation in the requirements of soil on a single field for limestone, Cruit emphasizes the importance of testing the soil for acidity. Soils also vary greatly in their needs for phosphate, making soil tests for phosphorus equally important.

Directions for collecting soil samples may be obtained at the Farm Bureau office.

FARM BUREAU GROUP INVITED TO ILLINOIS.

In the final session of the four-day Midwest Farm Bureau Training School held in Lincoln, Neb., last week, George Metzger, field secretary of the Illinois Agricultural Association, invited the group to hold the 1941 conference in Illinois.

In issuing the invitation to the Farm Bureau leaders, Metzger said that Professor J. C. Spitzer, assistant director of extension, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, Urbana, had expressed the desire to have the meeting come to the campus of the University of Illinois. Metzger pointed out that the new Student Union Building now under construction will be completed by next summer and said it would perhaps be available for the conference.

GOOD BUTTER MEANS HIGHER PRICES AND INCREASED CONSUMPTION.

Producers' Creamery of Champaign pays a premium for quality cream. It can do this because good cream makes fine butter which sells for more money. Poor cream results in a loss. For example, during June the Creamery made 101,773 pounds of butter of which approximately 28,000 pounds scored 90. Thus, the Creamery received $439.60 less for this butter than it would have if it had scored 90.

About 22,400 pounds of fat was required to make this butter, which was contained in cream that graded less than "A". Producers of this cream received from one to two cents per pound fat less than they would have had their cream graded "A".

It pays to produce good cream. Good butter in addition to selling for more money results in increased consumption. The average per capita consumption in the United States is 17.7 pounds. In Illinois it is approximately 15 pounds, while in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa where good butter has been made for many years, the per capita consumption ranges from 28 to 45 pounds. Co-operative creameries in those states are largely responsible for the high quality butter produced.

Four breeds were represented in the Association, 1 purebred and 7 grade Guernseys; 30 purebred and 32 grade Holsteins; 158 purebred and 58 grade Jerseys; and 2 grade Milking Shorthorns. These 21 herds were milked by 14 Surge, 2 Perfection, 1 McCormick Deering Milker. 4 herds were milked by hand.

Association Notes Of Interest.

All 21 members use milk and butter on the table.

18 herds are regularly tested for Bang's and 20 herds use a pure bred sire.

All 21 feed grain in summer. Two members have water cups. 12 heat water in the winter. Five members pasture alfalfa.

32 cows were butchered as unprofitable. Eight members use silos, 1 the entire year. The Illinois Masonic Home used all their 42149 lbs. milk as a source of butter, milk to drink, etc., in the Home.

—Albert White, Tester.

RURAL DRINKING WATER.

Well water on the farm is often subject to contamination never suspected by the owner. Recently the state sanitary engineer had occasion to pronounce water from a certain well unfit to drink. The owner indignantly remarked, "I have been drinking from that well for 40 years and I never got sick." The sanitary engineer explained that adults very frequently build up a certain immunity to many disease germs found in drinking water. When neighbors come, however, and particularly neighbors' children, they often get sick from drinking "strange" water. Actually no water is "strange" if it is pure and free from contamination.

The Illinois State Health department has found many wells at country schools contaminated by surface water. The department inspected 1881 country school wells or other sources of water in 1937 and found more than 85 per cent subject to contamination. It is not to be wondered at that apparently normal and healthy children have occasional and mysterious sicknesses. These are often charged to ordinary tummy-ache and parents often think that children just have to be sick once in a while.

The Health Department explains that the term "subject to contamination" means faulty construction of well tops or coverings, loose platforms, split base pumps, and loose well curbing. Anything which allows seepage or entrance of surface water may produce serious contamination.

The Department of Public Health has a valuable circular, "Educational Health Circular No. 14" which shows how to remodel dug wells to assure a safe supply of drinking water. This circular is free on request to the Illinois Department of Public Health, Springfield. Additional information on how to safeguard water supplies, whether from dug wells, drilled wells or springs, is given in Concrete Information Sheet, "How to Protect the Water Supply." Copies available on request to the Portland Cement Association in Chicago.

August, 1940 News Letter. C. A. Kincaid, Farm Field Representative, Portland Cement Ass'n.

THIS FARM WAS OWNED CLEAR

Why must the son spend 20 years in paying off a MORTGAGE?

Often the only estate a farmer leaves is a debt-free farm. Estate administration expense and an arrangement to give each child an equal share always means that, to retain the farm in the family, one of the sons must mortgage the old homestead.

What of YOUR children? Will one of them be forced to spend 20 to 30 profitless years in paying off an uncalculated mortgage? You can avoid this difficulty in your family with small annual investments in life insurance.

The agent in your County Farm Bureau office will help you. See him at once! Act on his advice.

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL AT CHURCH OF GOD.

Last Monday the Bible School began with a fine group of children, between the ages of 4-15 attending. They look like a little army as they march into the building, following their leaders who carry the American flag, the Christian flag, and the Bible. The first two days were very warm, but the basement church is about the coolest place to be found on these hot days. Every child seems to be greatly interested and the teachers are endeavoring to make it interesting for them.

The boys of Junior and Intermediate age are making stands out of orange crates, supplied by the merchants of the city, and expect to make other articles before Bible school is over.

We hope to see all the parents and children out to the final service, Friday evening, August 9th. In the meantime, we hope all have a good time together and make new friends. The children are looking forward to the picnic on the afternoon of the 9th, and the older boys to the swim before Bible School is over. Any boy or girl between the ages of 4-15, who has not been to Bible School as yet can still come for the remaining sessions, every afternoon from 1:00 to 3:45 p. m.

JOHN SIDES OF LAKE CITY DIES FROM GUN SHOT WOUND

Report To Have Taken Life Because Of Financial Difficulties - Funeral At Lake City.

John Sides, who had been working for his brother-in-law, Irvin Fathauer, near Lake City, died on Tuesday afternoon at St. Mary's hospital in Decatur, apparently being a suicide. His death was caused from a gun shot wound in the chest.

Sheriff A. C. Ammann said Mr. Sides left two notes, both undressed, which indicated he took his life because of financial difficulties. In conversations with authorities at the hospital, the farmhand said he believed he "had taken the best way out."

Sheriff Ammann said the youth shot himself with a .22 caliber rifle, using a stick to push the trigger. The bullet entered the chest just below the heart.

Mr. Fathauer, who found the wounded youth in a weed patch, told authorities he had not seen his brother-in-law since early Monday morning when he started out to hoe corn. The youth, Mr. Fathauer said, did not appear at the farmhouse for the noon dinner.

Mr. Sides was born Jan. 26, 1916, in Fayette county, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Upton Sides. He leaves his mother, living in Lake City; five sisters, Mrs. Mayme Carlyle, Lovington; Mrs. Ruby Farris, Lovington; Mrs. May Auten, Lake City; Mrs. Irvin Fathauer, Lake City; and Miss Elaine Sides, Lake City; and three brothers, Eugene Sides, James Sides and Floyd Sides, all of Lake City.

Funeral Held Wednesday.

Funeral services were held at 4 p. m., Wednesday at the Irvin Fathauer home with burial at 2 p. m. on Thursday in Post Oak cemetery, St. Elmo. The funeral party left for St. Elmo at 10 a. m., Thursday from the Fathauer home.

TRAVEL TRADE BOOSTS BUSINESS IN THIS STATE.

Increased motor travel in Illinois is expected to push retail expenditures of tourists in this state to a new high this year, G. A. Primm, Secretary of the Illinois Automobile Industries Committee, said today. In 1939 retail expenditures of travelers, as estimated by the U. S. Travel Bureau, were $341,727,000 in Illinois. The biggest part of tourist expenditure, which are a powerful stimulant to business, are made by motorists.

"Automobile ownership in the United States has expanded greatly during the past five years, and there are more than 20,000,000 families or two out of every three families in the entire country — that now own cars. This widespread automobile ownership has made America a mobile nation and has enabled millions of families to get about and see their own and neighboring states," said Mr. Primm.

"A substantial part of the vacation and recreation trips made by motorists are of but a few days duration. Good roads have increased the mobility of motor vehicles and several hundred miles can be covered in a single day. Since more than half of the car-owning families in the United States have incomes of less than $30 a week, several short trips can be financed better than a single extended tour. Much of the growth of vacation motor travel is recent years results from an increase in the frequency of short trips."
