NEWSPAPERS MUST EXPECT CRITICISM

Will Be Abused No Matter How Honestly or Conscientiously Conducted.

One of the interesting speakers at the recent meeting of the district press association of Florida, held at Jacksonville, was Mr. Frank Harris publisher of the Ocala Banner. Mr. Harris is one of the veteran newspaper men of the state, having made his entrance into the print shop nearly three-score years ago. He gave some interesting reminiscences of the business in his early days in touching on the duty of the press as a mold of public opinion, Mr. Harris said:

To effect reforms no newspaper must expect to escape criticism. No newspaper, no matter how honestly and conscientiously conducted, can expect always to reap praise and plaudits. It may please one today and another tomorrow. Abuse is of constant occurrence in journalism. All writers have and must continue to tread the hot coals of criticism. Shakespeare did not escape it, Milton was engulfed in it. Burns and Byron felt its pangs. Greeley, Prentice and Dana had their calumniators. Colonel Waterson is yet being surfeited with abuse.

"But unkind or relentless criticism must not make us unmindful of our duty to the public and to ourselves. One of the early writers described a good editor in the following language:

"A gentleman steady in his principles, nice of honor, diligent of learning, brave as the sword he wears, bold as a lion; a sure friend, an implacable enemy; who would lose his life willingly to serve his country and would not do a base thing to save it."

"If an editor is true to the faith that is in him and is unyielding in his opinions if they are grounded in the principles of right and justice, and is not shaken by every passing breeze, he justly merits the reward of his fellow men.

"The chief fabric of our institutions is the right to worship God according to the dictates of one's own conscience.

"The press should stand immovable for this right.

"It should be accorded without let or hindrance to Jew and Gentile; Catholic and Protestant.

"I do not believe that one can do a greater honor to the flag, or pay greater reverence to the Constitution than to be tolerant of all religion. To persecute one for opinion's sake is to destroy our hope of an ideal republic."—Publishers Auxiliary.

In the trial of the Lorimer-Munday cases at Morris, Ill. It is being learned that the banks expected to prosper from the influence of the "blond boss."

Conscription is a very unpopular movement in England and the British Isles. 900 Irishmen who were eligible to service were refused transportation to America.

Howard Jayne, candidate for republican nomination for Secretary of State says, "The man who goes into politics for business has no business in politics."

Several matters of pressing importance have come up since the closing of the legislature that Governor Dunne has decided to call an extra session which will begin November 22.

A deed for the Wabash Railroad was filed in the circuit clerk's office in this county. The reported consideration is $18,000,000 and required $1800 worth of revenue stamps to be affixed.

The state department in their recent note to England outlines a policy of protecting non-contraband goods to all countries. This may be a pretty costly policy for the U. S. If the other nations fail to grasp his idea and we are forced to defend it or back down.

Representative Mann of Chicago in a speech before a body of republicans suggests the name of Ellihu Root and the best man to lead to republicans to victory next year. His prediction is that only a good man can win. This statement will have a tendency to shake the confidence of some of the people who believe anyone on the republican ticket can win for president in 1916.

After due consideration of the facts in the case twenty-one of the leading authorities on international law have issued a book showing their opinions and the law affecting the case and decide that the sinking of the Lusitania was a justified act and that the number of noncombatants can only affect the situation from a humanitarian side and not from the legal sense. A reply will most likely be made by some leading jurists who dissent from their view.

"It Paid to Advertise."

There was an old geezer who had a lot of sense,
He started up a business on a dollar-eighty cents.
The dollar for stock and the eighty for an ad
Brought him three lovely dollars in a day, by gad.
Well, he bought more goods and a little more space,
And he played that system with a smile on his face.
The customers flocked to his two-by-four,
And he soon had to hustle for a regular store.
Up on the square, where the people pass,
He gobbled up a corner that was all plate glass,
He fixed up his windows with the best that he had,
And told them all about it in a half-page ad.
He soon had them coming and he never quit,
And he wouldn't cut down his ad, one bit.
Well, he's kept things humming in this town ever since.
And everybody calls him the Merchant Prince.
Some say it's luck, but that's all bunk
Why, he was doing business when times were punk.
People have to purchase and the geezer was wise,
For he knew the way to get 'em was to advertise.

Just the Right Present.

Don't take chances in the matter of Christmas presents. You don't want yours, like so many others, to be received with indifference or worse, and ten days after Christmas to be cast aside and forgotten.
You take no such chance in giving The Youth's Companion for a year. Did you ever know of a home in which it came amiss, or of one in which it was not conspicuous on the library table or in some one's hands all through the year?
It is worth while to make a gift of that sort, and it is worth while to receive it, too, for The Companion illustrates the best traits in American life in its stories and sketches, upholds the best standards in its articles and other contributions, and combines the practical and informing with the entertaining and blood-stirring.
If you do not know The Companion as it is to-day, let us send you one or two current issues free, that you may thoroughly test the paper's quality. We will send also the Forecast for 1916.
Every new subscriber who sends $2.00 for the fifty-two weekly issues of 1916 will receive free all the issues for the rest of 1915 and The Companion Home Calendar for 1916.

DANES WERE FIRST TO PLAY FOOTBALL

Percy Haughton, Famous Harvard Coach, Leading His Charges to the Battlefield.

Football is rarely associated with the ancient sports of tennis, golf, running, jumping, weight throwing, wrestling and boxing.

It is commonly believed that football is a modern game. But right there Mr. Averageman fools himself. Football is an ancient pastime. The old Teutons are credited with founding the game by playing with the bleached skulls of their enemies.

Legend has it that in 962, during the Danish invasion of England, a good man of Chester captured a Dane, beheaded him and knocked his head out into the street to furnish sport for the "fellows."

But eventually the supply of Danish heads gave out. But the sport had secured a strong hold on the exercising Anglo-Saxons and a "balle of leather called a footballe" was substituted.

The game developed into a rough and tumble scrimmage, and the ball itself would often be forgotten for hours while the excited players chased one another through alleys and lanes and even into the houses of the more respectable citizens as results of arguments over the rules. It seems that even before William the Conqueror invaded England the interpretation of the football rules was a much mooted matter. Scowles were cracked, bones were broken and lives were lost. Yet the game spread in favor and, jumping over the intervening centuries is still spreading.

Old Critics Were Bitter. The modern school of football critics, just at the present a subdued minority by reason of the general satisfaction expressed by the public and press, is not a whit more bitter than Philip Stubbs, a literary Briton, who way back in 1683 raked football of that day up and down, over and across, in the following fashion.

"As concerning football, I protest unto you it may rather be called a friendly find of fight than a play or recreation, a bloody and murdering practice than a felowly sport or practice. For dooth not every one lie in wait for his adversary seeking to overthrow him and pickle him on the nose though it be on hard stones, or ditch, or vale, or valley or hill, so he has him down and he that can serve the most of this fashion is counted the only fellow and who but he.

"So that by this means their necks are broken, sometimes their backs, sometimes their arms, sometimes their noses gush out with blood, sometimes their eyes start out; for they have the sleights to mix one between two, to dash him against the heart with their elbows, to butt him under the short ribs with their gripped fists, and with their knees to catch him on the hip and pickle him on his neck with a hundred murdering devices."

STATE SALARIES HIT

ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT UP HOLDS DECISION OF JUDGE CREIGHTON.

$250,000 in Employees' Pay and $1,900,000 in Other Funds Tied Up—Governor Dunne to Call Special Session.

Chicago.—The Illinois supreme court, in recess session in Chicago, ripped holes in the appropriations of the last legislature. At Springfield Governor Dunne prepared to call the general assembly together in special session to provide funds for the machinery of government, which has been tied up financially for nearly four months.

In an opinion written by Justice Cooke the high tribunal upheld part of the decree of Judge Creighton of the Sangamon circuit court in the Fergus injunction suits. In several particulars it upheld the contentions of Attorney General P. J. Lucey. The court enunciated a new rule which knocks out legislative committees appointed to sit after final adjournment of the legislature.

The opinion held: That J. B. Fergus as a taxpayer had a right to maintain his suits. State Employees.—Appropriations in omnibus bill for salaries of 105 state employees held illegal for the technical reason that the items should have been carried in the state officers' salary bill.

Opinion also affirms the decree of Judge Creighton in holding all other positions mentioned in the bill not to be offices, except three assistant attorneys general in inheritance tax office, the board of veterinary examiners, the director of the geological survey, which are held to be offices and the appropriations therefor invalid.

Maintenance of Governor's Mansion.—Appropriation of $26,000 is valid, not being an increase in salary for the governor. Telephone Calls by Lawmakers.—Appropriation of $2,500 is invalid, because the constitution expressly limits the amount to be allowed to each member of the assembly for all incidental expenses to $50.

Split Item Veto.—Held to be invalid act on part of the governor, and does not veto any item in whole or in part, but leaves it intact and valid despite attempted veto. This was Mr. Lucey's contention, and Governor Dunne filed opposing brief. It restores $135,350 pruned off by the governor in split-item vetoes.

Chester Hears Good Roads Talk. Chester.—Senator Kent E. Keller of the Forty-fourth district addressed a large audience in the courthouse in the interest of the good roads movement.

Resigns From Pinckneyville Church. Duquoin.—Announcement was made of the resignation of Rev. W. R. Cox as pastor of the United Presbyterian church at Pinckneyville. Mr. Cox will assume the pastorate of the Montrose Avenue United Presbyterian church at Chicago, which he held before coming to Pinckneyville five years ago.

Decision Abolishes Committee, Springfield.—Members of special investigating committees are out of a job. The decision of the supreme court announced in Chicago holds that no commission created by resolution of the assembly or either house of the assembly has any authority after the adjournment of the legislature.

Blow Safe at Clinton. Clinton.—Burglars blew the safe in garage of O. L. Langellier and escaped with $100 in cash and over $3,000 in notes.

BRITISH WOUNDED RETURNING FROM FIRING LINE

This is believed to be one of the first pictures to reach this country in connection with the desperate British drive at Loos. The losses were extremely large on both sides and hundreds of wounded Tommies trudged back to the field hospitals from the firing line after temporary dressing of their wounds.

SCENE IN ALPINE WARFARE

A dangerous climb made by an Austrian troop close to the frontier in an engagement with the Italians. The photograph shows the hazardous position of one of the wounded Austrians, who is being aided up the mountain-side by his comrades above him, while two other members of his troop are below ready to save him should the rope break. Such sights as this are almost a daily occurrence in the Alpine fighting.

JOHN M'GRAW HUNTS TALENT

Manager of New York Giants Drawing Up Plans and Specifications for Championship Team.

John J. McGraw has assembled two championship teams since he took command of the Giants just about thirteen years ago, and he is now drawing up plans and specifications for a third. He does not expect to have it next season, but is building for a winner in 1917.

McGraw saw the best team he ever had lose its punch the year after it won a world's championship. The 1905 Giants, with Matthewson and McGlinchy, were so strong in all departments of the game that they probably could have beaten out this year's field without extending themselves.

Within two years McGraw had another team that was good enough to force the Cubs into a post season contest to decide the championship, but it was not until 1911 that he won the pennant again. Five years elapsed before the Giants participated in their second world's series.

FOOTBALL RANKS WITH SCIENCE, SAYS TEACHER

Dean Archibald Bouton of New York university told the undergraduates of the department of arts and sciences at chapel exercises that football was as much a science as any study in the classroom.

He said in part: "In the long run a man who plays football will develop qualities that will not only carry him along to success on the football field, but also in the classroom and in after life. Thinking power stands high in the game of business and thinking power in football is required more this year than ever before in the history of the game, as the new plays require more thought and alertness of mind and muscle than ever before. The team that wins is the team with the punch, and the football man who develops the punch will find it a big asset in after life."

BILLIARDS AID GOOD HEALTH

No Such Thing as Indigestion With Man Who Follows Dinner With Short Game With Ivorys.

"Play billiards," says Lord Lonsdale, "if you would enjoy good health, and there is no such thing as indigestion for him who follows up a hearty dinner with half an hour with the cue and ivorys."

And all this is not hard to understand. The digestive processes of the body are at their best during a period of comparative relaxation and light exercise. No other diversion is so conducive to such a state as a game of billiards. This is why the billiard room in the home of the Englishman always adjoins the dining room.

It would appear that Americans have awakened to this fact, for never before in the history of this country has there been such interest in this game as is being shown at the present time.
