It is with pleasure that the manager of The News has received many words of commendation for the kind of paper we are putting out. Not only do many who pay their subscriptions at the office speak of how they enjoy reading the paper but those who take the paper at a distance and make their remittances through the mail write of their enjoyment in reading the paper. All seem to appreciate the fact that The News at $1 a year is the greatest bargain in the way of a county paper to be found in central Illinois.

ANNUAL CLASS PLAY

BY THE JUNIORS

LARGE NUMBER GO TO HIGH SCHOOL MONDAY EVENING TO SEE PRODUCTION.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

Literary Societies Choose Their Leaders For the Second Semester—Professor Brown Arrives To Take Up His New Work As Principal.

Despite the snow and cold weather a comparatively large crowd attended the Junior class play, "Welcome Home, Jimmie," which was presented at the high school auditorium Monday night. The entertainment, a comedy drama given in three acts, proved quite humorous. Time after time roars of laughter and applause burst forth from the audience. It would be hard to say who interpreted his part best, but Evelyn Keen, as mother of Jimmie, and Samuel Hagerman, as a young lawyer who was mistaken for Jimmie, played their parts exceedingly well. All seemed well chosen for their relative positions.

The high school orchestra gave several selections during the evening under the direction of Miss Church, music instructor. Between the second and third acts a group of six Junior girls sang two songs. The girls were: Bonnie Rhodes, Vida Murray, Etha Bushart, Marjorie Bupp, Bernice Carson and Irma Dale. Between the last two scenes Marian Baker, as president of the class, presented Miss Edmiston with a bouquet of flowers in appreciation of her work in making the play a success.

SOCIETIES ORGANIZE

PRINCIPAL BROWN HERE

SOME EXCELLENT THEMES

The News this week publishes a theme by Marian Baker, of the Junior class of the Sullivan Township high school. On account of the copy for the High School Notes coming in a little late last week this theme was delayed in publication until this week. The themes by Marian Baker and the one published last week by Eloise Harshman are of unusual merit and well worth reading as well as the rest of the high school notes.

TO REPEAT PLAY

On account of many not being able to attend the play this week on account of the very cold weather it has been decided to repeat the production on next Tuesday evening, January 29, at the auditorium of the high school. The play was such a splendid success this week that no doubt a large number will avail themselves of the opportunity to attend next Tuesday evening.

Severe Cold Spell

Sullivan and vicinity experienced another severe cold spell, the first of the week following the heavy snow on Saturday. ANNUAL MEETING OF TO GRADE WINDSOR ROAD

CONTRACT WILL BE LET IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

Rev. W. B. Hopper Holds Conference With the State Highway Officials At Springfield On Tuesday.

Definite assurance from the state highway department that the contract for the grading and bridges on the Sullivan and Windsor road would be let in the near future were received by Rev. W. B. Hopper of the Sullivan community club on Tuesday. Last week Rev. Hopper received an invitation from the highway officials to come to Springfield.

The news that the grading on the Sullivan-Windsor route will be done this year will be welcomed by the Sullivan as well as Windsor residents. This means that the hard road will probably be put in next year.

The matter of the routing of the hard road through Sullivan was brought up for discussion but no definite action was taken. It is understood that the principal objection to the routing of the hard road through this city is that it will mean a couple of more crossings. Rev. Hopper was asked to have a plat of the city sent to Springfield for inspection by the highway officials before a definite decision is given regarding the route.

Rev. Hopper was also asked to come back to Springfield in about two weeks to further consider the routing of the road through Sullivan.

Surveyors are now busy at work on the Lovington-Cerro Gordo road. Two surveys will be made so the state highway officials can decide as to whether to have the road follow the Vandalia railroad or to go west from Lovington on the Springfield road.

METZGER TO ADDRESS BETHANY MEETING

Mr. Metzger was the speaker at the annual meeting of the Farm Bureau in November and those who heard him felt that his message was so important that every farmer and every tax payer in the county should have an opportunity to hear him. As a result this meeting at Bethany was arranged.

VILLA GROVE WINS IN BOTH CONTESTS

SULLIVAN PUTS UP GOOD FIGHT AGAINST THE STATE CHAMPIONS OF LAST YEAR.

LARGE CROWD AT GAME Visitors Are Accompanied By A Large Number Of Rooters—Bethany Easily Wins Contest With Arthur At the Former Place Friday Night.

On last Friday evening the local team met and were defeated by Villa Grove, last year's state champions, in one of the most interesting games yet staged on the home floor. Although the visitors were able to keep a point or two ahead most of the time, it was anybody's game up till the last whistle.

Sullivan opened the scoring first, when Sons for Sullivan dropped in a long field goal. This was the only time that the locals held the large end of the score, but they were tied again and again. Villa Grove then came through to score two baskets and two free throws, ending the initial period 6 to 2 in their favor.

The second quarter was also hotly contested, with Sullivan obtaining a 4 to 2 advantage, Villa Grove maintaining a 8 to 6 lead at the half. The remainder of the game was hard fought. After being tied several times the Douglas quintet rallied in the final quarter to lead at one time by a margin of seven points. The score at the end stood Villa Grove 17, Sullivan 13.

Captain Sanders, running guard for Villa Grove, and a member of last year's team, showed up well for the visitors, Sullivan, as a team, played a fine type of ball throughout the game.

SECUNDS DEFEATED

A game between the second teams was staged as a curtain raiser to the big game Friday night.

At one time the score was tied 8 to 8. After that, the Villa Grove seconds gradually forged ahead to a final victory of 21 to 10. However, the Sullivan seconds showed up much better than in their game with LaPlace on the Saturday night preceding.

Wright, who acted as captain of the second team, played well and Wood scored two dandy baskets. The team work of the visitors was the outstanding feature of the game.

THE BIG DEAL

By RUBY H. MARTYN

It was part of Lorne Drake's work for Mr. Ryder to stay at the little portable office on the lumber yard wharf while the other clerks went to lunch. That was how it happened that Peter Kilburn, in a rush during his own nooning from an uptown office, found Drake alone there and stated his business concisely.

"I have a wood lot out in Danbury to sell. Grandfather left it to me, and if I can turn it into a thousand dollars within ten days I can use the money to tremendous advantage in my line of business. Jimmie Baker was sure that Mr. Ryder would put me in the way of some sort of deal if this lot is too small for him to handle."

Drake was listening with tensed muscles. He had been born and raised on a Danbury farm, coming to the metropolitan lumber yard only a few months before. In quest of the fortune Gwen demanded before she would promise to wed him; he knew every inch of the Kilburn woodlot, although this city-bred grandson was a stranger; he guessed its timber would market at a profit over a purchase price of $5,000. To buy at $1,000 would put the deal in Lorne's classification of big business. And he had the cash to make an option payment. He had negotiated the purchase of a Danbury farm for the Jimmie Baker whom young Kilburn had mentioned, and the stiff price the inexperienced city man had paid for that had netted Lorne the commission which he was on the alert to reinvest.

"I'll give you $1,200 for the woodlot," he said, salving his conscience with an extra $200. "I'll pay $900 down and the other nine when you hand me the papers a week from today."

"Done!" cried Kilburn, jubilantly. "Jimmie told me to trust Ryder's for a clean deal of my problem."

If Lorne Drake had any qualms he smothered them in plans for a week end run to Danbury to arrange with some local banker for a loan, and back in the sunshine of Gwen's favor.

But the situation at his home town didn't develop smoothly. The family found him irritable. When he sought Gwen he found himself talking until he ran down like a tired clock spring, and flung away when Jimmie Baker came with a brisk assurance of her welcome. Striking cross lots, Lorne entered the Kilburn woods and began to perambulate the bounds.

The young man had recently made some study of timber in relation to its veneer and interior finish values, and as he cruised among the walnuts and clean-stemmed maples he realized that there was a small fortune for development along those lines. Jimmie Baker's land abutting at one side, held more valuable trees, and Lorne's keen mind leaped on to secure that.

But as he wandered there alone, his thought was always for the girl he loved with an intensity that counted no cost of self. And he had been ashamed before her! All the bables he might buy would never bring him courage to make his claim without the clean upstandingness that kept him without shame. With tricky hands he had lost a power without which he could not fight for Gwen. Lorne ground his teeth as he realized that the logical working out of his return to self respect would play into Jimmie's hands. He caught the next train cityward.

Two mornings later the young man was back at Danbury, again cruising among the timber of the Kilburn lot. He was working with pencil and notebook under a maple flowered in red. A fluttering wood bird heralded the approach of some humankind. The young man could hear the rustle of dry leaves under foot, and then there was a clear summons for him.

"Lorne, oh, Lorne!"

"I hoped to find you up here, Lorne, before because it was your letter about these woods that set me thinking. Then I got on the trail of your part in Jimmie's farm buy. And then I tried to imagine what made you do these things that aren't what you used to think were honest. Did you do that for me?"

"I thought so," he answered, gently. Her eyes clouded.

"That you may have done that startled me," said Gwen. "Because if it were true I have done an awful, awful thing. I'd rather not have one single thing than have to feel ashamed."

Lorne caught her hands and smiled over his words that seemed so inadequate:

"I found that, too, sweetheart. I found that the big deal was to keep my heart and hands clean to keep for you. I met Kilburn with Mr. Ryder yesterday, and we fixed up the wood lot business. The wonder of it was Mr. Ryder's kindness when I told my story. He has taken over the lot at a fair valuation, and is going to let me manage its disposal. We hope to work in Jimmie Baker's for a price that will straighten out his farm deal. I shall be stationed here for several months, and I want you to make every minute glad!"

"You've made every minute very, very glad for me," said Gwen softly. "Because I loved you, Lorne, and then it broke my heart because what I meant to be right could lead to such very, very wrong."

Reverently, he touched her fair hair with his lips.

"It's going to be all right, always now," he promised.

Illinois Central System Calls Attention to the Careful Crossing Campaign

The safety section of the American Railway Association has announced its "Careful Crossing Campaign" to be in progress from June 1 to September 30. In the past, these four months have been the worst third of the year for motor vehicle grade-crossing accidents. In preparation for the campaign, the country has been covered with posters and stickers bearing a picture of a grade-crossing scene, showing a locomotive in the act of striking an automobile occupied by men, women and children. Above the picture are these words in large letters: "Cross Crossings Cautiously."

The public will understand the seriousness of this problem when it is explained that the number of motor vehicles registered in the United States increased from 1,033,096 in 1912 to 10,449,785 in 1921. There is now one motor vehicle for every ten persons in the United States.

Some believe that it is the duty of the railroads to protect motor vehicle users from their own carelessness by separating the grades at crossings. There are 252,000 railway grade crossings in the United States. It has been estimated that it would cost $12,600,000,000 to eliminate them, or two-thirds of the total value of the railroads as established by the Interstate Commerce Commission for rate-making purposes. It will be seen, therefore, that grade-crossing elimination is out of the question, at least for a long time to come. If the drivers of motor vehicles can be educated to "Stop, Look and Listen" at crossings, this will give the same result as the expenditure of $12,600,000,000, so far as safety is concerned.

The railroads have made splendid progress in reducing the number of accidents resulting in injury to their passengers and employees. However, motor vehicle grade-crossing accidents have been steadily increasing for years. The accidents are caused almost entirely by the negligence of motor vehicle drivers, and for that reason the efforts of the railroads to reduce them have been unavailing.

During 1920 there were 3,012 automobiles struck on grade crossings. In these accidents there were 1,273 persons killed and 3,977 persons injured. If the drivers of the motor vehicles involved in these accidents had "Stopped, Looked and Listened" at the crossings, not one of the accidents would have occurred.

A motor vehicle in the hands of a careful driver is an agency for safety. It can be driven up close to the railway track and stopped in perfect safety—differing from horse-drawn vehicles in that respect.

The Illinois Central System heartily approves the "Careful Crossing Campaign" of the safety section of the American Railway Association. We appeal to our patrons and friends and our employees to co-operate in every way possible to make the campaign successful.

We want the public to know us and what we stand for. Our motto is "Service." By co-operation with our patrons we have found many ways in which we can render them exceptional service, and our patrons, in turn, have served us well.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

C. H. MARKHAM,
President Illinois Central System.

ANNUAL CLASS PLAY BY THE JUNIORS

LARGE NUMBER GO TO HIGH SCHOOL, MONDAY EVENING TO SEE PRODUCTION.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

Literary Societies Chose Their Leaders For The Second Semester—Professor Brown Arrives To Take Up His New Work As Principal.

Despite the snow and cold weather a comparatively large crowd attended the Junior class play, "Welcome Home, Jimmie," which was presented at the high school auditorium Monday night. The entertainment, a comedy drama given in three acts, proved quite humorous. Time after time roars of laughter and applause burst forth from the audience. It would be hard to say who interpreted his part best, but Evelyn Keen, as mother of Jimmie, and Samuel Hagerman, as a young lawyer who was mistaken for Jimmie, played their parts exceedingly well. All seemed well chosen for their relative positions.

The high school orchestra gave several selections during the evening under the direction of Miss Church, music instructor. Between the second and third acts a group of six Junior girls sang two songs. The girls were: Bonnie Rhodes, Vida Murray, Etha Bushart, Marjorie Bupp, Bernice Carson and Irma Dale. Between the last two scenes Marian Baker, as president of the class, presented Miss Edmiston with a bouquet of flowers in appreciation of her work in making the play a success.

SPEED WAGON

A SOLUTION TO YOUR DELIVERY PROBLEMS

COMMERCIAL CAR buying this year will be dictated by strict economy rulings and definitely proved performance facts. Manufacturer, merchant, farmer,—every user of motor delivery equipment,—is out to buy on a pared-to-the-bone value basis. That's why Speed Wagon facts are sharply significant.

- Parcel Delivery with panel or screen body, completely equipped $1485
- Speed Wagon Chassis 1185
- Canopy Expr. 1375
- Cab Express 1375
- Stock Rack 1400
- Carryall 1400
- Double Deck 1400
- Stake Body 1400
- All Prices f.o.b. Factory Plus Tax.

Frequency and average-load capacity (1 1/4 tons) loom big in 1924 buying plans. The Speed Wagon has hustle-ability, and is without economy-competition for carrying from 500 to 2500 pounds. Its nimbleness puts more profit-producing hours into the hauling day.

Big trucks, big investment, big overhead, big depreciation, big weight, limited roadability, slow travel, restricted service, excessive idle time,—they belong to yesterday!

Superseding them is the Speed Wagon, with moderate size, small price, minimum overhead, negligible depreciation, relatively light weight, flexibility to suit the traffic or trunk road, power and traction to travel wherever a passenger car will go.

And to supplement: versatility to fit the haulage needs of nearly 300 lines of business; body convertibility to suit the load; service-facilities from more than 2000 Reo dealers; stability of design (10 years without radical change); centralized responsibility, because the Speed Wagon is a Reo entirety.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK FOR 1924 BY HENRY FORD.

There is no reason for legitimate business having anything but a successful year in 1924. All the elements that make for industrial prosperity are present in sufficient strength to justify everyone looking forward with confidence. Unless some wholly unforeseen folly makes us its victims, there is no reason why men should not launch into the new year with all their energies fairly confident that their labor will not be in vain.

This is said in full knowledge of the fact that 1924 is an election year with all the possible disturbances attendant upon political conventions, presidential nominations and a national election. The ability of politics to interfere with the proper life of the country is known to all. Election periods are sometimes used as tyrant kings once used, war to divert the minds of the people from their proper problems and duties. And of course if politics, our greatest indoor and outdoor game, is allowed to usurp the field this year, then the result may not be good.

But why should not 1924 be an exception in this respect? It is not suggested that the people remain indifferent to the choice of a Chief Executive and other officers of the government; it is only suggested that they go about it in a businesslike way. Of late years since spectacular political methods have fallen into disuse and since stirring issues have ceased to arise, there has been a tendency on the part of the people to let elections go by default. Indeed, large as has been the total vote and large the majorities, the figures show that about fifty per cent of the voting population thought it useless to go to the polls. Maybe it was, since the voting choice usually given us is between two men carefully chosen by the real rulers of the people in secret session.

Elections differ one from another in that some are decided upon serious proposals to change national policies, while others are restricted to the mere choice of administrators of the national business. There have not been serious differences of policy proposed of recent years so far as our internal national affairs are concerned; both the parties have come nearer and nearer the same point of view on national policies, so that modern elections consist mostly in making choice of those to whom we shall entrust the conduct of government. It is practically a choice of men.

Candidates in such periods resolve themselves into aspirations for political honors, a contest of men for high seats. Certainly this is not sufficient to justify the whole nation neglecting its business. Even a Presidential election degenerates into a national popularity contest under such circumstances.

This year, however, we have a President. He was placed in his seat through the sad event of the former President's death. His accession gave a distinct sense of hopefulness and expectancy to the people. His conduct has been becoming to his high office. The tone of his mind has been conservative and independent. His utterances have been marked by good Yankee common sense that has made the people feel confidence in him. There is a general agreement that he wishes to do the right thing, that he will not be easily fooled by the self-seekers who always throng Presidents, and that his desire to do the right will insure his discovering a way to do it. Although he has been in office but a few months, already the distant rumblings of a campaign are reaching his ears, and it is a distraction, a distraction to which he ought not to be subjected.

We can help business, help the President, help ourselves by looking at the situation calmly now before the discordant cries of rival parties and candidates are heard and making up our minds what ought to be done under the circumstances. It is just as easy to forestall all campaign disturbances now as at any other time. It may be done simply by agreeing that the Administration of our government as now in progress is as good as any administration we should be likely to gain through a change, probably better than we should gain through any change now possible, and by agreeing further to settle our preference now, registering it quietly when election day comes.

If we do this it will have a tremendously stabilizing influence on prosperity during the year 1924. It will completely forestall the political silly season. There are men, of course, who will object to this point of view, because their business is politics. It is hard for plain people to realize, but it is a fact, that there are men whose whole business in life is measured by political, partisan and election activity and whose life would be completely disordered if they were to miss an election. These are the men who find it profitable to stage the national pageant which we call an election; they study for it and work for it and plan for it years in advance; their success depends on attracting the nation from its work, creating national excitement, putting business in a position of uncertainty, and broadcasting the impression that, as the election goes or fails to go, the general fortune of the country will rise or fall.

Now there is no need for this. Opposing candidates there probably must be in every election, and always there will be a sufficient number of men desirous of political honor to fill the places on the tickets; but the fallacy that the country goes up with one administration or down with another is one that should be discarded this year.

It is unfair to the President's chance of usefulness to the country to thrust him into the circumstances of a campaign before he has had time fully to accustom himself to his duties. It is one of the faults of our present system, that directly a President takes office his first concern is almost necessarily to safeguard his political position. It has been said that three years out of the first four years of a Presidential term has been spent in preparation for the next election. If this is true, it is a serious loss to the country and a serious injustice to our Presidents. They have the right to be left free to perform their duties as best they can, without being dragged into political controversies and campaign contests from the very day of their inauguration. It seems as certain as such affairs can be that the President will be nominated and elected. He is not without enemies by any means, but a man may be judged by his enemies, and it will become more and more apparent as time goes on that the President's enemies will mostly comprise the men who have tried to use him and have been rebuffed. The country is very sensitive to the type of men permitted to surround a President, and thus far the wrong type has not been apparent in the President's immediate circle. This has gone far to give the people confidence in him.

The question is not whether all of us agree with everything that the President believes and suggests. His beliefs and suggestions are not law and are subject to the same revisions and corrections that the beliefs and suggestions of the rest of us are. The question is this: Is the President a capable, honest, efficient, sincere, righteous administrator of the chief executive office of this government? If he is, and the agreement that he is appears to be general, why interfere with our march back to prosperity by stopping to play at politics and making an unnecessary change? Dearborn Independent.

ball team defeated Roosevelt Junior cagers of Decatur Friday night, 25 to 19.
The visitors exhibited a fast quintet but were outplayed throughout by Lovington. A big crowd saw the game, which was well played.

Hensch for Lovington, and Manning and Fowler for Roosevelt starred.

CENTRAL HIGH WINS GAME.

In one of the hardest fought games ever played in this city, the fast Central Junior high school team from Decatur, defeated the grades of Sullivan by a score of 19 to 14. There was a large crowd on hand to see the contest.

The Sullivan boys played a good game but seemed unable to find the basket.
Poland and Moran both played a good game for Sullivan.

The line-up of the two teams was as follows:

Decatur—Left guard, Tolly; right guard, Patterson; center, Geisler; left forward, Reeves; right forward, Overture.

guard, Kirkendoll; center, Hinton; left forward, Purvis; right forward, Moran.
Substitutes: Gaunt, Patterson, Huff for Decatur; Blystone for Sullivan.

Referee—Butler (Louisville Dental College.)

LOVINGTON GAME NEXT.

Two of the fastest Junior basketbal quintets in Central Illinois, will clash next Thursday evening, Jan. 31, when the Sullivan grade school team will meet the speedy Lovington Junior high school team on the Lovington Township high school floor in what promises to be a thrilling game.

The Lovington team is confident of victory, but the Sullivan five stung from the two defeats administered to them last year by the snappy Lovington Juniors are determined to get revenge by scoring a decisive victory.

A large crowd of fans will no doubt accompany the grades to Lovington.

Engineers Arrive To Finish Survey.

Three engineers from the state highway department, Springfield, arrived in Lovington on Thursday morning and set about the task of starting the survey of the section of route 32 between Lovington and Cerro Gordo. The first stakes have been driven at the end of West State street, through West Lawn addition. The route from there will be west via the old Springfield road to the old Cunningham corner, thence north through Ullrich and then down the Vandall right of way to Lake City.

To settle the controversy on location, between Lovington and Lake City, the route which has been suggested by the state highway department engineers, namely, via the Van right of way the entire distance between these two towns, will also be surveyed. A report will be made to the state department on these two routes from an engineer's standpoint after the ground has been gone over thoroughly, and then the highway officials will decide which one of the two they prefer.

It will take three weeks or more to complete the survey between here and Cerro Gordo, as the frozen ground and the extremely cold weather will make it impossible for the men to cover hardily a mile a day. It will probably be a month or six weeks before the state department will reach a decision in the matter.—Lovington Reporter.

Handcuffed Lads Escaped.

Two boys, handcuffed together, who were being taken to the state school at St. Charles, jumped thru a window of a train near Shelbyville without injury, although the train was going 15 miles an hour, and walked 12 or 15 miles before recapture.

Sheriff Harry Riley and deputy captured the two boys on the Big Four track, two miles southwest of Windsor Wednesday and took them to Shelbyville where they were turned over to the Sheriff of Williamson county, from whom the boys escaped. While on the train the boys went into the toilet and although handcuffed they managed to raise the window and crawl through. They apparently were not injured.—Windsor Gazette.

Case To Supreme Court.

The case of the Village of Arthur vs. the drainage commissioners of district No. 3 in Bourbon township, and others which was decided by County Judge Wamsley in favor of the commissioners has been appealed to the supreme court and will be heard at the February term. Marion Watson of this city and John H. Chadwick of Tuscola are attorneys for the appellant and Craig & Craig of Mattoon represent the commissioners. It is a case growing out of the city's continued efforts to promote its storm sewer program. The outcome of the case will be watched with interest. A large volume of printing consisting of abstract of record, statement, brief and argument for appellant were issued this week for the attorneys for the village.—Arthur Graphic.

His Cows Pay Well.

Bone Walton is one of our young progressive farmers and last year he milked five cows and a heifer. He kept a report of what he sold for the year but this does not include what was used in the home. The report shows what may be done on the farm with a few cows. This report is from January 1923 to January, 1924.

He had 30,359 pounds of milk or 3,795 gallons. He averaged about 10 1/2 gallons of milk per day for the entire year. He sold $519 worth of cream from these cows or this would be almost an average of $10 per week. He keeps Jersey cows and part of them are registered.—Bethany Echo.

Dinner To Basketeers.

C. O. Neal invited the 12 members of the W. C. H. S. basketball squad and Coach Dunscomb to dinner party, held Thursday evening at the Rose cafe. All the squad but one was present and all the guests were seated at one long table. A delicious and bountiful three-course dinner was served, and was heartily enjoyed. The boys greatly appreciated Mr. Neal's method of showing his interest in their work.—Windsor Gazette.

Not Very Complimentary.

Some of the Sullivan people call the Windsor gym a "box car." The Pana Palladium calls it a "cheese box." Sullivan has had a big school gym for many years, and before that had the armory to play in so we take that slam good naturedly, but we get tired at Pana. Why the difference? Well, because Pana never had even a decent store room to play in until this fall. So there you are.—Windsor Gazette.

Rev. Roy King To Iowa.

Rev. Roy King will close his two years' work at the Vine Street Christian church this coming Sunday and next week will move to Manchester, Iowa, where he will have charge of the Clark fund work in three counties. Rev. King is a good preacher, an exceptionally fine pastor and has done a good work in Arthur. Under his guidance the church has prospered spiritually and in numbers and the Sunday School has outgrown the fondest expectations. The many friends of Brother King and his family sincerely regret their leaving and wish them great success and happiness in their new field.—Arthur Graphic.

Received Prizes.

March Warren of Bethany Township high school received two prizes on sewing at the Farmers' Institute in Sullivan last week. The two garments on exhibit received a first and second prize. They were exhibited as work of the above named student under sixteen years, not as school work, although it was done in the sewing class under the direction of Miss Foster. No other garments were placed on exhibition from the Bethany Township high school. The two prizes totaled the owner one dollar and seventy-five cents.—Bethany Echo.

Bull Dog Brings $26.

Frank Brown had an extra good farm sale last Thursday. He had a big crowd from all over the country and everything sold well. Cows brought $60 to $104, a pair of mules went to $300 and Fraak's fine English bull dog sold for $26. The sale totaled $3,000. T. G. Sallee was the auctioneer.—Arthur Graphic.

Sells Store Interest.

Chas. R. Stillman this week sold his interest in the Arthur Implement Co., together with his residence, to his partner, C. A. Thrift of Deatur. Later Mr. Thrift sold an interest in the business to O. L. Wetherell, who we understand will manage the store.—Arthur Graphic.

Curious Siamese Custom.

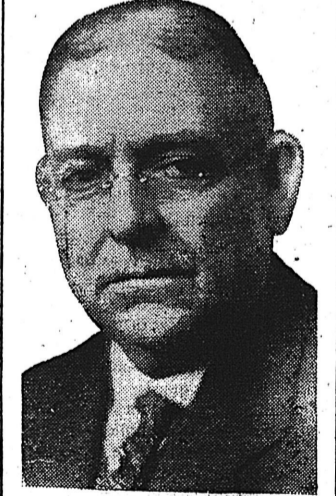

Among the Siamese the curious custom obtains of reversing the elbow joint of the left arm as a sign of superiority. The children of both sexes are trained to hold their elbow in this painful position at an early age, if their parents are persons of high grade.

BYERS COMES OUT FOR SEAT IN THE LOWER HOUSE

(Urbana Courier)

William Byers, of Mattoon, Coles county, and for the last five years manager of the Inman hotel in Champlain, will be a candidate for the republican nomination for congress from this district, subject to the primary next April.

Mr. Byers is not a politician in the ordinary sense of the word and has no political machine to help him in his candidacy, but he does have a wide acquaintance over the district, and thousands of friends who will rally around his banner at the primary. As stated above his home is in Coles county, where he has resided for the past 55 years. For ten years he served on the city council of Mattoon, and was sheriff of Coles county for four years. In 1905 he was elected mayor of Mattoon so it is evident that he stands well among the home folks who have had every chance to know him for what he is.

Mr. Byers points out that Coles county has not had a congressman since before the civil war and he thinks it is about time this honor was conferred upon it and he modestly suggests that he is the favorite son to whom the plum should go.

Mr. Byers is a staunch republican and has been a worker in the ranks ever since he was old enough to vote. He has no axe to grind and is seeking the nomination solely because he honestly believes he can serve the people of the district to their real advantage. He is a successful business man yet he is close to the people and takes pride in being one of them. If nominated and elected he will devote his time to the office and in every way possible strive to be of service to his constituents.

Curiosity Killed The Cat.

Samantha Spriggs was hopelessly, deeply, irrevocably, and sublimely in love. Or to express it more commonly, although less poetically, she was head-over-heels in love. The victim of her long delayed affections was Samuel Peabody, the meekest and most harmless little bachelor in Averyville. To those who are acquainted with Samantha and Samuel, not necessarily these particular ones but any Samuel or Samantha anywhere in the world, it is needless to say that Samantha did all the courting—and we'll have to admit that for an inexperienced old-maid she did a most excellent job. The only obstacle was this: Samuel did not return her ardent affections, he merely tolerated her. But this was a small thing to Samantha and she was not in the least daunted by the lack of what most people consider very essential.

Another outstanding feature of Samantha was her long, sharp nose, and her chief characteristic which depended upon the latter was her insatiable curiosity. For you all know that long noses and curiosity are inseparable.

Quite naturally, the young people of Averyville objected strenuously to Samantha's love affair. For youth contends that to them alone belongs the right to love as Samantha loved. Almost without exception, young people are thoroughly disgusted with "cases" between middle aged (?) people of thirty-five or forty, and are rendered speechless at love affairs between really old (?) people—say of forty-five or fifty. Such people are considered trespassers on the rights of the young.

The youth of Averyville was further and more deeply disgusted by the one-sidedness of the affair. Samantha, with her persistency, made the girls ashamed of their own sex. The boys were ashamed of theirs, too, for its apparent weakness, but at the same time upheld its helplessness against feminine wiles. They furthermore contended that no one, especially meek Uncle Sam, could escape "that" long nosed, long-tongued Samantha Spriggs.

The affair was discussed often and hotly by the younger generation of this little village: "Among the various groups which talked it over, the most indignant was 'The Jolly Eight,' a purely friendly club composed of an equal number of boys and girls.

On a particular Tuesday night the club met solely to discuss Samantha and Samuel. The discussion waxed hotter and hotter and, sad but true, disrespectful epithets were hurled furiously at the absent Samantha.

"I'll tell you, people," exploded John Henry, a sober, thoughtful youth, "something's got to be done. I never saw anything so outrageous in all my life, (which, all told, amounted to sixteen years). Now, everybody be quiet for five minutes and think of some plan to stop it. When all the plans have been told, we'll pick out the best one. All right now. Ready!"

For five minutes a heavy silence enveloped the room. Foreheads were wrinkled; some eyes were shut, others looked straight ahead; but all eight people were deeply engaged in thought.

At the end of the time, John Henry awoke them from their thoughts.

"We'll start here with Mabel," he announced, "and each one tell your plans."

Plan after plan was heard but rejected as insufficient for the greatness of the task to be undertaken.

Harry Todd's turn came and he began: "You know, if there's anything Miss Spriggs more earnestly desires than having a sweetheart, it is to live according to the rules laid down by the church of her choice. Dancing, card-playing and movies are real sins in her estimation, Uncle Sam's a pretty good sport and likes a good time. Now, I think"—and to the listening boys and girls he unfolded his plan. Judging from the exclamations and looks, the plan was at least worthy of trial. When the meeting adjourned all plans had been laid.

On Thursday morning, Henry entered the feed-store of Mr. Peabody.

"Hi, Uncle," greeted Henry. "Say," he added, abruptly as he lowered his voice, "d'ya want to have a good social time this evening?"

Samuel declared that he would and Henry continued, "Well, some of the boys and girls are coming over to my house tonight and we'd like to have you. You can tell such jokes," he added by way of an excuse. But poor as it was, it was sufficient and Samuel agreed to come.

That afternoon Miss Samantha "happened" to come to the feed-store—no doubt to buy some chicken-feed for her cat—the only thing she possessed which was at all likely to eat anything from such a store. As usual, she invited Samuel over "to spend the evening," but to her surprise and disappointment, he had another "engagement." Samantha left the store deeply puzzled.

WHO GETS IT?

In giving his unqualified approval to Secretary Mellon's proposal for general tax reduction, President Coolidge has indicated the route along which the United States must travel if our people are to avoid the major consequences of the European situation. The effect of world conditions he does not pretend that we can escape, because economic disorders which have reached all nations must inevitably touch this country with its widely scattered financial, industrial, and commercial interests, but he does assert that the harm to us can be diminished.

No feeling is wider-spread in this country today than resentment that circumstances which we could not control have profoundly affected the conduct of our private and public affairs and imposed staggering burdens upon us. There is no difference of opinion as to the injustice of it all so far as are concerned the people of the United States, who were industriously and on the whole happily working out their own problems as they best could when the war broke in upon their prosperity and progress. Differences of opinion arise only with discussion as to what now, the harm having been done, is the best way out.

What that way is we do not know, but there can be no doubt that the beginning is, as the President says, the restoration of Government finances to a secure and enduring position. War activities have been practically eliminated, a

What did you learn at Sunday school last Sunday?

We find that man is not changed much today, from what he was in the time of Moses. As Moses makes his first attempt as a savior of the Hebrew children from Egyptian bondage, we find him impetuous, attempting delirium in his own strength, and according to his own ideas, without consulting God about the matter, or taking Him in as a full partner in the transaction. Moses had no right to expect anything else but failure. There is a lesson here for us. If we do not take Jesus into our plans, and allow Him to revise them until they meet with His approval, we will also meet with defeat. The world looking on our works would probably call us very successful, but God knows and down deep in our heart we know that we have been a wretched failure, having missed the real issue of life, and been a disappointment to God.

In the forty years spent by Moses in tending Jethro's flocks he learned the lesson of obedience, and to appreciate his littleness and the bigness of God. The quiet occupation of a shepherd, gave God a chance to talk with Moses, and to refine and mold his nature in tune with the infinite. And today we need to be much alone with God, not always talking to Him, but allowing Him to talk to us.

As Moses makes his second attempt as deliverer, we find a far different man from the first Moses. Behold what God hath wrought.

To Meet At Center School.

All are invited to be present.

Give Up Country Club.
The promoters of the Sullivan Country club have given up their plans for a club for this city at least for the present. Some good sites were looked over but the prices asked for the same were considered too high by the committee in charge and a great deal higher than similar land in those localities were selling for. The plan for a club may be taken up at a later date if a suitable location can be secured at a reasonable figure.

The Cost of a Car

is no measure of its value

These are the things to consider

THE cost of a car depends in large part on volume and efficiency. It is no criterion of value. Studebaker builds 150,000 fine cars yearly. All of them are Sixes. The main costs are divided by that enormous output. Thus at prices of $975 and up we offer the utmost in quality. We offer maximum values.

Some major costs
Quality cars require costly facilities. Studebaker has $50,000,000 invested in modern plants and equipment: $8,000,000 in drop forge plants alone. $10,000,000 in body plants, to carry out the Studebaker standards.

There are 12,500 up-to-date machines employed to build these cars. Some are enormously expensive. Few outputs justify such facilities. Then parts must be bought outside, and profits paid to others.

Studebaker engineering costs $500,000 per year. That to us is $3.33 per car. Our Department of Research and Experiment employs 125 skilled men. It makes 500,000 tests per year to maintain our standards.

Our Bureau of Methods and Standards fixes the requirements for every part and detail. 12,000 inspections are necessary for each car to insure against flaws and mistakes. We employ 1,000 men to make them. Cars like the Studebakers cannot be built without such facilities, such research, such care. Yet enormous output alone makes them possible at Studebaker prices.

The best we know
Studebakers represent the best we know. And with our army of engineers, with our wealth of experience, we probably know what is best. We use 35 formulas for steels. Each is best suited to certain parts, as proved by years of tests.

On some steels we pay the makers a bonus of 15% to get them exactly right. There is no room to excel us there.

We machine the entire surface of each crank shaft, as was done on Liberty Airplane Motors. That extra cost is heavy. But thus we get ations, including 15 coats of paint and varnish.

Open cars have real leather cushions. They cost, over imitation leather, about $25 per car.

No closed cars could be more luxurious. That lining of Chase Mohair is made from the soft fleece of Angora goats. A velour lining would save about two-thirds that cost—up to $100 per car.

Note how every detail denotes infinite care. That, as you know, is expensive.

Note the completeness of our larger models. The nickel-plated bumpers, extra disc wheels with cord tires, a steel trunk, a courtesy light. These are rare extras, even on the costliest cars.

Nothing is stinted

Compare part by part with any rival cars. Studebaker will show you some scores of advantages.

Then consider Studebaker history. For 72 years this name has stood for quality. When people rode in carriages, Studebaker built the best. Now those same traditions are applied to motor cars alone.

Consider Studebaker records. Mark how these cars in service have multiplied demand, until people last year paid $200,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

Consider their service records. One Studebaker car, built in 1918, has run 475,000 miles. It is still in active service. It lately made a mid-winter trip from Los Angeles to New York. That means 80 years of average service, of 6,000 miles per year. What more can you dream of in a motor car than the Studebakers offer?

Just Go and See

Studebaker is today the leader in the fine-car field. Studebaker builds more quality cars than any other concern in the world.

Buyers of fine cars last year spent over $200,000,000 for Studebaker models. The demand for Studebakers has almost trebled in three years—as people found them out.

Then go see them. Compare them with any car you will. Don't spend $1,000 or over without knowing what Studebaker offers. You owe that to yourself.

that perfect balance, that absence of vibration.

We use more Timken bearings than any other car which costs under $5,600. They cost considerably more than ball bearings.

These facts apply to all Studebakers, of all styles and sizes. The materials used in all chassis are alike.

Beauty—Luxury—Finish

The Studebaker coach work has been famous for decades. No one can excel it.

The finish is produced by 26 oper-

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

LOVINGTON CLUB ENDORSES GOVERNOR

The Lovington Commercial club met in regular session on Monday evening with President Curry presiding. There was a lengthy discussion of matters of vital community interest. Also the club went on record as favoring Governor Small's re-election and his road program as projected.

A motion was made by Dennis Houlihan and seconded by M. W. Munch that the Lovington Commercial club endorse Governor Small, also his road program as projected and that each member use his influence in favor of the hundred million dollar road bond issue. The motion carried unanimously.

Governor Small made many friends in Moultrie county in his recent visit here, not a few of whom were opposite to his political faith. Since the governor's visit and his stirring address to the people of this community there has been a growing sentiment in his behalf. There is little question that Moultrie county will give him a big vote. Lovington Reporter

New Tan Bark Supply.
The construction of the canal through lagoons near Acapulco, Mexico, has brought to light an almost inexhaustible supply of mangrove trees, the bark of which is used in the tanning industry.

Beware the Flapper.
Just when a young man begins to think a great deal of himself as he climbs the ladder of success, a young flapper comes along, smiles impudently, he proposes and he becomes a flapper.

MARKET REPORT.

Prices for fresh eggs have fluctuated materially on account of the extremely cold weather. Shipments have been held up in some territories and production is dropping all over the west.

Stocks of storage eggs are still very heavy for the time of the year, but with shorter production of fresh stock it now looks as though storage eggs will work out fairly well in the next thirty days.

The recent high level for butter has curtailed demand to some extent and this has had a tendency to cause lower prices. This has had the effect of reducing the price of butterfat in the country.

Receipts of live and dressed poultry are running about normal, and are keeping consuming centers well supplied. Reserve stocks of poultry in storage are considerable lighter than a year ago, and in some cases this stock is now meeting with a demand.

Croesus Early Millionaire.

Croesus, king of Lydia, in Asia Minor, was famous in antiquity for his great wealth, says the Detroit News Tradition says that this was principally obtained from the golden sands of the River Pactolus, which flowed through his dominions, but the true source of his riches is probably found in the industry of the Lydian people. The value of his landed property has been estimated at $8,535,530. The expression, "As rich as Croesus," has passed into a proverb.

SEVERAL MATTERS BROUGHT UP MONDAY EVENING.

Question of What to Do With Buck At Wyman Park Comes Up Before City Fathers For Discussion.

The question as to what to do with the large buck at Wyman park was brought up at the meeting of the Sullivan city council on Monday evening.

One day last week he made an attack on carekeeper, Cy Schoonover, and it was only through the good use of a pitch fork that he was able to make his escape.

After a discussion of the question it was decided to have the park committee take up the question of a trade of the buck for a doe with a party who has a herd of deer near Cerro Gordo.

Mayor Harsh and all the aldermen were present at the meeting on Monday evening.

The question of granting electric service to some of the residents in the country northeast of this city was deferred to a later meeting of the council.

A petition was also received from Joseph McCabe for a sign in front of his place of business on Main street but as he did not specify the kind of a sign, it was decided to also defer action on that until the next meeting of the council.

"Cold in the Head" is an acute attack of Nasal Catarrh. These subjects to frequent "colds in the head" will find that the use of HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE will build up the system, cleanse the blood and render them less liable to colds. Repeated attacks of Acute Catarrh may lead to Chronic Catarrh.

HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions.
