GRADUATION PROGRAM FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

Large Crowd Attends the Exercises At the Sullivan Township High School On Saturday.

The auditorium of the Sullivan Township high school was crowded for the rural eighth grade commencement exercises held last Saturday afternoon. After music by the grade school orchestra, a selection was given by a quartet composed of Blanche Newbould, Ruth Pifer, Valeria Hodge and Vivian Harsh and then Rev. W. B. Hopper gave the address.

Rev. Hopper made a strong plea to the graduating class to go on with their education in high school and if possible in college. He said the boy or girl who only goes through the eighth grade will work under a handicap, for he will have to meet the keen competition of trained minds. Four years in high school is a money making proposition, he stated, for the student will be able to cash in on it the rest of his life. He said, however, that an education should not be sought on a money basis alone. Education is the greatest need of life today.

After the address the diplomas were presented to the graduates by the County Superintendent of Schools, Mrs. Nettie Roughton. She was assisted by Miss Anna McCarthy.

Men Seek Freedom By Habeas Corpus.

Judge Franklin Boggs of Urbana held a short session of the Douglas county circuit court at Tuscola on Thursday, at the close of which he adjourned the court until June 19. At that time he will give his decision on the habeas corpus petition presented by Attorney J. T. Davis for the release on bond of Ray Philpott, the Newman rural mail carrier, Ed Dietrich, the C. L. P. S. manager of Newman, and Leonard Campbell, the Tuscola blacksmith, who are now held in the Douglas county jail charged with being implicated in the murder of Sherman Denny on the night of May 17. It is not thought that there will be an attempt made to secure the release of the other two men, Harley Campbell, the Fairland garage proprietor, and Roy Benkiss, the Newman batteryman, who are charged in a more explicit way.

Campbell remains at the Jarman Memorial hospital in Tuscola, where he is recovering from the effects of the bones in his left leg being badly shattered by a bullet on the night of the killing of Denny. As soon as his condition will permit he will be transferred to the Douglas county jail. As it now appears there will be nothing done further in the prosecution of the case until the October term of court.

Testimonial

For five or six years I suffered with bleeding piles that got so bad at times I could not work. I went to see Dr. R. B. Miller, the Chicago Specialist who visits Mattoon every 23 days at the Plaza Hotel, and he cured the piles. Since then I have worked good every day, feel fine and am pleased with Dr. Miller's treatment which I gladly recommend to others.

Market Report.

A large volume of live poultry reached the consuming markets last week, resulting in lower quotations at the week end. Stocks of poultry in storage are considerably less than a year ago, and consequently, it is expected that the good demand for fresh dressed poultry will continue.

This year's spring broilers are reaching the market in larger quantities, but on account of the backwardness of the season, the demand is less active than a year ago. Some accumulation is noted on various markets.

Receipts of eggs continue on liberal scale, with less interest being shown by the buyers for storage. The market today is quoted on a lower basis.

Buyers are discriminating closely in making their selections, and only the very best eggs bring the top prices. It is important that eggs be gathered daily, kept in a cool place, and marketed frequently.

The market on butter closed very firm, although the U. S. Department of Agriculture Bureau of Economics, in a letter of May 31, states:

"The statistical position of the four markets furnishes but little grounds for the present firmness. Receipts for the first three days of this week were about 2,500 tubs heavier than for the preceding week and street stocks for the week ending Thursday show approximately 4,000 tubs more than the same day last week."

June 2 quotations at Chicago for 90 score standard were 38 1/2 cents. Steady increase in the total making is expected for the next two or three weeks at least.

Stocks of butter in storage at Chicago, New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, as reported by the U. S. Department of Agriculture on May 31 were as follows: 1924 8,458,668 lbs., 1923 8,977,000 lbs., increase 4,581,668 lbs.

Stamina That Means Greater Economy

Ask the first good Maxwell owner you meet what he knows of his car. He may not be familiar with the manufacturing processes that have given it its superb stamina. But the most important fact of all he can and will readily tell you—

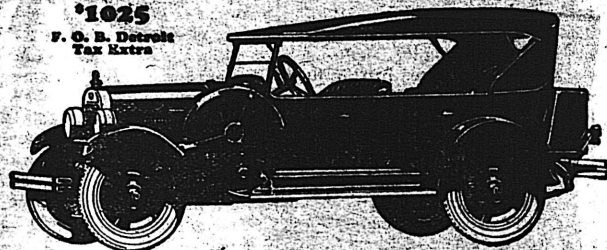

That for care-free, economical service day in and day out the good Maxwell cannot be equalled. Consequently he is convinced that the good Maxwell excels all other cars of its class as an investment in a unit of transportation.

In every good Maxwell that leaves the factory you can expect these qualities that make owners enthuse. Frame, springs, motor, body—the entire car through and through is built to serve reliably and economically, to ride and drive with the greatest ease, and to endure.

We are now in position to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Maxwell's attractive plan.

ACHIEVEMENTS IN LATIN AMERICA.

Success of the United States in aiding other Latin-American Republics encourages the belief that similar aid could be rendered to Mexico, if invited. Within the past quarter of a century, representatives of the American Government, cooperating with the sane and constructive elements in the respective countries, have—

Made Cuba a free and independent nation and thrice restored order in the island republic.

Put Panama on her feet following her revolt from Colombia, rendered the country sanitary and self-supporting; and the rehabilitation of her finances is now progressing under Warwick.

Established a customs receivership in Haiti, that she may pay her debts; appointed a financial adviser who is untangling her finances; trained a native constabulary; perfected sanitation and aided in the drafting of a Haitian constitution. Practically the same things have been done in the Dominican Republic.

Established a customs receivership in Nicaragua and created a high commission to see that Nicaraguan bonds are kept up. Now trying to straighten out the affairs of Honduras.

Undertaken to adjust the affairs of the Guayaquil-Quito railroad so inextricably interwoven with those of Ecuador. Prevented Venezuela from falling a victim to European aggression by the Rooseveltian support of the Monroe Doctrine in 1903.

Sent a naval mission to Brazil to modernize her navy. Established unconditional most favored nation treatment with that nation; cooperation through our Geological Survey and Department of Agriculture in developing Brazilian resources.

Sent financial advisors to Peru, now working on her finances. Sent livestock and cotton experts to Argentina, the former successful in creating new markets.

Completely reorganized and placed on a sound basis the financial and customs affairs of Colombia, as a result of which Colombia now has a banking system as good as our own and much like it. Recently succeeded in restoring diplomatic relations between Colombia and Panama after a severance of 21 years. Dissipated the bitterness engendered by the Panama Canal question.

Brought Chile and Peru together to arbitrate the Tacna-Arica controversy, with fair promise of a successful termination of a quarrel which for 40 years has threatened the entire South American continent.

Helped to make the Pan American Conference the most successful and constructive international meetings recorded in the history of the human race, an event earnestly welcomed.

In all these activities, and many more not listed, the United States has sought no unfair advantage and not one foot by way of territorial aggrandizement.

Mexico is bankrupt—down and almost out. Her government evinces a desire to do the right thing, but she is so straightjacketed with debt and economic demoralization that she cannot properly function. Without progress she is doomed. If Mexico should ask the United States to undertake for her what has been performed for others, we are amply prepared by past experiences for the work of restoring her to health. Our past record affords ample assurance of Mexico's future welfare in the event that we are asked to extend a helping hand.

REGULATING RADIO COMMUNICATION.

On December 31, 1923, there were in operation in the United States about 22,000 transmitting radio stations. Of these about 17,000 were amateur stations, 3,000 ship stations, 600 broadcasting stations, 40 coast stations, 15 transcontinental stations and a few others not enumerated. In addition to these were some 2,000,000 "listening in" stations. About 600 of the broadcasting stations carry press matter, weather, health and market reports, concerts, sermons and other religious and educational entertainments of value. The government has about 200 stations, using 122 of the total 190 available wave lengths for private stations of all classes. The Department of Commerce called a radio conference in the late spring of 1923 for the purpose of formulating a plan and securing legislation to regulate and control transmission of messages in the air and relieve the present congestion and bring about a more orderly and efficient use of the ether.

The Department of Commerce is designated by the basic law of 1912 as the agency of the government for the control of this means of communication. The department desires (1) to free government operators of the necessity of obtaining licenses from the Secretary of Commerce, (2) to stop the transfer of licenses to aliens, (3) to stop monopoly, (4) to stop unreasonable charges, (5) to control the construction of stations, (6) to establish an advisory committee of 15 of which eight shall be government officials and seven civilians, to examine and report on radio conditions.

The act of 1912 allocated to amateurs a wave length of 200 meters. It is proposed to change this and to provide that "the wave lengths for amateurs shall be not less than 150 meters nor more than 275 meters. It is said this change was desired by the amateurs. The wave lengths which other users of radio transmit on are allocated by the Secretary of Commerce.

Radio communication has developed and extended so rapidly that it has become a matter of national and international regulation and control.

For the first time in the history of the country the proceedings of two great political national conventions will be broadcast over the land this year; and it is understood the two big committees will utilize the radio in the transmission of speeches by the candidates for President, and perhaps others. It is already reported that President Coolidge will conduct his speaking campaign largely by radio from the White House.

HEARING ON OBJECTIONS TO TAX ASSESSMENTS

Settings were made in county court on Wednesday for hearings of several objections to tax assessments upon which the county treasurer's office has asked an order of sale.

Two of the railroad companies, the C. & E. I. and the Wabash have filed objections to certain items of tax and hearings have been set for June 16.

Margaret Edgar Hunt and Helen Edgar Anderson, who own Sullivan city property, formerly owned by W. A. Steel, will renew their fight to defeat taxes assessed against their properties in 1922. A year ago this tax was defeated upon technical objections, but the amount of the 1922 tax was added to the 1923 tax with the technical errors remedied. This hearing will be on June 12.

A number of Lovington property owners have filed objection to paying taxes in that village and hearing set for June 9. Lovington, through the failure to collect assessments objected to is not collecting sufficient paying tax to retire the bonds that were sold, and the village board is considering starting new procedure to make the levy against the property owners along the paved street collectable. The difficulty arose several years ago when irregularities existed in regard to passing a paving ordinance which served to invalidate the special election that was held under the ordinance.

James and Lida Scott, Gays residents won a fight in county court to defeat a tax assessment upon Gays property which was proved to be inequitable and incorrect.

FROM LOCAL EXCHANGES

Story Of the Show Girl
And Her Jealous Husband.

Some excitement was created Friday last when George Seaney discovered an immense snake in an abandoned well on the Rice Ervin lot on Sale street. Many came to look down into the shallow well and view the big reptile and it was finally brought to surface by John, Fraok and "Shorty" McLennon, but the thing was so dead they weren't a bit frightened. "Shorty" measured it and declared it was 8 feet, 6½ inches in length, and when the editor arrived and took a look at His Snakeship it hadn't grown any shorter.

At any rate the snake was a foreign reptile and nothing like it has ever been found crawling around over these prairies, not even by the "oldest inhabitant." It was undoubtedly a native of the tropics and was either a python or a boa constrictor, both of which attain great length and size. This one was about as large around as a man's leg and would have scared the average boy or man out of a year's growth had he met him in the open at any time.

The story is that this snake escaped from Zazu, the female snake charmer, who was with the carnival company here last September. This company exhibited on the south side of Central avenue, only a block from where its body was found in the well. While here she was married to one of the performers in one of the shows and as Zazu had been in the habit of sleeping with her pet snake, the groom seriously objected to having it along on their honeymoon, and told Zazu that she "would have to choose between himself and the snake." Woman-like she chose the man and that night in a fit of jealousy he left the cover of the basket unfastened in which the big show snake was carried. It crawled out and slipped across the railroad tracks and hid under the lumber in Smith's lumber yard for a few weeks, until it crawled over in the Ervin lot and hid in the shallow well, where it was unable to climb out. There it "winked out" during the cold weather of last winter and remained until found last Friday by Seaney. Along with it was found some six or eight smaller snakes of the "home grown" variety all dead. It was a veritable "nest of snakes" and all who looked down the well shuddered. It is related that Zazu afterward regretted her choice, as her husband was cruel to her. She declares now she married the wrong snake. —Tuscola Review.

"Orphan" Road Now Adopted.

The orphan road, a stretch of highway about a quarter of a mile long, lying between Moultrie and Platt counties in the northwest corner of this county has been adopted.

An agreement was reached Thursday morning of last week in a meeting between W. J. Day, county superintendent of roads of Platt county; Eugene Neff, state aid road commissioner of Platt county; R. T. Lee, road commissioner of Dora township in Moultrie county, and J. W. Bobbitt, whereby the orphan road is to be graded and built up and then maintained.

By the agreement, the Platt county road officials will grade that stretch of highway, putting in a culvert and putting it in shape for travel. When that work is completed to the satisfaction of Mr. Lee, he agrees to take it over and from then on work it and maintain it. This bit of road has been neglected for years. Lying between the two counties, no one paid any attention to it, and at times during the worst parts of the year it has been nearly impassable. Mr. Lee says he has occasionally dragged it, but it has needed more than that, being flat and low, which lets water over it to stand long after other parts of the highway were in excellent condition.

When the contemplated work is finished, there will be an excellent road from Decatur to Lovington, Sullivan and other points southeast. This orphan road is on the market temporary Route 32, which is the best route now to travel in going to the places named. —Lovington Reporter.

Class Play Given.

The seniors gave their class play at the high school auditorium Friday evening of last week. It was entitled "Wives to Burn," and while little could be said for the plot presented, the cast was without question one of the best the high school has ever produced. Each member gave their line clearly and with a display of talent. The play had been well directed and at times proceeded with the snap and attitude of the professional.

The high school orchestra added much to the program with its music. There were also several solos with orchestra accompaniment, all of which were well applauded and much appreciated.

The attendance was the largest that has ever been recorded in the school auditorium for a play attraction. The door receipts totaled $170. —Lovington Reporter.

Not To Recall Grand Jury.

A positive statement by State's Attorney Cotton to the effect that the March Grand Jury would not be recalled and that no special body would be assembled during the summer months is the outstanding feature in the Denny murder case during the past week.

There had been many reports to the effect that the State's Attorney was planning for a grand jury investigation of the killing in the near future and it was in reply to these that Attorney Cotton made his statement.

The prosecutor also stated that he had requested Coroner Gillogly to hold his jury as long as there was a possibility of there being any new leads developed and it may be that this body will not make its final report and be dismissed till well along in the summer. —Tuscola Review.

Will Start Business In The South.

Wayne Brock, who has been attending school in Chicago, will go south and go into business. A few days ago he took the examination for an optometrist and in the class of sixty he stood second in grades. This speaks well for his work.

He will go to North Carolina some time next month and take the examination in that state and will put out his shingle in some city there.

Now Securing Releases

For Hard Road.

The task of securing releases from the property holders along the line of the proposed new hard road between Lovington and Lake City was started Wednesday morning. Supervisors Fleming of Arthur, Lowe of Sullivan and Foster of Lovington, with the county highway commissioner, T. A. Fleming were in charge of the work Wednesday. An effort will be made to secure the required releases and the papers rushed back to Springfield the first of the coming week. —Lovington Reporter.

Thank Klan For Flag.

The Juniors publicly thank the Klan for the gift. —Arthur Graphic.

Leave For California.

Mr. and Mrs. George Reuss and two sons will leave sometime next week for an automobile trip to California. They will go by the Santa Fe route and return by the northern route. While nothing is definite about the time of returning, they may be gone three months. This will be a great schooling for the boys. They expect to camp out most of the time. —Bethany Echo.

Several musical numbers were given by the orchestra, the Boys' chorus, Girls' Glee club and the graduating class. George Sabing gave the welcome address, Claudia Yarnell gave a reading and George Thompson read an original story "Ninety Words a Minute" which was written by Mack Grigsby.

The diplomas were presented by J. L. McLaughlin, president of the school board. Upon the suggestion of Mr. McLaughlin a rising vote of thanks for their service in the Sullivan schools was tendered to the three teachers who will not be with us next year, namely Mrs. Susan Roney, Miss Gertrude Hoke and Mrs. Ester Bracken. Following is the original story written by Mack Grigsby:

NINETY WORDS A MINUTE.

(By Mack Grigsby.)
Pat Murphy had worked as messenger boy for the Western Union Telegraph company for almost a year.

One morning, as he came into the office and looked into his pigeon hole for a message to deliver, he found a note addressed to himself, telling him to come to the chief operator's office at ten o'clock. He looked at the clock and saw that it was near that time then.

He knocked briskly on the door. After a slight pause a voice within said, "come in." Pat went in and was greeted by an athletic built man, whose hair was flecked with gray, although he looked not a day over thirty-five. He told Pat to sit down. Then he told Pat that he was going to promote him to the job of taking messages from the operators, putting them in envelopes, addressing them, and sending them down the chute to the office below, where they would be put in pigeon holes and delivered. He also stated that he would have a good chance to learn the code and as soon as he could receive seventy words a minute, he would be hired as an operator. That night Pat went home and told his mother all about his promotion and last, but not least, he told her what had been said about the codes.

The next day, one of the operators gave him a sheet with the Morse Code printed on it and jokingly told Pat not to beat him out of his place when he had learned it.

Pat worked hard in the office and in all the lulls of the wire he studied the code.

The desks of the operators were arranged in the order of the operator's skill. The man at the first or fourth desk could receive seventy words a minute, the man at the third desk, seventy-five words a minute, and so on, up to the desk of Bob Filmour, who could receive eighty-five words a minute.

When Pat had learned the code, he stood by the operator at desk four, unknown to the operator, practiced receiving by listening to the messages

Illinois Central System Gives Comparisons In Regard to Rates and Costs

Anyone who compares the present costs of producing railway service with pre-war costs and compares the present rates charged for that service with pre-war rates will be struck by the fact that railway service is being sold now at rates relatively lower than before the war.

Below are the results of some representative cost comparisons as applied to this railroad. The Illinois Central System in 1923 paid:

$2.44 for the same quantity of locomotive coal that it paid $1 for in 1913;

$1.87 for the same quantity of materials and supplies other than coal that it paid $1 for in 1913;

$3.28 in taxes for every $1 it paid in 1913;

$1.96 for the same number of hours of labor that it paid $1 for in 1913.

In transportation rates, the increase is not so large. The Illinois Central System in 1923 received only $1.54 for hauling a passenger the same distance that it received $1 for in 1913. It received only $1.38 for hauling a ton of freight the same distance that it received $1 for in 1913. The latter figures do not have reference to the charge for hauling any particular kind of freight, but they show that the average revenue which the Illinois Central System received in 1923 for each ton of freight carried one mile was only 38 percent greater than it was in 1913. This increase in rates compares, as noted above in dollars and cents, with increases in costs of 144 percent for locomotive coal, 87 percent for materials and supplies other than coal, 228 percent for taxes and 96 percent for labor.

Only through increased efficiency and the installation of modern, cost-reducing facilities has it been possible for the railroads to serve the public at the rates which they are receiving and at the same time to meet the great increases in the prices which they are compelled to pay for the things they must have to produce transportation.

The railroads have borrowed and expended many millions of dollars to improve their properties. They have done this because of their faith in the fairness of the American people. Given time and a chance to work out their destiny, the railroads will demonstrate their ability to serve the public adequately and at rates as low as are consistent with their costs of doing business.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

Why think of church these fine days, when roads are good, fishing fine, and nature everywhere so beautiful? Why go to church any way, when you do not feel like it, or why ask any one to go if they do not feel like it? No my child you do not have to, if you do not feel like it. Please do not do any thing you do not feel like doing. Just follow the bend of your mind. "What a beautiful philosophy? Where does it lead? In the ninth degree here, my child do not take your morning toilet if you do not feel like it, and if you feel like it you can just take the life of another as you would empane a beetle on the point of a pin. Think out this philosophy and see how far it goes in the building up and the maintaining of the nation. Feelings are fine, when buttressed by good reason, clear judgment, and an enlightened conscience. Otherwise they may lead the brightest intellect to ruin and despair.

SPEAKS AT MATTOON

A crowd estimated at 5,000 attended the ceremony in connection with the unveiling of the Grant tablet at the Illinois Central station in Mattoon on Friday afternoon. Judge W. G. Cochran of this city was among those to give addresses. The Mattoon Journal-Gazette has the following to say concerning his part of the meeting:

"Mr. Cochran's address teemed with fervent patriotism. He said that 'Abraham Lincoln had more sense than any man who ever lived, and that Gen. Grant was the greatest general the world has ever seen to this day.' His sketch of the marital life of General Grant was a thrilling tribute of love, admiration and reverence for a general 'who had nothing but victories to his credit in war, and that though whipped several times, he did not know it, and fought on to victory."

"Mr Cochran said that Paradise township, the smallest one in Coles county, sent six colonels into the Civil War and that five of them were the Union and one Confederate; adding that their names may be found in the history of the Masonic lodge of Paradise village."
