Is there any excuse for Bible ignorance? How can we be excused when we live in a land of Bibles where learning is the order of the day. If people can learn the many difficult prescribed courses of study that are taught in our schools today, then we are sure that most people could learn the Bible. There is no excuse for not knowing it. Also we see that very poor logic is used by those who do use the Bible. We have many great logicians in the world today, who can prove their point by logic so that others can see and understand them, but when it comes to the Bible, they seem to go astray in their proper use of logic. Why should this be, unless he is endeavoring to build his proof upon a false premise, to justify a man made law of theory? The Bible is a book of books. It is the law of our salvation. It is complete and is able to defend its teaching with sufficient proof. It is a fascinating study when you let the Lord prove His word to you.

Many people exalt themselves by saying, as they read the Bible, "Lord this is what you mean", instead of saying, "Lord show me what you mean." They never actually gave the Lord a chance to explain it fully. MAKE this year a better year for Christ.

man is come to seek and to save that which was lost. To save the lost from sin was the mission of Christ when He came into this world many years ago. It is still his mission today. His holy spirit is seeking for those that are lost and outside of the kingdom of God. If you are such a one, if you will turn from sin and seek Christ, He will satisfy every longing of your never dying soul. Remember He died for you. He only asks that you live for Him.

We give you a very cordial invitation to each of our services. You are a stranger but ONCE at The Church of God.

Women IN THE CHURCH

by Mary Fowler

Twenty-two Chinese women leaders, all of them Christians and most of them graduates of Christian colleges in China, have received from the Methodist Church "Crusade scholarships" for study in the United States during the next two or three years. Seventeen of them are already in America; the others will be here shortly. This is part of a plan of the Methodist "Crusade for Christ" to assist outstanding leaders in preparing themselves for greater service to their nation in arts, science, literature, religion, or education.

Dr. Leslie B. Moss, Director of Church World Service, Inc., recently pictured for American women something of the terrible conditions existing among the children of the world—conditions that only American relief can make better. In Poland, he said, more than 1,000,000 are war orphans; and 70% of the children are suffering from tuberculosis. In Yugoslavia, infant mortality is from 30% to 50% of all births. One-third of all children in France lack adequate shelter and medical care. The tubercular rate has doubled in almost all parts of China; in one province 90% of the children and adults suffer from malnutrition and are in rags; in another there is a widespread cholera epidemic. In some parts of India, he said, conditions are even worse than in China. Children in Greece need milk and other foods; in Germany they need moral teaching as well as food and clothing; in Hungary there are few drugs, and in some areas venereal disease is 80% among the children. In the Philippines, hookworm has been having a holiday because there are few shoes. And the story of Japanese children is homelessness and starvation in the city streets. "The most that we can do will still be too little," says Dr. Moss.

What is perhaps the most unique school is all India—a school for young daughters-in-law, girls of fourteen and fifteen years of age—was started recently by missionaries of the Methodist church in Buxar, Bihar Province, India. The school is for girls from Hindu homes, married in childhood, according to Hindu rites, to infant boys whose parents later became Christians. Miss Mabel M. Sheldon, of Pittsburg, Kansas is the Methodist missionary under whose leadership the school was established.

Uncle Sam Says

Ponder these facts, niece and nephew. In 1937 many Americans bought the Series C Savings Bond, similar in every respect to the present Series E bond which millions of you are now buying regularly through payroll savings or at your bank or post office. During 1947 the Treasury Department will hand over $4 for every $3 these wise Americans laid away 10 years ago. The total payoff in interest is a staggering sum—over $100,000,000. Nearly 75 per cent of all buyers of Series C bonds held on to them for the full 10 years. You have the opportunity now to join your fellow Americans who will share in the Treasury Department's 1957 payoff of an extra dollar for every $3 you invest now in Savings Bonds.

GOOD HARDWARE SAVES MONEY FOR HOUSEHOLDER SAYS UNIV. OF ILLINOIS

Good hardware is an economy for the home builder and owner, says the Small Homes Council of the University of Illinois in a free circular "Hardware for the Home," just issued. Approaching the subject from the viewpoint of persons planning to build or improve homes, the non-technical publication says:

"Cheap hardware is a poor investment—its failure to operate properly may cause insecurity or annoyance; it soon depreciates in appearance. Cheap hardware actually costs more in repairs and replacements than hardware of good quality. The difference in cost between good and bad hardware in a small home generally does not exceed $25.

"When purchasing hardware, find out whether the item is solid or plated. If it is plated, ask about its base metal. Do not invest in plated steel locksets. The finish will wear off rapidly due to continual handling. Test locksets with a magnet to make certain the base metal is not steel. Hardware of solid brass or bronze will last the lifetime of the house.

Several useful charts are in the 8-page circular. One provides a sample hardware check list for home planners; another indicates lock types and their uses; and a third lists base metals and finishes. Also discussed are doors, window, cabinet, miscellaneous hardware, and hardware style and design. Single copies of the circular "Hardware for the Home" can be obtained free from the Small Homes Council, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.

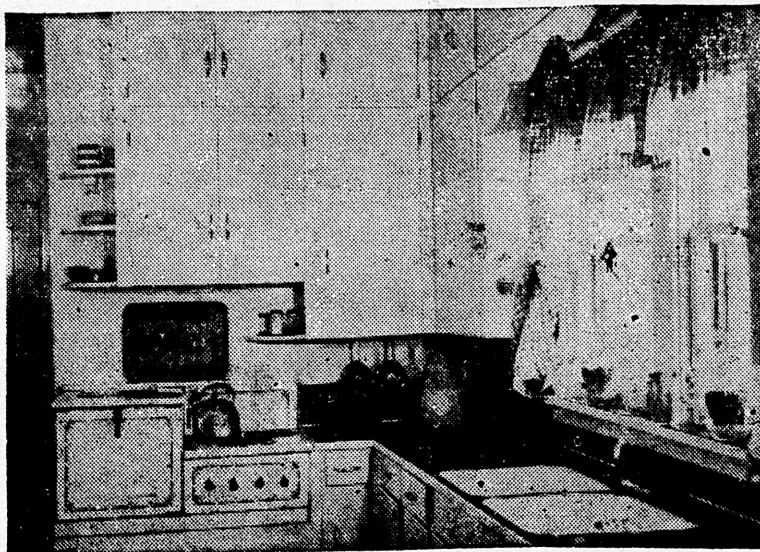

Windsor Child Killed by Truck

Seven-year-old Ruth Elizabeth Greengrove and a kitten which strayed onto the highway and which she had sought to retrieve, were killed Tuesday when struck by a truck in front of her home in Windsor.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Greengrove, was pronounced dead when she was taken to a Mattoon hospital.

Surviving are the parents and her grandfather, Dewey Boling, of Windsor.

Rural Homemakers Speed Kitchen Remodeling

Above: kitchen storage space was furnished by built-in cabinets in Mrs. J. Ross Fleetwood's kitchen in Boone county, Missouri. Shelves in cupboards are spaced to fit utensils.

CREATING a bright, efficient kitchen from a dingy, inconvenient one is the first postwar improvement many farm women want in their homes, according to the Rural Home editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

"Among handy devices that can do lots toward kitchen convenience is a pulled out board that makes it possible to sit comfortably to do many tasks," she writes in the magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families. "Lap-board can slide into a slot in a built-in cabinet at a convenient height for the person who uses it.

"A double-basin sink with swinging faucet, single drainboard and high splash back eliminates need for dishpans. It also gives plenty of space for vegetable preparation, pan rinsing and numerous mealtime jobs. With a drainboard it's easy to let dishes dry by themselves. If sink has no porcelain back, a linoleum splash back 10 to 12 inches high is ideal.

"Space underneath sink should have shelves for cleansing materials and room for trash containers. A door with ventilation holes will allow under-sink moisture to escape. Also needed are toe-space for standing at the sink and knee-space for sitting down."

A hardwood counter top beside the refrigerator is useful as a cutting-chopping block and as a pastry board, she adds. It's always out and ready. Might be made of heavy, hard maple.

Chili Adds Zest to Cold Weather Menus

"When there's a spicy fragrance coming from the kitchen, everybody knows it's a batch of chili cooking," says the Country Cooking editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

"You can't keep folks waiting long," she writes. "All are anxious to dip into a steaming bowlful.

"If the kids come to your house after a game, give them chili, bread and butter, a bowl of fruit."

Chili

1 lb. ground beef 2 tsp. chili powder
 2 c. tomatoes 1 tsp. salt
 No. 2 can kidney beans 3/4 tsp. pepper
 1 chopped onion

Brown onion with ground beef. Add tomatoes and kidney beans, chili powder, pepper and salt.

Cover and simmer for 1 hour. Add extra seasoning to taste and serve piping hot. Serves 6.

Smooth Line Social Asset to 'Teen-Agers

ASMOOTH line is the most interesting distance between two points of conversation. Practically everybody has a line. Or maybe you're just developing your own brand of chit-chat.

That's what a line is—a fund of small talk flavored with an individual's personality. Holly Miller reminds 'teen age readers of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer. "A line doesn't have to be insincere just because you think of things to say beforehand and consciously practice them so that they come out easily," she counsels in the magazine.

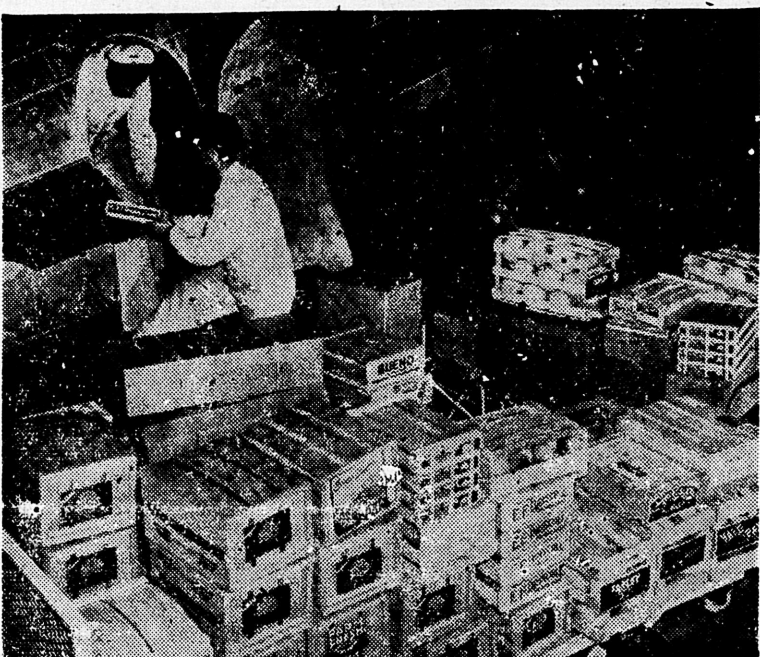

"Special features are what make a line your own. Here's one—nickname friends for famous people. Call girl friends Hedy or Lauren and watch them preen. Fellows get a kick out of being referred to as Superman or Hope."

"Twist your own double talk. Originate superlatives and expletives for your own use. Something a duller character would call 'swell' might be 'gee-gosh-gorgeous' to you.

"Listening is part of a good line. Learn how to draw out a new acquaintance with easy questions.

Practicing your line is essential, she adds, suggesting that the family is the best audience for breaking in a new catch phrase or joke. If the reception is lukewarm, polish the story up a bit before springing it on the public.

Air Freight Widens Farm Produce Market

Peaches, melons and other farm products being put aboard airline plane for quick haul to consumers.

A thriving new air freight industry crisscrossing the skies with cargo planes is opening a wider market to farmers for perishable products which need rapid transit to reach consumers in top quality condition, Clyde Zimmerman writes in an article in nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer.

In the last 2 years, tonnage cargo down by plane has increased 600 per cent, he points out.

"Current trends indicate fresh fruits and vegetables, flowers, meat and baby chicks, already moving by air, will vastly increase in amount," he declares in the magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families.

Air freight is fast. New, larger faster-4-engined planes will cut transcontinental schedules to 10 or 11 hours. This speed is expensive. Products hauled by air must sell at premium prices. Current air rates, although still above those of surface carriers, are low enough so crops such as berries, lima beans, spinach, lettuce, tomatoes, cherries, cauliflower and melons are moving in sky vans from certain areas to Middle Western and Eastern cities.

"Farmers can look to broader markets with air freight because consumers prefer vine-ripened and tree-ripened fruits and vegetables over those that ripen in transit," writes Zimmerman. "Eating quality and nutritional value of such products are higher."

Railroads may enter the air-freight business, Zimmerman says. A few railroads have already announced the organization of air-freight corporations as affiliated companies to engage in air transportation.
