SULLIVAN, ILLINOIS, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1947 - TEN PAGES.

FIVE CENTS

Announce 1947 Leisurecraft And Counseling Camp

The 1947 Illinois Leisurecraft and Counseling camp will be held at East Bay camp, Bloomington, May 26-31, according to Dulcena Purvis, who is a member of the conference group. Each spring for the past ten years, teachers, ministers, and youth and community leaders have met for five days to exchange ideas and try out new activities in music, dramatics, crafts, social recreation and nature lore.

At a recent meeting of the camp continuation committee, plans for the '47 camp were developed. They include such resource people as Richard Chase, Charlottesville, Va., who is recreation leader for the Conference of Southern Mountain Workers, author of "Jack Tales," and Virginia representative of the County Dance Society.

Other resource persons are Professor John Klassen, Bluffton, Ohio, who will instruct in woodcarving and art; Douglas Blocksma, adult-child relationships; and E. H. (Duke) Regnier, University of Illinois re-creation specialist, and W. M. (Bill) Smith, rural youth special ist, who will work together on social recreation.

Registrations for the 1947 camp will be limited. Inquiries should be addressed to Ralph Kofoed, Sandwich, Ill.

Fire Destroys Large Home of Otto Kinsel

The modern two-story home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kinsel, of Bruce, was completely destroyed by fire early Saturday morning.

The fire was discovered at approximately 5:30 a. m. by a daughter, Ruth, who was sleeping downstairs. She saw flames eming up through the cold air shart and immediately notified her mother and brother, Bill, who were sleeping upstairs.

Mrs. Kinsel was forced to

MONTH OF PATRIOTISM

February is a month when there is a great deal of talk on patriotic subjects. At the birthdays of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln many things are said on the subject of love for country, and young and old hear the story of these great lives and the lessons they teach.

How can boys and girls be induced to entertain sentiments of love of country? It would seem that the story of the patriotic services and wonderful achievements of national leaders awould have a marked effect to develop such patriotic feeling. Youth has a warm admiration for heroism and devotion to great causes. When it hears how these wonderful men and women have toiled and sacrificed for their homeland, it has a tendency to follow in those footsteps.

It also helps greatly to tell of what the ordinary run of people have done, how they fought in our wars and suffered trial and hardships for love of country. The story of what men and women have done, helps young people to grow up with a desire to do something of the sort them-

It also helps develop love of country, to tell the boys and girls of how great are the advantages they have, compared with those that exist in most of the world's countries. When they think about the freedom of America, about the splendid schools and colleges established for their benefit, of the generosity of the people in providing such educational facilities, they are likely to form an affectionate regard for the country that gives them these benefits.

They can be told that America offers the best opportunities on earth. and that they should love the scenes and the homes where these doors are open to them.

OUR NEW NEIGHBORS

Farm buying today is at an all large realty firm reports that it esses last year for close to 40 miln dollars. This is the biggest volume of business in that firm's 47-year history, exceeding even the 1921 farm buying boom.

Who's doing the buying? Throughout the country, farmers are buying more acreage and better farms. They can afford to. But fifty per cent of toand factory workers. With conditions the way they are, these people want the security of a farm. Eighty-five per cent of them are paying one-half to two-thirds cash on the purchase price, and fifty per cent are paying - Il cash.

Which means they intend to hang ento them.

Granted, all will not be year-round residents. Others, after a few years, may decide they weren't cut out for the farm. But the success of those sho stay will depend, in large measure, on the friendly counsel and cosperation that we who know country life extend to them.

THOMAS. A. EDISON

It is a good thing to remember that the wonderful electric development which the United States has enjoyed, and where electricity is in more universal use than any other place in the world, was brought about by the courage and initiative of individuals.

In recognition of one man who did more to provide electric service for the world than any other, the Thomas A. Edison Centennial was celebrated throughout the country Tuesday by electric power companies, professional societies, electric leagues, and other business, civic, and educational organizations.

It is no exaggeration to say that Thomas Edison made possible more appliances to lighten work and provide amusement than any other individual. After Edison conceived an invention, industry pioneered the way in making its use practical and economical for the average citizen. It would be impossible to estimate the benefits flowing to mankind as a result of Edison's imagination. The ramifications of the use of electricity after his perfection of the incandescent lamp in 1879 are too varied to enumerate.

The Edison Centennial was a fitting tribute to the man who made electric service for the world possible. By the same token, it reflected credit on the individuals and companies who provide electric service at a cost within the reach of every pocketbook.

The record of Edison's achievements is a testimonial of what the United States stands for-opportunity-no limit on the exercise of talent and initiative.

could have got such an idea ends to do it. as that a girl should give a gift, or prevail upon her parto her. Not only would such a but it would be in extremely poor taste as well.

A man is not a girl's fiance until they are actually engaged. In your hypothetical case, the man is apparently not even supposed to have proposed yet, but the girl, through a sixth sense perhaps, has advance information that he is going to do so and that she is about "to become engaged." What in the name of common-sense would she be "reciprocating" under any such circumstances? Even when there is actually a formal engagement, there is no obligation on the part of either the girl or her parents to give the man an engagement present. And, as a matter of fact, she doesn't have to do so. However, if she wishes to, it is perfectly all right, and any gift such as a pair of cufflinks, a key, a ring, a cigarette case, or something of that sort, would be proper. But, according to the authorities on etiquette, the girl very rarely gives her fiance any gift at all at this

A Wife Who's "At The End Of Her Rope"

There is no more desperate feeling in the world than that of being, as the saying goes, "at the end of one's rope."

And whether you prefer any sort judging by the letters which lof existence with the man you come daily to my desk, I am afraid there are many wives who will know just what the writer of the following letter is talking about when she says: "I'm about at the end of my rope as to what I should do, and as to what is expected of me, and I thought perhaps you could give me a new angle on how to cope with this situation."

Her story is the old and bit-ter one of the husband who betrays his wife and laughs in her face when she finds it out. She tells it this way:

"I am married to an army officer, and have been for some five years. He's a rather nicelooking fellow, and I'm not pretty but average-looking. I have found out that my husband has been running around with other women, and it nearly kills me. I'v always worshipped him so very much.

'During the two years he was overseas. I was true to him. I worked hard in a defense plant, never went any place, but saved my money, except for the few clothes I bought so I could look nice when he came back. I claim it is customary for He has been back nearly two years now, and I'm still wearing come engaged, to reciprocate the clothes I bought two years ago, while he spends our money

"We have an adorable baby the fiance. My girl friend three months old, whom I never claims it isn't necessary. Kind- neglect. "I love my baby and I love my husband, but I'm slowly ents to give a gift, to a man learning to hate him. I've begshe thinks is going to propose ged and pleaded with him to stop this sort of life, but he thing be quite unconventional, laughs at me. He knows I know he goes out with these low-type women, and it doesn't seem to bother his conscience a bit.

"Just what can I do?" In a situation of this sort, begging and pleading accomplish just exactly nothing. As a matter of cold fact, I believe they actually only make things worse. Invariably such scenes end in violent quarrels, and quarrels only give the husband an excuse for going off and seeking what he feels to be more congenial company.

So the first thing to do-and almost the hardest-is to avoid accusations, reproaches or tears. Keep as silent as you possibly can on the subject until you are prepared to utter an ultimatum. Don't keep telling your husband you're going to leave him if he doesn't mend his ways. Constant threats of that sort weaken your position. He knows you know what he is doing. You've begged and pleaded with him to stop it. Now let the whole thing drop till you make up your mind what you want to

And there are, of course, only two alternatives open to you if your husband persists in his present behavior. One is to stay with him, accepting the situat the end of one's rope." ation as it is and sticking in out for the sake of financial support, your child, a convenwhich those utterly inadequate tional desire to avoid scandal or a desperate hope that he may change. The other is to pick up your child and leave. Go to another city, get yourself a job and start out to make

> Which of these two things you once loved, or peace of mind without him; whether you would rather stay forever dangling "at the end of your rope" or cut yourself down, get on your feet and go places again.

It's a hard choice, but it's one that's up to you.

YOUR A, B, C'S OF PAINTING Let your house live to a ripe old age by protecting it with paint.

Modern decorating requires paints and enamels, and rightly so — for the great variety of paint colors are perfect answers to fashion's quest for beauty.

It's amazing what a little paint and enamel will do to brighten up your home. And the cost is negligible com-pared to the "lift" it gives your daily life.

OAT TREATER INSTALLED

HELMINTHOSPORIUM Cut Oat Prospects

This new blight and root rot disease cut the 1946 oat crop in half and some even worse. The organism which causes this new disease is probably on all of the oats that will be sown this year. This organism is carried on the seed and also is found in the soil. From tests conducted in 1946 we believe that it might be possible to increase yields by tne-half this year. The best way to avoid serious loss is to clean thoroughly and treat all oats with the New Improved Ceresan.

Cleaning -- Treating

We are equipped to clean and treat oats in one process. The installing of this new piece of machinery is another service which we feel the farmer is entitled to, as this disease is a real threat to out production.

Treat and Clean Oats Now

We will clean and treat any variety of oats. Bring in your oats now and avoid the rush. This is important as we will shift over to soybean cleaning soon.

Med Maxwell, who's radio show "Let's Go 'Visiting" recently was chosen as the favorite radio program in a poll of 20,000 farm families, carries a one-two punch in his interviews with outstanding American farmers at 12:15 p. m. each Tuesday and Thursday over radio station WDZ, Tuscola, Illinois.

Med not only has a deep interest in American Agriculture, but many people say he has one of the smoothest speaking voices in radio. Thats not unusual because in 1390 he was awarded a prize as the finest baritone in the annual Chicagoland Music Festival. The "Let's Go Visiting" broadcasts were first tried on the air over a few stations in July 1941 and since then Maxwell has traveled nearly a quarter million miles to interview more than 800 individual farmers and farm families on this unique farm radio show. One interview may be with a noted breeder of purebred livestock, another with a farmer who has grown a record yield of corn and sometimes he may have an entire family on his broadcast. After each trip, Maxwell scrapes the mud of an Iowa feedlot or a Florida alligator farm from his boots and returns to Chicago where music and commercial announcements (for Allied Mills. TAXPAYERS FROM CENTRAL ILLINOIS TO MEET AT MASONIC TEMPLE, DECATUR

Plans for an economy drive in local, state and federal government spending will be made at a meeting of taxpayers from 16 East Central Illinois counties in Decatur on Friday evening, February 14

The meeting will be held at the Masonic Temple. Dinner will be served promptly at 6:30 P. M. The program will start at 7:30 P. M. Members of the Illinois General Assembly from Morning worship—10:30 a. m. East Central Illinois will be invited to attend the Decatur conference.

"The Decatur conference of East Central Illinois taxpayers is the second of a series of regional meetings sponsored by the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois to find out what the taxpayers back home want their senators and representatives in Springfield and Washington to do on a number of serious tax walk in darkness"; they are the problems," according to James L. Wiley, field, representative for the Federation in this area. George E. Mahin, Executive Secretary of the Taxpayers' Federation, will discuss the problems confronting the taxpayers under the 100% assessment laws. Among the other major problems to be acted upon at the meeting will be the question of setting a ceiling on federal government spending, sharing of state revenue with local governments, and whether legislation should be 'defeated that will spend more money. "In order to show our senators and representatives in Springfield and Washington that we taxpayers back home actively want economy, it is imperative that taxpayers be out in force to demonstrate our active interest in how we are but who are merely slaves. JESUS AT THE FEAST OF TABERNACLES

LESSON TEXT-John 8:12-16, 31-36; 9: MEMORY SELECTION—I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.—John 8:12.

"The Light of the World is Jesus!" Who does not remember with what delight we as children sang, "Come to the light, 'tis shining for thee . . . The Light of the World is Jesus." How precious was the truth that thus flooded our souls!

Has the passing of the years dimmed the beauty and glory of that light in our hearts and lives? Do we need it renewed? God is willing and ready. Jesus is the light, and just as the sunlight sheds its dawn, so Christ sheds abroad the light of God in the hearts of believing men. The writer of these lessons pens these words with the prayer that as this portion of God's Holy Word is studied and taught, that light may break forth on many a soul lost in the bewilder-

Our study centers around three simple words fraught with beauty and rich in meaning.

I. Light (John 8:12-16).

The text says, "Then spake Jesus." When? Just after he had silenced the hypocritical accusers of a woman taken in sin, and had spoken the word of peace to her troubled soul. She was to "go and sin no more" because she had met him who is the light of the world. They that follow him "shall not children of light, they have the very light of life.

How sad it is that with the light ness, men loved their own darkness. The Pharisees, instead of receiving the Light, had to argue, and to do it on a low, fleshly plane. They even accused Jesus of being a liar. Think of that!

So it is that men may reject the Light of God and go on into a darkness made deeper because they have seen the light.

Now we look at our second beautiful word. How sweet it sounds as

II. Freedom (vv. 31-36). Free! Four letters, but what a depth of meaning! Chains have fallen off, prison doors are open. The one who was bound is free. But here we are concerned with an even more important liberty, the freedom of the soul. Many there are who boast of their independence, by 7:30 P. M. The purpose of the three things in these verses. (1) A condition—"If ye continue in my word." This means not only a pro- of eggs. fession of faith, but a daily appropriation and realization of his truth of men profess to be a seeking after truth, but how few there are who look to the one place where it can be found-in Jesus Christ. (3) A result-"The truth shall make you free." Truth always sets free. Men are enslaved because, as in some foreign lands, they have not had the opportunity to learn the truth (we have failed to send it), or because they have rejected it. Freedom and light can lead only

III. Vision (John 9:1-5).

This is one of the most instructive passages in Scripture. A man born blind is seen by Jesus. His disciples note his interest and begin to theorize on a theological question. They had learned so little of the compassionate spirit of Jesus that they saw in this blighted life only an illustration of a theological problem. May God help us that we may never be so blind.

Jesus goes at once to his blessed work. He was in the world to do the works of God. He and the Father always work. Let us follow his blessed example. The King's business requires haste. Let us work "while it is day, the night cometh when no man can work."

By a loving and gracious act, Jesus stirs in the heart of the man that faith which causes him to go. to wash, and, glory to God, he sees!

Such a personal experience of the divine power of the Son of God leaves no doubt in the man's mind that the One who caused him to see "is a prophet." All of a man's doubts concerning the deity of Jesus Christ disappear when he becomes his Saviour.

Do not fail to read the remainder of the chapter and note how this man's faith was victorious in the face of trials, persecution, and even of excommunication; for outside the temple he met Jesus and took him as his Lord. As Dr. Scroggie puts it, "His excommunication was a promotion. He went from the synagogue to the Saviour."

FARMERS SIGN FARM PLANS
—Throughout the State producers are at this time making request to county AAA commitrequest to county AAA committees to participate in the 1947 Agricultural Conservation Program. This is done by completing a Farm Plan, land each and every farmer or land-owner is eligible. According to Orla O. Kimbrough, Chairman of the O. Kimbrough, Chairman of the local committee, producers of Moultrie County are asked to call at the county office for this purpose. Special notices are being sent to each farmer setting forth the date on which Farm Plans will be completed for each township. This year for each township. This year there will be no farm-to-farm visit by the community committee, so it's important that farmers of each township be present at the appointed meetings. There are few, if any, farms in the county that are not in need of some conservation work and it is the desire of the county committee to give every producer an opportunity to take advantage of the assistglory on an awakening world at ance offered by the program in carrying out good soil-building practices.

BIG OR LITTLE CALVES -The weight of a new-born, beef calf is a clue to the rate at which duration. Upon completion of it is likely to grow. This is this training the trainee will be based on tests recently conducted by the Department. Calves a 2nd Lieutenant and assigned heavier than the average at time of birth tended to reach a weaning weight of 500 pounds sooner than light weights, and ular AAF enlisted man curwere generally ready for slaughter the earliest. This indicates the desirability of giving the birth weight of calves some consideration, both in the selection the ages of 18 and 26 and six of breeding stock and in choosing animals to be fed for year high school course of in-slaughter. HORSE MEAT—Horses and mules are rapidly being displaced from American farms by the increasing use of tractors. Some of them become horse of the world shining in all its bright- meat. In 1945 over 75,000 head and in excellent health, be rewere inspected for slaughter foreign countries. Many live animals are also being sent to Europe for agricultural work, especially in connection with the UNRRA Program. Last year 80,000 head, exclusive of lesser numbers sent by private agen-

> KNOW YOUR EGGS-There are four consumer grades of eggs- AA, A, B, and C. These grades represent quality and have no relation to size and weight. The first three grades are recommended for eating; Grade C, however, is excellent for all baking and cooking purposes. Eggs are also classified as to size. The Jumbo weighs 28 ounces; extra large, 26, large, 24, medium, 21; and small, 18. Remember though, a Jumbo, for instance, could be of Grade C. ference in the value or quality

AGRICULTURAL PRICES Prices of most farm products in life. (2) A promise—"Ye shall move slightly lower as prices for know the truth." The philosophies goods purchased move upward. According to BAE, as of January 15, prices received by farmers dropped four points over previous month. However, index is still 260% of its 1909-1b average-54 points above a year ago, but 13 points less than record high of October. In contrast the parity index of January 15 (prices paid by farmers for items of living and farm operation, including interest and taxes) move to a new high of 215 percent of the 1910-14 average, a rise of 1% over the index of a month earlier.

$1.50 PER PERSON — If we break down the share (cost of ACP Program) that goes for harvested cropland, says a Department official, "we find that the people—are contributing less than $1.50 a person to help farmers take care of the land that produces nearly all of their food and much of their clothingless than the cost of 7 gallons of gasoline." This important task of caring for our land "demands the attention and support of 141 million people-the entire population of the country, for the boys and girls who play in city parks have just as big a stake in the Nation's soils as the boys and girls who are raising prize livestock for county fairs.

That Ring Around the Bathtub

Jeb Crowell blew his top the other day. Seems that for weeks he's been trying to get his youngsters to scrub out the bathtub after using it. And this night he sees two rings around it-one where young Sonny left off, and another about Pinky's level.

He raves and rants—and takes it out on the missus for her lack of discipline. And later that evening he sees her quietly polishing the hardwood table that's right by his chair. She's removing the rings he's left there with his evening glass of beer!

From now on, Jeb's careful to put his glass down on the table cover-like the missus does. And I hear he's a little more forgiving about rings around the bathtub. Just keeps on patiently reminding.

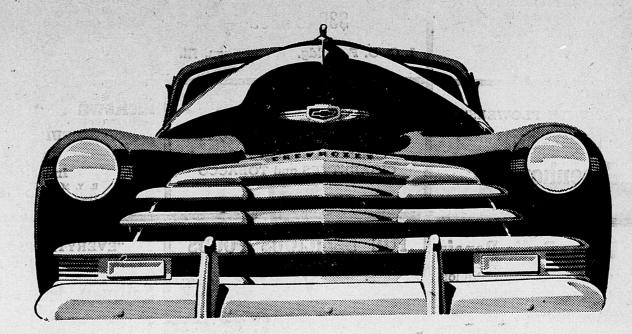

From where I sit, there are little annoyances in every family-conflicting habits and opinions in every community. A little patience -a little more "forgive and let live" is the only antidote.

WARNING AGAINST DANGER OF CALF PNEUMONIA

Farmers were warned recently to "baby your calves" and guard against the serious danger of calf pneumonia during the harsh weather of late winter and early spring.

A bulletin from the Amercan Foundation for Animal Health emphasized that every provision for the comfort of calves is essential if losses from this disease are to be pre-recommendations for Five the control of calf pneumonia and associated diseases were offered by the Foundation:

"First, protect your calves against exposure to cold winds and rains. Provide well-ventilated, dry, sanitary quarters. Calves readily contract pneumonia when exposed directly to drafts when indoors.

"Avoid overcrowding of young animals in stuffy quarters and then turning them out in inclement weather.

"Watch for the symptoms of pneumonia-dullness, poor appetite, high fever, difficult breathing, constipation or diarrhea.

"When these symptoms occur, obtain a veterinary diagnosis at once. Sometimes pneumonia occurs as a secondary condition associated with other serious

"If pneumonia is present, put into effect at once the treatment and special care prescribed for the animal. During the recovery period, provide palatable and easily-digested feeds."

Although no specific preventative for certain types of calf pneumonia has been developed, veterinarians have had some success with the use of therapeutic measures, the American Foundation said.

CAMPAIGN IS STARTED TO CONTACT NEXT OF KIN OF ILLINIOIS SOLDIER-DEAD

Homer G. Bradney, Administrator of the Illinois Veterans Commission, recently asked aid of veterans organizations, their auxiliaries, and civic and other groups, in the Commission's drive to contact the next of kin of Illinois soldiers who died in World War II.

In a public appeal, Bradney asked these groups to help the Commission locate the next of kin of the some 22,000 men who lost their lives during the last conflict.

"Members of these organizations can give the Commission immeasurable aid in contacting the next of kin to determine whether they are receiving all of the benefits to which they are entitled under state and federal law," Bradney said.

"Through the assistance of these organizations, I'm sure that we can obtain nearly a 100 percent coverage of those left behind by the 22,192 Illinoisans who died in World War II. We already have assisted several thousand next of kin to obtain their benefits."

The Commission's drive to of Effingham visited Mr. and contact the next of kin of Illinois soldier-dead started last week. In addition to aiding next of kin to secure their benefits the program will assist those who wish to have their soldier's body returned from overseas for reburial at home.

Moultrie County Service Officer L. A. Gray announced that Christopher Nicolay has been named chairman of a committee of veterans organizations and civic groups which will conduct the campaign in this

This man doesn't realize that feed bulk is no indication of feed value. Livestock will not gain more on larger rations unless the feed value of any crop is derived from the basic plant food el ments found in the soil. The crop must first build up the woody structure that makes up its bulk. Then, if soil conditions are right, the plant will store up a supply of the raw materials of protein, vitamins, and mineral compounds. Thus, whether a crop offers anything more than bulk and fattening power depends on the condition of the soil on which it grew. Livestock may be fed great quantities of feedstuffs produced on poor soils and still fail to gain weight. It is soil that has been guarded against erosion, fertilized properly, and carefully managed, that grows nutritious crops. Such soil will produce crops that give better feeding results and make more meat per acre.

As there were no home games this week the Band had a vacation, but we will be on hand to play at the Shelbyville game here next Tuesday, February taking part in a ping-pong 18th. We will probably just play tournament played in Mrs.Kirk's between the two games (Second room. At the end of the first Team and First Team) and then be free to watch for the rest of the evening.

We've just added another member to our Band; Billy Graven has joined up, and is going to play the bass horn. Two other students are thinking of joining—we will know next week for sure.

Last week the soprano section of the Chorus was cut down to eight people, with those left over being transferred to the second soprano group instead. Mr. Briggs thinks this will make a better balanced arrangement. Virginia Wilson and Walter Heckler are going to Galesburg to an audition for a musical scholarship to Knox College. Their accompanist will be Janet White.

TENTATIVE DATES FOR COUNTY FAIRS ARE SET

Following closely upon the announcement that the Illinois State Fair will be held August 8-17, tentative dates for sixtytwo agricultural fairs, which have already scheduled their events for the 1947 season, have been listed by Arnold P. Benson, state director of agricul-ture. It is expected that, when the final reports are made, all of seventy-five fairs held in 1946 will again operate and that a few additional fairs will be organized.

"Collectively Illinois county fairs are in the strongest position in their history," Benson said. "Nearly every fair association is free of indebtedness. Fairgrounds are being rehabilitated, buildings being repaired and remodeled. New buildings will be erected as soon as conditions permit. Premiums will again exceed the one million dollar mark and a number of fairs will increase their premium awards."
