"MOULTRIE COUNTY'S FOREMOST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER"

SIXTY-FOURTH YEAR—NO. 12. SULLIVAN, ILLINOIS, FRIDAY, MARCH 19, 1948—EIGHT PAGES FIVE CENTS

TO VOTE SATURDAY ON ESTABLISHMENT OF UNIT SCHOOL PLAN

Saturday of this week will be election day for the proposed Sullivan unit school district of Moultrie county. On that day, voters of the city of Sullivan, and of surrounding school districts will vote on the question of whether or not to form a Sullivan unit school district, similar to others now existing in this and other counties of the state. Under the unit district school law, which was enacted by Illinois last year such a school unit maintains all grades, one through twelve, in the district. This includes both elementary and high schools.

Forming a unit school district, however, does not necessarily mean that all students in that district have to attend one central school. The school board of a unit district has the power to maintain as many separate schools in the district as they believe necessary.

The polls on election day will open at 12 o'clock, noon, and close at 7 p.m.

The school districts and polling places in the proposed unit are as follows:

Community consolidated school district No. 200 and the Hinton schol district: polling place will be the Crabapple school.

Consolidated districts No. 3-A and No. 4, Minor district and all of the Allenville district outside of Allenville: polling place, Purvis school.

Dunn, Nazworthy, Reedy, Forrest, and Harmony districts: polling place, Reedy school.

Bruce, Baker, Palmyra, and Whitfield districts: polling place, Bruce school.

Titus, Morning Star, Cushman districts; Consolidated District No. 37; Union, New Castle, East Hudson, Morgan, Stricklan and all of Sullivan district No. 50 outside of the Sullivan city limits: Polling place will be Gene's Market at west edge of Sullivan.

Village of Allenville polling place will be the town hall.

City of Sullivan polling place will be the city building.

The proposed unit district would form a rough cricle around the city of Sullivan, and would contain approximately 120 sections of land.

He entered a plea of guilty to the first count of the indictment returned by the grand jury, which covered the stealing of grain from the Eberhardt farm.

Judge Watson asked for evidence in mitigation before passing sentence, and Carter asked for leniency, telling of circumstances which led to the theft.

State's Attorney Joseph L. Munch presented evidence of the crime to which the defendant had entered the guilty plea, presenting a check which had been given by the Coles elevator in payment of the grain, as evidence. SPRINGER URGES TAX RELIEF: SOUND FOREIGN POLICY

Speaking before a group of 50 Moultrie county Republican leaders, last Thursday night, William L. Springer of Champaign, Republican candidate for congressman from the 22nd district, urged a two-fold program. He said that some measure of tax relief must be given the public, and presented a five-point program which would prevent Russia from waging an aggressive war.

Springer is opposing Rep. Rolla C. McMillen in the 22nd district in the Republican primary April 13. He is now county judge of Champaign county and has been prominent in veterans and civic affairs in his community.

The meeting was called to order by Carl Crowder, chairman of the Moultrie county central committee, and the speaker was introduced by Judge Rodney A. Scott.

"The Truman plan for a $40 cut in individual income tax does not offer any relief," Springer told his audience. "As the plan goes the saving to the individual would be transferred to manufacturers and corporations. That would only transfer the burden and the ultimate consumer would eventually pay the tax."

The Democratic administration is proceeding on a policy of unsound money, wasteful spending, and of plans to divide, instead of create a new wealth, Springer told the group.

"The wasteful government spending is one of the chief causes of high taxes," Springer said. "Right now the average tax burden for every family in the United States is $1340 yearly."

The speaker used statistics to show that taxes are now eight times higher than they were before the war. He also mentioned that there were 148 taxes included in the price of a pair of overalls, and 154 in a bar of hand soap. In telling of these taxes Springer hit at the many "hidden" taxes. "The consumers pay," he stated, "but they are unable to see how much the cost of the article amounts to taxes."

Springer urged the adoption of a sound foreign policy that would function at all times.

"There are three courses of action, we can take in the present European situation," he stated. "We can do nothing; we can provide enough food and clothing to keep the people alive, like the W P A program; or we can administer an intelligent program of aid, incentive, and business-like management to get increased production in agriculture and industry, and in so doing control the type and kind of government."

Springer said that he favored a free interchange of goods with other countries, explaining that we needed a sound export market. He urged that we keep a strong military position, and that we stop the shipment of goods to Russia which might be used to develop a war machine, and that we develop an extensive campaign of ideas to combat communistic propoganda.

VOTE "YES" ON UNIT SYSTEM

A majority of Moultrie county residents will have an opportunity to go to the polls Saturday, March 20, and express themselves in regard to the unit school system. Many public hearings have been held in regard to the districts and the boundaries. Persons concerned have been urged to express themselves about the plan, and many of them have done so.

There have been some adjustments of boundary lines. It was the desire of petitioners to arrange satisfactory boundaries before any vote was taken.

It is hoped that Saturday's election will be held and and end with every one reasonably satisfied with the result; that there will be none of the legal fights and animosities that have followed some of the votes in other counties.

The merits of the unit system have been pointed out by some of the state's most learned educators. It has the backing of many groups, and the University of Illinois has supplied valuable assistance in setting up the system, through its studies and surveys.

Moultrie county schools should benefit by the unit system. Therefore a favorable vote is recommended.

HE BOARD AND THE BUDGET

Taxpayers of Moultrie county are glad to see the board supervisors so concerned with county finances. It shows at they are cognizant of the responsibility of their ofes. There might have been a day when county boards were not plagued with financial troubles, but that is doubtful. Now county business is "big business." The auditor's report presented at the March meeting, and covering the period between Dec. 1, 1946 and Nov. 30, 1947, shows that the board, through the county collector, distributed $719,903.65. That places the county definitely in the class of big business. Of course the board is not directly responsible for the expenditure of all these funds. Some of them go to other taxing bodies for use, but the amount of cash which the board expends directly is a substantial sum.

Board members are seldom, if ever, auditors or lawyers, and yet they are faced with many problems which require expert professional advice. That is why they require a lot of counsel from the state's attorney, and why an audit and a budget are needed.

An audit of the previous year's business is sure to show some procedures which may be improved on. Such recommendations are usually included as a part of the auditor's report, and they should be carefully studied by the board members and the county offices concerned. The budget for the ensuing year is a guide for the board to follow in making expenditures. True it will never work out just as set up on paper, but at least it gives the markers to follow. Though there may be some deviations the board should never be without knowledge of the financial condition of the county. Use of the budget should give better and less costly county government.

NOT ENOUGH

Enlisted men who served in World War II are apt to feel that the prison sentence meted out to Ma.j Gen. Bennett E. Meyers was not long enough. True he faces a maze of other charges and may possibly end up by spending the rest of his life in prison, but time has not yet dimmed the memory of the swift justice handed out by court martial boards. Some of the same swift justice now would please the ex-servicemen who met up with some of the type of "rotten brass" which is so well personified by Meyers.

The Meyers case should also point out the need for further investigation into the conduct and actions of some high ranking officers. The thing that rankled the enlisted personnel most was the system by which the "good brass" would always cover up for the mistakes and offenses of the "bad." The enlisted man always felt that he was out before the third strike was ever thrown. An inning now in which the gold braid would go down in order would be a source of immense satisfaction to many an ex-serviceman.

—Mr. and Mrs. Dorman Shirey returned Sunday from a visit in Albuquerque, N. Mex., with Mr. and Mrs. Paul McDavid and family. They were gone almost two weeks.

More LIP . . . .

Who likes the month of March? Wind, rain, snow, interspersed with a few tantalizing sunshiny hours. Drab bare trees, dirty streets, walks, winter's rubbish to be removed. Muddy streets and roads . . . temperatures in the high 70's or down to zero. March. . . . the lion or the lamb, as you prefer, and who likes it? Take your place at the head of the line if you do.

March reminds us of our boyhood days spent on the farm. It was the month in which roads became impassable, when it was an effort to wade through the mud. It was the time to get farm machinery ready for use; the time to clean up the chicken house and get the garden ready for plowing. It was oats sowing time, fence repair time, and time for spring housecleaning. No wonder we don't care for the month of March.

The Parke Warehouses in Decatur recently celebrated its 94th birthday, observing the date March 5. In arranging to mark the anniversary William C. Parks started some investigations to see how many such firms there were in the community which boasted of 90 years or more of continuous service. Of that we expect to have more later. Some of the older concerns in Sullivan are the Gauger Lumber Co., Corbin's, Cummins, and Fred Sona, monuments.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that the average American farm is getting bigger. It is now reported to be in the neighborhood of 200 acres. In 1945 the figure was 195 acres. That was the largest since 1860, when the typical farm was 199 acres.

We are getting an insight intto the junk business, but we resent "Cotton" Wood's questioning greeting on Monday morning "How's the junk business today?" For his benefit we must say that it is interesting, presents many obstacles, and small remuneration. And off-the-record we plan to watch for some of his side-line activities. Perhaps they too are a trifle unremunerative.

* * *

We wonder why County Collector Loren Jenne picked March 15 to start the Moultrie county tax collections. Seems as if he should have given the tax-paying public at least one day's respite from the problem. As is was, he over-lapped into the income deadline paying date. And we are the type of person that sends in our return on the final day. If March 15 is the date for payment, why pay it on Feb. 1. Mr. Dallman, and the federal government have never offered any discount for prompt or early payment. They devote all their energy to adding a penalty after the payment date if it is not met. We prefer therefore to meet their demands but not to be one of those popular "early birds."

BIRD NOTES

THE WHITE-THROATED SPARROW

By Loren Brumfield

The White-Throat is one of our earliest songsters. They are not a bird of the woods or the wide open prairies, but are to be found along the hedge rows, along brushy fence rows and thickets in the country side.

They like the company of other birds such as the Junco, the Black Capped Chickadee, Downy Woodpeckers and members of the sparrow tribe of which there are many, the most common being the Song Sparrow and the Tree Sparrow.

The White-Throat is often found feeding in small flocks on the ground. From the noise that they make while scratching among the leaves on the ground one is led to believe that they are a much larger bird than they are. They compare very well in size to that of the English Sparrow (no relation to our native sparrows) being six and three quarters inches in length.

He has a yellow line before each eye. Center of crown a whitish stripe; bounded on each side by a broader black stripe. A white stripe runs from the eye back to the neck; throat white; under part whitish; body grayish brown.

His nests on or near the ground in low bushes. Nest made of coarse grases lined with finer and softer grases. Eggs are four or five in number.

The White-Throat is a winter resident, sending its winters from Central Illinois to the Gulf.

They are to be seen and their song heard almost any sunny morning in March. He can be heard in Sullivan as well as in the country side. The people of Canada call him the "Sow Wheat Bird." They seem to think his song goes "Sow wheat-pev-er-ly-pev-er-ly-pev er-ly."

The White-Throat is fond of seeds and berries, of which he eats great quantities. Some of the White Throats linger here until the latter part of April, and some even remain in this locality for their nesting.

Frank M. Chapman lists 34 distinct species of the Sparrows in North America. Most of these are at some time during the year in Illinois.

The Song Sparrow is another one of our very common birds during the summer months. He is to be seen perched on telephone wires, fence posts, and on the top most branches of trees singing as though his life depended on the amount of music coming from his throat.

He has a speckled breast, with a rather large reddish brown spot in the center of his breast. He compares in size with that of the White-Throat. Under parts whitish; upper parts a grayish brown. His range is about that of the White-Throat, from Hudson Bay to the Gulf. He nests on or near the ground. While he is not so sociable as the White Throat, he can be seen during the summer months in our locality.

Feels 100% Better since Losing 88 lbs. with this Home Recipe

Mrs. E. Vollmer, 2737 So. 58th Court, Cicero, writes: "I am twenty-seven years of age but felt like I was forty until I began using Rennel which has helped me to lose 88 pounds. Friends exclaim over the remarkable difference in my appearance. I feel 100% better and have more energy and ambition than before."

Rennel is the original grapefruit juice recipe for taking off ugly fat. It's simple. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel. Pour the contents into a pint bottle — add enough unsweetened grapefruit juice to fill the bottle, then take just two tablespoons twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves—if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Rennel, no starvation diet, no printed diet list to buy, no expensive vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

How to Keep 'Em Down On the Farm

The other day Pete Swanson's nephew, Bud, allowed as how he was fed up with farm and country life ... and was going to the city where there was a lot more opportunity and excitement.

Some folks might have tried to stop him. But not Pete. He even advanced Bud carfare for the trip ... figured that when he'd had a good look around, he'd come back where he belonged.

And what happened? After seven days of big-town bustle and excitement, Bud was back behind the wheel of a tractor, with color in his cheeks again. And he'd traded the night life of the city for a quiet glass of beer with Dad.

From where I sit, that's how it goes. Try to prevent some one from getting what he thinks he wants—and he'll go on wanting it. But give him his head, and he'll settle for the sensible thing—whether it's country life, or a temperate glass of beer!

1948 OUTLOOK FOR CONSERVATION WORK IS ENCOURAGING

Opening of the spring planting season finds farmers in a better position from the standpoint of soil resources than ever before, Bruce B. Clark, state conservationist for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, announced today. The outlook for the 1948 crop year is encouraging, Clark said, because of the fine progress farmers of the state made during the past 12 months, ending March 1, in developing soil conservation practices.

Commenting upon the state figures, Alva Wilt, chairman of the Moultrie County soil conservation district of directors said: "More and more farmers of Illinois are adopting soil conservation methods as a means of increasing their cash incomes and protecting the land, which is their capital investment, from further depreciation through erosion.

"We feel that cooperators of this district have turned in a progress record the past 12 months which will compare favorably with that made in any other soil conservation district of the state.

"Using the special assistance given them on the land by technicians of the U. S. Soil Conservation service, farmers will have 700 acres of crop land farmed on the contour during 1948. Construction of 6000 lineal feet of terraces during the past 12 months the fertilizing and liming of 4000 acres and the drainage of 340 acres of crop land with 17,800 feet of tile, are just a few of the accomplishments achieved by local cooperators during the past year."

Clark's report shows that farmers of Illinois have now organized a total of 84 soil conservation districts, nine of which they voted in during the past 12 months. Judging from the widespread interest shown in other localities, Clark said, it appears reasonable to predict the state will have approximately 90 districts by July 1, 1948.

During the past 12 months, Illinois farmers developed 3,379 complete farm conservation plans with the technical assistance of the Soil Conservation service. This brought the state's total up to 12,672 plans.

In addition, technicians of the service gave 2,543 other farmers assistance in starting one or more soil conservation practices. These starting practices usually lead to the development by the farmer of a complete farm conservation plan which fits his program to the land, acre by acre.

At the present time, the state conservationist reports, soil conservation districts now cover 76.8 per cent of the state 31,000,000 acres of farm land.

Illinois farmers enter the spring farming, Calrk announced, with these totals of soil conservation practices already applied on the land: 330,311 acres being farmed on the contour; 41,557 acres contour strip cropper; 803 miles of terraces already constructed; 703,000 lineal feet of diversions built to control water runoff and soil washing; 1,213 farm ponds already built; 75,000 acres of pasture improved; 123,100 acres of land brought into better production by drainage; 8,700,000 lineal feet of grass waterways established; 10,500 acres of woodlands already being improved and 2,800 acres of field and gully planting.

Charles M. Roodhouse of the U. S. Soil Conservation service who gives technical assistance to the local district, commented: "I feel our district cooperators have made splendid progress during the past 12 months. We hope they will make an even better record, however, in 1948. We now have applications from 100 farmers in this soil conservation district who have asked for technical assistance. We can't get to them as fast as we would like, but will reach them as our funds and facilities permit."

Trip Through Dixie Land

EDITOR'S NOTE: J. E. Crowder has spent much time in the study of the Civil war and we find his account of a trip through the battlegrounds of the southern states very interesting. Mr. Crowder has promised to write additional articles for the News.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Crowder, and Zella (Ma) Bieber left Sullivan at 11:30 a. m., Jan. 14, 1948 with Mrs. Crowder at the wheel. By sundown, we found a nice tourist court, 12 miles south of Evansville, Ind. near Henderson, Ky. Next morning we started around 7 o'clock following Route 41 all the way to Florida. U. S. 41 leads out of Chicago to the south end of Florida, crossing through Kentucky into Tennessee at a point near Hensleytown, Ky. We crossed the Cumberland river at Nashville, Tenn., where one of the Vandervilts universities is located. It being around noon we found a good place to eat and after dinner we drove to Monteagle, Tenn. At this point we encountered the first low mountain. Monteagle mountain is 25 miles long from one to five miles wide and 4000 feet above the sea. We found a lovely tourist court at the top of this mountain awaiting for us and we decided to stay for the night. This court had about 20 cottages all heated with steam which we appreciated very much as it was quite cold up there. These cottages were all equipped with nice clean bedding with interspring mattress and a resturant right there serving good food. The ground was covered slightly with snow. The next morning we started on our way crossing the Tennessee river near Jasper, Tenn., at the Hales Bar dam. This dam is 1200 feet long developing 107,000 H. P., a part of the T. V. A. project. Reaching Chattanooga, Tenn, around noon a city of 128,163 population, lies close to the border of Georgia, situated in a beautiful valley 2000 feet above the sea, and surrounded by majestic peaks of the Cumberland mountains. Chattanooga's location is one of scenic beauty. In the distance to the north beyond the piled wooded foot hills rises Signal mountain, used by General Grant during the Civil war. To the south, right at the city edge is Lookout mountain, 4450 feet above the sea, is about 23 miles long, five or six miles wide, about 93 square miles on top the mountain. There is a population of 5000 up there, with over 400 miles of paved roads and streets, up and down, cannons, streams, bridges and one place is a 100 foot water fall, known as Ruby falls. The land looks rolling like southern Illinois only it is on top of the mountain by way of an incline railway. There is one car going up while the other is going down and the cars are attached to cables (no motors in cars.) The power that pulls the cars up is at the top of the mountain a mile away. We made an elevation of 2450 feet in one mile travel and I mean it is really steep. Right here one really gets a thrill. Remember the grade is 72% close to straight up and down, over a mile of it. During the war between the states, the Confederates placed cannons on points on Lookout mauntain in a way that commanded the valleys below. Here was the place where the famous battle was fought during the civil strife. Little did I think when a boy in school in studying history that I would some day be able to stand and walk over the battle field that my Uncle Andrew Crowder (just younger than my father) and Dr. Smith Crowder (just older than my father) took part in this battle, above the clouds on Nov. 24, 1863. Later just south of here at Chickamauga battle they both gave their lives for their country, that all states should stand united together, and would some day command the world, or at least be the strongest nation in the world. The Union forces stormed the heights and drove the Confederates off. The Confederates lost 30,000 of their best men and the Unions about the same amount in about three days and was one of the greatest blows the south received. A greater part of this fighting was done by sticking bayonets through one another since they had old fashiond muzzle loading rifles. When once fired, it was empty and took too much time to reload, thus they used the bayonet. We saw at the southwest end of Lookout mountain the Cravens house, where General Walthall's headquarters were when the battle above the clouds took place. The house was wrecked during the battle but has since been rebuilt on the same foundation. It was closed at the time we were here. The Ohio and Iowa boys have erected beautiful monuments in memory of the noble deeds of the men who took part in this battle. At this point we took the bus to the far end 23 miles, and viewed the Rock City gardens 4450 feet above the sea. At this point there were three telescopes, so by dropping in a dime we could see seven states. Rock City is a lovely garden just as nature made it, consisting of about ten acres. Every one interested in nature should see this spot. There are canons, tunnels, caves, moonshine still, 1000 ton balancing rock, fat man squeeze, also the stone witch that looked like some human had made it. It was about 50 feet across the face. Man has made many beautiful gardens, but remember nature took millions of years to build this one. After viewing the top of Lookout mountain we proceeded down that cable railway (the second thrill) to the city of Chattanooga where we met an Illinois man who was standing by our parked car awaiting to meet some one from Illinois as he used to live at Newton. Next viewed the Chickamauga dam, started in 1936 under President Franklin Delano Roosevelt's promotion, and was finished in 1940 at a cost of $38,1000,000. It is one of the series of dams built by the T. V. A. for navigation, flood control and electric power on the Tennesee river. It is 129 feet hight, 5794 feet long (over one mile) with a reservoir area of 37,200 acres extending 59 miles up stream. This is a wonderful help to our nation as they can hold the water of the Tennessee river back in time of floods and let the waters of the Mississippi and Ohio rivers run down before they turn in the Tennesse waters. Besides, look at the electric energy developed by these mighty dams. Next comes the famous old railroad engine now on exhibition at the Union depot, Chattanooga, Tenn. It was made famous by General Andrew's Raiders. In short, here is the story. In a national cemetery is buried James J. Andrews and his companions (Union men), who captured an engine at Big Shanty, Ga., in the rebel country and started north towards the Union lines, burning the trussels and bridges behind them on the Western Atlantic Railroad in an attempt to cut the supplies of the Confederates, while General Sherman was advancing from Ga. They did a lot of good for the Yanks but did not accomplish what they set out to do. These men were overtaken by the Confederates under the command of Captain Fuller. Eight of them were executed as spies, six were paroled, eight escaped from prison. The famous old engine named "General", which was captured, is Union station at Chattanooga now kept as a memorial in the There was so much to see around Chattanooga that we stayed over until the next day. Then on to Atlanta where General Sherman started his famous march to the sea. I had another uncle in this campaign, Anderson Crowder, the father of the late Andrew Crowder of Betheny. Uncle Anderson use to say, "It sure was tough to burn those beautiful homes and furniture, large barns, warehouses, factories and drive off all the livestock and leave those poor helpless people to starve and live out of doors or in nigger shanties, but we were given orders to do this and as good soldiers we executed the orders. After all", said he, "It was better to destroy their property and drive off their meat than to crack heir heads." The result was these acts weakened the Southern army for those Confederate boys did desert and come home to their folks. While Sherman cut the South in two parts at this point, Grant opened up the Mississippi river, so when this was done the south was cut into three pieces and they could not fight any longer but it took four long years of bloody war to cause our United States to begin to live together again, and now it is the Union forever and a mighty nation are we, since this war.

—Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Howard, daughters Norma and Frances, and Mr. and Mrs. William Kidwell and Constance Marie spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Stokes.

SICKNESS CAUSED LOSS OF $1000 SAYS ELDORADO MAN

Mr. R. Winins, 2118 Main St., thanks Rentox for regained health and earning power.

"I have been troubled with arthritis and rheumatism so bad that at times I was hardly able to get up and down and was not able to work. I lost about $1000 in income because of my health. I have been troubled with constipation almost all of my life which caused me to be bloated and gas formed on my stomach. I have had to get up many times during the night which left me tired out the next day. This was all before taking Rentox. After the very first bottle of Rentox the swelling left my hands and the pains in my knees began to ease. My appetite is much better, my bowels are regular and I can now get a good night's sleep without interruption. I can now eat anything without being bothered by gas and bloat. I have tried all of the medicines on the market so I know that Rentox is a wonderful medicine because it is the only one that has helped me."

Why do so many people endorse this great medicine? Well, probably it is because they are grateful for having found a medicine that is just what they needed to put them on the road to good health and contentment. This splendid medicine contains 26 ingredients which go to work quickly to relieve constipation and tone up your system. Helps build rich red blood, aids kidneys and bladder. Expels gas, bloat and ends acid indigestion and heart burn. Rentox will make you look, act and feel like a different person in a very short time. Why not try it today—just go to your druggist and ask for a bottle of Rentox. Be sure that you get the genuine Rentox, don't be "switched" to another product.
