juries in a runaway accident Friday afternoon of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were preparing to take a drive and Mr. Anderson had just finished hitching the horse to the buggy and was holding the lines in his hand, when he slapped the horse to make him stand over. The horse at once started to run, throwing Mr. Anderson to the ground and dragging him for some distance over a small stump of a tree, a piece of which caught in the inner corner of the eye, tearing the flesh across the cheek and making a serious and ugly wound. He also received severe cuts on the head and arms. Mr. Anderson's advanced age ning a general social for the church makes the accident serious.

PRESIDENT ARRIVES AT STAM-BOUL, LA, IN GOOD HEALTH.

PLEASED WITH VACATION

Party Got Three Bruins Out of the Five in That District—Executive Tells of Hunt and Life in Camp.

Stamboul, La. — "We got three bears, six deer, one wild turkey, 12 squirrels, one duck, one possum and one wildcat. We ate them all except the wildcat and there were times when we almost felt as if we could eat it."

This was President Roosevelt's summing up of the results of his hunt on Bayou Tensas and Bear lake. He arrived at three o'clock Sunday afternoon at the residence of Leo Shields, where he will be a guest until he makes his departure for Vicksburg Monday. He came in on a full gallop and accompanied as he was by about a dozen of his hunting companions, all mounted and attired in hunting garb, the cavalcade presented a tableau as picturesque as it was animated.

Yes, we got three bears," the president added, "all that we saw, and I think it's a pretty good record. I am perfectly satisfied."

You might add," interjected one of the Metcalf brothers, who has been the president's principal guide throughout the hunt, "that we hunted a country of vast extent and in which here were but five bears all told and that of those, as you see, we got

Possum and Bear's Liver Were Good. Assenting to this amplification of his statement, the president entered upon an enthusiastic account of his hunt, of his life in camp and the meats which he had been supplied while

"Was the possum good?" he was asked.

"Absolutely the best dish we had, except the bear's liver," he responded with relish.

The president when he said this tood on the lawn in front of Mr. Shield's house. Around him were gathered Mr. Shields and a number of ests whom he had invited to dine with the president.

In the distance were gathered the negro hunters, Holt Collier, Alex Ennolds and Brutus Jackson, and numer-ous cooks, teamsters and messengers, white the horses stood in the yard and the dogs lay around licking their lacerated bodies. The president was the central figure of the group and he appeared in happier frame of mind than on this occasion. He declared that his health had been per ct, his appetite equally good and, with the exception of a day or two lost on account of rain, he had been in the saddle every day from daylight to

The third bear, killed on Friday, was slain by one of the Osborn brothers when it was in a flerce fight with the dogs. The one bear that was obtained by the president was killed on Thursday and the killing was witnessed by one of the McKenzies and Alex Ennolds. The animal had been chased by the dogs for three hours, the president following all the time. When at last they came within hear-ing distance, the president dismounted from his horse, dashed off his coat and tore into the canebrake, coming to within 20 paces of the beast.

The dogs were coming up rapidly with the president's favorite "Rowdy in the lead, and the brute had stopped to bid defiance to them when the pres ident sent a bullet from his 45-70 rifle through the thicket after it. The shot went through the animal's lights and would have been fatal, but with the little life left in it, the bear turned upon the dogs. The president con cluded to end it all and lodged a second bullet between the shoulders which broke the creature's neck.

In honor of the president, the name of this place was changed to Roosevelta Sunday.

MAGILLS - ARE NOT GUILTY

JUDGE INSTRUCTS JURY TO AC-QUIT THE DEFENDANTS.

State Did Not Prove the Corpus De Cheers.

Decatur, Ill.—Acting under instructions from Judge Cochran, the jury Friday night returned a verdict ac quitting Frederick Magill and his wife, Faye Graham Magill, of the charge of murdering Mrs. Pet Magill, the first wife of Magill. In his instructions the judge said the state had failed to prove the corpus delicti.

The verdict was greeted with cheers despite the efforts of the court to maintain order. The crowd in the courtroom hurried forward and offered congratulations to the Magills. The jury afterwards filed by and each shook hands with the defendants.

On May 30 last, Mrs. Pet Magill was found dead in her home at Clinton, Ill., and a postmortem examination held six weeks after her death showed that she had been suffocated by chloroform. On July 5 in Denver Frederick Magill, her husband, and Miss Faye Graham, a young woman who had been a close friend of the family, were married. Four days later in San Diego, Cal., Magill and his second wife were arrested on a charge of murdering the first Mrs. Magill. They were brought back to Clinton and secured a change of venue to this city. In the trial the state claimed that Magill and Miss Gra ham by their conduct had driven Mrs. Magill to suicide and were therefore guilty of murder.

WIN THE LAHM CUP.

Chandler and McCoy Travel 500 Miles in Balloon

St. Louis.—Swinging through the atmosphere at a speed roughly esti-mated at 22 miles an hour, the United States signal corps balloon No. 10, in which Aeronauts J. C. McCoy and Capt. Charles DeF. Chandler, of the United States signal corps, ascended here Thursday evening, passed over Illinois and Indiana Thursday night, and across Ohio Friday, and at night fall was apparently about to land in the vicinity of Point Pleasant, W. Va., when last heard from.

The distance covered, on a straight line measurements, is approximately 500 miles, and the voyage won for the aeronauts the Lahm cup.

The Lahm cup was instituted by the Aero Club of America, soon after the international races at Paris in 1906, at which Lieut. Frank P. Lahm won the James Gordon Bennett cup for the Aero Club of America. So joyful were the members of the club at the vic-tory that the cup was named for the pilot of the balloon United States, and it was put up by the club to be won by the aeronaut who traveled more than 402 miles, the distance traveled by the United States in the Paris races, pro-vided the start was made from American soil.

When the ascension was made here Thursday evening it was the intention of the aeronauts to remain in the air all night as a test of the gas to be used by the balloons in the interna tional aeronautic contests which begin here next week. However, considering the likelihood that they might be carried a long distance, they went amply prepared for a long flight.

Provisions in tin cans, self-heating by a lime-slacking device, were stored in the basket, and a number of differ ent instruments for testing purposes were carried.

AWFUL POWDER BLAST.

Nearly Two Score Persons Killed a Fontanet, Ind.

Fontanet, Ind.—Thirty-eight lives snuffed out, 600 injured, of which number 50 were seriously hurt, and a property loss of approximately $750,-000 is the latest estimate of the de struction wrought by the explosion at the Dupont Powder mills Tuesday morning.

Where stood a thriving and busy town of 1,000 people there is ruin and scattered wreckage. The dead and more seriously injured have taken away. Five hundred inhabitants, all more or less wounded, remain to gather their scattered household goods and sleep under tents and on cots, guarded by soldiers of the state.

From a workman employed in the glazing mill it was learned Wednesday that a "hot box," which was caused by too much friction on the shafting, causing sparks to be transmitted to some loose powder, was in all probability the cause of the terrible catastrophe.

Perhaps no vegetable remedy in the world has attracted so much attention from medical writers as HYDRASTIS CANADENSIS. The wonderful effi-cacy of this herb has been recognized many years, and is growing in its hold upon the medical profession. When joined with CUBEES and COPAIRA a trio of medical agents is formed in Peruna which constitutes a specific remedy for catarrh that in the present state of medical progress cannot be improved upon. This action, rein-forced by such renowned tonics as COLLINSONIA CANADENSIS, COR-YDALIS FORMOSA and CEDRON SEED, ought to make this compound an ideal remedy for catarrh in all its stages and locations in the body. From a theoretical standpoint, there-fore, Peruna is beyond criticism. The Aeronauts Representing America, Ger many, France and England Contest for James Gordon Bennett Cup.

St. Louis.—Drifting along in a direction just west of north when lost to view in the haze of falling night, and with a freshening southeast breeze behind them, nine big balloons are competing for the honors attached to the winning of the second international aeronautic cup race. A brilliant moon was shining throughout the middle west and conditions seemed ideal for a record-breaking flight.

A stiffer wind would have been more welcome to the occupants of the wicker cars, which hung like tiny specks beneath the great globular gasfiled bags, but the five-mile breeze of the lower air strata gave promise of splendid racing currents in the highaltitudes. The Germans, acting on this theory, reached for their courses right from the start. The French and English aeronauts were more conservative and selected a mid-dle depth, while the Americans raced away at an altitude which seemed to take them just clear of trees and house tops.

So low, in fact, did two of the Amer ican teams balance their cars that there was grave danger of the baskets raking a crowded grandstand, and intense excitement prevailed. The St. Louis, one of the largest balloons in the race, came so close to the stand that it was seized by a squad of soldiers, swept back to a safer starting point, and sent away two minutes after the official word to go was given.

In the big race for the James Gordon Bennett cup there are three balloons representing America, three representing Germany, two for France and one for England. The basket of each balloon contains two occupants, the pilot and his aid.

With a prospect of the breeze holding to the southeast and south, many predictions were made Monday night that the final landing place of the winning balloon would be in Minnesota or one of the Dakotas. Others held the opinion that the upper currents would send the air craft further to the east, to find a place of descent east of Lake

IN LIFE'S BRIEF SPAN. Experiences, Joys and Sorrows of the Human Existence.

The loves and friendships of indiriduals partake of the frail character of human life, and are brief and unertain. The experience of a human life may be shortly summed up: A little loving and a good deal of sorrowing; some bright hopes and many bitter bitter disappointments; some gor-geous Thursdays when the skies are bright and the heavens blue, when Providence, bending over us in blessings, glads the heart almost to madness; many dismal Fridays, when the smoke of torment beclouds the mind and undying sorrows gnaw upon the heart; some high ambitions and many Waterloo defeats, until the heart be-comes like a charnel house filled with dead affections, embalmed in but sorrowful memories; and then the chord is loosed, the golden bowl is broken, the individual life—a cloud, a vapor, passes away.—Matthew Hale Carpenter.

WAIT FOR THE NEXT CAR

A defender has ar sen for the elevated road guards in general and for the south side service in particular. The fact that the defender is a woman and the wife of a guard does not materially detract from the value of her methods of passengers.

The special point is made that little discretion in its mad fury to reach home at night, that people all try to crowd into a train as if it were the last call for the day, and that they swear vengeance on the guard if he closes the gates before they are able to jostle their way aboard. The woman asks why people who insist on jamming into a crowded car cannot wait for the next train.

The one thing to be said in defense of the overzealous and rushing public is that while, according to schedule, other trains may be booked for a minute or two later there is not always the assurance that they will come to hand, and that several instances of this nature have not tended to heighten the public confidence. A train at the station is seemingly worth a dozen trains that may be blocked some where on the line, and when a overflowing car he has the blissful assurance, or hallucination, journey.

In all likelihood, the day will never come when at the rush hours the public will listen patiently to a suggestion to "take the next car." When once the microbe of "anything to get 'home" gets into the system it is difficult to expel it. A company of soldiers or a way of blocking people off might prevent this wild scramble for the first train, but the really exceldeaf ears.

really means little. Probably in ninety cases out of a hundred the next train will serve all purposes. It would be a great step gained therefore, if even a proportion of the anxious ones would sufficent agony of a few minutes' wait and perhaps go home with greater comfort. This is true of those who in other hours of the day, and often without pressing need, madly rush into the first crowded train because it happens to be an express, enabling them to save three or four minutes on the road.

But as long as the art of getting home in the shortest possible time with the greatest possible personal discomfort is popular with the people it is not to be expected that the populace will listen tolerantly to suggestions, however sensible and practical. Meanwhile the guards, who in general are a well mannered lot, must bear their troubles with dignity and patience and remember that a surging crowd is never a model of deportment and consideration. As for the occasional wise man, he will continue to keep his temper, preserve his equanimity and clothing, and, if possible, wait for the next car.

RACE SUICIDE.

Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, wife of the former vice-president of the United States, startled a big audience at the opening of the twentieth convention of the club women of Illinois which met in Bloomington the other day She said: "There is no thoughtful woman in America who has not been more than startled by the appeal for larger families While this appeal has been most opinions. This subject should occupy first pa e in the work of the women's clubs The size of the family is of less importance." There is mich sense in this remark. w.t. the great advance in medical knowledge, we are now rendering the death rate among infar ts very much less than formerly and consequently, population is increasing faster than at any former period. Sixty years ago there were in the United States only 20,000,000 of people. Now we have $5,000,000. Darwin has shown that a pair of elephants which increase but slowly. arriving at maturtiy at 30 years. having young only once in two homegoer finds himself safely, if years, living to the age of 100 uncomfortably, crowded into an years, and with the rate of increase stopped at 90 years, would in 750 years have a milthat he has fairly started on his lion descendants. From this it can be seen what is possible among human beings, provided each couple rear a large family. Already this question of overpopulation is taxing the wisest minds. Ballington Booth says they would and work they did. But we are up against it and we shall all this means hard work, no six soon be in the condition of China and Japan. The former with her 400,000,000 encourages infanticide and regards it as only a necessary effort to keep down the lent suggestion to wait a minute population, for every birth is a or two will fall on a multitude of menace to those now existing, rest must come and concluded to It is a very serious question in- leave the busy cares of the world for To the average traveler a few deed and it is complicated by the minutes at the end of the day fact that the American nation is my young helpers, as an apprentice practically dying out.

Creek runs straight across north end of pasture only 10 or 15 acres overflows; 7-room house; a lot of out buildings, sheds, cellar, 2 barns, etc. This is one of the greatest producing farms in Northeast Missouri. Corn will run from 60 to 80 bushels to the acre: 80 or 90 acres meadow, well fenced; plenty of water. There is a detached 80 that will go with this farm if wanted that has the largest and best saw timber of any 80 within 50 miles; a great many of the trees are 4 to 5 feet in diameter, and there is no better soil on earth. Will sell the 80; 6 1-2 miles from LaBelle. This farm is worth $60 per acre, but we have put price down to $46 for quick sale; want $5,000 down. There is no poor or rough land on this whole tract and the soil is extraordinary productsie. Come quick if you want it.

Ambitious Young People.

The Herald office force have been very much chagrined because some of the reporters turned in an item stating that a person, whose name we will not mention, had first place in the office during my absence. The fact of the business is that being reluctant to leave the care of the office upon them, we tried to secure assistance, and when the matter was pre sented to them they said, "you prepare certain articles for us and we will get the paper out and want no assistance." By dint of hard work the week before we did get the work far enough along that by good management and energy they went ahead. They deserve honor and encouragement for the honest assistance, labor and respect they have shown me.

People that best know me are ware of the fact that for thirty-one years my life has been a busy one. My education was self acquired not by rubbing out my sleeves or some college desk at some one else's ex pense. As a teacher in the public school we delighted in the district where parents and officers were abreast of the times, and felt that all unmarried young people even to twenty-five years of age should be and must be improving the mind, It was a pleasure to get these grown up boys and girls interested, for work hours, but all the time except what nature took for sleep and recreation.

Over three years straight out and a out work in the printing office has been trying. Since the first of the year, we have felt our nerves and strength giving away, and was well aware of the fact that a much needed a week.

I am pleased to say and proud of they are having a chance to be schooled in every department and any one employing them can be assured that they are ready and willing to try-they are no, I can'ts stuck in the mud, but with sufficient self confidence to bear them up, are ready and willing to work.

While some people are spending their time marking typographical errors against them, they are plodding on their way. More than once remarks in self praise to our discredit have reached our ears both directly and indirectly. But talk they may for talk is cheap, slurs they may cast out if they wish. But give me courageous, ambitious young people, willing to work, and we will make an honest effort to do what we can the best we can, with due respect for all classes and be charitable,

"My Wife's Family."

Many good shows have visited the Grand Opera House, but "My Wife's Family" is by far the best musical farce that has been seen in Linton for many a day. It drew a good house and made a hit that turned every person in the audience into a booster" for the play, and should Linton be fortunate enough to get a return date there is no doubt the 'standing room only" sign would be hung out early. The work of Edward Allas as Dr. Knott and T. Roy Barnes as Jack Gray was exceptionally good and kept the audience in a continual roar of laughter from the start to the finish and as funmakers they are hard to beat.

Miss Jessie Barrington as "My Wife" could not be better. She has a pleasing personality, one that wins you as soon as she steps on the stage. Her dresses, some of which are magnificent, are all chosen with excellent good taste. Miss Bessie Crawford as lie actress, got all that was possible out of the part and during her speciality in the last act held the audience captivated. Mabel Gray and Tom Linton as Arabella Nagg and Noah Nagg were good.

Fairy Plumb, Agnes Angle and Jack Conners play their respective parts well. In fact, the whole cast was one of the best seen here this season. "My Wife's Family" is a first-class production in every respect and the theatrical business would be great deal better both from the patrons and managerial standpoints, were there more like it on the road. -Linton Daily Call.

During the summer a request was sent out by the University authorities asking people interested in music to vote on the question, Who is the most eminent living musical composer of America? About ten thousand votes were cast and Mr. McDowell was the choice of an overwhelming majority. For this reason the program in connection with the exercises will be distinctly a McDowell program. The exercises are to be opened with an address by some eminent speaker on Monday afternoon. In the evening there will be a special musical program consisting of the lesser works of McDowell. Billy sat down to wait, and Janet was soon in the midst of her tollet. She donned her best brown frock and flower trimmed hat because she noticed that Billy had put on his gray suit and had his cane with him. They found the theater packed and cony seats. The noisy songs and tiresome dialogues which came before the handcuff king's appearance on the bill eemed interminable. No. 7 finally appeared—his number. He came out— not the strong, big man she had pictured, but a lithe, muscular foreigner, and they chained him hand and foot, socked and relecked the leg from and

DIVING AND SWIMMING TEST FOR REAR-ADMIRALS

ASHINGTON.—Great consternation is felt in the navy over the announcement said to have been made by Assistant Secretary Newberry that rear admirals must shortly undergo a test to show whether they can swim or not. In the army a test of whether colonels can ride horseback was re-cently made. Mr. Newberry's declaration in favor of a swimming test for admirals, however, is considered far worse, although the average colonel weighs several times more than his

The assistant secretary's plan is to have rear admirals dive from shore shore and swim to their ships. Many admirals who have not moved a wheel for years except from the navy department to the club are indignant. It is felt that what the assistant secretary is really proposing is a general hari-karl among the most eminent naval heroes of the age.

Nevertheless, the rear admirals accept Mr. Newberry's announcement as a fact against which there is no use

VAS George Washington a liar? Must another idol be shattered? se questions seem to be answered in the affirmative by official records mow musty with age but in a fairly good state of preservation. For years there has been a legend in Virginia that George Washington was seven times indicted for perjury. No one gave serious consideration to the ru-mors, unworthy of association with the beautiful childhood dream of the little hatchet and the cherry tree. A young man of inquisitive temperament, hearing the legend, made inquiry at the congressional library to ascertain whether any records gave it support. He was cited by the expert in charge to the court records of Fairfax county. There he discovered that Mc-Dowell's men, after the battle of Bull Run, ransacked the courthouse and carried away most of the records, but that one volume had recently been recovered through the executor of the estate of one of the Pennsylvania soldiers. This volume was carefully examined, and it was found that on May 21, 1760, the grand jury returned a presentment against George Washington for having dodged taxes on "a

.Washington was in good company, the presentment also naming George William Fairfax, William Mason and a number of other distinguished gentle-men of the day. At that time in the colony of Virginia two methods were in vogue for taxing property, both personal and real. Either the assessor was permitted to make the list or the subject under oath submitted a list As the presentment was returned against George Washington, it is evident that he made oath to the list of his property and failed to include "a wheeled carriage" of which he was possessed.

Washington, not being indicted, shows that the grand jury acted upon its own initiative, because had the matter been called to their attention by the prosecutor for the colony an indictment would have been returned. There is only one volume of the records of that time, and it does not show what became of the presentment. The negro owner will assert his right to hold the property under the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments and a merry race war is promised.

The Saved Dimes with a Little Ingenuity May Result in Beautiful Gowns-Some Examples of Possibilities.

The most doubting Thomasina has grudgingly admitted the proposition of dressing smartly upon dimes, at least in summertime when the vogue for cottons and their low cost make it possible. The present article, let us hope, will further enlighten her, and its photographs from life convince her that the scheme is no less workable in cold weather. Figures do not lie, and the camera is a truthful witness. Indeed, in the present instance it falls short of the full truth, since it gannot convey the charming color effects which distinguish the gowns it pic-tures, and which add so very much to their smartness. Even the figures submitted, moderate as they are, permit diminishment.

Bargain tables and special sales present decided advantages to the woman looking for values as expressed in money only. Her type is indeed their best customer. She seems unable to resist the temptation of buying whatever is cheap: but unless she always remembers to secure the other conditions requisite for full value—smartness, quality and adapta-bility—she has frequent cause to regret her nurchases

The white net dress, pictured in figure 1, bears testimony to the inter-esting results possible when homedressmaking and judicious buying combine forces. The gown, as illus-trated, is entirely correct for dinners and other functions where high cut evening dress is in order.

The model used for the gown here was selected because its groups of cord-shirrings bring out the full beauty of net, and help it to fall in graceful lines. The fulness from the shirrings may be so manipulated that it will round out undeveloped, figures, follow normal curves, or setten redundant ones with equal success. The yoke, Mandarin bands and cuffs were carefully fitted and then embroidered with tiny French ribbons in delicate pinks, Marie Antoinette gray, blues, and greens. The design is stamped on a paper underlay, and the ribbons drawn through, follow its outlines. Women who are able to sketch their own designs can, in doing so, save the amount charged in the estimate for the stamping. Floral and bow-knot motifs are used for ribbon-work, and as they are often seen on wall paper, cretonne, table damask, lace curtains. etc., women not gifted with the talent for drawing can easily make trac-ings from them and transfer these to the paper underlay. Enough net was left over to furnish a ruche for the foot of the nearsilk drop-skirt, much to its improvement. A few dimes may be scaled from the total cost by substituting a lining of net for the more costly nearsilk. The net is similar to that of the dress. Being 72 inches wide, 3½ yards will be ample. No other lining will be needed, the lingerie corset-cover and petticoat, or the two combined in one piece tak-

Illustration No. 2 is an attractive and refined-looking gown, carried out in silky voile of a charming tint of gray. Its style and character make it appropriate to wear to a ladies' luncheon, or "bridge;" for afternoon and informal evening calls; to church, lectures, concerts and the matinee. All told, its cost as shown in the estimate furnished below, is little over seven dollars. It is true the volle was secured at an exceptionally low figure, being picked up at a clearing sale; but it was merely one of a hun-dred other left-overs similarly reduced at the end of the season in or-

Filet net tinted to match the gown material is smarter than ever this season, and it may meet individual requirements better than white. Over 89,000 young people are indirectly under the training of Archbishop Farley. His parish schools have over 61,000 pupils and his academies and colleges nearly 6,500. Under him are 523 churches, chapels and missions and 1,149 priests, regular and secular.

LORD MAYOR OF LONDON

Sir John Charles Bell, who has just been elected lord mayor of London, will, when he is installed on Nov. 9, become the most powerful municipal officer in the world. Not only will he municipal officer in the world. Not only will be set he representative of more people than there are in the whole of Canada, but he will have several powers that are not usually granted to mayors. For instance, he can forbid King Edward setting foot in the city of London, a right which is recognized by the sovereign always asking permission before he enters. He can forbid troops to march through the city with bayonets fixed. He is regarded almost as a member of the cabinet, and is one of the first persons to w is announced the death of a sovereign and the brewer when he becomes lord mayor of London.

Sir John has already filled the office of high sheriff, but a sheriff's position is petty compared with that of the successor of the famous Dick Whittington. He has been since 1882 a member of the court of common council, and has filled many important chairmanships since then.

The new lord mayor is a prominent Freemason, being a member of the Grand Master Chapter in Royal Archmasonry. He is 63 years old. The new lord mayor is also high in the councils of several city companies. He is on the Court of the Haberdashers' company, a past master of the Glovers and of the Lawmakers and is on the livery of the Innoholders', Loriners' and Spectaclemakers' companies. Sir John is a member of the City Charlton, Junior Charlton, Ranelagh

NEGRO BISHOP AT RICHMOND

But one negro was entitled to a seat as member of the Episcopal general conference at its recent session in Richmond, Va., Rt. Rev. S. D. Ferguson, DD., DCL., missionary bishop of Cape Palmas, whose residence is Monrovia, Liberia, West Africa. He broke down race prejudice and took his seat in the chancel of the most exclusive church in the south, St. Paul's.

Bishop Ferguson is now the ranking missionary bishop of the American church in point of service. He was born in Charleston, S. C., Jan. 1, 1842, and was consecrated as a missionary bishop of the church in that city on June 2d, 1885.

It is the custom of the church, wherever prac ticable, for the missionary bishops of the various dioceses to attend the general convention which comes every three years, for the express purpose of placing before the convention the needs of the mission work in his field, and report the progress being made. Missionary bishops gathered at Richmond from all the fields where the American church maintains mission stations, Japan, China, Cuba and Mexico sending their quota, as well as Africa, all of the other missionary bishops being white men.

Bishop Ferguson attended the Bostan convention three years since was made much of.

With tact, and in a desire not to embarrass the committee of arrange ments, Bishop Ferguson made no application for quarters through the hospitality committee, but corresponded personally with the rector of one colored Episcopal church in Richmond, Rev. C. L. Somers of St. Philip's church

The congregation of St. Philip's was agitated for some time on the proposition of who should have the honor of entertaining a consecrated bishop of the American church. The honor fell to the senior warden of St. Philip's church, William C. Scott, a most respectable colored man, who owns and operates a barber shop.

With the exception of Bishop Holly of Hayti, Bishop Ferguson is probably the only Episcopal bishop of the colored race in the world.

Springfield.—Official reports made interest Bill Not included show that the new year opens with unprecedented prosperity and prospects at the University of Illinois. The number of students already regis-The number of students already registered is greater than ever before and has passed the 4,000 mark. Last year there were 3,949 students enrolled, an increase of almost 300 per cent. In ten years, which is accounted for by Dean David Kinley as partly because of a growing demand for the kind of education the institution offers and partly because of new departments. "It is true that there are plenty of "It is true that there are plenty of colleges," said Dean Kinley, "but no other offers exactly the kind of education that a student can find here in the liberal and practical subjects. The smaller colleges are offering the so-called old-fashioned education. No one, even of the larger colleges, offers the advantages we provide in en-gineering, agriculture and library sci-ence. This institution does not draw the life from the smaller colleges, however; their enrollment is increasing Even if it did, the fact would show that they are not giving the kind of education the people demand. In the enrollment for the last university year 52 states and territories and 14 foreign countries were represented, including the Hawaiian islands and the Philippines. Of the foreign countries, India and Mexico were represented by four each, the Argentine Republic by three, Norway, Japan and Canada by two each, while Spain, Russia, Holland, New Brunswick, Italy, Syria and Colombia had one The attendance from outside of Illinois was between ten and 11 per cent. of the whole. Trolley Steeping and Dining Cars.
The Illinois traction system is not only running sleeping cars between Springfield and East St. Louis regular ly every night, but is also managing ilmited trains between the principal cities on quite frequent schedules, running cars with individual chair facilities and a complete buffet lunch, which is at least as good as that served by the Pullman company on short runs. The interurban trolley sleeping car is a novelty in its way, at least to most people. Those in use on the line between Springfield and East St. Louis, while peculiar in their construction, are entirely comfortable. The company has adopted a type which economizes room to a remarkable extent, but which may or may not bear the test of continued service. These limited sleeping cars are built to use as chair cars in the daytime, the chairs being arranged in pairs on either side with a fixed compartment to a conference of the governor and between each chair. To see the porter converting a chair car into a sleep the 17 institutions and the board of ing car is so much of a curlosity that many people are willing to make the many people are willing to make the many people are willing to make the journey for this experience alone. The two chairs spread out to make the foundation of a bed. The arms of the chair are dropped to the side to form additional width of support for the mattress. Then two movable wooden screens are unexpectedly pulled out of the floor of the car and fastened at the top, forming two-thirds of the curtain between the berth and the aisle. The barrier between the public and the sleeper is completed by a curtain forming the other third, thus making the berth practically a compartment. There are upper berths which are formed in much the same way as in the Pullman car, but which must be intended for small mer

Children between the ages of 14 and 18, if employed necessarily and in good faith, cannot be compelled by the superintendent of public instruction to return to school. Attorney General Stead delivered this opinion to Edgar T. Davis, chief factory intor. Neither can the superintend ublic instruction refuse an age ool certificate in cases where and school certificate in cases where the law in all other respects has been compiled with to a child between those ages upon the sole ground that the superintendent is of the opinion that the child will not be employed necessarily and in good faith.

A revolt has cropped out in the as-sembly against the refusal of the lead-ers to include in the program for the "hang-over" session a bill requiring state treasurers to turn the interest on state funds into the public exchequer. In the house, particularly, many members are up in arms and are actively agitating an interest bill movement. A measure covering the subject is to be introduced and the battle will be on without delay. From all indications the fight will be in a large measure between senate and house. Last winter Gov. Deneen recommended that the legislature take action on the matter of interest on public moneys. A bill was introduced in the senate, but it was killed by the favorite process of slashing away the vital parts, reaching the house in such shape that it was tabled by that body. Since that time, however, an object lesson has been given the legislators by John F. Smulski, state treasurer, who has voluntarily turned into the treasury interest to the amount of $70,000 for the nine months ending September 30. This is the first inter est money ever turned over to the state by a treasurer, and it looms up as such a substantial gain that Gov.
Deneen in his message of October 8 again recommended the passage of a bill making it obligatory upon state treasurers to hand over the interest. This suggestion was ignored by the senate leaders in making up their pro-gram, but now that the waterway question is out of the way many earn est lawmakers are getting together with a view of kicking a hole in the program of the upper house. They argue that the time is ripe for the passage of a public interest law, particularly as an act was passed last winter that raises the salary of the state treasurer from $3,500 to $10,000. The large bonds which the treasurer has to furnish are paid for by appropriations from the legislature. The salary increase, of course, does not become effective until the next set of state officers is elected, but the next incumbent of the treasuryship will get $10,000 a year as flat salary.

Starts Business Administration.

Having arranged for repairs and improvements and new buildings at state charitable institutions and hav-ing brought about a modern system of doctoring and nursing, thus giving the best care to the wards of the state, the state board of charities has now turned its attention to business administration. At its October meeting the board adopted a resolution for the appointment by its president of a commission to study the situation for a year and report next October (1908) is found in these words: "The high est efficiency, with suitable economy requires concentrated business management and extended supervision over other institutions. The commit tee is appointed to formulate a plan of joint estimate and purchase and for such other modifications of the present organization of the state charities as may appear for the best interests of the wards of the state." Dr. Frank Billings will be chairman of the com-mission. Public spirited men, who have achieved success in business and are willing to give the state the benefit of their experience, will form a part of the commission.

Committee Works on New Legislation.

A committee of senators have arrived here to go to work on primary legislation, the wheel tax bill, a state architect's bill, and the international improvement commission measure, with the hope of having them ready for action by Wednesday. The lieutenant governor held that no bills othor than the deep waterway measures could be considered in the senate un-til the house had acted on the senate joint resolution opening the session for further business. Because of this second reading, and all other bills in the senate, were sent to the committee for consideration. Mr. Sherman said that the action of the house in proceeding regardless of the provis of the resolution by which the legislaof the resolution by which the legisla-ture met in adjourned session was "parliamentary indecency." Recent publication of a story to the effect that applicants for automobile licenses have been delayed by the congestion of business in the office of the secretary of state has aroused the indignation of the employes in that department of the state government. That the tale was promptly shown to be untrue has but modified the degree of their resentment, for the force in Secretary James A. Rose's office prides itself upon keeping its business up to date, and is rather touchy on this point.

Responsibility for the story rests with certain Chicago persons who were arrested for failing to comply with the state law. They found it a handy excuse to blame the office at Springfield for delaying their applications, and until the trick was dis-covered the police were deceived. In-quiry at Springfield developed the fact that applications for licenses were being filled by return mail as rapidly as they were received, and now the excuse is no longer accepted.

The incident has served to call attention to the business in the office of the secretary of state, and its enormalists. mous growth in recent years. Had there been some basis for the stories of the delinquent automobile operators it would have been no occasion for surprise, for the amount of correspondence now handled in the of-fice is very heavy, and but for the system in force could soon accumulate to the point of congestion. The rule of the office, however, is to clear up the mail every day. No letter that can be intelligently answered on the day it is received is carried over.

Department Work Increases The office of secretary of state has always been an important department in the state government, but the office has been growing in recent years and the duties have been multiplying until it has quite outgrown its original limits. Every legislature adds some new work or responsibility and the new duty is accepted as a compliment to the efficiency of the department. No commission for the inauguration of a new state enterprise feels that it is properly organized until the secretary of state has been drafted into its service in some capacity.

In addition to attending to the duties originally attached to the office, the secretary of state serves on the following boards: State canvassing board.

Commission of state contracts. Commission of the department of Trustees of Lincoln homestead. Trustees of Lincoln monument.

Trustees of Natural History Mu He has served on numerous boards and commissions created for temporary work, such as the erection of buildings, the compilation of statutes, collection of statistics, and the like. He is ex officio the state librarian, and one of his important duties is to keep the state library up to date and to carry out the purpose for which it was created. The present secretary, Mr. Rose, has adopted the policy of making the institution a complete reference library, valuable from a practical as well as a literary standpoint.

Has Charge of State House.

As custodian of the capitol and the grounds surrounding it, the secretary of state operates a big heating and lighting plant, cares for the elevator service in the building and polices the great structure. As a member of the board of contracts he assists in making purchases of all sorts, and because of his intimate acquaintance with the needs of the departments is expected to exercise more than ordinary judgment in passing on proposi-

Much of the work of the secretary of state is the result of growth, rather than of statutes. The office offers er than of statutes. The office offers unlimited possibilities for an efficient official, and Secretary Rose, has been very active in the way of finding things to do. An instance is the voluntary supervision which he has undertaken in the case of investment concerns operating in the state, by which a good many millions have been saved to poor people.

Watches "investment" Companies.
Under the law the secretary is to charter all corporations except banks, insurance companies, and building and loan associations. He also licenses foreign corporations to do business in fusing them, but the secretary, be-lieving their plans impossible and-fraudulent, declined to act. Then they went to other states, organized, and came into Illinois under the foreign corporations act, whereupon the sec-retary of state began hombarding them through the newspapers.

them through the newspapers. The campaign aroused the postofthe department which issued fraud orders against the leading concerns and checked the evil, although it has not been able to wipe out the business altogether. Frequently the ofthe for the secretary can be of subtantial benefit to the public while acting outside its strict legal limitations, and the secretary is now expected to atand between the public and fraudutand between the public and fraudu-ent corporations. This is a gigantic task, but by frequent examination and constant inquiry, the books are ept pretty free.

Receives 20,000 Reports a Year.

The corporations chartered through secretary of state's office include mercantile and manufacturing conns, steam and electric roads and lephones. To these notices are sent ader the anti-trust law, twice each ear, and reports are required to be eturned. More than 20,000 of these ports are received annually, and for ach of them a record must be made. he information upon which proc ngs are brought to annul the char-ters of delinquent and illegal corpora-tions is furnished from the office of the secretary of state to the attorney

The present secretary was a suc sful practicing lawyer before he the department has experienced lit-tle difficulty on this account in recent years. Several cases have been car-ried to the supreme court and in every instance the department has been stained.

Department Pays Own Way.

The department of the secretary of tate is one of the few governmental epartments which pays for itself. There has been an immense increase n the business and income of the of-ice under the present administration. In 1896 the records showed that the receipts of fees for the previous four years amounted to $356,720.19. Several first four years in office, and at the ent of his initial term he showed to-tal fees of $1,098,685.80, an increase of $741,965.61. early part of Secretary Rose's

With the increase in the business the receipts have continued to increase and the amount reported for the four years ending last September was $1,516,805.34. The fees for the six months ending March 31, 1907, amounted to $368,313.10, and is indicative of the big increase which is coming under recent enactments and rul-

The figures are more significant when it is known that under the pres-ent administration the office has grown to the point where it sustains itself, pays the salary of the secre-tary and every man in his employ, meets all the printing and stationery bills of the state departments and state boards, and, to date, has earned a surplus of over $1,800,000.

Has Systematic Bookkeeping.

To handle the business represented by the large sums now passing through the office of the secretary of state requires an elaborate, comprehensive and methodical system of bookkeeping. The department not only turns money into the state treasury for distribution, but it also distributes which the secretary is a member. Each account must be kept separate and must show in minute detail the origin and disposition of the money it checks in the accounting department, and the records are so accurately kept that it is possible to trace every dol-lar received and expended. The best indication of the completeness and ac curacy of the system in force is the fact that in years there has been no loss and no scandal has attached to the department.

The business methods which have obtained and have been followed with the growth of the office are responsi-ble for its success. The Index department alone has saved thousands of dollars in time and work. Here is to be found the record of every public document in the custody of the secre-tary, and there is little to learn about the affairs of the state government which cannot be obtained through it. Mails Millions of Documents.

One of the important divisions One of the important divisions of the office of secretary of state is the document department. In the biennium ending September 30, 1906, the department received 6,309,876 copies of documents, and distributed 6,096,239 copies. Of the latter number, 249,949 copies were sent to citizens of Illinois, 396,747 copies to members of the general assembly, state offices, boards and institutions. It received and distributed 5,124 supreme court reports. tributed 5,124 supreme court reports.

These documents were distributed by express; mail, and freight, there being foreign corporations to do business in the state. When the so-called "investment" concerns applied to him for corporation papers a few years ago, there was no warrant in law for reAnd the state of t

Trial Shows That Gossip of Women Was Responsible for Charge.

Decatur.—What gossiping women can do has been demonstrated by the Magill trial. They caused a woman to commit suicide here and an innocent man and woman to be tried for murder as an outcome of the suicide. All this was proved by the Magill trial. Acting under instructions from Judge Cochran, the jury returned a verdict acquitting Frederick Magili and his wife, Faye Graham Magill, of the charge of murdering Mrs. Pet Magill, the first wife of Magill. It was proved that the whole case was the outcome of women's gossip.

In his instructions the judge said the state had failed to prove the corpus delicti. The verdict was greeted with cheers, despite the efforts of the court to maintain order.

On May 30 last, Mrs. Pet Magill was found dead in her home at Clinton, Ill., and a post mortem examination held six weeks after her death showed that she had been suffocated by chloroform. On July 5 in Denver, Col., Frederick Magill, her husband, and Miss Faye Graham, a young woman who had been a close friend of the family, were married. Four days later in San Diego, Cal., Magill and his second wife were arrested on a charge of murdering the first Mrs. Magill. They were brought back to Clinton and se-cured a change of venue to this city. In the trial the state claimed that Magill and Miss Graham by their conduct

This charge was made before the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs, at the convention here, by Mrs. Hanna Solomon, of Chicago,, in the course of an address on the treatment of the dependent and delinquent girls by the
