ORMER SULLIVAN YOUNG MAN IS BAULT WANTED BY AUTHORI. TIES IN CALIFORNIA.

According to advices recieved from Sacramento, Cal., "Cracky" Mc-Intyre, a former Mattoon and Sullian young man, is badly wanted out n that city, as the authorities are said to have several charges of swin-dling filed against him. The alleged swindle was in connection with the Sylvester Mining company, a little scheme originating solely within the brain of "Cracky," so it is said, and after he had fleeced as many people as he could he departed hastily east, where he is now supposed to be engaged in the same sort of occupation.

"Cracky," who is a son of S. C. McIntyre, formerly of this city but now of Kankakee, will be remembered by a number of Sullivan people, especially those who came within the reach of the young man's plausible tales and listened thereto.

Illinois Sende Great Protest.

The 500,000 trades unionists of Illinois, through their officers, sent protests to President Roosevelt against the sentencing of President Gompers, etary Morrison and Member of attive Board Mitchell of the Amerin Federation of Labor, and asking m to use his influence to prevent their imprisonment. The communication is as follows:

Springfield, Ill.—Hon. Theodore Rossevelt, president of the United States, Washington, D. C. In the name of 500,000 trades unionists of the state of Illinois, we desire to protest against the decision of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, committing to servitude those great committing to servitude those great committed and approximations of the pers and representatives of the circan labor movement, Samuel apers, John Mitchell and Frank rison. State Meeting of Eagles Planned.

The annual state meeting of the Eagles will be held in Springfield next May, and members of the order will confer at an early date with the chamber of commerce to arrange dates for the holding of the convention. It is desired not to conflict with any other meeting at that time. The local com which has charge of the state convention includes Henry Kramer, Harry Vandervort, Joseph Hohl, William Cunningham, Frank Schaeffer and Sam Trimble. The committee will leave nothing undone to make the coming convention the largest ever held. aerie will be organized at Pekin. Word has been received from the Black Eagle aerie that they will assist in its organization, which will take place shortly after the holidays.

Need Millions for Charity.

Superintendents of all the state charitable institutions and many of the trustees and other officers gathered in Springfield, and in a lengthy conference outlined the needs of the different institutions, which will later be embodied in a report to form a basis for appropriations desired from the coming general assembly. Gov. Dencen, Secretary Graves of the state bearen secretary craves of the state board of charities, and President Moulton of the civil service commis-sion attended the conference. Approxi-mately $5,500,000 will be asked.

Springfield.—At a meeting of the Larger Pavillon for Swine Asked.

Swine breeders of Illinois will peticinted by Lieut.-Gov. Sherman at the propriation of $110,000 for a swine pe vilion on the state fair grounds. A resolution to this end was adopted at the annual meeting of the association held in Tuscola. The organization also will ask the legislature for a suitable amount for the manufacture of serum to stamp out cholers among hogs. The sheds that are now used for swine at the state fair grounds are not large enough to accommodate the large num-ber of exhibits, and the matter of asking for an appropriation for a large pavilion has been under consideration for some time. The state association will send representatives to Springfield to ask the general assembly to grant the amount asked for the structure. Cholera has caused to be destroyed countless numbers of hogs in Illinois during the past ten days and the proposed serum factory would sup-ply farmers with a substance that would prevent or cure the deadly disclosed at Tuscola with a banque which was attended by 60 delegates. C. W. Seybold of Horace was elected president for the ensuing year and C. R. Doty of Charleston was named sec retary. L. E. Frost of Springfield, W. C. Henkle of Decatur, C. E. Stone of Armstrong, S. H. Kaylor of Macon were elected vice-president.

Today pure air in unlimited quantities and exercises of all sorts are prescribed. Hence in planning the family wardrobe, whether for the sick or the well, the new methods of preventing or attacking disease must be considered.

How to keep the body warm and the bodroom filled with pure air is one household problem which can be solved largely in the sewing room. It is generally agreed that with warm bleeping, attire and warm feet, all unter ample covering, the cold room will work good instead of harm to the bleeper.

This means a winter increase maissin, nainsock and dimity night-gowns, with low necks and elbow bleaves. A famous specialist in bronchial and lung troubles says that the low-necked short-sleeved nightdress worn in cold weather is a common cause of colds which if not fatal are deep-seated and difficult to cure. The proper nightdress for cold weather is the simplest model made in wash flannel, a pretty model for which is

With Party Attire.

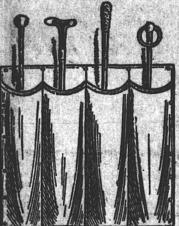

All the little novelties which go to finish the dainty toilet of a little maid are interesting to loving mothers and friends. The very newest idea is to embroider a hair ribbon. The ordinary five-inch ribbon is used in taffeta or satin, as the case may be, and a design is made at the mitered end, while the buttonhole stitch keeps the edge from raveling. The idea is pretty, par ticularly when a sash is also made to match the hair ribbon. Of course, one would not embroider an ordinary hair ribbon intended for school wear, but for party attire it is just a little to for little maidens may not wear the ments and trimmings appropriate for older sisters. The embroidery is done in file and Persian floss—the for-mer used to carry out the design, the latter to work the buttonhole stitch.

PROLONG LIFE OF UMBRELLA. Shelter Case Better Than a Stand In the Hall.

Umbrellas, when not in use, are often more hardly treated than when they are actually open and out of doors, whether in rain or in sunshine. Left in a hall-stand, which, must of necessity be dusty, and very frequent ly torn by the ferrule of sticks or other umbrellas, they sometimes have a very hard time of it, and quickly grow shabby and soiled. In our sketch, we give a suggestion for a useful wall-pocket, to serve as a sunshade holder, and to be fastened into the back of a wardrobe or cupboard. This pocket is so flat that it will not interfere at all with the various gar-ments hanging in the same place, as these will be suspended, of course, these will be suspended, or course, from pegs which are put in much higher up. It should be made in brown holland, with stitched tapes between each division, and it might easily be fastened to the back of the cupboard with large drawing-pins or brass-headwith large drawing-pins or brass-head-ed nails. Each pocket is bound at the top with ribbon.

The shocks on the eastern coast of Sicily sunk vessels and inundated the lower part of Catania. It is known that number of people were killed at that place, but the rushing waters carried everything before them and caused such an indescribable confusion that it will be impossible for some time to estimate the damage and the lives

The Italian government proceeded energetically to relieve the widespread distress, concentrating at the points of greatest need troops and engineers. Five Hundred Boats Sunk

At Catania the panic-stricken people, fearing new shocks, absolutely are camping on the squares which are free from water, and the surrounding country. The tidal wave sunk 500 boats there and did great damage to several large vessels and steamers. including the Austrian steamer Buda.

Not only did Catania suffer from the effects of a tidal wave, but a similar body of water inundated the hand-some streets of Messina which flank the harbor, covering them with a thick layer of mud which rendered more difficult the succoring of the wounded, many of whom could be seen lying under the wreckage. It is reported that the villages of Faro and Ganzirri, adjoining Messina, have disappeared. The effects of the earthquake were agof gas, the flames which swept along several of the streets adding terror

For a period the town of Messina and the whole province of Reggio were completely isolated through interruptions to the telegraph and telephone and land slides that obstructed the railways. Absolutely nothing was heard from Reggio throughout the day. while the first news from Messina came in the form of a dispatch which a torpedo boat, flying at full speed along the coast of the peninsula, carried from point to point, always finding the wires down until it reached Nicotera, where the telegraph lines were found to be intact. From this point the dispatch was sent. It briefly stated that the situation was des-perate and after summarizing the imensity of the catastrophe, end with the announcement that Cant. Passino, commander of the local station for torpedo boats, was buried under the debris after having, with other officials, performed heroic work in trying to save others.

UNION LABOR LEADERS GIVEN PRISON TERMS

Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison Sentenced to Twelve, Nine and Six Months Respectively and Severely Scored in the Bucks Stove Case.

Washington.—Twelve months in fall for Samuel Gompers, president; nine months for John Mitchell, one of the vice-presidents, and six months for vice-presidents, and six months for Frank Morrison, secretary, all of the American Federation of Labor, was the sentence imposed by Justice Wright of the supreme court of the Samuel Gompers.

District of Columbia Wednesday for contempt of court in violating an order previously issued enjoining them from placing on the "Unfair" or don't patronize" list the Bucks Stove & Range Company of St. Louis, Mo.

All three of the defendants were in court when sentence was pronounced. and notice of an appeal to the court of appeals of the District of Columbia at once was filed. Compers being reeased on $5,000 bond; Mitchell $4,000 and Morrison on $3,000. In addition to the wife and daughter of Gompers, there were present a number of local labor leaders, and others who vere attracted by the notice that a decision of the famous case would be announced. Mr. Gompers' family were visibly affected Gompers Weeps When Sentenced. With tears coursing down his own cheeks, President Compers heard the order of the court which condemned him to prison for a year. Both Mitch ell and Morrison seemed stunned by the sentence, although Mitchell appeared to be the least concerned.

Asked if he had anything to say wh entence should not be prono President Compers declared that he had not consciously violated any law. There was much he would like to say, he said, but he could not do it at that time. He added, however, that "this is a struggle of the working people of our country and it is a struggle of the working people for the right.

Mitchell and Morrison confined hemselves to an indorsement of what Compers had said.

The decision of Justice Wright, which consumed two hours and 20 minutes in reading, was one of the most scathing arraignments that ever came from the bench in this city.

"Everywhere," the court said, "all over, within the court and out, utter, rampant, insolent defiance is heralded and proclaimed; unrefined insult, coarse affront, vulgar indignity measures the litigant's conception of the tribunal's due, wherein his cause still pends." The law's command has been, pends." The law's command has been, he said, to "stand! Hands off, until justice for this matter can be ascertained," but, he said, there had been conflict a studied, determined, defiant conflict "precipitated in the light of open day, between the decrees of a tribunal ordained by the government of the federal union, and of the tribunals of another federation grown up in the land." One or the other, he declared, must succumb, "for those who would unlaw the land are public enemies."

Says Customers Were intimidated.

The customers of the stove company, the court said, had been intimidated, browbeaten and coerced out of their business relations with their our their business relations with their cus tomers "by direct interference with and boycott of their (the customers') trade relations with their own custom ers and the public generally.

Following an exhaustive discussion of conspiracies in restraint of trade, Justice Wright said:

"From the foregoing it ought to seem apparent to thoughtful men that the defendants to the bill, each and all of them, have combined together for the purpose of:

"1. Bringing about the breach of

John A. Mitchell.

plaintiff's existing contracts with

"2. Depriving plaintiff of property (the value of the good will of its business) without due process of law.
"3. Restraining trade among the several states. "4. Restraining commerce among the everal states.

The ultimate purpose of the defendants, the court said in this connection, was unlawful, their concerted project an offense against the law, and, it added, they were guity of crime.

ETHEL ROOSEVELT'S DEBUT

SHE MAKES HER BOW TO SO-CIETY AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

President's Younger Daughter is introduced to the Fashionable World at a Brilliant Ball.

Washington.-In the historic east room of the White House, beautifully decorated for the occasion, President Roosevelt's youngest daughter, Ethel, Monday night made her formal bow to society. Preceding the dancing in the east room, which began at ten o'clock, Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Roosevelt received the invited guests in the blue room Miss Roosevelt's gown was of soft white satin trimmed with crystals, while that of her mother was of dark blue satin.

Seldom, if ever, has the east room presented a more attractive picture. Seated on a platform at the north end of the room was the marine band-orchestra, whose brilliant scarlet uniforms against a background of green formed a rich frame for the beautiful color scheme lavishly painted in the center of the room by the handsome gowns of the fair debutantes present. The invited guests numbered about 400, only unmarried members of the set participating in the Stirling was not in the state where the crime was committed. Hence legal formalities were necessary before he could be taken to Philadelphia. Donaghy made an attempt to break the record in the matter of requisitions. He took a special train to Harrisburg, went to the executive mansion and roused Gov. Stone from a sound sleep in order to get his signature on the papers. From Harrisburg he hastened back to Trenton, only to find that some over-willing lawyer had filed an objection to the removal of the prisoner. Although trivial, it took several hours to overcome. But in spite of all the obstacles, Donaghy complied with all the formalities and had his prisoner in the Philadelphia city hall in just 32 hours.

Three prisoners were now in custody. Could they be proven guilty? Two were silent. Stirling loudly pro-

Ivory was short in stature, with skin as black as anthractic coal, and very repulsive features. Criminologists pronounced him to be the lowest type of the uneducated negro. The detectives resorted to every device known to the profession to force a confession from the man. Finally, after an hour of the "sweating" he blurted out:

"Well, I done told you I was there, but it wasn't me that struck the blow." He was put in a cell and Donaghy and his associates started out for more evidence. They obtained a description of the watch that had been stolen from Prof. White. The number of the case was 39,876, and that of the movement 915,938. These numbers were tetlegraphed to every pawnbroker and every watchmaker in the city.

They agreed with him, and three black-hearted scoundrels fol-lowed the unsuspecting teacher. It was to arrest every colored man found in or near any railroad station, ferry house or freight yard within the city limits. It was the biggest dragnet ever spread by the departmen Donaghy, in the meantime, continued his investigations near the scene of the murder.

Several conclusions were forced upon him. One was that the murder was committed for money and that the murderers were startled and ran away before they secured all of their booty before they secured all of their booty. first duty as an ensign was at the Charlestown navy yard, where he remained three years. After three more years on the Asiatic station he was assigned to the work in which he became famous. His first command in coast survey work was in 1875. He at once attracted world-wide attention, and his special knowledge in matters relating to that branch of naval science won instant recognition. The military record of Gen. Young is one of the most brilliant in the history of the United States and his success was achieved only by hard work and indomitable courage. He never innew what the word defeat meant. As a tactician in army maneuvers he was without a peer, and it was for this reason that he was placed at the head of the army college.

Gen. Young first entered the army as a private in the Tweifth Pennsylvania volunteers, and five months later was captain of the company. A year later he was promoted to the grade of major. His advancement for meritorious and brave conduct in action was fast, until the end of the war, and when he was mustered out of the service he held the rank of colonel. He was also brevetted brigadier general for conspicuous gallantry. When the civil war was over he entered the regular army, and his wonderful record on the western frontier in squelching many Indian uprisings with cavalry forces are bright shining spots in his brilliant career.

Upon the outbreak of the Spanish war Col. Young was given the rank of brigadier general of volunteers and assigned to duty at Las Guasimas, Cubs, where the first battle of the Rough Riders took place, and where President Roosevelt distinguished himself. Before the close of the war, Gen. Young had been honored with the rank of major general of volunteers, which rank died with the volunteer army in 1899. He was made a brigadier general in the regular army and sent to the Phillippines. Then followed the daring and successful campaign in Luxon, conducted under the direction of Gen. Young, whose cavalry scattered and broke up the insurgent organizations effectually.

Upon his return from the Phillippines Gen. Young was promoted to major general to succeed Gen. Nelson A. Miles, and selected by Secretary Root to be the president of the war college. He will make his home in the national capital.

When this precious document was presented to the various consular officials located by the different governments at LaGuayra, they promptly signed it, thereby giving their official support to a point blank lie that was to be spread abroad to the trading world outside. All but Consul Moffatt. He declined to attach his signature or the seal of his consulate to any such certificate, and he had backbone enough to stick to it, even when he was threatened with the cancellation of his exequator.

Up to the present time no order has been issued ordering the young consul to give up his job and hurry home, and there are no symptoms that any such action is pending. In fact it looks very much as though Mr. Moffatt had bluffed the government to a standstill.

MILK FOR BABES-BUT-TERMILK FOR ADULTS

All authorities on diet say that milk is a perfect food. This is true in a sense; and in another it is alto-gether untrue and misleading.

The natural food of the infant is mother's milk. But the appalling mortality of infants is due chiefly to the use of cow's milk, carrying the seeds of disease from the cow, the air and water, and planting them in a soil made favorable by improper feeding, lack, of fresh air, bathing and ex-Not even cereal starch kills more infants between the ages of one and six than does milk in the first two

Cow's milk differs materially from the infant's natural food, containing twice as much proteid and only about half as much sugar, but the danger lies more in the contamination of the milk sold in the cities. Fortunately good work is being done in many places to remedy this evil.

Milk is called the perfect food be-cause it contains all the elements nec-essary for the growth of the infant, and in the proper proportion. But the physical constitution and developmen of the infant differ much from tho of the adult, and the food should dif-

The growth of the infant in the first six years is rapid, and a large proportion of lime is necessary to build the bony framework. Milk is in this respect an appropriate food for the infant and inappropriate for the adult. The lime of milk being little needed for maintaining the bony framework of the adult, is largely deposited in the arteries, contributing to the distinctive disease of old age hardening of the arteries.

The prime cause of hardening of the arteries, which is also a cause of "heart failure" and of certain forms of insanity, is auto-intoxication, or selfpoisoning, resulting from the ab-sorption of waste matter from the lower part of the alimentary canal, of which I shall have more to say in deal-ing with "Bread," in a subsequent ar-

Deficiency of iron in the blood of the Denciency or iron in the blood of the adult is serious; the percentage of iron in cow's milk is small, corresponding to the nervous inactivity of the infant. In this particular milk is a very unsatisfactory adult diet, though it sustains life indefinitely.

But the unsuitability of milk to the adult is more evident on comparing the infant with the adult anatomy and physiology: In the infant, for instance, the upper part of the alimentary canal is almost a straight tube, allowing the milk to pass quickly to the intestine, which is adapted to its digestion. The adult stomach is a deeply curved pouch, which in certain deeply curved pouch, which in certain abnormal conditions retains the food for several bours longer than the proper time for digestion. The fer-mentation of milk alone is not always serious, but the fermentation of meat cereals, and fruits in the stomach, through the agency of milk, leads to serious results.

is the mother of 16 children, and he has a brother who is the father of 15. Including brothers and sisters, uncles and aunts and cousins, there are 148 living persons of the Fern blood in the Hawaiian islands.

The patriarch and progenitor of this clan was James Fern, an Englishman who had fought under Wellington through the wars of Napoleon and was a veteran of the battle of Waterloo. He came to the Sandwich islands, as they were the death of Kamehameha the Great He brought and lettuce readily supply from It has been found that persons living exclusively on milk lack "sand," a quality which the infant never needs to display, since it is absolutely de-In flesh-cating animals the stomach

The de-velopment of the food tube indicates the food adapted to the animal. Although the infant digestive organs are better adapted to milk than the adult's, they are not perfectly adapted to cow's milk. To feed a dog or a child of two years on "what we eat our-selves" indicates a sympathetic but thoughtless disposition.

Sterilized or boiled milk is open to the same objection as roasted peanuts Its vitality, its real life-giving qualities are largely destroyed.

It is most unfortunate that our peo ple are ignorant of the value of goat's milk, especially for infant feeding. The goat is the healthiest of all ani-The goat is the healthlest of all animals and the slowest to degenerate when domesticated. Rarely, if ever, is the goat known to contract tuberculosis or any other disease. The milk is superior in every way to cow's, and the poorest can own a "poor man's cow," which can be fed on the potnto peelings, cabbage leaves or anything else that is clean.

Hardly any other food is compatible with milk, except uncooked, whipped eggs, rice or toasted bread. Flesh meat, being a stomach food, is our could represent the story inharmonious with milk.

The writer has recently made sev-al days' tests of an exclusive milk-let on himself and others, carefully scording results. A change from a ordinary mixed diet to any mon-dlet is beneficial, and milk is not an exception. But the benefits de-let from the milk diet which have cently been much advertised should credited to the monodist, avoiding a injurious effects of mixing several compatible foods at the same meal. compatible foods at the same mean qually satisfactory results can be lown from many other monodiets— ren the peanut, which is the most incentrated of all foods, containing a excess of albumen. Great gains are been recorded from exclusive lets of beans, oatmeal, wheat, etc., as ell as milk, pursued for 60 days or Prof. Metchnikoff, head of the Pasour institute, who has made most raiseworthy investigations into the es of our early decay, has conaded that the failure of the average an to live his natural term of life years, is due to the development pathogenic germs in the lower part tiphe food tube from improperly diested, superfluous food, and recom-sends the use of buttermilk as an stidote.

The chief causes of the offending ditions in the colon, the large intesine, leading to a constant poisoning of the stream of life, are: Too much ood, eaten hurriedly; too much starch and not enough fruit, and bad combi-nations of foods, good in themselves. Buttermilk is not a natural corrective of these abnormal conditions, although it no doubt serves as an antidote, nor is the "internal bath," good in a way, the true remedy; the cause should be

It has been said that "wine is the milk of age," and of unfermented wine this is true. The grape contains much sugar, acid and iron, which are de-dicient in milk. The most noted case of prolonged life in history, that of Cornaro, the Venetian nobleman in the ixteenth century, was due to a uniform diet, consisting chiefly of unfer-mented wine with an egg daily. The es supplied the fat, sulphur and al-umen deficient in the "light wine," grape juice. Broken down at 40 by dulgence in eating and drinking, Cor so lived to be more than 100 by simliving. day in your own kitchen. And are is nothing better for digestive orders, and especially for intestinal publes, or as a substitute in infant ding, in certain cases.

You can get at the drug store tab-acts containing the lactic acid bac-terium culture that will convert sweet wilk into full cream buttermilk by simply dropping a tablet into a quart cottle of milk and maintaining the proper temperature, according to the instructions. Not only because this full cream buttermilk contains the full cream buttermilk contains the fat in emulsified form is it better than the outtermilk you buy of the buttermilk man, but because the lactic acid bacterium prevents the development of injurious bacteria in the milk. This is important in the case of infants. ers infantum, some forms of arrhosa and perhaps typhoid can be olded in this way. Here is the most germ theory yet made, a boon for in-fant humanity, a recovery in some defant humanity, a recovery in some de-gree of the loss due to departing from nature in infant feeding as a result of departing from nature in other

It has long been known that butter milk is a valuable food medicine— even when soured by lightning. We can not always command the thunder, but science has discovered how to make buttermilk without a churn and without lightning, and without sepa-rating the butter. Butterless butter-milk is good, full-cream buttermilk is better in most cases.

Cow's milk is digested by the infant with difficulty, often resulting in complete breakdown of the digestive and nervous system; but the adult digestive and the country of the co tive evetem is not so well adapted to the dispetten of milk and hence flata-lence and absolute revulsion often result from its continued use. But buttermilk causes no such difficulties, because it is in a sense largely pre-digested, the coarser curds of the sein in cow's milk being finely

This removes the greatest objection to cow's milk as a diet for infants and as an ideal monodlet for adults in severe stomach and bowel troubles.

A certain amount of fat is necessary to the best conditions for normal nutrition, and fat is about 2½ times more valuable as a heat and energy producer than other forms of carbon: and of the fats, butter is the most easily assimilated, except peanut and olive oil. But emulsified as the fat is in milk, it is much more easily assimilated than as butter. For this reason, and for others, the new way of making buttermilk gives a much more nutritious product and more digestible, especially for the infant.

Cow's milk cannot be made identical with the infant's natural food, but it with the infant's natural food, but it can be approximated to it. The chief difficulty to be overcome is to adapt the large curds that tend to remain in the stomach longer than they should, as the development of the calf's stomach requires that its food shall have a much heavier curd than that remains and digestion is more important. The use of buttermilk tablets obviates this difficulty, besides overcoming other objections to the use of cow's milk. But the objection naturally arises that soured milk is not natural. The reply is that cow's milk is not natural. Certainly tests of buttermilk have proved it were astiffactory.
