A garter snake saw a bicycle tire on the ground that had a hole in it. The snake crawled into the hole and just as its tail was disappearing a black snake saw it and catching it by the tail began to swallow it chasing it around the inside of the tire. When the black snake's tail disappeared through the hole the garter snake began to swallow it, and each swallowed the other "intire."

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS SERVICES.

B. W. Patterson, 12 days, 1 mile	$6.10
W. M. Fleming, 2 " 16 "	17.60
W. O. Neff, 2 " 12 "	7.20
W. L. Bailey, 2 " 16 "	7.60

Theo Snyder 2 " 6 "	6.60
W. D. Kinkade 2 days 16 mile	7.60
C. W. Green, clerk, 2 days,	12.00

MISLEADING: The last item is likely to give a wrong impression. The great legislative body of our state directs the board of supervisors to issue an order to the clerk for $12 clerk hire at their meeting, then the clerk to pay the same into the county treasury. Why? What for? Why do that way?

SALARY INCREASED
Motion by Mr. Bailey, seconded by Mr. Park, that the amount allowed W. O. Funston, sheriff, for deputy hire be increased, and on further motion the allowance for deputy hire for said sheriff was ordered increased from $500 to $600 per year, the said increase to be for the year commencing Nov. 30, 1909, and ending Nov. 30, 1910, the said fees to be paid out of the receipts of his said office.

COUNTY INSURANCE
On motion it was ordered by the board that the present insurance on the court house building be cancelled and that the committee on buildings and grounds be authorized and directed to have insurance to the amount of $40,000 written, the said insurance to cover the court house building, records, fixtures and all other contents.

The committee on buildings and grounds met in the court house Tuesday for the purpose of insuring the county buildings. The court house already has a policy of $15,000 on it with over a year yet to run. At the last meeting of the board this was ordered cancelled and a policy of $40,000 fire insurance written to cover all the county buildings.

When the committee met, some were there with the intention of having the policy written for $80,000. Some of the agents in the county were present, but not all the insurance agents living in Moultrie county were present to get a whack at it. W. O. Neff of Lovington township and Wm. Kenney of Jonathan could see no reason for any $80,000 insurance, in fact Mr. Kenney favors $25,000, and consider it sufficient. After considerable wrangling they went

ANNOUNCEMENT

George L. Lindsay of Cushman announces this week as candidate for the nomination of assistant supervisor of Sullivan township, subject to the democratic primary.

Mr. Lindsay is a very highly esteemed, worthy gentleman. For sixteen years he has been in the employ of men who highly commend his integrity, promptness and faithfulness while engaged in their service. For seven years he served J. R. McClure, grocer, by driving his huckster wagon and assisting in the store. For nine years he has been employed by the Sullivan Elevator Co. doing the business for them at Cushman. He has the reputation of being considerate, painstaking and standing firm for what he believes to be right and just. If nominated and elected he will no doubt take the same interest in the business of the county that he has in working for individuals home and done nothing. A great many of the good citizens know that they have a right to a say in the matter and will. Men that are in a position to know say, if a person was to go in some part of the court house, start a fire and give it a good chance it could not possibly damage the building over $500, as it is fireproof, was built as such or the county has been deceived. The vaults are perfectly safe protection for the records and that is the place for them. There is just one trouble, the farmer and working class are paying their taxes too freely, and it must be used up in some way. Some men need business and $80,000 on the court house will help them out. At the county farm is a pest house that cannot be burned up or blown up, has not a thing that will burn in it or about it, and on this has been written a policy for $1000.

JUDGE EDEN IS DEAD

DIED SATURDAY EVENING FROM INJURIES SUSTAINED BY A FALL

Joseph Edgar Eden was born in Bath county, Kentucky, September 10, 1820. He was the oldest of a family of four children, all of whom spent their lives in Moultrie county. The four were, Joseph E. Eden, Mrs. James Moore, deceased, of Bruce, Mrs. Henry Sampson of Bruce, still living, and Hon. John R. Eden, deceased. The family moved from Kentucky to Rush county, Indiana, leaving there for Moultrie county, Illinois in 1852. The deceased was married to Miss Matilda Russell before leaving Indiana. He was engaged for a number of years in Sullivan as a dry goods merchant, and in the livery business. Later he bought the hotel building, where the Eden hotel now stands, and conducted a hotel for a number of years. He was postmaster in Sullivan from 1856 to 1860 and was county judge during the sixties. His wife died in October 1898, and his only daughter, Mrs. Susan Link, died previous to that time. A son, John Finley Eden died in 1899.

Mr. Eden is survived by two sons, E. B. Eden of Sullivan and W. W. Eden of Fresno, Cal.; three granddaughters, Mrs. Nellie Chance and Miss Zoe Eden, daughters of W. W. Eden and Mrs. Marie Sherman of St. Joseph, Mo., a daughter of E. B. Eden. There are four grandsons, A. E., W. W. and Link, sons of J. F. Eden; and Dr. Joseph Eden of St. Joseph, Mo., son of E. B. Eden.

Joseph E. Eden died February 26, at 10:30 p. m. A few weeks ago he fell and broke one of his limbs and sustained injuries which resulted in his death. His age was 89 years, 5 months and 6 days. He had been in feeble health a number of years, and on January 1, 1906, wrote this statement:

January 1, 1906.—I know that I am nearing the end of this life. When it comes I want no funeral discourse, no flowers, no lying in state. If I die today, bury me tomorrow, song and prayer at the house, band to escort the procession to the cemetery, honors of the order at the grave. Pallbearers: James Dedman, Mat Cummins, William Kirkwood, John R. McClure, Frank Leeds and Tobe Wolfe. Marshall in command, T. G. Hughes.

(Signed) J. E. EDEN.
A short funeral service was held at the home of E. B. Eden on West Harrison street Monday afternoon, after which the remains were laid to rest in Greenhill cemetery. The services were under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. lodge.

OBITUARIES

MARTIN FINLEY
Martin Finley died in the insane hospital at Jacksonville on Monday, February 28. He was a native of Kal Kenny, Ireland. On coming to America he settled at Lovington, and was married to Miss Maria Hewitt, who died a year ago. The remains were brought Tuesday from Jacksonville to the home of his niece, Mrs. James Moore in Sullivan, and taken to the Kellar cemetery at Lovington Wednesday for burial.

Wagon Accidents Take the Lead.
A Paris sporting paper keeps up its statistics designed to show the rarity of catastrophes resulting from the automobile. It states that during the month of June 46 persons were killed and 774 injured by wagon accidents, 18 killed and 228 injured by railways, 4 killed and 124 injured by bicycles and only 6 killed and 60 injured by automobiles.

Daily Health Hint.
Candles and sweet articles are highly concentrated nourishment that ought, when eaten, to be mixed with coarser food in order to secure proper digestion. This kind of food is more likely to turn acid on a weak stomach than any other, while none so surely tends to produce constipation.
Comprehensive Blessing.
The father of a family being absent at dinner, the mother called on little five-year-old Ernest to say the blessing. Folding his hands and bending his head, he said: "Dear Lord, sometimes we have more and sometimes less, but we're very thankful."

BURDENS LIFTED FROM BAD BACKS

Weary is the back that bears the burden of kidney ills. There's no rest nor peace for the man or woman who has a bad back. The distress begins in early morning. You feel lame and not refreshed. It's hard to get out of bed. It hurts to stoop to tie your shoes. All day the ache keeps up. Any sudden movement sends sharp twinges through the back. It is torture to stoop or straighten. At night the sufferer retires to toss and twist and groan. Backache is kidney ache—a throbbing, dull aching in the kidneys. Plasters or liniments won't do. You must get at the cause, inside.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS CURE SICK KIDNEYS

TWICE-TOLD TESTIMONY
A Cure of Severe Kidney Disease Verified
By Test of Time.

William M. Sears, 423 W. Cherry Street, Nevada, Mo., says: "I was convinced of the great value of Doan's Kidney Pills through personal experience. Four or five months ago I suffered a great deal from a pain across the small of my back, extending at times into my limbs and shoulders. When I stooped or did any work that brought a strain on the muscles of my back, my trouble was aggravated. I tried a number of remedies but without success. After a short time I could see that they were benefiting me, and the contents of two and one-half boxes cured me." (Statement given in May, 1903.)

RE-ENDORSEMENT
On Dec. 3rd, 1903, Mr. Sears said: "I still have great faith in Doan's Kidney Pills. I feel justified in re-endorsing this remedy as it has done so much for me."

How To Tell When The Kidneys Are Disordered

- PAINFUL SYMPTOMS
Backache, aches, pains when stooping or lifting, sudden sharp twinges, rheumatic pains, neuralgia, painful, scanty or too frequent urination, dizzy spells, drowsy.
- URINARY SYMPTOMS
Discolored or cloudy urine. Urine that contains sediment. Urine that stains the linen. Painful passages. Blood or shreds in the urine. Let a bottleful of the morning urine stand for 24 hours. If it shows a cloudy or floccy settling, or a layer of fine grains, like brick-dust, the kidneys are disordered.

NEVER ANY RETURN
A Complete Cure of Kidney Trouble and Dropsy.
Mrs. L. L. Babers, 1615 Terry St., Houston, Texas, says: "I hold a very high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills and with good reason, for three years ago they cured me of kidney trouble that had clung to me for several years. There was a dropsical swelling of my feet and limbs in addition to other symptoms of kidney complaint, and although I used various remedies, I was not helped until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. Two boxes of this preparation cured me and I have never had the slightest return of my trouble. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to many people who have questioned me about them, and I know of several cases in which they have done the same good work."

Tree Resembles Umbrella.

A curious tree grows in one of the numerous islands which are studded about the Pacific ocean. It grows, as its full height, to nearly 30 feet, with branches spreading like a huge umbrella, yet it is completely leafless, the species having never been known to show signs of a single bud. Its sap is useful as a medicine, but as fuel the wood is worse than useless, being as hard as iron and quite as difficult to burn.

Laundries Use Much Soap.

It is estimated that the laundries of London, England, use 750 tons of soap in a week.

[Original.]
I am the hardest I have a green ting my mates are usuy the rarity of this that makes me very no larger than a I worth many thousand born in Brazil. The first at least of daylight, for me out with stones, sand, ear minerals following the strom pick. I lay on the ground before workman. He looked about him and seeing his foreman's back turned, picked me up and put me in his mouth. When he went from work he was searched, but I was not discovered. The next scene in my life of motion, so to speak, was in a wood. The workman who had found me sold me to a man of better grade. The price paid was $100 in United States bills. The man who bought me took me to a room, locked the door and examined me carefully. I could see by his expression that he was very much pleased with me. He got a box of sewing utensils from a closet and, ripping a pocket in the lining of his coat, put me in and sewed me fast. I didn't suppose that I would stay long in this place, but I did.

One day a policeman came to my owner's room and arrested him. He was not wearing the coat in which he had sewed me. It hung in a closet. A month later it was taken down and with other clothing taken to Villa de Principe, where it was sold to a Jew. A young man "all tattered and torn" came into the Jew's shop, tried on several coats, and the one I was in fitted him, he bought it. I think the price paid was $2. The young man walked all the way to Rio, doing work here and there for a meal. Had he known that he had me with him he might have ridden in a coach and four.

When he got to Rio he shipped on a vessel bound for New Haven, Conn. I was rolled, with other clothing, in a small bundle and put under his bunk, he donning sailor togs. When we reached New Haven my owner put on his shore clothes, left the vessel and walked up into the city. He met a number of young men he knew, and by his conversation with them I learned that he had been a student in the college there and his father had died insolvent during the sea's second year. From a student he had become a sailor, had sought employment in South America and had got stranded in Brazil. One of his old chums loaned him some money with which to buy a ticket to his home in a distant city.

This home was in a shabby little cottage in the suburbs. It was both a melancholy and a happy meeting between the young man and his mother and his two sisters. They were evidently people of refinement living in poverty. Their returned boy was hungry, but there was nothing save a piece of corn bread in the house to give him. They begged him to stay with them, try for a position and help them. To this he consented, and they were happy.

That night after he had gone to bed one of his sisters took his clothes and sat up late patching and darning them that he might appear the better in looking for employment. After the sewing she took them downstairs into the kitchen, heated an iron and pressed them. While running the iron over the coat its nose hit an obstacle in me. She felt of me, took me to the light to examine the place where I was; then, taking a knife, she ripped the sewing and took me out. Seeing nothing but a brownish stone, she threw me into a coal scuttle, but on second thoughts took me up again and put me on a table. Then, finishing her ironing, she took the clothes to her brother's room.

The next morning she showed me to her brother and told him where she had found me. He looked me over very carefully, thinking all the while, and asked his sister to show him the place where she had found me. Then he put me in his pocket and later on started out to look for a situation. About noon he went home. He met his mother in the hall. He was pale and trembling. "Oh, mother!" he exclaimed. "My boy, what has happened?" "If it shouldn't be true it would kill me."

"What?"

The stone Fannie found sewed in my coat. Thinking it might be a jewel in the rough, I took it to a jeweler. He says it's a diamond. A diamond of that size is worth many thousands of dollars.

He took me out of his pocket, and the mother and her daughter gathered round, each trembling with excitement. "Don't count on too much, dear boy," said the mother. "If it is a diamond, it has a real owner, and you must find him, but he will doubtless give you a reward for its return."

But the owner was never found. The young man wrote to the officers of all the diamond mines in Brazil, and all replied that they had no record of any such diamond, though I had doubtless been taken from some of them when dug from the earth. Since none of them could prove ownership none of them claimed me.

I was polished, cut and sold for a fortune. The young man went back to college, and the story of his return getting out among the students, they gave him the sobriquet of "Old Clothes."

CHARLOTTE BOND HALL.

[Original.]
I had known Mrs. Anita Merivale ten years when she surprised me by calling at my office to see me on professional business. She surprised me more by announcing that she wished my services in getting a divorce from Tom Merivale, her husband.

I had supposed the Merivales were getting on very well together, but such a supposition was dispelled by what Mrs. Merivale told me about their married life. From her standpoint there was nothing whatever of good in her husband. He was niggardly with her about everything. He never took her to amusements, never gave her presents and beat her down to a ridiculously small sum in the matter of dress. He did whatever she disliked, no matter if he were cognizant of that dislike. He would read his newspaper at the breakfast table, though she had frequently told him that such conduct was abhorrent to her. Though every matchbox in the house was provided with a receptacle for burnt matches, he would throw them anywhere and everywhere. His cigar ashes he threw on the floor. These and many other shortcomings pertaining to the husband I made a list of, and when they were all in I confess the list was not especially formidable and by no means warranted the words with which I closed the plea. "And the said Thomas D. Merivale has made her life a burden and altogether miserable."

I had known Merivale, though not so intimately as his wife, and regarded him a very good fellow. I concluded to send for him and have a talk with him, hoping that the matter might be settled out of court, or possibly I might effect a reconciliation. He was surprised that his wife had gone so far as to seek a divorce. Indeed, he was not aware that she felt herself especially aggrieved. I told him that I would take any course he might suggest with a view to satisfying his wife, and he asked me to delay filing the papers as long as possible. On his promise not to take any legal action himself I consented.

One morning I took up a paper and read an account of a terrible railroad accident. I started at seeing among the list of killed the name of Thomas D. Merivale. "That ends the matter," I said to myself, "between Merivale and his wife. This is a decree of divorce that no earthly court can gainsay."

A week later, while I was at my office, Mrs. Merivale was announced. She was dressed in mourning and seemed to be in deep grief. Her eyes appeared to be swollen.

"I presume," I said, "that you have come to announce that since your husband's death you will not need my services."

"I have come to say that I will need your services, but for a different purpose from the one for which they have been engaged. How far have you proceeded with the divorce?"

"I have not filed the papers."

"Destroy them. I wish you to make others. I am advised to sue the railroad company for damages."

I repressed a smile. As for my client, she did not see the ludicrous feature of the situation.

"How much will you claim?"

"They say I should have $100,000. Tom had a large salary that dies with him. The interest on $100,000 at 5 per cent would be $5,000. Tom spent at least that on me, and I suppose I am entitled to what I lose."

I made a new set of papers which recited the great benefits the life of Thomas D. Merivale conferred on his loving wife, Anita Merivale; that he was in all respects a liberal and devoted husband and that the bereavement was a crushing sorrow.

The papers were signed, sealed and sworn to when the door opened, and who should appear but "the said" Thomas D. Merivale. Mrs. Merivale, notwithstanding her eye to the main chance, showed that her statement concerning her bereavement was truthful by falling in a faint, from which she soon revived.

After explanations as to the mistake they had made in naming Merivale among the dead he asked his wife what she was doing in my office. She prevaricated. Merivale called upon me to produce any papers I might have drawn for his wife. At a knowing look from him I complied. He read first the divorce papers, then the application for damages. Then, looking up at his wife, he said:

"There is a slight discrepancy in these papers. Which am I to consider a correct statement?"

Mrs. Merivale was cornered. "H'm!" said Merivale, looking from one paper to the other and reading. "And the said Thomas D. Merivale has made her life a burden and altogether miserable," then, "That he was in all respects a liberal and devoted husband, and the bereavement is a crushing sorrow."

Mrs. Merivale buried her face in her hands, and her husband looked at me and winked.

Presently Mrs. Merivale sprang up, threw her arms about her husband's neck and, choking with sobs, cried:

"Oh, Tom, forgive me!"

As I had observed that her grief at the loss of her husband was genuine, I now saw that her repentance was genuine.

"Let me join," I said, "in your wife's request. I dare say a brooding over small matters produced an unfortunate result. She thought she was in earnest, but I knew she was not."

Mrs. Merivale was forgiven, and I believe the couple have since lived together contentedly.

That Lame Back Means Kidney Disease

And to Relieve the Lame and Aching Back, You Must First Relieve the Kidneys

There is no question about that—all for the lame and aching back is caused by a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder. It is only common sense, any way—that you must cure a condition by removing the cause of the condition. And lame and aching back are not by any means the only symptoms of derangement of the kidneys and bladder. There are a multitude of well-known and unmistakable indications of a more or less dangerous condition. Some of these are, for instance: Extreme and unnatural lassitude and weariness, nervous irritability, heart irregularity, "nerves on edge," sleeplessness and inability to secure rest, scalding sensation and sediment in the urine, inflammation of the bladder and passages, etc.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are an exceptionally meritorious remedy for any and all affections or diseased conditions of these organs. These Pills operate directly and promptly—and their beneficial results are at once felt. They regulate, purify, and effectively heal and restore the kidneys, bladder and liver, to perfect and healthy condition—even in some of the most advanced cases.

E. G. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill., want every man and woman who have the least suspicion that they are afflicted with kidney and bladder diseases to at once write them, and a trial box of these Pills will be sent free by return mail postpaid.

THE AMERICAN HOME

W. A. RADFORD EDITOR

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 194 Fifth Ave., Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

The one subject on the mind of everyone these days is the high cost of living, and that leads us to remark that there are singular ideas current on the subject of the cost of home building. It is not strange that this should be so, for the bizarre and the eccentric invariably attract attention that the orderly and the sedate may not receive. And perhaps the most singular of all notions with regard to the cost of houses is, that a beautiful home can be acquired at the most moderately conceivable cost, if one did but know how to do it. Doubtless we would all get rich if we could, and while the crop of millionaires has been abundant in America these recent years, none will dispute the fact that there are a few left who do not come in this category, and that therefore the mere knowing how to do a thing is not nearly so important as actually doing it. The clamor for small homes of moderate cost will not down. It is a delusion quite as widespread as the former notion that the earth was flat, and it is quite as difficult to get rid of. Very few people can point to such dwellings as actually in existence, but immense numbers will tell you positively that the thing can be done. The trouble with the small-will be contented when he possesses a well-built home. Building materials are high in price now and will remain so. If any man intends to build a home he may as well begin now, for materials will be no cheaper.

The little house here shown is as low in cost as any design that could be selected. It is artistic and pleasing to the eye and presents the aspect of coziness to the beholder. It is 25 feet wide and is 30 feet 6 inches long. It can be built either of frame or can be plastered on the exterior with cement mortar. It has a living room 14x12 feet, in which a fireplace is provided to add to the cheer of the occupants. At the right of this room is a chamber that is 12 feet long and 9 feet 6 inches cheap house proposition is the fact that the conditions under which houses are built are not understood or appreciated. Moreover, it is not equally admitted that good things cost good money. It is true the tendency of modern times is not this way. The actual cost of building by no means represents the total expenditure that will be required in any building enterprise. There are a great many essential matters that enter into the cost of a dwelling that do not enter into the architect's charges. There is the land, for the first thing, the bare price wide. The kitchen and dining room are combined in a room 13 feet, 6 inches by 12 feet, 6 inches in size. The bathroom is 6x9 feet in dimensions. On the second floor is a chamber 15 feet by 7 feet 6 inches, and back of this is a storage room 15 feet by 4 feet 6 inches.

In the building of this house the design will be much enhanced by the selection of a lot that will afford a good amount of shrubbery.

Ancient Concrete Bridge.

In the south of France is a concrete arch bridge known as the Pont du Gard, which was erected in the year 56 B. C. The concrete in this was not composed of crushed stone or other small aggregate of the variety now employed in concrete bridge work, but was of the old style, consisting of alternate layers of large and small stones, gravel, etc., and of cementitious materials. Vitruvius describes the materials and methods in use before the Christian era and other writers, like Alberti, in 1845, and Palladio, in 1570, accurately describe the methods which the "ancients," as they called them, employed, "of using boards laid on edge and filling the space between with cement and all sorts of small and large stones mixed together." It is very improbable that the Pont du Gard would have withstood the rigors of climate of the northern United States, but its actual state of preservation, as well as that of many other specimens of ancient concrete work, proves that if modern work is honestly executed it will many times outlast any reasonable bond period, so that a very small yearly sinking fund per cent. is all that is required for properly designed and erected work.—Cement Age.

The Eternal Feminine.

Queen Elizabeth, in a characteristic rage, had proclaimed the doom of the courtier, "Off with his head!" The culprit courtier was heard to mutter something to himself.

"What said the catiff?" demanded Elizabeth.

"May it please your majesty," faltered one of the guards, "his words were: 'Pretty rough. It is becoming.'" The virgin queen plumed herself; her eyes sought her mirror.

"Hh! Pretty ruff! Truly, the fellow hath a good taste and it were a pity—." Let sentence be suspended. We have need of men of good judgment and sound discretion about us. I will hear further what he may have to say.—Harper's Magazine.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Milk cows need plenty of fresh water.

Cut the black knots out of the plum trees. Don't forget.

The gasoline engine is helping to keep the boy on the farm.

When scouring give the pigs a good dose of common baking soda.

A poorly nourished, stunted two-year-old filly should not be bred.

An excellent feed for yearling sheep is equal parts corn, rye and buckwheat.

The first step in keeping disease away from hogs is to keep filth away from them.

A horse that is perpetually stepping around while being harnessed is only half broken.

Get the incubator at work on the broiler crop as early as possible, delay means loss.

A bark disease, imported from Japan, has killed thousands of New York chestnut trees.

Young animals require a certain amount of warmth, but this must not be at the expense of fresh air.

Never give musty feed to fowls or chicks, especially the latter. Put it in the oven and parch it before feeding.

The pullets which are poor layers the first winter never amount to very much, and are not worth keeping over.

The popularity of the show ring is educating the masses to quality, and nothing but the best will justify the breeding enterprise.

There is no more pitiable sight than a mare and foal standing in the open with their coats turned the wrong way and shivering with cold.

Are there any water sprouts on those old trees? If so, get after them. You just can't afford to have water sprouts living off of bearing trees.

If the apples in the cellar are not keeping well the trouble may be too warm a temperature. The cellar should be kept just above freezing for apples.

A place should be partitioned off from the main part of the barn, where ewes that are expected to drop their lambs may be separated from the rest of the flock.

Kindness is a good thing to mix with the ration. It may not possess much food value, but it pays every time. Don't ask the stock to live on kindness alone, though.

The old trees bearing valuable varieties of fruits are very hard to replace and it takes many years to produce a young, bearing orchard that will properly take its place.

The ordinary farm bull does not receive the care that he deserves. Remember that he is half the herd and often more, and that good care will pay, and pay well, in dollars and cents.

The man who informs himself on any line of work he is undertaking, and then gives it his strict attention in all details is the one who will always have his flag floating in the air of success.

Do not neglect work that may be done now with sleighs, such as harvesting the ice crop, getting up the summer's wood, etc. It is much easier and cheaper to do such work on runners than on wheels.

In order to secure uniformity in the fat contents of the cream aim at running the separator smoothly and at a speed as set out by the makers, the milk being separated at a temperature of 90 to 100 degrees.

It is a mistake to think that horses at light work can be kept entirely on hay. Colts also require more grain and if left to grow up on straw and hay alone they never make as good horses as do those which are better cared for.

To the man who has warm buildings and the time to look after fall pigs should keep a few old sows over, and let them raise two litters a year. The man who cannot do that would better keep to the young sows for a few years, and when his sows get smaller and fail to raise good litters, go to the other fellow and get new stock.

The well fed hog is usually contented.

Out-of-season flowers can be forced by treatment with ether.

In setting out trees remember it is useless to plant dead roots.

Bran is an excellent substitute for succulents in the sow's ration.

Don't leave a horse heated by driving to stand exposed in a cold wind.

Never sell the best stock. You always need that kind in your business.

When the calf is taken from the cow he must, of course, be taught to drink.

Keep the poultry yards clean. Don't have anything about that can breed disease.

Read the nursery and seed catalogues and get in your order for trees and plants now.

The breeder of to-day who succeeds must be a breeder, a feeder and an all-around stock man.

Provide a clean, dry bed and never allow a horse to lie on bare boards or stand on wet manure.

Feed the brood sow protein feeds as much as possible, and avoid feeds rich in fat-forming elements.

One cock to ten hens is sufficient, and these should be separated until the breeding season begins.

Never allow two or more cocks to remain in the same inclosure with the hens during the winter.

Provide a plank or cement feeding floor for the hogs. Keep it clean; it's the hogs' table, you know.

Try shaving some young sweet corn, or even field corn, for the young chicks, and see how they will go for it.

Keep ground charcoal before the poultry at all times. It is good for indigestion and corrects sour crop.

Don't feed good food to poor layers and then grumble because there is no profit in the poultry business.

If it is possible to make a good cow from a poor calf the extra cost will be more than the calf was worth at the beginning.

The loss of condition at weaning time may be greatly reduced if the pigs have been accustomed to supplementary foods.

Most of the milk used in Siam is imported in condensed form, few of the natives keeping cows or goats or using their milk.

Look the spray pump over. Get all the parts in working order during the winter so as to be ready for active work early in the spring.

If you want lambs for fattening early a thoroughbred sire of one of the coarse wool breeds used on Merino ewes will produce excellent ones.

Pumpkins will keep fine in a corner of the cellar near the furnace. If there is no furnace in the cellar a better place for them is a warm closet near the fire.

Plant fruit trees on the uncultivated spots along the fence lines and in the fields. The investment is good—adds both to beauty of farm and to the value of it.

It is the poorest sort of economy to milk a cow up to within a short time that she is due to calve. Give her 60 days' rest and she will more than make up for lost time.

The fight against mites and insect pests must be kept up till the last one has been driven out. Your birds cannot do well so long as they are afflicted with these enemies.

If you keep guineas, turkeys and chickens, build separate houses and yards for them. If you confine all three varieties in one yard during the winter it will prove disastrous.

Bees won't thrive in a cellar where there are mice or any disturbing influence. It is well to partition bees off to themselves where it is quiet, plenty of ventilation and little light.

One reason why hens do not do well is because they are kept too long on the same ground. The very earth gets foul and full of insect pests. Change about every two or three years. It will pay.

The common method of cleansing wool produces great quantities of foul liquors, containing valuable substances that can be recovered profitably. Among these are wool grease and crude petroleum.

Try and be one that has fed a combined ration of roughage, grain and roots with plenty of water and you will have no worry about the ewes. The summer's work and the feed is largely wasted if the ewes lamb poorly.

The United States Department of Agriculture recommends the establishment of movable schools of agriculture by the state experiment stations wherever 15 farmers can be secured as students and the school may be conducted for a year or longer. The kind of instruction should depend on the needs of the section.

PICKPOCKET IS SLY

Veteran Detective Tells of the "Dip's" Tricks.

Warns Against the Man Who Folds His Arms—Danger Behind a Newspaper—Some Cat Your Pockets.

Chicago.—"This burg is having an unusual number of jobs by pickpockets," said a veteran detective a few days ago. "I hardly understand the revival of this sort of crime, as the best of the 'dips' have been pretty well stowed away, and the complaints of 'lifted' leathers and tickers have been few until recently."

By "dips" the old sleuth meant pickpocket. When he used the word "lifted" he referred to the taking of an article by a pickpocket. In the vernacular of a pickpocket a pocket book is a "leather" and a watch is a "ticker." A diamond is a "spark." "I don't know where this mob comes from, as I haven't been working on the cases," continued the detective. "but it seems to be composed of a pretty clever lot of dips." It may be necessary to explain again that by "mob" the old thief-taker meant a band of pickpockets.

"These fellows usually work in pairs, and it is not unusual for them to clear up several thousand dollars in a few days."

"If one of them falls, that is being arrested, there generally is a fund out of which his lawyer's fees are paid, and the rest of the gang stands by him, making every effort to clear him.

"You ask me how to avoid having your pockets picked. Well, I don't believe any man can give advice on that subject. It is hard to tell what style a pickpocket is going to adopt. Usually he works in a crowd. The jam on the elevated stations is a good place, but there generally is a pair of fly cops on each of the loop stations at night, and the crooks know it. Then they get on the surface cars and work the platforms. Several of the recent jobs have been done that way."

"One of the commonest methods of stealing a diamond stud is to get them with a pair of pincers having a pocket into which the stone falls when it is cut off. The dip usually works from behind a newspaper. Of course, you can't watch every man with a newspaper on a street car, but if you have anything valuable about you, it is well to do so."

"A skilled crook may use a knife with razor-like blade to cut away the pocket. Keep your eye on the man who folds his arms. His hands may be at rest or they may be engaged in picking pockets."

"We call the man who robs women a mull buzzer. While the victim is looking in a shop window or standing in a street car he opens her hand bag and gets the leather. There are not many of these jobs any more, for women have become wise."

Plum for Pittsburg Firm. The province of Ontario has ordered 1,500,000 pounds of half-inch aluminum wire for the electric power line from Niagara Falls. The order, worth $400,000, goes to a Pittsburg firm.

Always the Fashions. "Yes; I am going abroad." "And how are you going to arrange your itinerary?" "I understand coronet braids are the latest thing."

ONLY NECESSARY TO TREAT STOMACH, SAYS COOPER

The new theory advanced by L. T. Cooper relative to the human stomach has attracted such widespread attention that the public in cities visited by the young man has been joined by many physicians in a discussion of his beliefs and medicines.

Mr. Cooper says human health is dependent almost entirely upon the stomach. He says that no disease can be conquered without first alleviating all stomach disorders. He further says that most men and women of this generation are half-sick owing to degenerate stomachs. And lastly, he claims that his New Discovery medicine will rejuvenate the human stomach in 99 days.

Cooper has been traveling from one city to another, conducting in each what he calls a campaign of education. For the past year he has met the public in the larger cities of the country, and his success has been phenomenal. Thousands of people have flocked to his headquarters wherever he has gone, and the sale of his medicine has been beyond anything of the kind ever before witnessed.

Probably the most interesting feature of the attention this young man has attracted is what his army of followers, whom he has converted to his beliefs through his medicines, have to say on the subject. The following statements are from two well-known residents of Chicago and Boston, respectively, and the enthusiasm of these is characteristic of Cooper's admirers generally.

Mrs. H. B. Mack, of 3201 State street, Chicago, says: "I have been suffering for 12 years from a combination of stomach trouble, catarrh and constipation. I had a gnawing pain in the pit of my stomach, a sort of a dull pain that I could not quite understand. Then there was a dull headache, and my mind seemed to be wandering continually. I could not eat, and what little solid food I did eat I could not retain on my stomach. I tried every remedy I could think of, and also tried out a number of patent medicines, but without any apparent result. It was through one of my friends that I heard of Cooper's preparation, and I immediately decided to try some of it. It is two weeks since I took my first dose of it, and I feel like a new woman. The headache seems to have disappeared, and the pain in my stomach, along with it. The medicine is worth its weight in gold, and I want to thank Mr. Cooper for what he has done for me."

Mr. Edwin F. Morse, of 20 Oakley street, Dorchester, a suburb of Boston, says: "For three years I had not a well day. My stomach was in frightful shape; the mere thought of food would nauseate me, and I really had a horror of anything to eat. All solid food would cause me extreme indigestion, bloating and gas on my stomach, and nothing tasted right. Some time ago I got some of this Cooper's medicine, about which there is so much talk. I actually feel as well and strong as a boy ever since the first bottle. Every sign of stomach trouble has disappeared, and I have a hearty appetite and eat three square meals; everything seems to taste good. Anyone who knows what chronic indigestion is can appreciate what this means to me. I consider this the most remarkable medicine I ever heard of."

Cooper's New Discovery is sold by all druggists. If your druggist cannot supply you, we will forward you the name of a druggist in your city who will. Don't accept "something just as good."—The Cooper Medicine Co., Dayton, Ohio.

Weak Spot in His Defense.

A religious worker was visiting a southern penitentiary, when one prisoner in some way took his fancy. This prisoner was a negro, who evinced a religious fervor as deep as it was gratifying to the caller.

"Of what were you accused?" the prisoner was asked.

"Dey says I took a watch," answered the negro. "I made a good fight. I had a dandy lawyer, and he done prove an alibi wif ten witnesses. Den my lawyer he shore made a strong speech to de jury. But it wa'n't no use, sah! I get ten years."

"I don't see why you were not acquitted," said the religious worker.

"Well, sah," explained the prisoner, "dere was shore one weak spot 'bout my defense—dey found de watch in my pocket."—Tit-Bits.

Sunday School's Want Ad.

There is a church in Brooklyn that has adopted a novel scheme for enlarging its Sunday school. It advertises for boys and girls to come to it. The hood of the church one may see placed in the shop windows in the neighborhood, such as are used for advertising entertainments of various kinds, that bear the legend:
"Wanted—Boys and girls to join our Sunday school." Below this are set forth the advantages that will come to the young folk who attend the classes.

A Natural Question.

James J. Corbett, in the smoking room of the Mauretania, praised the "style" of Jim Jeffries.
"It's a neat style," he said; "neat, quick, to the point. It gets there like the remark of a little girl who said to the minister, in the course of a quite interminable call:
"Did you forget to bring your amen with you, doctor?"

BRIGHT DAYS AND DARK

By REV. DONALD SAGE MACKAY, D. D., LL. D.

But where sin abounded, grace did much more abound.—Rom. 5:20.
How much the counterbalance plays its part in the activities of human life! Our bright days are counterbalanced by dark days. Our times of prosperity are offset by times of adversity. For every sorrow there is in the divine providence, a corresponding gain, and at the heart of every defeat there is for the man of faith the prophecy of new victory. Go where we will in the great universe of love and we find everywhere the working of this divine law of counterpoise—the divine love compensating of every earthly loss. "Where sin abounds, grace doth much more abound." Where death walks with insolent feet life triumphs in exultant song. When earthly joys wither heavily hope blooms in eternal beauty. When time wears out its venture into threadbare decay eternity robes herself in immortal splendor.

We want to realize, of course, that these bright days and dark in life which alternate in such swift succession are all part of a divine plan. These fleeting changes of prosperity and adversity, joy and sorrow, life and death, are not haphazard. They are not the chance happenings of a cruel and heedless fate. Nor are they ebullitions fickleness in God, or forgetfulness, of his children. Not to tantalize and tease the soul, not that we may take our joys with trembling and our sorrows with cringing does our Heavenly Father set the dark days over against the bright days in life. God sends these seasons for the growth of what is worthless and best within us. The dark days and the bright days are as necessary to the poise of your character as the counterbalance is necessary to the equilibrium of the wheel. It needs no profound thinking to realize that a grinding monotony life would be if there were no shadows to offset its sunlight. What an insipid thing joy would become—a surfeit in the banquet of life—if there were no bitters to cleanse the palate of the soul.

These bright days and dark days in life as they come and go, sometimes in rhythmic cadence and sometimes in bewildering confusion, are also part of a divine revelation. They are days of revealing as well as days of discipline. God sends these alternating seasons into your life to reveal certain qualities within you, to call into play certain capacities, to make vital certain possibilities in your nature which the monotony of an unbroken experience could never bring. The changing days of life unmask the reserves of character. It is, of course, a truism that a man never knows how much he can endure until the day of adversity comes. It has been pointed out that Walter Scott became great as a man and realized the highest expression of his genius not until the wave of adversity swept over his life. A writer has pointed out the commonplace character of Scott's personal journal up to the time before the failure of his publishers took place. But after that failure a new note became vocal in the great writer's journal, a new personality emerged. One remembers in this connection the letter which upon the day succeeding the news of the disaster Scott wrote to an intimate friend: "I have walked for the last time in these halls which I have built, looked for the last time in all probability at the domain which I have planted, but death would have taken these things from me if misfortune had not." The letter concludes with the words, "Adversity is to me a tonic and a bracer." "Look at that manuscript," says Ruskin, referring to Scott's novel of "Woodstock" which was in course of writing at the time, "written in the very maelstrom of that adversity and not by the quiver of a hair stroke, not by the suggestion of a single tremor in the hand, not by an erasure or change, not by any falling off in the creative interest of the story could any one detect that when Scott wrote the second part of that novel he did so under a cloud of bitter adversity."

And biography is full of such unmaskings of the pressure of the dark days—succeeding the bright days in life. Milton's personality became a far more potent influence after blindness had stricken him. The loss of physical sight intensified the keenness of spiritual vision. Had Bunyan never lain in Bedford jail he had never dreamed the "Pilgrim's Progress." Had Tom Hood never known for himself the bitterness of want and the ache of pain he had never sung the "Song of the Shirt" or sobbed out his immortal dirge. "The Bridge of Sighs." Had David never fallen as he did the world would never have felt the passion of penitence and aspiration of heart which breathed through some such psalm as the fifty-first. Had John never been banished to the island of Patmos we should never have had the revelation of heaven as he has unfolded its glories in the last book of Scripture. In a sense, most solemn of all, had Christ never passed through the darkness of Calvary and tasted the bitterness of death, He had never been exalted as the Saviour of the world. It is a blessed experience surely if for any one of us from whom the sunlight of prosperity had been withdrawn for a season the light of a new purpose and the beckoning of a hand of divine strength are made manifest.

"A very striking picture. He looks as if he were just going to speak."

IN AGONY WITH ECZEMA

"No tongue can tell how I suffered for five years with itching and bleeding eczema, until I was cured by the Cuticura Remedies, and I am so grateful I want the world to know, for what helped me will help others. My body and face were covered with sores. One day it would seem to be better, and then break out again with the most terrible pain and itching. I have been sick several times, but never in my life did I experience such awful suffering as with this eczema. I had made up my mind that death was near at hand, and I longed for that time when I would be at rest. I had tried many different doctors and medicines without success, and my mother brought me the Cuticura Remedies, insisting that I try them. I began to feel better after the first bath with Cuticura Soap, and one application of Cuticura Ointment.
"I continued with the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and have taken four bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, and consider myself well. This was nine years ago and I have had no return of the trouble since. Any person having any doubt about this wonderful cure by the Cuticura Remedies can write to my address. Mrs. Altie Eison, 93 Inn Road, Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 16, 1909."

Financial Loss Through Tuberculosis.

Based on the census of 1900, it is estimated by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis that nearly 100,000 children now in school will die of tuberculosis before they are 18 years of age, or that about 6,400 die annually from this disease. Estimating that on an average each child who dies of tuberculosis has had six years of schooling, the aggregate loss to the country in wasted education each year amounts to $1,162,000. According to investigations made in New York, Boston and Stockholm, the percentage of children who are afflicted with tuberculosis is much larger than the death rate would indicate.

The Appetites of Kings.

The king of Spain makes up for this daily expenditure of activity by a tremendous appetite. I have observed, for that matter, that the majority of sovereigns are valiant trenchermen. Every morning of his life Alfonso XIII. has a good rump steak and potatoes for his first breakfast, often preceded by eggs and sometimes followed by salad and fruit.—From Recollections of M. Paoli in McClure's.

Opera the Great Leveler.

At one of the Wagner operas a few days ago a woman nudged her friend and said, "Who's that distinguished man bowing to you over there?" Her friend looked in the direction designated and smiled in a return greeting. "That's my butcher," she said. "I see him here quite often. When I go marketing in the morning we always discuss the opera. He's German, you know, and really knows a lot about other things besides cutting meat."—New York Sun.

A GOOD CHANGE

A Change of Food Works Wonders.

The wrong food and drink causes a lot of trouble in this world. To change the food is the first duty of every person that is ill, particularly from stomach and nervous troubles. As an illustration: A lady in Mo. has, with her husband, been brought around to health again by leaving off coffee and some articles of food that did not agree with them. They began using Postum and Grape-Nuts food. She says:
"For a number of years I suffered with stomach and bowel trouble which kept getting worse until I was very ill most of the time. About four years ago I left off coffee and began taking Postum. My stomach and bowels improved right along, but I was so reduced in flesh and so nervous that the least thing would overcome me.
"Then I changed my food and began using Grape-Nuts in addition to Postum. I lived on these two principally for about four months. Day by day I gained in flesh and strength until now the nervous trouble has entirely disappeared and I feel that I owe my life and health to Postum and Grape-Nuts.
"Husband is 73 years old and he was troubled for a long time with occasional cramps, and slept badly. Finally I prevailed upon him to leave off coffee and take Postum. He had stood out for a long time, but after he tried Postum for a few days he found that he could sleep and that his cramps disappeared. He was satisfied and has never gone back to coffee.
"I have a brother in California who has been using Postum for several years; his whole family use it also because they have had such good results from it."
Look in pkgs. for the little book, "The Road to Wellville." "There's a Reason."
Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

PUBLIC SALE

N. L. Lowe Offers for Sale Twenty Bred Good Horses and Several Head of Cattle

Public stock sale at my residence in the suburbs of Sullivan, Thursday March 10, at 1 p. m. E. A. Silver, auctioneer. Consisting of 20 head of horses of which a number of them are standard bred and the pedigrees will accompany.

This is a lot of first-class, high-bred and standard horses large enough to go on the farm, to the surrey or buggy and all broke quietly to single harness and mostly broken to the farm. Three especially, good standard bred brood mares of good size and quality, also 1 4-year-old Shetland pony mare, a perfect model as well as a pet.

Several of these horses are of the shipping and farming lots. In fact all of these horses are of sufficient size for the farm. All of them young ranging in age from 3 to 7 years old.

Also 2 Standard bred stallions, 7 years old. Martin Cochran, 42,335, sired by Colonel Cochran, he by Shadeland, he by Onward, dam Sally Toler, record 2:06 3/4, dam Colored Girl by Colored Man. Brown horse, 15 1/2 hands high, weight 1200 lbs. Five year old trial 2:31. (See tabulated pedigree.)

Martin Cochran is the son of the world's champion great trotter, Col. Cochran, 2:10 3/4, and is a handsome and a very superior individual, combining style, action and size; the same type and more and better quality than his sire. M. C. Johnson, the owner of Col. Johnson, who worked this colt five weeks last spring, said he showed more speed than his sire at the end of 3 months work. There is no reason why he should not breed as much speed as his sire whose book is always full at $50. Record 2:30 and stepped full mile in 2 minutes, 25 seconds.

Gentleman J., sired by A. J. Glick, record 2:10 3/4, a first class saddle stallion. Both sound and thoroughly broken.

I will also offer a few milch cows and probably a mixed bunch of stock cattle.

This will be a time sale. Discount 10% cash. Terms made known on day of sale.

Ballroom Dances in Limestone

It has been left to Poons, Ind., to discover a ballroom novelty. This is the employment of limelight in certain dances. Thus a waltz danced in imitation moonlight is said to be a thing to dream of and the cotillon with rainbow colored lights is ravishing.

TESTED AND PROVEN

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend upon a Well-Earned Reputation

For months Sullivan readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

Andrew Baugher, Sullivan, Ill., says: "For three or four years kidney complaint clung to me and the use of doctors' medicine and remedies of various kinds, failed to help. My back was extremely lame and painful and the unnatural condition of the kidney secretions showed that my kidneys were out of order. I had a frequent desire to pass the kidney secretions and was compelled to arise several times at night on this account. Finally I went to Hall's Drug Store and got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their use soon improved my condition and before long the backache and pain had disappeared."

Mr. Baugher gave the above statement in March 1907 and confirmed it in detail on December 21, 1909.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
