THE DIFFERENCE.

What is the difference between high grade and low grade baking powder? All baking powders are white and sold in round cans with bright labels e contents look much the same. but in fact they are very different.

High grade baking powders are made of pure cream of tartar derived from grapes. They are healthful and economical to use. THE ONE Low-grade baking powders are made of alum, an astringent mineral

Before the Pure Food Law only a t could tell by analysis one from the other.

SERVICE IN CHURCH AND LOUGE NOTABLE.

Sunday, April 27, was James T. Taylor's 85th birthday. The Christian church, Masons, and last, but every purchaser who a not least, his children sought to do him homage on the occasion.

The church presented him a fine silk, gold handled umbrella, his children and grandchildren repaired to his home during his absence at church and had a sumptuous feast awaiting him. A member of the Masonic lodge gave him a Sir Knight's cap.

Mr. Taylor has expressed himself preaching service. at different times as being much prouder of his initiation and life serv ice in Christ's kingdom than that of a high degree in Masonry. He says, The church first and Masonry sec ond."

Mr Taylor was born in Bourbon county, Kentucky, March 27, 1825 He confessed his taith in Christianity at fifteen years of age, at the the time as that of tour of his school mates They were immersed in zero weather, not in a baptistry in a steam heated church in luke warm water, but in a stream over which the ice was trozen six inches thick. First a hole was cut in the ice, the minister let down and the candidates handed to him, before they reached the carriage to convey them to a place to dress, the r cothing was frozen stiff and icicles were hanging from their hair. Mr. Taylor has always been an ardent. earnest Chi-tian; aiways serving God to the best of his judgment.

On Feb. 12, 1855, at athersour, he was married to miss Elizabeti Dubler, a sister of Dr. H. Dubler, w reased, at one time one of the mosprominent doctors in Central Illinois Scon after his marriage he moved to Mattoon, and was one of the charter members and organizers of the church at that place. Before they built a enorch they met at their residences, in the warehouse, etc. Others ascociated with him in the organization of the church were the Powells of Mattoon, Thos. M. Boyd and wife, our of ois brothers and their wives ome of all these tamilies were at ome time members of the Smyser church in Whitley township

Mr. Taylor, the subject of this sketch, and his three brothers, John, Ben, and Dr. Martin Taylor, all, after a short time, moved to Mou trie county severed their connection with the Mattoon church then took up their work with the Smyser church, where James T. Taylor worshipped for six years, then he moved to Sullivan and transferred his membership to this place. He has been a disciple of present. Christ seventy years; a member of the Masonic lodge sivty-two years There has not as vet, been an aged Mason come to the Home that can claim as long a membership in the vited. lodge as Mr. Taylor. Judge Nelson has been in the order almost as long.

Mr. Taylor was the seventh child of a family of fourteen children, but one other member besides himself is living and that is Dr. Mart Taylor of Brownington, Henry county, Mo., Although he is 76 years of age he is yet practicing medicine.

James T. Taylor and wife were the parents of ten children, seven of whom are still living and well known ingredients printed on the back of in Sulliven, namely: Lee Taylor of Hattie Pifer, Mrs. Frankie Sharp, and beids cassful of the welfare of James T. Taylor, of Pana; Mart Taylor of Lovington and Wm. Taylor, living in Kansas City.

Mr. Taylor has always stood high qr dry' question on April 5. in every community in which he has lived, and with his brothers, have been a bright and shining light in the church of their choice. None of the family have ever had a greed tor gain in this world; but have worked to lay up treasures where "moth doth not corrupt and thieves do not break in and steal."

The writer of this article has kno n and associated with eleven of the fourteen members of Uncle Jimmy Taylor's family.

SATIONALIST IS STARRING

Rev. Cader Edwards Davis, who is low in limelight as a vaudeville star in New York, was born about 12 miles west of this city in the Whitley Creek neighborhood, where relatives still reside, About fourteen years ago he was pastor of the Christian church at 1600 Wabash avenue in this city and caused a sensation by his eccentricities. He was thoroughly ministerial in his appearance, a brilliant orator and an energetic paster. After leaving here he went to California, where he stirred the whole country by his waltzing in the pulpit to show how beautifully it could be and should be done to pass muster in his camp of Christianity. Several times he has bobbed up serenely through some eccentricity, but all previous records are broken by his appearing in vandeville in the eastern cities, where he is attracting more attention than ever before given him throughout histcareer. His presenc stunts are capping the climax in his presentation of "Cyril Vane in Oscar Wild's Picture of Dorian Gray." Davis is also writing a book under the title of "The Unmasking" which is said to be of a character that will make other risque books of a recent date read nursery tales.

His wite, who was formerly Miss Blood, an actress, who is with her husband on the vaudeville stage an is assisting him in winning the fame which is nation wide, but not at al complimentary to the cloth. He has not surrendered his preaching and now sometimes takes to the pulpit a a change as was evident in a whol page write-up in the last Sunday New York World, profusely illustrated. ### A HOME DEFENDER Homes are the centers from which everthing in life radiates. All pathways leading throub the world, whether in the public eye or the private way, start from homes. All the citizens of the world begin their journey from these central places.

And they give to the world, as they go on, that which their homes have made them: For no matter what other influences may play a part in C. F. Howell vs. John Rainey and development, the home is the real maker of the human being and no school, however wisely conducted no influence, however great, can make good the lack of a proper home.

Consciously or unconsciously, we bear the hall marks of our homes upon our characters, our manners, our, ideals.

The scope of home is infinity wideued by conception. It removes it from the limited range of n place in which to be fed, clothed, sheltered, corrected or spoiled, and graduate from to a pos sible power so great that its influence is parctically unbending. It changes it from a place of petty, narrow, perso al satisfaction to thh dignity of a pasic unit of usefulness in the great world body.

Could all homes become all that th study of their possibilities suggests certain other institutions might become obselete. Reformatories, the makeshif boarding schools, prisons, perhaps even divorce courts, might in time be abolished, The larger aspect of the home and its use cannot bs too earnestly dwelt upon or too reverently thought about and studied for there is to done in the world certai work which can never be accomplish ed by any other means .- The New Idea Woman's Magazine for April.

Easter services were observed at the Christian church by very appropriate and very entertaing exercise by the children. They were drilled by Mis. Arthur Keys and Miss Gertie

The accompanying illustrations show a house design especially adapted to the needs of suburban or country. building. The requirements for a method would certainly make a fire-dwelling house for such a location are proof roof, and the cement plaster different in a good many respects from those in a city. More attention should be paid to the matter of making the house as nearly fireproof as possible: for in the country, as well as in our smaller towns and suburbs, there is no fire protection. Accordingly, if a buildonce takes fire, nothing can be done except to watch it burn. Of sourse, the fire risk from adjoining buildings is much greater in thickly settled communities, but the fire-fight-ing apparatus which, is quickly available more than makes up for this ex-

NIGHT TELEGRAPH FOR BOYS

Apparatus Arranged for Use After Dark by Two Clever Youths,

John and Charley are two very elever boys, even if they are rela-tives of the author. They live on op-posite sides of a river, are fast friends and spend as much time together as they can. They have a boat of their own making in which they cross own making in which they cross back and forth; and they have worked nicating agross the water.

Thus, if the boat is on Charley's side of the river and John wants it or him, he goes to the river bank and swings his hat, spelling out his mes-sage, telegraph fashion, up and down movements meaning dots and right and left dashes. If Charley is not in sight John goes to his own room and hangs out a flag. When Charley's flag appears, showing that he is ready to receive the message, it is spelled out to him het feebler. to him hat fashion.

This works well in the daytime, but ne evening when I was visiting one evening when I was John's parents we planned an excur sion requiring an early start, and wanted Charley to go with us, says a writer in an exchange. The boat was on his side; we could not make him hear and to go round by the bridge meant a ten-mile ride, which neither of us wished to take, So we decided to try a lamp signal. We went to John's room and waited until a light appeared in Charley's. Could we attract his attention?

We set the lamp on the window sill and began to turn the wick up and down, making it bright and dark in the room, at regular intervals; but Charley took no notice. At last his light went out, and John said: "No use; he's gone to bed."

"Try again," I said; "from a dark room he will be more apt to see our light, and his bed faces the window. We did try, but had almost lost hope, when the light flashed out from Charley's window, and a rapid raising and lowering of the curtain showed that he recognized that we were calling him.

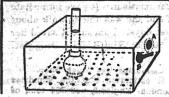

Then by long and short flashes we spelled out: "Come over early in the

We had to repeat it several times before he caught the idea and replied with his lamp: "Yes; I understand."

He was across by daylight next morning, and the excursion was all we anticipated. Coming home the boys eagerly discussed several plans for night signals. They had decided to have me send them, on my return to the city, a couple of "bull's eye lanterns" to signal with, when I suggested that it might save time and be gested that it might save time and be cheaper to make something for themselves that would answer their purpose. They tried, and after some experimenting produced a cigar box apparatus that worked admirably; each boy having one.

It was fixed in this way: Through the top of a cigar box they cut a hole for the chimney of an ordinary lamp, and smaller holes were to be bored in the bottom to supply the lame with air. In the end of the box they cut a round window and covered it on the inside with a piece of glass, in case they might want to signal out of doors. On the outside of the window they fixed a shutter, hung so as to swing over the opening and shut out the light. The messages were spelt out by means of short and long flashes. With a little practice the boys became quite expert in talking by lamp signals, and they often amuse themselves in the evenings with such silent conversations, through half a mile of darkness.

The Busy Mouse.

It has been found that the mouse when he is free to range about, sleeps only two hours in the 24, or less than any other animal known. During the of the time he is on the hustle and probably covers five miles in his runnings. The honey bee sleeps from dark to dawn, and that old saying, "as busy as a bee," should be changed to "as busy as a mouse." In four days and nights a mouse will either eat or convey a pound of cheese. He has always got his appetite with him.

tional game, in a small way, and adds zest to the ordinary game of "catch." Two manikins are mounted on a base. The first manikin has a batting arm operated by a strong spring and holding a ball in loops on the end. The second manikin holds over its arm a hook, which engages the bat of the figure ahead and which has at the other end a cord running under the base board. When this cord is pulled the batting arm of the forward figure is released, and the ball sent spinning from its loops. As the spring is a strong one, the ball may be cast across an ordinary room, where other persons playing must try to catch it. The base of this apparatus can be shifted from side to side to change the direction of the ball, thus making the game more interesting and the ball more difficult to catch. By this means a regular ball game may be played under the rules which can be formulated by the players to give value to such "hits" as are made.

GOOD MANNERS TAUGHT CLASS

St. Paul Teacher Acts on Unique Suggestion of One of Her Pupils, Not Long Here.

Miss Margaret Lennon, principal the McKinley school, agreeing with Lord Chesterfield that "good manners are to particular societies what good morals are to society in generalheir cemer realizing the importance of the subect, has instituted an innovation in school instruction by devoting a part of the time usually spent in the classroom to what the children call "good manners class."

This class includes every member of the school, which has an average attendance of between 800 and 1,000, and is held in the assembly room on the third floor at irregular times and without notice, says St. Paul Pioneer Press. Here the children are allowed to ask questions pertaining to good manners. Each child seks a question and then answers it himself. The rest of the pupils listen and make corrections. Miss Lennon lays no claim to the honor of suggesting the new idea. She gives all the credit to a 15-year-old named Alfred D'Arcey. Alfred was born in Antwerp, Belgium, where e was educated under private tutors to speak four languages. He came to America a year and a half ago and entered the McKinley school. One day he startled his teacher by rising in class and deploring the ill manners of the American children as compared with the better class in his compared with the better class in his native land and by asking why good manners were not taught in the schools. Miss Lennon heard of his remark and immediately decided to try his suggestion.

House Committee Refuses to Honor Pole Discoverer.

Representative Macon Openly Hinte He Has Doubts Whether Naval Officer Found "Top of the World."

Washington.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook no doubt has gotten much solace out of the fact that the subcommittee of the house naval committee has re-fused to bestow a reward upon Commender Robert E. Peary.

The house committee wants proof.

Peary has refused to submit it for the reason that it would interfere with his lectures and magazine articles. Evidently Pears thinks dently Peary thinks more of the money he can make by writing and lecturing than he does of a reward bestowed by congress, so there the matter rests. Representative Macon of Arkansas was the chief objector to conferring congressional honor upon Peary until the commander produces the proof of his claim that he found the north pole.

"I confess that I am exceedingly skeptical about Mr. Peary's ever hav-ing discovered the pole," declared Mr. Macon before the committee, "and I am going to protest against any honor being conferred upon him by congress until he has established beyond a re sonable doubt that he did discover it, sonable doubt that he use understand it must be established in the open and not in the dark." He expressed himself as being "indignant at the thought of being called upon as a representative of the American people to confer a high honor upon any one of its citizens in the dark." All legislation by congress, he said, ought to be open and above board.

Mr. Macon said he wanted to direct attention to one "discrepancy" in Mr. Peary's story. This was the speed which the explorer declared he made from the time Capt. Bartlett left him until he reached the pole. Mr. Peary said that for five days he made 26.4 miles per day; but, Mr. Macon said, this appeared very singular in view of the fact that the Peary party had made but 9.06 miles per day up to the time Bartlett left.

Diagram of Peary's Route.

"The astonishing part of Mr. Peary's statement," said Mr. Macon, "is the number of miles he traveled every day after Bartlett left him and when no white man was with him as witness, his only companion being his negro valet and four Eskimos. His greatest marches, singularly, were all north of the Bartlett camp. From that time forward, going to the pole and returning to Cape Columbia, he claims to have made an average of 26.4 miles per day until he reached the pole, 44 miles per day on his way back from the pole to Bartlett's camp and 28.6 miles per day from Bartlett's camp to Cape Columbia.

Mr. Macon declared that Mr. Peary's own statements showed that he equaled this speed but twice during the entire journey to the pole. The first day he started from land he made 26 miles in 14 hours of forced march, "which Mr. Peary has told us was about the limit of human endurance."

Mr. Macon quoted Lieut. Shackleton, Gen. Greely and others to show that "ten or twelve miles per day, or slightly more, perhaps, is considered the limit of human endurance, traveling over polar seas.'

only member of the committee who did not vote to defer action on the bill was Representative Englebright of California, who said he was convinced that Mr. Peary had discovered the pole and that the committee had sufficient proofs before it.

Representative Bates of Pennsylvania, heretofore considered a supporter of Peary, offered the resolution, which was adopted, declaring that the committee must have further proof before proceeding.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? We can furnish positive proof that it has made many remarkable cures after all other means had failed.

Women who are suffering with some form of female illness should consider this.

As such evidence read these two unsolicited testimonial letters. We guarantee they are genuine and honest statements of facts.

Cresson, Pa.—"Five years ago I had a bad fall, and hur myself inwardly. I was under a doctor's care for nine weeks and when I stopped I grew worse again. I sent for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, took it as directed and now I am a stout, hearty woman."—Mrs. Ella E. Aikey Cresson, Pa.

I am completely cured of mills, and I am nearly sixty years old."—Mrs. Sarah Leighton Raird. Wash. Baird, Wash.

Evidence like the above is abundant showing that the derangements of the female organism which breed all kinds of miserable feelings and which ordinary practice does not cure, are the very disorders that give way to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who are afflicted with similar troubles, after reading two such letters as the above, should be encouraged to try this wonderfully helpful remedy.

WORLD'S SUPPLY OF IVORY

Ten Thousand Elephants Slaughtere Yearly to Meet the Demand for the Product.

In spite of the great demands of the arts and trades for ivory, the quantity imported at Antwerp, London and Liverpool, the principal markets of world, remains almost constant. The total was 484 French tons in 1888 and 469 tons in 1908. In the years between it has been as high as 688 tons, in 1900.

Antwerp was unknown as an ivory market 20 years ago, but now sur-passes London in the size of its trade, owing to the opening of the Cong

Occasionally tusks are found weigh ing 150 pounds, but one of 50 pounds is considered a fine specimen. The law both India and the Congo forbids the export of tusks weighing less than six pounds.

But even allowing 100 pounds pair, the amount taken to Europe in year means the death of more than 10.000 e'ephants, probably twice that number, for many elephants are killed that yield no ivory, females, for instance.

The price varies from $1 to $3 a pound, according to quality.

Artificial Ode The chemical odors and artificient ethereal oils of German manufacture have greatly injured the French flower-field industry, as the prices for the artificial edors are much less than those of the natural ones.

"I think you would have been glad if some one had brought your ball back to you."

"Oh, but they couldn't," said Bobby "It was gone for good just as soon as it hit the sewer hole. I don't see why they have those bars so far apart 'Most anything could fall in. Mamie Kelly knows a woman who lost a solid gold watch down one of 'em. Billy says he bets it was only plated.' "Well is it the watch that has been

"No, sir; they couldn't ever get that without taking up the pipes, could they? Mamie Kelly says it was lost a whole lot of years ago."

"Oh, I thought it was an occurrence in modern history," said his father What has been found, then?

"Well," Bobby began, nervously, "a feller I know found a knife. It's a bully knife, with six blades, and only two broke. It's just what anybody'd want who didn't have one, like me. I don't know why nobody gave me knife for Christmas."

"That was a serious oversight, admit," said his father. "Go on."
"Well-now-er-can't the feller keep it?"

"It belongs to somebody. Do you know whose it is?"

"I think maybe I do."

"Well, then, I advise you to tell this boy when you happen to meet him that you know whose knife he found, so that he may take it to the owner. "Yes—but—" Bobby stammered

"Yes—but—" Bobby stammered. "You see, it's Sam's knife, and Sam says finders is keepers. I'd like to know why a feller should act different to Sam than from did to me. He sent my ten cent.

"Now, look here, Bobby," said his father, seriously. "Of course you haven't told me who found that knife, "Of course you but just suppose it was you, what would you do?"

Bobby gave his father a startled look and then gazed at the spot where his toe was digging a hole in the rug "Come, Bobby," his father reminded

"I am waiting." "Well," said Bobby, slowly, "I guess if it was me, I'd give it back.

"Yes, I think you would." Bobby reached for his coat, which vas conveniently at hand. "I'll be back pretty soon," he said, astily. "I'm just going over to London's Sunday Mail Service.

There is no postal delivery in Lon don on a Sunday, but it is possible to send a letter by "express delivery" on Saturday which will be delivered on Sunday on payment of a fairly high mileage rate by the recipient. A new system was introduced last Sunday by which envelopes marked on the out side "for telephone delivery" are opened on Sunday and the contents telephoned to the addressee at 8:30

The charge in addition to the ordi nary two cents postage is six cents for every 30 words. Thus a 60-word message would cost 14 cents as compared with 60 cents if sent by telegraph, while express delivery might cheaper if the distance was not great from the receiving postoffice.

Only 42 messages were handled the first Sunday and many of these were sent by newspapers to test the serv-

Mr. Toppan is one of Lynn's most prominent and highly respected merchants, whose word is as good as his bond.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains the two most world-famed tonics—the medicinal, strength-ening, body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil and Tonic Iron. Your Money Back If You Are Not Satisfied.

The door was left open for the oldest son to come in late at a home near Carlisle street and Synder ave nue, a few nights ago, but before the son arrived a neighbor who had been out with "the boys" invaded the home and selected nothing less than the parlor, where he seated himself in a large rocking chair and began singing.

A little daughter of the family was the first to hear the music and she ran to her mother, informing her after she had succeeded in arousing her was only after the mother listened several minutes that she, too, heard and was convinced that it was in their house. The husband and father was aroused and he headed the procession down the stairs with a lighted candle. As he reached the door to the parlor he made a rush at the man and was about to strike him when he recognized the intruder as his neighbor.

The next morning the unfortunate fellow hired a man to paint his door and window frames a color different from that neighbor's home. He added that regardless where he spends his evenings, he never becomes color blind.—Philadelphia Times.

Keep Cheerful. From a scientific standpoint a cheerful temper is better than medicine or gold. It tones the system. It gives one a sane outlook on life. But the grouch, physiologically and psychical ly, is dangerous.

Train the Girls for Wifehood. The crying defect of this age is that the average girl will learn only a smattering of the manifold and complicated details of housekeeping. She expects to marry a man who will be able to "hire a girl." Domestic servants now get wages which average— all things included—more than the average mechanic, and they are not as a rule, well trained, but are wasteful and extravagant. The wife leaves most of the household management to easier to do so, but because she does not know how to do anything else. It is like taking a tracklayer, and, without any preliminary training, making him superintendent of a railroad. The girls need to be trained to become better wives and mothers. At present they get, in many instances, almost no training, save some of a kind which is worse than none at all. It is which is worse than none at all.—Lip-pincott's Magazine.

Washington.-John J. Vertrees made the opening statement on behalf of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger Saturday and began the presentation of testimony in the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation. The committee twice declined to grant the request of Attorney Brandeis, representing Louis R. Glavis and others, to compel the immediate attendance of Mr. Ballinger as a witness.

Mr. Vertrees declared that the testi mony of Glavis and others would be shown to be "grossly false."

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with the introduction of John Stephens, adventurer, a Massachusetts man marconed by authorities at Valparaleo, Chile. Being interested in mining operations in Bolivia, he was deacunced by Chile as an insurrectionist and as a consequence was hiding. At his hotel his attention was attracted by an Englishman and a young woman from a Grunken officer. He was thanked by as Admiral of the Peruvian navy conronted Stephens, told him that war had been declared between Chile and Peru and offered him the office of captain. He desired that that night the Esmeralda, a Chilean vessel, should be captured. Stephens accepted the commission. Stephens met a motley crew, to which he was assigned. "He gave them final instructions." They, boarded the vessel.

The pipe fell with a click to the sek, the fellow's eyes staring up at leek, the fellows eyes staring up a. a., his opened mouth showing oddly mid a surrounding gray beard. A moment later, securely gagged and bound, we rolled his body close in ainst the rail.

"I thought I heard a bit of a blow and a yelp on the fo'castle just now, sir," said one of the men, pointing agerly forward. I stood still, intent y listening, staring into the gloom. "Quiet enough there at present. Probably Mr. Tuttle has been attend-ing to the for ard watch. Come on, lads, and we'll join forces with him." Beyond all doubt the main deck was clear as far as the bridge, and, providng Tuttle's crew had attended to heir share of the work, as far as the to'castle head as well. We advanced cautiously, keeping close within the denser shade along the weather rail, nusing a moment to peer over the edge of the open hatchway into the illuminated space below. Two Ka-nakas, naked to the waist, their slim, brown bodies glistening, each graspng the handle of a coal scoop, were acked up against a bulkhead conrersing, while on a low stool, tipped ne rounded crosspiece, a pipe in his mouth, his hands buried deep in his pockets, saf a white man, with red face and long, sandy musiaches. As I drew back from this swift survey. Mr. Tuttle suddenly rounded the end of the charthouse, and, with whispered word of inquiry to one of the men, advanced to

I watched them as they swarme like rats over the hatch-combing and dropped down into the light. There was a scurrying of bodies, a sharp ex-change of blows, a yelp of alarm from the startled Kanakas, a stout volley of English oaths, and, when the tangle partially cleared away, the enginee was lying flat on his back, the kne of the big singer at Rodrigues' at his chest, and Tuttle holding a blue-bar-

However I may have disliked and distrusted the whaleman he certainly proved himself an able seaman and a smart officer. He comprehended every detail of his work, and held his men to it finely. Within 20 minutes we were in motion, moving slowly, yet steadily, the liquid with the merest faint ripple, scarcely leaving a gleam of white foam behind, the oars dipping silently, the two lines held taut to the strain. Exultant, I climbed once again to the bridge, gave a few directions to the observant Johnson standing motion-less at the wheel, and leaned anxiously over the rail, studying the water front through leveled glasses, The lift

It was a barren, descrited waste, ex-cept for a deeply laden schooner beat-ing slowly up along the north shore under closely reefed topsails, and the cleaming lights of a large steamer just beginning to emerge faintly through the curtain of fog a trifle to the left of our course. The towing the left of our course. The towing boats appeared as two insignificant blots on the surface, but that they were making excellent progress was proved by the way we were steadily drawing up toward the outer lights, already, shining round and yellow through the increasing haze.

How dark, silent, uncanny the gloom-enshrouded yacht appeared as I eaned over the tarpualin-protected rail and gazed down on the deserted decks, no movement, no gleam of light anywhere visible. The two masts, for the vessel was schooner-rigged, rose ra-kishly and with noble sweep into the sky, yet I could trace little of the cordage against the expanse of cloud. They appeared skeleton-like reeds to be broken by a gust of wind. A slight fringe of white water alone marked our progress, while a misty vapor of escaping steam spoke of the chained engine and hissing boilers below. As I rested thus, the watchful Jehnson grasping the spokes behind me, the momentous events of the past few hours swept through my mind like fragments of a strange, disconnected dream—my seemingly hopeless plight

He would feel little real interest in the affair, after he once clearly comprehended the situa-tion while a native Chilean might be impelled by a spirit of patriotism to cause us serious trouble. Englishmen were very frequently met with in foreign engine rooms; this fellow had probably been picked up because of better qualifications than any native applicant; or, indeed, he might have been a member of the original crew of the yacht before it was disposed of to the government. I would have a talk with him later; meanwhile he was certainly in good hands; and I had enduch (see to attend) to The tow-ropes came in hand over hand, and were coiled dripping on the fore-castle deck. # MODERN HOME -A WORD TO PARENTS and mothers realize the value of the souls of their children. Two years ago in Arkansas, a man bought 243 acres of land for $200. In passing over it one day he found a crystal, which attracted him, and when he took it into a neighboring city he found that it was a diamond. He sold the farm for $36,000, but now you could not buy it for $1,000 am acre, so great is the value of it. For years it was in the possession of its owner, and he was insensible to its priceless worth; but this is nothing as compared with the worth of an immortal soul, and one never will be concerned about winning one's children to Christ until he realizes their value in the sight of God and also that the only hope for them is in Jesus Christ. This is for all without discrimination—none too rich and none too poor none too wise and none too ignorant, none too young and none too old. A street preacher in London, speaking on the blessing of the peacemakers, who were the children of God, gave an invitation to all who would accept him to come forward, and a little street urchin, with ragged clothes and dirty face, pushing his way to the front, holding his mother by the hand, speaking in the vernacular of the street, said: "Say, boss, I would like to be one of them chilluns of God, if I am not too small, and," pointing back to his mother with his thumb, he said, "she would like to be one of the chilluns of God, if she is not too big." That is the beauty of it. The Eternal Life, Jesus Christ, is for all, and it is this that makes the home beautiful.

Two Homes Contrasted.

The best way I know to teach my lesson is to give the picture of two homes. One has an old-fashioned fa-ther, like the man who came into his boy's room when he was dying to tell him that he would soon be with Christ, and the little fellow drew him on his knees beside the bed and said: "Fe ther, don't cry, for as soon as I see Jesus I will tell him that ever since can remember you sought to bring

Such a father is unlike the one of the Mississippi river, with a great plantation, his million of dollars in the bank and his name spoken every where as a synonym of wealth and power. He came to his house to learn that his boy had fallen in front of a great reaping machine and was frightfully mangled. When the boy found that he must die, he said: "Fsther, I cannot die; you never told me how to die. You must pray for me;" but the father could not pray. Before the minister came, the boy dead. And the father said he would give all he had if he could have him back, or if he could have offered one

The Old-Fashloned Mother.

There is a home where an oldfashioned mother presides like queen. Thank God, some of us have and others have had, old-fashioned mothers. Dear, old-fashioned, sweet-faced mother! Eyes in which the love-light shone, her brown hair threaded with silver, lying smoothly or the faded cheek; her dear hands, worn with much toil, gently guiding our tottering steps in childhood and smoothing our pillow in sickness, ever reaching out to us in yearning ten derness. Precious memory of an old-fashioned mother! It floats to us now, like the powerful perfume of some fragrant blossom. The music of other voices may be lost, but the entrancing memory of her will echo in our souls forever. Other faces will fade away and be forgotten, but hers will shine on until the light from heaven's portals shall glorify our own -Christian Herald. a attitle to be

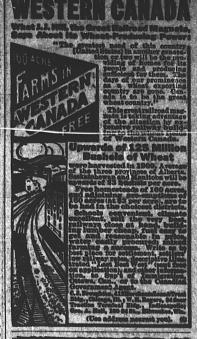

It seems to me it is the same with love and happiness and with sorrowcan feel what other people's lives are or ought to be, and so we shall only be more tender to them and wishful child's angel Will do so some day?" The great thing is to have felt the anctity and immortal beauty of our obscure destiny, to have been led by a series of experiences to love this life for its griess and hopes, to love men for their weakness and great ness and to belong to humanity through the heart, the intelligence and the soul - Wagner.

Be not asliamed to be helped; for it is thy business to do thy duty like a soldier in an assault on a town. How then if being, lame, thou canst not mount up on the battlements alone, but with help of another it is possible?—Marcus Aurelius. has alled myon it
