Smith & Ward are business men who believe in the use of printer's ink. Besides the hundred of large bills scattered in many directions they advertised in the HERALD to tell people about the sale, and the large crowds of customers who came to buy found everything exactly as had been advertised.

POLITICAL DOPE.

MARION PETERS WILL MAKE HIS DEBUT AS SHERIFF LIKELY CANDIDATE FOR LEGISLATURE.

Thomas M. Lyman of Champaign, who is an avowed candidate for minority representative in the legislature, may be opposed by Sheriff Marion Peters, whose term expires this fall. The Sheriff is said to look with favor on the plan and may announce soon.

Homer Shaw of DeWitt has not signified his intentions as yet, but may be a candidate again.

George Davis of Homer is reported to have a bee for the g. o. p. nomination for Sheriff for which Phil Gunning of Tolono also applies.—CHAMPAIGN TIMES, news item, issue of May 28, 1910.

ACCURACY.

Last week the esteemed Champaign Times made the statement that Sheriff Marion Peters would strive for the nomination for minority representative in this district with Thomas Lyman, an "avowed" candidate. As the editor of this paper did not believe this statement he has gone to the trouble to interview Mr. Lyman and Mr. Lyman indicates how much of an "avowed" candidate he is in the following statement.

"I am not a candidate for the nomination for State representative, and all newspaper items announcing such candidacy are without my authority. I will say further that in my opinion we ought to nominate a Moultrie County man this year. They have never had a Democratic Representative in the ten years that county has been in our district. It was their turn two years ago when for the sake of party harmony their committee men yielded to the two candidates of some of the Champaign County Democrats, and in the election that followed the Moultrie candidate was defeated by Mr. Shaw of Piatt County. It seems only fair and Democratic that Moultrie should have the candidate this time, and if the Democrats of that county want an equal for a good man for the State, I would like to see them nominate one."

—CHAMPAIGN TIMES, June 3rd, 1910.

Homer E. Shaw of DeWitt was the successful candidate for minority representative in this district. In Moultrie, the home county of G. A. Fields, he ran 449 votes ahead of Mr. Shaw while in Piatt, the home county of Mr. Shaw, Shaw ran 443 votes ahead of Mr. Fields. This would have given the election to Mr. Fields by six votes had Champaign County voted without a scratch, as was expected, but in this county, where Mr. Shaw was so much better known, he ran 338 1-2 votes ahead of Mr. Fields and it elected him. It is no discredit to Mr. Fields that he was defeated for he is a most excellent man. So is Mr. Shaw. But in the election of Mr. Shaw the old compact was broken of giving the minority representative to Champaign county twice and the two smaller counties once each. This year was Moultrie's turn under the agreement. It can hardly be carried out any more because of the new primary law, wherein a candidate may be nominated without regard to past agreements. In the election of Mr. Shaw the University has a staunch friend and he will fight hard to legislate with all the power within him. On the local option question he is a conservative. While he is a temperance man he would more likely vote to allow municipalities to regulate their own affairs quicker than he would to extend the liquor question to county option.—CHAMPAIGN TIMES November, 14, 1908.

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with the introduction of John Stephens, an adventurous, Massachusetts man, marooned by authorities at Valparaiso, Chile. Being interested in mining operations in Bolivia, he was denounced by Chile as an insurrectionist and as a consequence was confined in his hotel his attention was attracted by an Englishman and a young woman. Stephens rescued the young woman from a drunken officer. He was thanked by her. Admiral of the Peruvian navy confronted Stephens, told him that war had been declared between Chile and Peru and offered him the office of captain. He desired that that night the Esmeralda, a Chilean vessel, should be captured. Stephens accepted the office of commissioner. Stephens met a motley crew, to which he was assigned. He gave them final instructions. They boarded the vessel. They successfully captured the vessel supposed to be the Esmeralda, through strategy. Capt. Stephens gave directions for the departure of the craft. He entered the cabin and discovered the English woman and her maid. Stephens quickly learned the wrong vessel had been captured. It was Lord Darlington's private yacht, the Lady Darlington, which was supposed to be taken in order to go to the Antarctic circle. Tuttle explained that on a former voyage he had learned that the Donna Isabel was lost in the Antarctic. He found it frozen in a huge mass of ice on an island and contained much gold. Stephens consented to be the captain of the expedition. The Lady Darlington. She was greatly alarmed, but expressed confidence in him. The Sea Queen encountered a vessel in the fog. Stephens attempted to communicate. This caused a fierce struggle and he was overcome. Tuttle finally squaring the situation. Then the Sea Queen headed south again. Under Tuttle's guidance the vessel made progress toward its goal. De Nova, the mate, told Stephens that he believed Tuttle, now acting as skipper, insane because of queer actions. Stephens was awakened by crashing of glass. He saw Tuttle in the grip of a spasm of religious mania and overcame him. The story upon regaining his senses was taken ill. Tuttle committed suicide by shooting. Upon vote of the crew Stephens assumed the leadership and the men decided to continue the treasure hunt, the islands being supposed to be only 20 miles distant. Tuttle was buried at sea. Lady Darlington pronounced the service. Stephens awaiting from sleep saw the ghost, supposed to have formed the basis for Tuttle's religious mania.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Continued.

By heaven, for her sake, if for no other reason, I would play the man! Ay, and I comprehended exactly what such resolve would cost—realized fully that that mongrel crew would say and do the moment their ghostly terrors fled, and they knew I had given up search for the treasure. I should have to command by brute force, by threat and blow. There would be mutiny aboard for every league until we made port. I knew the nature of that sea-scum forward—how they would whine and curse, how they would hate me for falling to hold them to their course in face of death! Well, let them hate; my love was worth by far the more, and the life and honor of Lady Darlington outweighed all else on board—ay, and the treasure of the Donna Isabel! "Impudently" I saw her eyes again as she said it, and sprang to the deck, fumbling in the darkness for the latch of my door.

The main cabin was dimly lighted and chill, the fire in the stove low. I paused to rattle it, and add a few lumps of coal from the scuttle standing near by. In spite of surrounding comforts what a grim, inhospitable place this was for any woman like her! The very snugness of the cabin served only to emphasize the gloom and peril without, the frightful polar mystery which surrounded us, which drives men mad amid its awful distances, its shrouded silence.

Suddenly, directly opposite where I stood, I saw it again—that same shapeless, white, gliding figure. An instant only I stood rooted to the spot, my blood like ice, my eyes full of horror. Then the swift reaction came, the reserve courage of a man ashamed of such weakness, and I leaped straight toward the misty object, grappling at it with my hands. I touched nothing but air, falling headlong with a violence jarring the entire cabin, and overthrowing a chair crashing to the deck. Dazed, confused, I staggered to my knees, staring about into the dim shadows. A white-draped figure was at my very elbow, and I sprang to my feet, only to take a quick step backward, grasping at the table, as I recognized Lady Darlington.

"Good God! was that you?" I gasped, the horror still possessing me.

"This certainly is," she answered, swiftly. "But what do you mean? What has occurred?"

"I hardly know," and I looked about me, and then into her face, breathing heavily. "I seem unable to separate the real from the unreal. I am half afraid I am losing my mind. Lady Darlington, it is not only the crew forward who are seeing ghosts on board. I laughed at my experience, before, believing it a mere illusion that could never occur again. In that spirit I told you about seeing a white, misty figure in this cabin the night after Tuttle died. It vanished like a wraith of smoke, and daylight made me believe the vision was born of a tired brain. But I have seen it again—now—yonder, as plainly as I can see you. It was no dream, no imagination; yet

"Damn you, McKnight, lie still!" I panted.

when I sought to grasp the thing, my fingers encountered nothing but air."

I saw her hands tremble, her white face turned whiter I pointed; but she had not beheld what I had, and her mind remained clear.

"What was it you saw?"

"A shapeless white figure, misty, vanishing like a bubble."

"Yonder, you say? Just where you saw it before?"

I had not thought of that, yet it was true—there, beside Tuttle's door. An instant she stood motionless, her eyes searching the dim corners of the cabin, as though tracing some suspicion awakened within her mind. Suddenly she clasped my arm.

"We do not believe in ghosts, Mr. Stephens, you and I," her voice growing firmer with conviction. "Our education and training make such a conception impossible. There is a natural cause for this, a reason, an actual presence back of the shadow. There's must be, and we must find it. Where did you stand when you saw this apparition?"

I stepped back to the spot beside the stove, realizing that she still clung tightly to me.

"Here, and I lifted my eyes like this."

She leaned eagerly forward, her breath on my cheek, her fingers clutching my arm.

"Why—why that is a mirror you are looking into! See! What is it reflected there? Turn up the light until I locate the spot. Oh, I see now—the open pantry door. Mr. Stephens, there is where your ghost stood—it was the shadow of a man reflected in that mirror."

Our eyes met, all my former terror fled, shame and anger dominating me.

"Dad?"

"It might be—certainly some one who sought in that way to terrorize officers and crew, and thus compel them to turn back. Whoever it was, he killed Mr. Tuttle, and now seeks to accomplish the same end with you. What are you going to do?"

"Trace him down. The last time the fellow went directly from here to the forecabin. There must be a passageway from stem to stern."

She caught me as I turned, her gray eyes wide with apprehension.

"You will take me with you?"

"That will be impossible, Lady Darlington. I know nothing regarding this passage amidships, but it must surely lead through the coal bunkers and the engine room."

"But—but I cannot let you go alone, utterly forgetting to conceal her agitation. Truly, I could not bear to do it. Whoever this man may be he will become desperate when cornered. Your very life will be in danger."

"And you really care?" my hand clasping hers, my eyes eagerly searching the gray depths.

"Yes, I care," making no effort to free herself, "why should I not? Think what our condition would be if you were not on board. Yet that is not all; I care because I value your life, your friendship. Little as I can do, let me, at least, be near you."

"You are near me," said I, utterly forgetful of circumstances in the sudden rush of passion, "always near me, because my thoughts are with you, my sole purpose in life to serve you."

The gray eyes fell instantly; the clasping hand was withdrawn and pressed to her forehead.

"I—I will try to do as you wish," she faltered, "but are you armed?"

"Not now, but I will get a revolver from my stateroom. First, let me help you to your cabin."

She permitted my guidance without a word of protest, only glancing once up into my face as she put a question. "You will return here? you will let me know at once what you discover? Promise me this."

"I promise; and more, I will pledge myself to be cautious, so do not worry."

I procured my revolver, turned the light low once more in the main cabin, and then stole silently into the narrow passageway leading forward. There was no light in the pantry, but the faint reflection from the cabin enabled me to distinguish the more prominent outlines. A form lay outstretched on a locker, and I bent over it silently. It was Dede, curled up on his side and sound asleep. There was no doubt about the reality of his slumber; the fellow was not shamming, and I drew back, leaving him undisturbed. The alleyway leading forward was extremely narrow, yet of a height sufficient to afford comparatively easy passage had it only been lighted. Suddenly a faint glow appeared ahead, and a moment later I slipped cautiously through a small bulkhead door standing ajar, into a low, square room, containing six bunks arranged in tiers of two. A slush lamp swung from a blackened beam, and various articles of wearing apparel dangled from hooks. I peered into the bunks, discovering three occupied, the unconscious sleepers being Cooky, the smooth-faced Chilean, and the gunner, a Swede named Gustafson. None awoke under my scrutiny, although the Chilean was talking in his sleep and thrashing his arms about as if in nightmare. I bent down, looking at him more closely, attracted by something oddly familiar in the upturned features. By all the gods, the fellow was Lieut. Juan Sanchez, his long mustaches shaven, and looking ten years younger! It was so odd a thing, this sudden renewal of a comrade's originating thousands of leagues away, that I nearly laughed outright, forgetting for the instant the serious purpose bringing me there.

Yet this surprising discovery of Sanchez aboard seemed of comparatively little importance, and was as quickly dismissed. The narrow bulkhead door leading forward was tightly closed, and in that dim light I had to hunt for it, so perfectly was it fitted into place. When discovered, however, it proved to be unfastened, and I stepped forth into an empty coal bunker, whence I could look straight forward along the glowing boilers into the engine room. I advanced carefully along the slight, open space until I came upon the squad of firemen and big Bill Anderson. The latter shaded his eyes, staring at me as though he mistook me for another ghost, but I took the initiative.

"I have been investigating the arrangement of things below, Anderson," I said, in explanation; "rather odd way in which the yacht is cut up. Did you know there was a passage leading all the way aft?"

The boatswain shook his head, too surely naturally to answer.

"Well, possibly you know whether or not a similar passage leads forward into the forecabin?"

"There's a bulkhead door over there," he returned, indicating by a gesture a spot concealed by the donkey pump, "but I don't know where it goes, only it's dark as hell."

"It comes out under the forecabin, sir," broke in a coal heaver named Davis. "Leastwise there's a trap in the deck there, with a ladder leading down."

"I'll finish the trip through, then, for I like to know what is under my feet when I command a vessel. Where is the engineer, Anderson?"

He waved his big hairy hand in the direction of the boilers.

"Went to his bunk to lie down for an hour; he was about all in."

"Are you capable of standing watch alone in an engine room?"

The fellow grinned, his bulldog jaw protruding.

"Well, I've had to do it on this trip whether I'm capable or not. That fellow can't stand it in here night and day without no rest. I know how to start an' stop her, an' watch the water gauge. If anything else goes wrong he's easy enough called."

So it was McKnight who was playing the antics of a ghost on board; McKnight who had discovered that unusual passageway through the bulkheads; McKnight who had conceived the idea that in this manner he could frighten us into turning back. Well, truly, I did not altogether blame the man, and now that my own fear of the supernatural was allayed, did not feel any desire to punish him severely.

Still, his masquerade must stop before he thoroughly demoralized the crew, frightening them beyond all my power of control.

I discovered the door concealed behind the donkey engine, left it slightly ajar behind me, and stepped forward into the black passage. I had groped along to the very foot of the ladder, feeling nothing but bare walls, and hearing no sound except the slush of bilge water, when suddenly an inarticulate cry sounded almost directly above; something, a hatch cover possibly, seemed to settle into place, and the ladder shook under my hand. I drew back a step, permitting the fellow to come down until he reached the floor. My eyes, accustomed to the gloom, enabled me to dimly perceive his shape. It was no more than a formless smudge he made, but I struck straight for what seemed to be the head, and landed with a force that dropped him like a log. In an instant I was on top, clasping the canvas sheet he wore tightly about his arms, and throttling him against the deck. He fought like a wild bull for a moment, thoroughly frightened and whimpering, dazed by the suddenness of attack, yet following the animal instinct of a struggle for life.

"Damn you, McKnight, lie still!" I panted. "I've got you, and you might just as well take your medicine, my man. Yes, that's a gun you feel, and I know how to use it. So you're the ghost of the Sea Queen, are you? I guess you know what this means if I turn you over to those fellows, don't you?"

He groaned, and I ventured to release my grip on his throat, flinging back the canvas from his head.

"Sit up. Well, I'll tell you, McKnight—you would probably go overboard to feed the fishes. Do you recognize me?"

"Yes, sir," managing to find his voice for the first time. "You're Mr. Stephens."

"Right you are, and you can bless your lucky stars that I am the one who caught you. What started you on this trick?"

"It was the Chilean, sir, Sanchez; he said we could scare the whole outfit."

"Did he do any of the ghost playing?"

"No, sir; he didn't have the nerve, but—he rigged me up, and found out about these passageways."

What was I to do with the man? In truth there was little I dared to do under the circumstances.

"Now see here, McKnight," I said, soberly, "you quit this thing for good and all; if there is any more ghost walking done on the Sea Queen I'll turn you and Sanchez over to the men. Besides, there's no use resorting again to that sort of trick, for we're about at the end of our cruise."

"You mean we're going to turn north?"

"Yes. Now if I let you go will you behave yourself?"

SAVED OLD LADY'S HAIR

"My mother used to have a very bad humor on her head which the doctors called an eczema, and for it I had two different doctors. Her head was very sore, and her hair nearly all fell out in spite of what they both did. One day her niece came in and they were speaking of how her hair was falling out and the doctors did it no good. She says, 'Aunt, why don't you try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment?' Mother did and they helped her. In six months' time the itching, burning and scaling of her head was over and her hair began growing. Today she feels much in debt to Cuticura Soap and Ointment for the fine head of hair she has for an old lady of seventy-four."

"My own case was an eczema in my feet. As soon as the cold weather came my feet would itch and burn and then they would crack open and bleed. Then I thought I would see to my mother's friends, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I did for four or five winters, and now my feet are as smooth as any one's. # SLEW MUCH GAME IN JUNGLES OF AFRICA

Colonel Roosevelt Bagged Elephants, Lions and Many other Animals, Sending the Specimens to the Smithsonian Institute—Kermit the Expedition's Photographer.

Colonel Roosevelt added much to his fame as a hunter of big game during his 11 months in East Africa, and also sent a great number of valuable specimens of the fauna and flora of that region to the Smithsonian Institution, which partly financed the expedition. The individual expenses of Mr. Roosevelt and his son Kermit were paid by the former, who earned large sums by writing articles for a magazine descriptive of his experiences.

Not wanting much time after leaving the White House, Colonel Roosevelt sailed from New York on the steamship Hamburg, headed for Naples. With him were Kermit and three naturalists, Major Mearns, Edmund Heller and J. Alden Loring, and stowed in the hold was most of their elaborate outfit for killing or photographing the animals of East Africa and for preserving the specimens destined for the Smithsonian Institution. Kermit had trained himself to be the chief photographer of the expedition, but he also turned out to be considerable of a hunter.

A great throng of friends and admirers bade the colonel farewell, and he sailed away, but could not entirely separate himself from the world, for practically all the way across the Atlantic wireless communication with the Hamburg was maintained. Moreover, at Gibraltar, and again at Gibraltair, he found the officials and people insisted on doing him honor, and when he reached Naples on April 5 the entire populace turned out to greet him with flowers and cheers.

Boarding the German steamship Admiral for Mombasa, Mr. Roosevelt found in his cabin a quantity of flowers and a letter from Emperor William wishing him "good hunting." At Messina a stop was made to view the earthquake ruins, and there, at King Victor Emmanuel's request, Mr. Roosevelt and Kermit visited the Italian monarch on board the battleship Rex Umberto. The party arrived at Mombasa April 21 and was received by September 19, crossed Uganda and went down the White Nile, getting back to comparative civilization at Gondokoro. There they went aboard a steamer put at their disposal by the sirdar, and journeyed to Khartoum, where Mrs. Roosevelt met her husband, and accompanied him in a leisurely trip to Cairo. During his stay in Egypt Colonel Roosevelt was the recipient of many honors and made several speeches. One of them, in which he praised the administration of the British, gave considerable offense to the native Nationalists. At the end of March the Roosevelts sailed for Italy.

In a preliminary report to the Smithsonian Institution Mr. Roosevelt summarized the material results of the expedition as follows:

"On the trip Mr. Heller has prepared 1,020 specimens of mammals, the majority of large size; Mr. Loring has prepared 2,163, and Doctor Mearns 714—a total of 4,897 mammals. Of birds, Doctor Mearns has prepared nearly 3,100, Mr. Loring 899, and Mr. Heller about fifty—a total of about 4,000 birds.

"Of reptiles and batrachians, Messrs. Mearns, Loring and Heller collected about 3,000.

"Of fishes, about 500 were collected. Doctor Mearns collected marine fishes near Mombasa, and fresh water fishes elsewhere in British East Africa, and he and Cunningham collected fishes in the White Nile.

"This makes, in all, of vertebrates: Mammals..... 4,897 Birds (about)..... 4,000 Reptiles and batrachians (about)..... 3,000 Fishes (about)..... 500 Total..... 12,397

"The invertebrates were collected chiefly by Doctor Mearns, with some assistance from Messrs. Cunningham and Kermit Roosevelt.

"A few marine shells were collected near Mombasa, and land and fresh-water shells throughout the regions visited, as well as crabs, beetles, millipedes, and other invertebrates.

"Several thousand plants were collected throughout the regions visited

LAND IN CANADA AN INVESTMENT

WORK IT, AND SECURE 20 PER CENT. ON THE EXPENDITURE.

Farm lands in Canada increased in value this Spring from fifteen to twenty per cent, and as a result of this increase thousands of those who have gone there within the past few years have had that much more value added to their holdings. There is proof here that as a field for investment there is nowhere to be found a more profitable one than in purchasing farm lands in Canada. And, as a field for occupation and working the farms there is nowhere on the continent where more satisfactory returns is given. The crops are always sure and the prices are always good. With railroads entering and traversing all the settled parts, there are very few districts in which the farmer will be more than from ten to twelve miles from a railway station. Roads are good, and big loads are easily handled. The price of getting grain to the primary market is low on this account, and then in reaching the world's markets the railways have their rates controlled by the Government, and what may be considered a fair deal is certain. Good prices for all kinds of grain is the rule, and if the investor has made good money by the increased value given to his unworked land, it is not difficult to understand that the profit to the man who works his land is just that much more, and there will be no depreciation. The man who holds a free homestead of one hundred and sixty acres of land, which he got for $10 as an entry fee, has land which at its lowest estimate is worth $10 an acre—yes, $15 an acre—the moment he has completed his three years' residence duties. It will continue to increase in value until its earning power gives a reasonable interest on a certain sum. That is, if he takes off the land fifteen to twenty dollars per acre clear profit each year, his land is worth to him, at a fair rate of interest, $300 an acre. If he only realizes $10 an acre clear profit, it is worth $100 per acre. Now, thousands of farmers are duplicating these figures. The price of land in Canada today is much less than its real value. The fact that the fifty thousand Americans who went to Canada year before last were followed by one hundred thousand last year offers some evidence, and good evidence, too, that there is getting to be a pretty fair knowledge that money is to be made in Canada lands. As an investment money is to be made, but more by living upon the land, secured either by homestead or purchase. The one hundred thousand of last year will be one hundred and fifty thousand this year. These comprise people from every state in the Union, and it is just being realized the asset that awaits the homeseeker in Canada. The large numbers that have gone, though, makes no appreciable difference in the supply of land. There is still left vast quantities of the best of it. But the longer a delay is made in arriving at a decision, the price will advance proportionately, and the more desirable homesteads near the railway lines become more difficult to secure. The Government publishes interesting literature, which may be had on application to any of the agents whose offices are located at different points through the States, and they (the agents) will be pleased to assist in any way possible in the choice of location.

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear your self out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort.

Here is a stove that gives no outside heat. All its heat is concentrated at the burners. An intense blue flame (hotter than either white or red) is thrown upwards but not around. All the heat is utilized in cooking—none in outside heating.

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove

entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat—no smell—no smoke.

Why? Because The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is scientifically and practically perfect. You cannot use too much wick—it is automatically controlled. You get the maximum heat—no smoke. The burner is simple. One wick with a cloth cleans it—consequently there is no smell. The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is wonderful for year-round use, but especially in summer. Its heat operates upward to pan, pot, or kettle, but not beyond or around. It is useless for heating a room. It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot. It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 3 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet. Every factory everywhere; if not at yours, write for Descriptive Circular to the nearest agency of the

THE RAILWAY FROM MOMBASA

Acting Governor Jackson, who had been instructed by the British government to do all in his power to further the plans of the expedition. Unusual privileges were granted the hunters, and Mr. Roosevelt and Kermit were licensed to kill lions.

At Mombasa the party was joined by R. J. Cunningham, a veteran African hunter and explorer, and Leslie J. Tarleton, and these two managed the expedition in a most able manner. Taking train to Kapitli plains, the party became the guests of Sir Alfred Pease on his ranch. An immense caravan of 280 persons was organized and on April 25 Colonel Roosevelt had his first African hunt. On this occasion he bagged two wildebeests and a Thompson's gazelle. April 30 was a notable day in the camp on the Athi, for on that day the first lions fell victims to the marksmanship of the Roosevelts. Theodore shot two and Kermit one, and there was great rejoicing among the natives who made up the caravan. After that the big game came fast and cheetahs, giraffes, rhinoceroses and more lions were added to the list, in all 14 varieties of animals being secured. Meanwhile Kermit was busy with his camera and the naturalists prepared the specimens.

by Doctor Mearns, who employed and trained for the work a M'nyumzei named Makangari, who soon learned how to make very good specimens, and turned out an excellent man in every way.

"Anthropological materials were gathered by Doctor Mearns, with some assistance from others; a collection was contributed by Major Ross, an American in the government service at Nairobi."

Touching Fidelity of Dog. The fidelity of a dog was illustrated at the Ayrshire town of Girvan recently. Mrs. Dickie, a widow and dairy keeper, returning home from a visit the other night, collapsed on the road and lay unconscious for some hours. Her dog, which was accompanying her, remained on guard, and a man who came upon the scene was compelled to abandon his attempt at assistance owing to the animal's threatening demeanor. He happily thought of finding the woman's son, on whose arrival the dog became tractable and allowed its mistress to be removed home. It was found she had hurt a blood vessel, from which she died.

A New Reason. "Why must you have a $50 hat?" "If I get pinched for protruding hatpins—I want a hat valuable enough to be left as collateral."

And Socks. "The cost of living continues to go up." "That's right. Even low shoes are high these days."

V SMART BOY.

The noble youth with the bulging brow had read a great deal and was prepared to profit by his reading. When he started out to look for a job he knew just what to do. Seeing a sign, "Boy Wanted," he took it down, tucked it under his arm and went in to interview the manager.

"What do you want, young fellow?" growled the manager. "I want a job."

"What have you got that sign under your arm for?" "O, you won't need it any more; I'm the boy," said the youth with the bulging brow.

Then he waited for the rest to happen. It happened.

"Well this firm don't want any smart Alecks." You hang that sign right back where you got it and don't forget to close the door after you when you go out," said manager.

Realizing that something had gone wrong, and not knowing just what it was, the youth with the bulging brow wended his way homeward to read the story over again.

DANGER IN LICKING STAMPS Practice Has Been Known to Cause Acute Inflammation of the Tongue. Excellent Reason for Believing it Originated in Central Europe— Its Use in China.

The iron age is commonly believed to have begun in Africa and Asia. The latest investigations prove that it was not worked in Egypt until the ninth century before the Christian era; or in Libya until 450 B. C.; that the Semites adopted its use still later, and that it has been known in Uganda only with the last five or six centuries. In China iron is mentioned in 400 B. C. Bronze weapons were employed in China until 100 A. D., and in Japan until 700 A. D. According to a Mr. Ridgeway, who has investigated this subject, the metallurgy of iron must have originated in central Europe, especially in Noricum, which approximately represented modern Austria and Batavia Only at Hallstett and in Bosnia and Transylvania, from which countries the Achaeans and Dorians are supposed to have migrated to Greece, are found evidences of a gradual introduction of iron, at first as an ornament applied to the bronze, which it ultimately displaced. Everywhere else iron was introduced suddenly, a fact which implies a foreign origin. Meteoric iron was known in Egypt in remote antiquity, but not doubt it was worked as flints were worked, by cutting or chipping, and was not smelted. In other words, it was the metallurgy, not the knowledge of iron, that originated in central Europe.

WARREN TOPPAN, Lynn, Mass. Cured of severe compound cold and cough by Vinol. From Dec. 20, '08, to March 1, '09, I had three bad colds, one on top of the other. I got so weak I could hardly get around. Nothing seemed to help me until I began to take Vinol. The change was magic. Three bottles completely fixed that compound cold and stopped the terrible cough—and what surprised me most, at the same time it cured me of a severe stomach trouble that has bothered me for 20 years. Vinol is certainly a wonderful medicine. Mr. Toppan is one of Lynn's most prominent and highly respected merchants, whose word is as good as his bond. The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains the two most world-famed tonics—the medicinal, strengthening, body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil and Tonic Iron.  with the same amount of money he has invested in a $200 per acre Illinois farm.
 The man who has not examined the corn farms in Northwestern Ohio and Northeastern Indiana will be surprised and enthusiastic when he sees them—that is, the man who knows good corn land will be surprised and enthusiastic.
 We take an especially keen pleasure in showing around the man who knows land—and land. We like to be beside this man when he sees the rich productive soil in the corn counties of North western Ohio and Northeastern Indiana. We like to feel his enthusiasm over soil that can't be beaten on this green earth. We like to hear him figure up how much greater profit he can make on the same capital than he can make on the same money invested in land in Illinois. We like to quote him prices that are bargains—and that he knows are bargains—for he knows soil and prices, and he understands that our practice of always buying for cash enables us to get them at bargain prices—so we can afford to sell at a reasonable advance over what we paid. And our large capital makes it possible for us to give our customers such time on their payments as they require.

HERE ARE A FEW CHOICE BITS TO THINK OVER
 120 acres, Paulding county, Ohio.
 Nicely located 1 1/2 miles from small town. This is a nice level farm, of black loam soil, with 104 acres tilled and in cultivation, and 15 acres in timber. Has good 8-room house with cellar, good barn 32x55 with shed 14x
 32, good granary and summer kitchen.
 Price $180 per acre.
 320 acres, Putnam County, Ohio. A splendid level piece of black loam, all of which is under cultivation, with 265 acres tilled. The improvements are a good 8-room house, good barn 40 x 120, scales, two windmills. Located 3 1/2 miles from Continental, a town of 1500 people. Price $135 per acre.
 240 acres, Kosciusko Co. Indiana, Located 2 1/2 miles west of Milford, a good market town on two railroads.
 Surface is almost level, soil is dark loam of high quality. Improvements are good—consisting of a good large house with slate roof, large bank barn, another smaller barn, granary, crib, scales and other outbuildings. Price $115 per acre.
 If the sizes or descriptions of these don't happen to suit your taste, write and say so—and we will send along some others of the kind you wish. We have scores of splendid farms—some have fine improvements, some have rather poor ones—but all are excellent land, and that is the first and greatest consideration in buying a farm. When necessary you can make new buildings—but you can't make new soil.
 Write us for any farm information you happen to want—no matter whether you intend buying now or not. On call in and get acquainted with our Local Manager he likes to talk farm, and he has undoubtedly sold farms to many people that you know.

Elevator Burned.
 The grain elevator at Chippis Station owned by E. W. Davis of Sullivan burned Monday with 1500 bushels of corn and oats. The fire started from cobs near the elevator which were sucked through the chute.
 They were loading grain in a car and a freight going south came down with their engine from Arthur getting it and some other cars in the clear. The one setting at the elevator caught fire but was pulled from the elevator in time to save it from burning.
 200 gallons of gasoline in a large tank west of the engine room in the elevator caused quite a little stir, it being so close those fighting the fire were afraid it might explode, but the wind being in the west the heat was kept away from that and only that in the pipes in the engine room exploded.
 The elevator was valued at about $5000 and was not entirely covered by insurance. It is thought that Mr Davis will build a new elevator on the same site at once.

EUROPE DID HONOR TO FAMOUS AMERICAN

Rulers and People of Many Lands Greeted Him as Most Distinguished Citizen of United States --- His Lectures in Three Cities.

All Europe, kings and commoners alike, received Theodore as the most distinguished of living Americans. He was entertained by royalty and nobility everywhere he went, and always the people greeted him with vociferous applause. What possibly pleased the former president more than all this was the fact that literary and scientific circles received him as a man of letters and science and several learned societies elected him to membership.

In Paris, Christiania, Berlin and Oxford Mr. Roosevelt delivered scholarly public addresses and the literary and scientific circles opened to let him in and marveled at the wide scope of his knowledge.

The event connected with Mr. Roosevelt's European tour, that aroused the most interest and excitement occurred immediately after his arrival in Italy early in April. Before he left Africa his desire to pay his respects to the pope had been conveyed to the Vatican and the holy father had intimated that he would be glad to see the distinguished American. About the same time former Vice-President Fairbanks was in Rome and had arranged for an audience at the Vatican which was cancelled by the pope because Mr. Fairbanks first addressed the Methodist mission in Rome. When Colonel Roosevelt reached the Eternal City he received, through the American minister, a message from Cardinal Merry del Val, papal secretary of state, to the effect that the pope would grant an audience to Mr. Roosevelt if he did not repeat the mistake made by Mr. Fairbanks. The colonel promptly called it all off, stating that as an independent American citizen he could not submit to such restrictions. The head of the Methodist mission tried to make religious capital out of this, and vied with each other in doing honor to the visitor, and for amusement he was taken to the field of aviation, where he saw some exciting aeroplane fights.

Traveling northward somewhat leisurely, by way of Brussels, Amsterdam and Copenhagen, Mr. Roosevelt arrived at Christiania and delivered an address on international peace before the Nobel prize commission, which had awarded to him the Nobel peace prize for his successful efforts to end the Russian-Japanese war.

Emperor William had made great plans for the entertainment of the ex-president in Berlin, but the death of King Edward caused the curtailment of the program to a considerable extent. Instead of being the Kaiser's guest in the palace, Mr. Roosevelt stopped at the American embassy, and though William received him and dined him and showed him the German army in maneuvers, the more spectacular and public features were omitted. On May 12 Mr. Roosevelt delivered at the University of Berlin an address on modern civilization which was highly praised for its scholarly qualities.

Having been appointed special ambassador of the United States to attend the funeral of King Edward, Colonel Roosevelt next crossed the channel to England, and when the body of the dead monarch was carried to the tomb he was one of the remarkable crowd of royal personages and distinguished men that followed the gun carriage on which Edward's coffin was borne. After the funeral he was received by King George and Queen Mary and by the widowed queen mother, and in a quiet way made necessary by the mourning of the nation much attention was shown him. This culminated, in London, by a reception in the Guild Hall, at which the freedom of the city in a gold casket was presented to him.

COL. ROOSEVELT IN VENICE

Mr. Roosevelt thereupon canceled the plans for a general reception to which the Methodists had been invited. Thus, with his usual luck and facility for "coming out on top," he had the best of the matter all around and his conduct was generally commended all over the world.

He was the guest, thereafter, of several prominent Englishmen, and on June 7 he delivered the Romanesque lecture at Oxford, which had been postponed by the demise of the king. This was the most pretentious of all his European addresses and the best. His subject was "Biological Analogies in History."

The University of Cambridge honored Mr. Roosevelt by conferring upon him the degree of doctor of laws, and the occasion served to demonstrate his popularity with all classes. As Mr. Roosevelt accepted his diploma from the hands of Vice-Chancellor Mason, the students who crowded the galleries shouted "Teddy! Teddy!" and let down a large Teddy bear from the ceiling. The whole audience cheered and the colonel, as he passed out, smilingly patted the "Teddy" bear. Later that day Mr. Roosevelt addressed 700 graduates, on all kinds of topics.

On June 11 the traveler, together with Mrs. Roosevelt, Kermit and Miss Ethel, sailed on the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria on their way to New York and the rousing welcome that he knew was awaiting him from his fellow countrymen.

That Cart-Wheel Hat.

Matinee crowds were making their way homeward, relates the New York Globe. Into an already well-filled Broadway car came a fashionably attired young woman. Two women, already seated, pushed apart and managed to create a limited space between them which they motioned to her to accept. She seated herself—or started to; then rose with a flushed face and an embarrassed air and seized a strap. "Wonder what's the trouble?" queried a male passenger of his neighbor. "You didn't notice it, eh?" was the response. "Well, you see both those women have cart-wheel hats. So has the other woman—and when she tried to sit down there simply wasn't room for the three wide-spreading hats all in a row."

were received by the king and queen of Italy and spent some days in that country. The colonel and his wife visited Venice and traveled once again the Riviera route that they passed over on their honeymoon, and next Mr. Roosevelt visited Vienna and Budapest, where he was given a royal welcome.

Paris was next on his itinerary, and there on April 23 he lectured in the Sorbonne before a great audience of savants and students. The municipal, its officials, the president of France and various learned societies

AVIATOR MAKES ROUND TRIP FROM NEW YORK TO PHILADELPHIA.

ALL RECORDS ARE SMASHED

Charles K. Hamilton Sends Biplane at Express Speed—Longest City-to-City Flight Ever Made—Makes Mile on 1:18 Average.

New York.—Charles K. Hamilton, the young aviator, made the most daring flight of his career Monday when he traveled from this city to Philadelphia, but on his return trip he experienced trouble with his motor and landed in a swamp near Perth Amboy, N. J.

A special train following him lost sight of the biplane a few minutes later at Menlo Park and there was no further news until the telegraph wires brought the brief report: "Hamilton stuck in the swamps at Perth Amboy."

Hamilton had landed on the south shore of the Raritan river, two miles above Perth Amboy. His descent was deliberate and he was not hurt, nor did it appear at first sight that his aeroplane was damaged. The fact is that Hamilton had made his journey from Governor's island to Philadelphia with only seven cylinders working. The eighth cylinder went out of commission when he was 1,500 feet above the harbor. Nevertheless the first leg of the trip was a remarkable success.

Hamilton traveled the eighty-eight miles from Governor's island to the aviation field at North Penn Junction in 1 hour and 50 minutes. He left Governor's island at 7:38 and alighted at 9:26. At Philadelphia he stopped two hours and seven minutes for food, gasoline and oil, and, rising again at 11:33, hurried ahead of the special train, which had become tangled in the railway yards.

For thirty-five miles the train chased him at a speed sometimes reaching seventy-five miles an hour before it caught up with him, two miles beyond Princeton Junction, forty miles out.

Hamilton started from Governor's island under the auspices of the New York Times and the Philadelphia Public Ledger. His propeller, broken in an attempted start twenty-five minutes earlier, was repaired quickly and the aviator made a graceful rise, circled the island and then cabled off over the Kill von Kull at a height of about 225 feet.

INTERIOR HEAD IS SCORED

Attorney Brandeis Declares Ballinger is Menace to People's Interests and is Not Trustworthy.

Washington.—The defense of Mr. Ballinger was that he was ignorant of the situation in Alaska, and that all the acts complained of were performed by subordinates, for whom he was not responsible.

"Such a defense is enough to condemn him. The evidence in the record and the conduct of Mr. Ballinger throw a strong light upon his character.

"No man with such a character would be trusted by an individual or private corporation with care of important property interests."

The above statements are part of a scathing attack on Secretary Ballinger and his conduct of the interior department filed Monday in a brief of Attorney L. D. Brandeis with the Ballinger-Pinchot committee. The brief prepared by Attorneys Brandeis, George Ruble and Joseph Cotton, Jr., is in behalf of Louis R. Glavis.

Other briefs were presented by Attorney George D. Pepper for Gifford Pinchot and by Attorney John J. Vertrees for Secretary Ballinger.

TWENTY PERISH IN BLAZE

Herald Building at Montreal Burns—Bindery Girls and Others Are Dead in Ruins.

Montreal, Que.—Bodies of 20 bindery girls and linotype men are buried beneath tons of wrecked machinery and heavy debris in the basement of the Herald building, which was wrecked by fire Monday.

Thirty were hurt, several fatally. Many of the dead met their death in slow torture. Flames were steadily creeping down upon them as they lay helpless and as a rescue party was fighting near by to penetrate the building.

The victims were swept downward through the building by a huge water tank which plunged from roof to cellar.

Almost instantly there was an explosion of gas from several pipes which hung about the sides of the immense jagged hole.

Flames, fanned by a stiff wind were soon sweeping the upper floors of the building.

Scores of persons in the editorial and other departments had to fight for their lives through smoke.

Find Charlton's Coat in Lake.

Como, Italy.—A part of a man's coat, declared by some of his fisherman neighbors to have belonged to Porter Charlton, was found Monday in Lake Como, from the waters of which the body of his murdered bride, Mary Scott Castle Charlton, was recovered last Friday. The torn garment was fished up from the bottom of the lake, near the spot where the trunk containing the body of the woman was found. This discovery strengthens the theory of many that a double murder was committed.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

March chicks are usually lusty fellows.

Grain should not be fed oftener than twice a day.

Potatoes need draining perhaps more than any other farm crop.

A sow should never be in good market condition when she is bred.

Corn silage is an excellent calf feed when fed in moderate amounts.

Pure bred geldings always find appreciative buyers at satisfactory prices.

Horses and cattle will often eat too much salt and sulphur if left to their own discretion.

There is nothing better for both mare and colt than good grass and plenty of sunshine.

Of late years the dry feed method has taken the place of the wet, sloppy feed to the advantage of the chicks.

Don't do hit-and-miss farming these days; it doesn't pay. Spend a little time in planning for better methods.

The grain for calves should be fed first while the calf is quite small, with a little bran to aid the calf in learning to eat.

Salsify seed should be purchased in bulk from seedsmen who will send to their customers fresh stock, as it soon loses its vitality.

Remember the first thing the chick needs is a drink of water in a dish so arranged that there is no danger of getting the down wet.

In liming plowed land, the lime should be applied on the plowed ground before harrowing. It should be thoroughly incorporated into the soil.

The grade ram will fall short in different ways because he is lacking himself by not being a pure bred, and no one can expect something from nothing.

If you have plenty of ground, the best way to raise chicks is on the colony plan, a colony here and a colony there, far enough apart not to bother one another.

Careful plowing at a uniform width and depth secures that indispensable shearing apart of the soil particles that can only be thoroughly done by the crumpling twist of the moldboard.

Brooders and brooder houses should have their floors well sanded and covered to a depth of an inch or more with fine chaff litter to induce exercise and provide clean bedding for the chicks.

It is a mistake to half-starve pregnant sows, thinking that the reproductive organs are peculiarly liable to be transformed into masses of fat at the first sign of an appearance of fat upon her back ribs.

Cultivated crops such as corn and the roots will deplete the soil of fertility much more rapidly if grown continuously than will the constant cropping in small grains. This is but one other argument for crop rotation.

Humus makes a soil lighter in weight by separating the mineral particles, more retentive of moisture by giving it greater internal surface, and increases the rate of solution of plant food by the increased amount of moisture and internal surface.

Balky horses, though all exhibiting the same vice, are of such different kinds—each one, apparently, having a different kink in his head—that it is impossible to tell, in the first place, which one of several kinds of treatment will work best.

By studying the various prices which different lambs bring it will be readily observed that the compact, firm and deep fleshed lambs which are wide and deep throughout are always in demand at the best price because when killed they dress out the highest percentage of most desirable mutton.

The stomach worm matures in the body of sheep and passes out laden with eggs soon to hatch and the little ones seem to manage to get back in some way into the stomachs of the lambs. They may crawl on grass, or fodder, at all events they are picked up where the excrement of older sheep is dropped.

There is perhaps no cheaper way of producing pork than by furnishing the spring pigs as well as the old sows plenty of good pasture during the summer months, and then turning them into a small field of standing corn as soon as the crop is ripe. The pigs should be fed some corn or other grain during the summer months while on pasture, otherwise the full value of the grass will not be obtained.

That animals have a mind is a fact that all who have to do with them should realize. They are not like the machinery of the farm, which if a man neglects and misuses, hurts only his pocket book, but if he neglects and misuses his animals, he not only injures his pocket book but does himself a more grievous wrong. Sometimes, probably, there will be written a psychology of the lower animals, as there is now a psychology of the highest animal.

The HONEST MAN

By Rev. David James Barrett, D. D.
New York, N. Y.

What do we mean by an honest man? We want a definition to begin with; and let it be as simple as possible. An honest man is one who pays his debts. That covers the whole case. It will be seen that this definition, so simple apparently, is quite comprehensive, and it cuts deeper than we think. For when the matter of life's assets and liabilities is fully canvassed, it will appear that it is no easy matter to live and die with a clean balance sheet.

The question at the outset touches our relations with God. Are we debtors to God? Yes, by universal consent. In the bill of particulars there are three items, to-wit:

First: Creation. Is there any one who does not rejoice in the fact that he was made "but a little lower than the angels" and in the likeness of God? Is it nothing to stand erect, sensible of a divine birthright and of a divine inheritance? Is there no occasion for gratitude in the fact that I am able to dream dreams and see visions, and, as Kepler said, "think God's thoughts after him"? What do we owe in return for these? The least possible recognition of God's goodness, thus far, is in keeping ourselves on friendly terms with him.

The second item in the bill of particulars is Providence. In God we live and move and have our being. We slept in his arms last night, cared for as tenderly as children in their mother's arms. He feeds us; clothes us, and continually cares for us.

What shall we render unto him for these loving kindnesses? Do they lay no obligation upon us? They lay that we can do no bend our knees in thanksgiving. To the beggar who stretches out his hand saying, "I am hungry, you gave enough to buy himself a breakfast and he says, "I thank you." Could he do less and bear the semblance of a man? What then of the man who never prays, who takes God's gifts without a word of recognition? Is he an honest man?

The third item in the bill of particulars is divine grace. It matters not, so far as the question at issue is concerned, whether a man has accepted the creature's God's mercy or not; it still remains that provision has been made for his deliverance from sin. You may not have accepted Christ, my friend; that does not affect the fact that God gave his only begotten Son to die in your behalf; that you might be saved from sin. Here is an immeasurable obligation laid upon every man. How shall we pay it? The answer is in the words of the familiar hymn, "Here, Lord, I give myself to thee, 'tis all that I can do." Would that we might sing it, but once with heart and understanding! For it contains the sum total of the philosophy of duty; that is, of what we owe to God.

It is a startling fact that men are so prone to overlook their obligations to God, for here is the very root of honesty. "Will a man rob God?" Shall we withhold from God that which is his honest due? Nay, that is clearly impossible if one would be an honest man.

But the question touches, secondly, our relations with our fellow men. For no man liveth unto himself and no man dieth unto himself. It would appear that the angels were created one by one; but men are of one family, and "blood is thicker than water." We are mutually interdependent, as lenders and borrowers; and each is bound, in honesty, to balance his account with his fellowmen.

I am debtor to society; that is, to my fellow men en masse. The liberties, immunities and sanctities of my daily life come to me through the social organism; and so far forth, I am a debtor to the community in which I live. How shall I meet that obligation? To state it as briefly as possible, I am bound to put more into the common exchequer that I draw out of it.

There are two kinds of people, consumers and producers. The consumer says: "The world owes me a living," and proceeds to exact it. An idler, rich or poor, living in pursuance of that dictum, is a dishonest man. The producer, on the other hand, is one who adds to the common fund by making something. He earns a livelihood, and something more. And when he makes his exit, he leaves the community richer for his having lived in it.

What are you producing, my friend? Make something, I pray you. Make a plow or a poem, make a house or a history, dig a well or build a stable; produce something that will remain as your memorial, leaving the balance on the right side when you have gone your way.

But my indebtedness is not merely to humanity en masse. "I am debtor to every man." The original break in the family circle was made when Cain asked: "Am I my brother's keeper?" I owe something to the next man. Get that in mind when you meet a drunkard reeling in the street, for he is a brother of yours. To such you are a debtor. What do you owe them? All the category of kindnesses marked out in the Golden Rule: "Do unto them as ye would be done by." Lend a hand! Be not an overreacher, like Jacob; buy no man's birthright for a mess of pottage.

I owe it to myself to be a clean man.

ILLINOIS NEWS TERSELY TOLD

Chicago—Through the detective work of Miss Jennie Trautman, cashier of the Lakota hotel, 3001 Michigan avenue, Frank B. Carson, a carpenter employed by the hotel, was arraigned before Judge Wells in the Harrison street municipal court on a charge of taking $1,800. Detectives said that Carson confessed, after eight hours' questioning, and showed them where the money had been concealed in the false bottom of a tool chest, which he had used while making some repairs in the hotel vault. The missing money was that which Miss Trautman had made up into the weekly payroll and placed in the vault in a valise. The money was soon missed, but no trace of it could be found. Carson was at work in the vault, but asserted that he knew nothing of the money. He showed that he did not have the money concealed in his clothes, and opened his tool chest for inspection. The mystery of the vanished money grew. Miss Trautman was certain that no one but herself and Carson had been in the vault, and she began some quiet detective work that resulted in Lieutenant Reed and Detectives Ames and Sansman of the central detail being summoned. Carson was arrested and questioned. Finally, the detectives say, Carson confessed to the theft and to having placed the money in the tool chest which had been specially prepared. He took the detectives to the basement, where he kept his tools, and there in the chest was all of the money.

Streator.—S. E. Insull, president of the Commonwealth Edison company of Chicago, with a party of ten business associates or engineers, came here from Chicago on a special train to look over the local gas, electric and street railway properties, which, with similar plants elsewhere in the Illinois valley, have just been purchased to carry out a $5,000,000 project by which they expect to supply a circuit of a score of Illinois towns with gas and electricity. Central power stations will be located at Streator and Wilmington. The corporation behind the project is known as the Illinois Electric company.

Spring Valley.—Deputy sheriff served notices of the writ of injunction granted the Spring Valley Coal company against the heads of all the local unions of the mine workers' union in Spring Valley, Ladd, Dassel, Seakoville and Marquette. All are warned to keep off the company's property and resist from all acts of intimidation or violence. At these mines there has been no trouble. This move on the part of the company has produced bitter feeling on the part of the miners. Clearing up the mines are employed at the mines since the engineers were ordered out.

Chicago.—While the disabled engine of their 2000-ton machine launch Venus gave them a bad time, Lundquist, 3343 Oregon street, and C. A. Rasmussen, 3710 Armitage avenue, battled with a high sea of Lake Michigan for three hours. They finally were rescued by two Lincoln park policemen, who heard their cries for help as the waves carried the disabled launch about twenty-five feet from shore at the Jackknife bridge in Lincoln park.

Assumption.—After the decision of County Judge Pfister in the election contest making this township "wet," the city council met to draft a saloon ordinance. The city board consists of three "drys" and three "wets" with a "dry" mayor, but the vote was unanimous for saloon license at $800 per year. The board will meet again for the consideration of application for saloon license.

East St. Louis.—Rain dampened everything on the East side except the spirits of the Egyptian Hustlers here in convention. It is expected 25,000 visitors will come to East St. Louis during the week.

Chicago.—Three families fled from their homes when fire attacked a three-story brick building at 1458 West Chicago avenue. The building and contents were considerably damaged. The cause of the blaze was not learned. The fire started in the flat of John Smekolweck, who aroused the other tenants and then sent in an alarm. A brick building, at 124 East Thirty-third street, used as a confectonery by P. W. Jones, was also damaged by fire.

Decatur.—With one exception all of the old officers and directors of the Illinois Grain Dealers' association were re-elected at the close of the seventeenth annual convention. George W. Cole of Bushnell is the newly elected director. The principal resolutions adopted favored revision of the national trade rules and the discontinuance of the double-weight system in St. Louis. Resolutions of sympathy to L. Y. Sherman, the death of whose wife prevented him from addressing the convention, were adopted.

Springfield.—G. H. Gray, former manager of the Farmers' elevator at Illinoisport, was suspended pending an investigation as to why the company had lost over $30,000 during the last winter, announced that he expects to have his place again. He said the meeting of the stockholders will develop the fact that he had administered the affairs of the corporation wisely and well.

Kewanee.—The city council of Toulon, county seat of Stark county, called an election for June 28 to vote on issuing $15,000 bonds for sewer waterworks.

WHITE TAKES STAND

First Witness in Alleged Bribery Case.

LEE O'NEIL BROWNE ON TRIAL

Accused of Bribing Legislators to Vote for William Lorimer for United States Senator From Illinois—Revelations Expected.

Chicago.—Representative Charles A. White, before a jury in Judge McShure's court, began June 18 to tell, for the first time in any legal tribunal, his story to the effect that he had been offered and had been paid $1,000 by Representative Lee O'Neil Browne in consideration for his vote for William Lorimer for United States senator.

For the prosecution, State's Attorney Wayman revealed two facts which he had not given to the public previous to today. One was that Representative George W. Myers, a Democrat and a banker at Paris, Ill., would be a witness and would testify to the effect that on the day Lorimer was elected, and during the progress of the voting, he was approached on the floor of the house by Browne, who, according to the state's attorney, urged Myers to join with the other Democrats, in voting for Lorimer, assuring him "there are plenty of state jobs in it, and plenty of the necessities."

The other revelation was that Representative H. J. C. Beckemeyer, the second of the members to make a confession, received his money in a package containing $1,000 in currency from Browne, while in a hotel in St. Louis, on the same day that other members were there. The manner of this payment had not been stated before.

Up to the opening of the trial the main features of the case were as follows:

Defendant—Lee O'Neil Browne, Democrat, minority leader, District—Thirty-ninth, Home—Chicago.

Alleged bribe was offered—May 26, 1910.

State alleged bribe was paid—June 16, 1910.

To whom alleged bribe was paid—Charles A. White, representative Forty-ninth district.

Amount of alleged bribe—$1,000.

Amount alleged to have been paid in Cook county—$340.

Place of alleged payment—Briggs house.

Indictment voted—May 6, 1910.

Number of counts—Fifteen.

Motion to quash indictment filed May 16, 1910.

Motion to quash argued May 24, 1910.

Motion to quash denied.

Trial set for June 6, 1910.

Motion for writ of habeas corpus filed June 3 before Judge Kichham Scanlan, circuit court.

Motion for writ of habeas corpus argued June 6, jurisdiction of criminal court being attacked.

Petition for habeas corpus denied by Judge Scanlan; capias for arrest of Browne issued by Judge McShure in criminal court; Browne's bond of $15,000 ordered forfeited; Browne arrested in office of Attorney Ellbridge Haney and taken before Judge McShure; trial ordered to proceed; twelve veniremen called into jury box; Browne explains that he is under jurisdiction of Judge Scanlan; trial postponed until afternoon; Judge Scanlan refuses to permit appeal to United States Supreme court; appeal to the state supreme court for permission to file bill of exceptions; Judge Scanlan orders defendant remanded to criminal court; Judge McShure denies motion that trial be postponed until June 20, and orders trial to proceed; four veniremen accepted by the state and tendered to the defense.

June 9—Jury completed and sworn.

June 13—Trial actually begun; opening statements made by counsel and taking of evidence begun.

Number of veniremen called—150.

Names of witnesses listed on back of Browne indictment—Charles A. White, John J. Grady, Albert E. Isley, James W. Gibson, George W. English, H. A. Shepherd, H. J. C. Beckemeyer, Michael S. Link, Robert E. Wilson, Otis A. Yarbrough, Sidney Yarbrough, James Galbraugh, F. E. Moffett, D. D. Donohue.

Indicted at same time as Browne—Robert E. Wilson, representative of Sixth district, Chicago; charge, perjury, based on testimony that he gave before grand jury May 5, 1910, to the effect that he did not July 15, 1909, hand money to Michael S. Link in Southern hotel, St. Louis; also indicted Michael S. Link; charge, perjury, based on testimony given by him before the grand jury that he had not met Wilson in St. Louis July 15, 1909; indictment quashed following day when Link is said to have made full confession.

H. J. C. Beckemeyer also confessed.

Ends Collection at Door.

New York.—The latest reform document of Pope Pius X, as interpreted in the Ecclesiastical Review, the official organ of the clergy in this country, will do away with the practice of collecting a fee at church doors, which prevails in this and other countries. The custom has been condemned from time to time by the laity of America, but has not been abolished because it was realized that, in many parishes there were persons who shirked their part of the responsibility for the support of their church.

AT A CRITICAL PERIOD

Of Peculiar Interest to Women.

Mrs. Mary L. Remington, Egleberry St., Gilroy, Cal., says: "I suffered so severely from pain and soreness over the kidneys that it was a task for me to turn over in bed. My kidneys acted very frequently, but the secretions were retarded and the passages scalded. I was weak and run down. After taking other remedies without benefit, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and was permanently cured. I was going through the critical period of a woman's life at that time and after using Doan's Kidney Pills there was a miraculous change for the better in my health."

Remember the name—Doan's.

AUTHORITY NOT HEARD FROM

State's Attorney (to prospective juror)—Have you formed any opinion on this case?

Mr. Henpeck—No, sir. I don't think my wife has read anything about it yet.

Doyle Chess.

Andrew Carnegie, while eating with appetite and courage last month the dishes cooked by the young girls of the Margaret Morrison school in Pittsburg, said:

"I have no fear before these experimental dishes. He who has eaten in France learns to eat boldly."

"Think of the French-chessmen alone!"

"Why, one afternoon in a restaurant in the Boulevard des Italiens, I heard a guest about angrily:

"Water, look here, this cheese is walking all over the table!"

"Ah, have no fear, monsieur. It won't escape; the waiter replied, 'If it goes too far, just call 'Julius'! It always answers to its name.'"

The Rude Visitor.

There is a story about the Secretary of a golf club who was a man of diminutive stature. It was summer time and the grass had been allowed to grow rather long. The secretary was playing in front of a visitor who was a very long driver, and kept dropping his ball in the neighborhood of the secretary all the way round. At last the little man could stand it no longer and walked back and remonstrated with the visitor on his conduct, but the only reply he got was: "All you would cut the grass, one might be able to see you."

Casey at the Jet.

"What's this I hear about Casey?" asked McGinnis.

"He's been trying to apply to himself," said O'Reilly.

"G'wan! What did he do?"

"He lit every gas jet in the house and sat down and waited for 'em to burn."

According to some it makes no difference how many dead cats you throw into the well so long as you keep the pump handle polished.

A DOCTOR'S EXPERIENCE

Medicine Not Needed in This Case.

It is hard to convince some people that coffee does them injury. They say that had food as to almost every cause but the time and unimpaired one.

But the doctor knows. His wide experience has proven to him that to some systems, coffee is an insidious poison that undermines the health.

Ask the doctor coffee is the cause of constipation, stomach and nervous trouble.

"I have been a coffee drinker all my life. I am now 48 years old and when taken sick we were given with nervous prostration, the doctor said that my nervous system was broken down and that I would have to give up coffee.

"I got so weak and shaky I could not work, and reading your advertisement of Postum, I asked my grocer if he had any of it. He said 'Yes' and that he used it in his family and it was all it claimed to be.

"So I quit coffee and commenced to use Postum steadily and found in about two weeks' time I could sleep soundly at night and get up in the morning feeling fresh. In about two months I began to gain flesh. I weighed only 146 pounds when I commenced on Postum, and now I weigh 167 and feel better than I did at 20 years of age.

"I am working every day and sleep well at night. My two children were great coffee drinkers, but they have not drunk any since Postum came into the house, and are far more healthy than they were before."

Read "The Road to Wellville," found in every grocery store.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

SOME CURE FOR ECZEMA

Does it not seem strange that so many people suffer year in and year out with eczema?

A 25 cent bottle of a simple wash stops the itch and will surely convince any patient.

This wash is composed of mild and soothing oil of wintergreen mixed with thymol and glyceride, etc., and known as D. D. D. Prescription. We do not know how long the D. D. D. Laboratories will continue the 25c offer, as the remedy is regularly sold only in $1.00 bottles and has never before been put on the market at any special offer.

If you want relief tonight try a bottle of D. D. D. on your personal recommendation. SAN B HALL, Sullivan, Ill.

"Sure Cure"

"I would like to guide suffering women to a sure cure for female troubles," writes Mrs. R. E. Marcer, of Frozen Camp, W. Va. "I have found no medicine equal to Cardui. I had suffered for about four years. Would have headache for a week at a time, until I would be nearly crazy. I took Cardui and now I never have the headache any more."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

The pains from which many women suffer every month are unnecessary. It's not safe to trust to strong drugs, right at the time of the pains. Better to take Cardui for a while, before and after, to strengthen the system and cure the cause. This is the sensible, the scientific, the right way. Try it.
