BIGHT PROSPECTS IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION—CHURCH DEGANIZA-TION URGED TO WORK.

The city of Springfield will witnes one of the bigges tdemonstrations on February 14th the capitol of the great state of Illinois has ever seen. Five thousand men will be there from all of a character to invoke merrime

The brewers and distillers recognizing the importance of this session of the legislature and are making the fight of their lives. It is this fight with their coats off and demand that county option be given them Never was the outlook so promising. The first of the long series of battles has been fought and gloriously won. He, too, has proven himself worthy and has stood true to every fight for righfeousness. Dr. Stedman, Sullivan's worthy representative, with fourteen other democrats of the right stripe heads off Alschuler and Lee O, Neal Brown to those gentlemen's great decomfort and defeated their scheme for another bi-partizan combination and thereby saved the great state of Illinois from a repeti tion of the disgrace and humiliation of the last legislature. Now is the time to strike, and strike hard, and no better opportunity will present itself than for at least a dozen men from Sullivan to be at Springfield on February 14th. Every church in the city is expected to send two delegates, every township local option organization is also entitled to two and the County Local Option organization five. FROM MILLIONS TO THOUSANDS

Students of the University of Li nois College of Agriculture have in been granted permission by the Un versity Council to organize a Horticultural Club. It promises to be a 'live' organization, having an enoilment of over farty members. The object of the club is to look toward creating an interest in herticulture in this state, Illinois can grow as good fruit as any neighboring state. Less than thirty years ago Illinois procured over $5,000,000 worth of apples as against $34,000 worth in 1909. The decrease can be attributed to inroads of insects and fungus pests particularly the codling moth, bitter rot and apple scab, in league the past few years with unfavorable weather conditions. Those interested in horticulture-and who are not interesed in apples and flowers?-will find it to their advantage to attend the ten-day meeting of horticulturists and florists, January 31 to February to, which follows the annual Corr Growers' and Stockmens' Convention University of Illinois College of As riculture, January 16 to 28.

tacle I had to face in my atte Now that agatha sixts metace in gard to his fondness for agatha. First, had been dissipated by Brancepeth's revelations, the only impediment to the satisfactory conductor of archis affair was Described refusal to cooperate with me at this gradual moment, bewith me at this crucial, moment because of her belief that Terhune's wish cause of her belief that Terhune's wish to marry Agatha Sixth was purely a mercenary one. And as I at length comprehended what I might have seen a long time ago if I had only stopped to think, I understood in a second her scoruful and almost resentful attitude toward myself on several occasions, for apparently supporting my friend in his meretricious designs. With this new grasp of the situation suddenly new grasp of the situation suddenly given to me, I couldn't begin fast enough to try to make my wife under stand what I had so lately learned myself, that Terhune sincerely loved Miss Lawrence. As quickly as I could speak I began to tell her, as proof, of Arch's repudiation of my suggestion in regard to asking Agatha First instead, a moment ago in the hall. I judged, and judged rightly, as events proved, that the recital of this incident from my lips would convince my wife as nothing else could, that I was right in believing that Terhune had come at length to see that love, more than any-thing else in the world—even fortune was the only thing worth considering when it came to a question of getting married, "Don't you see," I ended, "he refused to do as I suggested, refused to go and ask Agatha First, although he believed thoroughly that she would accept him, solely because he was in love with Agatha Sixth, and would rather have had no ortune at all than a fortune with any other girl?" I laid my hand on her arm appealingly. My last trump had been played, but not in vain. Grasping my meaning with lightning-like rapidity, Dearest was on the instant all action. "The time, Wilfred, the time!" she urged, her cheeks aflame, her gray eyes black.

"Six minutes of one," I answered, as she pulled the watch from my hands. "Archibald Terhune! Do you hear that?" she almost shouted to Arch in "It's six uncontrollable excitement. minutes of one! Find Agatha Sixth and ask her to marry you, for heaven's sake!" Then, as Terhune only stood and stared at her with dropped jaw, she stamped her foot vehemently.

"Don't stand and stare like that!" she cried. "Do as I say! Hurry! Run for your life!"

And Arch was gone at the word, though I don't think he had until then any idea that there was still time to retrieve the day and a fortune.

To do him justice, I don't think he had any other thought subsequent to Brancepeth's story and the revelations that followed in regard to Agatha Sixth's reason for refusing him, than that she was more likely to change her min/ and marry him after all, since he suspicions had proved unfounded. And this thought, to give him all his Jue, had been sufficient to make him happy without any thought of his aunt's property. In fact, I think he had forgotten the latter in the first bliss of the moment, but when Dearest raised her warning and inspiring cry he had realized that after all a fortun like that his aunt's property represented was quite well worth the having. I'm not attempting to deny, you see that there was enough of his old self left, in spite of the changes love had brought about, not to make him rather certain, now that Dearest had remind ed him of it, that Aunt Georgy's Australian farm would not make half a bad sort of wedding present. At least I noticed that he lost no time in obeying her mandate, for no sooner were the words out of her mouth than Terhune was in full cry for the staircase with Dearest and myself hard after him, while a couple of fox terriers that had sprung from dear knows where added to the confusion by yapping at our heels and otherwise impeding our progress, in a praiseworthy attempt to be in at the death. And even as tripped and stumbled over them and laughed and whooped with Dearest, I heard that chump of a Brancepeth out on the stoop shricking, "Gone away! It is no wonder, then, having admitted can't go and scream the good he through her door very well. It wo do at all! You must have more do at all! You must have more for the appearance of the thing!"

"But, good heavens!" cried poor Terhune, "this is no time to think of ap-

But my darling paid no attention to him. "Hold him, Wilfred," she ordered me, and as I sprang to obey was gone in the shadow of the hall above.

Two and a half minutes later, and not a second after, she appeared, leading Agatha Sixth by the hand, though it is true the latter looked weepy-eyed, to say the least, and gave appearance of reluctance.

This vanished, however, at sight of Terhune, red-faced and somewh varm from his vain efforts to free himself from my embrace, and flew down the stairs to meet him by sheer force of arms, not to be face tious, compelled me to relinquish my position in her favor. Something I was olly well pleased to do, by the way. Arch is a hard man to hold when he's riled, and that two and a half minutes of suspense had made me his debto for a couple of knocks and one well

But just how the miracle of Agath Sixth's change of heart had been ac complished, or in what manner De est had so presented her case as to achieve such speedy results, I am not prepared to state. I only know that it was nothing more than I had expected of the cleverness of my wife, and as for Terhune, I think he was too happy to know or care.

CHAPTER XIII.

As for the rest of us, including So licitor Barnes, who had been rescued from the library by some maid or footman, we repaired immediately to the dining room, where the wedding luncheon, of Dearest's creation, await ed us, and had all taken our places be fore the big clock on the mantel quite ceased booming the hour. Of course the bridal nature of the table decorations made a hit—as my Americanised wife persists in saying—with those two lovers, Brancepeth and Agaths First, and they admired and exclaimed quite as if the whole thing were gotten up for their especial benefit. And it was during this meal that we gathered fuller details of the trials and tribula-tions that had beset the path of this now happy pair, which explained and accounted for many hitherto unaccountable happenings of our own experience.

Among other things it appeared that Brancepeth was, of course, the owner of the checked coat I had seen in the coat we had found in Terhune's closet later had only borne a resemblance to it. The young man had run down from his uncle's place in his machine that day, he told us, to meet Agatha First in the woods, by prearrangement with her, which, of course, explained the business of her assumed headache and refusal to go to Northbury with us.

They had been obliged to keep their attachment a secret evidently enough, termination to marry him to Miss Sim plin. Six theumand years age in Eden our Maker, in justiy sentencing his disobedient children to death, intimated that ultimately the seed of the woman would bruise the serpent's head. This hidden promise was the first intimation of the divine mercy which our gracious Creator purposed in himself from before the foundation of the world. Ever noble, kind and gracious, our Creator restrained his mercy for the good of his creatures—that they might learn to appreciate the exceedmight learn to appreciate the exceed-ing sinfulness of sin. For the good of the angels also, and that they might fully know of his justice, as well as of his wisdom and power, God insist-ed upon dealing with his creatures from the standpoint of exact justice. They had sinned and thereby had forfeited all claim upon the eternal life which he had given them conditional Eternal torment, as we have already seen, did not in any sense or degre enter into the divine intention. sentence upon man, plainly stated was, "Dying thou shalt die," not, Liv ing thou shalt live in torment. "The soul that sinneth it shall die" (Genesis il, 17; Ezekiel zviii, 4). God intended to exemplify in his dealings with our race a principle of divine government to be made operative everywhere—ultimately among all his creatures on the spirit plane, as well as upon the earthly.

Israel's experiences of tribulation and bondage in Egypt were probably necessary to prepare them for God's great proposition—that they should keep the law and as a reward have life everlasting. As it is written, "He that doeth things shall live by them" (Leviticus zviii, 5). Israel greatly repreference for them more than for all others of humanity. The law covenant was mediated. The sacrifice of bulls and of goats made a typical atonement for them for a year, so that they might enter into the covenant relationship with God. But when they attempted to keep the law they were disappointed. They failed. The law of God being the full measure of a perfect man's ability, and the Jews, like other men, being imperfect, found that they had undertaken an impossi-

Not a Jew kept the law perfectly. Not a Jew, therefore, gained eternal life during the first year. But God, foreknowing this, had made preparation for a repetition of the at day every year, so that the people nal life. Year after year, century after century, they falled, and discouragement took the place of hope God was teaching them a great lesson respecting the need of better sacrifices than those of bulls and of goats, also teaching them that there is no other means of justification in his sight. They got blessings under the covenant—educational blessings, but not the blessings hoped for, not life eternal. Hence they were not in a position to become, as they had honed national Messiah, a national seed of Abraham, for the blessing of all the

The first-begotten of the Father, as his glorious agent in the great work of creation, had the honor granted him of becoming the great messenger the covenant, the great prophet, priest and king of Israel, the great Michael of Daniel xii, 1. But there were tests connected with his attainment of this high position: (1) By est and the Pather's pleasure to beget him of the hely spirit at Jordan to the spirit nature on the highest plane. For three and a half years his sacrifice burned apon the altar. It was indeed better than the sacrifice of bulls and goats, for it was a corresponding price for Adam; an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth; a man's life for a man's life. (3) When Jesus had thus sacrifically parted with his earthly life he experienced a resurrection change from human anture to tion change from human nat spiritual, like what he was orig only higher and more glorious. Thus he was at once both a sacrifice and the spirit-begotten priest who offered that sacrifice. Then why did he not at once begin his great work as prophet, priest, king and new covenant mediator for larger and through Israel for the worl. It was because there was to be more than one sacrifice in the divine plan on the day of atonement. When this bride class shall have completed her sacrifice in and under the merit of the great priest, then every arrangement for the blessing of Israel as Abraham's seed and of all nations through Israel will have forthwith commenced. Thus seen the revelation of Israel's great messenger of the new coverant is very investor. the new covenant is very important not only to the Jew, but also to the world of mankind, who must receive their blessings under Israel by a compliance with the same new law cove

SPIRIT FOR HUMBLE TASKS

Work is Divine Ordinance, a Sacra-ment, Which Ministers Grace to the Soul.

Everything we do well brings satisfaction. It satisfies our inner crav-ing or hunger for perfection for the ideal. Our Lord himself taught this, though his followers have been slow to learn it. On one occasion he sat exhausted by the well, while his disciples went to buy food. On their return they were surprised that the signs of exhaustion had vanished wondered among themselves whether "any man brought him aught to eat." What did he say? "I have meat to eat that ye know not of.' And what was his meat? What was it that fed and satisfied his soul? Work is food. "My meat is to do the will of him that sent me, and to finish his work." It is the truth of all life. The task which exhausts the comes back to feed the soul. We do not need to crave the moral wage. It is paid with promptitude and exactitude by the law of God; for the higher nature is replenished in virtue and joy by the exhaustion of the lower in work and weariness.

When we look at work in this light it is no longer a curse but a blessing. It is a divine ordinance, a sacrament, which ministers grace to the soul. The sweat of the brow is the worker's tureole, as much a symbol of worth and glory as ever that which circled the head of a saint. In this spirit we may do humble tasks in a great spirit, believing that there we serve God and receive the best discipline of our life.

—Rev. W. Dickie.

Let Your Deeds Shine.

Live for something. Do good, and leave behind you a monument of virtue that the storms of time can never destroy. Write your name by kindness, love and mercy on the hearts of the thousands you come in contact with year by year, and you will never be forgotten. No, your name, your deeds, will be as legible on the hearts of those you leave behind as the stars on the brow of evening. Good deeds will shine as bright on earth as the stars of heaven.—Thom-as Chalmers.

There seems to be a peculiar combination in apples, in the acid in them, or in the peculiar chemical combinations of the apple, that allays the irritation, or so-called appetite, produced by the use of liquor. I am also of the opinion that the keen appetite for tobacco is limited by the use of apples. I am thoroughly convinced that any man who is a lover of whisky and is in a condition when he thinks he must have a drink, will find that his appetite for the drink has been materially lessened, if not entirely abated for the

Many people suffer from weak hearts. They may experience shortness of breath on exertion, pain over the heart, or dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals or their eyes become blurred, their heart is not sufficiently strong to pump blood to the extremities, and they have cold hands and feet, or poor appetite because of weakened blood supply to the stomach. A heart tonic and alterative should be taken which has no bed after-effect. Such is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which contains no dangerous narcottes nor alcohol.

The ingredients, as attested under cath, are Stone root (Collinsonia Canadensia), Bloodroot (Sangulaaria Canadensia), Colden Seal root (Thydrastia Canadensia), Queen's root (Stillingia Sylvatica), Black Cherrybark (Prunas Virginiana), Mandrake root (Pedophylium Pelintum), with triple relined glycerine, prepared in a scientific laboratory in a way that no druggist could inntate.

This tonic contains no alcohol to shrink up the red blood corpuscles; but, on the other hand, it increases their number and they become round and healthy. It helps the human system in the constant menufacture of rich, red blood. It helps the stomach to assimilate or take up the proper elements from the food, thereby helping digestion and curing dyspepsis, heart-burn and many uncombortable symptoms; stops excessive tissue waste in convalescence from fevere; for the run-down, anamio, thin-blooded people, the "Discovery" is refreshing and vitalizing. Stick to this safe and sane remedy, and refuse all "just as good" medicines offered by the druggist who is looking for a larger profit. Nothing but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will do you half as much good.

"I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for the good VINOL has done me. I was told that Cod Liver Oil was the medicine I needed for my weakened condition and poor blood. I could not take the greasy mixture, and when our druggist told me that VINOL contained not only tonic iron but all the medicinal properties of Cod Liver Oil without the grease or oil or bad taste, I made up my mind that was the medicine for me. I tried it and to-day am strong and well."

DANGER IN LICKING STAMPS

Practice Has Been Known to Cause Acute Infirmmation of the Tongue.

Do the people who jeer at the cau-tious ones who refuse to lick a post-age stamp as "cranks" know that there is a defined disease known as "the postage stamp tongue?"

This is an acute inflammation of the tongue, directly traced to the germs to be found on the gummed side of stamp or envelope.

Other and more serious diseases have been caused by this habit that is so universal and seems so harmless.

One throat specialist in a hospital declares that many chronic affections of the throat are found among persons who have as their livelihood the addressing and stamping of envelopes.

Bad skin diseases have ben known to follow this habit, and it has even caused pulmonary troubles.

It is after all but a habit, and a bad

one. It takes no more time and is quite as easy to moisten the stamp with a damp sponge or rag.

Where many letters must be stamped and sealed there are good pa-tent inventions by which the sponge is kept moist.

field.—In his message to the Forty-eventh assembly, Gov. Deneen calls particular attention to the finances of the state, which are in excellent condition. With the exception of the years 1906 and 1907 the amount of money in the state treasury Jan-uary 1, 1911, is the largest in the his-tory of the state. The auditor's reof the state. The auditor's re port, covering the last semi-annual period ending September 30, 1910, shows that there were $3,887,629.30 in the general revenue fund at that time. In other funds there were $334, 911.44. The auditor estimates that between October 1, 1910, and July 1, 1911, he will receive from all sources $8,961,483.37. The estimated liabili-ties of the state are $7,696,816.96, so that the probable balance of unap-propriated revenue July 1, 1911, will be $5,102,295.76.

Railroad Commission. The governor recommends ade-quate railroad legislation which will give the railroad and warehouse com mission control of stock and bond isnections, interurban railroads toint through rates, facilities at stations and street railway companies. The message says: "Since the creation of the commis sion the capital represented by the railroads reporting to the commission has grown from $307,521,422 to $6, 981,470,593, and the commission's re port shows that the passenger and freight traffic of the companies has grown in like proportion. At the date of the creation of the railroad and warehouse commission the railroad operated by electric power was practically unknown. Now, Illinois has 1,663.47 miles of interurban railways, giving passenger, sleeping car, Press and freight service. Under the provisions of the statute, the commission is charged with the duty of making the for these railroads a schedule of reasonable maximum rates of charges for the transportation of passengers, freight and cars, and with the duty of revising the same as oft en as occasion shall require. In my last message to the General Assembly I directed attention to certain com-plaints which had been filed against the express companies in relation to exorbitant charges made by them and to the fact that express companies were not specifically named in the and warehouse statute. Nevertheless, in view of the continuance of such complaints the commission, on its own motion, assumed jurisdiction of the subject and cited all the express companies before it and made an exhaustive and thorough investigation of express charges and practices in this state. At the conclusion of this investigation the commission entered an order making a schedule of reasonable maximum rates and charges for the transportation of freight by express companies to be effective on and after October 15, 1910. Before this order be come effective, the express companies filed a petition in the United States District court praying that the comralssion be enjoined from enforcing this order and tariff. The court issued an order restraining the com mission from enforcing the tariff, pending the injunction proceedings, the basis of the injunction being the allegation that the commission is without jurisdiction over express comwould. mend to the General Assembly that a statute be enacted specifically plac-ing the express companies doing business in this state under the jurisdiction of the commission. The powers of this commission are very much limited. The entire act relating to the commission should be rewritten and revised and the power of the commission very materially enlarged. This would not only, be a benefit to the state at large, but to the railroads and shippers generally who come immediately in contact with the com

The message further calls atter fion to the coal rate investigation by the Railroad Commission and the reling of the commission "that the reilroad companies were not entitled an increase over former rates by 10 cents per ton, but that they were entitled to more compensation, and fixed the amount at 7 cents per ton." This decision was acquiesced in by all parties and the new tariff carrying 7 cents increase became effective De-cember 10, 1910. The message relates the improve

In view of these improvements and the "complete revolution in the system of handling and marketing grain since the statutes were enacted providing for the appointment of a Railroad and Warehouse commission and the establishing of public warehouses, there should be a thorough revision

Public Utilities On the subject of public utilities

the message says:
"The attention of the General Assembly is directed to the question of the enlargement of the powers of the state in the regulation of the rates and service of public service corpora-tions. The franchises and business of public utility companies are in their nature a monopoly. They should be treated as such in order that the interests of the public, as well as those of the corporations, may properly safeguarded.

"In my judgment, authority should be given to the Railroad and Warehouse commission, or to a commission created for this specific purpose, to gather and publish all facts regarding the cost of construction, maintenance and operation of public utility corporations, with power to require service adequate for the public needs and to fix rates which will be fair to the pub-lic, will assure to investors a reasonable return upon their investment, and will offer inducements for the investment of private capital in public service corporations to stimulate their growth as the public needs may require.

"If comprehensive legislation of the character suggested were provided, the subject of corporate control would be removed to a greater extent than present from the field of politics in which it has often exercised a disturbing influence."

Civil Service.

After calling attention to his rec ommendation for the passage of the civil service law in 1905 and the enactment of a merit law governing the charities service of the state, the governor says:

"The law in its enforcement by the civil service commission has resulted in great good to the charities branch of the service. It has eliminated political influence and employes secure positions on their merit. stamped out sweeping changes and furnished a guarantee of tenure to those who wish to continue in the employment of the state. It has extetrminated the hospital tramp and introduced the trained nurse. placed the medical care of the pa-tients in skilled hands. It has raised the standard of employment in every department."

After referring to President Taft's ecommendation of the extension of the classified service of the federal government and calling attention to the submission of the question of state-wide merit system to the people at the recent election, the following recommendation is made:

"I therefore earnestly recommend to your honorable body that the civil service act of 1905 be extended to all of the other departments and branches of state government."

Insurance Department.

Because of legislation enacted Juring the last six years regulating life insurance, the message says, Illinois occupies a place in the front rank in insurance legislation. The following amendments to the present law have been recommended by the insurance department:

"1. A number of life companies have been organized in this state during the past few years, and many of our cititzens are the owners of protection to these stockholders, as the stock of such a corporation may be impaired to the vanishing point before the company is insolvent, all capital stock being, under the present laws, surplus and protection to policy These stockholders should have the protection of our insurance laws, and section 10 of the life law should be so amended as to provide that if the par value of the capital stock of a life company is impaired more than 25 per cent, the company should be compelled to cease writing new business until its impairment is made good.

"Many life companies doing busic ness in Illinois are given authority by the laws of the states in which they are domiciled to insert what is known as a 'disability clause' in their policles. The department recommends that the law be so amended that Illinois companies may be given the same privilege, the Illinois Supreme Court having held that native/companies may not write a policy that provides for life protection and also Mine Rescue Work.

"The mine rescue station commission created by the last general assembly has erected three substantial buildings at La Salle, Springfield and Benton, the sites of which were donated by the citizens of the places named," says the message. In addition to the station buildings, three rescue cars have been provided to facilitate the movement of rescue parties in case of mine accidents. One of these was donated by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Co, and one by the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Co. The six men who have charge of the training and rescue stations were selected after a severe competitive examination and have been given a most thorough have been given a most thorough training in the theoretical and practical branches of their work at the Urbana, Illinois, and Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, stations. It should be a source of gratification to the citizens of Illinois that our state has been the pioneer in the erection of mine rescue stations under state auspices and I believe we may confidently look forward through their agency to a great improvement in mine conditions and a diminution of the dangers incident to this hazardous occupation."

Educational Tax. The governor recommends that the suggestion of the educational commission for the re-enactment of the two-mill school tax abandoned in 1878 be carried out. He calls attention to the fact that under the old system of taxation the two-mill tax would be equivalent to 1.2 mills under the pres ent method. The governor advises the legislature that the following commissions have not completed their work and are not yet ready to report.

Initiative and Referendum. The message gives the vote on the question of adopting a constitutional amendment establishing the initiative and referendum. Continuing, the gov ernor says:

"The object of the initiative and ref erendum is to provide a more direct avenue for the expression of public opinion both by way of approval and disapproval of the measure by the ral assembly and by way of the initiative and passage of the measure directly by the people

"The intention of this system does not contemplate the diminution of the power of the general assembly in connection with legislation, but it is intended, as I understand, permitting recourse to its provisions in matters of great and unusual public importance. especially those in which it becomes manifest or highly probable that the views or sentiments of the general assembly are out of harmony with, or does not properly reflect well defined public opinion.
"In my judgment, therefore, care should be taken in the framing of any contemplated initiative and referen-dum measure to adapt its provisions to the concentration of public opinion upon a very important public measure rather than to dissipate and confuse it in the consideration of many measures of minor importance. The subject is one which will demand most careful consideration by the general assembly in attempting to meet the votes as expressed at the polls."

Food Department.

The message compares unfavorably the appropriation for the maintenance of the Illinois pure food department with other states. Illinois has 12 food inspectors, while New York has 48, Pennsylvania 30 and Ohio 29. The appropriation for Illinois last year was one-fifth of the New York appropriation. The governor says:

"In my judgment a larger appropri-ation should be made for the support of the state food department and for the establishment of a bacteriological laboratory and the employment of additional analytical chemists to perform the analytical work for the board of administration, which has been added to the duties of the state food commis sion. A further requirement necessary to secure more complete control over the purity and wholesomeness of food prioducts in this state is a law requiring that all foods be prepared, manu actured and sold under sanitary conditions. Legislation of this character providing for the supervision of the conditions under which food products are produced and distributed, has been enacted by nearly every other state Illinois has fallen behind in this highly suportant matter by failure to provide the legislation necessary to enforce the maintenance of sanitary conditions in food production and distribution."

Employers! Liability. Governor Deneen gives briefly the history of his attempt to secure legislation fixing the liability of employers which finally ended in the appointment of an employers' liability commission. The commission was required to com-plete its investigations and report its findings by September 15, 1910.

"Notwithstanding the failure of the employers' liability commission to Fleet on Upper Missouri Operated by Captain Baker.

Runs Six Sdats and Severe! Barges Hauling Coal, Merchandles and Farm Products-Worth a Million

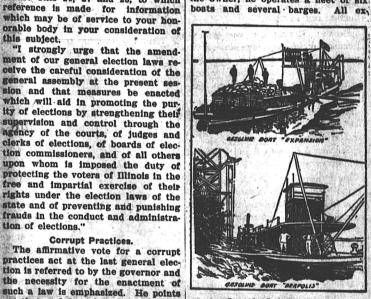

Bismarck, N. D.—It is commonly beleved in Bismarck that Capt, Isaac P. Baker is worth a million dollars. At any rate, he is said to be one of the richest men in North Dakota. And how do you suppose Captain Ba-ker made that much money—for he made it all since he came to Bismarck? He made the beginning of it running steamboats on the Missouri river, and he has been making money with them ever since.

It isn't generally known below

Sioux City that the only regular navigation on the Missouri at present is west of Bismarck. That is true, however, and Captain Baker's fleet is the carrier of a commerce that frequently runs as high as thirty thousand tons in a season.

In fact, Captain Baker has seriously been considering the operation of boats through to Fort Benton. Years ago boats ran regularly to Fort Benton. When the railroads went through Montana the business ceased, because the country was so sparsely set-tled along the Missouri that there was nothing for the boats to transport. Now the valley is being settled up and there is a demand for transportation.

Captain Baker started in years ago. with one small boat. Now, through the packet company, of which he is the owner, he operates a fleet of six boats and several barges. All ex cept one of these boats are propelled by gasoline engines. The newest of the fleet is the Expansion, built at Bismarck last spring and said to be the lightest draft boat ever put upon the Missouri river. It is 124 feet 7 inches long, 21 feet 6 inches beam and draws ten inches of water light. On a draft of three feet it carries 150 tons, and loaded to its capacity it will carry three hundred tons. The Expansion is propelled by a 60-horsepower gasoline engine and travels four and one-half miles an hour against the current. Captain Baker's other boats are the Frayne, the Deapolis, the Washburn, the O. K. and the Bis

West of Bismarck the railroads touch the Missouri Valley in only a few places, and the farmers, instead of hauling their grain inland to the railroads, haul it to the river for shipment by boat. At each of the landings Captain Baker has a small elevator, where the grain 7s stored until shipment. Then, when a boat comes along, the grain is loaded in bulk and carried down to Bismarck, where it is route pursued by Abraham Lincoln on unloaded by a movable hoist into the elevator at the top of the bank and tucky, through Indiana to the city of from that into the cars. The bcats now run up the Missouri river as far as the mouth of the Milk river in Montana and up the Yellowstone to Glendive, Mont. On the up trips the boats carry all kinds of merchandise, coal, lumber, machinery and other supplies to the farmers and the merchants. Downstream, before the grain movement begins, they carry live stock, wool, hides, hay and other farm

Out of the last appropriation for the Missouri river, $82,500 was set aside for work at Bismarck and other points up to Fort Benton, one item of which is $10,000 to clear rocks from the channel so that boats may get to Fort Benton without danger.

Nearly as Popular as the Bible. London.—Dickens' public passes beyond the bounds of the British empire There is America—with its 85,000,000 of people and its widespread, its fervent, regard for Dickens. There is France, where Daudet could write: "Little Nell and Paul Dombey came to me as a revelation of purity and innocence." There is Germany, where, as Bunsen said, "Dickens compele tears and laughter among Germans as among his own people." There is Rusamong his own people." There is Russia where Toistoi relates that he found the "Christmas Carol" in the cabins of the humblest serfs, and where "Oliver Twist" and "Nicholas Nickelby" are read in seven different translations in the realms of the czar It is futile to multiply evidences of the universality of the genius of Dickens. Next to the Bible and Shakespeare, his books enjoy the widest popularity.

Due Precautions.

In a town in Georgia there was an old preacher whose knowledge of the world was not wide nor deep, but who conceived it to be a place where, if one should trust his fellow men, he should at the same time keep an eye on his own interests.
