ANNUAL BANQUET

As is the custom, the juniors gave the annual banquet to the seniors Friday evening at last week, at the K. P. hall. The guests were the seniors class, the high school teachers, the school board and Frank Wickensham.

The dining room was decorated with orange and black—the colors of the juniors. The main room was decorated with the colors of the graduating class, blue and white. There was also a beautiful arrangement of ferns, palms and other potted plants. The place cards were a moonlight scene painted by Miss Blanche Hagerman, a very beautiful and artistic sketch.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.

I have been appointed Trustee to sell the following described premises to-wit: The South half of the Northwest Quarter and the Northeast Quarter of the Northwest Quarter of Section 13, Township 14, N. Range 6, East 3rd P. M., in Moultrie County, Illinois. This is the land known as the Allen Miller farm, containing 129 acres, more or less, all of the very best black prairie soil.

BOYS' STATE FAIR SCHOOL.

The object of the school was to bring together a carefully selected body of young men from every county of the state for the purpose of giving them, as far as possible, in a school for one week, the best and most recent products of scientific and practical achievement in agriculture and industry in the State of Illinois, and, at the same time, to have this information illustrated in a concrete form by the great exhibits at the Fair, thus making the State Fair a more important educational factor for the state, as well as a commercial and an industrial one. Through the reports which these young men carry back to their respective communities, the significance and importance of the agricultural and industrial resources of Illinois will be disseminated. In the management and practical work of the school these objects were steadily kept in mind.

YOUNG GAMBLERS.

Last Sunday one of Sullivan's youths indulged in a gambling game, and came out the better off by $45 or $48.

Where were the officers?

The news soon spread, three others that were incited by his quickly acquired wealth tried the get rich quick scheme Sunday night, was apprehended by a policeman, chucked in lockup for the night. The next morning fined $12 each and cost. Should parent imbibing booze or spending their time in a pool hall chastise a son for such sin, when they set the example and keep it up?

It sometimes happens that boys can rest the blame of their ruin on parents. Some men abuse their children when they should get a mule to kick them for the example they set.

What would or what should a parent say to a child going home with a purse filled with money gained by gambling?

Should they be so pleased at the sight of the tainted money as to consider them clever. Far from it. The boy punished at the start and checked is the luckier, if he stops, and is encouraged in the right direction by prudent parents. The parents mould the child's character. Let them get right first.

The names of these boys are all known and will not be soon forgotten for a reason.

SERIAL STORY

When a Man Marries

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Author of The Circular Staircase, The Man in Lower Ten, Etc.

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends. Jimmy was rotund and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously. But people usually refused to do so, his art is considered a huge joke, except to himself, if he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selma, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. Jimmy gets his hands from Aunt Selma and after he marries she decides to divorce him. He neglects to tell her of his divorce. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence, he tries to deceive some woman so that his aunt will not learn that he has no longer a wife. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night. He Mrs. Wilson pro tem. Aunt Selma arrives and the description works out as planned. Jim's Jap servant is taken ill. Bella, Jimmy's divorced wife, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away to the ambulance? Bella insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Bella tells Kit it wasn't she who wanted to see, but Takahira, the Jap servant. He shows steps on the porch and discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "Hospitalized" printed on it. The guests suddenly realize their predicament, the women shed tears. The men consider the various alternatives and Harbison pleads with Kit to tell him the real situation of things. She finally tells him of Bella's incarceration in the basement. The all important question arises as to who is to prepare the meals and perform the other household duties. Harbison finally solves the matter. He writes out the menu and the various duties of each of his or her duties. Kit attempts to make an omelet for Aunt Selma, but falls in the attempt and is in a very nervous state when Harbison rescues her. He tells her how to make it. After the lifting of the quarantine several letters are found in the mail box. Undelivered, one is addressed to Henry Liqueur, Liqueur, Chile, which was written by Harbison. He describes minutely of their incarceration. He also attempts to patch up Mrs. Wilson. Harbison attempts to patch up one quarrel after another between Kit and Jimmy. Aunt Selma is taken ill with a gripe. Betty acts as nurse.

CHAPTER IX. (Continued.)

Betty had been making tea for Aunt Selma, and of course when she heard us up there, she followed, tray and all, and we drank Aunt Selma's tea and had the first really nice time of the day. Bella had come up, too, but she was still standoffish and queer, and she stood leaning against a chimney and staring out over the river. After a little Mr. Harbison put down his cup and went over to her, and they talked quite confidentially for a long time. I thought it had taste in Bella, under the circumstances, after snubbing Dallas and Max, and of course treating Jim like the dirt under her feet, to turn right around and be lovely to Mr. Harbison. It was hard for Jim. Max came and sat beside me, and Flannigan, who had been sent down for more cups, passed tea, putting the tray on top of the chimney. Jim was sitting grumpily on the roof, with his feet folded under him, playing Canfield in the shadow of the parapet, buying the deck out of one pocket and putting his winnings in the other. He was watching Bella, too, and she knew it, and she strained a point to captivate Mr. Harbison. Any one could see that. And that was the picture that came out in the next morning's papers, tea-cups, cards and all. For when some one looked up, there were four newspaper photographers on the roof of the next house, and they had the impertinence to thank us!

Flannigan had seen Bella by that time, but as he still didn't understand the situation, things were just the same. But his manner to me puzzled me; whenever he came near me he winked prodigiously, and during all the search he kept one eye on me, and seemed to be amused about something.

When the rest had gone down to dress for dinner, which was being sent in, thank goodness, I still sat on the parapet and watched the darkening river. I felt terribly lonely, all at once, and sad. There wasn't any one any nearer than father, in the West, or mother in Bermuda, who really cared a rap whether I sat on that parapet all night or not, or who would be sorry if I leaped to the dirty bricks of the next door-yard—not that I meant to, of course.

The lights came out across the river, and made purple and yellow streaks on the water, and one of the motor-boats came panting back to the yacht club, coughing and gasping as if it had overdone. Down on the street automobiles were starting and stopping, cabs rolling, doors slamming, all the maddening, delightful bustle of people who are foot-free to dine out, to dance, to go to the theater, to do any of the thousand possibilities of a long February evening. And above them I sat on the roof and cried. Yes, cried.

I was roused by some one coughing just behind me, and I tried to straighten my face before I turned. It was Flannigan, his double row of brass buttons gleaming in the twilight. "Excuse me, miss," he said affably. "But the boy from the hotel has left the dinner on the doorstep and run, the cowardly little devil! What'll I do with it? I went to Mrs. Wilson, but she says it's no concern of hers." Flannigan was evidently bewildered.

"You'd better keep it warm, Flannigan," I replied. "You needn't wait; I'm coming." But he did not go.

"If you'll excuse me, miss," he said, "don't you think you'd better tell them?"

"Tell them what?"

"The whole thing—the joke," he said confidentially, coming closer. "It's been great sport, now, hasn't it? But I'm afraid they will get on to it soon, and—some of them might not be agreeable. A pearl necklace is a pearl necklace, miss, and the lady's wild."

"What do you mean?" I gasped.

"You don't think—why, Flannigan—" He merely grinned at me and thrust his hand down in his pocket. When he brought it up he had Bella's bracelet on his palm, glittering in the faint light.

"Where did you get it?" Between relief and the absurdity of the thing, I was almost hysterical. But Flannigan did not give me the bracelet; instead, it struck me his tone was suddenly severe.

"Now look here, miss," he said; "you've played your trick, and you've had your fun. The Lord knows it's only folks like you would play April fool jokes with a fortune! If you're the sensible little woman you look to be, you'll put that pearl collar on the coal in the basement tonight, and let me find it."

"I haven't got the pearl collar," I protested. "I think you are crazy. Where did you get that bracelet?"

He edged away from me, as if he expected me to snatch it from him and run, but he was still trying in an elephantine way to treat the matter as a joke.

"I found it in a drawer in the pantry," he said, "among the dirty linen. And if you're as smart as I think you are, I'll find the pearl collar there in the morning—and nothing said, miss."

So there I was, suspected of being responsible for Anne's pearl collar, as if I had not enough to worry me before. Of course I could have called them all together and told them, and looking down at me oddly, as if my bravado faded away and there was a queerish ringing in my ears.

"I would like to!" he said tensely. "I would like, this minute—I'm a fool, Mrs. Wilson," he finished miserably. "I ought to be drawn and quartered, but when I see you like this—I go crazy. If you say the word, I'll go down and—" He clenched his fist.

It was reprehensible, of course; he saw that in an instant, for he shut his teeth over something that sounded very fierce, and strode away from me, to stand looking out over the river, with his hands thrust in his pockets. Of course the thing I should have done was to ignore what he had said altogether, but he was so uncomfortable, so chastened, that, feline, feminine, whatever the instinct is, I could not let him go. I had been so wretched myself.

"What is it you would like to say?" I called over to him. He did not speak. "Would you tell me that I am a silly child for putting?" No reply; he struck a match. "Or would you preach a nice little sermon about people—about women—loving their husbands?"

He granted savagely under his breath.

"Be quite honest," I pursued relentlessly. "Say that we are a lot of barbarians, say that because my—because Jimmy treats me outrageously—oh, he does; any one can see that—and because I loathe him—and any one can tell that—why don't you say you are shocked to the depths?" I was a little shocked myself by that time, but I couldn't stop, having started.

He came over to me, white-faced and towering, and he had the audacity to grip my arm and stand me on my feet, like a bad child—which I was, I dare say.

"Don't!" he said in a husky, very pained voice. "You are only talking; you don't mean it. It isn't you. You know you care, or else why are you crying up here? And don't do it again, don't do it again—or I will—" "You will—what?"

"Make a fool of myself, as I have now," he finished grimly. And then he stalked away and left me there alone, completely bewildered, to find my way down in the dark.

I groped along, holding to the rail, for the staircase to the roof was very steep, and I went slowly. Half-way down the stairs there was a tiny landing, and I stopped. I could have sworn I heard Mr. Harbison's footsteps far below, growing fainter. I even smiled a little, there in the dark, although I had been rather profoundly shaken. The next instant I knew I had been wrong; some one was on the landing with me. I could hear short, sharp breathing, and then—

I am not sure that I struggled; in fact, I don't believe I did—I was too limp with amazement. The creature, to have lain in wait for me like that! And he was brutally strong. He caught me to him fiercely, and held me there close, and he kissed me—not once or twice, but half a dozen times, long kisses that filled me with hot shame for him, for myself, that I had—liked him. The roughness of his coat brushed my cheek; I loathed him. And then some one came whistling along the hall below, and he pushed me from him and stood listening, breathing in long, gasping breaths.

I ran: When my shaky knees would hold me, I ran. I wanted to hide my hot face, my disgust, my disillusion: I wanted to put my head in mother's lap and cry; I wanted to die, or be ill, so I need never see him again. Perversely enough, I did none of those things. With my face still flaming, with burning eyes and hands that shook, I made a belated evening toilet and went slowly, haughtily, down the stairs. My hands were like ice, but I was consumed with rage. Oh, I would show him—that this was New York, not Iquique; that the roof was not his Andean tableland.

Every one elaborately ignored my absence from dinner. The Dallas Browns, Max and Lollie were at bridge; Jim was alone in the den, walking the floor and biting at an unlighted cigar; Betty had returned to Aunt Selma and was hysterical, they said, and Flannigan was in deep dejection because I had missed my dinner.

Say That We Are a Lot of Barbarians.

made them explain to Flannigan what I had really meant by my delirious speech in the kitchen. But that would have meant telling the whole ridiculous story to Mr. Harbison, and having him think us all mad, and me a fool.

In all that overcrowded house there was only one place where I could be miserable with comfort. So I stayed on the roof, and cried a little and then became angry and walked up and down, and clenched my hands and babbled helplessly. The boats on the river were yellow, horizontal streaks through my tears, and an early searchlight bent its shaft like a tangible thing in the darkness, just over my head. Then, finally, I curled down in a corner with my arms on the parapet, and the lights became anore and more prismatic and finally formed themselves into a circle that was Bella's bracelet, and that kept whirling around and around on something flat and not over-clean, that was Flannigan's palm.

CHAPTER X.

On the Stairs.

I was roused by some one walking across the roof, the cracking of tin under feet, and a comfortable and companionable odor of tobacco. I moved a very little, and then I saw that it was a man—the height and erectness told me which man. And just at that instant he saw me.

"Good Lord!" he ejaculated, and throwing his cigar away he came across quickly. "Why, Mrs. Wilson, what in the world are you doing here? I thought—they said—"

"That I was sulking again?" I finished disagreeably. "Perhaps I am. In fact, I'm quite sure of it."

"You are not," he said severely. "You have been asleep in a February night, in the open air, with less clothing on than I wear in the tropics."

I had got up by this time, refusing his help, and because my feet were numb, I sat down on the parapet for a moment. Oh, I knew what I looked like—one of those "Valley-of-the-Nile-After-a-Flood" pictures.

"There is one thing about you that is comforting," I sniffed. "You said precisely the same thing to me at three o'clock this morning. You never startle me by saying anything unexpected."

He took a step toward me, and even in the dusk I could see that he was looking down at me oddly, as if my bravado faded away and there was a queerish ringing in my ears.

"I would like to!" he said tensely. "I would like, this minute—I'm a fool, Mrs. Wilson," he finished miserably. "I ought to be drawn and quartered, but when I see you like this—I go crazy. If you say the word, I'll go down and—" He clenched his fist.

The next instant I knew I had been wrong; some one was on the landing with me. I could hear short, sharp breathing, and then—

I am not sure that I struggled; in fact, I don't believe I did—I was too limp with amazement. The creature, to have lain in wait for me like that! And he was brutally strong. He caught me to him fiercely, and held me there close, and he kissed me—not once or twice, but half a dozen times, long kisses that filled me with hot shame for him, for myself, that I had—liked him. The roughness of his coat brushed my cheek; I loathed him. And then some one came whistling along the hall below, and he pushed me from him and stood listening, breathing in long, gasping breaths.

I ran: When my shaky knees would hold me, I ran. I wanted to hide my hot face, my disgust, my disillusion: I wanted to put my head in mother's lap and cry; I wanted to die, or be ill, so I need never see him again. Perversely enough, I did none of those things. With my face still flaming, with burning eyes and hands that shook, I made a belated evening toilet and went slowly, haughtily, down the stairs. My hands were like ice, but I was consumed with rage. Oh, I would show him—that this was New York, not Iquique; that the roof was not his Andean tableland.

Every one elaborately ignored my absence from dinner. The Dallas Browns, Max and Lollie were at bridge; Jim was alone in the den, walking the floor and biting at an unlighted cigar; Betty had returned to Aunt Selma and was hysterical, they said, and Flannigan was in deep dejection because I had missed my dinner.

Still Wondering.

The deaf man got out of the train car on to the other line of rails.

"Look out, there's a car coming!" cried the conductor.

"What?" said the deaf man.

"There's a car coming."

"What?"

Just then the car caught and knocked down the deaf man and, as he picked himself up, he said:

"I wonder what that fool kept me there talking about!"—Scraps.

Clerk—Four or five of those racing balloons are supposed to pass over here today.

Storekeeper Jason—Yes, that's why I am leaving those barrels of sugar out in the yard uncovered, by heck! If customers find any sand in them we can blame it on the balloons throwing out ballast. I ain't been in the business twenty years act to have my eyes peeled to an opportunity.

Will She Ask Him Again?

She (for the fortieth time)—Will you love me when I'm old, George?

He (goaded to extreme measures)—Do you expect to be as fat as your mother?

She (frightened)—How can I tell?

He (serenely)—Then see that you don't!

DOLL'S LESSON.

Today as I sat in the garden at play, I heard an old mother hen constantly say "Cluck-Cluck! Cluck-Cluck!" for her chickens to come.

The little chicks scattered to left and right.

Not heeding their mother, who called with her might, "Cluck-Cluck! Cluck-Cluck!" for her chickens to come.

And I thought as I sat 'neath the big apple tree, How dreadfully tired the old hen must be, Calling, "Cluck-Cluck!" for her chickens to come.

Just then mother called loud from out the back door, "Doll, Doll! Doll, Doll!" for her daughter to come.

The voice of my mother rang out soft and clear, But I was so lazy I played not to hear, "Doll, Doll! Doll, Doll!" for her daughter to come.

Then I thought with a start, as I turned me about, How tired my mother must be calling out, "Doll, Doll! Doll, Doll!" for her daughter to come.

I jumped up so quickly, and ran with all my speed, To find from my mother what might be her need; And down in my heart I said, as I ran, I'd never treat mother in that way again!

FUN IN SILHOUETTE MAKER

Affords Much Amusement at Small Social Affairs—Profile Produced by Aid of Pantograph.

An ingenious contrivance that will afford much amusement at small social affairs is the silhouette maker designed by a Massachusetts man. With it accurate little reproductions of the silhouettes of men and women present may be drawn by any person, no matter how little artistic ability they possess, the inventor claims. A folding frame, one section of which is a translucent panel and the other adapted to hold a sheet of paper, is fastened to the back of the chair in which the subject sits. A lighted candle is placed at a point where it throws the shadow of the head on the translucent panel. Pinned to the paper on the other side of the frame is a piece of carbon paper. By using a pantograph, which is a jointed device for the reproduction of a design on a smaller scale, the silhouette which is thrown on the screen panel can be reproduced in miniature on the paper opposite.

Her First Potato Bug.

Nellie, aged five, was visiting in the country, and, seeing a potato bug for the first time, she asked, "Mamma, does this play harm to him?" "No, dear," replied mamma, "why do you ask?" "Because," answered the little lady, "I just saw one with a blazer on."

DAISY AND BUMBLE BEE

Daisy stood in the meadow, Her great eyes wide and blue, Bumble Bee from across the way, Past little Daisy flew.

Daisy saw him coming, Opened her blue eyes wide; Her heart pit-ooated loudly, And Daisy almost cried.

She felt afraid of Bumble— Old honey-bee so bold— For he sipped all the sweetness From flowers, she was told.

And Daisy almost cried, "A blossom," says she, "A tender, wee, wee blossom." His "little Golden-Head" But Bumble Bee, unmindful Of Daisy's maid, flew past, A-seeking other flowers.

And perched himself at last Within the bosom of a briar, With petals soft and pink; And Daisy breathed quite freely, And felt so glad to think That thought she was a daisy For Bumble, the old buzzer, Who might have done her harm.

GAME OF DUMB INSTRUMENTS

One of Noisiest and Jolliest of Pastimes—Continual Changing Causes Much Merriment.

The favorite pastimes among the Chinese are those which are suitable for playing at the table. "The Dumb Instruments" is one of the noisiest and jolliest games. In a company of any number each takes the name of some different instrument, which he is supposed to imitate both in sound and gesture. The leader will take the name of the drum, which is the most important instrument; the first man on his right will have the horn, the second the cymbals, and so on.

After all have performed for a few moments the leader will say, "I pass my drum now to Mr. Ling," who may be sitting on the other side of the table. Thereupon Mr. Ling begins beating the drum, and each of the other players must immediately change his instrument so that the order from the drum shall remain the same.

For instance, he who sits upon the right of Mr. Ling, who now has the drum, must take the horn, the second to the right the cymbals, and so on around the circle, each instrument being the same number of spaces from the drum as it is was before the change. This continual changing of the drum from one person to another, and the subsequent endeavors to remember what is the correct imaginary instrument and play it properly, are provocative of great merriment.

ALTOGETHER TOO QUIET.

"Well, Henry, how do you like your neighbors?"

"Not at all. They're so quiet that I don't move, or mamma can't hear what they're saying."

Too Lonesome.

Mamma sewing, George standing by—George: Mamma, did you ever tell a lie?

Shocked Mamma: Well—perhaps when I was young and knew no better.

George: Did papa ever tell a lie?

Mamma: I suppose he might have done so when he knew no better.

A pause—George: Well! I won't go to heaven!

Shocked mamma: My son! what do you mean?

George: I don't want to go to heaven, 'cause it will be so lonesome with nobody there but God and George Washington!

Beaver Dam Builder.

A man who had his doubts about beavers being able to build dams was presented with a baby beaver by a hunter. It became a great pet, but showed no signs of wanting to build a dam until one day a leaky pailful of water was put on the floor of the out-kitchen. The beaver was there, and though little more than a baby, when he saw the water oozing across the floor he scampered into the yard, brought a chip and began his work. His owner kept the pail filled and left the building material at hand, and the little fellow kept at his work until he had built a solid dam around the pail.

A PRAYER FOR YOU

By REV. STEPHEN FAULSON

TEXT—For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father... that Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith.—Eph. III: 14:17.

This is part of a prayer of St. Paul for his people. Paul was in a Roman prison. The liberty of his movements was restrained; he was in a stone cell, and he was chained to a Roman soldier—but his prayers were not chained.

St. Paul says: "The prayer of a righteous man availeth much;" and there are surely more things wrought by prayer than we ever imagine. I tell you it is worth while having one who carries you on his heart to such an extent that he prays for your safety and welfare. When Lot's family was in danger Abraham prayed until God promised them safety. When the Ephesian church was going through the fires of persecution, Paul sent up prayers in their behalf from his prison cell. When Peter was in danger of backsliding, Jesus prayed for him: "Simon, Simon, behold Satan hath desired to have thee, but I have prayed for thee that thy faith fall not."

Do not many faithful pastors send up prayers, as Paul did, for the churches committed to their care? Do they not pray for the homes of the congregation and for individuals who are going through some trial and for the young people who are starting out into life? And now as of old, the prayer of a true, sincere man availeth much. It is a part of a faithful minister's service which is very often overlooked and yet is of the first importance. What a fine thing it was for the Ephesians to have St. Paul praying for them upon every remembrance. Although he was far away, he was still their pastor, the shepherd of their souls.

But for what did he pray? Did he pray that they might live in comfort and ease and have plenty? Did he pray that they might be free from persecution and that the church might grow without hindrance? That, probably would have been our prayer under like circumstances. But his prayer was "That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith."

How wonderfully comprehensive that prayer is when we begin to analyze it. Oh, it takes the inspiration of the Holy Spirit to make a prayer like that. It takes insight into the deep things of God, and into the needs of the human hearts.

Do you think that there is anything you need more than that? Do you not honestly think that that would make most things right which are wrong, would bind up broken hearts, would heal things that hurt, and drive out evil things which are spoiling your life? Yes, you know it, and I know it, so let our prayers be that Christ may dwell in our hearts by faith.

This is the substance of your faith. A better and more comprehensible definition of our religion could not be given. It contains the whole of Christianity as the acorn contains the oak.

The whole Jewish law had its divine inspiration, its secret spirit, but it was hidden in a vast system of forms. Christ said, "I come not to destroy but to fulfill," and the true spirit of the law was seen in him. In winter an old apple tree is homely, gnarled and twisted. But in spring when it is covered with blossoms there is nothing more beautiful. So the old Jewish law blossoms into beauty and comes to fruit in Jesus Christ.

Christianity is not a system of laws, but a state of the heart. Christ in a man—that is the Christian religion. It is Christ dwelling in the heart by faith, and then a man begins to know the length and the breadth and height and depth of the love of Christ which passeth knowledge. Outside of personal experience, Christianity is pale as a lunar rainbow.

There are three avenues of experience by which Christ may come to man—sight, intellect, the heart. To have seen Christ was deemed of great importance in the early days. Those who had seen Jesus possessed a certain distinction, Paul, defending his apostleship, says, "Have I not seen him?" But how meager was the Christian life of those days compared with that of later ages, and did not Jesus pronounce a blessing on those who had not seen and yet believed?

Christ may be presented to a man's intellect. There are certain facts to be known and understood concerning him, but there are also many that are beyond our understanding. Creeds sum up a few great facts of our religion. Not that the repetition of a creed will make anyone a Christian, but a creed is like the astronomer's telescope. He sweeps the heavens to find a particular star. By and by the telescope brings it to his eye. It is not the instrument that sees the star, but the man's eye. A blind man could not see the heavenly bodies with a telescope, no matter how powerful it might be. So a creed may bring facts to your intellect, but it takes the heart to apprehend and interpret them.

Therefore Paul prayed for the Ephesians not greater knowledge, but that Christ might dwell in their hearts by faith. For the heart may embrace Christ with an enthusiasm of love, even though the intellectual perception

WILLIAM A. RADFORD
Editor

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 224 Fifth Ave., Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

One of the principal objections to the use of concrete in building construction is the fact that the finished surface is rough and no attempt is made to give a finish to the surface, either in the molds or after their removal. This is probably due to an idea that interfering with the surface would destroy the skin of the concrete and deteriorate its usefulness.

Two methods are now being successfully employed, giving a finish to concrete either in molded blocks, or monolithic construction in place. The first of these methods is to apply fresh granite to the face of the mold, which gives it all the finish and durability of granite ashlar. This finishing material is ground and sifted into several sizes, several of which are employed in making the facing mixture, on the same principle as mixing aggregates so as to fill the voids. The best proportion is one of cement to three of aggregate of different sizes. A small quantity of hydrated lime is added, which on account of its fineness acts as a waterproofing, likewise preventing the block from sticking to the mold. The ingredients are thoroughly mixed dry. The face of the mold is wiped clean and dry. A thin layer of almost dry spar mixed with a little cement mixed with a little hydrated lime is spread on the plate. On top of this a half-inch of ordinary mixture is spread, then a layer of rich backing and finally, the ordinary block mixture, which should be tamped hard.

The above method is the one used when a face-down concrete block machine is used, while the reverse process is used with a face-up machine.

wide and twenty-six feet six inches long, exclusive of the porch. The porch of this house extends partly across the front and around the side, assuring shade at almost any time of the day. One enters the house into a large reception hall and directly ahead is the fine living room, which is well lighted. A large dining room is at the right and directly back is the kitchen. The kitchen is entered through an enclosed porch and directly available is a good-sized pantry.

On the second floor are two bedrooms under the gables. A bathroom is also provided for, with a dormer window in front.

on a corner lot, as it will present an exceptionally fine appearance. It may also be added that if concrete is used in construction the house will be warmer in winter and much cooler in summer than it would be if built entirely of frame.

Country Life.

Not long ago a pair of rooks built their nest in one of a cluster of trees in a gentleman's grounds. The owner was delighted at the prospect of hav-

In this case the grit or feldspar is sifted dry on the wet cement. The spar may be pressed into the surface by running a roller over it. After it has set the surface is washed with a solution of one part of muriatic acid to eight of water to remove any stains. Then it is washed with clean water to remove traces of the acid. In monolithic construction the sides of the forms are plastered with about a half inch of the facing material before the filling is placed.

The second method of finishing concrete surfaces is to give them an ashlar-like appearance by polishing the surface with carborundum bricks and water. This method is applicable to monolithic concrete, as the molds in which it is formed are built up of boards, which have a tendency to warp and are more or less rough. In this case the inside of the mold which ing a rookery practically at his back door, but the farmer who owned the surrounding land didn't look at the matter in the same light.

The farmer was no great lover of rooks, and he gave his sons orders to "pot 'em" at the first opportunity. One morning the farmer received this note from his neighbor:

"Sir, I wish your boys would let my rooks alone. I'm trying to make a rookery."

The farmer altered three words and returned the note:

"Sir, I wish your rooks would let my crops alone. I'm trying to make a living."—London Tit-Bits.

Even Better.

A farmer from Kerry went to the adjoining county of Limerick, where the land is richer, to look for a farm. He saw one which he thought would suit him, but could not agree with the landlord as to the rent.

"Get away," cried the landlord, angrily, at last. "This land is not like your miserable Kerry land, where a mountain sheep can hardly get enough to eat. The grass grows here so fast and so high that if you left a heifer out in the field there at night, you would scarcely find her in the morning."

"Bedad, yer honor, that's nothing," replied the man from Kerry. "There's many a part of my county where if you left a heifer out at night the deuce a bit of her you'd ever see again."

Man From Maine Won.

Four strangers were talking amiably together in a country inn.

One said: "I was born in Virginia, the mother of statesmen and fair women."

"My native state is Kentucky," boasted another, "the land of superb pastures, fleet horses, sure marksmen and peerless beauties."

A third extolled Ohio, a fourth praised Louisiana. At last a tall, ruddy man said:

"Well, gentlemen, I come from the garden spot of America."

"Where's that?" shouted the others in chorus.

forms the face of the wall is plastered with a rich material. The concrete which is to form the back of the wall is filled in and allowed to set twenty-four hours. The molds are removed and the concrete is rubbed down with carborundum bricks. This gives a beautiful polish.

Here is displayed the design of a house that could be finished in this manner at no very great expense. The concrete walls could be carried to the second floor and the balance of the structure could be of frame construction. The house is twenty-six feet

MUNYON'S PAW-PAW PILLS

TRADE MARK

A trial package of Munyon's Paw Paw Pills will be sent free to anyone on request. Address Professor Munyon, 534 S. Jefferson St., Philadelphia, Pa. If you are in need of medical advice, do not fail to write Professor Munyon. Your communication will be treated in strict confidence, and your case will be diagnosed as carefully as though you had a personal interview.

Munyon's Paw Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods. They do not scour, they do not grip, they do not weaken, but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. In my opinion constipation is responsible for most ailments. There are 26 feet of human bowels, which is really a sewer pipe. When this pipe becomes clogged the whole system becomes poisoned, causing biliousness, indigestion and impure blood, which often produce rheumatism and kidney ailments. No woman who suffers with constipation or any liver ailment can expect to have a clear complexion or enjoy good health. If I had my way I would prohibit the sale of nine-tenths of the cathartics that are now being sold for the reason that they soon destroy the lining of the stomach, setting up serious forms of indigestion, and so paralyze the bowels that they refuse to act unless forced by strong purgatives.

Munyon's Paw Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weaken; they enrich the blood instead of impoverish it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it.

These pills contain no calomel, no dope; they are soothing, healing and stimulating. They school the bowels to act without physic.

Regular size bottle, containing 45 pills, 25 cents. Munyon's Laboratory, 534 S. Jefferson St., Philadelphia.

An Ambassador's Nose.

An ambassador to Russia, formerly a leather merchant in this country, discovered certain secret processes regarding a special kind of leather manufactured there. He would have been looked on with suspicion had it been suspected that he could learn anything of these methods. But during his sojourn he got near enough to certain factories to register, through his sense of smell, some impressions with which he was able to work out the formulas when he returned home.—Atlantic Magazine.

TRAIN LOAD AFTER TRAIN LOAD OF SETTLERS

ARE GOING TO CENTRAL CANADA.

The question of reciprocal trade relations between the United States and Canada has provoked considerable discussion and interest. Whatever else the discussion may have done, it has brought out the fact that on the Canadian side of the line the agricultural situation is one that forces attention, and it has also brought forth the fact which it is well to face, that on the American side of the border, there is a vastly increasing population to be fed with a somewhat decreasing proportion of food products. This article is intended to point out to those who may wish to become of those who can raise wheat, oats, barley, flax, cattle and hogs at the least cost that the opportunities in Central Canada are what they are seeking. During the past year the official figures show that upwards of 130,000 Americans located in Canada, and the greatest majority of these have settled on farms, and when the time comes, which it will within a few years, they will be ready to help serve their parent country with the food stuffs that its increasing population will require. The immigration for the spring has now set in in great earnest, and train load after train load of a splendid class of settlers leave weekly from Kansas City, Omaha, Chicago, Detroit, St. Paul and other points. Most of these are destined through to points in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The reports that come from the different farming districts there are that the spring is opening up well, and the prospects for a splendid crop this year are very good. In some districts good homesteads are yet available. The price of all farm lands naturally had an increase, but it is still away below its earning capacity. The immigration branch of the Dominion Government has just published its 1911 illustrated pamphlet, which may be secured on application to the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, Canada, or any of the agents of the Dominion Government, whose advertisement may appear elsewhere in this paper.

"Kidnapers," he said, "are apt to disappear now. They have become too unpopular. Why, a kidnaper is as unpopular as a widower.

"I know a widower who is thinking of marrying again. He thought he'd broach the matter delicately the other morning to his little daughter, so he said:

"Ah, my dear, how I did love your mother!"

"But the little girl gave him a suspicious look and snapped:

"Say 'do,' not 'did,' papa."

Before Allowing an Operation

Please Read These Two Letters.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before. Then after all that suffering Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored her health.

HERE IS HER OWN STATEMENT.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. To-day I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise every woman who is afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. Orville Rock, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Mich.

Rockport, Ind.—"There never was a worse case of woman's ills than mine, and I cannot begin to tell you what I suffered. For over two years I was not able to do anything. I was in bed for a month and the doctor said nothing but an operation would cure me. My father suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so to please him I took it, and I improved wonderfully, so I am able to travel, ride horseback, take long rides and never feel any ill effects from it. I can only ask other suffering women to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation."—Mrs. Margaret Meredith, E. F. D. No. 3, Rockport, Ind.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unaltered.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

FREE SAMPLE CURED OLD PERSON'S BOWEL TROUBLE

One of the most remarkable proofs of the unusual laxative merit contained in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is that it is effective not only in people in the prime of life, but at the extremes of ages. As many letters are received from mothers regarding the cures of children, as from men and women of sixty, seventy and eighty years of age. It must be truly a wonderful laxative.

In the cure of constipation and bowel trouble in old people it has no equal. It corrects the constipation, dispels the headache, biliousness, gas, drowsiness after eating, etc. People advancing in years should see to it that their bowels move freely, and if they do not to take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You can prolong your life by healthy bowel action. Clogged bowels irritate the system, prevent the menstrual period, cannot do better than use Syrup Pepsin several times a week until the system has settled to its future condition.

Among the strongest supporters of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are Mr. W. G. Zorn of New Decatur, Ala., and Mr. George S. Spaulding of the National Soldiers' Home, Kansas, both elderly men. The regular size bottles can be bought of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar, but a free sample bottle can be had by sending your address to the doctor.

Why wait for the old man to become your inheritance? Begin now to prepare for your future. A great opportunity awaits you in Western Canada. Buy land at reasonable prices.

Now's the Time—Not a year from now, when land will be high. The available crop of wheat, oats and barley, as well as cattle, horses and sheep, is causing a steady advance in price. Government returns show that the number of settlers in Western Canada from the U. S. was 60 per cent larger in 1910 than the previous year.

Many farmers have paid for their land out of the proceeds of their crops. Free Homesteads of 160 acres and pre-emption of 160 acres at $5.00 an acre. Fine climate, good schools, excellent railway facilities, low freight rates, wood, water and lumber easily obtained.

For pamphlet "Last Best West" particulars as to suitable locations and low settlers' rates, apply to Dept. of Immigration, Ottawa, Ont., or to Canadian Gov't Agents.

A man to be a good citizen must first be a good breadwinner, a good husband and a good father

"Let a lazy man lie." Right, when there is a wife to get up, build the fires, get breakfast and yell herself hoarse in her effort to get her lord and master up. Poor fellow he didn't get home until midnight, and has such a bad, bad headache. Then after growling and grumbling until wife begins to speak her mind, begins a spooning game, poor woman, quickly yield and begins to serve hubby, his headaches "so bad."

Unequal for Emergency

"One drink absolutely disqualifies a man to act in an emergency, and there are many emergencies which an auto driver meets." So said Municipal Judge Beitler at the Harrison street court after he had fined William A. Aldrich, real estate dealer, living at 4519 Greenwood Avenue, for speeding an automobile. Aldrich was first fined $200 and costs, but this was later reduced to $100, it being discovered that this was his first known violation.

He was arrested Saturday night in Cottage Grove Avenue going twenty-five miles an hour. When motorcycle policemen Gaynor and Flannigan attempted to take him to the station he at first refused to go and later at the station became abusive. They testified in court he was intoxicated.

"If you were drunk and driving an automobile you ought to be given a fine heavy enough to buy another automobile," said Judge Beitler. "I want you to understand that the people of this city are entitled to just a little bit of consideration. Drinking and automobile driving must not go together. One or the other must be stopped."

Hasn't the Judge any respect for a man's "personal liberty?" Things have come to a pretty state in old Chicago if a man is not allowed to take a drink and drive an auto, if he can and wants to. And if not, why not.

Simple enough: Because a drunken man at the steering wheel of an auto involves others besides himself, endangers the lives of other citizens. There's a limit to personal liberty.

Now that the good work has begun, why not curb the fellow who sells the booze to men who have a perverted sense of personal liberty?

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists. Price 75c. per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

ILLINOIS CORN GROWER WINS W. K. KELLOGG NATIONAL TROPHY

R. A. James of Charleston, Ill., is the 1910 Winner of the $1,000 Cup—Grows Best Ear in the 3,125,713,600 Bushels of Last Year's Bumper Crop.

Form 4 R. A. James, Winner of W. K. Kellogg Trophy, with the Trophy and the 1910 Champion Ear

R. A. James, of Charleston, Ill., has the proud distinction of having grown the best ear of corn in all the 3,125,713,600 bushels of last year's bumper crop. At the National Corn Show just held at Columbus, Ohio, this gentleman was awarded the W. K. Kellogg National Corn Trophy, donated in 1909 by W. K. Kellogg, president of the Kellogg Toasted Corn cumference, and has 20 rows of kernels, 6 to the inch in the row, average 3/4 of an inch on depth, and 5-16 of an inch in width. It is indeed a very correct type of yellow dent corn.

Mr. James, the winner, is a vigorous farmer about 40 years of age and of pleasing personality a man who has given careful study to corn culture, and who has achieved his success as a grand champion winner only by years of hard work and painstaking seed selection and careful breeding from season to season.

Illinois growers are especially elated over the result for the reason that this is the first time in four years that the honors have been wrested from the state of Indiana. Last year's champion ear, the first winner of the Kellogg trophy, was grown by Mr. Fred C. Palin, of Newton, Ind. It was also

Form 1 The W. K. Kellogg National Corn Trophy

Thousands of ears of corn from all parts of the country and of all varieties were entered in the competition. The selection of the grand champion Sweepstakes and the award of the Kellogg trophy were made on general points of superiority.

of Reid's Yellow Dent variety, crossed with Alexander Gold Standard. Last year's prize winner is the most perfectly formed ear of the two, though it requires a careful judge to distinguish the points of superiority.

The trophy awarded to Mr. James was made by Tiffany, of New York, for Mr. W. K. Kellogg, at a cost of $1,000. It is made of Sterling silver, bronze and enamels, and is a truly artistic creation. It stands thirty inches in height. Mr. Kellogg's interest in corn growing can be understood when it is stated that the Kellogg Toasted Corn Flake Co., of which he is president, has an output requiring 10,000 bushels of corn a day, raw product, for its manufacture. A peculiar feature is that while the Kellogg product is made exclusively from selected white corn, the Kellogg trophy has been won each time exactly alike, one priced at $200 an acre and the other at $150, which would you take? The lower priced one, of course, and keep the $50 difference in your pocket.

IF YOU WERE OFFERED Two Farms

Let us assume that you expect to buy a farm this season. You may already have decided on one in your neighborhood to buy, and be now considering whether or not to pay the price asked—$175, or $200, or $225, or whatever it may be. Let us ask you

Would you buy that farm at $140 to $165 an acre if it were moved two or three hundred miles farther east,—especially if it were set down in a better location, on a stone road, and close to a market where your corn would sell for 5 cents a bushel more?

HERE IS OUR PROPOSITION

Pick out just such a farm in our neighborhood as suits you, and find out the lowest price at which it can be bought. Then, before closing a deal, come over into Ohio with us and let us match up that farm with one just like it,—same soil, same quality, same drainage, same crop yield, same grade of improvements, and better located,—but that can be bought for much less money.

We can do it, and are doing it right along. There's no mystery about it either. It's just that there recently improved Maumee Valley farms have not yet reached the level of prices in your locality, although they are rapidly getting there.

A Medicine That Does Not Cost Anything Unless it Cures

The active medicinal ingredients of Rexall Orderlies, which are odorless, tasteless and colorless, is an entirely new discovery. Combined with other extremely valuable ingredients, it forms a perfect bowel regulator, intestinal invigorator and strengthener. Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy and are notable for their agreeableness to the palate and gentleness of action. They do not cause griping or any disagreeable effect or inconvenience.

Unlike other preparations for a like purpose, they do not create a habit, but instead they overcome the cause of habit acquired through the use of ordinary laxatives, cathartics and harsh physics, and permanently remove the cause of constipation, or irregular bowel action.

MOTOR—Four cylinders of the L. type, cast in pairs; bore, four inches; stroke, four and a half inches; piston displacement, 226 cubic inches.

TRANSMISSION—By sliding gears—the one standard system of all high-class cars. Gears incorporated in rear axle, this location being particularly effective in determining the perfect balance so characteristic of all E-M-F Company models. Ratio on high gear, 3 1/4 to 1.

MOTOR LUBRICATION—Direct from tank at left of motor, to crank case. A marvelously ingenious application of the vacuum principle to the law of gravitation permits lubrication that is not only automatic but remarkable for its perfect service and economy, though the entire system contains not a moving part. Tank capacity one gallon—enough for 300 miles.

CLUTCH—Direct cone, leather-faced. Flat springs under the leather facilitate engagement without jar to passengers or transmission mechanism.

BODY—Selected wood and metal. Passenger capacity, five.

STEERING GEAR—Worm and sector type—the standard in all quality cars. Irreversible and adjustable to take up wear. Large wheel.

WHEELS—Selected second-growth hickory; strong and durable. Diameter, 28 inches. Quick detachable rims, equipped with 3 1/2 inch Morgan & Wright tires.

WEIGHT—Complete, tanks filled, 2,350 pounds.

COLOR—Body, hood and fenders, dark blue; running gear, cream; radiator tubes, aluminum-white.

EQUIPMENTS—Kerosene-burning lamps at side and rear; acetylene generator piped complete to fine large headlights; horn and bulb; magnet, of course.

W. H. GLADVILLE.

In an inquisition on the body of William Henry Gladville, the jurors found he came to his death by, or some heart trouble, probably valvular.

The jurors on the case were: Geo. McDaniel, John W. Lewellyn, W. T. Ross, A. S. Henderson, T. J. Dehart and E. W. Lanum.

W. H. Gladville would have been 78 years old, May 12, 1911. He was born Virginia and came to Illinois 47 years ago.

He had been complaining of rheumatism and kidney trouble, suffered all night with pains in his chest. He complained of back and hips for fifteen years, varicose veins of both extremities. His condition was not considered serious. He died suddenly about 11 a. m. Tuesday April 11, 1911.

He took some morphine the night before his death and a dose of quinine Tuesday morning.

Dr. Gladville is well known all over Moultrie county, having practiced medicine here and at Bruce and been coroner of this county in the past. He was very spry for a man of his age and to have gone through all the exposure that a physician has to go through with. Besides his wife, he leaves four sons, Glen, of Danville; William, of Chicago; Wen of Stewarts ville, Ind., and H. H. Gladville of Bruce, and two daughters, Mrs. Bertha Ingram of Indiana, and Mrs. C. C. Luttrell of Bruce.

The funeral discourse was preached at the M. E. church in Bruce on Thursday about 10:30 a. m. by a Christian minister of Windsor, and the remains brought to Sullivan where the burial was made in Green hill under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. lodge.

MRS. NANCY R. RONEY.

Mrs. Nancy R. Roney was found lying on the floor dead last Saturday evening. She lived with her daughter Mrs. Daniel Patterson and husband, three-fourths of a mile east of Todds Point.

The family had been absent from the room a short time, when they returned found her body on the floor. It was apparent she had fallen from the chair.

She was 70 years of age, and her maiden name was Henderson. She was the widow of James R. Roney, who was a well known farmer of that place.

The funeral was preached by Rev. Hopper of the Christian church of Bethany, Monday at 3 p. m. at the residence, and the interment made in the Henderson cemetery.

How to Cure Chronic Colds and Bronchitis

Bluevale, Ont., May 4, 1910.

"I was sick for two years with a chronic cold and bronchitis and a consequent run-down condition. I received no benefit from doctors, and had to give up work. VINOL was recommended and from the second bottle I commenced to improve—I gained in weight and strength, my cold and bronchial trouble disappeared, and I am at work again. I want to recommend VINOL to anyone who is in need of such a medicine."—THOMAS HIGGINS.

It is the combined action of the curative elements of the cods' livers aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron contained in VINOL which makes it so successful in curing stubborn colds and bronchitis.

VINOL is a constitutional remedy for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis and pulmonary troubles, and a palliative like cough syrups.

Try a bottle of VINOL. If you don't think it helped you, we will return your money.

Many sections of the United States, St. Louis included, have been swept by cyclones and hurricanes. The storm area extended over the central and southern states, and hundreds of houses were wrecked and millions of dollars' worth of property destroyed.

FOR PUBLIC CONTROL

VAIL FOR REGULATION AS WELL AS PUBLICITY.

SAYS BOTH HERE TO STAY

Frank Recognition of Public Rights by the President of Western Union and Telephone Companies.

Public regulation of public service corporations has come to stay. It ought to have come and it ought to stay. That is the flat and unequivocal assertion of Theodore N. Vail, president of both the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the Western Union Telegraph company. It came in the form of his annual report to the seventy thousand stockholders of the two great corporations. Although Mr. Vail's advocacy of full publicity in connection with the affairs of such concerns was well understood, nobody in financial circles had anticipated so frank an avowal of full public rights in the shaping of their general conduct. It came consequently as a surprise, not only because of its novelty and squareness, but also on account of the unqualified acquiescence of a board of directors comprising such eminent and conservative financiers as Robert Winson of Kidder, Peabody & Co., and Henry L. Higginson of Boston, Henry P. Davidson of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Senator W. Murray Crane, George F. Baer, T. Jefferson Coolidge Jr., Norman W. Harris, John I. Waterbury and others.

President Vail's declaration is heralded as the first recognition by those in high corporate authority of the justice of the demand that the public be regarded as virtual partners in all matters that pertain to the common weal. He goes directly to the point. "Public control or regulation of public service corporations by permanent commissions," he says, "has come and come to stay. Control, or regulation, to be effective means publicity; it means semi-public discussion and consideration before action; it means everything which is the opposite of and inconsistent with effective competition. Competition—aggressive, effective competition—means strife, industrial warfare; it means contention; it oftentimes means taking advantage of or resorting to any means that the conscience of the contestants or the degree of the enforcement of the laws will permit.

"Aggressive competition means duplication of plant and investment. The ultimate object of such competition is the possession of the field wholly or partially; therefore it means either ultimate combination on such basis and with such prices as will cover past losses, or it means loss of return on investment, and eventual loss of capital. However it results, all costs of aggressive, uncontrolled competition are eventually borne, directly or indirectly, by the public. Competition which is not aggressive, presupposes co-operative action, understandings, agreements, which result in general uniformity or harmony of action, which, in fact, is not competition but is combination, unstable, but for the time effective. When thoroughly understood it will be found that "control" will give more of the benefits and public advantages, which are expected to be obtained through such ownership, and will obtain them without the public burden of either the public officer or public debt or operating deficit.

"When through a wise and judicious state-control and regulation all the advantages without any of the disadvantages of state ownership are secured, state ownership is deemed."

"If Mr. Vail is right," says Harper's Weekly, in a concise summing-up, "then it seems pretty plain that we are entered upon a new era in both economics and politics. And it is high time we did if evolution is to supplant revolution as an efficient force in the development of civilization."

Unreliable Physiognomy.

I am a profound disbeliever in physiognomy. Features are false witnesses. Stupidity frequently wears a mask of intelligence. I know business men who look like poets and poets who look like business men. Men of genius invariably look like idiots, and if you pick out the man who looks most eminent in a party you are sure to find he is a nobody. I always distrust men who look magnificent. Nature is a stingy creature. She seldom gives a man the double gift of being great and looking great. She took care to lame Byron and deform Pope and disfigure Johnson. But the crowning example of her jealous parsimony is Shakespeare. I have always been disappointed with Shakespeare's face. It does not live up to his poetry. It is dull, heavy and commonplace.—Adventures in London.

Vegetable Fancy Work.

Little Mrs. Bride had almost everything to learn about housekeeping, but she was so enthusiastic in her interest that every one was glad to help her. "I have some particularly fine asparagus," the marketman told her one day, and he displayed a bunch for her admiration. "Picked not three hours ago," he added. Mrs. Bride looked at it with unaffected amazement. "Does it grow like that?" she asked. "I always supposed the cook braided the ends of it."—Youth's Companion.

NEWS NUGGETS FROM ILLINOIS

Bloomington.—The Chicago & Alton announces a series of surprise or emergency tests for engineers and trainmen designed to determine whether they are inclined to obey the rules and respect signals. At various points along the system it is proposed to reverse signals, drop torpedoes or fuses and otherwise carry out illustrations of the rules. The employees who ignore them will be reprimanded, while those who respect them will be given merit marks.

Springfield.—Failure of the part of patients to pay their bills, is one of the reasons assigned for the failure of the Evangelical Lutheran hospital at Granite City, which filed a petition in bankruptcy in the federal court. The liabilities are scheduled at $85,000 with assets of $45,000. Judge Humphrey named J. B. George of this city as receiver and the hospital will continue to operate under the direction of the federal court.

Bloomington.—Rev. Frederick W. Hawley, for three years pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, the wealthiest congregation of this city, announced his resignation, effective September 1, having accepted the presidency of Henry Kendall college at Tulsa, Okla.

Springfield.—It is probable the miners' strike at Benid will be settled this week. The miners local at Lenid and Gillespie have opened negotiations through the state miners' organization, and a final termination of the trouble, which resulted in calling out the state militia, will be adjusted. It was rumored the operators of the mines were considering a proposition to shut down for the summer months.

Springfield.—The state board of pardons probably will hear the petition for a pardon for Edward McCann, former police inspector of Chicago, on April 11 or April 25. The meeting on the former date will be held at Joliet. The members of the board have not decided at which meeting the lengthy petition will be considered, but a final decision is expected in a short time.

Waukegan.—The girls at the Lake Forest office of the Chicago Telephone company were badly frightened when men believed to be burglars attempted to gain entrance to the room in which they were at work. The girls summoned the police, but before their arrival the strangers escaped.

Chicago.—Suits against 93 Chicago building owners accused of endangering life in unsafe structures, will be filed, according to the announced plan of George H. White, city prosecutor. His step follows the rigid examination of buildings by Murdoch Campbell, building commissioner, and his assistants, who have been busy for a week in their task. Violations were found in such great numbers that 4,000 warning notices have been sent to building owners. The landlords are to be given 30 days to begin the work of making safe their buildings.

Monmouth.—A new club, a larger Retail Merchants' organization, a better and more progressive city were unanimously advocated by those appearing on the toast program of the Maple City Retail Merchants' banquet at the Colonial hotel.

Normal.—Simon Gibling, one of the well known residents of the city, died suddenly at his home of apoplexy. There was no warning to the family of the approaching death, the deceased having been active in work about his place for several days.

Danville.—Only released from the Chester penitentiary a short time ago, the final discharge papers having been mailed March 1, Leslie Pyle of Mattoon was arrested by Detectives O'Brien and Conson at Van Buren and Jackson streets, with a pair of trousers in his possession which had been stolen from Kally Bernsohn's store, Jackson street. He was locked up at police headquarters.

Joliet.—After having been assured by the Chicago & Joliet Traction company that it will extend the Hickory street line to the site chosen for the new penitentiary, north on Broadway street, providing the residents are sufficiently desirous of the more adequate car service, and that the highway commissioners grant the company a franchise, residents of this section living along North Broadway are circulating petitions which will be presented to the commissioners.

Belvidere.—That Arthur Kunze, formerly of Belvidere, has rediscovered the famous "Lost Padre" gold mine, reputed to be of fabulous wealth, is the story that comes here from California, the story being that Kunze found that long lost lode through a tale told him by a priest in Arizona, who in turn had received it in a confession from a dying Indian. The mine is said to have been located in New Mexico, and Kunze is in Los Angeles with specimens of rich ore taken from it.

McLeansboro.—The city council has arranged to call an election of city officers for April 18. The old license and no license parties here have ceased to exist, as neither party had a primary in accordance with the state primary law. Consequently all candidates must be nominated by petitions and run as independents.

Gilman.—The second "Black Hand" letter received in the neighborhood of Gilman this year made its appearance a few days ago. It was addressed to John Seiple, who lives southeast of Gilman, and was delivered to him at this post office at Lenard.

MAINE DRY DOCK RING COMPLETED

CAISSONS BEING FILLED AND PUMPING EXPECTED TO BEGIN THIS MONTH.

SEARCH FOR BODIES FIRST

Battleship to Be Sent for Victims—Hulk of Warship Probably Will Be Sunk in the Straits of Florida.

Havana, Cuba.—In the driving of the last few interlocking steel piles of the last 20 caissons forming the inclosing wall of the huge basin or cofferdam surrounding the wreck of the Maine, the first stage in the great work of exposing and ultimately removing the shattered remains of the battleship sunk in the harbor of Havana on the night of February 15, 1898, has just been brought to a successful conclusion.

The work was accomplished with a rapidity up to the most sanguine expectations of the army engineers in charge and its progress was unmarked by a single mishap or hitch until the introduction of the final pile, which failed to interlock properly with those on either side.

It is expected that the filling of the caissons will be completed by the end of April, and after that the second and most interesting stage work—that of pumping out the great basin and leaving exposed the hull of the battleship in precisely the same condition she was on the morning after her destruction thirteen years ago—will be proceeded with.

As soon as the wreck is fully exposed the work of exploration in search of human bodies will take place.

71 TAKEN OUT OF MINE

Women and Children Gather at Shaft Mouth to Learn Fate of Workers—All Hopes of Rescue Gone.

Scranton, Pa.—The death total of the Brice-Pancoast mine, in Throop, has reached 71, 66 bodies having been removed to the surface, while five others had been taken from the tunnel to the bottom of the shaft. Forty-five of the dead have been identified and removed either to their homes or undertakers' rooms.

One of the dead is Joseph Evans, foreman of the United States government rescue car. Evans died, a hero, on the first rescue work he has been called upon to lead since he joined the government rescue forces.

State constabulary, Scranton and Throop policemen are forced to strenuous measures to hold in check the crowd of grief-stricken women who seek to rush the lines as each body is brought to the surface.

CONVICT MINERS KILLED

Banner Mines of Pratt Company Scene of Disaster—Relief Parties Recover Bodies of Dead.

Birmingham, Ala.—Between 150 and 200 state convicts have been killed by an explosion in the Banner mine at Littleton, 20 miles from this city.

Twenty men have come out of the mine alive, of the 190 or more who went to work in the morning. It is believed the majority of the others are dead.

Practically all the men in the Banner mine were negro convicts, except the bosses.

Jury Sentences Woman.

Denver, Colo.—For declaring before a legislative investigating committee that she had paid Judge Greely Whitford $3,000 to sentence 16 United Mine Workers to jail last November, Mrs. Margaret Miller will have to serve from one to fourteen years in the penitentiary.

City Ball to Aid Aid.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The Milwaukee city council raised about $5,000 by holding a popular municipal ball for the benefit of the 10,000 unemployed, who, according to the statement sent out by the city council committee, are in deep misery owing to their inability to get work.

Murder Plot Discovered.

Chicago.—Inspector P. D. O'Brien has announced that he had discovered a plot to kill every leader of the United Association of Steamfitters and Plumbers in Chicago, in a war that already has been marked by several pistol battles and two murders.

Tribesmen Slay Fifty.

London, Eng.—Messages confirming the murder of Noel Williamson, a British official in India, and his party of 49 others, including Dr. Grierson, another Englishman, on the Assam border, were received here.

Acquitted as Lyncher.

Charleston, Mo.—J. S. White of Aniston, accused of murder in connection with the lynching of two negroes in Charleston on July 3 of last year, was acquitted without the jury retiring.

MADE HIS ESCAPE IN TIME

Members of Millionaire Found No Remorse in the Breast of the Farmer.

The millionaire accepted the farmer's cordial invitation to ride, and with much scrambling gained a seat on top of the hay.

"My good man," said the millionaire, patronizingly, "this swaying, rolling, sweet-scented divan is a couch upon which I could win slumber and be irresistible to the arms of Morphine whenever I courted sweet sleep."

The farmer stiffened. "I'll hear no more of your talk; I'm a respectable married man, an' I'll ask you when you're gone so I can avoid the plank." Dreamily the millionaire said: "I'm getting back to Mother Nature, who has been outraged and abused me for years; I am a broken man, and she will forgive me and bring me back to health."

The farmer stopped the team and pulled a three-tined pitchfork from the brace socket—but his passenger was gone.—Success Magazine.

ITCHED SO COULD NOT SLEEP

"I suffered from the early part of December until nearly the beginning of March with severe skin eruptions on my face and scalp. At first I treated it as a trivial matter. But after having used castile soap, medicated washings, cold cream, vanishing cream, etc., I found no relief whatsoever. After that I diagnosed my case as eczema, because of its dry, scaly appearance. The itching and burning of my scalp became so intense that I thought I should go mad, having not slept regularly for months past, only at intervals, waking up now and then because of the burning and itching of my skin. Having read different testimonials of cures by the Cuticura Remedies, I decided to purchase a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap. After using them for a few days I recognized a marked change in my condition. I bought about two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and five cakes of Cuticura Soap in all, and after a few days I was entirely free from the itching and burning. My eczema was entirely cured, all due to using Cuticura Soap and Ointment daily. Hereafter I will never be without a cake of Cuticura Soap on my washstand. I highly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to anyone suffering from similar skin eruptions and hope you will publish my letter so that others may learn of Cuticura Remedies and be cured." ### A GOOD BET.

Mrs. Newpop—Mrs. Jones says the only one woman in a thousand is capable of bringing up children.

Mr. Newpop—I'll bet she thinks she is one of the ones.

An individualist.

The reason for the individual drinking cup had been explained again and again to the children and they had become sturdy supporters of the idea.

So it was not surprising to her Henry calling: "Ma, ma! Melville got my individual apple!"

Symbolical Easter Plants

Some of the most remarkable plants in all the world are directly associated with Easter.

Take the crucifixion plant for example. It is a species of euphorbia and grows in a very curious way, with no leaves worth mentioning save at the ends of its branches. All the rest of it is mainly stems. In fact, according to popular belief, it is the plant from which the crown of thorns was made, which Jesus wore.

Specimens of it are not often seen. It comes across it once in a while in botanical gardens in this country. Here, in accordance with an old-time custom, it is made to grow in such ingenious fashion as to take the form of a thorny crown fastened upon a stem. The effect thus artistically produced, taken together with the naturally weird aspect of the plant, is most bizarre and striking.

But the oddest thing of all about the crucifixion plant, perhaps is that it bleeds. When cut with a knife, drops of a red juice resembling blood exude from it. No wonder, then, that in the old world, where religion and superstition so frequently merge, this strange vegetable should be regarded with awe. The ignorant peasants, indeed, are fully persuaded that the red juice is really blood, and to them it is an additional sign of the supernatural that the small pinkish flowers turn to a dark crimson as the season advances.

Imagination wields a master brush and lays on the colors with a skill most deft for purposes of illusion. That a most wondrous flower it was that the Spanish priests first discovered in the primeval forests of South America, its lovely blooms hanging rich festoons from the branches of the trees! No wonder that they called it the flower of the passion and saw in it a divinely exhibited token that all of the pagan Indians would be converted to Christianity. For did not the miraculous blossom contain within itself the whole of the sacred story of the Saviour's sufferings?

The Five Wounds. Another name they gave it was flower of the five wounds, and said as one holy monk wrote in painstaking script that it had "clearly been designed by the Creator that it might in due time assist in the conversion of the unfortunate heathen." In further explanation of which a distinguished commentator, one Jacomo Bosio, remarked in a valuable work on America published in the year 1610:

"The filaments above resemble a blood-colored fringe, as though suggesting the scourge with which our blessed Lord was tormented. The column of the flagellation rises in the middle. The three nails are above it. The crown of thorns encircles the column and close in the center of the flower from which the yellow color is a portion of a yellow color, in which are five spots or stains of the color of blood, evidently setting forth the five wounds received by the Saviour on the cross. The crown itself surrounded by a kind of skin, of a red color, the strands of which number 72, answering to the number of thorns with which, according to tradition, our Lord's crown was set. The leaves of the plant, abundant and beautiful, are shaped like the head of a lance or pike—referring no doubt to the weapon that pierced the sides of the Saviour—while they are marked beneath with round spots, signifying the 30 pieces of silver for which Judas sold him."

Today this wonderful blossom is comparatively familiar and is known as the passion flower. Botanists call it Passiflora incarnata. While its peculiarities of structure are undeniably interesting, there is nothing about it that to the sane eye suggests the miraculous.

Holy Ghost Orchid.
The same observation does not apply, however to another plant, far more remarkable, which is even at the present day so great a rarity that probably there are not a dozen specimens of it in all the United States. Two of these are in the president's greenhouse at Washington. It will not survive unless kept in an extremely hot atmosphere laden with moisture—a fact from which it may be correctly inferred that this interesting vegetable species is a native of the torrid zone. Indeed, it grows nowhere except close to the equator, in wet and marshy places not far from sea level, where the humid air oppresses the traveler like so much almost unbreathable steam.

Such is the natural habitat of the Holy Ghost orchid, as the plant is called. It is a true orchid, and like many others of its botanical kind, grows in earth. Its flowers are developed in little groups of two or three on a vigorous green stem, and in each of them, when it is fully open, appears, sitting within the calyx of the snowy blossom, a little dove with half-spread wings. So perfectly is it formed that even the fleshy excrecence at the top of the beak, characteristic of pigeons, is represented. It is, in fact, the most curious and wonderful of nature's imitations.

"Lilies of the Field."
It is wholly uncertain what flower Jesus had in mind when he spoke of the "lilies of the field," which—though they toiled not, neither did they spin—were adorned more beautifully than Solomon in all his glory. Certainly he was not speaking of any blossoms of the type now represented by what is called the Easter lily, because no such lilies were known in the Palestine of his day, all of them being of exclusively eastern Asiatic origin. Of these lilies there are many varieties, as everybody knows, the finest of them all, and the one generally grown at the present time in the greenhouses of this country, being a native of Japan—the Lilium Harrisii.

A similar lily, though of a different variety, is the Lilium candidum, or Madonna lily, which is so called because it is the flower that is supposed to have been presented to the virgin by the angel of the annunciation. One finds it thus depicted in one of the most famous paintings of Murillo. But, as above suggested, this lovely type of blossom was not known in Palestine 1900 years ago—a fact, however, which does by no means preclude the possibility that an angel might have obtained a bunch.

Resurrection Plant.
One of the most interesting of the vegetable species associated with Easter is the so-called resurrection plant, which is a kind of "tumble-weed," native to the region of the Dead sea. Some of its relatives, botanically speaking, are found in our own country and have similar habits. This tumble-weed during part of the year dries up and, detaching itself from the ground, assumes the form of a ball, seemingly dead—in which shape it rolls before the wind, scattering its seeds as it goes, to take root and grow into more tumble-weeds.

Of all the many ingenious methods adopted by nature to accomplish the distribution of plants none is more odd than this. But when the tumble-weed, apparently defunct, is put into water, lo! it begins to sprout, and presently is as much alive as ever. Whence the popular name bestowed upon it.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

The hens ought to lay. It is the little things that count.

Delightful April days—and little chicks.

Keep a sharp outlook for head lice and get rid of them.

Give all of your fowls plenty of fresh air and sunshine.

Ewes should not be used for breeding before a year and a half old.

Don't feed the newly-hatched chicks until they are about thirty-six hours old.

Shorts mixed with corn meal and moistened with skim milk makes a fine mash.

Although good ewes should be kept, it is not necessary that they be pure bred.

It doesn't take so much work to care for sheep as for cows, and the work is pleasanter.

A building 14 by 18 feet is large enough for 50 hens. Keep it free from drafts, moderately warm, sunny.

No food nor nourishment about charcoal—not a bit, but it is a corrector that helps the chicks' digestion.

Give the pigs exercise and sunshine from birth, but do not allow them to get damp nor to be exposed to the wind.

Sunflower seed is a valuable winter food for poultry, mixed with cracked corn, wheat and oats. The seed is rich in oil.

The pullets should be brought to maturity as soon as is consistent with the normal development and body growth.

Ten acres of timber, cared for, will return a larger profit, ultimately, than any other ten acres a western farmer can cultivate.

Watch the breeding birds and make sure that they are keeping in good condition. Give them an outdoor scratching place.

As soon as a crop appears above ground it needs cultivation, both to kill the weeds and to admit the air to the roots of the plants.

A wide-spreading shade tree is a joy to sheep in the pasture field in summer, and a real rest out of the sun at noon does them good.

The cows due to calve next month, if there is no bran or flaxseed meal on hand, should be given one peck of nubbins corn, divided into two feeds.

The main crop of onions is usually grown from seed sown in the open field in rows 12 to 14 inches distant and thinned to three inches in the row.

There is a vast deal of time wasted on many farms in traveling from one part to another, the waste being due to the fact that the buildings are not centrally located.

Produce commission men state that of late years there has sprung up a great demand for late fall-hatched chicks to be marketed in early spring before broilers are "ripe."

A young man who has had the advantage of a two-year course at a good agricultural college is better prepared for his work than the man that has never had this advantage.

Give plenty of green food while the ground is frozen. Cabbages, onions, steamed clover, boiled potatoes and turnips, with a warm meal mash, are excellent for pullets and hens ready to lay.

Roll the lawn as soon as the repairs have been made, to firm the soil about the grass roots. The heaving of the frost probably has loosened the top soil, which will allow the ground to dry out quicker.

As the weather is still cold, not more than 11 eggs should be given a hen. When a larger number is allowed, the eggs are not sufficiently covered, and those on the outer edges of the clutch are likely to become chilled.

It must be borne in mind that not all breeds of poultry will sit and brood their own young. Certain breeds such as those in the Mediterranean class (Leghorns), are called "non sitters," and can scarcely ever be induced to sit.

Stock breeding is an art.

Droopy chicks usually means lice.

Eggs may be fertile and yet not hatch well.

Wheat feeds all grains as a well balanced poultry food.

Eggs for hatching should be gathered at frequent intervals.

A suitable place for storing eggs intended for hatching is necessary.

Thoroughly compact the soil about the seeds, and so hasten germination.

There is as much in the feed and management of poultry as in the breed.

The nearer we can keep pigs of the same size together, the better they will feed.

If doing well, fall pigs may be weaned at six or seven weeks. If not, wait a little.

The profit to be made on lambs depends much upon the care of the ewes before lambing.

Although a large sheep may sell for more than a small one, it also costs more to rear it.

Better have a small flock reared in comfort and all good, than a large flock and only a few good.

The incubator is always broody—all it needs is the attention of the operator to start the hatch.

Banking up around the barn will help keep it warmer by shutting out the cold winds from beneath.

Make friends of your turkeys, so far as you can, and it will aid you considerably in caring for them.

Hurry along the tomatoes by trimming to one stem, and when the third cluster has formed cut off the top.

Men of experience hold that more money can be made by breeding older ewes. Stronger lambs are more produced.

Keeping the drinking vessels clean and therefore free from disease germs will often prevent sickness among chickens.

One of the best foods for sitting hens is whole corn or corn chop, together with green food, grit and fresh water.

One good thing to remember in the raising of onions is that the gardener does not necessarily have to go to a warm climate.

Remember that rows which run north and south allow the sun's rays to reach both sides of the plant—a distinct advantage.

A little shelled corn mixed in with the ground feed you give your horses will help to keep them from swallowing their food too fast.

One of the principal advantages of having poultry and fruit together is that there is not a rush at one season and a rest at another.

Bring up this year's flocks of chicks in fresh-air coops and houses. You will have better chickens and less trouble from colds next fall.

If sitters foul their nests or break eggs in them, clean up balance of the eggs by washing with lukewarm water and change the nesting material.

The requirements of the dairy cow are good, wholesome food, regularity in feeding and milking, good care and treatment and plenty of open-air exercise.

Topdress the asparagus bed with bonemeal and nitrate of soda. These are better than barnyard manure, as they do not introduce nearly so many weed seeds.

The value of alfalfa in comparison with prairie hay or cane is higher when fed to cattle that are to be sold in the spring than when fed to cattle that are not to be sold.

There is no poultry meat that comes so near the flavor of game birds as the guinea fowl and for this reason it is growing more and more in favor as a market bird.

It is common knowledge nowadays among poultry-keepers that charcoal has properties that make it invaluable as a corrector, or as a means of counteracting gastric troubles.

For thin clay soils sub-solling is better than very deep plowing, because it does not turn the compact clay to the surface, yet at the same time loosens the soil to a good depth.

A second or third class lamb is worth $5 on the market. A first-class sells as readily at $6 or $7. A profit in one case of about $1, in the other $2 or $3. No wonder some farmers make three times what others do.

Wheat middlings are a very desirable grain food for sows that are suckling a litter, and mixed with other milk-producing foods such as ground oats, corn in limited quantities, tantage and oil meal to give variety to the ration, make excellent rations for the sows.

Spring Dizziness

Felt by so many upon the return of warm weather is due to the impure, impoverished, devitalized condition of the blood which causes that tired feeling and loss of appetite as well as the pimples, boils and other eruptions so common at this season. It is cured by the great constitutional remedy which effects its wonderful cures, not simply because it contains sarsaparilla, but because it combines the utmost remedial values of more than twenty different ingredients. There is no real substitute for Hood's Sarsaparilla. If urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good," you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit.

How Sea Birds Drink.
Under the headline, Where Do They Get Water? a writer in the Young Folks Catholic Weekly says: "When I was a cabin boy I often used to wonder, seeing birds thousands of miles out to sea, what they did for fresh water when they were thirsty. One day a squall answered that question for me. It was a hot and glittering day in the tropics, and in the clear sky overhead a black rain cloud appeared all of a sudden. Then out of empty space over a hundred sea birds came darting from every direction. They got under the rain cloud, and waited there for about ten minutes, circling round and round, and when the rain began to fall they drank their fill. In the tropics, where the great sea birds sail thousands of miles away from shore, they get their drinking water in that way. They smell out a storm a long way off; they travel a hundred miles maybe to get under it, and they swallow enough raindrops to keep them going."—New York Tribune.

REASONED IT OUT
And Found a Change in Food Put Him Right.
A man does not count as wasted the time he spends in thinking over his business, but he seems loth to give the same sort of careful attention to himself and to his health. And yet his business would be worth little without good health to care for it. A business man tells how he did himself good by carefully thinking over his physical condition, investigating to find out what was needed, and then changing to the right food.

"For some years I had been bothered a great deal after meals. My food seemed to lay like lead in my stomach, producing heaviness and dullness and sometimes positive pain. Of course this rendered me more or less unfit for business, and I made up my mind that something would have to be done. Reflection led me to the conclusion that over-eating, filling the stomach with indigestible food, was responsible for many of the ills that human flesh endures, and that I was punishing myself in that way—that was what was making me so dull, heavy and uncomfortable, and unfit for business after meals. I concluded to try Grape-Nuts food to see what it could do for me.

"I have been using it for some months now, and am glad to say that I do not suffer any longer after meals; my food seems to assimilate easily and perfectly, and to do the work for which it was intended.

"I have regained my normal weight, and find that business is a pleasure once more—can take more interest in it, and my mind is clearer and more alert."

HELPFUL WORDS

From a Sullivan Citizen.

Is your back lame and painful? Does it ache especially after exertion? Is there a soreness in the kidney region? These symptoms indicate weak kidneys; There is danger in delay.

Weak kidneys fast get weaker. Give your trouble prompt attention. Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly. They strengthen weak kidneys. Read this Sullivan testimony.

D. G. Lindsay, S. Washington St., Sullivan, Ill., says: "I have no hesitation in saying that Doan's Kidney Pills are the best kidney medicine I know of. I speak from personal experience and from knowledge of their good work in other cases. We have used Doan's Kidney Pills in our family, procuring them from Hall's Drug Store. They have always brought relief from pains in the back and other symptoms of kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
