Horses Burned to Death

Mrs. Susan Bullock met with a severe loss by fire Saturday evening about six o'clock, when her barn burned.

Her team of horses, buggy and some feed were all burned. The origin of the fire is not known.

Mrs. Bullock is about seventy-five years of age and lives with her son, Ed. Ward Garrett was the first one to discover the fire. The loss is estimated at $500. The family has always worked hard, but most of the time as day laborers. They can not afford to lose so much as there was no insurance. For almost forty-five years Mrs. Bullock has been the maid of all work in Whitley township. At harvest times, extra work of all kinds and in sickness or death she was the one to respond, and worked faithfully with untiring hands always cheerful and a most kind disposition. Shall she need a horse to drive to church?

Caboose Burns

A caboose on a through freight, standing on the C. & E. I. passing track at Arthur Monday morning, caught fire from an oil stove that exploded and consumed it. The crew were not in the car at the time of the explosion and the fire had gained such headway before they discovered it they could not extinguish it.

CORRECTION

Frank Ferrel's name appears on the dodger, "Saloon Advocate" as paying no tax, this is a mistake. Mr. Ferrel pays $5.32.

The committee regrets making this mistake.

The name, A. Burwell, appears in the dodger "Saloon Advocate." This is not Ande F. Burwell, deputy county clerk, but is the signature of another party.

DRUGGIST RETIRES

J. R. Pogue has sold his stock of drugs to the Barrons of Arthur and A. G. Barrum of Springfield. The last mentioned will conduct the store here. He has a daughter who is a druggist, but we are not able to say who his assistant will be.

Mr. Pogue conducted the store in the same room twenty-two years and two months. F. W. Drish began clerking for him when he started and continued four years, then embarked in other pursuits several years. The last four months Mr. Drish has been his druggist. Mr. Pogue retains the jewelry department. Emery Crech will continue in charge of it.

Mr. Pogue has been one of Sullivan's enterprising business men, he is a good citizen and has done much to build up the town; always deeply interested in education, he has looked well after the schools.

In the home his influence speaks well. He has two sons that any parents may well be proud of; there the father and mother has done much for the community. A pleasant home, boys entertained and given all the way along work to do that they did not gad the streets. Observers can well see the home influence and the pride each member takes in home building.

The past two years has been trying on Mr. Pogue and his health necessitates a change for him. He has many friends who regret to see him retire, but on doubt as to his successor in the store we predict a gain in the change. Mr. Pogue will continue to reside in Sullivan where his influence for good will still be exerted and felt.

In the family of Mr. Barrum we add good citizens, a young active business man, that will be a boon to our town, with strength to work.

SEARCH FOR TRAIN

Sheriff Fleming was notified Monday morning to watch the train from Tuscola for a person suspected of committing theft.

Character and wife were stopping at the Beach hotel conducted by Mrs. Grace Cunningham. The gentleman travels in the interest of the Studebaker Automobile Co. Returning from Kankakee Sunday night, on nearing Tuscola he went out on the platform of the train and took hold of the hand rail. A loaded truck standing near the track struck him and knocked him from the train. His right wrist was broken, head seriously injured and he was badly bruised. He was taken into the Beach hotel for treatment. His pocket book containing considerable money was handed to his wife. Owing to the nervous strain and excitement she fainted. After regaining consciousness she missed the pocket book and no one seemed to know what had become of it. Led to a suspicion that it had been stolen hence the notice sent to Sheriff Fleming who promptly looked through the train but found no suspicious character.

SERIAL STORY

When a Man Marries

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Author of The Greater Sinners, The Man in Leather, Tan, etc.

Copyright 1919, by the Dobbie-Merrill Co.

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends. Jimmy was reticent and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so, his art is considered a huge joke, except to himself. If he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella because she is a girl who enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance. Bella insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Harbison stays out on the porch and discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison believes the word "Harbison" printed on it. He tells him the guests cannot leave the house until the quarantine is lifted. The guests suddenly realize their predicament. The woman sheds tears, the men consider it a good joke. The all important question arises as to who is to prepare the morning meal, perform the other household duties. Harbison finally solves the matter. After the lifting of the quarantine several letters are found in the mail box undelivered. One is addressed to Henry Llewellyn, Iquique, Chile, which was written by Harbison. He describes minutely of his incarceration, also of his intention for Mrs. Wilson. Aunt Selma is taken ill with a gripe. Betty acts as nurse. Harbison rings on the door. She tells him that she doesn't mean the thing she is saying about her husband. Kit starts down the stairs when suddenly she is grasped in the arms of a man who kisses her several times. She believes that Harbison did it and is humiliated. Aunt Selma tells Jimmy that her cameo, breastpin and other articles of jewelry have been stolen. She accuses Betty of the theft.

"I saw you kiss her in the dining room, remember that!" Aunt Selma went on, giving the screw another turn.

It was Bella's turn to be excited. She gave me an awful stare, then she fixed her eyes on Jim.

"Besides," Aunt Selma went on, "you told me today that you loved her. Don't deny it, James."

Bella couldn't keep quiet another instant. She came over and stood at the foot of the bed.

"Please don't excite yourself, dear Miss Caruthers," she said, in a voice like ice. "Every one knows that he loves her; he simply overflows with it. It—it is quite a by-word among their friends. They have been sitting together in a corner all evening."

Yes, that was what she said; when I had not spoken to Jimmy the whole time in the den. Bella was cattish, and she was jealous, too. I turned on my heel and went to the door; then I turned to her, with my hand on the knob.

"You have been misinformed," I said coldly. "You can not possibly know, having spent three hours in a corner yourself—with Mr. Harbison." I abhor jealousy in a woman.

Well, Aunt Selma ate all the lobster salad, and drank the port after Bella had told her it was beef, iron and wine, and she slept all night, and was able to sit up in a chair the next day, and so infatuated with Bella that she would not let her out of her sight. But that is ahead of the story.

At midnight the house was fairly quiet, except for Jim, who kept walking around the halls because he couldn't sleep. I got up at last and ordered him to bed, and he had the audacity to have a grievance with me.

"Look at my situation now!" he said, sitting pensively on a steam radiator. "Aunt Selma's crazy. I only kissed your hand, anyhow, and I don't know why you sat in the den all evening; you might have known that Bella would notice it. Why couldn't you leave me alone to my misery?"

"Very well," I said, much offended. "After this I shall sit with Flannigan in the kitchen. He is the only gentleman in the house."

I left him babbling apologies and went to bed, but I had an uncomfortable feeling that Bella had been a witness to our conversation, for the door into Aunt Selma's room closed softly as I passed.

I knew beforehand that I was not going to sleep. The instant I turned out the light the nightmare events of the evening ranged themselves in a procession, or a series of tableaux, one after the other: Flannigan on the roof, with the bracelet on his palm, looking accusingly at me; Mr. Harbison and the scene on the roof, with my apparition; and the result of that apparition—the man on the stairs, the arms that held me, the terrible kisses that had scorched my lips—it was awful! And then the absurd situation across Aunt Selma's bed, and Bella's face! Oh, it was all so ridiculous—my having thought that the Harbison man was a gentleman and kissing him a cold, and worse. It was excruciatingly funny. I quite got a headache from laughing; indeed I laughed until I found I was crying, and then I knew I was going to have an attack of strangled emotion, called hysteria. So I got up and turned on all the lights, and bathed my face with cologne, and felt better.

But I did not go to sleep. When the hall clock chimed two, I discovered I was hungry. I had had nothing since luncheon, and even the thirst following the South American goulash was gone. There was probably something to eat in the pantry, and if there was not, I was quite equal to going to the basement.

As it happened, however, I found a very orderly assortment of left-overs and a pitcher of milk, which had no business there, in the pantry, and with plenty of light I was not at all frightened.

I ate bread and butter and drank milk, and was fast becoming a rational person again; I had pulled out one of the drawers part way, and with a tray across the corner I had improvised a comfortable seat. And then I noticed that the drawer was full of soiled napkins, and I remembered the bracelet. I hardly know why I decided to go through the drawer again after Flannigan had already done it, but I did. I finished my milk and then, getting down on my knees, I proceeded systematically to empty the drawer. I took out perhaps a dozen napkins and as many dollies without finding anything. Then I took out a large tray cloth, and there was something on it that made me look farther. One corner of it had been scorched, the clear and well-defined imprint of a lighted cigarette or cigar, a blackened streak that trailed off into a brown and yellow. I had a queer, tremulous feeling, as if I were on the brink of a discovery—perhaps Anne's pearls, or the cuff buttons with storks painted on china in the center. But the only thing I found, down in the corner of the drawer, was a half-burned cigarette.

To me, it seemed quite enough. It was one of the South American cigarettes, with a tobacco wrapper instead of paper, that Mr. Harbison smoked.

CHAPTER XII.

The Roof Garden.

I was quite ill the next morning—from excitement, I suppose. Anyhow, I did not get up, and there wasn't any breakfast. Jim said he roused Flannigan at eight o'clock, to go down and get the fire started, and then went back to bed. But Flannigan did not get up. He appeared, sheepishly, at half-past ten, and by that time Bella was down, in a towering rage, and had burned her hand and got the fire started, and had taken up a tray for Aunt Selma and herself.

As the others straggled down they boiled themselves eggs or ate fruit, and nobody put anything away. Lollie Mercer made me some tea and scorched toast, and brought it, about 11 o'clock.

"I never saw such a house," she declared. "A dozen housemaids couldn't put it in order. Why should every man that smokes drop ashes wherever he happens to be?"

"That's the question of the ages," I replied languidly. "What was Max talking so horribly about a little while ago?" Lollie looked up aggrieved.

"About nothing at all," she declared. "Anne told me to clean the bathtubs with oil, and I did it, that's all. Now Max says he couldn't get it off, and his clothes stick to him, and if he should forget and strike a match in the—in the usual way, he would explode. He can clean his own tub tomorrow," she finished vindictively.

At noon Jim came in to see me, bringing Anne—as a concession to Bella. He was in a rage, and he carried the morning paper like a club in his hand.

"What sort of a newspaper lie would you call this?" he demanded irritably. "It makes me crazy; everybody with a mental image of me leaning over the parapet of the roof, waving a board, with the rest of you sitting on my legs to keep me from overbalancing."

"Maybe there's a picture!" Anne said hopefully.

Jim looked.

"No picture," he announced. "I wonder why they restrained themselves! I wish Bella would keep off the roof," he added, with fresh access of rage, "or wear a mask or veil. One of those fellows is going to see me here, and there'll be the dance to say."

"When you are all through discussing this thing, perhaps you will tell me what is the matter," I remarked, from my couch. "Why did you lean over the parapet, Jim, and who sat on your legs?"

"I didn't; nobody did," he retorted, waving the newspaper. "It's a lie cut out of the whole cloth, that's what it is. I asked you girls to be decent to those reporters; it never pays to offend a newspaper man. Listen to this, Kit."

He read the article rapidly, furiously, pausing every now and then to make an exasperated comment.

THE ROOF GARDEN.

Attempt at Escape Frustrated—Members of the Four Hundred Defy the Law.

"Special Officer McCloud, on duty at the quarantined house of James Wilson, artist and clubman, on Ninety-fifth street, reported this morning a daring attempt at escape, made at 3 a. m. It is in this house that some eight or nine members of the smart set were imprisoned during the course of a dinner party, when the Japanese butler developed smallpox. The party shut in the house includes Miss Katherine McNair, the daughter of Theodore McNair of the Inter-Ocean system; Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Brown, the Misses Mercer, Maxwell Reed, the well-known clubman and whip, and a Mr. Thomas Harbison, guest of the Dallas Browns and a South American.

"Officer McCloud's story, told to a Chronicle reporter this morning, is as follows: The occupants of the house had been uneasy all day. From the air of subdued bustle, and from a careful inspection of the roof, made by the entire party during the afternoon, his suspicion had been aroused. Nothing unusual, however, occurred during the early part of the night. From eight o'clock to twelve McCloud was relieved from duty, his place being taken by Michael Shane of the Eighty-sixth street station.

"When McCloud came on duty at midnight, Shane reported that about 11 o'clock the searchlight of a steamer on the river, flashing over the house, had shown a man crouching on the parapet, evidently surveying the roof across, which at this point is only 12 feet distant, with a view of making his escape. On seeing Shane below, however, he had bent a retreat, but not before the officer had seen him distinctly. He was dressed in evening clothes and wore a light tan overcoat.

"Officer McCloud relieved Shane at midnight, and sent for a plain-clothes man from the station house. This man was stationed on the roof of the Bevington residence next door, with strict injunctions to prevent an escape from the quarantined mansion. Nothing suspicious having occurred, the man on the roof left about 3 a. m., reporting to McCloud below that everything was quiet. At that moment, glancing skyward, one of the officers was astounded to see a long narrow board project itself from the coping of the Wilson house, waver uncertainly for a moment, and then advance stealthily toward the parapet across. When it was within a foot or two of a resting place, McCloud called sharply to the invisible refugee above, at the same time firing his revolver in the ground.

"The result was surprising. The board stopped, trembled, swayed a little, and dropped, missing the vigilant officer by a hair's breadth, and crashing to the cement with a terrific force. An inspection of the roof from the Bevington house, later, revealed nothing unusual. It is evident, however, that the quarantine is proving irksome to the inhabitants of the sequestered residence, most of whom are typical society folk, without resources in themselves. Their condition, without valets and maids, is certainly pitiable. It has been rumored that the ladies are doing their own hair, and that the gentlemen have been reduced to putting their own buttons in their shirts. This deplorable situation, however, is unavoidable.

"The vigilance of the board of health has been most commendable in this case. Beginning with a wager over the telephone that they would break quarantine in 24 hours, and ending with the attempt to span a 12-foot gulch with a board, over which to cross to freedom, these shut-in society folk have shown characteristic disregard of the laws of the state. It is quite time to extend to the millionaires the same strictness that keeps the commuter at home for three weeks with the measles; that makes him get the milk bottles and groceries from the gate-post and smell like dog-soup for a month afterward, as a result of disinfection."

THE POINT OF VIEW.

"Honesty is the best policy." "Not on your life," blurted out the insurance agent.

Uttered His Voice; the Earth Melted

By PASTOR RUSSELL of Revivalists Tabernacle

TEXT—We will not fear though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea.—Psalm 124.

I have chosen for my text a scripture, a symbolical prophecy which, I believe, is rapidly nearing fulfillment. All Bible students recognize the fact that many of the Psalms are Messianic; that is to say, they apply to the time of the inauguration of Messiah's Millennial Kingdom. Some of them detail the peace and joy and blessings which will then prevail among men, when the great leveling processes of that time will raise all the worthy poor and degraded and will humble all the proud, establishing society under such new conditions that the new order of things is symbolically styled in the scriptures "a new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness" (II Peter iii, 13). Others of the Psalms describe in highly figurative terms the work of the Millennial Age. For instance, we read:

"Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea." Fear is the great torment of the majority of our race. It is the lash which the adversary frequently uses to drive away from God those who need his sympathy and love and succor. To such the Lord speaks tenderly saying, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." And again, God declares his name to be Love and says, "Their fear toward me is taught by the precepts of men"—not by his word (Isaiah xlii, 13). He would have us trust him as a great, loving, generous father, saying, "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord compassioneth those who reverence him" (Psalm ciii, 13). As love, more love, perfect love, comes into our hearts it more and more casts out the fear which the adversary would inculcate and which has burned into men's minds and consciences the "doctrines of devils," to which the apostle refers (I Timothy iv, 1).

The fact that the scriptures prophetically describe the overwhelming of the social order and the great governments of the earth must not be understood to signify that the Bible counsels revolution or anarchy. On the contrary, all of God's people throughout the scriptures are counseled to live peaceably with all men, so far as possible. They are counseled not to use carnal weapons, not to take to the sword for the settlement of disputes, but rather to suffer injury. They are counseled that God is the great Over-Lord, and that although he is not now ruling directly amongst men he is fully the master of the situation in that he could at any time overthrow all opponents. He does not acknowledge that his will is now done in the earth, but tells us that it will be done "by and by" and encourages us to pray and to hope and to wait for it. He tells us that Satan is now the "Prince of this world" by virtue of the fact that he deceives the minds and hearts of the majority. God would have his people understand something of his great program, but he would keep this hidden from all others; hence the impossibility of explaining spiritual things to a carnal mind (I Corinthians ii, 14). "None of the wicked shall understand." (Daniel xii, 10).

The great creator has contented himself with such a supervision of human affairs as leaves much responsibility in human hands. He merely interposes to raise up or to cast down on occasions when the interest of his cause and program may demand. For instance, the case of the Pharaoh, raised to the throne of Egypt; in Moses' day. God there raised to the throne a man of great determination, and hindered from reaching the throne other men not so favorable to the carrying out of the divine purposes. Thus, without interfering with the free moral agency of the king, God used the wrath of man to praise him, and the remainder he restrained. Similarly, God previously raised Joseph to the governorship of Egypt for his own purposes.

We are not of those who would harass the minds of our fellows with fear. Rather we would point them to the fact that behind this cloud of trouble there is a glorious silver lining of millennial joy and blessing for all the families of the earth. Rather we would encourage all who have the hearing ear to zeal and faithfulness in their consecration, that they may "make their calling and their election sure" to a share in the kingdom glories and "escape those things coming upon the earth" (Luke xli, 36). In a word, the gospel of Christ is not a message of damnation and fear and torture, but, as the angels declared, "Good things of great joy which shall be unto all people" (Luke ii, 10).

Beginning with the sixth verse the Prophet gives a brief synoptical picture of the time of trouble and its consummation and the inauguration of universal peace. "The heathen (Gentile peoples) raged!" These words describe the tumult which will prevail amongst humanity in the great time of trouble before the climax is reached. "Raging" anger voices arise from public meetings, and in the more private meetings of the lodges of labor and capital, and through the columns of the press to the extent permitted. In Germany the "raging" press for some time has been muzzled.

ILLINOIS HAPPENINGS

Chicago.—Professing an undying love for her husband, who has brought suit for divorce, and clinging persistently to her five-year-old daughter Ethel, Mrs. Pearl McPherson, formerly a belle of Mason City, Ia., attempted to kill the child and herself, but succeeded only in tossing her loved one into the arms of her father, who returns to give up his charge. Gas was the means of death chosen. The double death attempt occurred at the Sava hotel, 340 West Chicago avenue, where Mrs. McPherson has been stopping for a week.

Joliet.—About fifteen hundred acres of the proposed site for the new penitentiary and asylum for the criminal insane have been bought or are held on options. A number of the options have not been acted upon by the commission. It is believed that the commission will find it necessary to begin condemnation proceedings against not more than two or three property owners. The total area in view for purchase is 2,000 acres.

Danville.—News was received here of the second attempt in two days to murder a company of Italian railroad laborers employed by the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad near Villa Grove. A few days ago a stick of dynamite was placed under a car in which they were sleeping and the explosion shattered it. There was another explosion which threw men from their beds, broke windows and did other damage.

Dixon.—Adjutant General Dickson wired the local authorities that the Third brigade, consisting of the Third and Sixth Infantry, Illinois National Guard, would be ordered to hold its encampment in Dixon August 12 to 26. A large tract of land at the northern limits of the city has been selected as the place for the encampment. The campus of the Rock River Military academy will be used as the parade grounds.

Ottawa.—W. B. Tennant, who stabbed and killed Clarence McCutcheon in Marseilles August 16, arrived in Ottawa from Atlanta, Ga., in company with Deputy Sheriff John G. Mischek. Tennant and McCutcheon engaged in a fight and Tennant claims he was dealt a blow by McCutcheon with a beer bottle or a pair of brass knucks, and he exhibits a scar near his temple as evidence of the blow.

Witt.—While playing near the tracks where her twelve-year-old brother was picking up coal, Irene, the three-year-old daughter of Gabes Jones, was struck by a loaded coal car and instantly killed. The child's body was horribly mangled. Mrs. Spelling, a woman who was near the spot, had a narrow escape from death while attempting to save the child.

Nashville.—With the largest fruit crop in the history of Washington county in prospect, the orchard men are busy spraying.

Joliet.—"Me no sleep. Too much think all time," says Tony Augustine, the foreigner who confessed to killing John McGovern, a prominent farmer at Wilpington several days ago.

Mount Carmel.—"Bobby," a blooded dog belonging to Mayor Stockman of this city, seemingly died of a broken heart when he was placed in the pound along with common curs, for appearing on the streets without a muzzle.

Bartonville.—In a test case, tried before Judge Stone, the court held that shot-firers must be provided by the mine owners when more than two pounds of powder is used.

Belvidere.—Deputy Grand Master James M. Kniff, a well-known Mason of this city, has offered a liberal reward for information which will lead to the discovery of the whereabouts of his 16-year-old daughter, who has been missing for ten days.

Salem.—In order to retain the C. & E. I. railroad shops in this city, residents raised $52,000 in three hours, to build a reservoir for a good water supply.

Galesburg.—While giving an exhibition of horsemanship at Alexis, Fred Donnelly was thrown from a vicious animal and instantly killed.

Mount Vernon.—Howard Hick, eleven, died as the result of a blow on the head from a stone thrown by Walton Kirk, thirteen. The boys were playing when the accident occurred.

Joliet.—Walter Steinmiller of Chicago, held here for horse stealing, was caught in the act of sawing bars in the Will county jail. John Sullivan, also of Chicago, was arrested charged with passing the saws to Steinmiller. Steinmiller's wife was here and it is thought she gave the saws to Sullivan. She will be arrested in Chicago, it is expected.

Chicago.—Despondent over ill health, A. H. Juhlin, forty-two years old, 2745 North Artesian avenue, attempted to end his life by stabbing himself. He was found by a policeman, who took him to the German hospital. He had a wound in the neck, another near the heart, and a third in the right shoulder.

Springfield.—Charges that Mrs. L. Amigh, matron of the Geneva School for Girls, has been cruel in her method of administering punishment were declared unfounded in a report which a special committee of ten made to Governor Deneen. The committee included representatives from Rock Island and Moline philanthropic organizations.

Mount Vernon.—Four children of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Purdie, residing north of Mount Vernon were bitten by a mad dog. The dog was killed and the children were taken to Chicago for treatment.

AFTER 7 YEARS SUFFERING

I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and was cured."

Wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. In a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well."

—Mrs. SALLIE STEVENS, R. F. D., No. 2, Box 31, Waurika, Okla.

Another Grateful Woman.

Huntington, Mass.—"I was in a nervous, run down condition and for three years could find no help. I owe my present good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier which I believe saved my life."

"My doctor knows what helped me and does not say one word against it."

—Mrs. MARI JANE BARNES, Box 184, Huntington, Mass.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ill, such as inflammation, necrosis, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periods pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, and nervous prostration.

TREASURED SECRET WAS OUT

Football Referee's Devotion to Duty—Evidently Had Got Him into Serious Trouble.

The referee had swallowed the whistle. It was very unfortunate, but it was not his fault. A burly forward had charged him fairly in the center of his back, sending the whistle down his throat.

"The game must end!" cried some one. "We can't do without a whistle."

"It's all right!" gasped the referee. "I've got a substitute. We can go on."

He produced a latch key from his pocket, and as the game commenced blew several hearty blasts on his new whistle.

Suddenly a woman's voice, loud and angry, was heard above the roar of the game.

"Ferdinand, what does this mean, sir! Where did you get that latch key?"

Then Ferdinand slunk off the field, for the voice was the voice of his wife.

Open-Air Schools Increasing

Since January 1, 1907, sixty-five open-air schools for children afflicted with or predisposed to tuberculosis have been established in twenty-eight cities, according to an announcement made by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The first open-air school in the United States was established on January 1, 1907, by the board of education of Providence, R. I., at the instance of Dr. Ellen A. Stone. The next school was established in May of the same year at Pittsburg, and the third at Boston in July, 1908. According to the reports received by the National Association, the result of the open-air class-work has been to restore most of the children to normal health and efficiency. One of these open-air schools or classes should be established for each 25,000 population, especially in cities.

DAME NATURE HINTS When the Food is Not Sued.

When Nature gives her signal that something is wrong it is generally with the food; the old Dame is always faithful and one should act at once.

To put off the change is to risk that which may be irreparable. An Arizona man says:

"For years I could not safely eat any breakfast. I tried all kinds of breakfast foods, but they were all soft, starchy messes, which gave me distressing headaches. I drank strong coffee, too, which appeared to benefit me at the time, but added to the headaches afterwards. Toast and coffee were no better, for I found the toast very constipating."

"A friend persuaded me to quit coffee and the starchy breakfast foods, and use Postum and Grape-Nuts instead. I shall never regret taking his advice."

"The change they have worked in me is wonderful. I now have no more of the distressing sensations in my stomach after eating, and I never have any headaches. I have gained 12 pounds in weight and feel better in every way. Grape-Nuts make a delicious as well as a nutritious dish, and I find that Postum is easily digested and never produces dyspepsia symptoms."

A little girl from 'way down South, Once put her finger in her mouth, When suddenly she had to cough, And bit her finger almost off.

A little boy from 'way up North, Who lapsed, once said: "I want a horse And thadde the that I can ride With thord and pithol by my thide."

A little girl from 'way down East, Attended once a birthday feast, And ate as long and much, they say, The doctor had to come next day.

A little boy from 'way out West, Went out one morning, neatly dressed, In mud he slipped from head to heels, And now 'stands up to take his meals."

BRIGHT BOY CAN MAKE TOY

Push Flier Swiftly Off Rod and It Soars About Room for Some Time—Most Amusing!

Even the toymakers have taken up the craze and the market is flooded with aerial toys. One of the most amusing and one so simple a bright boy can make it himself, is devised by a Virginia man. The secret of this toy lies in the four-bladed flier itself, the blades being twisted like those of a screw propeller or an electric fan. A long piece of strong wire, or of twisted wire, for it must not bend easily, has a ring at the bottom for thumb or finger. On this ring sets a spool and on the spool rests the flier, which has a hole drawn over the wire. By pushing the spool up swiftly the wings of the flier are set in motion by the air pressure, and as it flies off the top of the wire it soars gracefully around the room for some time.

WHY HE ADMIRES GREAT MEN

Small Boy Learns Something Easily About Washington and Lincoln and Gets Holiday Besides.

The two latest holidays—the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington—have given the youth of the country much information about those two great men. At all the public schools, there were exercises in honor of each and at some there were tableaux of some of the events of their lives. One small boy who spoke about the tableaux was asked whether he learned much history at the exercises.

"Sure," he replied. "On Lincoln's birthday we learned all he did. Say, he was shot in a noppory-house by a man called—now—Wilkes Booth. We learned a lot more about him, too. It's more interestin' hearin' the others speak than readin' it yourself, an' yer remember better. Yestday we learned all about Washington. I guess I know all he ever did."

"Do you look forward to the exercises?" he was asked.

"Bet we do—next day's a holiday."

AEROPLANE DART IS POPULAR

Addition of Wings That Has Been on Market for Years Increases Demand for Toy.

One of the most popular children's toys in Paris at the present time is the aeroplane arrow or dart shown in the accompanying drawing. The same toy, minus the wings, has been on the market for a number of years, but the addition of the wings has more than doubled its popularity. The dart is projected by means of a spring in the barrel of the pistol, it being compressed when the end of the dart is inserted, says the Popular Mechanic. The pulling of a trigger releases the spring and the dart rushes on its journey toward the target. The rubber tip, which is hollowed out, creates a vacuum within itself when it strikes the target and holds the dart in place where it strikes.

The Cattail.
The cattail of the American swamps is almost exactly the same plant as the Egyptian bullrush. It is no longer used for making paper as it once was, but from its root, is prepared an astringent medicine, and its stems are used for the manufacture of mats, chair-bottoms and the like.

WOULDN'T GO TO SCHOOL.

Once there was a little boy Who wouldn't go to school, He wouldn't study arithmetic Nor learn a single rule.

And now he's such a stupid boy That folks all call him "Foot."

That little boy, the very same Who wouldn't go to school.

So, now, dear little children, Ponder on these things— And gladly hurry off to school When the school bell rings.

FIRST OF THE WHEEL CRAZE

It Began to Rage in United States as Long Ago as Year 1869—Velocipedes First.

Mr. Frank H. Visetelly tells "The Story of the Wheel" in St. Nicholas. Mr. Visetelly says: The spring of 1869 found the wheel craze universal. Carriage-builders were led to add to their factories plants for the manufacturing of velocipedes. Over one thousand of these machines were turned out every week, while orders were pouring in by the tens of thousands. To quote from a newspaper of about that time: "As an indication of the extent to which the manufacture of velocipedes was carried on, it may be mentioned that Mr. Calvin Witty, the purchaser of the Lallemand patent, employed the resources of seven large carriage-makers, and kept their establishments busy day and night. He had seventy men at work in one establishment in New York, and he also kept men actively employed in two factories in Connecticut, one in Washington, Del., and one in Newark, N. J."

But few people had expected that the mania for this new style of wheeled vehicles would be so great. Among the earliest who exhibited their skill on the velocipede in public were the Hanlon brothers. They used a somewhat clumsy type of wheel from France. These, at best, were but heavy things, which were soon improved upon by American makers.

Schools for teaching learners to ride were quickly opened, and that of Frank Pearsall, the well-known New York photographer, was perhaps the first of these. His school was on the corner of Broadway and Twenty-second street. Together with his brother, he turned out upwards of three hundred well-taught riders within two months. Three months later nearly fifty bicycle-schools thrived in New York and Brooklyn. These schools varied one with the other in high-sounding names. One was the "Amphicyclotheatrum," another the "gymnocyclidium," etc. The cost of tuition was fifteen dollars each; but this amount carried with it the right to use a velocipede and to practice in the hall for one month.

NOT A HEALTH FADDIST.

Mr. Brown—Ah! want to shovel off the snow, eh? Well, it's fine, healthy work, my little man.

The Kid—I ain't doin' it fer me health. I'm doin' it fer five cents.

A Storehouse.

In the old birds' nests that are placed near the ground in shrubs and small trees close to hazel nut bushes and bitter sweet vines in the country you will often find a handful of hazel nuts or bitter sweet berries. They were put there by the white-footed mice and the meadow mice that visit these storehouses regularly. A white-footed mouse will often cover a bird's nest with fine dried grass and inner bark and make a nest for itself.

Flanders Babies.

Did you know that in the eighteenth century, almost all dolls were made by the children of the Netherlands? They weren't called dolls then, but "Flanders babies" instead. There used to be an old English couplet which ran thus: "The children of Holland take pleasure in making What the children of England take pleasure in breaking."

WILL LOOK TO CANADA FOR WHEAT

ONE REASON WHY AMERICANS GO TO CANADA.

In the Chicago Inter-Ocean of a few days since reference was made to the fact that in 1909 the United States raised 737,189,000 bushels of wheat, and last year grew only 636,443,000, a decrease of 1,146,000 bushels. The article went on to say: "True we raised last year more than enough wheat for our own needs, but it is apparent that if production continues to decrease in that ratio we will soon be obliged to look to other countries for wheat to supply our rapidly increasing population."

The purpose of the article was to show that reciprocity was to be desired. This is a question that I do not propose to deal with, preferring to leave it to others who have made a greater study of that economic question than I have. The point to be considered is, with the high price of lands in the United States, and with the much lower priced lands of Canada, and their ability to produce probably more abundantly, is it not well for the United States farmer to take advantage of the opportunity Canada affords with its lower-priced lands and take a part in supplying the needs of the United States, which it is quite apparent must come sooner or later? It is probable there are now about 800,000 American farmers in Western Canada, cultivating large farms, and becoming rich, in the growing of 25- and 30-bushel-to-the-acre wheat, in producing large yields of oats and barley, and in raising horses and cattle cheaply on the wild prairie grasses that are there, both succulent and abundant. All these find a ready market at good prices. Amongst the Americans who have made their homes in Canada are to be found colonies of Scandinavians, and all are doing well. I have before me a letter from an American Scandinavian, now a Canadian, an extract from which is interesting. Writing from Turtle Lake, Saskatchewan, he says:

"I came up here from Fergus Falls, Minn., October 24th, 1910, and thought I would let you know how I have been getting along. We had a very mild winter up to New Year's, but since then it has been quite cold and lots of snow, but not worse than that we could be out every day working, even though we had 65 below zero a few times, but we do not feel the cold here the same as we did in Minnesota, as it is very still and the air is high and dry. This is a splendid place for cattle raising and mixed farming. There is some willow brush and small poplars on part of the land, which is rolling and covered with splendid grass in the summer. Not far from here there is timber for building material. There are only 8 Norwegians here, 6 Scotchmen, 3 Germans. The lake is 30 miles long and full of very fine fish.

"There is a lot of land yet that has not been taken and room for many settlers, and we wish you would send some settlers up here, as there are fine prospects for them, especially for those who have a little money to start with. Send them here to Turtle Lake, and we will show them the land, if they have secured plots, showing the vacant lands, at the Dominion Lands office in Battleford. Send us up some good Scandinavians this spring."

The Canadian government agents will try to meet his wishes.

Absent-Minded Bridegroom.

John Adams has always been absent minded, says the Kansas City Journal. Yesterday he went with Ida Lee of Kansas City, Mo., to Kansas City, Kan., to be married by Paul Huff, acting probate judge. When Judge Huff asked him if he would "take this woman to be your lawfully wedded wife," he was looking out of the window and didn't answer.

"If you've any doubts about it we will stop right here," the bride said defiantly.

Adams protested that he had not hesitated at all, but had merely been thinking about something else. The ceremony was completed without further hitch.

Johnson and the Smart Children.

Full of indignation against such parents as delight to produce their young ones early into the talking world, Samuel Johnson gave a good deal of pain, by refusing to hear the verses the children could recite, or the songs they could sing. One friend told him that his two sons should repeat Gray's Elegy to him alternately, that he might judge who had the happiest endence.

"No, pray, sir," said he, "let the dears both speak at once."

GIBSON'S ONE GOOD POINT

In the Old Gentleman's Eyes It Outweighed Any Slight Error in Orthography.

The old man had given his son a very fair education, and had taken him into his shop. The young fellow was over-nice about a great many things, but the father made no comment. One day an order came in from a customer.

"I wish to goodness," exclaimed the son, "that Gibson would learn to spell."

"What's the matter with it?" inquired the father, cheerfully.

"Why, he spells coffee with a 'k.'"

"No—does he? I never noticed it."

"Of course you never did," said the son, pettishly. "You never notice anything like that."

"Perhaps not, my son," replied the old man, gently; "but there is one thing I do notice, which you will learn by and by, and that is that Gibson pays cash."

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trade with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.,—take the advice received and be well.

An Irishman was lately employed by one of our large railroad companies as a porter. Shortly after he began his duties a woman went up to him and said:

"I have just lost the train; how long shall I have to wait for the next?"

"Be jabbers! you had better go and find the one you lost, else the company will be after you," returned Pat.

How Old People May Prolong Their Lives

At advanced age the organs act more slowly than in youth. Circulation becomes poor, blood thin and watery, appetite fitful, and digestion weak. This condition leaves the system open to disease such as Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Pneumonia, Rheumatism, etc.

VINOL is the greatest health creator and body builder we know of for old people, as it supplies the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissue and replace weakness with strength.

HERE IS THE PROOF. A case is recorded in Albany, N. Y., of a woman who felt she was "wearing down by age and was doomed to the weak and feeble condition of old people. She had no strength and the slightest exertion tired her, but VINOL made her well and strong, and she states that she feels ten years younger than she did before taking VINOL.

We ask every aged person in this neighborhood to try a bottle of VINOL with the understanding that we will return their money if it does not prove beneficial.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Little Jean's parents were enthusiastic bridge-players, and Jean was more or less familiar with the sight of cards. At Sunday school one day the teacher had been giving a talk on David. Out of the silence piped little Jean's voice: "This 'it's a king, but it may be a Jack!"

Didn't Want to Go Too Far.

Joseph Jefferson had a favorite story concerning a small boy whose cherished bulldog got into frequent fights. After one such encounter troubled Jimmy sought the aid of the late family physician. "Why, yes, I can fix your dog up," said this gentleman, kindly, "but I thought your family had accepted Christian Science. Why don't you try one of your own healers? Don't you think they could cure him?" "Yes, sir," hesitated the lad, nervously stepping from one foot to another, "we have, an' they could, an' I would only—I'm afraid they'll take all the fight out of him, that's all."

Small Girl Willing to Spend the Money, but Was on Lookout for a Bargain.

The shrewd small daughter of a clever Chicago business man not long since exemplified at once her faith in her father's judgment and her budding sense of commercial values. She and her brothers long had been clamoring for a sister, and the father, at Christmas time, had laughingly presented the mother with a generous check, explaining that she could buy a baby with it if she so desired. The children listened seriously, talked the matter over and decided that the dear mother had displayed unwonted selfishness when, upon Christmas morning, she announced that she had purchased not the longed-for little sister, but a diamond brooch. A little later Jennie, representing the juvenile members of the family, asked for a private word with her father and handed him three little bank books.

"Oscar and John and me have saved up our money," she explained, "until we've got $100.16 between us, and we want you to buy us a baby, if mother won't. An' daddy, you can have all this money to buy the baby with if you need it, but we thought maybe you'd watch the market and save out enough to get us that new swing we've been wanting so long."

NOTES FROM THE FARM

By William Pitt

Farm manure is valuable.

Plant some fall forage crops.

The nest egg theory is out of date.

A hen will lay if she is properly fed and housed.

It is best not to wash eggs that are to be used for hatching.

Many poultry keepers do not give their birds exercise enough.

Rape makes very good pasture for either young chickens or laying hens.

Experience teaches that the best hatching eggs are those of medium shape.

The sitting hen must have her daily care and attention, just like the incubator.

Poultry farming, in connection with sheep, is largely followed in parts of New England.

Trees should be pruned when they are first transplanted. This is the most ideal time to start the pruning.

There are two methods for getting good cows: by buying them, or by buying good sires and building up the grade herd.

Onions and peas are among the first seeds to sow in the spring. The plants will endure some frosty weather.

In choosing a breed of sheep, it matters little which is chosen so long as it is a good wool and mutton producing quality.

After the hens become broody on their laying nests they may be gently and quietly changed at night to the sitting quarters.

In that new poultry house have the perches on a level and about a foot above the dropping board. Don't forget the dropping board.

Prune to prevent the lower limbs from hindering cultivation; the upper ones from growing out of easy reach for spraying and picking.

Be sure that the turkeys have enough, but not too much food during the brooding season—just enough to keep them in good flesh.

Wash incubator trays in good hot water with plenty of the old-fashioned hard yellow soap. Dry in the sun. Do this after each hatch is off.

The hen that grew from the incubator chicken will sit as badly as the one that grew from the chicken hatched in the old-fashioned way.

It is useless to plant beans until the ground becomes warm. If they come up and then are chilled, they turn yellow and never amount to anything.

The brood sow, like all other animals, requires sufficient food to maintain her own body in a thrifty condition, while yet supplying the needs of the unborn litter.

There used to be a mania—and it still has a hold in some sections—for farmers to increase their farm possessions in spite of their inability to properly use the same.

Farming is not a calling in which "main strength and awkwardness" are factors. It is not an industry that affords a large aggregate crop by half cultivating a large acreage.

The fertility of eggs depends chiefly on the condition of the breeding stock, the number of females allotted to one male, the conditions under which they are kept and the food.

Don't sell that old ewe merely because she is thin. Look at her teeth. If they are good she is probably a lanky suckler and a money-maker. Give her a little grain and watch her a little.

Poultry manure ferments very quickly and as frequently handled as much of its nitrogen in the form of compounds of ammonia which are rapidly formed and which escape into the air unless means to prevent are taken.

The American breeds, the Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes and Rhode Island Reds, can be made good broiler chickens at 2 to 4 pounds a pair, roasting chickens at four to six pounds each—and good large plump fowls at one year old.

Let the best mother hen raise the brood.

The narrow horse should have less oats and more bran.

A good hen will easily care for from fifteen to thirty chicks.

This is about the time to plant and prune, spray, plow and fertilize.

A little charcoal is fine to give at any time of the year for all hogs.

Feeding the hogs at regular hours is worth trying. They know when it comes.

To prevent contagion, a sick fowl should be at once separated from the others.

Regulate the amount and kind of feed in accordance with the condition of the hog.

Don't put the new bed on sod land. The white grub is death to strawberry plants.

Clean sand or good country pine sawdust is excellent to use on floor of poultry houses.

Do not plant beans until all danger of frost is passed, as the young plants are extremely tender.

At 15 cents each day-old chicks are cheaper than eggs for hatching at two dollars per setting.

The poultry business large and small is made successful through attention to the small things.

The turkey hen that ranges far from the barn is likely to steal her nest a long way from home.

If there are two toms in the flock and they don't agree, shut up one one day and the other the next.

Be sure to have brood coops and brooders ready and waiting for the chicks when hatching time comes.

In some places the mutton sheep are the more profitable, while in other places it pays better to produce wool.

Cleanliness and plenty of fresh air are great helps in developing the chicks and keeping them thriving and prospering.

Don't look for fertile eggs if you crowd your hens too close. Another bad thing in the same line is lack of exercise.

If you have only one breed of pure blooded birds you will sell many eggs for hatching and birds for breeding, at high prices.

A field of four or five acres will be large enough to run a flock of 100 sheep for about thirty days and furnish some hay besides.

According to a successful dairyman, the presence of dirt in milk indicates careless and uncleanly methods in production and handling.

Now that the days are warmer, be sure to keep the incubator cellar well aired and do not run the machines with too high a lamp flame.

In transplanting cabbages set the plants in the ground up to the first leaf, no matter how long the stem is, and press the earth firmly about it.

If brood hens with chicks are given good care they will usually begin laying early and continue to lay for several weeks before they wear their brood.

The would-be-poultryman should be careful in his selection of a farm, for upon this selection may depend his success or failure in the poultry business.

For those who have not much time to devote to the garden there is no class of flowering plants more desirable than the hardy perennials and herbaceous plants.

There is considerable easily earned money in rearing pigeons. In large cities $3.50 to $3.75 a dozen pair is paid for them. The demand is always greater than the supply.

Farmers who have heavy draft mares are making a great mistake in not raising more colts of this class, and keeping the money at home that is now going west for horses.

Obviously the remedy for unproductive eggs is to use only healthy breeding stock and to keep the breeders in good condition by good food and good common sense care and management.

If you have a piece of land that must be planted to corn later than the last of May, use seed of some good early maturing variety of corn. Learning Sixty Day corn is good for late planting.

If white worms appear in the soil of your potted plants dissolve a piece of fresh lime in water and set the pot in the water, letting it remain there until the soil and ball of roots are thoroughly saturated.

It is said that bees cannot profitably travel more than two miles for nectar. If they have to fly a greater distance and carry back their load they cannot bring to the hive enough during the working hours to make it profitable. The hives must therefore be placed with this fact in mind.

THE AMERICAN HOME

W. A. RADFORD EDITOR

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 173 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

The first important work in building is the excavations for the foundation walls. All complete plans specify that trenches should be left with natural bottoms, level and smooth for the reception of walls, piers, etc. Not long ago a workman in digging a trench for a center wall in a large city block misread the directions and got the excavation a foot deeper than the specifications called for. The contractor called the owner's attention to it, as an honest man should, and offered to build the wall from the bottom up if the owner would pay the bare cost of the extra material, but this the owner refused to do. The contractor thereupon dumped in loose earth, the only thing he could do, and brought the bottom up to the depth required by the specifications. The building was completed and accepted by the owner. After a lapse of six months the center wall settled to crack the plaster on every wall in the house clear to the third story.

It was a block of flats occupied by six families. Three of the families moved out because they thought the building was unsafe to live in. This led to a lawsuit between the owner and the contractor. The contractor was able to prove that he went to the owner and offered to fill in from the bottom with masonry instead of dumping in earth. The court decided in favor of the contractor.

This incident is mentioned merely to call attention to the importance of showing a little common sense in the different parts of the building, from the foundation to the roof. It is not always best to stick hard and fast to every provision of the contract, especially when some accident arises that calls for the exercise of judgment. Of course a man does not want to be run over by anyone. Every one in business finds out early in life that he must stand up for his rights or have them taken away from him. The old Bible admonition which instructed every man to accept a whack on both cheeks will not work in this country as society is organized at present.

One thing the owner needs to have an eye on is the excavation for foundation and drains. The workmen are not interested in the little details of bottom with masonry instead of dumping in earth. The court decided in favor of the contractor.

The method of taking the census in Austria is interesting. The great diversity of race and speech in this country and the influence of this diversity on political questions makes it important to have accurate statistics thereof. The census returns therefore include religion, race and usual language spoken in the family.

The information is collected in a practical way. Sheets calling for all details as to the buildings themselves, such as the ownership, rent paid, number of occupants, number of windows, exposure of same, etc., and all details as to the occupants therein and their relation to one another, were left at every house in the middle of December to be filled in.

Early in January, on a fixed day, these sheets were called for by a census reviser who certified the returns. This placed in the hands of the authorities complete and accurate returns with the minimum of inconvenience to the inhabitants, excepting that, as the sheets pass from hand to hand, publicity is given to details which it might be wished to conceal.

The Japanese government detailed certain of its own civil employes to study Austrian methods of census enumeration. Teachers from the Austrian public schools were employed as census agents and the schools were closed for two days to permit their absence.

Had Seen Enough of These. The trust magnate detained by a washout, sought the village news stand. "What have you got to read here?" he inquired. "Well," replied the proprietor, "we have the popular magazines and—"

"Give me one of the unpopular magazines, if you have any," interrupted the trust magnate, with a scowl. "If you are so afraid he won't propose to you again why did you refuse him the first time he proposed?"

Careful. "But what had that to do with it?" "Everything. I accepted a proposal once while out in a canoe, and I was nearly drowned. I don't take any more chances."

Congressional Notes

President Taft's Canadian reciprocity agreement, supported by all but a handful of Democrats, and opposed by a majority of the Republicans, passed the house by a vote of 265 to 99. Representative Hamlin introduced a measure to prevent the post office department from requiring rural carriers to wear uniforms. The bill also would give the carriers, together with other postal employes, the right to petition, or otherwise communicate with, members of congress or other government officials the same as if they were not in the employ of Uncle Sam.

An investigation of the civil service system has been ordered by the house committee on reform in the civil service. It is the purpose of the committee to investigate particularly the question of the rights of civil service employes to organize unions and to inquire into charges that the service has degenerated into an institution of favoritism.

Mr. Foster introduced a resolution creating a new committee of the house, to be known as the committee on public health and national quarantine, which is to have 15 members. All measures affecting the public health would be referred to such a committee. He also introduced a bill appropriating $25,000 for the establishment of a biological fish cultural station in his district.

"Carnegie National park," to comprise lands in Arizona, to be set aside as a public park, is proposed in a bill introduced by Representatives Hayes of California. The lands are now known as the Grand Canon National Monument and the Coconino National Forest. The proposed park's name is in commemoration of Andrew Carnegie as "founder of some of America's greatest institutions and the benefactor of mankind by the promotion of everlasting peace."

President Taft is requested in a resolution introduced in the house to furnish congress an explanation of the resignation of David Jayne Hill as ambassador to Germany. The resolution is the joint effort of Representative Lever of South Carolina and Brantley of Georgia, and is based on reports that Doctor Hill in the potash controversy incurred the president's displeasure.

Advocates of the election of senators by direct vote of the people won a signal victory in the senate when the resolution passed by the house was referred to the committee on judiciary. The house resolution is similar to the one reported from the senate judiciary committee last session, and the reference insures favorable action in a committee.

Samuel Gompers and Frank Morrison, president and secretary of the American Federation of Labor, appeared before the house committee on reform in the civil service in advocacy of the Lloyd bill giving government employes the right to join labor unions.

Representative Underwood of Alabama, chairman of the ways and means committee, and floor leader of the house, said that it will be six weeks or two months before any of the tariff schedules pass the house.

Representative Foster of Illinois introduced a bill providing for federal aid to every state that will establish a department of mines and mining. The bill appropriates $5,000 the first year and increases the amount $5,000 a year until it reaches $25,000. Mr. Foster is chairman of the committee on mines and mining, to which the bill was referred.

A resolution appropriating $10,000 for plans for a monument in Washington to the signers of the Declaration of Independence has been introduced in the senate by Senator Gallagher.

"ECZEMA ITCHED SO I COULDN'T STAND IT."

"I suffered with eczema on my neck for about six months, beginning by little pimples breaking out. I kept scratching till the blood came. It kept getting worse. I couldn't sleep nights any more. It kept itching for about a month, then I went to a doctor and got some liquid to take. It seemed as if I was going to get better. The itching stopped for about three days, but when it started again was even worse than before. The eczema itched so badly I couldn't stand it any more. I went to a doctor and he gave me some medicine, but it didn't do any good. We have been having Cuticura Remedies in the house, so I decided to try them. I had been using Cuticura Soap, so I got me a box of Cuticura Ointment, and washed off the affected part with Cuticura Soap three times a day, and then put the Cuticura Ointment on. The first day I put it on, it relieved me of itching so I could sleep all that night. It took about a week, then I could see the scab come off. I kept the treatment up for three weeks, and my eczema was cured.

"My brother got his face burned with gunpowder, and he used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The people all thought he would have scars, but you can't see that he ever had his face burned. It was simply awful to look at before the Cuticura Remedies (Soap and Ointment) cured it." (Signed) Miss Elizabeth Gehrl, Forest City, Ark., Oct. 15, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on the care and treatment of skin and hair, will be sent, postfree, on application to Foster D. & C. Corp., Dept. X, Boston.

One of the most distressing cases he has ever had to deal with faced a Liverpool (England) magistrate recently, and one cannot wonder at his exclamation: "What can I do with these babies?" as he gazed upon five tiny prisoners in the dock. The youngest was only seven years old, and the oldest eleven, yet the quintet for two months have carried out thefts and other depredations with such skill and cunning that for two months the police and detectives have been trying in vain to find out who were the thieves. No fewer than 40 charges were brought against the children. The 7-year-old child was the ringleader, and quite an adept at thieving and planning thefts.

The Point of View. "I notice that you have given up the fight for a cleaner city. You used to be one of the leaders in the opposition to the smoke nuisance."

"Yes, I've come to the conclusion that smoke cannot be abolished. It's useless to keep harping on the question."

"By the way, what business are you in now?" "Oh, I've quit working for a salary. An uncle of mine left me a valuable interest in one of our biggest machine shops."

Willing to Make an Effort. On a large estate in the Scottish highlands it was the custom for a piper to play in front of the house every week day morning to awaken the residents. After an unconventional Saturday night, however, the piper forgot the day and began his reveille (can it be played on the pipes?) on Sunday morning. The angry master shouted to him from the bedroom window: "Here, do you not know the fourth commandment?" And the piper sturdily replied: "Nae, sir, but ye'll-hic-whistle it I'll-hic-try it, sir."

News
Miss Betty Elliott of Mattoon performed a feat of driving in Mattoon, Saturday that astonished and thrilled those looking on. She was driving west on Broadway, when her horse became frightened and started to spin at a breakneck speed, turning the corner at 19th street so fast that the buggy ran on two wheels. The horse turned again and headed for the Western Avenue, which was crowded with vehicles, but the driver managed the reins so well that no damage was done either to the runaway outfit or to the passing rigs. The horse was guided in and out, past wagons, buggies and people on foot with a skill that amazed all spectators. The driver succeeded in checking her horse in front of the high school and drove calmly down Broadway as if nothing had happened.

THE STOCKING
The clothing of the foot is another important matter to be considered. Stockings which have not fitted have deformed a number of feet and have been responsible for many of the troubles of which one complains. The stockings are often too short and double the toes over, which brings pressure upon the toe joints. Before putting on the shoes, the stockings should be well drawn down so that the toes can wriggle freely in the stockings. Care should be taken in putting on the shoe not to draw the stockings down with the shoe so that the toes will be cramped.

A stocking that is too large has faults in another direction. It wrinkles on the foot, across the toes, on the large toe joints, where bunions are found, or on the tender part of the heel. If one is the unfortunate possessor of stockings which are too long, the extra length should be pulled down beyond the toes and smoothly folded under the toes in the space between them and the ball of the foot. This may seem an unnecessary direction, but to avoid stockings that shrink the manufacturers have succeeded in making those that stretch instead, especially cotton stockings. Care should be taken in washing stockings. If they are too long they should be hung by the toes to dry, and not by the upper part; and stockings that are too short can be lengthened by hanging with the feet down, after pulling them well in shape for drying.
