SULLIVAN'S CELEBRATION

A SANE FOURTH—EVERYBODY PLEASED WITH THE RESULTS.

The Fourth of July celebration was a decided success. A nice clean Fourth, no brawls no squalls, but the best of order prevailed throughout the day.

The arrangements and work fell upon a few, who did much hard work and should be tendered thanks.

It is doubtful if the people of this vicinity ever had as good a time viewing the case from every standpoint.

The sidewalks were clean—not a sea of tobacco saliva, no obnoxious places open to shock the sense of smell and make people stagger. This was certainly a score for temperance. If good people doubt it, let them close their eyes and in their imagination recall the public gatherings for at least fifteen years previous to 1906.

The program was a good one, the attractions as advertised. Perhaps the feat that seemed most wonderful, was the leap of the bicyclist.

The parade was not as it should have been. A good parade was desired and expected, but the weather was warm, the exertion arduous, and too many left that to the other "feller."

T. F. Harris, mounted on a beautiful horse, was marshal of the day. Dog "Tramp" of course was in the parade, but our next historical animal the horse driven by Harry Kilner was not on duty.

The Company "C" in their uniforms contributed their share in the parade and drills at different intervals.

Mr. Higdon was given $10.00, the first prize in the floats. He had a broom factory rigged up and at work as the procession moved about the streets.

Mrs. D. L. Enslow got $5.00 on decorated automobile. The car represented a boat in shape.

The program as given for the north school yard was carried out.

There was a good display of fireworks.

The folks of Sullivan did what they could to entertain the visitors. It was a real and genuine home coming, people coming from a distance to meet their friends.

OBITUARY

LELAND A. HOVEY.

Leland A. Hovey, father of C. L. Hovey, formerly of Decatur but now superintendent of the Masonic home in Sullivan, died at the home of his son at the Home at 10:30 Thursday night. Paralysis was the cause of his death.

Mr. Hovey was extremely well known in Decatur, though he never lived there. He was born at Thetford, Vt., September 21, 1823, making his age at the time of his death nearly eighty-nine years. Years ago he was land agent for the Illinois Central at Bloomington and was later postmaster at Normal. He was the stepfather of E. F. Willis, baggage-master for the Illinois Central at Decatur.

The funeral services were held at the Masonic home at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning by Rev. Casely. The body was taken to Decatur on Illinois Central train 224, arriving in Decatur at 2:07 p. m., when the body was taken to Greenwood cemetery for interment. Rev. J. F. Mills, pastor of the First Baptist church had charge of the services at the grave.

A FINE TRIP.

A letter has been received this week from Frank McDonald who is on his way to Portland, Oregon to sing at the National convention of the Christian church.

He joined the delegation at Kansas City they left there with eight coaches loaded and more being added as they proceeded on their journey.

They made stops at Kansas City, Denver, Colorado; Seattle, Washington; Spokane, Washington, and were conveyed over the cities in automobiles.

Keeping Cool In Summer

Man has effectively solved the problem of artificial heat and it is easy enough, in a heated house, to keep warm and comfortable during the very bitterest January weather, but man has not yet adopted a universal method of keeping cool during the hot summer months. A few of us escape the heat by retreating to the distant mountains or to the sea shore but by far the most of us must stay in town.

There is a way to keep cool during the hot days of summer.

First, it is essential not to worry about the heat, not to be always thinking about how hot it is. The next thing to do is to take things easy, do not work too hard, walk too fast or play too vigorously.

The problem of keeping the home cool in summer should be no more difficult than keeping it warm during the winter. The way to keep the house cool is to keep the heat out. Excess light always means excessive heat. Whenever the sun is allowed to beat into curtainless rooms they are sure to be hot. Keep the windows curtained and shuttered and put up awnings, if possible. Awnings allow enough light to enter for practical purposes and at the same time keep out the excess light and accompanying heat. The house should have plenty of air. Keep the windows up and the doors open, after seeing that they are properly screened, of course.

The secret of bodily coolness is evaporation. Upon rigid tests it is wonderful what a degree of heat the human body can stand with out serious discomfort. There have been men advertised as human salamanders who have developed this power to a point where they were able to stay in hot ovens for a considerable period. The body maintains automatically an even temperature of about 98 degrees. Whenever the heat is in excess of this figure the pores of the body open and emit a tiny bit of moisture. The evaporation of this moisture carries heat away from the body and keeps it cool. Persons that sweat easily and freely seldom suffer from summer heat. The excessive moisture keeps their bodies cool and comfortable.

Acknowledging that the evaporation of moisture keeps the body cool, it is easily seen that a breeze will aid this process. With the air stirring the moisture evaporates faster and therefore, cools much quicker. Where the air is very still and well saturated with moisture, called humidity, very little evaporation can take place, hence we suffer from the heat. It is a well recognized fact that we are often very comfortable on days when the thermometer hovers in the nineties and on other days suffer intensely on days when the mercury is much lower. This is because no evaporation takes place on such days, owing to the humidity of the air.

Where a natural breeze is not available it can be easily supplied by artificial means. A small electric fan costs but a few dollars and will run all night for less than five cents. Such a fan will supply a delightful breeze in the house which will aid evaporation and keep the inmates very cool. Nearly every house maintains a heating system and whenever the rooms get the least bit cold the heat is started. Very few houses are equipped with an electric fan, which costs but a trifle, when compared to a stove, which can be started up the instant the rooms get warm and kept running until it cools again.

WARM WEATHER.

The government thermometer in Corbin's furniture store shows that this has been the warmest weather of the year.

The highest and lowest registrations for the week are as follows: Sunday 101 degrees Monday 102 degrees Tuesday 104 degrees Wednesday 103 degrees

The lowest for the week to Thursday was 76 degrees.

Collapsible

Cup Abolished

The day of the public drinking cup is forever over. The law is being observed in Sullivan. At the town wells, where the cups were in use, they have disappeared. The individual drinking cups are now being used. Cups can be purchased at the stores.

CHURCH SERVICES.

CHRISTIAN.

Forenoon subject, "The Glory of Church." Evening subject, "Christianity or What?"

Preceded by Miss Moschell at night. The hot weather attendance is encouraged, but still there is room for you in your fellowship and will be proud to have you all to our services. J. W. KILBORN, Pastor.

PRESBYTERIAN.

Next Sunday morning is our regular mid summer communion service. The pastor will preach on "The Fruit of the Spirit." We hope the membership of the church will all make us attend this important sacred service.

Owing to the excessive heat, there has been a large request on the part of the membership of the church to continue the evening service for the present, so it has been decided to discontinue the evening service until further announcement.

We are very cordially invited to our services.

A. T. CORY, Pastor

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

All the regular services will be held Sunday at the usual time except the League and evening preaching service will be merged. The League will have charge of the first half hour and the pastor will follow with a short sermon.

Next Wednesday night the Wesleyan quartette will give a concert at the church, consisting of readings, songs and quartettes. This will be a treat every one come. Admission free. A collection will be taken.

A. L. CASELEY Pastor.

NEWS OF THE WEEK

HAPPENINGS OF THE PAST SEVEN DAYS ARE BRIEFLY PRESENTED.

CALL AROUND THE PLANET

Dispatches From Our Own and Foreign Countries Are Here Given In Short Meter for Busy Readers.

Expeditions action on the pending treaties with Honduras and Nicaragua providing for customs guarantees for foreign loans by this government was urged by President Taft in a message to the senate.

Chicago will not have to undergo the spectacle of a woman dying on the gallows, a jury having acquitted Mrs. Blanche Baker, charged with murdering Joseph Slais, a constable, whom she shot to death March 1, 1906, when she attempted to serve her with a judgment writ.

Edward Hines, alleged "maker of senators," and lumber lobbyist, told the senate Lorimer investigation committee the story of how the claims he worked with Senators Penrose and Aldrich to achieve the election of William Lorimer, Chicago's Republican "boss," to the United States senate.

The federal grand jury at New York returned indictments against nine steel wire companies, charging them with violations of the anti-trust laws. Indictments were also returned against 84 individuals connected with the companies.

United States Senator Francis Emery Warren of Wyoming was married to Miss Clara Le Baron Morgan in the little ballroom of the Hotel Gotham at New York. Senator Warren is 67 years old and his bride 35.

W. G. Gilmore of the firm of Arbuckle Bros. of Brooklyn told the senate "sugar trust" investigating committee that trade sugar in this country had practically ceased and that conditions in the trade were very fair, though not ideal.

Official announcement was made at the White House that the peace arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain had been agreed to at a conference between Ambassador Bryce and Secretary of State Knox.

Joseph E. McMahon, formerly agent of the Carnegie Trust company at New York, was convicted of making a false report to the state banking department in connection with the looting of the Carnegie Trust company.

Senator Lake Lea of Tennessee, weak from the transfusion of blood in an effort to save his wife's life, has returned to the hospital at Washington, D. C., to remain a few days recuperating.

An investigation of the campaign contributions in the general elections of 1904 and 1908 is proposed in a resolution which Senator Culberson of Texas introduced.

Joseph Naco was put to death in the electric chair in the Auburn (N. Y.) prison for the murder on January 16, 1909, of Anna Candianna, with whom he had been living for some time.

The Cunningham Alaskan coal claims have been disallowed. Secretary of the Interior Fisher closed the last door, it is believed, against the combination through which it was alleged the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate sought to obtain control of the Alaskan deposits.

Instead of going to trial on two indictments charging breach of peace and malicious shooting, Arthur Cooper, Hopkinsville, Ky., star witness for prosecution in the recent sensational trial of Dr. A. A. Amos, was discharged from custody on a pardon from Governor Willson.

Queen, an elephant which headed the Yankee Robinson circus herd, committed suicide by jumping into Beaver Dam lake, Wisconsin, and drowning herself. It took 14 horses to drag the body from the water. The keeper is unable to give any reason for the elephant's act.

Samuel Gompers, Frank Morrison and John Mitchell, leaders of the American Federation of Labor, are in contempt of court and unless they apologize to the United States court at Washington they will have to stand trial once more and run the risk of sending jail sentences.

Gen. Porfirio Diaz, former president of Mexico, arrived in the harbor at Vera Cruz, Spain, on the steamer Yrpinga, on which he sailed from Vera Cruz, Mexico, May 31.

Federal Judge Carpenter at Chicago denied the application of the packers who are indicted on the charge of criminal conspiracy in restraint of trade, for a bill of particulars from the government. This is the last obligatory action the indicted millionaires may take.

The United States grand jury at New York has brought indictments against the officers of the Eastern Box Board company, the successor of the dissolved Fiber and Manila association, charging them with violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Sixty-five love letters, professing love for Mrs. Lillian V. Hamer, written by William H. Gilbert, Neenah, Wis., millionaire lumberman, are to be featured in the $100,000 breach of promise suit Mrs. Hamer has instituted against Gilbert.

A hot wave struck Nebraska, sending the thermometer above 100 degrees and doing much damage to corn. The cool weather had been scheduled by the weather bureau to continue for several days, but the temperature reached 101 degrees.

Mrs. Helen B. Jenkins will go to the office of Henry A. Wise, United States district attorney, to tell what she knows regarding the large smuggling operations, of which she has given information to the government, and in which Nathan Allen of Kenosha, Wis., and John R. Collins of Memphis, Tenn., have been mentioned.

The report of the bureau of corporations on the investigation of the "steel trust" was referred to President Taft by Commissioner Herbert Knox Smith and by the president referred back to the commissioner.

Two negroes were killed by an infuriated mob at Monroe, Ga. Tom Allen, accused of assault, was seized while in the custody of officers and shot to death. Later the mob collected again, stormed the jail and dragged forth a shivering negro who was hanged to a nearby tree.

No apology will be made by the officials of the American Federation of Labor despite the adverse report of the investigating committee regarding the alleged contempt of court of Compers, Mitchell and Morrison.

The financial district heard that John D. Rockefeller, who, it was said, came from Cleveland to attend to some matters regarding his estate in Tarrytown, was at his offices in New York for the first time in several years.

The senate rejected the Root amendment to the wool pulp and paper section of the Canadian reciprocity bill. The result was reached after several hours debate. There was no roll call. The vice-president simply put the motion and upon the viva voce response the amendment was declared defeated.

The senate committee on territories voted 6 to 3 to report favorably the house resolution admitting New Mexico and Arizona to statehood, with the provision that the Arizona constitution containing the judiciary recall shall be resubmitted to the people.

In view of the improved Mexican situation the United States Pacific fleet, which has been assembled at San Diego, Cal., since early in March, sailed from the California station for its steaming trials.

Bonnie of face, mild of voice but fierce of beard, Prophet Joseph E. Smith, head of the Mormon church, holder of several thousand shares of stock in the Utah-Idaho Sugar company, appeared before the Hardwick sugar trust committee.

Widely celebrated for his interview regarding the "Lorimer slush fund," Clarence S. Funk, manager of the International Harvester company, appeared before the Lorimer investigating committee at Washington.

Hope of the deep waterway advocates for friendly legislation at the present extra session of the Illinois general assembly went glimmering when the senate, by a vote of 20 to 16, adopted 13 amendments to the already clouded Johnson waterway bill, transforming that measure into a flat power site act.

Predicting an all-summer session and declaring that the house will not adjourn sine die until the senate acts on the general tariff revision bill, Speaker Champ Clark said: "We are going to shoot tariff bills over to the senate just as fast as we can frame them properly and secure their passage in the house."

That Hug Whitney, the Idaho outlaw, is safe in the wilds of the mountains near the Idaho-Wyoming line, is the report received from the posse, which have abandoned the chase in the Willow Creek country.

A newspaper photographer has a right to take a picture of any one in a public street according to a decision by Judge Stearns in the superior court at Newport, R. I.

The assertion that John Peffer, his secretary, was told by State Senator McCormick that McCormick was offered $2,500 to vote for Lorimer, was made before the senate investigating committee by former United States Senator Albert J. Hopkins of Illinois.

James Gayley, former vice-president of the United States Steel corporation, took the stand for the fourth time before the Stanley committee investigating the Steel trust, and members of the committee immediately resumed their questions regarding the agreement as to a price of $28 on steel rails.

Fourteen secretaries of lumber dealers' associations throughout the west and middle west, all members of the Lumber Secretaries Bureau of Information, were indicted by the special federal grand jury at Chicago on two counts of an indictment charging criminal conspiracy in restraint of trade.

Alleging unlawful combinations to restrain interstate trade and foreign commerce in magazines and other periodical publications, Federal District Attorney Wise at New York instituted proceedings under the Sherman law against the National Clearing House and a score of other defendants.

Having decided to put another waterway measure through the Illinois legislature in special session if possible, friends of Gov. Deneen decided to introduce such a measure in the senate, rush it through and have the upper body pass it.

DYNAMITE SUSPECT FOUND IN LONDON

MAN BELIEVED TO BE DAVID CAPLAIN, CAPTAIN UNDER SURVEILLANCE OF DETECTIVE

WILL BE BROUGHT BACK

District Attorney General of State Regarding Case Is Run Down by Yard Detective

Los Angeles, Cal.—A man believed to be David Caplain, one of the alleged McNamara dynamite operators, is under surveillance in London. Papers are being prepared for extradition from England to this country.

District Attorney John D. Fricks is in Washington conferring with Secretary of State Knox regarding the case and it is expected he will bring back the man in several weeks.

These facts were confirmed by officials of the district attorney's office. "The papers are being prepared," said Manager E. R. Mills of the detective bureau's local agency, "until then we cannot discuss the case. Burns, however, is in England."

Mills was asked if it was proved that Schmidt, the third man named in connection with the explosion, destroyed the Times newspaper plant last October, also was in England.

"No," said Mills, "unless very very much mistaken, Schmidt nowhere in the northwest."

The man alleged to be Caplain was run down by Scotland Yard (London). According to reports received here the suspect was discovered through the instrumentality of another who lives in the British capital.

The first information of the case came from Secretary Knox to Gov. Johnson at Sacramento. Secretary Knox is said to have received information officially through the British embassy at Washington.

SEE CHARGES FORGERY

Opening Defense, Revealer Also Tries to Impair Testimony of a Reporter

Chicago.—The charge that one of the notorious "Booker T. Washington" frauds, Evelyn Arthur, had preached the doctrine of free love to the nephews of the Absolute Life, were forged for the purposes of this case," was made by Attorney Robert E. Canwell, See's attorney, in opening the defense.

The charge threw a shock into the court room. Canwell did not say whom he considered responsible for the alleged forgery.

CONFESSES AFTER DREAM

Jail Prisoner Tells Sheriff of Colorado Murder, Saying He Was Counselled by Ghost of Mother.

Canon City, Colo.—Morris Kirkland, a prisoner in the county jail, sent for Sheriff Esser and said he had been impelled by a dream, in which the ghost of his dead mother counseled him to tell the truth concerning the killing of Dominic Mangino, murdered between Portland and Concrete, June 11. His story to the sheriff implicated John Smith and Charles Bosley, now in jail, who have since confessed.

Chicago Elevated Merger Signed

Chicago, Ill.—Papers declaring the plan for the merger of all the elevated street railroads of Chicago, operative on July 1, have been signed in New York by Henry A. Blair, representing the underwriting syndicate. The deal involves 177 miles of elevated track.

Wades Into River and Shoots Self

Springfield, Mass.—A well-dressed man of 30 waded into the Connecticut river, holding a revolver above his head. As the water reached his shoulders he shot himself in the forehead. Death was instantaneous.

Lieutenant Killed by Aeroplane

Chalon-sur-Marne, France.—Lieutenant Trochon was killed when making his first trip as pilot of a biplane. The machine plunged to the earth almost immediately after rising.

Big Colorado Dam Complete

Denver, Colorado.—The Standley dam, the largest of its kind in the world, is completed. It will furnish water for 210,000 acres of land north and east of Denver.

Liner Sinks a Schooner

Havre.—The French line steamer La Lorraine, which arrived here from New York, reports being in collision with the banks with the three-masted fishing vessel Simone. The Simone was sunk, but the crew was rescued.

Flies to the Regatta

New London, Conn.—Aviator Atwood, in a Wright biplane, arrived over this city from Squantum, Mass., a suburb of Boston. The Yale-Harvard regatta crowds were wildly enthusiastic.

Congressional Notes

President Taft announced the appointment of the following delegates to the thirteenth international congress on alcoholism, which is to be held at The Hague in September: Rev. E. C. Diddle of Ohio; E. C. Cherrington of Westerville, Ohio; S. E. Nicholson of Indiana; Maynard N. Clements of New York; excise commissioner; W. J. Pollard of St. Louis, Mo.; Prof. Charles Scanlon of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens of Portland, Me.; Miss Edith Smith Davis of Wisconsin; Dr. V. A. Ellisworth of Massachusetts; Rev. Peter F. O'Callaghan of Chicago; James K. Shields of Illinois and Prof. P. J. Lennox.

Widespread interest is being shown in Senator Bourne's effort to reach the parcels post problem in a new way. He offered a resolution in the senate, which made no mention of the parcels post, but which, upon examination, was found to propose a parcels post law. His proposition requires that after its passage no higher postage rate shall be charged for the transmission of mail entirely within the United States or its possessions than is charged for transmission of mail partly within and partly without the United States or its possessions.

For the first time in the memory of capitol attaches the senate was adjourned by a violent electrical storm, accompanied by a terrific downpour of rain. Senator Borah of Idaho was addressing the senate when the storm broke. He found himself unable to proceed because of the confusion outside. After he had attempted several times to continue his remarks, Senator Gallinger moved an adjournment.

A bill soon will be introduced in the house by Representative Stephens of California, authorizing the United States to construct six vessels for the Panama trade, which will mark the opening of a campaign by western interests designed to promote the usefulness of the canal and at the same time to furnish six steamships that would be available for service as naval auxiliaries in the event of war.

As a sequel to the decision of the interior department cancelling the Cunningham Alaskan coal land claim, Senator Polinder of Washington introduced a resolution, which was immediately passed, calling upon the president for all available information as to the alleged effort of the Controller Railroad company to monopolize the water front of Controley Bay, in Alaska.

Agreement among manufacturers to curtail production of cotton goods and reduce wages and working hours of employees was the means employed through the Artwright club of Boston in raising the prices of cotton products, according to E. M. Stanwood, secretary of the club, who appeared before the house committee on expenditures in the department of justice.

Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi publicly apologized to the members of the United States for calling them gentlemen in a speech on the Canadian reciprocity bill. The apology provoked laughter from the usually staid and dignified members of the upper house and caused Mr. Williams to blush in embarrassment.

Great economy will result from the announced policy of concentration of armed land forces in the United States, in the opinion of Major General Wood, chief of staff, who testified before the house committee on expenditures in the war department. The number of army posts, he says, will be reduced one-half.

Delegate Cameron of Arizona requested the senate committee on territories to amend the Arizona constitution by eliminating the recall of judges. He based his request on the opposition of the president to this feature of the constitution and said he feared its retention ultimately would defeat statehood.

A wave of economy is sweeping the country, according to figures of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor. Americans cut the imported champagne bill in two and adorned themselves with $7,000,000 fewer diamonds in the last 11 months than in the same period last year.

Representative Sabath's resolution calling on Secretary Knox to find out why "only two dozen of our dear peereesses in Europe designated as dollar princesses" have been permitted to take part in the coronation was humorously considered in the house committee on foreign affairs and tabled.

On behalf of the finance committee, Chairman Penrose reported the farmers' free list and the Underwood bill to the senate. He verbally announced a majority of the committee reports the bill adversely.

By a vote of six to three, the senate ordered a favorable report on the joint resolution approving the constitutions of Arizona and New Mexico, in much the same form as it passed the house.

Army officers who are on duty with the maneuver division in Texas continue to send reports to the war department complaining of the heat and suggesting that good results of the mobilization will be largely lost unless the division is moved to a cooler region.

It is announced at the White House that the Anglo-American arbitration treaty has been agreed upon in every important provision, there remaining only a few minor details for settlement between the state department and the British foreign office.

Rockford.—The eighth annual encampment of the Spanish-American war veterans of Illinois is being held here.

Kewanee.—The first Fourth of July accident of the season occurred when a blank cartridge was exploded by Harold Young badly burning him.

De Kalb.—Group three of the Illinois Bankers' association, in session here, elected Charles Durkes of Dixon, president.

Charleston.—The oil well on the Sherman Ingram farm which has been producing fifty barrels a day has taken a spurt and promises to be a gusher.

Hoopeston.—The merchants have raised $2,000 to secure the tournament of the State Firemen's association.

Chrisman.—George Hollingsworth's team ran away, throwing him out and trampling him to death.

Watska.—Mrs. Ella Bishop, respondent over the death of her sister, ended her life.

Moline.—The retail merchants have abandoned the idea of annual outing this year.

Rock Island.—The city and seven hundred and forty-five licenses have been issued this year, an increase of 152 over the preceding year.

Mt. Vernon.—It is probable the merchants will make $100 for the new state insane asylum.

Vandalia.—The district convention of the Epworth league has decided to meet in Centralia next year.

Galesburg.—Albert Flake, an employe of the Bell Telephone company, was electrocuted while working in a cage twenty-five feet in the air.

Chicago.—Many firemen suffered from smoke and heat while fighting a stubborn blaze in the plant of the Chicago Sash, Door and Blind Manufacturing company, 1445-47-49 West North avenue. Members of engine companies 20, 35, 71 and 90 and truck 28 were compelled to work in relays. The loss on the building and contents amounted to about $5,000.

Ashley.—Charles Carroll, residing five miles northeast of here, was bitten by a copperhead snake. While ascending a hill on a hunt he slipped and grasped what he thought was a root of a tree. It was a copperhead snake, and the reptile buried its fangs in his right hand. After being given a liberal dose of whisky, he was hurried to Ashley for treatment.

Ashley.—Ashley is having a mad dog scare. A large shepherd dog was hunted down and killed in Mrs. Adele Breyer's chicken house. Byron Truesdell, twelve years old, was bitten by John Linder's dog while delivering papers. Linder at once shot the dog. Another mad dog that had alarmed many was found dead.

Kewanee.—After night and day work in trench digging by crowds from the north part of Henry county, the Peaty farms, set ablaze by long drought, were extinguished after several hundred acres had been burned out.

Edwardsville.—The annual Madison county summer normal opened at the high school with an enrollment of 450 teachers.

Tolono.—Capt. and Mrs. J. H. Sands celebrated their golden wedding.

Champaign.—The State Bar association held its meeting at the University of Illinois and approved the plan for law reform embodied in the "conference" bill. This measure failed in the last legislature but will be revised and again urged. E. B. Tolman of Chicago, read the report of the committee on reform. That the membership had reached 2,000 and was the largest in any bar association in the United States was announced.

OWES HER HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanna Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house. "I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls to build them up and make them strong and well. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has always helped her. "I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies. I tell everyone I meet that I owe my health and happiness to these wonderful medicines." Mrs. J. G. JOHNSON, Scottville, Mich., R.F.D. 8.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases.

When a Man Marries

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART
Author of The Circular Staircase, The Man in Lower Ten, Etc.

Copyright 1920, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.
SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends, was reticent and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so, his art is considered a huge joke, except to himself. If he asked people to dinner, everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy married Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selma, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. He neglects to tell her of his divorce. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night. Mrs. Wilson pro tem. Aunt Selma arrives and the deception works out as planned. Jimmy's Jay servant, who is also his wife's, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance. Bella insists it is Jimmy. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Harbison steps out on the porch and discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "Smile!" printed on it. He tells him the guests cannot leave the house until the quarantine is lifted. After the lifting of the quarantine several letters are found in the mail box undelivered, one is addressed to Henry Llewellyn, Iquique, Chile, which was written by Harbison. He describes minutely of their last meeting. Harbison's infatuation for Mrs. Wilson. Aunt Selma is taken ill with a gripe. Betty acts as nurse. Harbison finds Kit sulking on the roof. She tells him that Jim has been treating her outrageously. Kit starts downstairs when suddenly she is grasped in the arms of a man who kisses her several times. She believes that Harbison did it and is humiliated. Aunt Selma tells Jimmy that her cameo brooch and other articles of jewelry have been stolen. She accuses Betty of the theft. Jimmy tells Aunt Selma all about the strange happenings, but she persists in suspecting Betty as the thief of her valuables. Harbison demands an explanation from Kit as to how she got the brooch. She tells him of the incident on the roof, does not deny nor confirm her accusation. Aunt Selma is awakened during the night. She finds Jim making the love to Bella; she demands an explanation from Jimmy. Bella reveals the whole truth. Jimmy forgives her. She tells Jim to reveal the true situation to Harbison.

"Playing the part of Mrs. Wilson," he repeated. "Do you mean—?"

"Exactly. Playing the part. She is not Mrs. Wilson. It seems that that honor belonged at one time to Miss Knowles; I believe such things are not unknown in New York, only why in the name of sense does a man want to divorce a woman and then meet her at two o'clock in the morning to kiss the place where his own wedding ring used to rest?"

Jim sidged. Bella was having spasms of mirth to herself, but the Harbison man did not smile. He stood for a moment looking at the fire. Then he thrust his hands deep into the pockets of his dressing-gown and stalked over to me. He did not care that the others were watching and listening.

"Is it true?" he demanded, staring down at me. "You are not Mrs. Wilson? You are not married at all? All that about being neglected—and loathing him, and all that on the roof—there was no foundation of truth?"

I could only shake my head without looking up. There was no defense to make. Oh, I deserved the scorn in his voice.

"They—they persuaded you, I suppose, and it was to help somebody? It was not a practical joke?"

"No." I rallied a little spirit at that. It had been anything but a joke.

He drew a long breath.

"I think I understand," he said slowly, "but—you could have saved me something. I must have given you all a great deal of amusement."

"Oh, no," I protested. "I—I want to tell you—"

But he deliberately left me and went over to the door. There he turned and looked down at Aunt Selma. He was a little white, but there was no passion in his face.

"Thank you for telling me all this, Miss Caruthers," he said easily. "Now that you and I know, I'm afraid the others will miss their little diversion. Good night."

Oh, it was all right for Jim to laugh and say that he was only buffed a little and would be over it by morning. I knew better. There was something queer in his face as he went out. He did not even glance in my direction. He had said very little, but he had put me as effectually in the wrong as if he had not kissed me—deliberately kissed me—that very evening on the roof.

I did not go to sleep again. I lay wretchedly thinking things over and trying to remember who Jesabel was, and toward morning I distinctly heard the knob of the door turn. I mistook my ears, however, and so I got up quietly and went over in the darkness. There was no sound outside, but when I put my hand on the knob I felt it move under my fingers. The counter pressure evidently alarmed whoever it was, for the knob was released and nothing more happened. But by this time anything so uncompllicated as the fumbling of a knob at night had no power to disturb me. I went back to bed.

CHAPTER XX.

Breaking Out in a New Place.
Hunger roused everybody early the next morning, Friday. Lella Mercer had discovered a box of bonbons that she had forgotten, and we divided them around. Aunt Selma asked for the candied fruit and got it—quite a third of the box. We gathered in the lower hall and on the stairs and nibbled nauseating sweets while Mr. Harbison examined the telephone.

He did not glance in my direction. Betty and Dal were helping him, and he seemed very cheerful. Max sat with me on the stairs. Mr. Harbison had just unscrewed the telephone box from the wall and was squinting into it, when Bella came downstairs. It was her first appearance, but as she was always late, nobody noticed. When she stopped, just above us on the stairs, however, we looked up, and she was holding to the rail and trembling perceptibly.

"Mr. Harbison, will you—can you come upstairs?" she asked. Her voice was strained, almost reedy, and her lips were white.

Mr. Harbison stared up at her, with the telephone box in his hands.

"Why—certainly," he said, "but unless it's very important, I'd like to fix this talking machine. We want to make a food record."

"I'd like to break a food record," Max put in, but Bella created a diversion by sitting down suddenly on the stair just above us, and burying her face in her handkerchief.

"Jim is sick," she said, with a sob. "He—he doesn't want anything to eat, and his head aches. He—said for me to go away and let him die!"

Dal dropped the hammer immediately, and Lolle Mercer sat petrified, with a bonbon half-way to her mouth. For, of course, it was unexpected, finding sentiment of any kind in Bella, and none of them knew about the scene in the den in the smother hours of the morning.

"Sick!" Aunt Selma said, from a hall chair. "Sick! Where?"

"All over," Bella quavered. "His poor head is hot, and he's thirsty, but he doesn't want anything but water."

"Great Scott!" Dal said suddenly. "Suppose he should—Bella, are you telling us all his symptoms?"

Bella put down her handkerchief and got up. From her position on the stairs she looked down at us with something of her old haughty manner.

"If he is ill, you may blame yourselves, all of you," she said cruelly. "You taunted him with being fat, and laughed at him, until he stopped eating the things he should eat. And he has been exercising—on the roof, until he has worn himself out. And now—he is ill. He—he has a rash."

Everybody jumped at that, and we instinctively moved away from Bella. She was quite cold and scornful by that time.

"A rash!" Max exclaimed. "What sort of rash?"

"I did not see it," Bella said with dignity, and turning she went up the stairs.

There was a great deal of excitement, and nobody except Mr. Harbison was willing to go near Jim. He went up at once with Bella, while Max and Dal sat cravenly downstairs and wondered if we would all take it, and Anne told about a man she knew who had it, and was deaf and dumb and blind when he recovered.

Mr. Harbison came down after a while, and said that the rash was there, right enough, and that Jim absolutely refused to be quarantined; that he insisted that he always got a rash from early strawberries and that if he did have anything, since they were so touchy he hoped they would all get it. If they looked him in he would kick the door down.

When the doctor came he said it was too early to tell positively, and he ordered him liquid diet and said he would be back that evening.

Which—the diet—takes me back to the famine. After they had moved Jim, Mr. Harbison went back to the telephone, and found everything as it should be. So he followed the telephone wire, and the rest followed him. I did not. He had systematically ignored me all morning, after having dared to kiss me the night before. And any other man I know, after looking at me the way he had looked a dozen times, would have been at least reasonably glad to find me free and unmarried. But it was clear that he was not. I wondered if he was the kind of man who always makes love to the other man's wife and runs like mad when she is left a widow, or goes a divorce.

And just when I had decided that I hated him, and that there was one man I knew who would never make love to a woman whom he thought married and then be very dignified and aloof when he found she wasn't, I heard what was wrong with the telephone wire.

It had been cut! Cut through with a pair of silver manicure scissors from the dressing table in Bella's room, where Aunt Selma slept! The wire had been clipped where it came into the house, just under a window, and the scissors still lay on the sill.

It was mysterious enough, but no one was interested in the mystery just then. We wanted food, and wanted it at once. Mr. Harbison fixed the wire, and the first thing we did, of course, was to order something to eat. Aunt Selma went to bed just after luncheon with indigestion, to the relief of every one in the house. She had been most unpleasant all morning.

When she found herself ill, however, she insisted on having Bella, and that made trouble at once. We found Bella with her cheek against the door into Jim's room, looking maudlin while he shouted love messages to her from the other side. At first she refused to stir, but after Anne and Max had tried and failed, the rest of us went to her in a body and implored her. We said Aunt Selma was in awful shape—which she was, as to temper—and that she had thrown a mustard plaster at Anne, which was true.

So Bella went, grumbling, and Jim was a maniac. We had not thought it would be so bad for Bella, but Aunt Selma fell asleep soon after she took charge, holding Bella's hand, and slept for three hours and never let go!

About two that afternoon the sun came out, and the rest of us went up to the roof.

I stayed on the roof after the others had gone, and for some time I thought I was alone. After a while, I got a whiff of smoke, and then I saw Mr. Harbison far over in the corner, one foot on the parapet, moodily smoking a pipe. He was gazing out over the river, and paying no attention to me. This was natural, considering that I had hardly spoken to him all day.

I would not let him drive me away, so I sat still, and it grew darker and colder. He filled his pipe now and then, but he never looked in my direction. Finally, however, as it grew very dusk, he knocked the ashes out and came toward me.

"I am going to make a request, Miss McVair," he said evenly. "Please keep off the roof after sunset. There are reasons." I had risen and was preparing to go downstairs.

"Unless I know the reasons, I refuse to do anything of the kind," I returned. He bowed.

"Then the door will be kept locked," he rejoined, and opened it for me. He did not follow me, but stood watching until I was down, and I heard him close the roof door firmly behind me.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Ask the Grocer.
Paternalism with a vengeance is practiced in certain New York groceries. It is benevolent paternalism though.

"Ma wants two pounds of sugar," said a child to a patriarch in the trade.

He consulted a calendar on the wall.

"I guess you'd better take only a pound today," he said, "and go kind of slow on that. The week is only half gone, but you have already eaten up three-fourths of your allowance. Tell your mother so."

The child promised to deliver the report on financial depression.

"That is the only way on earth to keep those people from running into debt," said the grocer. "The system is common in this neighborhood. I do it at the customers' request. Every pay day women with spendthrift husbands and an extravagant disposition of their own deposit enough money with the grocer and butcher to see the family through the week. They instruct us to let no one overdraw the amount and except in cases where extra food is actually needed we stick to our end of the bargain."

Care of Screens.
Window and door screens usually get very dusty during the latter part of the summer, and it is poor economy to put them away in that condition; neither is it a good idea to wash them just before storing unless they are most carefully dried to prevent rusting. Kerosene applied with a paint brush cleans the wires better than water, and also prevents rusting.

His Intelligence.
Negley—You seem to have a poor opinion of Poldier's intelligence.

Gayer—You would, too, if you knew he had been looking to the city directory three days for Ziegler's address and had got only as far as the D's.

Good Scheme.
"Out at my uncle's the people go to bed with the chickens."

"Well, at the price chickens sell at now they are certainly worth watching."

Still Smoking.
"In the other life," said the new lit-fadist, "we simply develop what have been our tastes in this."

"Humph!" ejaculated a listener.

The New Version.
"Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of your life."

WOULD SAVE TOWER

Chicagoans Protest Against Razing of Historic Landmark.

The Pile of Masonry Which Surrounded the Disastrous Fire of 1871 Very Rich in Romance and Tradition.

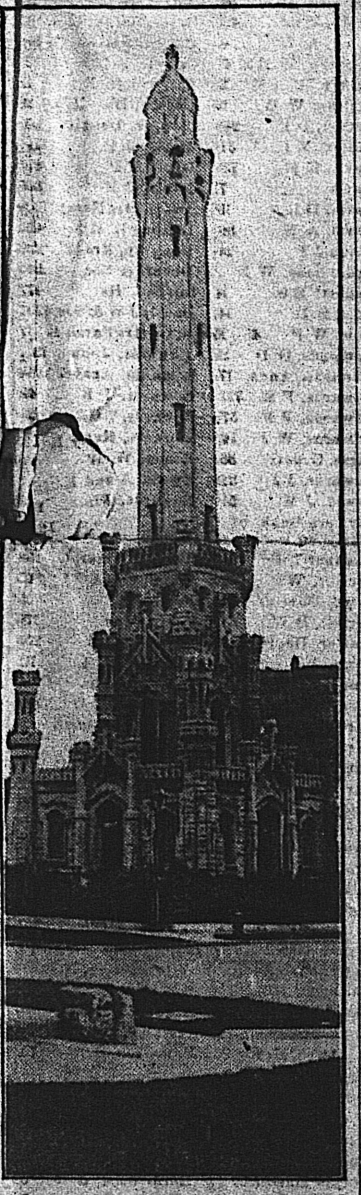

Chicago.—Shall the oldest landmark on the north side, a spot rich in tradition and romance, the only remaining monument of the time of Chicago's victory in her greatest struggle for life, be profaned by a city's commercialism and destroyed in the name of economy?

Still the silent sentinel of stone, the rymantled tower where sweethearts were wont to meet, where children played and heard wondrous stories of other days, be reduced to a shapeless mass of stone and scattered all over the city?

Is it not possible to preserve the picturesque gray tower of the old Chicago avenue pumping station to posterity to serve as a memorial of the great fire of 1871?

These are a few of the questions raised by scores of Chicagoans who have read of the plan to tear down the tower of the Chicago avenue pumping station in the interest of municipal economy. This ancient landmark stands at the foot of "Millionaire row." None of the famous old structures are the homes of the rich. Since 1867 the tower has stood as a constant reminder of the permanence of the work of the city's founders.

Members of the Chicago Historical society joined in the storm of protest against tearing down the tower. They were unanimous in the sentiment that this landmark should be preserved and made one of the show places of Chicago.

When Chicago began to burn, the evening of October 8, 1871, terror-stricken citizens fled north to the tower in the belief that the fire would be confined to a narrow district. The following day the fire reached the tower and roared about its base, destroying the machine shop and adjacent buildings. The pumping engines were stopped and the walls of the engine house began to crumble. The roof and floors of the other buildings gave way, but the tower stood firm while the flames raged northward.

The great pile of masonry was preserved when repairs were made, and since that day has been rich in tradition and romance.

Many stories of the tower deal with the romances of some of the richest sons and daughters of "Millionaire row." An eloping couple is said to have been married at the top of the tower. In the days of old thousands of young men and maidens wandered up the stairway to the summit to plight their troth.

The doors of the tower were locked long ago. The only magic key that will unlock the door is in the keeping of the city authorities.

The city authorities hold now that disintegration has begun and that the tower must go. This theory is denied by members of the Chicago Historical society, who declare that the tower was built to stand 10,000 years and that there is no danger of its crumbling for generations. Hundreds of visitors gaze in awe at the old tower every day.

Seeing God's Face

By Reverend Stephen Paulson

TEXT.—When Thou saidst, Seek ye my face; my heart said unto Thee, Thy face, Lord, will I seek.—Psalm 23:3.

Is it possible that we, sinful, as we know ourselves to be, shall see the face of God?

To see God is to be pure. No step that defileth, nor anything that maketh a lie, can stand in his presence. "Blessed," said Jesus, "are the pure in heart, for they shall see God."

To see God is to be at peace. Even as chaos became the ordered course of nature at his word and presence, even as the waves of Galilee lay down in peace at the Master's feet, so here can be no disquietude in his presence, for there the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest.

To see God is to live in love. There shall be no more curse, but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it, and God shall be all in all, and God is Love. In his presence there can be nothing of hatred, or envy or strife, for heaven is the abode of Eternal Love.

To attain these blessings is a height of which, in our present condition, we may well despair. Then why does God say, "Seek ye my face?" Is that simply mockery of our impotency? Does not our innermost soul respond, "Thy face O Lord will I seek." And has not God, through his Son, made it possible for us to seek him and to see his face?

And is this a promise for the future only? Is it only the happy and victorious dead who see God's face? Is it not allowed us to catch glimpses of his glory? Not fully, for we live in a twilight, and we see as through a glass darkly, but then face to face. Yes, it is possible for us to see God even now; and what quest could be greater? Men give their lives to the search for hidden things. The world is still full of mysteries, and many things are left to be discovered. Men explore the earth to its uttermost parts; some spend their lives in the study of the heavens. "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork." Shall we not seek the face of him, who is the Author of all these wonders? Is not he the supreme quest of the human mind and soul?

First, like the psalmist of old, we may learn to see the face of God in Nature. Walking through the world with open and loving eyes is one of the best aids to faith. In the spring-time of the year, when the earth is clothing itself in beauty, God in his benevolence and goodness seems nearer to us. Study and love the works of God; they will give you simpler tastes and purer pleasures; in friendless moments they will give you companionship; in troubled moments they will breathe you peace. And the more you know of God's works, the more you will see him everywhere.

Secondly, we may see God in the minds and lives of other men. Never was anything good or true or wise written or spoken without the inspiration of God's Holy Spirit. Books are the great treasures of God's revelation to human minds in all ages. Above all is the Book of Books, the Bible, which contains depths of wisdom which the human mind has never sounded, and which the ages will never outgrow. "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but My Words shall not pass."

But most clearly do we see God in the face of Jesus Christ. Keep in mind that great sentence of St. Paul (2 Cor. 4:6): "God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ." When you look into the face of Jesus you see God as a father, loving and tender; who desireth not the death of a sinner but that all men be saved; who so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son for its redemption. When you look into the face of Jesus, you see a revelation of love that is infinite and all-embracing.

Many of us are like Philip of Bethsaida: "Phillip saith unto Jesus, Lord, show us the Father and it sufficeth us."

"Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? Yet that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, show us the Father? Believest thou not that I am in the Father and the Father in me? The words that I speak unto you I speak not of myself; but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works."

Thou, Lord Jesus, art the glory of the Father!

Cause and Effect.
The only thing that opposes man is the negative human law. If this did not obtain man would be restored to his pristine condition as a spiritual ego. Man is not depraved because he wants to be, but because his mind is human, mortal and finite, he has no option than to express a corresponding condition. He is under the law of cause and effect.—Rev. F. E. Maçon, Scientist, Boston.

Need of Ideals.
If men did not have ideals what would they think about and what could they live by?—Rev. J. K. Carpenter, Methodist Episcopalian, Chicago.

NO CHANCE TO COMMIT SUICIDE.

"Oscar, there is a man in that flat who is trying to cut his throat."

"Don't worry about it; there isn't room for him to do it."

Stocking.
Miss D., a teacher of unquestioned propriety in all its branches, was in the throes of commencement, and to the best of her ability was entertaining some young men—the suitors of her fair pupils. They conversed on some beautiful flowers in the drawing room. "Yes," exclaimed the old lady, "but if you think these are pretty, you just ought to go upstairs" and look in the ballrooms of the girls' dormitories. They are just full of American beauties!

Heaven Nations Invent Nothing.
Bishop Thoburn, who has been a missionary in India for fifty years, and knows India better than any other living American, says: "If you visit the patent office at Washington, you will see six hundred improvements on the plow. India has not invented one improvement on the toothpick in two thousand years. The nations without God have no inventive faculty. They are almost universally the savage, unenlightened nations of the earth."

HEART RIGHT.
When He Quit Coffee.

Life Insurance Companies will not insure a man suffering from heart trouble.

The reason is obvious.

This is a serious matter to the husband or father who is solicitous for the future of his dear ones. Often the heart trouble is caused by an unexpected thing and can be corrected if taken in time and properly treated. A man in Colorado writes:

"I was a great coffee drinker for many years, and was not aware of the injurious effects of the habit till I became a practical invalid, suffering from heart trouble, indigestion and nervousness to an extent that made me wretchedly miserable myself and a nuisance to those who witnessed my sufferings."

"I continued to drink coffee, however, not suspecting that it was the cause of my ill-health, till on applying for life insurance I was rejected on account of the trouble with my heart. Then I became alarmed. I found that leaving off coffee helped me quickly, so I quit it altogether and having been attracted by the advertisements of Postum I began its use."

"The change in my condition was remarkable. All my ailments vanished. My digestion was completely restored, my nervousness disappeared, and most important of all, my heart steadied down and became normal, and on a second examination I was accepted by the Life Insurance Co. Quitting coffee and using Postum worked the change. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich."

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkg.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT.

Do people know the sin of murder? Whether suicide or killing another person the guilt is there, the crime is committed and judgment will be rendered, punishment will follow.

It is an established fact that any one who attempts to kill themselves is insane, crazy as a loon. If the officers in the county do their duty they will send such cases to the insane asylum until they regain their senses.

It is not infrequent here in Sullivan to hear of some woman attempting suicide, but prompt attention saved them. They do not want to die, the sensation and sympathy expected is but fun and ridicule. Do they expect to gain some point, when after a family brawl, the poor husband was not conquered, and think they can win him or drive him by threatened and attempted murder of self?

This life is short, better make the most of it. This is a good old world if we do but make it our part, life what we make it. Humble home, with hard working, industrious people, may be a Paradise on earth, but on the other hand if father and mother wage a continual warfare, nothing in common, no love, no respect for each other, you are making your own home a hell, jealousy, suspicious, envy and strife belong to Belzebub, not to a pair mated for life, far better or worse.

It is a shame that Madam Rumor can gossip over carbolic acid burned mouths.

KIRK STATION
EVA BELLE KIRK.

Eva Belle Kirk, oldest daughter of John and Estella Bell, was born near Lovington, April 9, 1889, departed this life July 4, 1911, at her home at Kirk Station. Deceased was married to Shirley C. Kirk, Feb. 1, 1908, to this union was born one child, a daughter, who with the father survive her. Eva, as we were wont to call her, was always a kind, cheerful girl, a loving and devoted wife and mother and highly respected by all who knew her. She became a member of the church at Windsor in May 1908, and a true Christian until death. Besides the husband and little daughter she leaves father and a step mother, four brothers and three sisters, and a host of other distant relatives and friends who will miss her smiling face. Her mother preceded her to the home beyond several years ago.

Death was due to that dreaded disease, consumption. All that loving hands could do was done, but could not stay the monster death.

The funeral services were held at the home of Wm. Kirk, Wednesday afternoon by Revs. McCullom and McCumber, after which the remains were followed by a large concourse of friends to the Windsor cemetery, and laid to rest to await the call of the blessed Master when the Lord himself shall descend from heaven and the dead in Christ shall rise.

A FRIEND.

Residence Burned.
The residence of J. W. Wintter's near the Okaw Daugherty bridge was destroyed by fire the morning of July 4th. The fire started from linseed oil Mr. Wintter was boiling on the stove. The fire spread so rapidly that nothing was saved from the house. The smoke house with the usual contents was destroyed. A number of men soon arrived at the scene of the fire and they labored hard to save the out buildings.

There was no insurance. The loss was heavy. Mr Wintter purchased the farm of William Preston several years ago but had neglected to have the insurance transferred to him.

Never leave home on journey without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed and cannot be obtained when on board the cars or steamships. For sale by all dealers.

A Humble Queen.
Queen Adelaide, the wife of King William IV., was a woman of unaffected piety and humility. These qualities were conspicuous in the directions left in her will:

"I die in all humility, knowing well that we are all alike before the throne of God, and I request therefore that my mortal remains be conveyed to the grave without any pomp or state. I die in peace, and wish to be carried to the tomb in peace and free from the vanities and the pomp of this world."—Home Notes.

Impure blood runs you down—makes you an easy victim for organic diseases. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies the blood—cures the cause—builds you up.

Separation of Dickens.
Charles Dickens refused to lie down unless his bed was placed due north and south. He gave notice to the rule before arriving at a friend's house or a hotel, but a compass was always handy in his baggage to make sure.

Baby won't suffer five minutes with croup if you apply Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil at once. It acts like magic.

O. J. GAUGER, Sullivan, Ill.

For the Scandalmonger.
The Orleans museum has just been enriched with a curious relic of the past which some workmen in making excavations in the city came across. It is a stone representing a grinning figure, showing the teeth, the countenance being repellent enough. In this way the loquacious woman, the scandalmonger, was brought to her senses. The stone, suspended by a chain, was placed round her neck, and so accoutred she was compelled to walk round the town in which she lived. The stone is supposed to date about the sixteenth century.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all the other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Less Alcohol in Hospitals.
The drink bill at most London hospitals is much less than it used to be. At Guy's, for instance, the sum yearly expended on alcoholic liquors for the patients is at the rate of 7s. a bed. In 1862 it was no less than 43 1/2s.—London Mail.

Social Problems

Many Little Hints That Will be Found Valuable

By ELIZABETH BIDDLE

EN, because of the exactions of their business, are allowed to pay their social calls on Sunday afternoons and during the evenings of the week.

No man calls upon a woman except at her invitation, unless he has previously sent her a letter of introduction. He pays his first call preferably on her formal receiving day, but if he is unable to command the leisure for an afternoon call he may ignore fashion and call in the evening, about nine o'clock.

In making a call a man usually leaves his overcoat, stick or umbrella, hat and gloves in the hall before entering the drawing room. He may, if he chooses, carry his hat and stick into the room at a first or formal call, if it is to be very brief.

He should put his card on the hall table or on the tray offered him by the servant who opens the door.

He should always remove the right glove before he offers his hand to the hostess. The hostess, of course, offers her hand first, and until she does so a man should merely bow formally to all present.

A man should always rise where a woman is standing, and only resume his place when she is seated.

A man never shakes hands when presented to a woman, unless the woman offers to do so, but always when introduced to a man.

A man is never invited to dine where he has not previously called.

A call after each invitation is the civility demanded by good form, and a card should be left in person the day after a dinner, luncheon or breakfast.

No man ever brings a friend to call upon a woman without having previously asked her permission.

No young girl visitor should receive calls from the men whom she knows without asking her host or hostess to be present, leaving the option with them, and she should not invite a man to visit her without first asking permission of her hostess.

If a woman is behind her tea table she need not rise to greet a man caller, but bow, offer his hand, and gracefully include him in the conversation, introducing him to those near her.

When another caller enters a man stands up if he is seated.

Under no circumstances does a woman accompany a man to the hall or front door when he is leaving the house, neither should she help a man on with his overcoat.

Men leave their cards early in the season upon their acquaintances, if they wish to be included in the round of the year's festivities.

The length of a formal call should not exceed twenty minutes.

A man's visiting card is both thinner and smaller than a woman's. The usual size is about three inches in length and an inch and a half in width. The man's is engraved in full without initials, and always with the prefix "Mr." The address of his home or of his club may be engraved in the lower right hand corner.

Young Woman Who Cannot Make Up Her Mind

By FRANCES J. QUESNER

The girl who cannot make up her mind is a trouble to herself, a terror to her parents and a fearful trial to her lover. One moment she almost loves—the next she is supremely indifferent.

The girl who doesn't know her own mind needs driving with a firm hand on the reins. Once give way to her whims, and she will be more at sea than ever. She must be taught that "yes" means "yes," and "no," "no," and that both carry inevitable consequences for joy or ill.

She must be mastered, since she cannot master herself. Some girls are undoubtedly born with thin-skinned, sensitive natures that render their possessors lives a misery to them—if they choose to give way to the failings to which they undoubtedly incline.

The sensitive girl enjoys things infinitely more keenly than her more stolid sister, a thing for which she should be devoutly thankful. If once and for all she will but convince herself of her exceeding unimportance in the scheme of creation, she will speedily grow happier. Only while she is self-engrossed will everyone's hand seem against her, and everybody bent on making her wretched.

Every girl secretly longs to be the one love of a man's life, and sometimes, cynics notwithstanding, she gains her wish. There are numberless good fellows who, having chosen their hearts' desire, remain true in thought and word their whole life through.

When something less is given her a girl is partly to blame. The proper study of womankind is certainly man, and the gentleman whose heart is always changing its occupants is really quite easily known and avoided.

Infant Occupies Most Important Part in Life

By MRS. J. D. LEEHING

The infant undoubtedly occupies the most important place in the life of the human race. From the very first day of its birth the baby becomes the guide of wedded life. Lying in its swaddling clothes, it is already a promise of future energy in the community. The signification of its birth is threefold: A reflection of the past, a life's interest in the present and a promise of a pleasant future—the last being of supreme importance.

That the future welfare of the child, as to its mental and physical development, depends greatly upon the proper care given it in the early period of its life is an incontestable medical fact, and it is to be deplored that not a few parents are guilty of negligence in the early stages of the child's life.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William G.

Ducks eat many bugs.

Goslings must have free range.

The quickest returns are from by beef.

Exercise is essential to the best growth of the foal.

You have some things to learn before you get an incubator.

The best time to cut the lamb's tail and castrate is at one week old.

Calves make more gain with a yen amount of food than does older stock.

Too much emphasis cannot be laid upon the use of cover crops in our orchards.

Giving water at irregular times is injurious not only to chicks, but to old fowls.

It is seldom that the very early varieties of potatoes yield so well as those a little later.

Man's object in fruit growing is the production and improvement of the edible portion of the fruit.

Good ventilation is essential, but it should be so arranged that the cows shall not be exposed to a draught.

Everybody knows that in July weather cows give a larger amount of milk than in cold and wintry weather.

Build a good shed to shelter the tools; it is doubtful if you can make 33 1/3 per cent profit in any other way.

There is a best temperature for each individual lot of cream, but this can be determined only by experience.

Are there any old apple trees in your orchard bearing undesirable fruit? Easy to graft good varieties upon them.

Keep on good terms with the ewes so that you can catch and handle them without causing undue disturbance in the pens.

There is no phase of the dairy business that needs more study or more careful management than does the breeding of the cow.

As the time draws near for calving, the cow should be put into a comfortable box stall, having plenty of bedding to keep her dry.

The open swill barrel standing by the kitchen door is a direct invitation to typhoid, diphtheria and like diseases to enter the home.

When live stock prices drop it is always the man who knows how to make meat at the least cost per pound who realizes the largest profit.

When the fruit buds come very thick most people take it as a sign of a big yield, but when fruit grows too thickly it must necessarily be very small.

If the udder becomes hard or shows a tendency to garget, apply unsalted lard and give it a vigorous rubbing; after which give the ewe a good dose of salts.

Skim milk, which is whole milk, minus part of its fat, and which costs only half as much as whole milk, furnishes protein about four times as cheaply as beef.

When the cow is comfortable and contented, she responds with a flow of milk far in excess of that which she gives when she has been uncomfortable and irritated.

Cherry rot or brown rot affects all stone fruits, including peach, apricots, etc. It is by far the most serious and baffling of cherry diseases to the commercial cherry grower.

Never feed hay, or sweep or in any way stir up dust just previous to milking time, for this will contribute to the introduction of bacteria, which contaminates and injures the quality of the milk.

In dipping pigs great care must be exercised to cover every part of his body from tail to snout. If a patch as big as a thumb nail is left untouched it may contain the nucleus of a new crop.

At the time of mating, if the ewes are put on an aftermath or lush pasture, they are more apt to come in heat and take the ram quicker, and this brings your lambs in a shorter time and the lambing is over with more quickly than if they come along in say two or three months.

Keep the land busy.

Examine the ewe's udder.

Turkeys are quickly destroyed by insects.

The first crop of alsike clover is the one to save for seed.

Mules are especially annoying and frequently kill young colts.

Alfalfa cannot stand pasturing the first season, and never closely.

A dairy cow should be allowed to rest from six to eight weeks before freshening.

Where dairying is not practiced the calf will have also to pay for keeping the cow a year.

Twenty tons of stable manure on a half acre is about the right proportion for the garden.

The best broom corn is grown in Illinois and Indiana. It requires a deep, rich mellow soil.

The way to get a good milk flow and hold it through the year is to give good cows good care.

It is estimated that more than a million fruit trees will be set out in Montana the present season.

American farmers buy more than one hundred million dollars' worth of farm machinery every year.

The way he carries his head and tail more than anything else contributes to style in the horse.

A capon will sell on the market for about double the price per pound that is paid for uncastrated cockerels.

Examine the ewe's udder and teats carefully; see that both teats are open or you may get a caked udder.

It is not enough that the sire be full-blooded; there must be individual merit as well as blue-blooded ancestry.

Where small runs are used, scrape and sweep them before heavy rains. Then turn the ground over and sow oats.

Keep a lookout for colds; it means roup, if you let it run! Use a little kerosene and vasoline and check the cold.

Of course, the fruit must have more or less shade, but nature will take care of that after intelligent pruning has been done.

The milk should be clean in all respects. He should not use tobacco; he should wash and dry his hands just before milking.

The shropshire sheep have been placed rank one, the Hampshire rank two, the Southdown three. The Dorset ranks fourth.

Location and demand govern to a large extent the particular phase of dairying practiced in the various sections of the country.

Every orchardist must use his own judgment as to how his spraying operations for the control of the codling moth shall be carried on.

Where cows are kept in the stalls much of the time, it is not unreasonable to say that the barn should be light enough for one to read in.

Don't neglect to grease the wagons that do the regular work about the farm. Hard oil is cheaper than horseflesh, and a lot more humane.

Cantaloupes should not be grown near squash, pumpkin or cucumber vines, as the pollen will mix, giving the cantaloupes a flavor of the squash or cucumber.

Feed that is left in the manger overnight after being missed over becomes sour and should be removed and the manger thoroughly cleaned before putting in fresh feed.

Let the new-born calf stay in the stall or pasture with its mother for several days, and she will let it feed at times and in amounts best suited to its needs in life.

During the hot, dry summer, and in fly time, it is desirable to make dairy cows more comfortable than can be done while they are running about and gathering their own food.

Just how deeply the corn and other spring crops should be cultivated and just how long the cultivation should be continued is a matter upon which farmers differ widely in opinion.

Barley meal, low grade flour and white middlings added to the mash are useful in preventing summer diarrhoeas. Keep granulated charcoal before the birds for the same purpose.

Undoubtedly one of the most remunerative branches of the poultry business for the average poultryman is the production of eggs, combined with the sale of market broilers as a side line.

An open-front house with sloping board roof and triangular board siding makes a good place for the pigs or brood sow in summer. Another good house for summer use is one with the roof only sloping two ways and both ends left out. This is protecting and cool.

But something snapped—we don't know what.
The cry was, "Coming down!"
He landed where the sod was soft,
Yet almost cracked his crown.

Some said, "A faulty steering gear."
Some said, "A broken plane."
But all he knew was everywhere
His body throbbled with pain.

The little birds were sailing still,
As gaily as you please,
Across the green and grassy lawn
And high above the trees.

They laughed to see the poor bird-man
In such a dolorful plight,
And nearly every one of them
Opined, "It served him right!"

WILLIAM A. RADFORD
Editor

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 178 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

We will all agree that the bungalow marks a great improvement in summer resort architecture. As a summer cottage, whether located in the mountains, on the edge of a forest or by a lake or river, the graceful, informal lines of the bungalow seem to adapt themselves ideally to their environment. When contrasted with the old-time, box-like, jig-saw ornamented affairs that were known as summer cottages, the improvement is very apparent. Commenting on this matter, the well known architect, Wilson Eyre, brings out some valuable points in a recent number of "Country Life in America." His contention is that the bungalow fad is carrying us to architectural extremes that are not good for domestic architecture in general.

As a style for general suburban use the bungalow appears to be misused and is, generally objectionable when so used. As already mentioned, it has its place and purpose; first as a weekend or summer retreat it forms an ideal contrast to our more pretentious, over-luxurious dwellings; second, it is a harmonious building for an informal location; third, when an inexpensive structure is desired the bungalow offers the maximum comfort and beauty for the minimum cost.

Because the bungalow is so widely misused and misunderstood, it may be well to try to answer the question, "What is a bungalow?" and to analyze its real purpose in the general scheme of American home building.

The term bungalow is one which is variously applied to rustic camps, to one-story seaside cottages, low, broad, extended lines with a low pitch to the roof. It is not, however, properly used when applied, as is so often done, to houses having living rooms in the second story.

This authority does not believe in general in the one-story house for an all-year dwelling. It is a fad which, like mission furniture, is being much overdone. It is supposed to be the up-to-date fashion in many localities; but as with many so-called fashions, there is little reasonable excuse for its prevalence. Like many fads it is bound to run its course, and there is nothing so dismally out of place as a fad that has ceased to be.

There is another fact regarding the bungalow which has become current and that is that a one-story house is story house of the same number of rooms, which is a matter for consideration while land is costly and building lots small.

In India the bungalow proved to be the best solution of the heat problem; not because a low, broad roof produces a cool house by any means, but because the wide overhang of the eaves broke the glare of the intense sunshine. Bungalow rooms are not likely to be as cool as the first floor rooms of a well-ventilated two-story house.

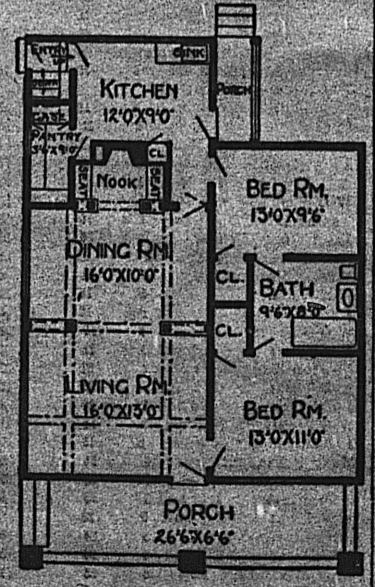

Doubtless there is a reason for the popularity of the bungalow style in southern California and Florida. It is always summer there. Yet this authority believes that the residents of Pasadena and Los Angeles are not quite on the right track when they build whole streets of low, broad, heavy-eaved affairs that are just now "in fashion." However, he has a good word to say for the bungalow when it is in its right place.

To his mind the bungalow should be not only a one-story house, but a very simple, informal one-story house. It is a style for the woods and the seaside, for the place where rest and not luxury are sought. It should be free from architectural embellishments, simply furnished, adapted to hot weather. For these purposes the bungalow is a vast improvement over the average log camp or the usual jig-saw cottage of the seaside resort. It is graceful in line and suggests comfort. Because it is intended to be informal, it does not demand expensive construction or finish.

If one has only a small amount of money to spend, one can undoubtedly secure greater grace and beauty of outline by placing all the rooms on one floor, than by piling them up on top of each other. A five-room two-story house built for $1,500 or $2,000 must necessarily be a plain, uncompromising cubical box. If these same five rooms were to be grouped on one floor the unpleasant square proportions are avoided, the angle of the roof becomes more pleasing and the whole effect more graceful, with no additional cost.

A very good illustration of what is meant by this is shown in the accompanying perspective and plan. This is a five-room cottage, 30 feet six inches long. It has been successfully built for $2,000. It is appropriate not only for summer cottage use, but also for rural or suburban site where a small, homelike dwelling is desired for use the year round. It has just a suggestion of the bungalow style, just enough to give it attractiveness without making it look out of place.

cheaper to build, and in other ways more economical than a two-story house. The increased expense of floors and roof counterbalance, however, the low expense of the walls. Plumbing and lighting are but little cheaper, if any, and because the structure is spread out it is not as easy to heat as its advocates would have us believe. Moreover, the bungalow takes up more ground than a two-

ECZEMA TORTURES INSTANTLY RELIEVED

Cured by an External Treatment.

You are remarkably fortunate if you are without some skin trouble. It may be only pimples or blackheads, or chapped hands, or the accidental sore, cut, scald, burn or boil, or the carbuncle or felon, or perhaps the more serious diseases of eczema, herpes, erythema, seborrhoea, or psoriasis, or inflamed piles, or some common irritation of the skin. There is one standard sovereign remedy within your ready reach, and which you can purchase at any druggist's. It is Resinol Ointment, put up in screw-top opal containers, selling at fifty cents and a dollar, according to size. It is ever ready for use, and as easy to apply as cold cream or vaseline. Thousands of physicians enthusiastically prescribe Resinol Ointment, and hundreds of thousands of families depend upon it, and are never without it. Resinol Soap is a chemically pure toilet soap of the highest grade. It contains in a modified form the same medication as Resinol Ointment, and is recognized as a preventive for many skin troubles, including blackheads, chapped hands and pimples. There is nothing better for the cleansing of the scalp and shampooing. It prevents the falling out of the hair. It is the infant's soap, par excellence, keeping the skin sweet and healthy and preventing many of the troubles which so often attack the delicate skin of the child. You will find the Resinol Ointment and Soap at all druggists. Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

DID THE BEST HE COULD.

Mr. Bugg—Why, I expected this message two days ago.
Small Messenger—It's not my fault, the company only gave it to me a week ago!

BABY'S HAIR ALL CAME OUT

"When my first baby was a month old he broke out on his head with little bumps. They would dry up and leave a scale. Then it would break out again and it spread all over his head. All the hair came out and his head was scaly all over. Then his face broke out all over in red bumps and it kept spreading until it was on his hands and arms. I bought several boxes of ointment, gave him blood medicine, and had two doctors to treat him, but he got worse all the time. He had it about six months when a friend told me about Cuticura. I sent and got a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. In three days after using them he began to improve. He began to take long naps and to stop scratching his head. After taking two bottles of Resolvent, two boxes of Ointment and three cakes of Soap he was sound and well, and never had any breaking out of any kind. His hair came out in little curls all over his head. I don't think anything else would have cured him except Cuticura.

"I have bought Cuticura Ointment and Soap several times since to use for cuts and sores and have never known them to fail to cure what I put them on. I think Cuticura is a great remedy and would advise any one to use it. Cuticura Soap is the best that I have ever used for toilet purposes." (Signed) Mrs. F. E. Harmon, R. F. D. 3, Atoka, Tenn., Sept. 10, 1910.

When Rabelais Died.
From the stories told of Rabelais, he must have been in life the same strange, wise, and mischievous imp, which he appears in his writings. He seems even to have looked death in the face with a grin of his own. As his friends were weeping round his bed, he exclaimed, "Ah! If I were to die ten times over, I should never make you cry half so much as I have made you laugh." As he was dying, a page entered from the Cardinal Du Bellay, to inquire after his health. The old humorist muttered in reply: "Tell my lord in what circumstance you found me; I am just going to leap into the dark. He is up in a cock loft; bid him stay where he is. As for thee, thou'llt always be a fool. Let down the curtain; the farce is done." Immediately after his death, his relations seized upon a sealed paper, purporting to be his last will and testament, which on being opened, was found to contain three pithy articles. "I owe much; I have nothing; I leave the rest to the poor."—Whipple: The Ludicrous Side of Life, in "Literature and Life."

In Golf.
"Is this your ball over here?"
"Is it in a hole?"
"Yes."
"A deep hole?"
"Yes."
"With slightly overhanging banks so you can't possibly get at it?"
"Yes."
"Then it's my ball, all right."

DE BANK ACCOUNT GOOD

Uncle Reuben Could Not Meet Debt He Acknowledged as an Obligation.

Uncle Reuben, the village white-sher and man of all work, was a quiet borrower of small sums from neighbor Colonel Arkwright and as a rule he repaid these little bits at the appointed time; but on one occasion, when he had been accommodated with a loan of two dollars and a half, which he promised to return in a few days, he allowed to or three weeks to pass without making any mention of his indebtedness, and, in fact, seemed to avoid his creditors. But one morning the Colonel unexpectedly encountered him at the postoffice.

"Hello, Uncle Reuben! Didn't you borrow a little money from me several weeks ago?"

"Dat's right, cunnel," said the old man. "I sholy did."

"You told me you'd pay it back in three or four days. Have you had bad luck?"

"No, sub," responded Uncle Reuben. "I'll tell you how it was, cunnel. I saked jes' two dollahs an' a half o' havin' ten dollahs to put in de savin's bank, an' I used it fo' dat. Hit's all right, cunnel. I won't fo'git it."—Youth's Companion.

LOST 61 POUNDS.

Another Terrible Case of Gravel Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Charles Understein, 50 W. 44th St., Chicago, Ill., says: "Kidney trouble ran me down from 198 to 136 pounds and I was a shadow of my former self."

Oh! how I suffered. I became so bad the doctors said my left side was paralyzed. I could not walk without assistance. I grew worse and went to a hospital, but was not helped. My friends all thought I would die. Three weeks after I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills I passed a gravel stone as big as a pea. At intervals the stones kept passing from me. I passed eleven in one day. Doan's Kidney Pills finally cured me. My health returned and I have had no kidney trouble since."

Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by druggists and general storekeepers everywhere. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Harm in Too Much Exercise.
Dr. Lawson Brown and Dr. F. H. Heise of Saranac Lake, in an article on "Properly Regulated Rest and Exercise in Pulmonary Tuberculosis," in the number of the Journal of the Medical Association, holds that the action of the poisonous germs of this disease on the body is very similar to that of overexercise. The poisonous irritation caused by the germs gives the organs and tissues of the body a double load to carry. Drs. Brown and Heise emphasize the importance of rest in the treatment of tuberculosis, but also insist that properly regulated exercise is very necessary. They state their conclusions thus: "To sum up, exercise when properly regulated and systematically graded is an important factor in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis. Through it the patient is in many cases returned to home and family with lessened chances of future relapse. At the same time part of his earning capacity is restored, and he is consequently financially less dependent upon others, relieving him of much worry, expense and hardship."

A New Sensation.
Little Jean had visited one of the large summer amusement parks for the first time, and with the courage possessed only by those girls whose playmates are boys and girls older than themselves, she had not hesitated, when invited, to take a ride on one of the "thrillers" that abound in such places.

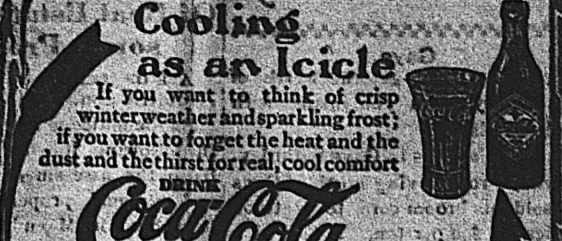

To her mother, on her return from the park, she confided the emotions she had experienced as she swept round the curves of the "figure eight," with her elder brother.
"Mamma," she said, "when I went round those awful turns so fast I felt just as if I had freckles on my stomach!"—Youth's Companion.

Thackeray's Kindness of Heart.
Thackeray was the gentlest satirist that ever lived. As editor of the Cornhill he could hardly bring himself to reject a MS. for fear of hurting his would-be contributors. The story of his actually paying for contributions that he never printed, in order to conceal the fact that he had rejected them, may be true or false. We do not remember exactly how the evidence points. But even if it be a story, such stories are not told of men made of the stern stuff of the Thackeray commonly misknown.

Edith—Papa wouldn't let me marry Mr. Stinky because he smokes such cheap cigars.
Edward—He can't say that about me.
Edith—No, he says you smoke too expensive ones.

Ben's Logic.
"Ben," said his friend, waking up from a reverie in which he had been gazing abstractedly at the shiny expanse of Ben's skatin'-rink-for-files, "is there anything you could do for your badness?"
Ben, by the way, is only forty.
"No, lad!" he replied with decision. "Fifteen years ago I was courting strong, and I tried lots o' things. But about that time t' prince of Wales—Edward, you know—come to open t' new hospital, and I saked myself as soon as I saw him lift his hat to t' crowd. Ben, my lad, I can give it up as a bad job, and say t' brass: if there was owl 'at ud cure a bald head they'd ha' cured his."—Tit-Bits.

Around the County

Gays

Remember you get the worth of your money when you insure with E. C. Harrison. A. D. Bolan was in Gays Saturday. Henry Brown living north of Gays has sold his broom corn to Mattoon parties for $90 per ton. Several went to Urban Park the Fourth to see the airship flight. The blackberries are much injured by the hot weather. There will not be half a crop. B. H. Jackson's new house is nearly completed. John Seaman and wife of Indianapolis, Iva Alexander and wife living near Gays took supper with Mrs. Ettie Custer, July 3rd. Wheat thrashing has commenced in earnest in this vicinity and is selling in the Gays' market for eighty cents per bushel. Ellis Harpster of Whitley was in Gays Monday. Elder Rose filled his regular appointment at the Christian church Sunday. Forty of Wm Curry's neighbors came with teams and plows Monday and laid by his entire crop of corn. Such neighbors are surely to be appreciated. W. E. Treat and wife of Hixville, Ohio, arrived in Gays, Monday. Mrs. Treat is in very poor health. Rev. Gant gave one of his popular illustrated stereopticon lectures on the life of Abraham, at the M. E. church Sunday evening, which was very instructive and well attended. Died at her home south of Gays, Mrs. Wm Curry, June 29th, 1911, after a lingering illness in which she was a great sufferer. She was born and raised in Ash Grove township. If she had lived until June 30th she would have been 46 years old. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, Elder Esterling, at the Ash Grove church, June 30th, at 11 a. m., after which the remains were laid to rest in the adjoining cemetery. Mrs. Grace Quiet and sons Glen and Verlie visited in Sullivan several days this week. Dr. D. D. Grier and Mrs. J. N. Armantrout and children celebrated the Fourth in Sullivan.

Lovington

Tommy Yates and mother are the happiest couple in Lovington since the good men finished shingling their house Friday. It makes us all happy when we are making somebody else happy. Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Jones and daughter Mildred of Taylorsville, are visiting old friends here for a few days. Mrs. Hubbard and daughter of Monticello are spending a few days here with her son, Rev. Hubbard and family. Mrs. Penewell is visiting her daughters, Mrs. Byrom and Mrs. Logan, at Oakland, for a few weeks. Charles Selby and Miss Jennie Foster were married on Wednesday morning, Rev. R. B. Hubbard officiating. They will reside in Lovington. Miss Minor of Bone Gape was here for a few days in the interest of the Eureka college. Mrs. Sam Booker visited friends in Findlay last week. Mrs. Carroll of Sullivan visited friends here over Sunday. Rev. Hubbard and family spent the Fourth at Latham. Rev. Maxey and wife and Rev. Taylor and wife and a Mr. Jones of Decatur spent Sunday here. Saturday and Sunday evenings the Free Methodist band held street meetings. It would be a good thing for the country if there were more street meetings and preach the truth to the people who don't care to go to church.

Kirkville

Some of the farmers in this locality have harvested their oats, a few have thrashed their wheat and hay harvest is in a good headway, but the drouth still continues with slight indications of rain. The Fourth was celebrated by almost every family in this locality, either at Sullivan, or on the Okav fishing. All report a good time with fine fish for dinner. There are a number of the farmers have cholera among their hogs at present, but it is hoped it will soon subside. William Spencer is helping Willis Gustin through harvest. The friends here are sorry to hear of James Winters losing his house by fire. Mrs. T. H. Grantham entertained her uncle, Jas. Smith, and cousin, Mrs. Keller, last week.
