OBITUARY. WILLIAM J. WARREN, William J. Warren was born in

darrow county, Ohio, October 30, 1856. He was married to Miss Jennie Young, October 30, 1879. He died at his residence on the county farm, Wednesday evening, August 9, 1911, to be in imminent danger. He drove to Sullivan the morning of his death rived from Ohio, unexpected a few hours before. Mr. Warren died of pulmonary hemorrhage, Coroner W. E. Scarborough held an inquest, such was the verdict rendered. Mr. Warren was a member of the Christian church and K. P. lodge. Mr. and Mrs. Warren are the parents of one child, H. Ray Warren, Ex-county Treasurer of Moultrie county, now proprietor of a hardware store in Tuscola. They also reared a little girl to womanhood, who still makes her home with them. He is survived by his wife, son, grand daughter, one brother. Walter Warren of Corning, Ohio; two sisters Mrs Anna Betts of Clarksburg, and Mrs. Ada Iden of Ohio.

Mr. Warren and family moved to Illinois in 1884, first stopping in Dal ton City, where they lived about a year, from there they moved to East Nelson township, living a couple of years on a farm directly north of the Waggoner church. The supervisors have no light duty to perform in this appointment. The county is to be served, the poor and needy cared for and the farm tended for the public good only. The man that accepts this position is the employee of the county and works for a salary just the same as any other farm hand,

The appointment should be mad regardless of politics, past or future tavors. The board of supervisors are men who value their reputation and wish to retain their good standing in their community and this county so they will do wisely and look for a good man, if applicants do not come up to the standard, surely supervisors of the different township can pick up a good man in their own township and recommend him, his wife and family.

For this appointment it will b necessary to select a good farmer, ex pert stock and hog raiser, one who has had experience in feeding and and shippin stock to market, caring for horses and poultry.

Marconed. A cry in the windy dusk; a sudden hollow booming overhead; a vision of countless wings in panic, sketched in black upon a background of dulled silver; two heavy detonations and, with the least of intervals, a third; three vivid flashes of crimson and gold stabbing the purple twilight; and then the acrid reek of smokeless drifting into Amber's face, while from the sky, where the V-shaped flock had been, two stricken bundles of blood-stained feathers fell slowly, fluttering. "Really?" Quain fell into step at his side. "You 'stonish me. But the good Lord knows I'm willin'. Where-about's the boat?"

"Blessed if I know: over yonder somewhere," Amber told him, waving toward the bay-shore an arm as yaguely helpful as his information "Thank you so much. Guess I can find her all right. Hump yo'self. Davy.

They plodded on heavily, making fair progress in spite of the hindering sand. A little later they came to the wa ter's edge and proceeded steadily along it, Quain leading confidently. Eventually he tripped over some ob-stacle, stumbled and lurched forward and recovered his balance with an effort, then remained with bowed head, staring down at his feet.

OWS. After a bit Quain's voice back: "Don't fret, Davy. I'm all right." Amber cupped hands to mouth and sent a cheerful hall ringing in response. Simultaneously the last, least, indefinite blur that stood for the boat in the darkness, vanished in a swirl of snow; and he was alone with the storm and his misgivings.

Twenty minutes wore wearily away. Falling ever more densely, the snow drew an impenetrable wan curtain be-tween Amber and the world of life and light and warmth; while with each disconrdant blast the strength of the gale seemed to war, its high hysteric clamor at times drowning even the incessant deep bellow of the ocean surf. Once Amber paused in his patrol, having heard, or fancying he had heard, the staccato plut-plut-plut of a marine motor. On impulse, with a swelling heart, he swung his gun skywards and pulled both triggers The double report rang in his ears loud as a thunderclap.

In the moments that followed, while he stood listening, with every fiber of his being keyed to attention, the sense of his utter isolation chilled his heart as with cold steel.

A little frantically he loaded and fired again; but what at first might have been thought the faint far echo of a hall he in the end set down reluctantly to a trick of the hag-ridden wind.

An hour passed, punctuated at frequent intervals by gunshots. Though they evoked no answer of any sort, hope for Quain died hard in Amber's heart. Resolutely he turned to a con-sideration of his own plight and problematic way of escape.

His understanding of his situation was painfully accurate; he was ma-rooned upon what a flood tide made a desert island but which at the ebb was a peninsula-a long and narrow strip of sand, bounded on the west by the broad shallow channel to the ocean, on the east connected with the mainland by a sandbar which half the day lay submerged. To the right, on the other side of the road, a rustic fence enclosed the trim, well-groomed plantations of Tanglewood Lodge; through the dead limbs a window of the house winker in the sunset glow like an eye of garnet. And as the two appeared a man came running up the road, shouting. "That's Quain!" cried Amber; and sent a long cry of greeting toward

"Wait!" said the girl impulsively, putting out a detaining hand. "Let's keep our secret," she begged, her eyes dancing---"just for the fun of it!" "Our secret!"

"About the babu and the Token; it's a bit of mystery and romance to me-and we don't often find that in our lives, do we? Let us keep it personal for a while-between ourselves; and you will promise to let me know if anything unusual ever comes of it, after I've gone. We can say that I was riding carelessly, which is quite true, and that the horse shied and threw me, which again is true; but the rest for ourselves only. . . . Please. . . What do you say?" He was infected by her spirit of irresponsibile mischlef. "Why, yes-I say yes," he replied; and then, more gravely: "I think it'll be very pleas ant to share a secret with you, Miss Farrell. I shan't say a word to any one, until I have to."

As events turned he had no need to mention the incident until the morning of the seventh day following the girl's departure. In the interim nothing happened and he was able to enjoy some excellent shooting with Quain, his thoughts undisturbed by exament; but its servants are loyal Quain, his thoughts undisturbed by

"Two," returned Amber so patiently that Quain requested him, explosively, to go to the devil. "If you don't mind," he said. "I'll go after my ducks instead. You'll follow? They're over there, on our way."

Fifty yards or so away he found the lucks, side by side in a little hollow. "Fine fat birds," he adjudged them sagely.

Satisfaction glimmering in his grave dark eyes, he lingered in the hollow, while the frosty air, whipping madly through the sand hills, stung his face till it glowed beneath the brown. But presently, like the ghost of a forgotten kiss, something moist and chill touched gently his cheek, and was gone. Startled, he glanced skyward, then extended an arm, watching it curiously while the rough fabric of his sleeve was salted generously with fine white flakes. Though to some extent apprehended (they had been blind indeed to have ignored the menace of the dour day just then dying) snow had figured in their calculations as little as the scarcity of game. Amber wondered dimly if it would work a change in their plans, prove an obstacle to their sale re-

"The deuce you will! How?" "There's an old skimmy up the shore a ways." Already Quain was moving off in search of it. "Noticed her this morning. Daresay she leaks like a sieve, but at worst the waters' pretty shoal inshore, hereabout."

Waterproof Strip Draine Rain Fro Base Lines and Prevents Them From Gatting Muddy.

With the baseball season in full blast, anything relating to the na-tional game becomes of paramount in-terest. Here is a waterproof cover for the diamond designed by a Penn-sylvania man that is guaranteed to keep the base lines dry during the beaut rains. The court is so heavy rains. The cover is a strip of waterproof material that when not in use is rolled up from both ends and placed on a truck, being first laid on a support having hinged legs that facilitate its rolling and unrolling. When a storm comes up one of these strips can be unrolled over each of the four base lines and will protect them from getting muddy and slip-pery. The supporting device will serve to keep the cover raised slight-ly in the center and drain the water off all along the line, so there is no danger of any settling along the edges and seeping underneath. Cables at-tached to the ends of the strip facilitate its unwinding.

Several Little Tricks That Will Assist Greatly in Entertaining a Party of Friends.

Here are some things that you night do to pass away an evening, or to provide entertainment for a party of friends when nothing better offers itself:

To find a number any one thinks of, use the following method: Let a per-son think of a number, say siz. Tell him to multiply it by three. Ask him then to add 1; then multiply by three, then add to this the number thought of. The result will be 63. After he informs you of the entire amount, you strike off the last number, which will lave six, the original number.

By taking a long piece of wood, such as the handle of a broom, and placing a watch at one end, the tick-ing will be heard very distinctly at the other end. .

By placing a garden snall upon a piece of glass it will produce, by drawing itself along, a very sweet music, similar to the musical glasses often heard. This sounds rather queer, but just try it, and you will have music equal to the guitar.

NEAT TRICK SAFE AND SURE

Glass May Be Cut Without Danger Breaking If Immersed in Tub of Water While Working.

With an ordinary pair of scissors you can cut a sheet of glass—a win-dow pane, for instance—as easily as you can cut a sheet of pasteboard.

The secret of this experiment con-sists in plunging your hands, with the glass and scissors, into a tub of water, and there performing the operation. In this way the glass cuts in straight or in curved lines, without break or crack, for the water deadens the vibrations of the scissors and the sheet of glass, says a writer in the Magical Experiments. If the operator allows the smallest part of the scissors to ap-pear above the water, the vibrations will be sufficient to prevent the success of the experiment.

I know that many of my readers will be incredulous of this statement, but let them try the experiment and they will be convinced of its truth.

There is another way in which you may cut thin glass with a pair of sciswithout plunging your sore, without plunging your manage with the glass into water. You have only to cover the glass with little bands or strings of paper, carefully pasted on and arranged in all directions. These bands deaden the vibraand prevent the glass from tions breaking. The experiment with the tub of water, however, is the safest and surest.

REAL MEANING OF MILLION

Some Figures Given That May Give Significance to Greatly Used Term-Distance to Sun.

We think and do things in millions these days, yet, though we are accus-tomed to employ the term lightly, the significance of the word "million" is really hard to grasp. It has been estimated that 1,000,000 persons assembled in a crowd, with due allowance of, say, three square feet a person, would cover an area of 68.5 acres, or, to put it more conven-lently, let us say 70 acres; or it could iently, let us say 70 acres; or it could be contained in a square having sides 577.6 yards long. Or, again, allowing 18 inches to each person, standing shoulder to shoulder, 1,000,000 indi-viduals would extend a distance of 284.1 miles. The population of Lon-don amounts, roughly speaking, to 6,549,000. Allowing 18 inches to each person, shoulder to shoulder, this huperson, shoulder to shoulder, this human aggregation would constitute a wall 1,860 miles long. In astronomical calculation it is most difficult to grasp the meaning of millions of miles, but some idea in this connection may be gathered from the statement of the time that would be consumed by an express train or the shot from a cannon to cover celestial space. Now, the distance from the earth to the sun is about 92,000,000 miles, and light traveling from the solar lum inary comes to use at the rate of 186, 700 miles a second. It traverses this distance in 8½ minutes, but a railway train proceeding at 60 miles an hour, would take 175 years to cover the distance to the sun. The circumference of the eclipse forming the orbit of the earth round the sun is about 577,760,000 miles in length, and the earth covers this distance in 365¼ days, traveling at the rate of 65,910 miles an hour, 1,,098 miles a minute, or nearly 1,100 times as fast as a train going at one mile a minute. It is therefore clear that a wings, or soles of the plate, from energy inde, proceeding at this speed would ing more than enough to form an even require nearly 1,100 years to accom-that surface. ## FAKE BARGAINS NOT POSSIBLE

STEIGT PROVISIONS OF THE LAW SULLIVAN MERCHANTS BENE-STTTED THEREBY

The last legislature effectually solved the problem of dealing with the "itinerant vendor," a matter that has caused endless worry to local business men and has been the subject of numerous ordinance enactments by the city council, many of which have Postoffice Department and lithoproven worthless when tested in the graphed in three colors on a fine qual courts.

A bill passed and signed by Gov ernor Dencen practically prohibits transient "bargain sales" "bankrupt sales", "fire sales" and similar ventures when conducted by non residents of a city. The law reads as follows:

An itinerant vendor shall not advertise, represent or hold forth the sale of goods, wares or merchandise as an insurance, bankrupt, insolvent, assignee, trustee, estate executor, administrator, receiver, wholesale, manufacturers' wholesale or closing out sale or as a sale of any goods damaged by smoke, fire or water or oth-erwise, unless before doing so he shall state, under oath, to the secretary of state, either in the original application for a state license of under a supplementary application subsequently filed and copied on the license, all the facts relating to the reasons and character of such special sale so advertised, held forth or represented including a statement of the mames or persons whom from the goods, wares or merchandise were obtained, the date of delivery of the same to the person applying for the license, the place from which said goods, wares and merchandise were taken last, and all the details necessary to exactly locate and fully identify all goods, wares and merchandise to be sold.

In addition to hedging sales about with such restrictive measures, makthem almost an impossibility, the legislature went further and provided for a cash deposit as a forfeit if the statements made are found untrue and also compels such itinerant vendor to take out a state license in addition to the license imposed by the municipality. The sum of $500 is required as a deposit and the license fee, claimed by the state is $25 a year. The law specifically recites that the right of corporations to pass additional ordinances relative to itinerant vendors is not affected by the statute which

Seing Natural.

Can you, if you be the gentler see, walk down the street behind an elegantly gowned woman and restrain the impulse to imitate her poise of head, her carriage and the fascinating. ways she possesses? Have you ever been in a crowded room where one woman was the center of attraction and seen someone trying to imitate her? A woman is most charming when she is natural. A woman who is natural, even in her erratic mood does not give offense. One cannot imitate the ways, manners and style of another without appearing ridiculous, The nicest women we meet are those who do not pose or seek to imitate some one else.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to earn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a con stitutional treatement. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the dis ease, and giving the patient strnegth by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The preprietors have so much faith in its curative that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A Trifle Uncertain. Lattle Jean's parents were enthusiastie bridge-players, and Jean was more or less familiar with the sight of eards. At Sunday school one day the teacher had been giving a talk on David. Finally she held up a little colored print of David dressed in xoyal robes, and asked: "What child can tell me who this is?" Out of the silence piped little Jean's voice: "I thin it's a king, but it may be a jack!"

> The joy of home building for a great many, especially for those living in our larger cities, is to get far out into the country, in some of the numerous pretty little suburbs that are within easy commuting distance. Most American cities are fortunate in their suburbs. If the home builder wants a wooded homesite, a marine view, a beautiful river cottage, picturesque scenery where nature has scooped out ravines and built hills, or if the tastes run more to agriculture and poultry raising, a suburban community can usually be found that pretty exactly neets the requirements.

There are two kinds of suburbs, those that "just grew" and those that are the outgrowth of plans laid out by men. of foresight. "Give me good transportation, electric cars every ten minutes, and let me have a hundred acre farm fifteen miles from the business section of the city, and I will show you a thriving suburb in five years," recently said a veteran in the art of promoting suburban develop ment.

Topeka, Kan.—An old Dutch wind-mill, the kind one sees in pictures of the canals of Europe, has been in op-oration in Kansas for 40 years and it is still doing duty, making the festive Kanaas sephyr do the work that is ordinarily required of water power or steam. The mill stands on the high prairies at Reamsville, a quaint little old village in Smith county. It is 16 miles from a railroad. It was one of the first settlements in the county and many Dutch live on farms near TEXT.-God delivered just Los with the flithy conversation of the for that righteous man dwelling them vered his righteous soul day with their unlawful deeds.-

These words bring before tory of a man who was anxious to be rich. Let us recall the story and see what his overpowering desires for riches led him into. Lot was asso-ciated with Abraham from the first move from Ur of the Chaldess. With Abraham he tarried at Haran, and wont down into Egypt, and returned from Egypt. But to be perfectly fair, Lot should be considered apart from Abraham. A face that is comely may suffer by comparison with one that is beautiful. So the character of Lot suf fers by comparison with Abrah and we will take him by himself. T self. That he was a just man we have on the au thority of the New Testament.

Crises do not make character, they only reveal it. A crisis came in the affairs of Lot. He and Abraham hac grown to such wealth in flocks that they could no longer dwell together. So Abraham took him upon a high eminence and told him to choose any locality where he withed to dwell locality where he wished to dwell. And here it is that Lot's character is brought out in its true colors. He thinks he has the chance of his life No consideration of Abraham enters his mind. He gets where he can look over the land, and then he chooses

What did he choose? "Then Lot chose him all the plain of Jordan and Lot journeyed east; and they separated themselves one from the other. Abraham dwelled in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelled is the cities of the plain, and pitched his tent toward Sodom." He chose the well-watered plain in the valley of the Jordan because it was rich and like Egypt. He had never forgotten Egypt, with its great eities and wealth, out of his heart. He saw that in the plain were cities; centers of commerce, where men were making money fast. The only con-sideration that entered his mind was sideration that entered his mind was his own personal advantage. You notice that it said that Lot pitched his tent toward Sodom. Why not "within Sodom?" Because he knew perfectly well that Sodom was a wick ed city, that the people of that city, dishonored the God whom he wished to serve. So he did not feel right about going into the city, but he would get near it for the material ad-would get hear it for the material to vantage it would mean to him. But let us see what happened. In the fourteenth chapter of Genesis we read that Lot is living in the city, and he has become an important man. "Lot sat in the gate." He had become a chief magistrate, an administrator of justice, and one who extended the hospitality of the city to strangers. What a wonderful case of success Was he not right that day he made his choice? Try him by the business standards of today. Look at Abraham He is still pitching his tents up and down the hills and valleys, and that is all he has amounted to.

But let us not be hasty in our eulo gy. Let us get all the facts. Lot had become wealthy, and he had position. but what had it all done for him? A ray of light is thrown on the story by our New Testament. We learn that Lot "vexed his righteous soul from day to day." Is that a condition to live in? He was living among people who did not observe common de-cency. But you know, all his property was there, and he could not get away. When men were saying, "How well Lot is getting along," he never had an hour's pea Junction City, Kan .--- Ed Houston, a leary county farmer, says that while walking in a his pasture he heard something chirp. He investigated and found a young chick just coming out of a shell, having been hatched out by the heat of the sun. The chick was placed with a brood and is thriv-ing.

ss done for his children? Would not they be well brought up and well pro-vided for? You know the awful story of corruption and sin that came out of that life. One evening two angels came and warned Lot of the doom that was coming upon the city: ""And the men said unto Lot, Hast thou here any besides? Sons-in-law, and thy sons, and thy daughters, and whatsoever thou hast in the city, bring them out of this place: for we will destroy this place, because the cry of them is waxen great before the face of the Lord; and the Lord hath sent us to destroy it. And Lot went out, and spake unto his sons-in-law, which married his daughters, and said, 'Up, get you out of this place; for the Lord will destroy this city." But he seemed as one that mocked unto his sons-in-law."

That shows the influence he had over his family. Next morning when he fied the city, only his wife and two daughters accompanied him. Let me point out just one lesson of this story. There is success that ends this story. There is success that the in failure. Man can do a great deal without God. You may acquire wealth-and position without God, and men-may flatter you. But after all, what good is it? There will be no peace of mind, no abiding happiness, and your wealth and power will never ac-complish any good purpose. It is right to desire success, but if you leave God out of the question it will end in failure.

So when you are planning your ow life, or choosing the life-work your children, your first consideration should be whether you and they can serve God in the calling which you have chosen, and remember that "godliness is profitable for the life that now is, and for that which is to
