Suffocated by Gas.

Thursday of last week two young men lost their lives in an oil tank at... The tank was one used by the... the oil. The law stipulates, that before any one enters one of the tanks, that it must stand open forty-eight hours before any one descends into it.

There is a opening at the top of the tank and also one underneath. The gas accumulates in the tank, and there is a sediment of some depth, also, that settles in the bottom of the tank.

The person going into the tank must tie a rope around his body before descending.

Thursday of last week when a tank was to be cleaned the precautions were not observed. A young man jumped into the tank, he soon called for help, one of his companions jumped in with a rope, and tied it around the first one, the second was overcome by the gas and fell face forward into the crude oil in the bottom of the tank. The foreman took a rope and went after him, tied the rope around him he was drawn out, the first two died in the tank. The foreman was overcome by the gas and fell backward, by this time several men were at the tank and the fourth one tied a rope around himself and went down for the foreman; he was brought out alive, but doubts are entertained about these two recovering.

The first young man was headless, headstrong and very wicked. He went home the evening before his death cured and abused his mother because supper was not ready; she told him she had been to church. With an oath he told her he wished all the churches were in hell. His manner of life and the news of his death was such a shock to his mother that it was necessary to put her under the influence of chloroform. He caused all the trouble by going into the tank without the necessary precaution.

Dr. Scarborough won the Democratic nomination for sheriff over his opponent, Sam Newbould, by a majority of 257 votes. F. F. Fleming received 511 votes for coroner, a majority of 148 over his two opponents.

Although there had been considerable excitement previous to the election, there was a light vote polled throughout the county.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM ALEXANDER DUNCAN, William Alexander Duncan was born in Maryville, Tennessee, May thirteenth, 1851 and died at his home in Sullivan, November twelfth, 1913, aged sixty-two years, five months and twenty-nine days.

William Alexander was the youngest of a family of eleven children. At the age of one and one-half years, he moved with his parents to Crawford county, Illinois. In the year 1864, he moved to Arcola, Illinois.

In 1872 on the 15th day of June he was united in marriage to Lydia Yarnall. To this union were born six children, three sons, Noble, Harvey and Raymond, and one daughter, Edna Belle.

He leaves also to mourn his loss three sisters, Mrs. Niverna Richcy of Arcola, Ill., Mrs. Martha Burton of Danville, Ill. and Mrs. Mary Todd of this city; one brother, Jas. W., and three grandchildren, Hilda, Maurine Cochran, Charlotte Rossie and Martha Lydia Duncan, besides a host of relatives and friends.

In 1875 he went with his wife to the state of Iowa where he resided until the year 1890 when he came to Sullivan. In the following year he became associated with J. T. Hagerman in the lumber yard and planing mill business. In the year 1896 the lumber yard and planing mill were destroyed by fire, after which he engaged in coal, grain and livestock business. Later he disposed of this and engaged in broom corn buying which pursuit he followed until the time of his death.

Mr. Duncan was one of Sullivan's highly respected citizens. He was a member of the Church of Christ. Mr. Duncan was ambitious, enterprising and charitable. He took pride in making his home a model one. He was genial and sociable and well informed on general news.

He was a matter-of-fact man, and strictly honest in his business dealing. In physique he was a nice appearing man. He will be very much missed in Sullivan, as few men were better known. He died of paralysis. He was riding in his car when near the home of Judge Cochran on West Harrison street, he felt unwell, went to the C. & E. I. depot, and went in and sat down. His condition was soon noticed and he was taken to his home where he died in a short time.

The funeral was preached at the late residence Friday at 2:30 p. m. by L. T. Hagerman. The remains were interred at the Greenhill cemetery.

A Bad Combination. A lie which is half a truth is over the blackest of lies. A lie which is all a lie may be met and fought with outright: But a lie which is part a truth is a harder matter to fight.

Mrs. Charles Lane spent Friday of last week in St. Louis, with her husband. He has been in an insane asylum there several years. Although he seems rational, talked to his wife and writes to the family, his mental conditions do not improve.

Circuit Court.

PETTIT JURY PANEL. Sullivan township—Cash M. Powell, Walter R. Siskatua, M. L. Lowe, Carl Weger, William H. Birch, Zion F. Baker, Hat Douglas, John H. Leeds, Charles J. Boosa, Will I. Siskatua, Pearl Wolf, Frank Brown, S. C. Thompson, H. V. Gifford, U. G. Darcy, and A. P. Woodruff.

Dora township—Sam Sporleder and Jas. Cole. East Nelson township—Floyd Shrey, and Chas. W. Cressman. Lone Township—James C. Rasmussen, Richard and Milton Bullock.

Marrowbone township—J. C. Miller and J. A. Scott. Whitley township—Charles Bowman, F. E. Brown and C. G. Gieseman. Jonathan Creek township—W. A. Burton.

The case of Norman Hidden vs. Elmer G. DeHart, Frank Lee and Thomas DeHart was given to the jury Tuesday. The complaint made by Mr. Hidden was that the defendants misrepresented a stock of goods they traded him.

The verdict was for the complainant. He was given a judgment of $25.50 against the defendants. The criminal case against W. C. Neaves for selling intoxicants was finished Wednesday. The jury returned a verdict of guilty.

In the case of W. C. Neaves there was no fine assessed or penalty affixed yet by the Judge. The defendant has asked for a new trial and it will be argued Saturday evening.

The case against Mrs. Holland of Dalton City charged with selling intoxicants in anti-saloon territory occupied some time this week. One of the points in the case was to prove that Dora township was anti-saloon territory.

There was no record on the books of the town clerk of Dora township to prove that the township had been voted anti-saloon territory. The defendants claimed that the records should establish the fact.

The evidence was finally heard and the case given to the jury. The verdict returned in open court Friday morning was not guilty.

Friday morning the motion to quash the indictments found by the special grand jury was argued. Judge Cochran let the indictments stand, and the case of Rose Siler Jordan was called.

Mrs. Craig, one of the defendants and witness, was very sick, Friday morning and not able to attend court. The next trouble was to get a physician to ascertain the nature and seriousness of her illness.

Judge Cochran will adjourn court Saturday evening, and go to Clinton, Monday for a session of two week's court. Judge Johns is expected to be here from Decatur, to hear the remaining criminal cases.

They Couldn't Wait. A young couple went to the home of a minister in this city recently to get the marriage knot tied. That preacher is in the habit of turning all revenues from this source over to his wife for spending money; but on the day in question the man of God was out of town. Can't you wait until next week? Inquired the minister's wife. They timidly asserted that they believed not.—Paris Gazette.

An Unlucky Year.

Lawrence Purvis has had a series of trouble this year. It appears that 1913 has been an unlucky year for him.

His health failing he was obliged to go to a health resort for treatment. Before the doctors had discharged him he was called home by the serious illness of his wife. She has been sick over a year, and is now in a hospital in Effingham, where she underwent a very serious surgical operation sometime ago. His daughter, Mrs. Wm. H. Hildebrand, an operation for gastric varicose veins, and a son-in-law, James Lowe, died from being thrown from a horse.

Mr. Purvis's many friends sincerely hope that his family may be spared from further loss.

Promoted to Chicago.

Ernest Tinsman severed his connections with the post office in Sullivan last Saturday and left Monday night for Chicago where he has a position in the mailing department of the Chicago post office. Mr. Tinsman is efficient in the postal service. He served here several years on a rural route, besides doing much work inside the office after the mail was delivered on the route. He did the special work, night work etc. Mr. Tinsman was authority on questions connected with the postal rulings.

The family leave for Chicago today, Saturday, where they will reside. Sullivan loses a good family. But Mr. Tinsman's well deserves a promotion.

Serious Injury.

Master Samuel Lucas received a bad injury at the football game, last Saturday afternoon. Some of the boys were playing with a ball outside of where the game was being played. Samuel was standing by a wire fence when a shove, pushed him against the fence and caused one of the bars to inflict a deep wound in his cheek. The sore has been very serious this week. After the laceration was joined with stitches, the thread became infected and the stitches had to be taken out. Blood poison was threatened for several hours. The condition of the wound is much better, and it will heal soon if no relapse.

A Woman Antagonist.

Several years ago Bill Sime French married a Miss Wickiser; after several years of a cat and dog life they were divorced. She afterwards married a Hollenbeck and they lived together peacefully until his death. Since that time she and her children have lived in Sullivan. Bill Sime has been hanging around the court house several days and boarding at Bill Bridwell's. For some reason, Mrs. Hollenbeck went to the home of Bidwells' Wednesday evening, called Bill Sime out and gave him a sound thrashing, beating him unmercifully. From the marks she must have carried a club.

Thursday morning Bill Sime swore out a warrant before Sheriff Scarborough and had her arrested. She was taken into the court of Police Magistrate Edwards, and fined $3 00 and costs, as she pleaded guilty to the charge. Bill Sime French was landed in the city bastille later in the day. If Bill Sime is a county charge the county farm is the proper place for him.

WOMEN AID "DRYS" IN ELECTIONS

SUFFRAGISTS PROVE TO BE DECIDING FACTORS IN MOST INSTANCES.

ONE NEW COUNTY IS GAINED

Illinois Females Get First Chance to Vote Under Local Option Law "Wets" Win in Five Cities.

Springfield.—With the aid of women's votes, which for the first time figured in local option elections in Illinois, the "drys" won sweeping victories in downstate cities and villages.

Twelve towns which now have saloons were captured by the "drys." In ten other places which already were "dry" the anti-saloon forces routed the "wets."

The "wets" won in only five towns, all of which already have saloons. In one "wet" town the vote was a tie. The "wets" failed to annex any new territory.

Towns heretofore "wet" which were carried by the "drys" were the following:

- Petersburg, Menard county. Pinckneyville, Perry county. Percy, Randolph county. East Beardstown, Cass county. Ullin, Pulaski county. Grand Chain, Pulaski county. Thebes, Alexander county. Metropolis, Massac county. Brookport, Massac county. Rockwood, Randolph county. Baldwin, Randolph county. Willsville, Perry county. Battery Rock, Hardin county. Cave-in-Rock, Hardin county. Rosiclar, Hardin county. Towns heretofore "dry" in which the foes of saloons again were victorious were the following: Jacksonville, Morgan county. Coulterville, Randolph county. Virginia, Cass county. Richmond, Calhoun county. Hardin, Calhoun county. Hamburg, Calhoun county. Carlin, Calhoun county. The following "wet" towns were carried by the "wets": Duquoin, Perry county. Mounds, Pulaski county. Mound City, Pulaski county.

WET AND DRY MAP OF ILLINOIS

The above map shows townships and precincts in Illinois which are "wet" and those which are "dry." Twelve new precincts added in Tuesday's elections are included in the "dry" territory indicated. Thirty-one counties in the state are entirely dry.

To Fix State Express Rates. Illinois promises to take the initiative in establishing within the state a system of express rates which will correspond with and be effective simultaneously with the rates prescribed under the recent rules of the interstate commerce commission.

Brussels (Point precinct), Calhoun county. In Crater precinct, Calhoun county which includes the village of Brussels, the result was a tie. Crater now is "wet." In most instances the women proved the deciding factor in determining the result. They went to the polls in surprisingly large numbers.

Previous to the election 30 out of the 102 counties in the state were without saloons. Twenty-eight precincts in ten different counties, most of them in the southern part of the state, held local option elections. Only cities and villages in the 17 counties in the state in which the precinct is the unit were able to vote.

An increase of $2,932,221 in the value of improved and unimproved lands as compared with the 1913 assessment, is shown in the reports of the committee on lands and on town and city lots of the state board of equalization as made. The report assesses improved lands for 1913 at $694,738,577.

The grand total of the assessment of personal property, lands, town and city lots, is $2,180,168,048, an increase of $79,927,006 over the assessment of 1913.

REALLY OLD FASHION TODAY'S MODE COPIED FROM THAT OF THE PAST.

Nothing New About the Much-Disputed Designs Which Have Found Favor With the Present Generation of Good Dressers.

Women that, in obedience to fashion, sport a high standing feather on a coiffure or bonnet, and thus are a nuisance in public places where spectators behind them would like to see the stage, are merely imitating their English sisters of the eighteenth century. Some one wrote in the Times of 1795: "At all elegant assemblies there is a room set apart for the ladies to don their feathers, as it is impossible to wear them in any carriage with a top. The lusters are also removed on this account, and the doors are carried up to the ceiling."

In Berlin the number of men between seventy and eighty is 12,898, while the number of women is 25,304. In Greater Berlin the figures are 20,049 and 37,520, respectively. The number of men between eighty and ninety in Berlin is 3,036, and the number of women is 6,871.

"Lady Jockeys" promise to be a regular feature of races in France, but the woman cab driver, the "femme cocher," is disappearing from the streets of Paris. Six years ago there were at least 100; now there are only six or seven, and of these all but one will soon disappear.

The hobby of certain swell women in Paris is a more amiable one. They make shoes. The Daily Chronicle says that this a reversion to a London mania of over a century ago. Mrs. Charles Calvert wrote in her diary on May 4, 1808: "I begin a new science today—shoemaking. It is all the fashion. I had a master with me for about two hours, and I think I shall be able to make very nice shoes."

A thrilling experience with a tiger occurred to a man named Campbell, son of the superintendent of police of Hazaribagh, India, a few days ago. Campbell was cycling from Hazaribagh to Hazaribagh Station, a distance of forty-two miles, when at the twentieth mile, he noticed a road roller on the side of the road, and as he approached this object a huge tiger which had been sleeping suddenly sprang up and barred further progress.

Had Her Eye on Him. A well known writer was present recently at a dress rehearsal of a comedy played by amateurs at a London theater. The rehearsal went well, but the hero, whom we will call B—, seemed rather hard and cold.

The lady frowned. "He won't put any more spirit in it while I've got my eye on him, let me tell you," she said. "I'm Mrs. B—"

Mrs. Meekton's Position. "Supposing," said Mr. Meekton, "that you were a voter?" "Well?" rejoined his wife. "And suppose I were a candidate?" "You want to know whether I would vote for you?" "That was the question I had in mind."

Yes, Leonidas; I should vote for you. But if I caught any other woman voting for you I should consider their action very forward and impudent!—Washington Star.

He Kept His Seat. The suffragette was speaking. "I'll bet there ain't a man in this audience who ever did anything around the house for his wife. If there is a man in this room that ever made the fire, milked the cow, cleaned the windows and made the beds every day without a kick I'd like to see him, that's all."

But she forgot her husband was at the meeting, and he didn't dare stand up!

Daylight at All Hours. Dr. Herbert E. Ives of London has invented daylight, he says. Scientists men have worked for years trying to accomplish this task. Doctor Ives has been at work for at least a dozen, and he asserts he has finally produced a light which is every way equal to sunshine. The scientist has designed a powerful incandescent lamp with a special mantle, which is so placed in a cabinet he has designed that its rays are immediately beneath a reflector. This is made of metal, and the light is forced downward through a series of delicately colored screens, so arranged that the average rays which are not found in the north light are eliminated, and the effect, it is said, is that of a perfect harmony of light similar in every way to the rays of the sun.

Our Policy.

The policy of the HERALD is to do any and all things possible that may be hoped to benefit the town, county and its people. We are willing to devote time and space to the booming of public enterprise, without money and without price.

A Nebraska editor says. "The other day when we were driving down behind our rhinoceros we came upon a man tearing a bridge to pieces and placing it upon a wagon. As the bridge was one we needed in our business we asked the aged mormon what he was doing with it and in which case, why so, or words to that effect. He replied: "My sight is poor and I have no spectacles with me. I understand that many advertisements are painted on this bridge and am taking it home in order that I may find out where to get bargains."

"You could buy a horse every year with the money you spend on cigars," said the total abstainer severely to the smoker. "But I don't want a horse every year," responded the smoker "What would I do with such an accumulation of horses? It would ruin me to feed them. Cigars don't eat, it's a positive economy to smoke!"

Did it ever occur to the business man who gives an order for printing to out of town concerns that the home paper is entitled to the work not only as a matter of justice but by right? Because it is always doing something to further the interests of the town and at the same time benefiting his business. Don't forget this admonition.

NEEDED BY GROWING CHICKS

Green Stuff and Grit Are Absolutely Necessary for Growth and Stamina—Cause of Runts.

It has been repeatedly proven by continuous experiments at government experiment stations, and in private brooding houses by experienced breeders that the value of green stuff and grit for growing chicks cannot be overestimated. In fact, these two common articles are absolutely necessary for growth and stamina.

Some people say that they cannot get green stuff, and when we go in their yards later we see a lot of presumably healthy chickens, but the size for age and breed is far below the normal, for the simple reason they have stopped growing at the critical period for lack of greens, and probably that lack is more the cause of runty specimens than any other part of the management.

As to grit every one should be able to supply that from even a gravel pile. If commercial grit is not convenient, but the latter is the finest for the purpose of teeth in the chicks, then the feed will be ground fine and assimilated in the system, and the chicks will grow naturally and be a sight to prove the value of both necessary articles.

BEST RESULTS IN SCALDING

Water Should Be Just at Boiling Point Before Birds Are Immersed—How to "Plump."

To obtain the best result, the scalding of poultry is something that must be done with the greatest care. Over-scalding makes an unattractive carcass. The water should be just to a boiling point, but not actually boiling before the birds are immersed. In doing this, it must not be forgotten the operator must hold the bird by the legs and head, and then lift up and down in the water three or four times, when all feathers and pin-feathers should be removed very cleanly without breaking the skin.

MOVABLE ROOSTS ARE HANDY

Frame is Hinged to Back Wall and Fastened to Rafter—Out of Way During the Day Time.

Here is my plan of putting in movable roosts and it works fine for me, writes S. Wahl of Clay county, Nebraska, in the Missouri Valley Farmer. The roost frame is hinged to the back wall with two hinges. A rope is tied to a ring in the front and fastened up to a rafter. Through the day the roosts may be swung or dropped out of the way and let down again at night. The roost poles may be laid either way lengthwise or crosswise. There are several of these roosts in use here and we think they are very handy.

POULTRY NOTES

It seems as though nothing is so poorly marketed as poultry.

To make the layers take some exercise throw some ears of corn into the pen.

Keep the houses and run clean. It will save trouble later in keeping the fowls healthy.

For young or old stock, nothing beats a wet mash of cornmeal and milk for fattening.

The use of whitewash may be continued through the fall and winter with splendid results.

Don't forget that water will and does make up a large per cent of an egg and also of a fowl's body.

Keeping too many breeds is a poor way to succeed. One or two breeds given the best of care is best.

A dose of cayenne pepper, well hidden in a small piece of fat, and given at night, is good for a simple cold.

The average poultryman will gain in the end by sending off the cockerels as fast as they attain broiler age.

There's a difference in breeds as to egg production, early laying, early maturity and market finish. Look into this.

Too much corn is harmful to the chicks just as it is to the hogs, and corn should always be fed with some green stuff.

Both sexes in geese are feathered exactly alike, which makes it difficult to distinguish genders from geese, especially when young.

A dishonest egg dealer may fool a customer with the date stamped on the egg, but he cannot fool him on the contents more than once.

Record-Smashing Entries.

Entries vastly exceeding in number any list heretofore compiled indicate growing interest in the International Live Stock Exposition, which occurs this year at Chicago, November 29th to December 6th. No such list of exhibits has ever before been prepared, nor for that matter have the live stock producers of the North American continent previously manifested such concern in the future of that industry. Every department of the exposition will be full; interest being manifested alike in horses, cattle, hogs and sheep.

The spectacular side of the exposition will be as prominent as the practical. A series of evening attractions of unique character have been prepared and there will be no lack of entertainment to maintain the essential equilibrium. Equipose has always been a characteristic of the "International," and the management intends to attain the standard of perfection in every department on this occasion.

Interest in the draft horse, instead of waning is growing and the nightly horse fair will excel even the superb equine display of former years.

In swine and sheep the breeders of the United States and Canada promise to eclipse all previous efforts. Wisconsin and Ontario, as usual, will make a stellar display, and the Western grower will again demonstrate the merit of range product.

Current and threatened beef scarcity renders the fat cattle display of more than usual interest this year. That the beef industry is "coming back" will be effectively demonstrated, and feeders will be furnished with numerous object lessons on the subject of economy in production. In other words, the master feeders of the country will show and tell how they do it.

If you miss the 1913 International Live Stock Exposition you will be the loser.

A Letter From Home.

When a person is far from home, there is nothing brings so much pleasure and gladness to his heart as a letter from the loved ones behind.

"Letters from friends are like flower buds in June."

Now a newspaper is nothing more than a letter—an immense budget of news—and every person having relatives or friends at a distance should gladden their hearts by sending them a copy of the Saturday Herald each week. It is a present that would carry joy with it and awaken old recollections, more closely cement friendship, and prove a well-spring of satisfaction to both the recipient and the donor. Try it.

Scripture's Hard Things.

A shrewd, worldly agnostic and a Christian clergyman dined in a modest clerical suit, said Eli Perkins, sat at the same table in the Pullman dining car. They were waiting for the first course of the dinner, a delicious Hudson River shad. Eying his companion coldly for a moment the agnostic remarked:

"I judge you are a clergyman, sir?"

"Yes sir; I am in my master's service."

"Yes, you look it. Preach out of the Bible, don't you?"

"O, yes of course."

"Find a good many things in that old book that you don't understand—don't you?"

"O, yes; of course."

"Well, what do you do then?"

"Why, my dear friend, I simply do just as I do while eating this delicious shad. If I come to a bone I quietly lay it on one side and go on enjoying the shad, and let some fool insist on choking himself with the bones."

Then the agnostic wound up his Waterbury watch and went into the smoker.

The Menace of Rats.

I learned something that morning, visiting an Indiana school, says F. C. Cooper, in December Technical World Magazine, I learned that throughout the United States there are about five rats for every human being, and as we have a population of about one hundred million persons, we are feeding a rat population of some five hundred millions! At a rate of two cents a day, each rat costs us close to seven dollars and thirty cents a year! You can figure for yourself what the total rat population of our entire country costs us. In the State of Indiana alone, the daily cost for rats, at this rate, is something like four hundred thousand dollars! The loss to other States is proportionate. The only difference between Indiana and other States is not one of rate—but rather of enlightenment. Indiana does things, but it has had to struggle to do them!

Under the supervision of Dr. J. N. Hurty of the State Board of Health, the rat and its relation to the destruction of property and health are to be studied in all the public schools throughout the State. A section of the law now makes it the duty of school and health authorities to provide charts, textbooks, etc., in order to carry out the details of the plan in a most efficient manner. Dr Hurty's rat chart is to be placed in every schoolroom, and every teacher is provided with an interesting pamphlet which outlines the life story of the rat, and in such a simple and direct manner that any child can understand. Instructions in how to make buildings and dwellings "rat-proof" will also be given. The people are in earnest. Failure to teach this subject in the schools is punishable with a fine of from ten to twenty-five dollars.

All this, of course, is only one phase of the question and of what Indiana intends to do. The important thing to bear in mind is the fact that there is one State in the Union with sufficient foresight and "awareness" to know a menace when it sees one, and to take present steps and far-seeing ones both for the present and on-coming generations. The last session of the Indiana State Legislature made all this possible, but not without some thought and some struggle on the part of some body.

As It is Today.

Do you know The Youth's Companion as it is today—enlarged, improved, broadened in its reach of human interests? You may remember it as it was. You ought to know it as it is now. You will be surprised at what a year's reading of The Companion will do for your family. No American monthly magazine offers such a quantity of reading, and it comes weekly, too.

Father can find no better editorial page published. With its impartial comment, its Nature and Science, it will keep a busy man well informed. The Family Page, the Boys' Page, the Girls' Page and the Children's Page, in addition to eight serial stories and 250 other stories for all the family suggest the lavish promise for a year's reading, and every line is published with a purpose.

No other American periodical covers the same field of interest or offers such a quantity of reading at so low cost. No other publication furnishes more inspiration or entertainment, or enjoys greater confidence.

If you are not familiar with The Companion as it is today, let us send you the Announcement for 1914, with sample copies containing the opening chapters of A. S. Pier's great boarding-school story, "His Father's Son."

New subscribers who send $2.00 for the fifty-two issues of 1914 will receive free the remaining issues of 1913, and a copy of The Companion-Practical Home Calendar in addition.

GEESE ARE LUCRATIVE

Stand midway between Chicken and Turkey industries.

Old Birds Do Well in Any Kind of Weather, Requiring Nothing in Way of Shelter but a Common Shed to Run Under.

Raising geese for market is an important industry and has proved very profitable. It stands midway in importance between the chicken and turkey industries.

Geese are probably the hardest of all domestic fowls, requiring less attention than cows or hogs, and little or no outlay for buildings. The old geese do well in all weathers with nothing in the way of shelter but a shed to run under, and usually they disdain that. They do best on wet or marshy land, where hens and turkeys would not thrive. They are, however, very different from other fowls, and unless their nature is understood and their requirements met they are the least profitable of all stock. In order to throw more light on the subject of geese and their greatest profits, the Rhode Island station has experimented for some time, and has issued a most interesting report of tests made in cross breeding.

The following breeds and crosses were tested, Embden-Brown China, Embden-Toulouse, Brown China, Embden-African, Toulouse Brown China.

Embden and African Geese.

Embden-White China, African-Brown China, African-Toulouse, Pure African, Pure Embden, and Prince Edwards Island.

The Embden-White China were the easiest to pick, were white when dressed, and though small, were plump and presented an attractive appearance. The Embden-African were also easy to pick and were large and plump. The White China, though the weakest and smallest of all breeds, when mated with Embden genders produced vigorous, quick-growing goslings which were plump and solid when dressed. The Embden-Toulouse is regarded as the most satisfactory cross for large geese for Christmas trade. Pure African and Embden and African crosses grow best early in the season and should be marketed early. Pure bred China, African-Toulouse, and African-Brown China should be dressed before fall, in order that they may be easy to pick.

White-plumaged Embden and White crosses may be picked easily and later than the others.

Old geese lay a greater number of larger eggs and are more reliable than young geese. Young genders are better for breeding than young geese. Young geese do not lay as many fertile eggs or produce as many goslings the first breeding season as they do the second. If geese are often changed from one place to another they are apt not to breed well, and the other conditions being equal they breed better the third season they are in a locality than the second.

In order to insure the best results, geese for breeding should be obtained as early in the fall as possible, not later than October. Breeding geese should have considerable exercise and be kept moderately thin in flesh through the winter by light feeding and a free range for swimming. The Toulouse geese lay well, but often do not set. The Embden geese lay fewer eggs, but make better mothers.

Brown China and White China geese are prolific layers. Geese are grazers, and too much grain is not good for them. To insure fertile eggs they should have an abundance of green food and have access to a pond or other body of water. If this is not possible, a tub of water set level with the surface of the ground will answer.

Poultry Head Louse.
The head louse attacks young chicks generally before they are feathered out, and is first found on the head with its claws or feeders sunk into the skin of the head. As they become more numerous, they attack the throat and neck as well. The remedy is simple, but it takes a little time. Each chick must have its head greased with lard, cottonseed oil or olive oil. You will have to look closely to see these insects. They are very destructive to chickens and must be controlled or exterminated if the chick is to be healthy.—A. C. Smith.

Handicap in Sealy Leg.
Hens afflicted with sealy leg cannot give the best service in egg production, and rough shanks look bad.

The Right to Vote.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the people of the State of Illinois, represented in the general assembly: That all women, citizens of the United States, above the age of 21 years, having resided in the State one year, in the county ninety days, and in the election district thirty days next preceding any election therein, shall be allowed to vote at such election for presidential electors, member of the State Board of Equalization, clerk of the appellate court, county collector, county surveyor, members of board of assessors, members of board of review, sanitary district trustees, and for all officers of cities, villages and towns (except police magistrates), and upon all questions or propositions submitted to a vote of the electors of such municipalities or other political divisions of this State.

SECTION 2. All such women may also vote for the following township officers: supervisor, town clerk, assessor, collector and highway commissioner, and may also participate and vote in all annual and special town meetings in the township in which such election district shall be.

SECTION 3. Separate ballot boxes and ballots shall be provided for women which ballots shall contain the names of the candidates for such offices which are to be voted for and the special questions submitted as aforesaid, and the ballots cast by women shall be canvassed with the other ballots cast for such officers and on such questions. At any such election where registration is required, women shall register in the same manner as male voters.

COD LIVER OIL AND IRON

Two Most World-Famed Tonics Combined in Vinol.
Cod Liver oil and Iron have proved to be the two most successful tonics the world has ever known—iron for the blood and the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil as a strength and tissue builder for body and nerves, and for the successful treatment of throat and lung troubles.

Two eminent French chemists discovered a method of separating the curative medicinal elements of the cod's livers from the oil or grease which is thrown away, but to these medicinal elements tonic iron is now added, thus combining in Vinol the two most world-famed tonics.

As a body-builder and strength creator for weak, run-down people, for feeble old people, delicate children, to restore strength after sickness, and for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis or pulmonary troubles, we ask you to try Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

P. S. For pimples and blotches try our Sazo Salve. We guarantee it.

"I don't want to talk here, bless you! I want to go in that house. My business is private and pressing."

At that moment, a light was turned on in Gregory's library, and Grace Noir was seen to pass the window.

Gregory beheld the awful secret quivering upon her lips. The danger drove him mad. "You devil!" he shouted, rushing upon her.

Grace did not smile contemptuously. She weighed these words at their real value, and soberly interrogated herself.

MANTLES THAT WON'T BREAK

English Article That Can Be Tossed About Like Ordinary Rubber Ball—Big Gas Saver.

As astonished gathering at the Hotel Cecil saw incandescent gas mantles thrown about the room, caught by the skilful and afterward thrown back again to the platform, writes the London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian. Then the ill-used mantles were put on gas burners and gave a brilliant light, as if nothing had happened to them. Then the demonstrator, while the gas was still burning, pushed the mantle up with a rod until it bulged and let it fall back again. And still it continued to give a brilliant light. An ordinary gas mantle burning alongside it collapsed at a touch, as, of course, any ordinary gas mantle would. The reason why the ordinary gas mantle gets crippled so easily is that in structure it is a network of woven fabric, so that when you break two or three vertical threads at the neck or collar all the dependent horizontal threads give way, too.

The new mantle is made of exactly the same materials as the old, but it consists entirely of vertical threads, so that destruction of the threads does not alter the hang of the mantle and destroy it wholly. You must destroy every single thread, since each thread (there are 800 of them in a mantle) hangs by itself. The new mantle, in fact, looks like an inverted tassel. It is made entirely by machinery and it is stated that one unskilled worker can turn out a dozen times as many in a day as a skilled worker of the old mantles. It is further stated that the new mantle saves one-third of the gas consumption, because it can be used at a low gas pressure.

SCAFFOLD LADDER IS HANDY

Adapted to Be Various Adjusted and Rearranged for Accomplishment of Various Purposes.

The Scientific American, in describing a scaffold ladder, the invention of C. G. Bishop of Southampton, N. Y., says:

An object here is to arrange improved means adapted to be variously adjusted and rearranged for accomplishing a plurality of purposes, all of which relate to the use of scaffolding of various kinds. Further to provide a scaffolding device formed of two members connected by a pivotal link and carrying braces for holding the supporting members a proper distance apart and locking the same in that position. The scaffolding ladder is associated with intermediate supports designed to support scaffolding bars. The ladder proper may be used in various capacities as a support for scaffolding, as an ordinary ladder, and as a scaffolding support for use on roofs of various shapes.

MANY TOOLS ARE COMBINED

French Novelty, Contains Among Other Things, Small Anvil to Be Used Together With Vise.

A whole cabinet of tools, including vise, cutting pliers, wrench and hammer, along with the numerous small tools usually included in combination tool sets—all part of the hammer, or nested in the hammer handle—is a novelty from France, says the Popular Mechanics. The hammer head may be used as either a vise, a cutting plier or a wrench. The sleeve, which holds the end of the hammer handle and the other leg of the tong together when the tool is being used as a hammer, serves, when removed, as a handle for the small tools. A small anvil is also provided with the outfit, for use in connection with the vise.

BRUSH HOLDER MADE USEFUL

Most Convenient Article, Invented by Illinois Man, Enables Painter to Reach Long Distances.

Painters, janitors, porters, housemaids and heads of families who like to do the painting themselves will find the extension brush holder invented by an Illinois man a most convenient article. It will enable them to reach points that otherwise could be reached only by means of a ladder or by more or less dangerous climbing, and will thus not only save the user trouble, but will eliminate an element of danger. A metal head is made to fit over the end of a pole, which can be as long as is needed for the work to be done. The upper part of the head has a hinged holding device in which the handle of the brush is placed and held firm by a thumb screw. This holding portion is also hinged to the lower part of the head and adjustable upon it, so that it may be turned at any angle at which it is desired to use the brush and held there by a screw.

NEW TRADES ARE TAKEN UP

Advent of Steel Sleeping Cars Throws Many Wood Workers Out of Jobs at Pullman Shops.

An apt illustration of reduction in the premium on skill required of the industrial worker is found at Pullman by Graham Romeyn Taylor, who writes in the Survey:

"The advent of the steel car threw wood carving, cabinetmaking and many other skilled crafts on the scrap heap and substituted metal work, demanding distinctly shorter training. Steel sleepers were first made about 1907. This year not a single one of wood is being manufactured. Of the ordinary coaches built on contract for railroads about 75 per cent. are steel body and wooden interior finish, 15 per cent. are all steel and only 10 per cent. are of wood. More would probably be made entirely of steel but for the difficulty experienced in heating them.

"When the steel construction began all the older and skilled employes were encouraged to learn the newer trades, and officials say that many of the cabinetmakers readily adapted themselves to the changed conditions, utilizing much of their old skill in the steel cabinet work. But they frankly admit that the great amount of semi-skilled work, such as the assembling, erecting and riveting of the steel cars, has borne hard on the older employes, who cannot 'stand the racket.' Slaves, who 'don't seem to have any nerves,' take these jobs. What this means for the older employes was vividly pointed out by a Dutch tradesman in Roseland, who said that when the steel car work came in about 200 members of the Dutch church he attended left, saying that the change of trades was too much for them."

WINDOW BEAUTY-SPOTS FOR THE WINTER

A Bunch of Late Fall Roses.

By EBEN REXFORD.

If we wait until late October or November before procuring the plants we propose to make use of in the coming season, the possibilities are that when the season is here it will find the window garden full of half-developed plants from which little can be expected until well along in the spring.

This is all wrong. We want good, strong plants at the beginning of winter—plants which have reached a state of development which warrants us in looking for good returns from them in the way of flowers.

The fact is, few plants adapted to use in the house in winter reach a satisfactory stage of development in less than six months.

This being true, what reason have we to expect much in winter from plants not taken in hand until late in the fall?

Decide what plants you will grow. If you are not in possession of them, order them at once. If you have any you care to carry over another season, report them and get them at work as soon as possible.

I would not advise the use of large pots in repotting. Nowadays we depend on fertilizers to furnish food for our plants rather than on large quantities of fresh earth.

We can grow fine plants with little root room than formerly. Condensed plant food in the shape of liquids containing the elements of plant growth makes it possible to greatly economize in space.

I feel confident that the time is coming when all the soil needed for the development of a plant shall consist of just enough to serve as the medium by which we convey the fertilizer we use to the roots of the plant. Possibly we shall get along without soil, something else being used as the agent between fertilizer and the roots.

What plants are you going to use? The old ones, whose merits have made them favorites for years—standbys—or would you like a few new ones? Have you tried Primula Obconica? This is not a new plant, but it is one

MAN NOT PAST PRIME AT 40

Mortality Figures Have Been Misinterpreted, as May Easily Be Made Plain.

The mortality figures recently published by the census bureau have been interpreted in some quarters to prove that a man in past his prime at forty years. A careful examination of the figures themselves shows that this conclusion is utterly unwarranted. The specific death rates, corrected for age and sex, indicate that in 1911 14.5 persons died among every thousand males between the ages of thirty-five and forty-four, while the death rate for women of the same age was only ten. Between the ages of forty-five and fifty-four the specific death rate was 26.3 for every thousand men and 16.2 for every thousand women. Certain alarmists have added together these specific death rates in the attempt to show that the mortality between the ages of thirty-five and fifty-four is 63 per thousand of population. Statisticians know very well that specific rates cannot be added in this way, and conclusions based on such crude and ignorant manipulation of government figures need occasion no anxiety.

What the government report does show is that the mortality curve for the United States is not essentially different from that traced in foreign countries. This curve approximates the form of the letter J. The base of the letter represents the most vigorous years of life, from ten to thirty-five, when the mortality is lowest. The numerous diseases of infancy cause the curve to climb upward a little way on the left side, while the approach of old age causes the right side of the letter to mount steadily and almost vertically upward, until the highest mortality is reached at twenty-five years and over. Such a curve is common to all countries, and the fact that the mortality increases between thirty-five and fifty-five years does not manifest alarming inferences about the so-called Oiler dictum. All parts of the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta have produced wonderful yields of wheat, oats, barley and flax. Wheat graded from Contract No. 1 Hard, weighed heavy and yielded from 40 to 45 bushels per acre; 25 bushels was about the total average. Mixed farming may be considered fully as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses full of nutritious food for stock required either for beef or dairy purposes. ARE NO MORE WILD OYSTERS

Not One Bushel in a Thousand Put on Market is Now Found Growing Naturally.

The popular idea of the source of oysters is that they grow wild in creeks, estuaries, etc., and that men go out in little boats and catch them, a bushel or two at a time. Not one bushel in one thousand of natural oysters ready for market is found growing naturally. Instead of growing naturally, the artificial propagation, cultivation and planting of oysters on a large scale now produces more than 1,000 bushels of mature oysters, against one bushel of mature oysters growing wild.

Oyster farming is now a productive industry, as completely as is grain farming on the enormous grain fields of the west. It is well compared to grain farming, except that the growing of oysters is a farm more complicated, expensive and hazardous.

A large oyster farm comprises many thousands of acres of land under from 15 to 75 feet of water in the great bodies of salt water. Often these farms are situated several miles from the shore. The small boats used in the catching of wild oysters would be useless in the propagation, placing or catching of the crops on these great oyster farms. Steamers and gasoline boats are employed. Some of the large steamers are more than 150 feet in length, 30 feet wide, and catching 3,000 bushels of oysters per day, in water 30 to 600 feet deep—in other words, as deep as a six-story building is high.—Ladies' Magazine.

Los Angeles is Facing Problem That is Common to Most Growing American Cities.

Every city has a housing problem which is in some respect peculiar and characteristic. In Los Angeles this is to be found in a prevalent type of "house courts."

In places thus described a considerable part of the labor population of Los Angeles lives. There are recorded in the office of the city's housing commission today some 630 such courts.

The dwellings in these courts present a great variety in general style and method of building. There are the old adobe houses, sometimes remodeled and in fair condition.

Some seven years ago Jacob Rife jarred the complacency of the community by stating that one district possessed congested and unwholesome housing conditions quite as bad, though not so extensive as any city in the land.

Yet in spite of the fact that the housing commission has succeeded in having demolished many of the more unsightly of these courts, one may still walk many blocks in some parts of the city and see little else.
