The Freedom of the Press.

Around her neck I put my arm— It felt as soft as cake! "Oh dear!" said she "what liberty, you printer-men do take!" "Why, yes, my Sal, my charming gal, (I squeezed her some I guess,) Can you say nay, my darling chick, against The freedom of the Press!"

I kissed her some, I did by gum— She colored like a beet; Upon my living soul she looked Almost too good to eat! I gave another bus, and then, Says she "I do confess I rather sorter kinder like, The freedom of the Press."

MYSELF OR MY BROTHER.

BY AUGUSTA MOORE.

Richard Jones was a worshiper of pictures, and before him hung one which he ardently desired to purchase for his parlor wall. Its price was only thirty dollars. The artist was in haste to raise a certain sum of money, and had, in consequence, consented to dispose of several of his best pictures at a great sacrifice.

Richard had a brother, James, who was unfortunate in many ways. Everything seemed to go against him.—His health was shattered, and his wife, a well-meaning and industrious woman was always ailing. Now this brother, whose family was on the verge of starvation, had repaid the loan of thirty dollars from Richard. He and his wife and children were almost in rags; they could not go to church; they were not fit to be seen anywhere. "I will try hard to pay you, Richard," said the poor, discouraged man.

But Richard knew very well that James never could pay. He had tried putting money into that vessel too many times to be deceived now with any notion that there was a bottom to it.

"I'll see about it," he replied; "wait until to-morrow," and rather moodily he walked towards his office. The picture store was in his way, and there he stopped.

"I wonder if it is a man's duty to deny himself the necessities of taste when he has fairly earned the means of procuring them, because other men are poorer than he? Am I never to be free to afford myself the things which my nature craves, which are possessed by everybody in my social rank, and which I am abundantly able to own, if only I can have the use of my own means? I think it hard that it should be so. I think it cannot be right; and I declare, I will have that picture." Richard took two steps towards the door, for he had been all this time standing outside at the window where hung the beautiful picture.

"But your brother," said something, giving Richard a twinge at the vitals, "what will he do?"

"I can't be helping him forever. He ought to have done as I did when he was a boy. I studied; he would not. Now, because he is reaping the fruits of his idleness, must I, too, suffer, when I strove day and night for the knowledge which should fit me for a high stand in life?" Again Richard advanced towards the store door.

"If a man seeth his brother have need and shutteth up his bowels of compassion against him, how dwelleth the Love of God in him?" Richard had reached the door, but the sudden darting into his mind of that passage sent him past it on his way to the office. "It's no use," he said; "Jim must have this money. I must give it up. Yes, and I must work, and work, and work, year in and year out, and all my surplus funds must go to keep his family from starvation and want. I, meantime, mingling in society which knows that my means for elegant living are as good as any man's need be, must live in a style which shall appear parsimonious in the extreme. I shall have nothing to give in public charities, nothing to contribute to public enterprises, nothing to spend in such entertainments as others of my circle give to their friends, and all because of this sinking fund of which I must never speak. I declare! it is a hard case!"

Richard was very angry. His partner wondered to see his usually placid mate in such an excited frame of mind. But he wisely refrained from making any remark.

By-and-by Richard asked, feeling as if he must say something, "What was the subject of yesterday's forenoon discourse? I was not out till evening."

This was Monday morning—and this was a store where neither partners nor clerks were ashamed to talk of religious things, nor to try to behave like religious beings.

"The text was, 'Bear one another's burdens,'" said Richard's partner, not observing the sudden color which flushed the face of his hearer; "and the minister very clearly explained and enforced the duty of doing good to our fellow-creatures—not only to the good and thankful, but also to the unworthy. He said men often feel that it is very hard that they should be required to deny themselves, and work for and care for those who, if they would wisely and carefully do their own duty, might get along without help. They think it harder still to be made to suffer through the actual wickedness of their fellows, and to be obliged to stand in the gap which their fault has been made; but when a man from sincere love for his brother does, to his own cost and wearying, bear that brother's burdens, and do him all the good he can, he is exhibiting the very spirit of Christ. That is taking up the cross, and following Him who bore it. What we would not do for our brother's sake, because we think he don't deserve it, let us do for Christ's sake, who is ever doing for us what we don't deserve; and if we feel it hard that we must forego the things that our tastes desire, when, but for the poverty of others, we could have them in our dwellings, let us remember that hereafter there will be time enough to cultivate our refined, our aesthetic nature, where there shall be no poor, and where suffering will not reproach us for what we spend for self-gratification.

"There, sir, I've given you a pretty good abstract of the morning's discourse, and I hope you'll try and do as much for me when I am detained from church. There must be something the matter with me, surely, for I never was able to remember or to repeat so much of any other sermon in my life."

"Yes, something is the matter, sure enough. God has been speakin' thro' your lips, to my selfish and murmuring soul."

Richard did not say this, but he thought it; and the thirty dollars were soon after placed in the hand of James. And many other thirty dollars went the same way. The walls of Richard's house never gained many more paintings to ornament them; but by-and-by, when the time came when in that dim and cheerless office James was to work no more—when he was no longer to know anxiety or hunger—when his discouraged heart, and weary, aching frame, were to find repose—and when Richard was called to look upon the hollow and wasted face of his brother as it lay in the coffin—do you think that he regretted that he had not bought pictures, or any other elegant and costly things for himself, instead of devoting the price of them to the service of his over-worked and sad-hearted brother?

The only earthly help and hope that poor James had known had been his faithful brother; and when sickness and want oppressed him he knew that in Richard he could ever find a friend. When death came and touched him, he died blessing God for the brother whose loving kindness had kept his heart from breaking, and enabled him to die in peace.—[N. Y. Ledger.

Amalgamation.

The following statement of the Detroit Free Press, though undoubtedly true, is hard to believe, because it comes from a section of country whence the finger of virtuous scorn has been so often pointed, toward the South:

The extent to which amalgamation is carried in this city is really beyond the knowledge of nine-tenths of the inhabitants. There are hundreds of families the parents of which are of opposite colors, and although the marriage of whites and blacks is illegal and void, yet they live together and bear children. It is a remarkable fact, that out of all this number, no instance exists where a white man lives with a black woman. They are all white women and generally the blackest kind of men. Whether philosophers would argue a superior degree of depravity in the amiable sex from this state of facts or not, we are unable to say—should think they would be unable to avoid it. The same condition of affairs prevails on the other side of the river, to the intense disgust, we are happy to add, of all good and loyal Canadians.

THE PRESIDENT IN 1900.

The boy is now living who will be President of the United States in 1900. He is about ten or twelve years of age. His parents are in humble circumstances, but of sterling traits of character, and their son is not one of those dirty, noisy boys that spend their days, evenings and Sabbaths in idleness and rowdiness. On the contrary, he is of a serious cast, is very studious, and withal is well behaved. Teachers, weigh well your responsibility! The future President may be in that grammar class that you think scarcely worthy of a respectful attention. What boy of all our readers will lay claim to this distinction? Recollect, the future President is not found amongst the Sabbath breakers, the every day idlers, the evening rowdies, the blasphemous, the vulgar, or among those that love or make a lie. He is not one of those who pride themselves in being Young America, and despise the authority of a father, or break away from the gentle restraint of a good mother.—[From the Sensible.

YOUNG MEN, PAY ATTENTION.

Don't be a loafer—don't call yourself a loafer—don't keep loafer's company—don't hang about loafing places. But work hard for nothing and board yourself, than sit around day after day or stand around corner with your hands in your pocket. Better for your own mind—better for your own health—better for your own prospect. Bustle about if you mean to have anything to bustle about for. Many a poor physician has obtained a real patient by riding hard to an imaginary one. A quire of blank paper, tied with red tape, carried under a lawyer's arm, may procure him his first case and make his fortune. Such is the word; to him that hath shall be given. Quit drooping and complaining, keep busy and mind your chances.

A Thrilling Romance.

CHAPTER I.

She stood beside the altar, with a wreath of orange buds upon her head—upon her back the richest kind of duds—her lover stood beside her with white kids and dicky clean—the last was twenty-one years old, the first was seventeen.

The parson's job was over—every one had kissed the bride, and wished the young folks happiness, and danced, and laughed, and cried. The last kiss had been given, and the last word had been said, and the happy pair had simmered down, and sought the bridal bed.

CHAPTER II.

She stood beside the wash-tub with her red hands in the suds; and at her slipshod feet there laid a pile of dirty duds; her husband stood beside her—the coarsest man alive—the last was twenty-nine years old, the first was twenty-five.

The heavy wash was over, and the clothes hung out to dry, and Tom had stuck his finger in the dirty baby's eye. Tom had been spanked, and supper made upon a crust of bread, and then the bride and bridegroom went grumbling off to bed.

ONE OF THE JOKERS.

Some queer son of Momus, who has a nack of spinning off an endless string of jokes, with all the ease of a juggler drawing his everlasting yards of ribbon from his mouth, lets loose as follows:

Speaking of wags—what is more waggish than a dog's tail when he is pleased?

Speaking of tails—we always like those that end well; Hoggs for instance.

Speaking of hogs—we saw one of these animals the other day, lying in the gutter, and on the opposite side, a well dressed man. The first one had a ring in his nose, the latter had a ring on his finger. "A hog is known by the company he keeps," thought we—so thought Mr. Porker, and off he went.

Speaking of going off puts us in mind of a gun we owned—it went off one night, and we haven't seen it since.

Speaking of guns reminds us of powder—we saw a lady in the city with so much of it on her face, that she was refused admission into an omnibus for fear of an explosion.

A PROLIFIC NEGRO FAMILY.

The Memphis Avalanche has discovered a most prolific and certainly well-branched family. Such a family wouldn't take much time to stock all the plantations of the South with "hands." The head of the family is now living in Chickasaw county, Mississippi, on the plantation of Col. Duncan Bubbard, and is now considerably over one hundred years old. She was a woman and a mother during the war of the Revolution. Her name is Patsy. The number of her descendants is truly astonishing, she having no less than three hundred and one living children, grand-children, great grand-children, and great great grand-children: A large number of the descendants—perhaps one third of the whole—have died. Her oldest son, a robust, healthy man, died recently at the age of ninety years, and her youngest living child is over seventy years old. One of her sons, "Uncle Billy," is the father of sixteen children, and those children have now living eighty descendants. Patsy, the maternal ancestor of all this army of men, women and children, still lives in the enjoyment of a ripe old age, surrounded by every comfort which a kind and indulgent master can bestow, and respected by all who know her, whites as well as blacks.

A little boy who had just been whipped by his mother, was setting on the floor snubbing, but looking up said with a peculiar air: "Ma, I wish Pa would get another house-keeper, I'm gettin' tired seein' you round."

"I shall never tyrannize over the affections of my daughter," said a parent. "So long as she marries the man of my choice, I don't care a fig who she loves.

M. de la Rive, the celebrated French astronomer, explains the production of the aurora borealis in the following manner:

When the sun, having passed into the southern hemisphere, no longer heats so much our hemisphere, the aqueous vapors which have accumulated during the summer in this part of the atmosphere begin to condense, the kind of humid cap enveloping the polar regions extends more and more, and facilitates the passage of the electricity accumulated in the upper portions of the air. But in those elevated regions, and especially at this season of the year, the aqueous vapors must frequently pass into the state of minute particles of ice or snow floating in the air, similar to those which give rise to the halos; they form, as it were, a kind of semi-transparent mist. These half-frozen fogs conduct the electricity to the surface of the earth, near the pole, and are at the same time illuminated by these currents or electric discharges. In fact all observers agree in asserting that the aurora borealis is constantly preceded by a mist, which rises from the pole, and the margins of which, less dense than the remainder, are colored the first; and indeed it is very frequent near the pole in the winter months, and especially in those where there is an abundance of vapor in the air.

WOMAN'S LOVE.

Man is the creature of interest and ambition; His nature leads him forth into the struggle and bustle of the world. Love is but the establishment of his early life, or a song piped in the intervals of the acts. He seeks, for fame, for fortune, for space in the world's thought and dominion over his fellow men. But a woman's whole life is a history of the affections. The heart is her world; it is there her ambition strives for empire; it is there her avarice seeks for hidden treasures. She sends forth her sympathies on adventure; she embarks her whole soul in the traffic of affection; and if shipwrecked her case is hopeless—for it is a bankruptcy of the heart.

—A newspaper 'wag' is rather severe upon the doctors. A son of Galen who was very angry when any joke was passed at physicians, once defended himself from rallery by saying, "I defy any person who I ever attended to accuse me of ignorance or neglect."

"That you may do safely," replied a wag, "for you know, dead men tell no tales."

—A young florist being asked by his 'Mary Ann' what flower he was most partial to, pressed her to his vest and exclaimed, "give me the Polly Ann, thus! [polyanthus.]—She was soon transplanted to hiser—flower patch!

—A youth smitten by the charms of a beautiful maid, only vented his passion by shy looks and now and then touching his fair one's toes with his toe, under the table. The girl bore his advances a little while in silence, until she cried out: "See here, if you love me, tell me so; but don't dirty my stockings."

—An Irishman being asked why he wore his stockings wrong side out, replied: "Because there is a hole on the other side of 'em."

—Fanny Fern says that it is just as sensible a move to undertake to get married without courting, as to attempt to succeed in business without advertising.

—Whatever discoveries may have been made in the territory of self-love, there still remain in it many unknown tracts.

—"You look like death on the pale horse," said Jim to a toper, who was growing pale and emaciated. "Don't know anything about that," replied toper, "but I'm death on a pale brandy sling."

—A man boasting in a company of ladies that he had a very luxuriant head of hair, a lady present remarked that it was altogether owing to the mellowness of the soil.

MANY VOTERS.

End of the Second Volume.

One more number closes the second volume of the Sullivan Express.

Those who subscribed at the commencement of this volume, are notified that their term of subscription closes with next week's issue.

Now is the time to renew. We promised to enlarge our paper as soon as the time rolled round when our circumstances would justify us in such an undertaking; but we are sorry to say that that time, owing to the scarcity of money, has not yet arrived.

But as a remedy for this, we propose to reduce our terms of subscription, and make such other changes as will be of interest to our citizens.

Let every man that can read subscribe for the Express, as we are determined to make it a number one paper of its inches, and reduce the price so as to bring it within the reach of all.

We have made arrangement to have an able assistant in the editorial department for the next volume, whose name will be announced in due time.

Come to the Fair!

We publish again this week the premium list of our Fair, owing to the former list not being complete.

Now that we have the complete list, let all our farmers and mechanics of every description come to the Fair, with their various productions, stock, &c., and compete for the long list of premiums offered.

Bring anything that will add any interest to the Fair, from a beet or turnip upward—and in the female department, from a needle worked collar up the finest bed quilt—bring anything and everything, for we expect to have one of the best Fairs that ever was held in this or any other part of the State—and it is given up that Illinois is at the head of the list in agricultural fairs, take the world over.

Come one, come all! As we said before we say again, prosper this paper for future reference.

Destructive Fire!

On Thursday night of last week, a destructive fire broke out in the West Division of the city of Chicago, destroying over four entire blocks.

The total loss is estimated at about $500,000. The loss to insurance is about $175,000. This is said to be the most extensive and destructive fire that has ever occurred in Chicago.

For the particulars of this sad disaster, see this week's Chicago Times.

Fifty Dollar Reward.

I will pay the above reward to any man that will take and deliver Edna Davis in the town of Raleigh, Ill. He has been guilty of an assault to commit murder. He is a small man, about 26 years old, with a very light beard; rather light complexion, with red or sandy hair; he has a smothering or shortness of breath. He is excessively fond of whiskey.

THOS. L. URCHURCH.

We copy the above notice from the Hamilton (Ill.) Sucker. Let our citizens be on the look-out for the rascal; and should they see any suspicious looking stranger lurking around, bearing the above description, let them respond promptly to the above call.

Circuit court is in session here this week, Judge Emerson presiding. Several of the legal profession from various places in attendance. Quite a number of small cases have been disposed of. The Judge does business with dispatch, and as near to the satisfaction of all parties concerned, as any Judge could do.

Monty Patterson.

Has his machinery all rigged up, and is now manufacturing as good an article of molasses as you'll find anywhere, and "a heap cheaper."—Send in your cane as soon as ripe, and have it worked up on the halves, or for two bits a gallon. Call here and try the molasses.

The great length of the premium list crowds out much other interesting matter this week. Those interested in our Fair will excuse us—of course.

The War on Douglas.

The following article, which we copy from the Chicago Daily Times of Saturday, will abundantly supply any want of political editorial this week. Whatever we lack in editorial is generally made up by abler clippings from other papers. Let the following have a candid perusal, and all will see its truth:

For an act of manly independence and wise statesmanship, put forth last winter in behalf of right in Kansas and in defense of the great underlying principle of our government, Senator Douglas was deserted by a few southern Democrats, and denounced by the administration. The right was sustained in Kansas, popular sovereignty was recognized by Congress, and was, in the case then on hand, successful; Senator Douglas triumphed. He carried his points against all opponents. When he returned to his own people to ask from them a re-election to the Senate, he was pursued everywhere he went by his personal enemies in the administration, or by those who deny the soundness of the essential principle for which he and the party in Illinois, in common with the party of every other non-slaveholding State, contend. But not to allow the consequences of their personal enmity to eclipse the glare of their inconsistencies, these same administration men, and slaveholding men, exerted their last nerve to elect to the Senate a rank and noisy abolitionist in the person of Abram Lincoln! It is easy to admit that they did not want, for his own sake, Mr. Lincoln in the Senate; but they were so bent on defeating—of "subduing the rebel," Douglas, that they could not stop to consider the consequences, or if they did they were reckless of them. The government organ expressed "serene indifference" as to who, Douglas or Lincoln, should be returned to the Senate—and the administration, not quite so indifferent as its organ, and less serene, worked hard and all the time to break down the Democracy of Illinois. This course was adopted expressly to punish Douglas because he had dared to stand up in the presence of power that was attempting to crush him, and speak what he thought was right, and do what he deemed expedient. The amount of punishment due, according to the judgment of his enemies, could not of course be inflicted on Douglas and not prostrate the party in this State; but beyond this consideration, it is not doubted that the administration felt then—if it does not still feel—a bitter hatred of the Illinois Democracy. Senator Douglas triumphed again—he was returned to the Senate for six years, and the flag of the party waves as ever over ranks that are unbroken and invincible. Senator Douglas holds the same public position that he did when this war on him commenced; and he has gained incalculably in the respect and admiration of the country.

With these results we ought to be content, and we are so. We are proud of them. Senator Douglas is proud of them. And we desire the reader to believe that, instead of bringing them up at this time, when they can be anything but agreeable to a class of politicians, we would keep silent about them, in the hope that to do so might have the influence to settle the public mind on the great issue, and so strengthen the party—were it not that the enemies of Popular Sovereignty are not yet satisfied, and are pursuing with misrepresentation, calumny and all sorts of abuse the man who beat them on the Leocompton question, and routed them, and the Republicans and Abolitionists with them, in this State last fall. They see that which distresses them like a nightmare, namely, the popular favor in which the object of their hatred stands, and they fear he will be elected President. Then there will be no chance for them; they will be displaced by honest men, who are still of the opinion that the old Democratic creed is well enough, and needs no amendment—certainly no amendment that would recognize and adopt the claim that Congress has the right to interfere with slavery in the territories, either to prohibit or protect it. The people are their own masters, in this as in all other matters where the question is simply one of title to property or the regulation of their own concerns; and the people of the territories the same as those of a State.—This was the evident intent and meaning of the Kansas-Nebraska bill—it was what Mr. Buchanan said in his letter accepting the nomination to the Presidency—it was this idea that gave him his election. Senator Douglas has not wavered the breadth of a hair from the direct Democratic course, and he does not intend to waver in the future. If President Buchanan has stepped aside from the Democratic platform, that is his and the party's affair, and it must bring him back, and place him on it, or select statesman of known resolution to lead our forces in the next campaign—a statesman who started out a Democrat, and will die one.

Brave Girls.—Two little children, Alice and Mary Welch, aged respectively 9 and 12 years, arrived at Hannibal a day or two ago, having accomplished the whole long journey from Ireland, without any other protection than their helplessness and their own brave hearts. Their father had preceded them by a year or more, and having acquired a home, wrote to the old country for his family. On the eve of their departure the mother fell sick and died, and the little girls, nothing disheartened, set out alone on their long and perilous journey, half round the world. All honor to the little heroines.—[Mo. Republican.

The people of Nebraska have taken the initiatory steps to form a State government. Their convention will meet in October to frame a State Constitution, and it will be submitted to the people in November, so that their application for admission can be heard before Congress at its session in December. Kansas will almost certainly be admitted next winter, and, very possibly, Nebraska. Both will be free States, increasing the number of free States to twenty. The slave States remain at fifteen, including Delaware, which is but nominally slave. While the free States are thus constantly augmenting in strength, how silly the fears expressed by the Republicans about the domination of the slave power!

HOWARD ASSOCIATION,

PHILADELPHIA
A Benevolent Institution established by Special Endorsement from the Society of the Sick and Distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic Diseases.

The Howard Association, in view of the awful destruction of human life caused by Sexual diseases, and the deceptions practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, as a CHARITABLE ACT worthy of their name, to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms, and to give medical advice gratis to all who apply by letter with a description of their condition (age, occupation, habits of life, &c.) and in cases of extreme poverty, to furnish medicine free of charge. It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age, and will furnish the most approved modern treatment.

The Directors of the Association in their Annual Report, express the highest satisfaction with the success which has attended the labors of their surgeons in the cure of Spermatorrhoea, Seminal Weakness, Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Syphilis, the vice of Onanism, or Self-abuse, Disease of the Kidneys and Bladder, &c., and order a continuance of the same plan for the ensuing year. An admirable Report on Spermatorrhoea, or Seminal Weakness, the vice of Onanism, Masturbation, or Self-abuse, and other diseases of the sexual organs, by the Consulting Surgeon, will be sent by mail (in a sealed envelope, free of charge), on receipt of two stamps for postage. Other Reports and Tracts on the nature and treatment of Sexual disease, diet, &c., are constantly being published for gratuitous distribution, and will be sent to the afflicted. Some of the new remedies and methods of treatment discovered during the last year, are of great value.

Address, for Report or treatment, Dr. J. SKILLIN HOUGHTON, Acting Surgeon, Howard Association, No. 2 south ninth street, Philadelphia, Pa. By order of the Directors. ERA D. HEARTWELL, President. GEO. FAIRCHILD, Secretary.

WOOD!

Those who have promised to bring us Wood, must bring it NOW, or—provided anything should happen—"for ever after hold their peace!"

DONTY PATTERSON'S MOLASSES MANUFACTORY

Fellow-citizens, I would say to you that I will have the best of machinery put up and in running order, by the 18th of this month, for the manufacture of the Chinese sugar cane into Molasses and Syrups. Mr. Hedges, of Chicago, will be here on the 14th of this month to set up and give the mill a start. The mill is warranted to make as good, if not superior, Syrups and Molasses to any manufactured in New Orleans or elsewhere.

I will manufacture the cane up into molasses for half, or for 25 cents per gallon if the cane is delivered at the mill in good order for pressing. I am gratified to inform the public, that I shall be able to manufacture from 200 to 300 gallons every 24 hours;—and this being the case, I can work up over 100 acres this season. Persons wishing their cane worked up, will please give us their names with the amount of acres raised by them.

DIRECTIONS For Preparing the Cane.

As soon as the cane is in the dough, strip off all the blades, then top three feet below the tassel; then cut close to the ground, throw it into your wagons and bring it to the mill immediately.

My mill is located 1/2 of a mile south-east of Sullivan, Moultrie Co., Ill. J. PATTERSON.

Boarding.—I will be prepared to accommodate almost any number of boarders during our county Fair, this fall, with as good as the country affords, and more reasonable than can be had other places—besides I live within a few steps of the Fair ground. J. P.

The WEEKLY is designed more especially as a FIRST-CLASS STORY PAPER, in which we intend to give our readers a succession of the BEST STORIES EVER PUBLISHED IN THE UNITED STATES! The aim and object of these productions will be to inculcate useful knowledge under the pleasing guise of fiction, or to teach great moral lessons through the same means. We shall never publish a word or line, the tendency of which is to injure the morals or taste of the reader. Every issue of the NEW YORK WEEKLY will contain short Sketches of Life and Manners, Notings of Travel and Adventure, Short Stories, General Summary of Events, Humorous Gleamings, Poetry, Editorials, &c., &c.

As specimens of our serials, we would point to A. J. H. DUGANNE'S Great Story.

In a word, its Editors will use their best endeavors to get up just such a paper as will eventually find its way to every fireside in the land—that shall be a welcome visitor wherever it goes—equally popular in the workshop and the office—at the fireside of the farmer, or in the counting-room of the merchant—a paper that parents can, with safety, place in the hands of their children without note or comment, feeling certain that its influence will be to stimulate their minds to the pursuit of knowledge, or lead them to abhor vice and wrong.

CIRCULATION & PROSPECTS.

The New York Weekly has gone up to a circulation which places it second in point of circulation in the list of publications of the day. There is but one weekly publication in the world having a larger circulation than the Weekly. The indications are, at present, that the circulation of the Weekly will soon reach half a million. Where the newsmen were taking tens, they are now taking hundreds of copies. This is the general effect among the five thousand News Agents who are now regularly selling the New York Weekly, while from nearly every Post Office in the country, we are daily getting subscriptions and orders for specimens.

How and Where to Get the "Weekly."

Wherever there is a News Agent, get the paper from him. By so doing you do not run the risk of losing your money through the Post Office, or having to pay for what you will never get. If the paper you are buying from the Agent stops, you do not lose advance subscriptions, sent to a place where you have no means of looking after it. We trust the day is not far distant when every town, large enough to sustain a Post Office, will have its News Agency.

OUR TERMS:

The price of the NEW YORK WEEKLY is four cents, but where Agents have to pay extra freight or postage, a higher price is necessarily charged. When sent by mail, the price will invariably be $2.00 a year, in advance. Subscriptions taken for three months. Two copies will be sent for one year for $3, four copies for $4, eight copies for $12. Postmasters and others who get up clubs of ten, and send us $15 at one time, will be entitled to an extra copy for their trouble. The bills of all solvent banks taken at par for subscriptions. Canada subscribers must send twenty-five cents extra with every subscription, to pre-pay the American postage.

All letters and communications, in relation to the Editorial or Business Departments of the New York Weekly must be addressed to STREET & SMITH, EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS, 22 Beekman Street, New York.

THE GREATEST MEDICAL DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.

DR. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures EVERY KIND OF HUMOR, From the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

Two bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth. One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two or three bottles will clear the system of bile.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the stomach.

Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst kind of erysipelas.

One or two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.

Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.

Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers.

Fifteen to twenty bottles will cure scaly eruptions of the skin.

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the worst kind of ringworm.

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.

Three to four bottles are warranted to cure salt rheum.

Five to eight bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula.

One to three bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of dyspepsia. I know from the experience of thousands that it has been caused by canker in the stomach.

One or two bottles are warranted to cure sick headache.

One to two bottles are warranted to regulate a costive state of the bowels.

One to two bottles will regulate all derangement of the kidneys.

Four to six bottles have cured the worst cases of dropsy.

One to three have cured the worst cases of piles; a relief is always experienced; what a mercy to get relief in such an excruciating disease! A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken.

No change of diet ever necessary; eat the best you can get and enough of it.

THE MEDICAL DISCOVERY is admirably adapted to the western country where FEVER AND AGUE, DYSENTERY, BILIOUS COLIC, BILIOUS FEVER, LIVER DERANGEMENTS, are so prevalent in their respective seasons.

The great cause of the prevalence of these diseases is that many have secreted in their system some

Putrid and Fatal Humor which is the source of all diseases, and many a young man and woman in the

BLOOM OF LIFE are wasting away whose faded cheeks and sunken eyes warn their friends of a speedy dissolution through the effects of some Acrid Humor preying upon the vitals, and many thousands die annually from the effects of these humors, who, if they but purify their blood with a few bottles of Medical Discovery would live to a ripe old age.

Another great cause of disease is Costiveness.

For this the Discovery is an infallible remedy, its action on the Liver, Kidneys and Bowels is all that you could desire.

For Scrofulous Ulcers you will follow the directions in pamphlet around the bottle.

For Ulcerated Sore Legs you will find full directions in the pamphlet. DIRECTIONS FOR USE.—Adults, one table spoonful per day; children over ten years, dessert spoonful; children from five to ten years, tea spoonful. As no directions can be applicable to all constitutions, take sufficient to operate on the bowels twice a day.

WE DO NOT HESITATE TO A SERT

WHAT ALL ARE BY RESULTS,

Compelled to Admit,

Viz: That in Dr Mann's Ague Balsam we have a perfectly triumphant remedy for chills fever and ague and all diseases arising from a diseased or inactive condition of the liver.

Indeed it will never fail, and the one who fails to use it at once will deeply regret the neglect. Reader you will never again shake or have fever that season if you take it as per directions, and continue until the system is perfectly restored; if this be done there will be no one who will suffer long from chills, fever and ague.

Bucyrus, Ohio, Feb. 25th 1858.

Dr. MANN & Co. Gallon, Ohio.—Gents: We are at a loss to find language sufficient to portray to the public the great esteem in which your Celebrated Ague Balsam is held in this community. The fact is it never fails to cure ague in its worst forms, and we can sell nothing else.

Yours, &c. HOLLOWAY & TAYLOR, Druggists, Corinth, Miss., Oct. 20th 1857.

Messrs. S. K. MANN & Co.—Gents: Having procured a supply of your Ague Balsam, and testing it thoroughly in many severe cases of long standing, where all the popular remedies of the day had failed, I found in all cases your Balsam effected a safe and speedy cure. It is just the medicine we want here in the south.

Respectfully Yours, JOSEPH BUCHANAN, Druggist, Gallon, May 9th 1858.

Messrs. S. K. MANN & Co. Gentlemen:—I would say for the benefit of those suffering with chills fever and ague, that I can confidently recommend your Ague Balsam to do what it is recommended to do, having used it myself, and in my family also; have known it used in many other cases, where it has universally proved effectual; leaving the patient soundly cured. I give this for the benefit of all whom it may concern.

Gallon, O., May, 1858. B. F. MATHIAS, St. Louis, Sept. 10th 1858.

Messrs. S. K. MANN & Co.—Gents:—After using several other preparations for fever and ague, and only getting partial relief, for the disease soon returned again on me, I took two bottles of your Balsam, and I have had neither chill nor fever since I took first dose. I believe it to be the only thing that will never fail, and hence I recommend it to others.

Yours Truly, J. G. WALSH, Alexandria, Mo., June, 1858.

Messrs. S. K. MANN & Co. Gentlemen:—Please send us 4 doz. of your Ague Balsam. It gives the best satisfaction of any ague preparation we have had in our place. The fact is, it never fails when properly taken.

DON'T

Come to town, at any time, without coming to see me before you home, for I am sure I can make it profitable to you, by selling you goods at just what they cost me in the city, by wholesale. You may think that I just say this to induce you to trade with me, but such is not the case. If you wish to be convinced, try me when you come, and I will be sure to send you with more goods for less money, than you can buy anywhere else—city stores not excepted.

WITHOUT

detaining you longer, I would say, that the reason I sell so cheap, is because I want to close out my entire stock, and settle up, and get money to buy another stock of which I shall sell strictly for cash, or saleable produce. I have determined to sell no more goods on credit!
