HON. STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

Why can there be no Speaker Elected?

We answer, because the Black Republicans persist in voting for Sherman, a man who has rendered himself offensive, not only to Southern men, but to the moral sentiment of the country, by endorsing and approving the contents of a book, and aiding its circulation, that directly advocates revolution, insurrection and bloodshed in order that slavery may be abolished. The Republicans have a larger number in Congress than any other party, but not a majority, and if they would act like reasonable men and true patriots, they could elect a Speaker any day. They have been informed time and again by the Democrats, that if they would drop Sherman and take up Tom Corwin, or some other of their numbers who did not endorse the Helper Book, that there would be no obstacle thrown in the way of the plurality rule, or some other practical mode of affecting an organization. As no party have a majority, we submit in all candor, if the Republicans do not manifest a factions spirit in assisting a man who must be offensive to a majority of the house, when they have others equally well qualified who are not so objectionable? We maintain that the fault of non-organization rests wholly with the Republican party. E.

Black Republican Bullies In Congress.

Mr. Haskins, of New York, and Mr. Hickman, of Pennsylvania, have taken it upon themselves to do the bullying for their Black Republican masters. In this labor of love they are likely to obtain an unenviable notoriety. Hickman has been permitted to indulge in his insolence to the Democratic members until forbearance is no longer a virtue. The other day Col. McClernand, the gallant member from the Springfield district, took occasion to rebuke this tool of Abolitionism in a way that will probably serve to check his overbearing and ungentlemanly deportment.

Bully Haskins got into an altercation the other day with Mr. Clark, of New York, a gentleman who seems to conduct himself with great decorum toward his brother members. A few sharp words between these members in the present state of feeling in the house, produced great excitement; whereupon the brave Haskins dropped his pistol upon the floor of the house. We think that when the Black Republicans arm their bullies they ought to select such as have nerve enough to hold a weapon. A pistol in the hands of a coward is as likely to wound friend as foe. Hickman and Haskins are pretended Democrats, and as they are desirous of securing the confidence of the Helperites, they have a deal of dirty work to do.

Rutherford & Co. have just received a large stock of fine calicoes, of the best quality which they will sell cheap. They sell as calicoes higher than 12 1/2 cts.

Who tore the window curtain?

10-14 John Brown.

At a prayer meeting held near Groton, in Connecticut, one of the 'Republican' brothers prayed with greatunction, for the peace of John Brown's soul. After he had finished, a brother from the other side of the house offered up his petition to the throne of Grace—that wars might cease, and that "words might be taken into piousness and peace into praying books, more especially, O Lord, those 1200 pikes manufactured by that traitor to his country, 10-14 John Brown."

Good.—Some years ago Mr. Kidwell was preaching to a large audience in a wild part of Illinois, and announced for his text: "In my father's house are many mansions." He had scarcely read the words when an old coon stood up and said: "I tell you folks, that's a lie! I know his father well. He lives fifteen miles from Lexington, in old Kentucky, in an old log cabin, and there ain't but one room in the house."

"Oh Jacob," said a master to his apprentice, "it is wonderful to see what a quantity you can eat!"

"Yes, sir," said the boy, "I have been practicing ever since I was a small child."

The Galled Jades Wing.

There has been a good deal of flustering in certain quarters over our article of the 12th inst., in regard to the Chicago Press and Tribune. In order to draw off attention from the pure doctrine of Abolitionism inculcated by that paper, they turn to misrepresenting our article. They charge us with dictating to the people what they should read, &c. Now the men who make that charge know they assert a falsehood; for we stated expressly, that we did not care how much they circulated their favorite paper. We only called attention to the fact that that paper published sermons glorifying old Brown, denounced the proper authorities for attempting to bring men to punishment who had rescued a fugitive slave from legal custody, and persistently misrepresented the Southern people in order to array sectional hostility. From these premises we predicated our opinion that it was an Abolition sheet. Knowing these things, they seek to break their force by misrepresenting us. In our article we expressly said that there were conservative men in the Republican party, and only denounced as Abolitionists, those who engage in the circulation of Abolition documents.

We repeat that there are Abolitionists in the Republican party of this county, who are seeking by the circulation of the Press and Tribune, to Abolitionize the conservative elements of the party. A man may subscribe for and read any paper he chooses without becoming responsible for its teachings, but where he uses every effort to extend its circulation, he should be held accountable for the doctrines it inculcates.—[E.]

Hon. James C. Robinson.

Our able member of Congress is conducting himself in a manner that is certain to win the approbation of his constituents. Amid the confusion that has necessarily prevailed during the protracted struggle for the election of Speaker, Mr. Robinson has pursued the even tenor of his way, and whilst he has uniformly voted with the Democracy, and taken part in every reasonable and proper effort to secure the organization of the house, in such a way as to defeat Sherman, the Abolitionist and endorser of the infamous Helper book, he has done nothing to kindle the fires of animosity in the house, or to divide and distract those who should be united in the perilous contest now pending between the Democracy and the sectional Black Republican party.

Neither has Mr. Robinson forgotten his constituents. We are under obligations to him for the Daily Congressional Globe and many other favors. We also learn that he has supplied every Democratic paper in the District with a copy of the Daily Globe. We have no doubt but the course of Messrs. McClernand, Logan and Fouke will also commend the approbation of their constituents. E.

The Democratic Committee.

Are requested to meet at the Court House in Sullivan, on Saturday, February the 4th next, to organize so as they will have the power to call other meetings as circumstances may require.

The Voice of Indiana.

A private letter from Laporte, Ind., to the Chicago "Times," dated Jan. 16th, concludes as follows: "Indiana has spoken at her late State Democratic convention in language too plain to be misunderstood, and we Douglas Democrats feel as Moses did when standing with the redeemed host of Israel on the eastern bank of the Red sea, 'The Lord has triumphed mightily, the horse and his rider has he drowned in the depth of the sea.' The low cunning, trickery of Bright, Fitch, Robinson & Co., have been met and vanquished, and they have been driven back to their dens of pollution, and the glorious banner of the Democracy now floats in the breeze, emblazoned upon its ample folds is the name of that mighty Democratic chieftain, STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS. Hurrah for Indiana. It is said that the last that was seen of Jesse D. Bright was on the night of the 11th inst., at about 12 o'clock, he was then standing on the steps of the capital, wrapped in his mantle, and singing to himself 'I feel like one who stands alone, Some banquet hall deserted; Whose lights are fled, whose garlands dead, And all but me departed.'"

Number One.

One hour lost in the morning by laying in bed will put back all the business of the day.

One hour gain by rising early is worth a month in a year.

One hole in a fence will cost ten times as much as it will to fix it at once.

One diseased sheep will spoil a flock.

One unruly animal will teach all others in company bad tricks.

One sinner destroyeth much good.

One drunkard will keep a family poor and make them miserable.

One wife that is always telling how fine her neighbor dresses and how little she can get, will look pleasant if she talks about something else.

One husband that is peevish or lazy, and deprives his family of necessary comforts such as their neighbors enjoy, is not as desirable a husband as he ought to be.

One good newspaper is one good thing in every family, and—

One who don't take a good paper and pay for it, is an unworthy citizen, and disregards the best interests of his family.

THE ORPHAN.

I have no mother, for she died
When I was very young,
But her memory still around my heart
Like morning mists has hung.

They tell me of an angel form
That watched me while I slept,
And of a soft and gentle hand
That wiped the tears I wept.

And the same hand that held my own,
When I began to walk,
And the joy that sparkled in her eyes,
When first I tried to talk.

They say the mother's heart is pleased,
When infant charms expand—
I wonder if she thinks of me,
In that bright, happy land.

For I know she is in heaven now,
That holy place of rest,
For she was always good to me,
And the good alone are blest.

I remember, too, when I was ill,
She kissed my burning brow,
And the tear that fell upon my cheek,
I think I feel it now.

And I have still some little books,
She learned me how to spell,
And the chiding, or the kiss she gave,
I still remember well.

And then she used to kneel with me
And teach me how to pray,
And raise my little hands to heaven,
And tell me what to say.

Oh, mother! mother! in my heart
Thy image still shall be,
And I will hope in heaven at last
That I may meet with thee.

The Schoolmaster's in that Bed.

A correspondent of the New York
Waverly gives the following as one of the many incidents that befall a boarding round schoolmaster.

I have been teaching in Mason county, in the Sucker State; and this term was "boarding round." One evening after school, one of my little scholars stepped up to me and he said—

"Mr. Jones, father said you must come home with me."

"Very well," and forthwith set out for my patron's house, which was distant some two miles. Now be it known James McHarry—for such was his name—had two daughters,
the pride and envy of the whole community. I had heard so much about them that I was naturally anxious to see them. It seemed, however, that I was disappointed. When we arrived
I learned that the "gals" had gone to a party on the other side of the creek, so I went to bed grumbling at the luck which deprived me of seeing them that night. The night had well advanced when I heard one of the girls come home, passing into the adjoining room and was warming before some coals, which were alive on the hearth. The old lady and gentleman slept in the same room, but I was not aware of it till then. Having warmed herself, she turned to leave the room when the old man spoke:

"Girls," said he, "the schoolmaster is in your bed."

"Very well," said Sarah, and passing through the room I slept in went up stairs. About an hour had elapsed when I heard Judy, the other one, come. She stood at the door a long time talking with her "feller," then entered softly. Disrobing her feet, she entered the room where I lay, in her stocking feet, carefully un-dressed herself, and coming to the bed prepared to get in. Now it happened I lay in the middle and turning back the clothes she gave me a shake and said in a suppressed whisper:

"Lay over, Sarah."

I rolled over and whipped the corner of the pillow in my mouth to keep from laughing. In she bounced, but the bed would squeak.

The old man heard it and called out—

"Judy?"

"Sir!" was responded in a faint tone in the bed beside me.

"The schoolmaster is sleeping in that bed."

With one loud yell, and "Oh heavens!" she landed on the floor and fled with the rapidity of a deer, up stairs.

She never heard the last of it I can tell you; but probably she learnt something about staying out so late a "sparking" and trying to slip in unknown to the old folks.

—The saying "Everything is lovely and the goose hangs high," has been elaborated to "All terrestrial things are developing their supreme attractions, and the feathered biped whose shrill vociferation prevented
the destruction of ancient Rome, maintains its extreme altitude in the walkin."

Money wanted at this Office!

NOTICE!

I wish every person who has been trading with me for the last two or three years, to come in and settle up to this time, paying all the money you can, then giving note for balance.
The reason that I insist upon this is that I shall leave here in three or four weeks to be gone perhaps two months.
By complying with this call you will confer a favor both upon yourselves
and your humble servant.

A. N. SMITH.

I want about twelve more
good men.
