

All persons who are in favor of the Constitution and the Union of the States as formed by our fathers, and who are opposed to sectionalism as inculcated by the Republican party of the North, and the Fire-eaters of the South, are requested to meet at the Moultrie County Academy, in Sullivan, on WEDNESDAY EVENING. FEB. STH, A. D. 1860, at 6 1-2 oc'l'k for the purpose of organizing a Dem-ocratic Club.

Pursuant to the above call, pub lished in the "Express," a large number of Democrats and other conservative men assembled at the M. C. Academy, to form a Democratic Club.

On motion of A. B. Lee, B. W Henry was called to the chair, and A. N. Smyser appointed secretary.

Upon taking the chair, Mr. Henry addressed the meeting in a very felicitous and appropriate manner, explaining the objects of the meeting, and the necessity and propriety of united action of all conservative men opposed to the sectional tendencies of Abolitionism.

On motion to enroll names, sixtysix names were enrolled as members of the Club.

On motion of Jno. Perryman,

Resolved, That any person may become a member by giving his name to any member who shall have it enrolled upon the list.

On motion of A. B. Lee, the chair appointed a committee of five to draft a constitution, to be submitted to the Club at its next meeting. The chair appointed J. R. Eden, A. B. Lee, Dennis Coakley, John Perryman, E. D. Cleveland, as committee.

On motion of Dr. Kellar, a committee of three, consisting of Arnold Thomason, H F Vadakin and David Washington, Feb. 10. House.-Mr Reagan was appointed a member of the committee on indian affairs, in place of Farnsworth, excused.

Mr Thomas was appointed member of the committee on revolutionary pensions, in place of Reagan, excused.

Mr Hindman was appointed member of the committee on private land claims, in place of Hamilton, excused. Mr Morse offered a resolution which lies over, calling on the president to communicate copies of all communications which have been re ceived from the British government, and other officers, on the subject of the African slave trade, since February 1858, and copies of all the correspondence between the British and United States governments, on the subject of the slave trade.

On motion of Mr Morse, the committee on commerce were directed to inquire into the expediency of prohibition by law of all American ves sels engaged in the Coolie trade, or for transporting apprentices to the West Indies or other parts of the world.

The speaker laid before the house a copy of the State constitution, recently adopted at Wyandot, as preliminary to the admission of Kansas into the Union.

Mr Morse introduced a resolution that the several standing committees who were authorized to employ clerks at the last session of congress, be now authorized to do so with the addition of the committees on accounts and

THE WAY TO KEEP HIM.

BY MARY E. CLARKE.

'Out again to-night?' said Mrs. Hays, fretfully, as her husband rose from tea-table, and donned his great coat.

'Yes, I have an engagement with Moore; I shall be in early, have a light in the library. Good night,' and, with a careless nod, William Hayes left the room.

'Always the way,' murmured Lizzie Hayes, sinking back upon a sofa, out every night. I don't believe he cares one bit about me, now; and yet we've been married only two years. No man can have a more orderly house, I am sure; and I never go anywhere, I am not a bit extravagant, and yet I don't believe he loves me me any more. Oh ! dear, why is this? I wasn't rich, he didn't marry me for money, and he must have loved me then-why does he treat me with so much neglect ?' and with her mind filled with such fretful queries, Lizzie Hayes fell asleep upon the

Let me paint her picture as she lay there. She was a blonde, with a small, graceful figure, and a very pretty face. The hair, which showed by its rich waves its natural tendency to curl, was brushed smoothly back, and gathered into a rich knot at the back; 'It was such a bother to curl it,' she said ; her cheek was pale, and the whole face wore a discontented expression. Her dress was a neat chintz wrapper, but she wore neither collar nor sleeves: 'What's the use of dressing up just for William? Lizzie slept soundly for two hours, there must be a guest, but, glancing around, he found they were alone. 'Come, William, your coffee will be stone cold,' said Lizzie, in a cherry, pleasant voice.

'It must cool till you weeten my breakfast with a kiss," said her husband, crossing the room to her side; and Lizzie's heart bounded, a she recognized the old lover's tone and manners.

Not one fretful speech, not one the piano. complaint, fell upon William's ear through the meal. The newspaper, his usual solace at that honr, lay untouched, as Lizzie chatted gayly on every pleasant subject she could think of, warming by his gratified interest and cordial manner.

'You will be home to dinner ?' she said, as he went out.

'Can't to-day, Lizzie, I have business out of town, but I'll be home early to tea. Have something substantial, for I don't expect to dine. Good-bye,' and the smiling look, warm kiss, and lively whistle, were a marked contrast to his lounging, careless gait, the previous evening. 'I am in the right path,' said Lizzie, in a low whisper. 'Oh ! what a fool I have been for two years! A never say that again.'

Linnie loved her hurband with rea wifely devotion, and her lip would quiver as she thought of his confidence to his friend Moore; but like a brave little woman she stifled back the bitter feeling, and tripped off to perfect her plans. The grand piano, silent for months, was opened, and Miss Smith,' said Lizzie half pouting. But you always say you are out of practice when I ask you.'

'I had the piano tuned this morn ing. Now, open it, and we will se how it sounds.'

William obeyed joyfully, and, tossing aside her sewing, Lizzie took the piano-stool. She had a very sweet voice, not powerful, but most musical, and was a very fair performer on Ballads, Lizzie ?

One song after another, with a nocture, or lively instrumental piece occasionally, between them, filled up another hour pleasantly.

The little mantle clock struck eleven!

'Eleven ! I thought it was about nine. I ought to apologize, Lizzie, as I used to do, for staying so long; and I can truly say, as I did then, that the time has passed so pleasant. that the time has passed so pleasantly, I can scarcely believe it is so late.' The piano was closed, Lizzie's work put in the basket, and William to each other. was ready to go up stairs ; but glancing back, he saw his little wife near the fire.place, her hand clasped, her 'fretful dowdy!' Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 22, 1848. In Coles county there lived a man amed Isaac Dudson, and his wife, who were both firm believers in the prophecy of Father Miller, and, not doubting for a moment the correctness of their prophet's calculations, they set about making active preparations for the eventful day that was to termi-nate the existence of all sublunary things. After having 'set their house took place :

meeting be considered members of the Club.

J. R. Eden being calied, addressed the meeting in a very able speech of about an hour's length, showing, beyond controversy, the corrupt tendencies of sectional parties.

Resolved, That the proceedings of each meeting be published in the Sullivan Express.

territories. The resolution was resisted on the Democratic side.

Mr Houston said there was no present necessity for clerks. He moved to table the resolution. Negatived. Mr Burnett said they could be of no use except as private secretaries to the chairman.

Mr Maynard said the committees were thus to be provided for.

Complaints were made that clerks were appointed when there was nothing for them to do.

The Democrats continued to oppose the resolution by dilatory motions, without disposing of it. The house resolved itself into com mittee of the whole on the state of the Union, Washburn, of Ill., in the chair.

Mr Sherman offered a series of resolutions, retering the vorious branches of the president's message to the appropriate standing committees, and the Pacific railroad question to select committee of eighteen.

The library was just over the room in which she sat, and down the furnace flue, through the registers, a voice came to the young wife's ears :

it was her husband's.

'Well, Moore, what's a man to do? I was disappointed, and I must have pleasure somewhere. Who would have fancied that Lizzie Jarvis, so pretty, sprightly, and loving, could

After tea, there was no movement, as usual, toward the hat-rack. William stood up beside the table, lingering, chatting, till Lizzie also rose .---She led him to the light warm parlor, in its pretty glow of tasteful arrangement, and drew him down beside her on the sofa. The Presidency.

Events seem now to be rapidly taking shape. A nebulous chaos of preferences among candidates, obeying the great law of gravitation, is forming itself into a system, which acknowledges a central ann with subordinated bodies moving round and kept in place by it. The popular choice of the Democratic party is almost as wellpronounced now as it can be next April. He who does not see the handwriting which proclaims DougLAS as that choice, must be sadly wanting in discernment. Certain it is, that if that writing is not read by those whom it chiefly concerns, "chaos will come a-gain," for a party cursed by the rule of misleaders so blind as not to know what their party's hope of salvation requires

As with the Democratic party, so with the opposition to it. The incan-tation of the name of Bates, though tation of the name of Bates, though intended by many who conjured with it to answer a different purpose, has brought up a spirit which no charm of theirs can lay. If the Democrats can beat Bates, it is with Donglas they can do it.
