'Godfrey, old boy,' said Henry Claton, as he tilted back his chair and put his feet upon the mantle-piece,-"when is the wedding to be?" 'Whose wedding?'

a large fortune, need not be over bashful. Come, be frank, which is the favorite sister?'

'Well, frankly, then, I cannot tell you. I have visited the family for several months, as you know, but I cannot decide. Laura is certainly the handsomest, with her flashing eyes and queenly manner; but Jenny seems although the youngest, to be the most womanly and useful of the two. Yet I cannot be sure of that. My entrance is the signal for cordial welcome and smiles, and, let me call at whatever hour I will, they are always well dressed and apparently disengaged. To be sure I always, in the morning, have to wait some time before Laura is vis-

Well, let me know the result. Laura and Jenny Somers were the 5,000 BUSHELS OF CORN, Laura and Jenny Somers were the only children of a widower, who, although in noderate circumstances, moved in very fashionable society .-At the period of my short sketch, he was about to supply the lamented Mrs. Somers' place, after nearly ten years' mourning, and although a kind, indul gent parent, had no objection to his daughters' marriage, and, indeed, had told them so. Laura, whose high spirit resented the probable supremacy of a step-mother, had already selected Godfrey Horton as her future husband ; and Jenny, who was younger and gentler in spirit, tried to conquer a carefully concealed preference for the same purpose. All his attentions were ascribed by her to a brotherly regard, although every act of kindness or courtesy touched her very heart. It was the morning after a large ball, and the sisters were in the break fast room together. Laura, her glossy black hair pushed negligently off her face, with the rough tumbled braids of last evening's elaborate coiffure gathered loosely into a comb ; wearing a soiled wrapper, torn stockings, and presenting rather an alarming contrast to the brilliant ball-room belle, was lounging on a sofa. Jenny, in a neat morning dress, with a large gingham apron, little white collar, and hair smoothly brashed into a neat knot, come." was washing the breakfast dishes. 'I have a bunch of blue flowers. here,' he said, taking them from the basket, 'that will just suit your golden hair, Miss,' and he held them before Jenny.

'It was my sister who wished to look at your flowers,' said Jonny, onietly:

'Yes, bring them here,' was Laura's imperious command.

The old man's eyes followed Jenny, as she washed wiped and put away the dishes, and swept the room and dusted it, and then sat down beside Laura who was still looking over the basket. 'See, Jenny, this scarlet bunch .-

Will it not be lovely with a few dark leaves to wear with my new silk?" 'But,' whispered Jenny, 'you cannot

The old peddler looked earnestly at the sisters. 'You had better take this blue bunch Miss,' he said to Jenny. 'If it aint said the peddler. 'I shall be happy to put the Misses Somers on my list of publicans may have had of carrying sustomers."

'Yes, call again.'

So the peddler took up his basket, walked home, threw aside his wig, beard, and disguise, and wrote an offor of his hand and heart to Miss Virginia Somers, which was accepted. Laura Somers has two sources of profound speculation : One is, 'why did Godfrey Horton propose to Jenny instead of me?" The other, 'I wonder why that old man never called to be paid for those exquisite flowers ?" Frenks of Fortune—An Aristo-cratic Organ-Grinder.

It is a fact, beyond all speculation, that the loss of either New York or Pennsylvania to Lincoln, should he carry all the other Northern States, will deteat his election. In view of the above facts and the

ANNOUNCEMENT

We are authorized to aunounce the nam of WILLIAM MENEFEE as a candidate for Sheriff, at the November election, subject to the Democratic County Convention.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

Resolved, That we, the Democracy the Democratic Convention in Cincin-nati, in the year 1856, believing that Democratic principles are unchange-able in their nature, when applied to the same subject matters; and we recommend as the only further resolutions, vention, but all he could make out isfaction to see it adop intification at REDENIGATE Sullivan. Our Republican friends held tification meeting at this place last Thursday, which, in point of numbers was very respectable; and, n point of enthusiasm, was m cold. There were nearly twelve hundred persons, including women and children, in the procession, and we think there were about eight hundred people in town not in procession; and about three fourths of the entire crowd were not voters. About one-third of the voters present were Democrats, who came to see the show, and bear what the great Trumbull had to say.

Extraordinary efforts were made by our Republican friends to get out a crowd, and, by going into Shelby, Bonglas and Coles counties, as well as Moultrie, they succeeded very well. So far as we know everything went off orderly and to the satisfaction of everybody concerned, with the exception of Trumbull's speech, which e think most persons looked upon is being beneath the dignity of a United States Senator; and as lacking all those elements which mark the mind of a Statesman. Instead of taking hold of the great issues of the day, and showing to the people how the country could be extricated from its present peril, with two formidable and opposing sectional par ties, marching up toward Mason's & Dixon's Line, each proclaiming the doctrine of the 'irrepressible conflict' against the other, he fell to quibbling about the President appointing Governors and Judges for the Territories, and about some improper vetoes by Territorial Governors; and, because of these things, he cried out that Douglas was opposed to non-intervention and popular sovereignty !---Now, the veriest fool knows that neither the Governor or Judges can make a law, but that the Territorial Legislature can; and can and have done so, even over the veto of the Governor,-the same as they do in the States,-and hence they do have popular sovereignty in the Territories. If Trumbull wants the people of the Territories to elect their Governors, why don't he offer to amend the Territorial bills, by giving them the right? Has he ever done it ?-No! He is in favor of the high fed-

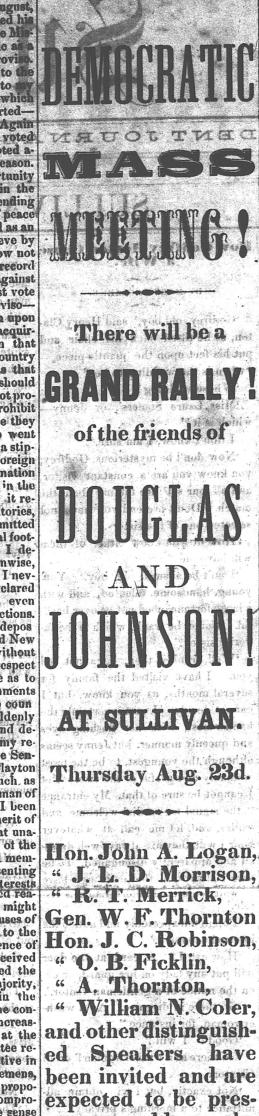

Resolved, That we, the Democracy of the Union, in Convention assembled, hereby declare our affirmance of the resolutions unanimously adopted and declared as a platform of principles by the Democratic Convention in Cincin-nati, in the year 1856, believing that doctrine far enough, let him try us m good faith, and see if we don't come to time. Trumbull also at-tempted to convict Mr. Douglas of various inconsistencies from 1845 to 1850, the whole of which was a mere quibble,—but we give, in another columns an extract from a speech of Senator Douglas, dehvered in 1851, which explains all these matters much better fhan we can. But Trumbull's malice against the Democratic party, 'of which he was once a member, and which he left tecause the party would not give him a seat in Congress, led him to andulge in language toward that party which we think does not meet party which we think does not meet the approval of the better portion of ful execution of the Fugitive Slave Law, are hostile in character, subver-sive of the Constitution, and revolu-tionary in their effect. Resolved, That it is in accordance to pirates—said that they (the Demto pirates—said that they (the Dem-ocratic party) are organized upon the same principle of a band of horsethieves, seeking to plunder the Treas ury and divide the spoilst This of that was, that the Democracy-gave it as their opinion that the decisions of the Supreme Court ought to be respected, and their decrees enforced. This may be a great crime in Mr. Trumbull's eye, but we think the people will look upon it as a merit. No one knows better than Trumbull, that the Democracy are pledged to Non-intervention, and that the decisions of the Supreme Court can, in nowise, change their political conduct. Whatever laws the people of the Territories want to make about slavery they can make. It any one sees fit to test the validity of any of such laws before the courts, they have a right to do it, and no political party can lawfully prevent it. The decree of the court will, in no way, change the policy of the Democratic party. Congress is no! to interfere by legislation. The people of the Territory are still to regulate their domestic institutions in their own way, subject only to the Constitution of the United States. And there is no more danger of the establishment of slavery in any Territory where the people do not want it, than there is that the people of Illinois will set up and establish by law the worship of idols in this State.

Douglas' Speech in 1851. The following is an extract from speech of Judge Douglas, delivered in the Senate of the United States, December 23d, 1851, explanatory of his action upon the Missouri Com-Lromise and the Wilmot Proviso:

Mr. President, while I am engaged in the work of self-defence, I will refer to one other point. I have recently seen it stated in several papers that at some time, and on some occasion, I had been the advocate and supporter of the Wilmot proviso. This charge, upon investigation, will be found to be as unjust and unfounded as that in regard to the fugitive law. In order to put the question to rest and beyond dispute forever, I will take a brief review of my course on the whole slave tinctly the principles by which my ac-tion upon the subject has always been governed. It is no part of my purpose on the present occasion to vindicate the correctness of my views and principles, but simply to show what they are, and what my official acts have been, in order that the public may judge for themselves. I have always opposed the introduction of the sub-ject of slavery into the halls of Congress for any purpose-either for dis-cussion or action-except in the cases specified and enjoined by the Constitution of the United States, as in the eral doctrine, that the people of a case of the reclamation of fugitives out I due concerve it to be of vast in portance in view of the probable ac-quisition of New Mexico and Califor nia. My preference for the Missouri Compromise was predicted on the as-sumption that the whole people of the United States would be more easily other mode of adjustment; and this assumption rested upon the fact that, the Missouri Compromise had been the means of an anicable settlement of a the Missouri Compromise and been the means of an anicable settlement of a fearful controversy in 1821, which had been acquiesced in cheerfully and cor-dially by the people for more than a quarter of a century, and which all parties and sections of the Union pro-fessed to respect and cherish as a fair, just, and honorable adjustment. I could discover no reason for amlicainst, and honorable adjustment. If could discover no reason for applica-tion of the Missouri line to all the ter-ntory owned by the United States in 1821 that would not apply with equal forme to the extension to the Bio Grande and also to the Pacific ao soon as we should acquire the country. In accordance with these views, T brought for word the Missouri Comby Congress. brought st the Cympre ferico m uently, after the Augus 1846. Mr. Wilmot fir ed to DFOR he to OP ific a the l imot DFOVI e for into voted n the prov vote, I voted against the bill I would otherwise have supported-Acan in 1847, when the pro into the three-million bill, I voted a gainst the bill for the same reason. The next time I had the opportunity of voting on the proviso was in the spring of 1848, in the Senate, pending the ratification of the treaty of peace with Mexico, when it was offered as an amendment to the treaty, I believe by a Senator from Connecticut, now no a member of this body. The record shows that I here again voted against the proviso. This was the last vote ever taken on the Wilmot provisothe last that ever could be taken upon it as applicable to the country acquir-ed from Mexico, for the reason that by this treaty we acquired the country without any such condition as that proposed by Mr. Wilmot. It should be borne in mind that the Wilmot provise not only proposed to prohibit slavery in the Territories while they remained Territories, but also went further, and proposed to insert a stipulation in the treaty with a foreign power pledging the faith of the nation that slavery should rever exist in the country acquired, either while it remained in the condition of Territories or after it should have been admitted into the Union as States on epual foot ing with the original States. I de nounced this proviso as being unwise improper, and unconstitutional; I nev er voted for it, and publicly declared that I never would vote for it, even under the pressure of instructions. The Wilmot proviso being thus depos ed of forever, and California and New Mexico having been acquired without any condition or stipulation in respect to slavery, the question arose as to what kind of territorial governments should be established for those coun tries. A domestic affliction suddenly called me from the capital, and de-tained me several weeks. On my return I found pending before the Senate the measure known as the Clayton bill. Its provisions were not such as I would have proposed as chairman of the Territorial Committee had I been esent. Yet it had the high merit of having been reported with great una nimity by a special committee of the most emment and distinguished members of the Senate, fairly representing all the different sections and interests sons for the hope that the bill might receive the sanction of both Houses of Congress, and thus put an end to the controversy. Under the influence of these considerations, the bill received my cordial support, and passed the Senate by an overwhelming majority, but was promptly rejected in the House of Representatives. The con roversy being reopened with increas ed violence, and my position at the head of the Territorial Committee requiring me to take the initiative in ome plan of fair and just settlemens, I brought forward my original propo-sition to extend the Missouri Compromise to the Pacific in the same sense and with the same understanding with ent to address the which it was originally adopted. This which it was originally adopted. This proposition met the approbation of the Senate, and passed this body by a large majority, but was instantly re-jected in the House of Representatives by a still larger majority. The day of adjournment having arrived, no further efforts were made to adjust the dificulty during that easien. At the further efforts were made to adjust the difficulty during that session. At the opening of the next session, upon con-sultation with the friends of the meag-ure, it was generally conceded—with, perhaps, here and there an individual exception—that there was no hope left for the Missouri Compromise, and con-sequently some other plan of adjust-ment must be devised. I was reluc-tant to give up the Missouri Compro-mise, having been the first to bring it forward, and having struggled for it in both houses of Congress for about five years. But public duty demand-ed that all considerations of pride of character and of opinion should be made subservient to the public peace and tranquility. I gave it up—reluc-tantly, to be sure—aud concerved the tantly, to be sure-and conceived the idea of a bill to admit California as a State, leaving the people to form a constitution and settle the question of slavery afterwards to suit themselves, I submitted this bill to the then Pres-ident of the United States, (Mr. Polk,) and have the satisfaction of stating that it received his sanction, and was introduced by me with his approbation. The great argument in favor of this bill was, that it recognized the right of the same to determine the same the right bill was, that it recognized the right of the people to determine all questions relating to their domestic concerns in their own way, and authorized them to do see naminumented by executive dictation, or by the apprehension that, nules they decided the slavery ques-tion in a particular way, their applica-tion for adminision would be rejected by Concyras

The Prince of Wales. New York, August 4. Consul Archibald has called a meet ing of British residents for Monday evening next, to adopt measures for a welcome to the Prince of Wales on his visit to New York. A special dispatch to the "Times" from St. John's, says the Prince drove to his temporary residence between files of men extending a mile, composed of military, fire companies, societies, both honses of Parliament, &c. Af. ter he had passed, both ranks formed a procession, with banners flying, while the bells of the city were ringing. Inside of the gates were two THE DEMOGRACI thousand school children, the girls in white, and the boys in black, who ang the National Anthem and Of the Cetral Counstrewed boquets on the roadway.-All the time the streets were crammed. The shops were closed and the shipping dressed with flags.

Formalities are being gradually discontinued, and at Windsor the Prince dined at the same table with the members of Parliament and the Press, who accompanied hum.

It has been determined that the whole West India squadron, now at Halifax, shall go to Quebec and to Montreal.

The Prince in the afternoon crossed the Harbor in a ferry boat, and returned by the Suspension Bridge over the Falls of St. John. The members of the Government, several members of the Legislature, the Mayors of Halifax, Boston, &c., dined with him this evening.

"""Hickory" Club Meeting.

According to previous notice the members of the "Ilickory," and oth ers, filled the court-house in Sullivan Eden.

On motion, J. II. Waggoner was elected Secretary, to act in the absence of Judge Coakley, the regular Secretary of the Club.

Upon suggestion, the Secretary proceeded to take the names of persons desirous of becoming members of the Club, which resulted in the addition of the names of sixteen more sovereigns to the already large list.

After the taking of names, J. R. Eden, our candidate for the Legislature, being loudly called for, came style, entertained the audience in a telling speech of more than an hour's length. He handled the speech delivered by Trumbull last Thursday, in a most masterly manner, showing up the talseness of his ([frumbull's) positions and statements against the Democratic party. It was decidedly the ablest speech that has been made in Sullivan this campaign. At the close of his speech, three ronsing cheers were given for J. R. EDEN, whom the Democracy intend to send to Springfield to assist in putting an end to the corrupt political life of Lyman Trumbull.

Bucyrus, Ohio, Feb. 2 th 188 Dr. MANN & Co., Galion, Ohio—Gents: We are at a loss to find language sufficient to por-tray to the public the great esteem in which your Celebrated Ague Balsam is held in this community. The fact is it never fails to cure ague in its worst forms, and we can sell noth-ing else. Yours, &c., Holosenr & Tavlon, Druggists. Corinth, Miss., oct. 20th 187. Messre, S. K. Mann & Co. - Gents: Having procured a supply of your Ague Balsam, and testing it thoroughly in many severe cases of long standing, where all the popular remedies of the day had failed. I found in all cases your Balsam effected a safe and speedy care. It is just the medicine we want here in the south. Respectfully Yours, Joseph Buchavan, Druggist. Galion, May 9th 188 Messrs, S. K. MANN & Co.

Gentlemen:---I would say for the benefit of these suffering with chills fever and ague, that I can confidently recommend your Ague Balsam to do what it is recommended to do, having usto do what it is recommended to do, having us-ed it myself, and in my family also; have known it used in many other cases, where it has uni-versally proved effectual; leaving the patient soundly cured. I give this for the benefit of all whom it may concern. Gallon, O., May, 1856. B. F. Marmas, St. Louis, Sept. 10th 188.
