TOWNSHIP HIGH SCHOOL AGRICULTURE INSTRUCTOR NOW HERE ON THE JOB

The Sullivan Township High School will offer a course in vocational agriculture to its students next term. This action is the result of the interests of the Board of Education of the High School and of the community. Mr. G. H. Iftner has been secured to have charge of the new department which follows the requirements as outlined by the Smith Hughes Act of Congress.

Two courses, "Animal Husbandry" and "Soils and Crops" will be offered the first year. The courses are vocational in nature. The students pursuing either course are expected to carry to completion some major farm operation under the supervision of the Agricultural teacher.

Thirty-five boys have registered in the work. It is anticipated that many of the Freshmen will wish to take the work when they register at the beginning of school.

Mr. Iftner has located at 1508 Jackson street in the city. During the month of August he will visit the homes of the boys who have registered in Agriculture. All boys who are entering Sullivan Township High School for the first time and who are interested in Agriculture, are urged to write to either R. G. Brown, superintendent of the S. T. H. S. or Mr. Iftner at Sullivan. This is important in order that it may be known how many boys will take the work, and preparations can be made accordingly.

GRAVEN FAMILY HOLDS 6TH REUNION IN GROVE AT W. W. GRAVEN HOME

The sixth annual Graven family reunion was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Graven, southeast of this city.

Ninety-eight were present. In the roll call, two who have attended in past years did not respond as they have gone to the Great Beyond. They are Thomas Graven of Findlay and his sister Mrs. Lola Gaston of near Windsor. Both were children of Charles Graven.

There have been three newcomers in the family circle as follows: a son to Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Graven; a son to Mr. and Mrs. Will Sentel and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Graven.

At Sunday's reunion a talk was made by Elder Riley Ridgway and others present. Roy B. Martin was elected chairman for the ensuing year and T. A. Graven was chosen secretary. W. W. Graven was named treasurer. It was decided to have next year's reunion at the W. W. Graven home on the fourth Sunday in July.

First Tests Well Taps Large Gravel Filled Reservoir

Indications Are That Tests Will Bear Out Engineer's Contention Relative to Pre-glacial Valley Water Supply South of this City.

The Layne-Bowler drilling outfit which is putting down test wells for the city in an effort to locate a water supply has secured good results in their work thus far.

On Wednesday night the first hole which is being drilled on the McLaughlin farm had reached a depth of 107 feet. Thirty-nine feet of this was through clean water bearing gravel. There was no indication that the bottom of the gravel deposit was anywhere in sight.

When the drill struck the gravel at a depth of 68 feet, plenty of water was encountered and the whole gravel bed is filled with it.

City officials stated Thursday that two more holes will be drilled, one southwest of the present one and one nearer the city on the Clyde Patterson farm. These locations may be changed at the option of the engineer Mr. Warren, of Decatur, who is directing the work.

Those in charge of the work are very optimistic and feel that an inexhaustible underground water reservoir has been tapped.

J. H. IRELAND AGAIN PLANNING TO ERECT MODERN THEATRE HERE

J. H. Ireland of Decatur was in this city Tuesday. While here he called on friends and discussed with them a new theatre proposition.

Before moving to Decatur Mr. Ireland was for a time inclined to begin the erection of a new theatre but other business interests caused him to drop the project at that time.

He is in possession of plans and blue prints which he had secured at that time. The proposed site for the new theatre then was on the East side of the Square on the lots where the buildings had been destroyed by fire.

Mr. Ireland seems inclined to take up now his building project where he left off at that time. He feels convinced that Sullivan can and will support a modern theatre, adapted for pictures and also for stage productions.

The theatre he proposes to erect, if he does decide to go ahead with the matter, will be modern in every respect and with a seating capacity sufficient for this community.

He is an experienced theatre man and devoted 16 years of his life to that business in Sullivan.

Since he left Sullivan many theatre propositions have been talked about but no definite steps have been taken looking toward actual building operations.

With prospects for the future of Sullivan growing brighter from day to day, investments in this community in a business way looks like a good proposition.

William J. Bryan Died Unexpectedly Sunday Afternoon

Great Commoner Passed Away While Taking Nap at Dayton, Tenn. One of America's Greatest Statesmen And Democratic Leader.

William Jennings Bryan, three times candidate for president on the Democratic ticket, died Sunday afternoon while taking a nap, in Dayton, Tennessee.

He had been in apparently excellent health and spirits and had partaken of a big dinner. He proceeded to take his afternoon nap and when he did not arise within a reasonable time Mrs. Bryan sent his chauffeur to awaken him. He was found to be dead.

He was preparing to leave the Tennessee University city where he had been a central figure in the famous evolution trial. He appeared in behalf of the state which was prosecuting a teacher named Scopes, for teaching Darwin's doctrine of the evolution of man, contrary to a law passed last year by the Tennessee Legislature, prohibiting such teaching.

Mr. Bryan was perhaps the best known citizen of the United States. As an orator he was without a peer. He was the idol politically of millions of people. Politics and religion were his life's work. In the latter he urged complete acceptance of the Bible as opposed to any theories advanced by Darwin or scientists. In this behalf he staged a great battle at Dayton, his opposing counsel being Clarence Darrow.

Many people in Sullivan have seen and heard Mr. Bryan. His last appearance here was on September 8, 1921 when he was the stellar attraction at the annual Chautauqua.

Elsewhere in this issue appears a picture of Mr. Bryan taken by the writer at that time. This picture was taken at Woodbine where a number of Sullivan folks had gone to escort the distinguished guest to this city.

Mr. Bryan was a native of Illinois, having been born at Salem, March 19, 1860. At the time of his death he was past 65 years of age. He graduated from Illinois College at Jacksonville. In 1884 he was united in marriage with an Illinois girl, Mary Blair of Perry. Three years later he moved to Lincoln, Nebraska which was his place of residence during the most active period of his life.

In 1890 he was elected to Congress from a strongly Republican Nebraska district. He remained in public life and became a thorough student of politics.

In 1896 with his famous "Cross of Gold" speech in Chicago, he won for himself the Democratic nomination for the presidency. He was defeated by William McKinley. During the Spanish-American war which followed he raised a regiment of volunteers and served as its colonel during the war.

In 1900 he again ran for the presidency against McKinley and was again defeated. In 1904 he was not a candidate for the presidency. Alton B. Parker was Democracy's standard bearer at that time and was defeated by Theodore Roosevelt.

In 1906 he made a tour of the world and was shown great honor wherever he went. His home-coming at New York was a great event and resulted in launching another presidential boom for him. In 1908 his aspirations for the presidency was thwarted by the election of William Howard Taft.

At the Baltimore convention in 1911 he was instrumental in securing the nomination of Woodrow Wilson and aided materially in his election. President Wilson made him secretary of state and he served two years. The on-coming cloud of war caused a rupture between the two chieftains, as Mr. Bryan was opposed to war and was a persistent advocate and worker for world peace.

At the 1916 and 1920 national Democratic conventions Mr. Bryan was a conspicuous figure, battling for those things which he wanted embodied in his party's platform. In some of his efforts he was successful.

He was an ardent advocate of national prohibition.

Many of the things he advocated in his presidential campaigns have since been enacted into law. Other issues have become obsolete with the lapse of time.

He never found himself hampered for lack of some issue to bring before the people. In this respect he was a great educator. Millions heard him and perhaps all did not believe with him but he did set them to thinking.

Within the past few years his greatest activities were centered on religious matters. He believed the Bible word for word and fought those who would foster doctrines which he considered contrary to Bible teaching.

WANTS A DIVORCE FROM CLAUDE SMITH

Mrs. Hazel Smith has filed suit to divorce Claude (Whistle) Smith to whom she was married April 18, 1924 in this city. In her bill she states that after the marriage her husband furnished a home but not being able to pay installments on the furniture it was taken away from them. He did not attempt to provide a home for her after that but proved so lazy and shiftless that she was compelled to leave him in November 15th of last year and seek work for her support. She also charges him with adultery and other misdemeanors. This Spring, so the bill alleges, he left this city to evade paying numerous debts which he had contracted.

She asks that her martial bonds be severed and that the court grant her the right to use the name of Hazel Behen, hers by a former marriage. She has two children from this former marriage. This was Smith's second marriage, his first wife having also secured a divorce.

At least two hundred are expected to attend. All ex-service men, whether members of the Legion or not are invited.

An interesting program has been arranged for the meeting the main object of which, however, is to make plans for the state convention which will be held some time the latter part of August at Quincy.

Col. Savage, state commander, will be here Sunday to make the main address.

All who expect to be present for the dinner are requested to notify Roy Fitzgerald, commander of the local Post. Business men are asked to put out their flags for the day.

Y. P. CONFERENCE TUESDAY WELL ATTENDED; GOOD PROGRAM ENJOYED BY ALL

Tuesday the young people of Moultrie County Sunday School Association, held their annual Y. P. conference. The meeting was held in the Christian church of Sullivan and was more largely attended than any of the previous conferences.

The young people and Y. P. workers were registered upon arrival at the place of meeting.

The program numbers were of special interest. The song service of the morning and afternoon sessions were very ably lead by Miss Gladys Crowder who put to a good use many things which she learned at the State Convention. The special musical numbers were especially good. Rev. Earl Clark, Rev. Oborn, Rev. D. A. MacLeod, Miss Etha Lindsay and Mrs. Edith G. Mayes were the speakers of the day.

At noon the conference adjourned to the park and there partook of a basket dinner.

Unexpected developments necessitated holding the afternoon session at the church instead of at the park as it was planned.

At 5:30 the delegates were entertained at a fine banquet. Gloyd Rose acted as toastmaster. Misses Helen Kern and Miss Gladys Crowder led the yells and songs. Each town represented gave a yell, song or stunt at the banquet table.

The evening session was open to the public. This meeting was conducted as follows:

Organ voluntary—Gloyd M. Rose. Doxology—Congregation. Songs—Congregation. Scripture Reading—Miss Olive Elder.

Vocal Solo—Miss Maxine Wright. Pipe Organ Solo—Gloyd Rose. Evening Message—Rev. D. A. MacLeod. Friendship Circle.

WHAT DOES THE FUTURE OF SULLIVAN MEAN TO YOU?

What place will the small city occupy in the future of this nation? By small city we mean places like Sullivan.

Will their population dwindle away, their merchants hunt better fields? Will trade seek the bigger cities and will social activities also center there?

We believe not. We feel firmly convinced that there is a future for cities like Sullivan but that future depends entirely upon the attitude of the people who live and have their interests in such cities.

If the people lose heart and look at the future with pessimistic forebodings, the city and its prospects will be harmed seriously. People will leave it; merchants will desert it; grass will grow in its main streets and eventually, about 50 years from now the farmers will cultivate corn where the city now stands.

This is not likely to happen in a county seat city such as ours. County seat cities will continue to exist, and they will flourish if the people want it so.

Why should anybody want to live in the bigger cities? Life there is more artificial. It is all a rush and bustle, a chasing after the dollar. There are not the pleasant social relations found in the smaller cities. People with ordinary ability and intellect are but minnows in an ocean when they live in and mingle with the thousands or millions of the big city. The same type of people are often rather big fish in their home town puddle.

We firmly believe that there is a bright future for Sullivan. There is said to be a nation-wide trend toward the smaller cities. If the smaller cities can supply to their residents most of those things that the big cities have to offer, they will grow.

What are these essential things?

First of all opportunity to earn a living. This is all-important. This implies that a city must secure factories and other industries in which people can secure employment and earn salaries commensurate with present day living standards. It will be an inducement for the young people to remain here and to plan their life and future here. It will also be an inducement for others to move here and make this city their home.

Second in importance are living conditions. People have passed the stage where they are satisfied with any sort of existence. They want modern conveniences. They want water. They want sewers. They want good electric service. They want good schools. They want good churches. They want good streets, good sidewalks, good theatres, good stores.

Third we may place the matter of pleasure. People want placed at their disposal those things that tend to make life pleasant socially. In this respect they want parks, lakes to swim in, social clubs, chautauquas, lyceum courses, ball games, country clubs, lodges, public celebrations and everything that tends toward recreation and to make life's pathway brighter and furnish suitable diversion from the toils and tasks of the day.

Now the small city that can supply these modern needs will grow. It will never become big, but it will furnish a unit in itself that will satisfy the desires of America's best citizens. It will offer things to the present dwellers in the bigger centers of population which will cause them to come back to "the old home town". Here living conditions are cheaper; land and dwellings cost less; a family can have its garden and chicken park and even a cow if they so desire. They can know their neighbors and enjoy a wider circle of friendship and social activities than in the bigger cities.

If Sullivan can arise to its opportunity and plan now for a prosperous future, such prosperity will be headed this way. Its people must not only talk about these things but they must go ahead and do them.

The way to do these things and do them right is to map out now a program for city building. Let us get together and catalog the needs of Sullivan. Let us lay plans for the Sullivan which we would have five years from now, or let us look ahead a little further and plan for the Sullivan which we want to live in ten years from now.

Like an architect plans a building, like a landscape gardener plans for the future beauty of the park or the home, so let us make our plans for the Sullivan we would have this city grow to be.

We can do it. Sullivan never tackled anything it did not put across. To start with we have the most valuable asset any city can have—people as good as God ever made any.

Please give this matter some thought. Talk to your neighbor about it.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

Another great figure has left the stage of life. Millions of hearts were stricken with grief when on Sunday afternoon the message flashed over the world that William Jennings Bryan had been gathered to his fathers.

The greatest orator of modern times calmly and peacefully fell asleep to awaken in the presence of his Creator there to give an account of his stewardship.

Perhaps no man in the past 30 years had a greater influence on his generation. The outstanding feature of Bryan's life was his sincerity. Though doubtless wrong at times, he battled as best he knew how for the people he loved.

Bryan was a Democrat not by choice, not by birth, nor for an ulterior reason, but he was a Democrat simply because his very nature, his every thought, his sincere desire to help his fellowman would not permit him to be anything else. Had these principles been under any other party name, Bryan would have been found fighting under that banner. The basic principles on which rests the structure of the Democratic party were the principles which appealed to William Jennings Bryan, so he enlisted under the banner of Democracy and through thick and thin, in times of victory and in times of defeat he was a leader for those who believed in his absolute honesty of purpose and his high ideals.

Woodrow Wilson's greatness of character and ideals will be enshrined by future generations. Teddy Roosevelt will always be looked upon as a power for strenuous, robust Americanism. Both of these men in the past decade have held with ties of love the heartstrings of America.

Bill Bryan, however, had perhaps a stronger hold on people's affections. Friends and foe alike admired Bryan. His activities lacked perhaps the statesmanship and the vision of Wilson; he lacked the belligerent never-say-die fighting attitude of Roosevelt; but he did have those qualities of heart and mind which endeared him to his age and his generation.

We always felt that Bryan was getting perhaps more out of life than any other man of this day. His genial nature spread good cheer and sunshine unto all humanity, although those who opposed the principles which he held dear and for which he fought also know what his displeasure amounted to.

Bryan's honesty and sincerity made him feared by the politicians. He could not be dealt with. The best laid plans of the fixers and manipulators would fall like a house of cards when Bryan with his oratorical ability and his faithful following crashed into them.

You cannot now estimate the value of the lifework of Bryan. Future generations seeing in perspective the results of his work will judge and idolize or condemn.

His statesmanship was not equal to that of Wilson. His ability along some lines was perhaps far outranked by other men who were his contemporaries. But there has been but one Bryan. America will miss him. The world will miss him. What good he has done will continue to exist and bear fruit. What mistakes he has made will be speedily forgotten.

What a great nation this would be, had we more men like him!

And in the great hereafter William Jennings Bryan now knows—let us hope—whether his contentions or Clarence Darrow's were correct in the last great chapter of his life—the Dayton Evolution trial.

This Week

TRIASSIC ROCKS. LUTHER, CALVIN, BRYAN. SAFETY IN THE AIR. NOT TO WORRY.

The Reverend Dr. Straton wants the law against teaching evolution introduced into New York State.

His earnestness may puzzle other Fundamentalists when he says he can prove the evolutionists are wrong, because "Triassic rock" antedates by millions of years the time of man's evolution as described by Darwin.

If the world is only six thousand years old, how can there be rocks millions of years old? In their desire to discredit Darwin, the good Fundamentalist should not forget his own "facts and figures."

Deeply religious men often make mistakes in science. Mr. Watson Davis mentions two instances. Martin Luther condemned savagely "an astrologer who strove to show that the world revolves, not the heavens or the firmament, the sun and the moon. This fool wishes to reverse the entire science of astronomy." But today not Galileo is the fool.

Is flying dangerous? If the pilot uses common sense, it is less dangerous than crossing a crowded street.

In twenty-five months pilots from Mitchel Field have flown 1,827,000 miles, in 31,363 separate flights.

Only THREE have been killed, although pilots have turned endless somersaults and committed much other foolishness in the air.

Sixty years hence cautious old ladies will refuse to ride in automobiles or earth trains. They will say, "At my age they are too dangerous. I only fly, and at a safe height."

This "humorous" paragraph is published:

A country editor, having worked hard for thirty years, retired with $50,000 capital. He explained as follows:

"I attribute my ability to retire with $50,000 to the fact that I worked very hard and saved every cent—and to the death of an uncle who left me $49,999.50."

Ten thousand country editors could testify that there is more truth than humor in that anecdote. The most useful, underpaid and earnest body of men in the nation are the editors of country newspapers.

The patetic fact is that they would be highly prosperous men if business and advertisers realized the truth that the country newspaper, in proportion to its circulation, IS THE BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM IN THE COUNTRY.

An increase in the price of rubber drives manufacturers to plan for smaller tires. Some men of intelligence will find a way to substitute steel springs for rubber and produce a tire better than a rubber tire.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Manee, who have nine children, gave a party for those children and their offspring. One hundred and one came to the party. If everybody did as well, if the millions in China raised their gigantic families, for instance, and if plagues and floods stopped killing them, how soon would the earth be over-peopled?

That is the thing NOT to worry about.

"The Lord arranges it so that the trees shall not grow into the heavens." And He has undoubtedly arranged it so that the earth shall not breed more people than it can support. As the world grows older and its people know more, fewer children are BORN; more of them LIVE.

WHERE CAN I GET SOME GOOD MILK COWS

This is the question that enters the dairymen's mind about as soon as he has disposed of his T. B. reactors or culled out his unprofitable milkers.

Some farmers may have the impression that milk cows are apt to be scarce and rather high priced this fall, states a report to the Moultrie County Farm Bureau from the Illinois Agricultural Association. In sections where surplus cows can be purchased cheese making is the chief outlet for milk. Cheese has been a good price this year. Naturally every dairyman will keep his cows as long as possible, especially with these milk ranging from $1.90 to $2.10 per cwt. In such sections everybody has been hanging on to their cows.

The question of feed and housing for the coming winter will soon put surplus cows in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Ohio on the market. Recent inspection tours by the Illinois Agricultural Association found there will be available a good selection to choose from the latter part of August and early September. This will be a good time to pick up springers to milk this fall and next winter. The prices will run consistently with the age and quality of the cows. Every Illinois buyer should be sure he is buying cows that are free from tuberculosis and abortion. It is possible in many instances to obtain cows with cow testing association records.

It is a good idea for several farmers wishing to make up a car load of cattle to make the buying tour together. The I. A. A. through the Moultrie County Farm Bureau, can tell members where good milk cows can be purchased. By seeing personally where your cows come from and having taken part in the dickering, farmers will be more satisfied. And this direct contact helps the road from seller to buyer.

NO APOLOGY REQUIRED

Edward L. Doheny, of Teapot Dome fame, broke his long silence by breaking out in an eleven column article in the New York Times in which he defends himself and Secretary Fall. Long as the effusion is, it has nothing to say about the contents of the black satchel which Doheny's son carried to Brother Fall. Neither does it mention the bale of liberty bonds, nor the herd of blooded cows, including gentleman escorts, which he presented to the same honorable Albert. Whatever Edward and Albert did in the matter was done from pure patriotism. He explains that he entered the enterprise at the urgent request of Admiral Robertson who feared a war with Japan and wanted naval oil available in the Pacific.

Of course, it is just possible that Admiral Robertson feared a war with Japan at that time because there is absolutely no telling what soft spot in the cranium of a militarist will break first. Besides, we have heard of a mouse who, while under the influence of red-eye, challenged the world to come on with its tom cats. But even at that, there was absolutely no danger that the oil of the naval oil reserve would go on a strike unless it was owned by Doheny.

The silliest part of Doheny's outburst, however, is not its stillness but that he wrote it at all. Teapot Dome and the Naval Oil reserve scandal are closed incidents. Nay, they are much more than that. They, and what they imply have been whole heartedly endorsed by the great American people as demonstrated in the fifteen million votes cast for Coolidge against the four million cast for La Follette. Defending Teapot Domeism is worse than carrying coal to Newcastle. It is insulting the intelligence of the sovereign voters of the great democracy. Fifteen million voters with their ballots, said to Doheny: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." And what higher testimony can any highwayman expect from the hands of his victims? Save the ink Eddy, they like it.—Illinois Miner.

WANTS

(Ruth Reynolds)
I want a shingled roof of red,
To keep the rain from me;
I want four walls to bar the winds,
To warm me from the lea.

I want a room in which to rest,
A room in which to dream;
A table set for three or four,
To catch the sun's bright gleam.

I want a path that says, "Come in,"
With flowers by its side;
It leads up to a pretty porch,
Where shadows, cool, abide.

I want to have a place to go,
I, Darby, with my Joan;
I haven't pence to spend each month;
I want to own a home.

PUT US DOWN FOR BILL

There is a move on foot to make Will Rogers, the cowboy humorist, democratic Governor of Oklahoma. Knowing a few things about Oklahoma in general and of Oklahoma Governors, in special, we welcome the candidacy of irrepresible "Will." Of course, Will might make a joke of the government of Oklahoma, but even that would be a tremendous improvement on the series of criminal conspiracies which have paraded under the name of government in that state.

But, jokes aside, Will Rogers is really the brightest man Oklahoma has produced and the only one of it's sons that acquired and deserves a national reputation. Beneath his ralleries there is more sound horse sense than in all the somber bombast and buncomb emmitted by a generation of political bunk shooters.

In a recent article discussing Secretary Kellogg's boorish attack on President Calles, Will Rogers delivered the following choice collection of good sense:

"We don't guarantee investments here at home. Why should we make Mexico guarantee them?" asked Rogers.

"Our papers are always harping on US developing Mexico. Suppose Mexicc does not want to be developed?"

"What business is it of ours how Mexico acts or lives?"

"Somebody is always telling us how to prevent war."

"There is only one way in the world to prevent war, and that is for every nation in the world to tend to its own business."

Commenting on the above, "Labor says:"

Why not put Kellogg in vaudeville, where his "notes" will not interfere with international relations and give "Will" a chance at the State Department?

All well enough as far as Will Rogers is concerned. He undoubtedly would make an excellent Secretary of State but who in blazes would pay four bits to hear Kellogg in vaudeville?—Illinois Miner.

ILLINOIS DAIRY INCOME REACHES BIG TOTAL

The dairymen of Illinois took in $165,000 each minute during 1924," says a report received from the Illinois Agricultural Association.

"The Farm value of Illinois dairy production last year was $84,000,000" states A. D. Lynch, I. A. A. Dairy Marketing Director in the report. "Farmers owned dairy associations marketed 21.4 per cent of this amount in the form of fluid milk, butter fat and cheese. So the co-operative dairy business in Illinois had an $18,000,000 turnover. "The dairy farmers marketed co-operatively 26.5 per cent of the fluid milk and cream; 13 per cent of the butter fat, and 75 per cent of the cheese made in Illinois.

"There are over 150 farmer-controlled dairy marketing associations in Illinois. Some of these do not market in a commercial fashion, but serve as collective bargaining in stitutions and deal with existing private owned companies. The dairymen are not anxious to invest money in plants and facilities if present business concerns are able to render the service. Among the bargaining associations are six which sell butter fat and 15 which merchandize fluid milk.

The state has nine co-operative creameries, four retail milk plants, one co-operative centralizer and over 100 local cheese factories.

"The Farm Bureau with the help of the Illinois Agricultural Association assist dairy farmers in studying their market problems and to find the right solution. New dairy associations are being formed constantly and sales through co-operative organizations should increase in 1925 approximately 10 per cent over 1924. Farmers find their co-operative marketing efforts worth while because the return per cow is increased all the way from $6 to $15 per year."

LIKE JUDGE SENTEL

One of the phases of the Arthur case which appeals to most of those who attend the sessions, is the unflinching courtesy of Judge Sentel on all occasions and under trying conditions. Amid the haggling and bickering of the attorneys the court maintains the same pleasant courteous demeanor to every one, whether court attache or spectator. Too often do we see a judge who seems to feel that to maintain the proper dignity and respect for his position it is necessary to call some one down at regular intervals. Not so with Judge Sentel.

He seems to have an unflinching respect for the feelings of his fellowmen and we rise to aver that this characteristic detracts not one whit from the dignity and respect for Judge Sentel and his court.—Arcolian.

PICNIC AT WYMAN PARK

A number of people from here spent Sunday afternoon and evening in beautiful Wyman Park in Sullivan. All enjoyed picnic supper in the park, and in fact all had such a pleasant time that they will want to return again.—Strasburg Herald.

PROGRESS TELLS PARK STORY

The Sullivan Progress last week carried a double page ad. telling the world of the rapid advancement of the Wyman Park, which ten years ago was for most part a corn field, but a united effort on the part of her citizens has turned the cornfield into a beautiful recreation place which will be a joy and pride for Moultrie county citizens forever.

The center piece of the ad contained an illustration of the lake, bath houses and beach, also the permanent play ground equipment and entrance with its shaded lawn and beautiful band stand.

The double page was bordered with ads from live-wire business men of the city and it was one of the neatest productions it has ever been our pleasure to see in a country newspaper. We have no idea what it cost to put the feature over, but we do know that it was well worth the expenditure of time and money.

"See Wyman Park First" is the slogan adopted, and it's all free. No charge is made for entrance or for use of the park equipment.

Wyman Park is one of the beauty spots of Illinois and is the direct means of attracting thousands of visitors to Sullivan each year.—"Rip" Hines in Hammond Courier.

The Old, Tender Mocking Voice

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

"I'M NOT sure I wanted to come back," said Kitty's voice—the old voice, half-penitent, half laughing, wholly casual.

He turned. It was really Kitty, lying back in her chair, with one white-clad foot on the fender in the old luxurious way. The firelight glittered on her hair and made rosy shadows on her flowered gown. And yet four years of absence and silence lay between this moment and their last parting.

He cried out, "Kitty! Kitty, darling!"

"Really I, Cliff," said the old, tender, mocking voice.

She smiled over at him.

"But you always knew our love was eternal. That I would never belong to anyone but you."

He reached out his hands to her, little and slim and rosy in the big chair they had always called hers.

"No, dear," she said, lifting her hand, the bracelet he had given her a little chilled. He wanted to touch her and hold her, now she was here again and his. But she had always been like this—elusive. He must be patient. He would reach for the little hands, the little body, when she was talking intently and off guard. And she would laugh and yield caressingly in the old way.

She leaned to him again, talking in that quick, earnest way he had been waiting for. It always came, slipped in between her laughter.

"Cliff, did you dream about me lately? Oh, Cliff, do you remember, when we'd only been engaged a week, how one night I dreamed that we were in a wood together, talking and love-making, and we promised in the dream that we would always come to each other when we needed each other—and that night you'd dreamed it, too?"

"Yes, I remember," he said, thrilled. "We did that five times. And we always found out that we had had the same dream."

"But hasn't it come to you since—lately?" She looked at him wistfully. "Because twice—lately—it has come to me."

He stared at her, half-terrified. Such dreams had been very far from him since Kitty's departure. He had fought all dealings with the unknown, those half-gay, half-serious affairs with the borderlands that Kitty had led him into. A man drops such things as he gets older. And yet—how did she know? It was true. Twice lately he had walked in a dream-wood with Kitty, whom he had tried to forget. And now he did not need to forget her—now she was here, and his for always!

"Twice, lately, to me, too, Kitty," he said awed. "Then we were right." She laughed out, as a child does, for sheer happiness.

"Yes, we were right. Our love was forever . . . but we always knew it was."

"Yes," he echoed her gravely. "We always knew it was. And yet . . ."

"There's no 'yet'—there's only 'always!'"

And after a time she suddenly rose. "I must go now—for a little while," she said, smiling. She flushed a little as she said it. Her crisp summer frock, thin, white, with its printed pink roses, nearly brushed him, and her eyes looked thoughtfully into his.

"I wonder why I thought you needed me so dreadfully."

"I always do—I always will!"

"Yes—that way—I, too. But just now—the particular urgent thing. Don't you know? You always knew before."

He shook his head. That was a trivial thing compared to the fact that, for ever so little a while, he was not to see her.

"But it won't be a moment now—or it will only seem like a moment—before we are together for always. Our love's forever, you know, dear! I wonder what it was you needed me so for . . ."

"Kitty!" He flung out his arms to keep her, but she was gone, with a little laugh, before he could clutch more than her dress. . . .

He stood up, catching his breath suddenly. Something was still in his hand, a brittle something like a butterfly's wing. He knelt to the freight and opened his hand, slowly, carefully, as if in a dream. . . . Yes, there lay something in his hand—it had been flowered muslin once; it was ashy and crumbling now, and the tracery of roses was dingy brown. He rose from his knees, white and trembling, and the ash fell in his palm—such an ash as muslin might make after four years shut underground. . . .

There was a sound of many feet on the stair, and voices calling him.

"Cliff, she's ready now! Helen's ready!"

Helen came down slowly, tall and smiling in her going-away gown, ready for him. . . .

How could he tell—how could he have known it was eternal; that marriage with Kitty, who had died when their first child was born? How could a lonely man go through all the years unmarried? And yet . . .

He looked down with terror at the damp ash, clinging to his fingers still.

"Come, Cliff!" called his bride's voice from the stair-foot. He went forward to her.

"Thank God!" he said silently over and over. "Thank God Kitty did not know why she came!"

Strike Difficulty In Plans For Early Paving Completion

Two Legal Snags Encountered Relative to Right-of-way in West End of City. Would Exclude Part if Taxes Were Paid.

C. H. Apple of the state Highway Department was in Sullivan Monday morning to meet with city officials relative to the right of way for paving on Route 32 from the tracks on Harrison street to the Lovington hard road slab.

This is the route the department selected last week as a connecting link. It appears however, that a legal barrier is in the way of getting this paved without delay. This barrier consists in the fact that the right of way is now within the city limits. The state is building the road under the old $60,000,000 road bond issue. Under that issue no roads were built in the city limits. Because of this fact this part of the road was not included in the letting when Smith Bros. were given the contract to build the Windsor to Sullivan section of Route 32.

Under legislation passed at the last session of the Legislature $1,000,000 was appropriated to take care of the gaps left in cities of 2,500 or less under the $60,000,000 bond issue road construction.

The state could build this connecting link under that arrangement, but it would necessitate quite a bit of delay as bids would have to be advertised for and a letting held.

To get around all such delay a plan has been devised which will be satisfactory to the state. The plan provides for the city council voting to put the triangle bounded on the North by Market street, on the North by Jackson and on the Southwest by the tracks, outside the city limits. This would enable the state to instruct Smith Bros. to proceed at once with the construction of the road after the right-of-way is secured.

To secure action by the City Council a majority of the property owners in the territory affected are required to sign a petition asking that the Council legislate them outside the city limits.

The parties affected by the action are Sam Palmer, J. H. Baker, John Kracht, Mrs. Miranda Campbell and Mrs. Wes Elder.

Later it was learned that because of non-payment of taxes on one tract in name of J. H. Baker, the city has no power to act. The amount involved is $140 and some action may be taken to raise this and pay same so as to remove this legal barrier.

At Monday's meeting there were present besides Mr. Apple, Dr. J. F. Lawson and Frank McPheeters representing the city council; T. C. Fleming, supt of highways and W. B. Hopper and Chester Horn, representing the Community club.

SWINE SANITATION MEETING AT BETHANY SECOND WEEK IN AUGUST

The Government film entitled, "Exit Ascaris" shown at Lovington last year in connection with a swine sanitation meeting, excited so much comment and interest that a demand has arose for its being shown again in Moultrie county.

We have a request in now for this film for August 10-13. It is planned to have one meeting at Bethany, show this film at the theatre and then proceed to several farms where the swine sanitation method promoted by the Moultrie County Farm Bureau is in practice. The exact date of this meeting cannot be decided now but will be published later. Other meetings will be arranged. Those practicing the swine sanitation program at Bethany are John Smith, W. R. Bone and A. D. Tipson.—Farm Bureau News.

CHICK HATCHERY

A Mammoth Hatchery for Moultrie county at Sullivan is now a certainty. Details have not been completely worked out, but assurance has been made that special consideration will be given Farm Bureau members, in the way of price reduction and service in culling flocks. Flocks supplying eggs will be more or less under the supervision of the Farm Bureau. Those having pure bred flocks should send in request for inspection and culling. The hatchery wants eggs from pure bred flocks that have not been inbred, but where new blood in roosters has been brought in each year. Culling for age and disease is also highly important. No flock will be accredited where white diarrhea is known to be prevalent. Flocks infected with T. B. will be condemned, because such eggs will not hatch well and those that do hatch the chicks will be weak. Some flocks that were badly infected with white diarrhea last year were given a blood test and the infected hens sold off. Now is the time to clean house, cull out the unprofitable birds and get ready for the premium on eggs next year.—Farm Bureau News.

HOTEL FIXTURES SOLD; THEN ATTACHED; A PROBLEM IN FINANCE
Saturday Sheriff Ashbrook sold the interior fixtures of the Savoy Hotel to satisfy two mortgages held by R. S. Haley of this city. Mr. Haley bought all but one lot of the fixtures. That lot went to A. H. Miller.

Prior to the sale J. L. McLaughlin, for the First National Bank, owner of the building, announced that no lease went with the fixtures and that the buyer would buy with the understanding that the bank might demand possession of the building at any time.

After the sale two hardware companies with whom Mr. Haley has been dealing, attached the fixtures which he had bought on charges that Mr. Haley owed their firms money. Under this attachment, arrangements were made whereby Mr. Austin remains in charge of the hotel for the present.

Mr. Haley in explaining the situation, stated that under the contract by which he secured the mortgages, he was to take the payments as made on the mortgages and apply them to the hardware company accounts. When there was default on payment on the mortgages, he naturally defaulted on payment to the hardware firms. This placed him in a position where he had to protect his interests by mortgage foreclosure and the hardware people to protect their interests attached what Mr. Haley purchased.

The whole situation presents a complex problem of contracts and finance which sometimes leaves even those on the inside guessing as to where they stand.

FORD HELPS THRESHERMAN HUNT SUPPLY OF WATER
A peculiar auto accident occurred Wednesday night between this city and Lovington. Name of the party involved could not be learned Thursday morning.

Local autoists passing brought back the following story.

The Ford owner, a thresherman, was out looking for water to use in threshing operations. At one ditch, he stopped on the bridge and ran his car crosswise so the light would fall into the bed of the ditch. He then went down for a closer investigation. The Ford shook itself into gear and decided to follow its master. The front wheels ran off the bridge and it hung suspended by the rear wheels until assistance could be secured to put it back on the concrete.

Sallie Learns of an Engagement

I took an hour from my work during the week to fill my regular engagement at the beauty shop—my one concession to my former life. On the afternoon of a day that had been very hard, I asked Collette for a facial pack. It always refreshes me, the sweet scented cream, the hot towels, the massage and the pungent witch-hazel, followed by ice.

Everyone went to Collette's. Indeed it was more like a salon with its buzz of small talk. Each operator had her own little room but it was quite customary for anyone recognizing a voice to scream the latest bits of gossip from one booth to the other.

The room was unusually quiet this afternoon and I was relaxing under a towel weighted with steam that completely enveloped my face.

Suddenly, I recognized a voice. It came from the next booth.

"Oh, I say, Valeria, have you seen my ring?" It was Anne Coddington's voice.

"Your ring? What d'you mean—ring? I'm that excited. What IS this anyway, an announcement party? Wait, I'll get this darn clay off and I'll be right in."

My heart stood still. What ring? What? Then all the courage, all the indifference I had built around myself in the last few months were as naught.

Could it be that Anne and Curtiss were really engaged and that I should hear it in such a place? Oh, I was grateful for that towel and for its kind folds which hid my face.

Silence for a while. The operators were oh, so quiet that they, too, might gather in the details of a story that would entertain their fashionable clientele.

Light foot steps—Valerie going to Anne. I counted them as they fell.

"Ohhhh Anne; It's a dream! Well I don't have to guess whose it is, the way he's been rushing you about. You lucky girl. Landing the catch of the season. Dog gone!"

Anne snickered.

"He IS sweet", she said.

"Sweet," so that was all she thought of him. I was sick with the thought and something was the matter with my heart. What made it feel like a stone, weighting me down, dragging me under and leaving me listless without any desire to live. I couldn't faint. If I could just keep the towels on a little longer and then, after Anne and Valerie had gone, I would go home without either of them knowing that I had heard.

But even facials come to an end. I managed to be perfectly quiet until the operator was through, then, putting on my hat, I walked hurriedly out of the booth and along the corridor to the front of the hall.

Valerie! God help her to keep her mouth shut. She didn't. It was impossible with Valerie and there seemed to be any number of people standing or sitting about.

"Hello, Sallie, have you heard about Anne?" she asked.

"Why, no," I summoned as much interest as possible in my voice.

They stared at me without pity, gleefully eager for some sign that might add zest to their story when they told it outside.

"She's gonna marry Curtiss Wright. Has the most gorgeous ring—a sapphire—"

That was the last straw. Because in discussing rings once I had told Curtiss that the ring of my dreams was a single square sapphire with dancing lights.

"Come on back Sallie and look at it. I think Anne's still there," she tugged a my arm.

I couldn't speak. I couldn't. Little one is crushed in spirit and soul, little do they think what effect their movements will have on the crowd, nor thinking, care. I did the only thing I could have done. I drew away from her and walked straight out of the door with my head in the air.

I don't know why the shock was so enormous. I had known that Anne and Curtiss were together most of the time and hostesses had been putting them together for months.

But it's one thing to expect a thing or even dread it and another to have it actually come about. I tried to lose myself in my work but when one is twenty, there's something you want more than work to fill the empty spaces in a young girl's heart.

Things were reminding me always of love. At night time the soft, Jasmine twilights would awaken strange longings in my innermost being. A strain of music would make tears of loneliness stand in my eyes. And all the time I had the feeling that "they" were gloating over Anne's conquest of Curtiss Wright.

It wasn't that I wanted Curtiss if he was satisfied with the girl of his choice. My pride kept me from that. But there was nothing to prevent my love for him which I knew was eternal and could never die.

CORN IS GROWING FINE; NEEDS PLENTY OF RAIN

The corn crop prospects in Moultrie county are good if the fields get plenty of rain for the next 30 days. The corn had made a good growth, due to the heavy rains during June. These rains made the fields too wet for cultivation and as a consequence many fields have a thick carpet of grass. This grass has a tendency to suck the moisture out of the soil and the corn will occasionally suffer unless this moisture is replenished by occasional rains. The stand this year is much better than last year. State and national crop reports predict an enormous crop.

Sunflowers and soy beans are also getting along fine and promise a good yield.

MRS. LILY KIMERY DIED SATURDAY IN DECATUR; WAS BURIED HERE MONDAY

Mrs. Lily Kimery, for many years a resident of this city, died at the home of her daughter Mrs. Homer Harris in Decatur, Saturday afternoon after a lingering illness, caused by a complication of diseases.

Her maiden name was Lily Gaddis. She was the daughter of Hale and Katherine Gaddis and was born in Shelby county, August 3, 1868 and would have been fifty-seven years of age this coming August. She was twice married. Her first husband was John Shaw to whom she was married September 30, 1893. From this union she is survived by one child, Marie, wife of Homer Harris. For the past seven months Mrs. Kimery had been making her home with her daughter. Prior to that time she engaged in nursing in and around Decatur and Sullivan and endeared herself to every one with whom she came in contact by her kindness and loving disposition. Mrs. Kimery's second husband was Dr. Kimery, now living in Mattoon. She secured a divorce from him.

She also leaves the following brothers and sisters; Mrs. Walter Strickland and Mrs. J. E. Swisher of this city and Thomas Gaddis living in Decatur. She leaves her father Hale Gaddis, living on a farm southeast of this city. She also leaves two half brothers and a half sister, Wilford, Herschel and Laura Gaddis.

Early in life Mrs. Kimery embraced the Christian faith and joined what is known as the New Liberty church. In 1890 after moving to Sullivan, she transferred her membership to the local church and was a member of it at the time of her death.

The remains were brought to this city and funeral services were held Monday afternoon in the Christian church. Rev. W. B. Hopper was in charge. Interment was in Greenhill cemetery. The pall bearers were Walter Birch, Len Lovless, E. O. Dunscomb, Howard Wood, Jack Myers and G. R. Fleming.

BIG STORAGE STOCKS KEEP DOWN PRICES OF POULTRY

Both the Chicago and New York markets reflect continued shrinkage in the make of butter. Today the Chicago market on 90 score Standards is quoted $\frac{1}{2}$ and New York market on Extras 1 cent higher than on the same day last week. Prices for butterfat in producing sections generally reflect this condition.

The volume of eggs received at the larger markets of the country indicates some falling off as compared with previous week and the same week last year, but the movement into storage so far still exceeds the outward movement and each day sees a net increase in the amount of eggs in cold storage. Quality is the important factor, and while there is a good demand for fine quality, the poorer grades are neglected. Prompt handling on the farm and quick marketing will do a lot toward improving the prices which producers receive for their stock.

Receipts of live poultry during the past week have been about normal for this season of the year, with seasonal declines on spring broilers. Each week sees a higher percentage of chickens reaching marketable age and with constantly increasing receipts, the tendency of the spring market is lower.

The dressed poultry market, especially on fowl, has shown a decline of 3 cents a pound during the past week and the market reflects the overshadowing influence of the large stock in freezer of 1924 pack. So far this month, there has been a slight reduction in the surplus, which, is continued, will help the situation materially.

NEWSPAPER A UTILITY

A newspaper is a public utility, says William Allen White, noted editor of the Emporia Gazette. And in an editorial he tells why:

"A newspaper is certainly affected with the public interest as much as the street car, the telephone, or the gas plant and all the other municipal utilities.

"An editor is really a trustee, entitled to his profits if they are clean and decent to the fullest extent that he may make them, but not entitled to make his profits at the community's loss.

"Unless he can give the public some valuable thing—information, guidance or entertainment—he has no right to his profits.

"A newspaper is certainly a public utility."

A CLOSE-UP VIEW OF WHITE SNAKE ROOT

Live stock owners in Illinois who attend any one of the 47 county fairs where the state educational exhibits are booked this year will have an opportunity to study, at close range, the deadly white snake root plant, which has caused the death of many hundreds of valuable cattle recently.

Gov. Len Small, whose famed herd of blooded cattle at Kankakee was decimated by the ravages of the white snake root menace, has ordered the department of agriculture to include potted and growing plants in its exhibits at fairs. This will enable farmers and members of their families to study the plant and best known methods of eradication, all of which will be explained by a representative of the division of plant industry. The plant grows usually in wooded pastures, where it is eaten by cattle, along with other forage, when grass becomes scarce in the open spaces.

MANY ALFALFA FAILURES DUE TO SEED, NOT SOIL

Urbana, Ill., July 28.—Most of the many failures in the growing alfalfa are laid to the soil, but in reality the use of poor seed leads to just about as much failures as any other one thing, in the opinion of J. J. Pieper, assistant chief of crop production at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. Farmers who plan to seed alfalfa this fall therefore will do well to see that they have good seed as well as the right kind of a seed bed, he pointed out.

Purity in the seed cannot be over emphasized especially if it is bought from dealers who do not recognize good seed or who do not care to handle the better grades. Alfalfa is a poor weed fighter in the early stages of its growth and if the seed is impure there not only will be less alfalfa but also more weeds. The Illinois seed law compels all seed dealers to label their seed to show its purity and care should be taken to inspect this tag in buying seed.

Age of the seed is another important factor. Alfalfa seed will stay viable for about three years when stored under the best conditions, but there is much dead seed sold on the market. New alfalfa seed has a greenish yellow color and is bright, rather than dull. Old alfalfa seed has a brown or reddish cast. Occasionally, old and new seed is mixed. Seed of this kind is just about as bad as all old seed.

The third important factor to watch is choosing a lot of alfalfa seed is the origin of it. Alfalfa seed which has been produced in the colder regions will be more hardy when grown in Illinois, while that which is produced in the southwest will not be as hardy as that produced in the west and northwest. This point is of particular importance to farmers in northern and central Illinois, rather than to southern Illinois farmers.

Care should be taken to see that the seed selected comes from a variety or strain which is adapted to the conditions under which it will be grown. Farmers who want Grimm alfalfa should buy their seed from a reliable source, as it is impossible to tell Grimm alfalfa seed from the common types. There are some strains of Alfalfa which are not at all adapted to conditions in this state and these should be avoided.

WAS IT SNAKE ROOT?

Early pioneers of this part of Illinois recall the days when cows were affected with what was commonly known as "milk fever".

Cows affected are said to have been the cause of frequent deaths among humans. The deaths were caused by drinking the milk from the affected animals before they had reached the stage where their poisoned condition became apparent.

The cause of the condition was doubtless snake root which is causing such a commotion at the present time. Plants have been located in two pastures in Moultrie county.

They are two miles southeast of Lovington and a mile East of Bruce. Several other shaded woodlands are also under suspicion. The plant grows only on ground always shaded.

In the days before the plant had been definitely convicted of being the source of the poison, various other causes were assigned for the "milk fever".

With the drive that is being made on "snake root" the plant will doubtless be eliminated from Illinois within the next few years. Why the plant is called snake root is hard to determine as the root does not differ much from that of any other weed and it is the foliage and stem which contain the deadly poison.

SULLIVAN,

ILLINOIS

SULLIVAN Has Had Many BAD FIRES

There is no city anywhere, that has suffered as much from fire in recent months as has Sullivan. The shadow of disaster is ever present, hanging over YOUR family and YOUR business. If we had an adequate water works and water supply and water distribution system, this condition would not exist. But we HAVEN'T! and so another disastrous fire may break out at any time. Insurance rates are so high that we can hardly afford to carry sufficient insurance to protect ourselves. These conditions have existed for at least twenty-five years. Shall we permit them to continue to exist? Or shall we give to the city officials our unequalled support and aid in their present work of securing and installing an adequate water supply? We believe the latter is the better plan. Don't you? Think it over.

Our children came from Chicago last Wednesday afternoon at 3:40. A nice little bunch they are. Somebody who has not much room to talk, asked one of my boys if the Chicago toughs had come yet. Referring to these poor little boys and girls from Chicago. Well they are the nicest and cleanest bunch you have seen. One family of them, especially, excuse themselves from the table when they get up. All of them can repeat the Lord's prayer which is more than can be said of quite a lot of boys and girls in this town. It was really amusing to see part of the town turn out last Wednesday to see them get off the train. They are surely enjoying themselves out in the country. This is surely giving a cup of cold water in the name of a disciple. And our Master said it shall not lose its reward, both in this world and in the one to come. We are getting up another bunch of 12 children, 6 boys and 6 girls. Do you want one in the next bunch that comes, or perhaps two?
Mrs. Mike Finley gave an ice cream party to the Chicago children at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Burville. The children enjoyed the games and the cream very much.
Please remember communion on this coming Lord's Day morning.

METHODIST CHURCH
Milton Wilson, Pastor.
We met with good results last week. More subscriptions to World Service Fund. Some remitted for local budget. The ladies Bible class, taught at the present time by Mrs. Harold Ray, gave a real farewell party for Mrs. Zion Baker at the William Bland home on Thursday night. The outstanding feature for the occasion was a big crowd of happy women eating a big chicken supper. We refrain from reporting the number of chickens eaten.
Our prayer meeting was good with a fairly good attendance. We had 167 at Sunday School on Sunday morning with nearly all of the officers and teachers present. The attendance at morning worship was good. The choir responded well. Mrs. O. F. Foster acted as a substitute for the duet which could not be present. Mrs. Foster brought us a beautiful message in a vocal solo. A plenty of beautiful flowers added much to the service. The following were elected as delegates to the Moultrie County Christian young peoples convention at the Christian church on Tuesday: Margaret Harrington, Harold Ray, Dorothy Wood, Enid Newbold, Bernice Lawson, Gladys Wood, Mack Grigsby and Jack Finley.
A perfect evening for the union service at Freeland Grove at 7:30.

The people attended very well. A fine lot of folks occupied all of the choir chairs. The Brown's orchestra played well and pleased the people. The male quartette met with a little mishap but we thank them for the effort and for the message.
This is the outline of matters ahead of us. Tuesday, the young people's convention. Wednesday evening at 7:30 prayer meeting. Thursday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock the King's Herald meeting in church annex. Sunday morning at 9:30 a big Sunday School. Sunday morning at 10:45 public worship. The sermon theme, "Cain Abel." Mrs. Bert McCune and Mrs. Harold Ray will sing for us at 10:45. It will pay you to attend both services Sunday morning. Union services at Freeland Grove Sunday night at 7:30. Rev. D. A. MacLeod will be in charge and deliver the sermon. Boost for this service.
Prememptions dates: Monday, August 3, annual picnic for Methodist ministers and their families of Decatur district at Wyman Park. August 6, the fourth quarterly conference at 7:30 p. m. August 6 in the afternoon at 2:30 the W. F. M. S. session in Wyman Park. Miss Lyda Harris' division in charge.

CADWELL-ROSEDALE
The Cadwell ice cream supper on Friday night was well patronized. The receipts a little more than $31.00. The Cadwell church reported thirty-three present for Sunday School and eleven for Epworth League session.
The Rosedale folks attended preaching services very well and reported thirty-eight present for Sunday School and twenty-two for Epworth League.
Program for next Sunday. Cadwell—Sunday School at 10:00 a. m. and Epworth League at 7:00 p. m. Preaching at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Fred Kanitz will have charge of the League service.

QUARTERLY NEWS ITEMS OF THE TO THE STOCKHOLDERS:

During the last quarter your company had a net increase of 835 electric customers, adding to its lines 763 kilowatts in lighting and 2,995 kilowatts in power. In addition power contracts were secured aggregating 2,441 kilowatts.
New electric franchises for Hanaford, Edinburg, Dietrick, Makanda and Nokomis have been granted your company. New street lighting contracts were secured from New Salem, Oakland, Winchester, Thebes, Ecnburg, Dietrick, Table Grove, Hanaford, Nokomis, Makanda, Norris City, Longview, Sheldon and Piper City and an ornamental street lighting contract from Camp Point. The Company also secured contracts covering the power requirements of a gravel pit near Lawrenceville, the American Can Company at Hoopston, and the Gibson Canning Company, at Gibson City, Illinois, together with a number of miscellaneous contracts from coal companies.
The Illinois Commerce Commission recently approved the purchase by your company of the electric utilities of the Payson Electric Company, the Cullom Electric Company, the electric utility at Galatia, and the municipal plant at Thebes. The Central Illinois Public Service Company is now furnishing electric service in fourteen communities heretofore supplied by municipal plants. Both the Payson Electric Company and the Cullom Electric Company were wholesale customers of the Central Illinois Public Service Company, each company serving two towns, namely, Payson and Plainville, and Cullom and Charlotte respectively.
Your company's seventeen ice plants are working practically at maximum capacity serving approximately all the ice requirements of 125 communities.
The sale of your company's preferred capital stock continues in an exceedingly satisfactory manner with more than 19,000 shares having been sold during the year 1925 to date, with a continual increase in the number of stockholders.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, through its president, Haley Fiske, has addressed a memorandum to its policyholders which emphasizes again the public's general financial interest in public utility companies, though they may not be direct owners of public utility securities.
He tells the policyholders, who number 22,000,000, or one out of every five of the country's population, that they are the owners of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's $1,620,000,000, and therefore anything which the policyholders allow public officials to do to the detriment of the securities included in these assets is a blow struck at the policyholder.
"The Metropolitan owns more than $75,000,000 of the securities of electric light and power companies," the memorandum reads. "When one of these companies is unfairly treated, it is the people of the community, the voters and their dependents who suffer. It is their savings that are depleted."
The Metropolitan president is talking for one company when he mentions these figures, but is talking for all companies and all policyholders when he draws conclusions.
On the last page of this folder is a view of your company's new fifty ton ice plant at Canton, recently completed. For a number of years the residents of Canton and vicinity have been dependent upon natural ice, which supply will hereafter be entirely replaced by fresh water ice manufactured in the Company's new plant. This modern plant is an example of your company's efforts to render a satisfactory service to the communities it serves.
Respectfully yours,

JUST CARELESS; BUT IT SURE LOOKS BAD

There are too many weeds in Sullivan's uptown. This looks bad. It does show that we have good soil, but then everybody knows that. Chautauqua week is coming on. Hundreds and even thousands will be here for that annual entertainment. Can't we folks put our best foot forward and get rid of some of these unsightly weeds?

KNOCKER OR BOOSTER?

When the Creator had made all the good things, it seemed there was still some dirty work to do, so He made the beasts, and the reptiles and the poisonous insects; and when He had finished He still had some old scraps left over that were too bad to put into the Rattlesnake, the Hyena, the Scorpion, and the Skunk; so He put all these together, covered it with suspicious, wrapped it with jealousy, marked it with a yellow streak, and called it a KNOCKER.

This product was so fearful to contemplate that He had to make something to counteract it, so He took a sunbeam, put into it the heart of a child, the brain of a man, wrapped it in civil pride, covered it with brotherly love, made it a believer in equality and justice, a worker for and supporter of every good thing in the community and called it a BOOSTER; and thenceforth mortal man has had the privilege of choosing his associates.

SWEET CLOVER BORDERS MOULTRIE COUNTY ROADS

Many of the country roads of this county are bordered by a profuse growth of sweet clover, the blossoms of which perfume the air. This clover is all volunteer and has not been sown. It shows plainly that the soil and conditions in this county are ideally adapted for the growth of this valuable plant.

Farmers who this year have sweet clover pastures are getting much more out of them than out of blue grass pastures. Sweet clover because of its tendency to root deep down in the soil can much better withstand a dry spell. Sweet clover pastures came through the prolonged drouth in good shape.

EAKLE-WOOD

A marriage license was issued Sunday to Glen Eakle 24 of Arthur and Rohimma Woods 18, of Villa Grove.

BRIGHTEN THE UPTOWN

Work on painting the hotel building, owned by the First National Bank, started this week. A new dress on this big structure which has a full block frontage on Harrison (Wall) street, will do much to add to the looks of the uptown. If the owners could just make up their minds to have the half-dead shade trees removed, it would make things look still better.

A STRIKING MAP OF ILLINOIS ROADS

One of the outstanding features of the big exhibit which the division of highways of Illinois will show at half a hundred county and district fairs during the present summer will be two huge illuminated maps, showing the $60,000,000 bond issue system and progress to date. Included on the maps also are the routes of the $100,000,000 bond issue system, approved by the people last November.

Another interesting feature of the highway exhibit will be a 4-reel moving picture, which attempts to demonstrate the construction of a durable, hard surfaced highway from the time the material is taken from the ground until the pavement is completed and open to traffic.

Because of its appeal to the public in general, commercially and from the standpoint of the farmer, this exhibit will occupy a prominent place at the county fairs.

WOOD-EAKLE

County Clerk J. B. Martin and Rev. Milton Wilson, pastor of the Methodist church were awakened from their peaceful slumbers after midnight Saturday. The awakening was caused by Glen Eakle of Arthur. He first made an appeal to Mr. Martin for the necessary papers that would permit him to be united in marriage to Miss Rohimma Wood of Villa Grove. It was just 1:00 o'clock a. m. Sunday when Rev. Wilson said the word that made Mr. Eakle and Miss Wood man and wife. The witnesses to the ceremony were Messrs. T. G. Dial and Hugh A. Smith. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Eakle of Arthur and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Wood of Villa Grove.

The longer I live the more certain do I become that the best the government can do for farmers is of insignificant importance compared with what, by carefully thought out and loyal co-operation, they can do for themselves.—Sir Horace Plunkett.
