SAVE 10 CENTS ON THE DOLLAR HERE TUESDAY

Sullivan Retailers Will Stage Biggest tory, to Advertise Sullivan as Ideal Place to Trade.

Save 10 per cent on your purchases. That is what shoppers can do Tuesday, November 30th.

This is the first big sales campaign of the newly organized Sullivan Retail Merchants Association. Included in this association are nearly all the retailers in Sullivan. They have organized this association to boost Sullivan as a trading center for surrounding community. At the same time it will foster a spirit of community pride and will induce those who like to shop out of town to give their home merchants an opportunity to serve them.

The 10 per cent discount sale offers a great savings opportunity to shoppers, especially when the time of year is taken into consideration.

Winter weather impresses the need of clothing purchases and many other lines. When these can be made at a saving of 10 per cent on the regular price, the dollar will go just 10c further in purchasing power than at Sullivan is a good place to trade. The merchants carry big stocks of modern merchandise of the kind that the buyers want. The big sale Tuesday is being staged with the knowledge that it will attract new shoppers for Sullivan. The merchants are willing to sacrifice the 10 per cent, just to get acquainted with some new customers. The offer holds good, however, to old customers, new customers or anybody who wants to buy.

The sale has been advertised and billed in a radius of 25 miles or more. It will pay shoppers to drive 50 miles to make the savings which the merchants offer.

Sullivan merchants need trade. The shoppers want their money to go as far as possible in purchasing power. Tuesday will be the day for them to get together. The merchants get the trade and the opportunity of showing the excellent stocks which they carry. As an adevrtising stunt, the advantage is all with the shopper. He buys at a big saving.

Usually discount sales are only on certain articles in the store or stores that advertise them. This is not he case in Tuesday's sale. You walk instores have contract items reserved. Reservations, however, are very few.

Every ten dollars spent in Sullivan on that day will mean a saving of $1.00. In other words, $9.00 will buy $10 worth of merchandise.

Come to Sullivan Tuesday. Come early and come prepared to buy. Cash is what counts. It earns 10 per cent for you here on that one day.

NO JURY TRIALS IN CIRCUIT COURT UNTIL AFTER JANUARY 1ST

Judge Sentel last week dismissed the petit jurors with the statement that their services will not be needed until after January 1st. This means that there will be no trial for Homer Hawkins until after that date.

States Attorney Brown who was instructed to prepare a bill of particulars showing the grounds on which the state proposes to prosecute young Hawkins, says he has that document ready and it may be filed any time there is a week-end court, as is sometimes the case. Homer Hawkins is accused of embezzlement and falsifying records. If brought to trial it will doubtless be on the latter charge.

States Attorney Brown's tenure in office will end on the first Monday in December. After that date states attorney-elect R. B. Foster will be in

VILLA GROVE DEFEATED 7-0. THANKSGIVING GAME WITH GEORGETOWN

Before a very small crowd, Sullivan won from Villa Grove 7-0, Saturday. The day was very cold and snow, making the footing difficult

After working the ball down to the gained possession of it on their own the third play in the second quarter made the only touchdown of the game

Martin was given the ball and ally broke loose for a thirty yard run and a touchdown. Baker added the extra point with a drop kick. Twice after that the Villa Grove goal was threatened. Once in the last part of the second quarter when Baker intercepted a pass on Sullivan's 35 yard line and ran it back to Villa Grove's 25 yard line before he was downed. The half ended before the next play. Then again when Baker made another fine run taking the ball to Villa Grove's 30 yard line and the game ended before the ball could be put over.

In spite of the cold there were very few fumbles. Sullivan fumbling twice and Villa Grove once. Both teams were greatly handicapped by the slick field, making it impossible to cut back on end plays.

The winning of this game puts Sullivan in fourth place in the Conference. Tuscola having first place, Newman second, Bement third and Sullivan fourth.

"THOU SHALT NOT STEAL

This command ought to be framed and nailed up over the portals of every public office; Every business man ought to have it tacked up in a prominent place over his desk. Every teacher ought to impresss it upon the mind of each pupil; all parents ought by repetition impress it on the minds of their child.

No other commandment is fractured more or more severely. The man who breaks into your home and carries away your property is a thief; the man who holds you up at the point of a gun and take your possessions is a thief. These are but common thieves. The kind and number of thieves is legion.

The man who uses trickery and deceit in dealing with you and never expects to make good on his end of the deal is a common thief; the man who sells you something which is not worth the money he takes in exchange is a thief; the man who works for you and soldiers on his time is a thief; the employer who pays starvation wages is a thief; the man who in any way deals with you deceitfully and by trickery expects to get something without paying a just compensation for it is a thief.

The man who is elected to public office and betrays the people who elected him by accepting money or favors in return for some official act is a thief. The man or corporation which in this manner secures special privileges from the official is a thief.

The citizen who lives under the protection of the laws of this country, but breaks those laws when it suits his convenience to do so is a common thief.

"Thou Shalt Not Steal", covers a wide range. It is applicable to every line of human conduct and human endeavor.

Honesty is the best policy. This wisdom is as old or even older than the commandment "Thou shalt not Steal" but silly humanity seems never to grasp its import.

The man who steals, through taking your property, through betraying your confidence, through trickery, through double-crossing and through the many other avenues of deceit and crookedness, in deluding nobody but himself.

In the general scheme of things, the thief sooner or later pays doubly for what he has stolen. There is no such thing as getting something for nothing.

ed. This applies to the common culprit who pilfers a few cents worth as well as to the man in high office who for a lousy sum of big money betrays his constituents. He reaps the deserved contempt of his fellowmen. He pays and pays and pays in remorse, in degradation and in shame for that which he thought he was gettin gfor nothing.

The money-mad capatilist using every trick at his command to accumulate millions while defrauding the laborer of his hire, crushing his smaller competitor under his heel, simply to give to his children an heritage of millions, usually lives to see these same children go to the devil along the road which he has paved

What America needs is common honesty. "Thou Shalt not Steal" with all of its variations needs a revival. The very pathway to Hell is greased with evasions of this command which is so plain and so specific that there is no excuse for disobeying it.

THE PROTEST IN PENNSYLVANIA

Pennsylvania seems at last to have become aware of the pair of twins hidden in its political woodpile. And now that the grimy heads of rotten politics and rotten business have been looked on by the voters, maybe those heads will get the axe.

As a plain protest against the melodorous Senatorial primary scandal, the Democratic nominee for the Senate received a fifty thousand majority in Pennsylvania, excluding Philadelphia. The voters didn't seem to agree with Mr. Mellon that giving money to buy Senate seats was as worthy as giving money to the church. Not by a fifty thousand majority, did they think that way.

And now the Philadelphia Public Ledger questions the election results as given out in Philadelphia. The Public Ledger doesn't think the suave politicians who took charge of the ballot boxes permitted the true results to be made public.

If here was corruption in the election as well as in the primary, Mr. Vare may not have been elected after all. In that event Pennsylvania may save the Senate the unpleasant task of refusing to seat Mr. Vare, obviously the duty of the Senate as things now stand.

Pennsylvania is in the political spotlight, and she owes it to herself to find out just how hard the voters of the state kicked against corruption and whether they did apply the axe they have been sharpening for a generaton. The nation is interested.

DR. FRANK CRANE SAYS DON'T OVERLOAD THE IMAGINATION

The trouble with most writing and stage productions is that they stifle the imagination by overloading it.

There are those who hold that it is better to read a play than to see it acted, for when you read your imagination can picture the scene, whereas when you see the play all the work of your imagination is done for you.

A suggestion to the imagination is better than too much.

The Orientals understand this and their scenery in the play is of a suggestive kind and is not realistic. For instance, when a boat is to be depicted a real boat is not brought on the stage, but some contraption that can suggest a

BURYING DEAD HOGS

Hunters are reporting dead unburied hogs out in the fields. In some cases the hogs were dragged out into the fields and left unburied. Such carelessness is punishable by law. Crows, pigeons and dogs carry hog cholera all over the country. It may be necessary to make an example of a case or two in order to bring about stricter sanitary measures.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR HINES; MARION GETS TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

Marion turned a corner too fast and the car was ditched. The boys, then afoot, traveled North aways, then East to Mattoon, boarded a Northbound freight and got to their homes in Decaur before daylight. In crossing the Sangamon, Hines threw Libotte's gun, which he had carried this far, into the murky waters of that

They left no clew at the scene of the crime. The boys were not suspicioned for some time. But they could not behave. They stole a car and drove to Bloomington. They abandoned that car there and stole another one. They robbed groc ry stares, filling stations and a perpetrated other crimes. An attempt to steal gas at a farmer's home resuited in their arrest.

In the meantime the Moultrie Board of Supervisors had engaged the services of a Decatur detective, George Geer, to assist in the case. A reward of $500 was offered for the arrest of Libotte's murderers.

Detective Geer knew Hines and Marion and their gang of young thugs. They were rounded up. All disclaimed any knowledge of the murder. They started making alibis. Their excuses looked plausible. Geer had a hunch that he had the right men, however. He trapped Hines in to a conversation-which was recorded by a dictaphone, planted in his cell-with Davis, a cronie of Hines who led him to talk about the murder. Hines trusted Davis and told the details of the crime. Officials at the other end of the dictaphone heard it. Hines was confroned with his dictaphone talk. He confessed.

Marion who had steafastly declared his innocence was put in a cell with Hines. The latter told him of the confession and Marion then "came through". Both made confessions and signed them.

Then followed the indictment, the arraignment and plea of "not guilty".

Relatives engaged Attorney Hoff to large. Hines especially is a malignant defend the boys. He saw no chance cancer on society. He entirely disfor them and advised pleas of guilty. Such pleas were made Monday morning. Evidence was taken. The sentence was passed Friday morning. Judge Sentel in his talk complimented Detective Geer for his work. He expressed his sympathy for the parents and relatives of the boys. Hines as the most depraved criminal whom he had known in his eleven years as judge. Although only '20 years of age, evidence had been produced during the trial to show that, since the age of 15. Hines had committed 18 crimes. Six of these were misdemeanors punishable with fine and jail sentence.. Twelve were felonies, punishable with penitentiary sentences and the Libotte murder was subject to a death sentence.

Both boys served sentences in the tate reformatories. Such sentences state reformatories. Such sentences did them no good.

"No man", said Judge Sentel, "is safe while such criminals are at regards law and the rights of others."

The Judge then asked the murderers whether or not they had anything to say before being sentenced. Both answered "No Sir."

Marion was then sentenced to 25 years and while the audience sat in breathless suspense the Judge said, Judge Sentel characterized Emery slowly and distinctly "Emery Hines, I sentence you to the penitentiary for the term of your natural life."

The rope was cheated of its job. The crowd started to disperse, many of its members filing by to get as close a view as possible of the con-
