Democrats at Home While Republicans Elect Three Judges

Moultrie County Only Place Where Democrats Made a Good Showing, Aided by Republican Friends of J. L. McLaughlin.

The voters of the 6th judicial district Monday elected Franklin H. Boggs of Champaign, James S. Baldwin of Decatur and D. H. Walmsley of Tuscola to serve as circuit judges for the ensuing six years.

Moultrie county gave the democratic candidates, Joseph L. McLaughlin, Jos. P. Gulick and L. O. Williams a very substantial majority. Macon county, the home of Judge Baldwin got out the biggest vote and swamped the aspirations of the democratic candidates.

Less than 50 per cent of Moultrie county voters went to the polls, but those that did go, regardless of party affiliation, gave the democrats a big lead. Especially was this true in the case of Mr. McLaughlin.

With the exception of Decatur, the vote was very light throughout the district. The returns show that less than 20 per cent of the voters availed themselves of the opportunity to participate in selecting their judges.

On this page appears a table showing the Moultrie county totals as tabulated from phone reports. Later reports slightly changed these figures but not enough to in any way affect the results.

The nearly complete vote by counties was as follows:

Republican

DAILY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

A Daily Vacation Bible School will be conducted for three weeks at the Methodist Church beginning Monday, June 13th.

Instruction in Bible, Missions, Music, Games and Dramatics will be given. Four departments will be organized, and all children from four to fourteen years of age are invited to enroll. Parents will find that this school is one of the best ways in the world to interest children in things worth while. The time spent in a three-weeks school equals that spent in instruction in the Sunday School for an entire year.

The lessons used in the Vacation School are graded scientifically and adapted to the various age groups for which they are intended, so that every pupil is given just the instruction that is interesting and beneficial.

The organization and faculty are as follows:

Kindergarden Department, Ages 4 and 5, Miss Ella Shepherd and Miss Anna McCarthy.
Primary Department, Ages 6, 7, and 8, Miss Mildred McClure.
Junior Department, ages 9, 10 and 11, Miss Valeet Carnine.
Intermediate Department, Ages 12, 13, and 14, Mrs. E. W. Richardson.

ORVAL B. WISELY DIED EARLY THURSDAY MORNING AT FARM HOME

Orval B. Wisely, a young farmer residing on the Millizen farm west of this city, succumbed to an attack of heart trouble at 3 o'clock Thursday morning. While he had been under doctor's care for some months, his death was rather unexpected.

He was born March 17, 1890 in Jasper county. His wife's maiden name was McDaniel. She and two sons and one daughter survive.

Funeral services will be held this (Friday) afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Whitfield church in Whitley township. Rev. G. R. Ridgway of Allen-ville will be in charge.

CONSTABLES AT BLUE ISLAND OPERATE SPEED TRAP—DARN YE, BY HECK

O. C. Worsham motored to Chicago Sunday and early Monday morning left on his return trip accompanied by his son Everett, wife and daughter. At about 1:40 a. m. they were passing through Blue Island, a Chicago suburb. The streets were bare of traffic and Mr. Worsham "stepped on it" but slowed up for an intersection. As he slowed up a motorcop drew alongside and told him he was under arrest for speeding. "You're under arrest, follow me", was the command, as the law enforcer wended his way to the police station.

Mr. Worsham was duly booked on a speeding charge. He wanted immediate action so he could pay his fine and resume his homeward way.

"Oh no, that can't be done so easily", said the sergeant at the desk. "This case must be set for trial and the complaining officer (that worthy had departed on his duties) must be present to make his complaint and testify. This trial cannot be held until Tuesday afternoon." Mr. Worsham was in a quandry and asked about giving a bond.

"Why sure" said the sarge, "you can give a bond of $25." Mr. Worsham counted his available finances and found that the sum total was $18. He asked his son Everett whether he had any money.

Mr. Worsham, Jr., handed his father a $50 bill.

The eyes of an officer standing by and the sarge's eyes popped wide open when they spied the 50. "Now sarge, you've made a mistake" said the officer "you'd better take that $50 as bond instead of only $25."

"How fast did you say he was going?" queried the sarge.

"38 miles an hour" said the officer.

"Oh, 38 miles an hour, why sure I made a mistake, I thought you said 30 miles an hour. Yes, Mr. Worsham, the bond for 38 miles an hour is $50", said the sarge as he pocketed the $50.

The matter was a holdup, pure and simple. The officers operating under the guise of law, were taking all they could, feeling that whatever cash bond was put up would be forfeited, as their victim was about 160 miles from home and would perhaps never show up to fight the case, which default would forfeit the bond.

Mr. Worsham took his "cleaning" in as good grace as possible, but after his return to this city, started war on the speed trap, via the Decatur and Chicago motor clubs, and expects a part refund out of his "bond."

REEDY PROPERTY WAS SOLD TO J. D. MARTIN

John D. Martin has bought the Thomas A. Reedy property for $1500. This is the place that figured in the arson charge against Mr. Reedy.

Christian Church Extends Call To Rev. C. E. Barnett

Illiopolis Pastor Asked to Take Charge of Local Congregation Beginning September 1st. Preached Here Last Week.

Following Bible School services Sunday morning at the Christian church a business session was held and the congregation voted to extend a call to Rev. C. E. Barnett of Illiopolis, Illinois to fill the pastorate of the church.

Rev. and Mrs. Barnett were here on Wednesday night of last week at which time Rev. Barnett preached a sermon and held a consultation with the members of the official board.

There were 16 members of the board present at this meeting and it was unanimously voted to extend a call to Rev. Barnett. This action the congregation ratified Sunday morning.

If Rev. Barnett accepts the call, he will not take charge here until about September 1st as he expects to spend a month's vacation and must give his present congregation 60 days notice. If he can make arrangements to come any sooner he will do so.

The new pastor is 49 years of age and has been in the ministry for 14 years. Prior to that time he was a farmer and later a business man. He has been in charge of the Christian church of Illiopolis for the past eight years. The Sullivan church, having a much larger membership than his present charge will be in the nature of a promotion.

Rev. and Mrs. Barnett have one son who graduates at Eureka this year. A grown daughter died last year. His mother will accompany them to this city and make her home with them.

During the months when the church will be without a regular pastor, Bible school services, followed by communion will be held every Sunday.

LOCAL LEGION MEN WERE HOST TO MORE THAN 500 VETERANS

The big 19th district American Legion convention here Sunday was well attended by veterans from all over the district.

The visitors started arriving early in the morning and some delegations were accompanied by gayly dressed bands. Among the bands that participated were some from Decatur, Clinton and a drum corps from Kankakee.

While preparations had been made to feed a big crowd, some had to be taken to the restaurants. Only about 90 had signified their intention of eating here and fully 160 were fed.

A big parade through the uptown was the afternoon's most colorful feature. Merchants had decorated their show windows and flags were flying all over the uptown.

The baseball game between the Sullivan Grays and a Legion team from Champaign was won by the visitors in an extra inning by a score of 8 to 3. Up to the close of the 9th inning the score was tied 3 to 3.

The next district convention will be held in Charleston August 7th. The state convention will be in Joliet August 28-29. GRAND JURY INDICTS THOMAS A. REEDY AND CHAPMAN AND SKIFF

The grand jury which was recalled to investigate the charges against Thomas A. Reedy, charged with arson and John Skiff and Jesse Chapman, charged with robbing the Simpson filling station in Lovington, met Monday morning and brought in two indictments against Mr. Reedy charging "attempt to defraud insurance company" and a joint indictment against Skiff and Chapman charging "robbery with a gun."

Mr. Reedy when arraigned in court entered a plea of guilty and asked for probation. He is past 72 years of age. Sheriff Lansden was named as investigating officer.

Chapman also entered a plea of guilty and asked for probation. The Sheriff will investigate that case.

John Skiff who is now out on parole did not plead guilty but asked for a little time to consult an attorney relative of his. Pending this legal information Homer W. Wright was named to act as his attorney.

R. W. Adams of Mowequa appeared as attorney for Chapman, who is about 35 years of age.

The plea being made for Chapman is that he has never been in any serious trouble before and that Skiff was mostly to blame for the Lovington escapade.

Council Asked To Put Streets Into Passable Condition

Northwest Part of City Tells Its Tale of Woe and Petitions for Relief. Grading and Drugging is Promised

A number of residents of the Northwest part of the city appeared before the city council at its meeting Monday night and presented a petition asking that the dirt streets in that part of the city be given a little more attention. The petition cited that but little work of any kind had been done on these streets the past year and that many of them have been practically impassable for a good part of the time.

The council and mayor stated that conditions have been such that very little street work could be done, but that as soon as possible grading will be started and an effort made to put these streets into better condition.

J. E. McKown who resides in the southwestern part of the city volunteered to use his tractor and time free of charge for working some of the streets near his home if the city would loan him a grader to use for this work. The matter was referred to the streets and alleys committee.

Error Corrected

About 15 years ago the city of Sullivan voted to issue $35,000 in bonds to be used for the light plant and water department. Through court procedure this amount was later cut to $25,000. The proper records were not made in the court, however, and it has lately become apparent that a mistake had been made somewhere as more bond money was raised by taxation than was necessary. Investigations showed that the tax rate was being extended so as to raise interest money on the $35,000 bond issue instead of the $25,000. The money so raised has been applied to other funds and the necessary correction made on court records so that only the necessary amount will be levied for a few more years as the bonded indebtedness has almost been wiped out.

Appointees Named

Mayor Patterson completed his slate of appointments for the ensuing year and the council confirmed them as follows: Cale R. Cunningham, light superintendent at $150 per month; A. B. Cain superintendent of the light plant at $125 per month. Cash W. Green was appointed city collector for another year.

W. H. Walker made an offer to wreck the old city water tank on tower and accept the junk therefor. The offer will doubtless be accepted, although it was referred to committee to thresh out details with Mr. Walker.

Engine Installation

The new oil engines at the light plant have been installed and are being tried out this week. From indications they will work satisfactorily and the entire load will soon be transferred over.

THE MASTER POLITICIAN WORKED HIS DECATUR MACHINE

Well, it's all over.

The Democratic judicial candidates also ran.

The explanation—the master politician, James S. Baldwin of Decatur, got his political machine to working good.

Judge Baldwin was badly scared.

Before being elected to the bench six years ago, he was reputed to have the best organized political machine in Central Illinois.

That machine still exists.

It was aided by Decatur financial interests and that silly super-pride which Decatur feels in everything that wears its brand.

Sunday's Review stated that there would be at least 500 workers on the job for Judge Baldwin. If you have plenty of money, can "hire" a few hundred or a few thousand "workers"—naturally you win.

Moultrie county was really the only county that showed that spirit of non-partisanship which it is generally conceded, should rule in judicial matters.

The voters of this county paid Joseph L. McLaughlin a remarkable tribute. Regardless of political affiliation the voters came to the polls and gave him, perhaps the biggest majority any candidate ever received in Moultrie county. His majority in Sullivan township was over 600. In the county his majority over the G. O. P. candidates was over 1300. He carried every township in the county. His loyal friends did everything they could for him.

"When the home folks treat a fellow like that, he can't very well feel bad over the ultimate outcome of his race", was Mr. McLaughlin's comment as the returns were coming in from over the district.

Two features stick out very impressively in the result of this campaign.

A non-partisan judiciary is all bunk. It is the cry of those who are in and those who grovellingly come on bended knee to seek favor from those who have the power to grant. When the master politician with a well-financed and greased machine can retain his hold on a high judicial office where is your non-partisanship? The evidence is all to the contrary.

The second conclusion is that Decatur is for Decatur first, last and all the time and will support its sons regardless of all pre-election promises or pre-election conditions. They may split up and raise a big hullabaloo in their city elections, but let the outsider beware who thinks that he finds a house divided against itself in an election where one of Decatur's sons contends with those from the outside.

It was just one more battle on the road which will ultimately lead to victory. One more battle lost.

It was a good fight while it lasted.

BRISBANE

LINDBERGH AND COLUMBUS
A WONDERFUL MOTOR.
NO JUMPING.
LUNGS TOO GOOD.

By the way, fathers and mothers, sad because their sons lack college education, will observe that Lindbergh went to no university, and his "prep school" was a plow on his father's farm. He was a solitary boy, thinking, enjoying danger and new things. Robert Westover, a garage owner in Montana, who once hired Lindbergh to make parachute jumps, says, "I don't think he was lonesome on that trip. Slim Linbergh was a peculiar guy. He did not care for company or any excitement, except daring stuff. Everything he had he carried with him, helmet, goggles and toothbrush stuffed in the big pockets of his overalls."

Lindbergh's difficulty now will be to find something worth doing that will not kill him.

Lindbergh proves that deeds of daring "mad-cap audacity," seeming reckless at the time, are of great permanent value. It was called reckless folly when Columbus made his transatlantic "hop" in the opposite direction. Cool heads told him he would fall over the edge of the ocean, and his crew wanted to turn back.

Fulton's experiment with steam, and Franklin's with the kite, seemed foolish. Congressmen that voted to spend money on Government experiments with telegraph messages were beaten for re-election. The voters "had no use" for a Congressman that would vote to waste money.

Lindbergh's feat will find an echo in the next Congress. It will occur to some Congressman that if one man, all alone, could fly from here to Europe, some thousands might fly from Europe or Asia here, and be less welcome than Lindbergh was in Paris.

The record shows that Lindbergh's Wright motor used less than twelve gallons of gasoline per hour of flying and did better than 100 miles to the hour. At twenty cents a gallon that means about $81 worth of gasoline plus twenty gallons of oil. Not expensive for a trip to Paris.

Anybody who doubts that airplanes will carry passengers across the ocean for less than $50, "all day-light route" has little confidence in human ingenuity.

Statistics show this country's income in 1926 totalled seventy-eight billion, six hundred and forty-nine million dollars, from all sources—the ditch digger's wages, the coupon cutter's toil.

That means $671 for every man, woman and child, or $1,805.37 for every person engaged in earning money.

Professor Nash, teacher of physical education in New York University justly criticises violent exercise for young girls.

To permit competition for girls in hurdle races, high jumping, broad jumping, etc., is a crime against the girls now, and against the future generation.

Girls were not made to JUMP. They were made for motherhood, and should be taught to respect and protect their complicated machinery.

In the Fall "medicinal whiskey" bourbon and rye, made of corn and rye, will be manufactured under supervision of the Treasury Department.

No whiskey should be suggested for medicinal purposes. If doctors say alcohol is necessary, they should use brandy made of grapes. Many poisons are in grain whiskey, even carefully made. Real brandy is free of poisonous oils and other poisons, unless you call pure alcohol a poison.

Wood alcohol is deadly, potato alcohol is very poisonous, grain alcohol less poisonous, grape alcohol safest.

Those that sent threatening letters, concerning the Sacco and Vanzetti case, to Governor Fuller did not

BOUND to the NORTH

WHO'S WHO.

Jeanne Beaufort, daughter of a Virginian, swears vengeance against the North for the deaths of her father and two brothers in the Civil War. She is enrolled as a spy for the Confederate government and instructed to use the wiles of her sex to bring Parson John Kennedy, a Union spy within the power of the South. Discovered in the act of spying upon the group of Secret Service agents of whom Kennedy is the leader, Jeanne is given the alternative of death or marriage to one of their number. They are all masked, but Jeanne rejects one volunteer and chooses another of the eleven as her husband. To herself, she calls him Irony. Parson Kennedy performs the ceremony and the bride and groom ignorant of each other's names and she not even knowing what he looks like, sign the marriage certificate as "Mary Smith" and "John Jones." As Witnesses the group sign as follows:

John Kennedy, D. D.

C-WG-L
A-NK-S
G-RD-A
J-WG-S
F-WG-S
H-RD-M
P-PA-G
J-NK-F
F-BN-S
W-BE-H

They leave her bound and disappear.

Henry Morgan, a Southern officer and spy for the Confederacy, is in love with her but she rejects his advances. One day getting a letter signed "your husband", Jeanne realizes that her identity is known. Disguising herself with a brown wig and staining her face, Jeanne assumes the name of Alice Trent, she goes to Baltimore to carry on her work. She is unaware that a real "Alice Trent" lives in Baltimore.

John Armitage, a Union officer rescues Jeanne from a drunken man. Jeanne induces Morgan to abduct Kennedy so that she may question him about the names on the certificate and about a curious tattoo mark on the arm of the man she married. Armitage rescues him, but Jeanne escapes. She sees placards announcing a reward for her capture, "dead or alive."

General Armitage, father of the Captain, is discussing plans for the final campaign against Richmond when Jeanne, attempting to steal them, is captured. Though she is in boy's clothes, Captain Armitage recognizes her, but says nothing, and is bound to face a firing squad in the morning.

Armitage helps Jeanne to escape and she makes her way back to her home. It is now the Center of a Confederate encampment. Sentries bring word that a Union spy is on the grounds.

The spy attempting escape is killed. Jeanne reads a dispatch in his pocket indicating that he was G-RD-A and on his arm sees the tattoo mark. She now believes that he was her husband. Morgan is discovered to be a Confederate and swears vengeance on Kennedy. Jeanne hopes to obtain by torture if necessary the truth about her marriage from Kennedy. The parson and Armitage accordingly are kidnapped and taken to a deserted cabin. There, bound, they are seated when Morgan lights a short fuse attached to a powder barrel.

CHAPTER IX

That fiber which holds the stout heart impervious to ordinary perils and Kennedy and Armitage were men of the stoutest of hearts—began to disintegrate in the face of this horror.

To die in the fury of physical contest is nothing; indeed, death is forgotten.

But to sit still, to reach out mentally and anticipate, is a thousand times to die! Armitage closed his eyes. It is a strange fact, that, when confronted by immediate death of the catastrophe order, instinctively close our eyes.

Perhaps Kennedy closed his eyes too; maybe he took sardonic pleasure in eyeing the dancing sparks. There might have been a prayer on his lips.

An unexpected gust of cold night air, striking Armitage's forehead, caused him to open his eyes. The door of the cabin was open. He saw a slender youth enter and step on the fuse.

"Is it you, Jeanne Beaufort?" asked Kennedy.

"Yes, Parson Kennedy, it is Jeanne Beaufort. It is the woman upon whose head you set a price, dead or alive. It is the woman you broke and dishonored for doing her cause what you were doing for yours."

She gazed down somberly at the cropped gray head so near her feet. "Have you a prayer that you can recall?"

She then ran over to Armitage and untied the knots with her fingers and teeth. When she had done, he was free to walk, but his hands were still tied behind his back.

"You are free, Captain Armitage. You are not here through any act of mine. You saved my life once; I pay the debt. A life for a life; we are quits."

"You are a woman, and you would let this man die horribly?" he asked incredulously.

"For the evil he has done me, yes."

"I too was guilty."

"In what way?"

"I was there—that night."

The dark eyes merely rose to the level of his own. Everything was perfectly clear and understandable now. The eyes of Jeanne Beaufort and Alice Trent were exactly alike.

"Hurry!" she cried impatiently. "They will be returning if we wait too long."

"I saved your life that night in the hill!"

"Hurry!" was all she said.

"We were madmen. We were none of us accountable for what we did."

"I was," interposed Parson Kennedy, "So be off, son. She will blow me up—and see me forever in her dreams! Let her go ahead, then; and always at her side will be my shadow. Be off."

Armitage backed toward the chair and sat down on the edge of it. "Both of us or neither of us," he said. "Oh!" That monosyllable expressed anger, impatience, impotence, despair. Jeanne clenched her hands fiercely.

"Fool," growled Kennedy. "Have I not often told you that I'd rather die than live? Haven't I called to Death a thousand times, to see him mock me?"

Jeanne looked down at her enemy with reluctant admiration. This gray man who had called to Death a thousand times and been denied awakened the old inherent sense of chivalry. She turned to Armitage.

"Your word of honor not to touch me."

"I give it."

"I will let him go. Let him remember that it was I that gave him his life, even as I would have taken it, indifferently."

She untied Armitage's hands. He felt the tremor of her fingers, but in no wise comprehended its origin. As for Jeanne, since this was to be the last time she was ever to see this man, a terrible almost irresistible desire seized her to throw her arms around his neck and tell him she loved him, loved him!

Armitage rubbed his wrists energetically to take away the sting of the hemp. Then he freed Kennedy, who was really helpless, and dragged him outside the cabin. Jeanne broke off the fuse half a foot from the keg, applied the flame of the candle, and darted from the cabin.

As the Armitage led Kennedy out of the danger-zone he was thrown violently to the ground. The earth had opened up, and hades had stretched a fiery arm toward heaven, to withdraw it in a cascade of sparks and flaming debris.

In the meantime Morgan, prey to singular emotion, waited impatiently for Jeanne. What had delayed her? Where had she gone? Had she any idea that two men instead of one were in the cabin?

Came the thud of hoofs. The rider was Jeanne. She drew up to his side. "Where have you been?" What has delayed you? Why did you come from that direction?" he demanded suspiciously.

"You lied to me, Morgan."

"I?"

"Yes. You lured Armitage into this without warning me."

"Good riddance!"—all his old jealousy rising.

"Well, you overshot the mark, thank God! I let them both go."

"You—what?"

"They are free."

"But the cabin?"

"Oh, you were waiting to see the spectacle, and I did not wish to disappoint you wholly."

"You love Armitage?" He leaned over to seize her wrist, but she swerved her horse.

"Yes, I love him. What then?"

"Well, before God, you're unlucky! You can never marry John Armitage. You are mine!"

Quickly and cruelly he dug his spurs into his horse and fled to avoid the breaking of the verbal dam, the ruin of all his carefully laid plans.

In another moment he would have told her everything for the sake of making that upright figure droop.

Armitage, restored to his father's division, at President Lincoln's intercession, plunged eagerly into his work.

Shortly after his arrival the entire army began its historic movement southward, toward Richmond; and incidentally John Armitage entered a danger-zone of a different sort. A detachment of Federal troops moved out to intercept a train of munitions. They captured it near a small station.

On the rear platform of the station stood a number of cotton-bales. From under the newly arrived freight cars a boyish figure came forth cautiously, crept toward the bales and dodged in among them, wriggling close to the window, which was open.

At the same time, under Armitage's order, a new Federal operator took the telegraph key and hammered out a few friendly greetings to the man at headquarters to prove that he could send tolerably well.

The office was now deserted except for himself. He slouched in the chair and lighted his pipe.

"If you move or utter a sound, I'll shoot!" said a quiet voice over his shoulder. "Right about face! Now, march to that clothes-press and remember that it is death if you speak!"

A woman's voice! It was only when the operator felt himself propelled forcibly into the stuffy clothes press that he realized this was no unsubstantial night-mare.

Jeanne, for it was she, wrenched the clacking key from the screws. Next she smashed the battery-jars.

She arose and glanced out of the east window—and beheld Captain Armitage! He was coming along the platform scribbling as he walked. From the door of the baggage room the spy saw that the unmanned engine stood a dozen feet beyond the first coach.

Armitage briskly entered the station and made for the door of the operator's room. Locked! He shook the handle violently.

"Hey, there, Clark; unlock the door!" he cried impatiently.

No one replied. Armitage, vaguely alarmed, smashed a panel and burst into the office.

He ran to the clothes-press and swung back the door. The operator lurched into his arms, gasping.

The came a fusillade of musket shots. Armitage let go the operator and ran outside.

He grasped the situation instantly. The engine was running away. He saw the head and shoulders of the spy who had accomplished this amazing coup and in the midst of fifteen hundred men. He fired three shots from his revolver.

One struck the steam-gauge above Jeanne Beaufort's head; the second shattered the forward cab-window, the third lodged in her arm. She sank with a stifled cry to the metal flooring. Twenty miles to go! For half an hour to fight off this faintness, this horrible pain. Could she do it? She would do it!

In despair Armitage returned to the station. The telegraph out of commission, the engine gone—they were trapped!

How Jeanne rose above pain and faintness during that twenty miles she never could explain. She just did it; that was all. The final wrench between sensibility and insensibility came when she was forced to stand up to close the throttle.

From the rushes at the left of the embankment rose a score or more of Confederates, headed by Morgan himself.

"Boys, she done it!" he cried. "Fifteen hundred Yarnkees trapped like rats in a hole!"

But Morgan's jubilation was greatly damped when he beheld the huddled figure on the cab floor, the drenched sleeve, the bloody hand.

"Jeanne? My God, they've shot her! A stretcher!"

Morgan lifted her again and laid her gently upon the improvised stretcher and ordered the bearers to carry her to the knoll where the horses were tethered.

As Morgan walked beside her Jeanne began to babble murmuringly. Morgan bent his head and caught an intelligible sentence. It straightened his spine and wiped out the tenderness in his face instantly.

"John—you shot me!—How could you!" Immediately the low babble of incoherent phrases began again.

Armitage, and back yonder, and his bullet had done this work! Always that man was crossing his path. Oh, they must meet some day, in true colors, face to face; and then God help Armitage!

One day, as she lay recuperating, Morgan gave her a sheet of paper. "I had hard work getting this—it is what you asked for," he said.

When he had left she opened the sheet. It was the list of the names of the eleven!

FARMERS BUSILY ENGAGED IN GETTING THEIR CORN PLANTED AND CULTIVATED

This is corn planting week in Moultrie county and the farmers are utilizing every minute of daylight to work their fields and get in their crop. Some have tractors equipped with headlights and work after supper.

The weather has been favorable for this kind of work and some farmers found their fields sufficiently dry Monday to start work. Most of them started planting Tuesday.

The corn which has already been planted is badly in need of cultivation as the weeds are getting a good start and the soil has on account of the heavy rains, puddled and is now drying to a hard crust.

If the weather stays favorable for another week a fair acreage of corn will be in the ground.

Reports say that planting in the Northern part of the state is far ahead of this immediate locality, as the rains over the central part of the state were heaviest and most continuous.

The wheat which is now in ear cannot stand much more moisture, as it is very leafy and farmers fear that rust will set in. Oats are coming along fairly well, but the rains were too much for even these growing crops.

CIRCUIT COURT

The next day of circuit court will be June 11th. It is expected that at that time the petitions for probation in the cases of Thomas A. Reedy and Jesse Chapman will be passed on.

At Saturday's session several chancery cases were referred to the Master in chancery.

Minnie Chandler was granted a divorce from George Chandler.

GOVERNOR SMALL MAKES COMPROMISE SETTLEMENT ON WHAT HE OWED STATE

After several years of litigation, Attorney General Carlstrom last week settled the case against Gov. Len Small, growing out of interest money collected and retained by Mr. Small while he was state treasurer 1917-1919. The amount which it was claimed that Small owed the state was about $1,025,000. The state has spent thousands in prosecuting the case, and finally settled it for about 40 per cent less than figures showed that Small owed. The Governor in his compromise of the case threw the blame on a man named Curtis, who died several years ago.

Last week the Small-controlled legislature passed a bill, designed to protect Small from ouster proceedings, because of the fact that he has been holding office, contrary to the provisions of the constitution which say that no man in debt to the state may serve in an official capacity. After the legislature had passed the measure protecting Small from his just deserts, the Governor's attorneys offered to compromise his debt to the state on a basis of a 40 per cent discount and the Attorney General accommodatingly accepted the compromise.

Last year the Governor is reported to have collected enough from the state employees to more than pay the amount he compromised for.

REV. COLEMAN DEAD

SHOULD DENY BROODY HEN NEST MATERIAL, NOT FEED

Urbana, Ill., June 8—Nesting material, and not feed, should be taken away from the broody hen that is being broken up, says H. H. Alp, poultry extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. The proper way to get a broody hen back into laying again is to stimulate egg production and the way to do this is to put her in a slatted-bottom coop away from all nesting material and to feed her liberally on egg producing feeds, Alp explained. Plenty of egg mash with milk and water to drink should be given. The persistently broody hen is, of course, better sold.

"Look, Thomas, there goes Mr. Johnson. He has been Dr. Himelfeffer's patient for ten years on account of a nervous breakdown."

"Ten years! And the doctor hasn't cured him yet?"

"Oh, yes, he has been cured several times. But every time he gets the doctor's bill he gets another breakdown and the doctor has to take him in hands again."

YOU CAN SEE IDEALS OF PEOPLE
(By Dr. Frank Crane)

The other evening I ran across this human paragraph in a volume otherwise largely technical:

"A man, as he walks in the crowd, feels himself to be an ordinary individual. But in the back of his mind is a more than half-formed phantasy: 'I seem to be an ordinary man, but I am really a man of great importance. People take me for just one of themselves; dressed like anyone else, they don't realize what an extraordinary man they have in their midst. But let an emergency arise—a crisis, an accident to the King—I spring to the rescue and everyone exclaims, 'Who is this? A prince incognito! A genius in rags!' At last I come into my own. This is as true to human nature as scratching a mosquito bite."

Everyone has enacted such beguiling little dramas of the mind in which he plays the hero and "Comes into his own."

Every crowd of people is a stage whereon meek homeward bound clerks are enacting in their minds just what they would do if a burly rowdy should insult a beautiful girl, or an insane man run amuck with a razor.

They strike the villain down, "come into their own."

On all sides we catch glimpses and flashes of what people imagine "their own" to be like.

"I've played golf for thirty years and have never been on my game yet," a man is quoted as saying. His idea of what "his game" was like was something superlative and unattainable. The actual game he played was merely a failure to come up to "his own."

When a woman says, "I have had dozens of photographs taken and have never had a good picture yet," it indicates that her conception of "her own" includes an idea of personal pulchritude which her features, struggle as they will, can't live up to.

It is a truism that, in this world, sooner or later we get about what we deserve. We really "come into our own."

The reason we so rarely realize that what we get is "our own" is that our conception of what it is like is based on our desires instead of our deserts.

Be it remembered that on this 4th day of June A. D. 1927 that the Moultrie County Post No. 318 G. A. R. at their regular meeting on said date adopted the following resolution:

R. do hereby extend to the American Legion and to all persons who took any part in the Decoration Day services on May 30th, 1927, our kindest regards and highest respects for the very excellent arrangements and manner in which the same were carried out in Decorating the graves in the cemetery of the soldiers of the Civil War who had departed this life. That we regard the arrangements and services as one of the best we have had in many years and attribute to those who assisted the Legion in carrying out the same, credit for the success of the Decoration Day services. Passed and approved by unanimous consent of the Post.

Easier To Have
 Than Not To Have

WE MIGHT as well admit it—in summer we are the slaves of our slips. For the daintiest organdy frocks, the most delectable chiffon, Georgette or voile are without charm unless the slip beneath them is exactly right. But though the importance of slips is out of all proportion to their size, yet so is their smart effect great in comparison to their simplicity. Nothing could be easier to make—nor a greater comfort to possess—than this silk slip with its deep shadow-proof hem and its two flat-lying plaits at the side backs. The lace edging may be omitted. CADWELL-ROSEDALE Methodist Church

James T. Wilson, Minister
 Sunday, June 5, proved to be a good day for both Cadwell and Rosedale. Cadwell Sunday school numbering 60 and Rosedale 46, a total of 106 in both schools. This is fine spirit. Let us keep at work.

Cadwell and Rosedale both observed Children's Day, Sunday night. Both reported a good attendance, with a total special collection of $18. Plans are being made to repair the Cadwell church. It will be necessary to paint the church outside and re-decorate on the inside. The solicitors will call on you within the next two weeks. Every church member is expected to help.

The third quarterly conference will be held Sunday afternoon, June 12 at 2:00 p. m. at the Rosedale church. The District Superintendent, Dr. A. M. Wells of Decatur will preach. Don't forget this very important service.

"Worship Does Make a Difference."

THE GOSPEL MISSION

H. H. Smith, Supt.
 9:00 a. m. Sunday school.
 11:00 a. m. Morning worship.
 6:30 p. m. Young Peoples services.
 7:30 p. m. Evangelistic services.
 8:00 p. m. Tuesday cottage prayer meeting and Thursday evening, the regular service at the hall.

We are always glad to have folks in Sunday school, though they come late. It is better late than never, but it is better, never late.

Those who came late on last Sunday found the doors open and they were able to enter. Our doors are open until the services are closed. The invitation has gone forth bidding whosoever will to come to the marriage supper of the Lamb. When the supper starts, the doors are closed, never again to be opened, a lot of people are going to put off getting ready until too late, and they will find the doors closed and themselves without in the midst of that midnight darkness.

With our spiritual ear to the ground we can hear the sound of that gathering host, and our hearts are made glad by the Holy Spirit speaking to us through the scripture "When you see these things coming to pass. Lift up your heads for the redemption draweth nigh."

MRS. NEWBOULD'S ADDRESS OF WELCOME TO PYTHIAN SISTERS RECENT CONVENTION

One of the features of the recent convention of the Pythian Sisters of the 19th district, which was held here, was the address of welcome delivered by Mrs. Lulu Newbould. At request of her friends we are pleased herewith to present it to our readers: Grand Chief, Grand Mistress of Records and Correspondence, Grand Mistress of Finance, Grand District Deputy, Sisters and Brothers:
 A few years with its deeds both good and ill, with its measures of joy and sorrow have passed away only too swiftly, and again we find ourselves actors in the District Convention, made possible by the efficient and untiring efforts of our own dear sister McKenzie.

It is my honored and pleasant privilege, in behalf of our Deputy and other sisters of Lily Temple, to welcome this audience, the presence of which, testifies the interest felt in the higher things of life.

Though the day has its cares and manifold duties, still with the passing of this busy month of May, you in your kindness, have left your homes, social duties and commercial interests, to bring encouragement to our hearts by your interest in the oft told Pythian lore—the principles of Purity, Love, Equality and Fidelity. We appreciate purity, we need love, we want equal and faithful friends and we have and hope to have loyal and true citizens.

As I gaze upon the Book of all Books in the center of our Temple Hall, which is so lovingly opened and reverentially closed in each and every one of our meetings, I am reminded of the Sixth Chapter of Luke. Turning thereto, we would read of the house securely built upon the rock, so it is with the teaching of our honorable order—steadfast, everlasting. Are we not working with something worth while, an organization that will compare with our churches in living through the ages?

Our organization might be likened to that of a fruit tree. I would have you think of the trunk as our Supreme Temple; the branches as our Grand Temples; the twigs as our Subordinate Temples; the leaves as individual members and the fruit as the consequence of our labor. When we grow a little weary in our work, we might ask ourselves—What is the fruit of our labor? We would then turn our eyes to the homes for the orphans and the aged, where also Fraternity, Charity and Benevolence is exemplified—universal loving kindness. Here too, we see the principles represented by our Grand Old Flag, to which our order is so loyal, protecting America by caring for her future and unfortunate citizens. May we be greater inspired to work on in our small way, thereby helping others, for "Bread cast upon the water may return after many days."

Life is so full of blessings that we in our buoyancy of spirit cannot and possibly do not want to realize the disappointments in life which await us, but clouds of sorrow may overshadow our bright skies and Life's day may be darkened only too soon, and let us then, hope for the silvery linings. The future stands before us like a mysterious veiled form, continually and silently beckoning us onward—we live in hope but time maketh all. We are merely standing on the threshold beckoning our armor for life's battle; "Let him not boast who puts the armor on, as he who puts it off, the battle done."

I would not want to close my remarks without speaking of the loyalty and affection with which our Sister McKenzie is bound to our order. Much to our regret, she has informed us that this is her last year in the service as Deputy, but we feel that she will work with the same enthusiasm in the future as she has in the past.

Regarding our little city, I am aware of the fact that you will be permitted to view the places of interest through the kindness of our Community Club.

I trust that this afternoon and evening will prove both pleasant and profitable to all, and again, I bid each and everyone, a cordial and joyful welcome.

When we think of the One Perfect One, we realize that the day will have its imperfections, still we can be lenient toward each other, and I hope at the close of the day, we can think of it as is expressed in the dearly beloved and well known words of Carrie Jacobs Bond:

When we come to the end of a Perfect Day,
 And we sit alone with our thought,
 While the chimes ring out with a carol gay

For a joy that the day has brought,
 Do you think what the end of a Perfect day

Can mean to a tired heart
 When the sun goes down with a flaming ray
 And the dear friends have to part?

Well this is the end of a Perfect Day,
 Near the end of a journey too,
 But it leaves a thought that is big and strong

With a wish that is fond and true,
 For mem'ry has painted this Perfect Day
 In colors that never fade

And we find at the end of a Perfect day
 The soul of a friend we've made.
