Drunken Gunman Shot Terrorizing Dalton City Friday

Harvey Goodwin, Full of Bad Liquor Falls in Duel With Officers who Sought to Arrest Him. Now in Decatur Hospital.

Harvey Goodwin, a "bad man" of Dalton City, who went on the warpath with a gun Friday of last week has since then been in the hospital in Decatur recovering from four bullet wounds.

The wounds were inflicted by bankers deputy Sheriff Fred Earle, after Goodwin had shot several times at Earle.

Goodwin has a bad reputation at Dalton City. Last year he was found guilty in the local court of breaking into Jim Morrison's store. He was but recently discharged from probation. He was addicted to the use of bootleg liquor.

Friday he went up against a brand of the liquid goods that must have made him crazy and blood thirsty. He got boisterous and went on the warpath with a gun.

Sheriff Lansden was called and he, in turn, called up Fred Earle and told him to get out a warrant for the man and arrest him.

In the meantime Goodwin had been in Ferrell's restaurant, where he threatened to "shoot the heads off" anybody who might (Continued on page 5)

Paul Wilson Has Narrow Escape From Fauvics Gampoge Lad

Famous Bull Makes Vicious Attack on Its Owner and Throws Him Over Fence. Injuries Not As Serious As At First Feared.

Paul Wilson, who farms and conducts a dairy southeast of the city had a very painful experience Tuesday morning and was fortunate to escape with his life.

Fauvics Gampoge Lad, famous Jersey bull owned by Mr. Wilson, became unmanageable while undergoing a T. B. test. Dr. Drum, the county veterinary was making the test. The weather was cold and the bull was irritable. Mr. Wilson walked in front of him, between the bull and a woven wire fence. The bull tied with a short rope made a dash at Mr. Wilson and succeeded in butting him in the stomach several times with the side of his head. He then managed to get his head down and with a terrific lunge threw Mr. Wilson over the fence backwards.

The injured man was taken to the house nearby by Mr. Drum and Charles Farmer who was also present. Medical aid was summoned. Mr. Wilson was sore and stiff and for a time it was feared that he had sustained internal injuries. He is getting along very well, however, and although the doctor has consigned him to his bed for a few weeks, he expects to be up and around shortly. He is planning to harness the bull with protective device that will in the future make it impossible for him to attack.

The animal has won prizes in state and other fairs and is the bull brought into this community some years ago by Ralph Emel who had him shipped from the East. He is known by reputation to all Jersey breeders in this state.

Penitentiary Gets Three Who Entered Pleas of Guilty

Auto Thieves Get Sentences of from 1 to 20 years and Hide Thief Gets 1 to 10 year term, in circuit court Monday morning.

Stealing an automobile is a serious offense in the eyes of the law. Glen Gibson, 23, and Ray Ehman 27, found this to be the case when they entered pleas of guilty to that crime in the circuit court Monday.

The grand jury had just indicted them on this charge, growing out of the recent theft of an automobile belonging to Robert A. Collins. The boys were captured in Kansas and the car was recovered.

The sentence for this crime is not less than 1 nor more than 20 years in the penitentiary and this is what Judge Wamsley gave them.

Gibson has knocked around the world some and claims no city as his home. He was born in Centralia. Ehman who has a bad record lived in Decatur before getting into his latest trouble.

When the two men were arraigned it was understood that they would enter a plea of guilty.

As a mere formality Judge Wamsley had to name an attorney for them. The only one present in the court room who was not interested in the case was County Judge Grider, so Judge Wamsley named him. The Judge decided to act when assured that the cases would not get into his court. After this appointment and after Judge Wamsley's explanation to the two men that they had a right to trial if they so desired, they for a time demurred about pleading guilty and it appeared that Judge Grider might have to defend them in a trial. Finally both decided to plead guilty and sentence was passed.

Ed Kennedy of Lovington entered a plea of guilty some weeks ago to an indictment charging grand larceny. He was charged with having stolen hides with a value of about $60 from Barbeti Dessio of Lovington. With Kennedy's plea of guilty went a petition for parole and Sheriff Lansden was named to investigate his past record.

When Kennedy appeared in court Monday he was informed that his plea for parole had been denied and Judge Wamsley sentenced him to an indeterminate term of from 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary. Kennedy was a rather surprised man, when he realized what he was facing.

In this legal procedure it has developed that the Lovington meat market man generally known to his friends and acquaintances as D. Barbeti is really Barbeti Dessio, Barbeti being his first name and not his family name. He is a foreigner who has lived in Lovington for a number of years and is one of that town's leading business men.

SULLIVAN'S BIG PROBLEM

Sullivan has solved several big problems in recent years. Another one, however, confronts us that is as big or bigger than any of these others.

That problem is our unpaved streets.

With Winter just beginning, these streets are already getting into an awful shape.

The streets and alleys fund of the city has for some time been exhausted. There will be no funds available before taxes come in next spring.

People living on paved streets cannot fully realize the great handicap under which people on unpaved streets labor during the winter months.

We boast of our water supply and our fire department. Of what use is the fire truck when streets get into such condition that the truck cannot get through? Of what use is a big water supply when you can't get the hose to the scene of the fire?

The black dirt streets of Sullivan become bottomless in an open, wet winter. Because of lack of funds ditches alongside the streets are not kept open, drainage is neglected. Culverts are neglected and filling up, cause the flow of water to be diverted across the street crossings, washing ditches and forming many miniature lakes and ponds after any heavy shower.

Automobiles and delivery wagons get mired down. Transportation by car becomes almost impossible. Wear and tear on cars which are pounded through these rutted streets are inestimable.

Here's Sullivan's big problem, now demanding some solution.

Sullivan is not a factory city. It is a city of homes. An ideal home must be accessible by passable streets at any season of the year.

All streets cannot be paved, but all unpaved streets can be improved, if funds and labor are available.

At present no funds are available to pay for man-power and materials to keep streets in passable condition.

There must be some means available to get funds, for other cities smaller in size than Sullivan have done so.

This problem presents a challenge to Sullivan.

Shall we tackle it or shall we regard it with an "always has been, always will be" attitude? Shall we make fire protection available to all parts of the city at all times? Shall our homes be accessible at all times, or shall they for certain parts of the year be isolated by surrounding seas of mud?

The way to change an intolerable condition is—first recognize its existence; second, find a way to remedy it; third, find a way to finance the application of the remedy.

Any constructive criticism or suggestions invited. Let's hear from some of you "mud-creepers." What have you to suggest?

DR. FRANK CRANE

Dr. Frank Crane has gone to that "strange bourne from which no traveler returns." Seventeen years ago his editorial sermons began to appear in the newspapers, and in a short time won recognition. He became famous and earned through his writings something like one hundred and fifty thousands dollars a year. The world was quick to respond. He had something that the world wanted. He had the gift of expressing beautiful sentiments in a beautiful way, inspiring and inspiring all of us.

At the age of fifty he climbed down from an underpaid pulpit to brave a new field. Courageously he started out, as if he were a youth, to deliver his sermons in a new way—via the printed word. In editorials in newspapers, he penned praise of all that is noblest and finest in the nature of man, encouraging his readers to live full lives devoted to the Good and the True and the Beautiful. His articles are said to have been read by many as twenty million people, none of whom could have helped being influenced for the better by the lessons of loving-kindness, faith and contentment that he taught.

Dr. Crane's influence will not die with him, for he set an example to a host of men of religion now teaching through the medium of the printed word. Nor will Dr. Crane's editorials die—people will be reading them long after most writing of this period is forgotten.

His great success proves how eager persons really are for moral truth expressed in language that they can understand. The death of Dr. Crane is a great loss to the American public on whom he had such a singularly fine, ennobling influence.

COOLIDGE AGAIN RAPS FARMERS

There will be no legislation for farm relief if Calvin Coolidge can prevent it.

He served notice to this effect Friday night in an address delivered before the convention of the National Grange, an organization of farmers.

Declaring that no government ever gave an industry more aid than agriculture has received in this country, the President stated that the solution of the farmers' problems lay in more scientific methods of production and further development of co-operative marketing.

He stated that any effort at price fixing or entering into business on the part of the government to aid the farmers would be sure to come to grief. Any subsidy that might be paid out of the public treasury to effect farm relief

What is this the picture of??

If you know, write a little historical sketch for the present generation.

NOTE: Dr. Frank Crane passed away while on a European trip. Before leaving this country he had prepared a good many articles in advance. We shall temporarily continue to print articles by the late Dr. Crane. Watch for announcement of their cessation, when they will be replaced by another feature of a similar character and of an equal importance.

WHY GIVE UP?

By Dr. Frank Crane.

I have received a very pitiful letter from a woman out west.

She has had a hard time all her life. She has raised three children, who do nothing for her support. When her husband died he was found to have been improvident and left her no money. She has gone stone deaf. On top of this she has just had a very serious operation in a hospital.

She can see no way out. Nothing presents itself to her but continued suffering, privation and dependence. She is about ready to give up. What should she do?

Why give up?

Of course it is difficult for any one in comparative health and well being to give advice to sufferers. One is always open to the imputation of being supercilious. It is always easy for the philosopher to bear the toothache patiently when some one else has it.

At the same time, and at the risk of being called hard names, I repeat the question, "Why give up?"

Suppose you do give up. Will life be any easier to bear?

It is just as well to look squarely at the alternative.

When some one told Tolstoy that many kind, virtuous, and honest people had a very hard time, he replied: "What about those that are unkind, not virtuous and dishonest? Look about you. Do the people like that whom you know have any easier time?"

The Church in the Middle Ages is often accused of being very cruel. But what about the people outside of the church. Were they any less cruel?

Life may be hard at best, but it is easier and pleasanter all around if we keep a stout heart and do the best we can under the circumstances.

Whatever may be in store for this woman, whatever deprivation and suffering, we can be sure that she will get along better if she meets her fate bravely and smilingly and does not give way to despair.

Whatever happens to us we are better off if we battle on and keep our chin up.

Despair is nothing but a bog, a quicksand, that engulfs the soul. It leaves us no spirit with which to fight.

When a Persian soldier told a Lacedaemonian that in battle the Persian arrows would be so thick they would darken the sky, "then said the Lacedaemonian, "we will fight in the shade."

RUSKIN ON WORK

We are not sent into this world to do anything into which we cannot put our hearts. We have certain work to do for our bread, and that is to be done strenuously; other work to do for our delight, and that is to be done heartily; neither is to be done by halves or shifts, but with a will; and what is not worth this effort is not to be done at all.—John Ruskin.

Paula: "Pansy won a loving cup last night."

Paul: "Oh! I didn't know they gave prizes for that."—Pathfinder.

¶ The world is full of willing people; some willing to work and the rest to let them.

would be hazardous and the people would not agree to pay it for any length of time.

Farm organizations are being placed in a wrong light by the President. They do not ask for any subsidy or any charity from the government or out of the public treasury. What they do ask is legislation that will make the protective tariff policy effective on farm products. The plans mostly discussed provide for a disposal of exportable surplus in such manner that the loss if any is incurred in the disposal of such surplus is to be assessed against the crop benefitted.

The Coolidge speech of Friday night is regarded as an opening argument against any farm relief legislation in the coming short session of Congress. It will further pave the way for any action that President-elect Hoover may contemplate as he is pledged to a continuance of the Coolidge policies.

All of this means that the farmers will have to work out their own salvation. The protective tariff policy which enables manufacturers to charge high prices for what the farmer has to buy will not be made workable when it comes to what the farmer has to sell.

All farmers who voted for Herbert Hoover can here plainly see what they voted for. In fact the matter was brought to their attention very plainly before they voted. With the fear of the Pope in their hearts, they hastened to the polls and voted to continue an economic condition against which they have been beefing and cussing for 10 these many years.

If the Coolidge policy of prejudiced and unfair legislative attitude toward the farmers continues under the Hoover regime, Mr. Hoover and Mr. Coolidge cannot be seriously blamed. They can say without contradiction: "If these farmers were so dissatisfied with our way of handling farm legislation, why did they in such great numbers go to the polls at the November 6th election and give us such an overwhelming vote of endorsement? Gov. Smith promised them the kind of legislation they have been agitating for, but they turned him down. That plainly shows that they like what we have been giving them."

All of which is consistent and partly true. They may forget to take into consideration the fear of the Pope which in many a farm home was a deciding influence and far overshadowed the fear of a mortgage foreclosure.

ONE BRIGHT SPOT

The unpleasantness, generally known as the election of Nov. 6th, was not all a dreary loss for the Democrats. In looking over the results, we find that shortly before the election, one, Joel T. Davis by name, residing in Tuscola, left the Democratic party with bag and baggage and aligned himself with the G. O. P. That action was a decided gain for Democracy. It presents rather a peculiar situation. The Democrats lost a would-be aggressive leader, but deserve to be congratulated on their loss. The Republicans, whether they like it or not find that Mr. Davis has elected himself to membership in their party, and are entitled to sympathy and condolence in their affliction.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE TALK FOSTERED MISUNDERSTANDING IN NEIGHBORHOOD WORLD

(By S. J. Duncan-Clark)

The good will of the world neighborhood has not been promoted by the Armistice day address of President Coolidge. However necessary it may have seemed to him to say some of things which he uttered, the manner of their saying was not calculated to win a reasoning attention from those for whom they were intended.

Neighbor France especially is ruffled. Obviously the President's discussion of foreign loans was rather pointed in her particular case. Now there is a good deal that may be said with justice about the attitude of France toward her obligations which would not be wholly complimentary. And the remarks of the President concerning the unwillingness of the United States to make loans which are employed to increase armaments have appropriateness and popular approval.

But was it either tactful or necessary to declare on the day which is set aside for honoring the memory of those who gave themselves in the great war that the United States derived less advantage from the war than any of the allied nations? With the graves which cover the soil of France; with the picture of her ruined cities poignantly in mind, and with the amazing prosperity of America, stimulated by the war, for which the President's party has been taking to itself credit, surely such an assertion as this could have but one effect, and that to arouse an emotion of bitterness obscuring completely what ever else he may have said that was just and wise.

It is not thus that neighborly understanding is reached.

The reaction in Great Britain has been cooler. With the British debt is a closed incident. Moreover, their recent governmental faux pas in the matter of the new discarded Anglo-French naval agreement inclines them to be quiet. But there is food for thought in the words of Premier Baldwin replying to Lloyd George whose frontal attack on the government's foreign policy raked the ministry fore and aft. The British prime minister quoted from the President's address a passage in which the latter commented on the fact that Europe and America do not understand one another. "I regret it profoundly," said Mr. Baldwin. "But if I am asked why it is, it is very difficult to find the answer. American statesmen do not know European statesmen. European statesmen do not know American statesmen. There is no personal intercourse. The only intercourse takes place in the written dispatch that goes across 3,000 miles. It is very difficult to get mutual understanding under these circumstances."

Mutual understanding among European statesmen has been increasing since the League of Nations came into existence. Mutual understanding between European and Asiatic statesmen—those of Japan in particular—has been increasing. Geneva constitutes a meeting place where these men can learn to know one another, can put aside the formalities and periphrastics of diplomacy, and talk with frankness which promotes understanding. But we have kept out of the League.

When the President of the U. S. and the prime minister of Great Britain agree that Europe and America do not understand one another, they agree upon a fact which is discreditable to both countries and to their respective governments. There is no excuse for the continuance of such a state of affairs. In a neighborhood world it is their business, their solemn duty to see that this condition is corrected; that understanding is promoted. The welfare of hundreds of people, the security of civilization depend upon it. To accept a condition of misunderstanding as a deplorable fact, and to go blundering along in a spirit of acquiescence is not statesmanship. It is stupidity.

"Mamma" exclaimed Mary, bursting into the room, "they're teaching domestic science at school now."

"You mean domestic science, dear?" corrected her mother.

"Perhaps," interposed father mildly, "the little darling means what she says."

No man was ever great by imitation.—Johnson.

A RECORD IN POLITICS
A STATUE TO PASTEUR
THE EYE OF THE NEEDLE
PRAISE FOR THE MOVIES

The President cast his first vote in Northampton, was elected councilman there, long ago, and has been steadily in office ever since, nominated nineteen or twenty times—never beaten. A record in politics as good as Cromwell's in war. Cromwell never lost a battle.

The old farmers would observe with pleasure that being President with $75,000 a year salary, a White House and a big yacht have not spoiled Calvin Coolidge. Next March he will move from the White House to Northampton and resume life in a small house which he rents for $32.50 a month.

Such a man is not dependent on money. But the President could save plenty of it. More than one law firm would be glad to guarantee him three times his Presidential salary. And he would not have to work hard. Perhaps the President chooses to wait awhile, look around, and possibly take a second elective term in the White House, eight years hence.

The erection of a fine statue to the great Frenchman, Pasteur, honors Chicago. Excepting the Lincoln statue, none in Chicago is erected to so noble and useful a man.

Dr. Leopold Stieglitz, of New York, able scientist and brilliant diagnostician, brother of Professor Julius Stieglitz, who teaches chemistry at Chicago University says, "We need a Pasteur to solve the cancer problem. That task calls for a man free of preconceived notions and prejudice; not a man of medical training, seeking to explain cancer according to all methods."

The ignorant sometimes ask "Of what real use is science?" Bismarck taking five billion francs from France, after the war of 1870, thought he had reached the limit. Dr. Stieglitz reminds you that the cash value to France of Pasteur's discoveries far exceeds five billion francs, to say nothing of his work against human disease and suffering.

What Dr. Stieglitz says of Pasteur and the cancer problem, encourages men of no special training. Clear thought and accurate observation work wonders. The inventor of the sewing machine did not know how to sew. Had he known, it would not have occurred to him to put the eye of the sewing machine needle in the point of the needle, rather than in the old place, farthest from the point.

That one idea made the sewing machine possible.

Mussolini, wiser than superficial critics in America, has only praise for moving pictures. Quite accurately, he classes them with the greatest agencies for the education of mankind. The other two are moveable type and photography.

ILLINOIS CORN CROP EXCEEDS YIELD OF 1927 BY 120,600,000 BUSHEL

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19.—Survey of the Illinois Department of Agriculture carries an optimistic tone in the announcement of the season of 1928 has proven a much more promising one in all lines of farm production than did 1927.

HORSES FALL THROUGH ELEVATOR DUMP TRAP

A team of horses owned by W. F. Shields fell through the dump trap at the farmer's elevator Monday afternoon, Nov. 12. Some one had damaged the dumping apparatus and apparently drove away without reporting it to the elevator manager.

When the Shields team came into the elevator and walked onto the dump, it sank beneath them. The horses were wedged into the opening for three hours and no small task was involved in extricating them.

By means of a block and tackle and the aid of a dozen or more men the horses were put back on their feet.

Mr. Shields regarded it the best of his farm teams and in all probability one of the horses will be unable to work the balance of the winter.

No blame attaches to the elevator management, who did not know that the dumping lever had been damaged.—Lovington Reporter.

Now at last there is some real farm relief! The farmers are no longer reminded of their plight over the radio every single night.

$2,000 FOR ONE BABY BEEF REALIZED BY ILLINOIS FARM LAD

National Stock Yards, East St. Louis, Nov. 17.—A new stock yard record for show calves was set Friday when "Black Lindy," an Angus calf, sold for $1.85 per pound. The previous record was $1.71 cents.

"Black Lindy" was owned by Raymond Mobley 19, of Mount Sterling and won the grand championship Thursday in the Producers' Baby Beef club show. Mobley has won reserve championship for the past three years. He realized more than $2,000 for the 1100 pound calf.

Two hundred and fifty-nine calves, raised by club members in 18 Illinois and Missouri counties, were sold in the auction Friday.

LOW PRICES HIT POTATO GROWERS

That the farmers of the corn belt are more fortunate than those of the potato districts of the north are the reports coming from Michigan and other districts, where many of the farmers are in dire distress financially.

In many of those localities the farmers are refusing to harvest their potatoes on account of the low price being offered them.

According to Herbert E. Powell, commissioner of agriculture of Michigan thousands of bushels are being left in the ground and wet weather has caused them to rot.

The agricultural commissioner said he could not estimate how many bushels will remain undug, but he added that 100,000 bushels might be a conservative guess.

Chicago is now offering 20 cents a bushel, although at one time potatoes could not be sold there for more than 10 cents. The Grand Rapids market is now 25 cents per bushel and the Detroit market is little better.

TEAM RUNS AWAY

Bruce Munson's team ran away on South Maple street Thursday afternoon. They smashed the wagon so hard against a C. I. P. S. pole that an electric light was broken, an electric wire was pulled from a pole across the street, a wagon wheel was made into kindling, and a single tree was broken. It was necessary for a trouble crew of the electric company to get the wires off telephone wires, and back to their proper pole. The team took fright at a flapping tarpaulin on a passing truck.—Windsor Gazette.

School Notes

Only four girls wrote in teachers examination held in the office of county superintendent, Mrs. Nettie L. Roughton the latter part of last week. This was as small a number as has appeared for a long time.

Mrs. Roughton has announced that the next bi-monthly examination in the rural schools will be held on Wednesday, December 19th, instead of on Friday of that week. This will prove an accommodation to many of the teachers who are planning for the Christmas holiday season.

Some time ago 28 Christmas boxes were prepared by rural and grade schools of this county and forwarded to the National Red Cross at Washington for sending to Junior Red Cross members abroad. This work locally was initiated by Mrs. Roughton who is county chairman of the Junior Red Cross.

In response to the sending of these boxes Mrs. Roughton has received the following letter: "November 13, 1928. "Mrs. Nettie L. Roughton, Chairman Junior Red Cross "Moutrie County Chapter. "Sullivan, Illinois.

"My dear Mrs. Roughton: We are delighted, indeed, to learn from you that your Juniors had shipped Christmas boxes to New York for the Juniors abroad. We have been informed from New York that the boxes have arrived in good shape.

FOUR YEAR OLD BOY SETS FIRE TO CORN CRIB The four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hurley, who live on Mrs. Betty Dunn Kelly's farm several miles north of Lovington, set fire to a corn crib Monday afternoon, Nov. 12, destroying its contents and the building. Mrs. Kelly, the grandmother, was in the house caring for the baby of the Hurley household. Mr. and Mrs. Hurley were out husking corn. Mrs. Kelly noted that the little boy was making repeated trips in and out of the house. The first thing she knew the crib was a mass of flames.

The crib contained about 400 bushels of oats and ten or twelve tons of baled hay. The boy had climbed onto the hay, igniting it with a match.—Lovington Reporter.

"WINGS" AVIATION SPECTACLE AT GRAND THEATRE NEXT WEEK

"Wings" the spectacular story of the air service over two years in production at an expenditure of over two million dollars comes to the Grand Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, November 26, 27, 28. The cast includes the "most popular girl on the screen," Clara Bow, also Charles Rogers, Gary Cooper, Richard Arlen and others.

To give the picture authenticity the personnel of the producing unit was moved to San Antonio Texas, where for seven months scenes were taken for the picture. One hundred and twenty airplanes were used and five World War "Aces" acted as technical experts to insure an authentic version of the air battles. An exact duplication of a sector of St. Mihiel was constructed under the supervision of those who had fought in the famous original. It is truly a "picture of aviators made by aviators."

During the pictures run at the Criterion theatre in New York for over a year, the show started with standing room only available. Those unable to obtain seats paid $1.10 to see the picture while standing.

During the showing of the picture at the Grand, two complete shows will be given nightly, one at seven p. m. the second at nine. An orchestra of five pieces will provide the music.

APPOINTMENT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF HIGHWAYS DELAYED

state examination. Only one of the applicants, Guy S. Little, did this.
Mr. Little's name was therefore the only one before the board for consideration.
When this matter was taken up Supervisor F. F. Fleming of Arthur moved that the salary of the office be fixed at $1200. Mr. Hortenstine seconded this motion. Before any definite action was taken, it was decided to have a committee confer with Mr. Little.
In the past this office has paid $1500 a year, out of which the superintendent paid his expenses. When the office was vacant some years ago while Mr. Fleming was a candidate for county clerk, it was tendered Mr. Little at a salary of $1,000 and he refused to consider it.
If the salary is set at $1200 the board will doubtless have to add a few hundred more for expenses to secure the services of Mr. Little or any other man competent to fill the office. Mr. Little, due to the fact that he has plenty of experience in road construction work is ideally qualified to give the county excellent service in this office.
The office remains vacant until the board and Mr. Little can reach some agreement.
Dr. J. A. Lucas was reappointed county physician at a salary of $300.
On request of C. W. Tichenor, secretary of the poultry association, the board voted to give the association $75 to help defray the expenses of the annual January poultry show.

displease him. He then went to Ward's restaurant and made a similar threat there. He discharged his revolver frequently and then went to Roney's hardware store for a new supply of ammunition.
It was when he came out on the street again that Officer Earle accompanied by Delmar Zook approached him and told him they had a warrant for his arrest. This meeting was somewhere between the elevator and Wilson's barn. Goodwin was not impressed by the demand of the officers and took refuge behind a telephone pole from where he started shooting. It was now dark and Officer Earle carried a flashlight in his right hand. Goodwin hit the flashlight, the bullet splitting on the rim of it. The part that passed through the flashlight also ripped part of Earle's sleeve.
It was then that Earle drew his gun and started shooting Goodwin. Zook also turned his battery on the desperado.
Goodwin did not start running toward any barn, as has been erroneously reported in Decatur papers. He stood his ground behind the telephone pole during the battle. Earle hit him two times, and Zook hit him twice. The wounds were in right leg, one on the hand and one bullet which appears to have been deflected from somewhere hit him in the neck. This wound has been reported to be serious.
After the man fell Earle approached him and read the warrant for his arrest. Goodwin is reported to have extended his hand in "Billy the Kid" style said "You got me pal, for you were the better man."
A Decatur ambulance was called and the man was taken to the hospital.
Sheriff Lansden says that the report that he wanted to get the man from the hospital Sunday and was refused is also false. He feels that Goodwin's injuries are not serious and that the man may at any time walk out of the hospital, but denies that he tried to take the man away and was refused permission to do so.

WAR BUREAU HEADS ACCORD "WINGS" HIGHEST PRAISE

FORREST LOVINS JR. FATALLY INJURED SUNDAY IN AUTO ACCIDENT

the injuries and shock were so severe that he passed away about 8 o'clock Monday evening without having regained consciousness.
The boy was struck while crossing the road in front of his home. Some relatives had called at his house and he returned with them to their car which was parked on the opposite side of the road which is state highway route 32.
It was his 7th birthday anniversary and his parents were planning to celebrate the event by giving a dinner in his honor. While the guests were entering their car the boy quickly stepped to the rear and started to his home. Not noticing the approaching car he ran directly in front of it and although the driver turned so sharply to the right that his car went into the ditch the little fellow was hit and carried on the bumpers a distance of 25 or 30 feet when dropped in the ditch which was filled with water. Here the car passed over him but none of the wheels struck the boy. Mr. Hall stopped his car quickly and gave what aid he could. He with his wife and 3 children were on their way to Arthur to attend the funeral of his sister's child.
Junior Lovins' home was about 3 miles north of Windsor but he had a number of relatives in and near Sullivan among whom is a great aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Miller. Mr. Hall who is employed by the State Highway department is well known in this vicinity and Arthur where he lived a number of years. His wife before her marriage was Miss Marie Valentine of this vicinity.
A coroner's jury was empaneled at Mattoon Monday night but adjourned until 7 o'clock Thursday night when they will further investigate the case. It is thought that the jury will find that it was an unavoidable accident.

INTERNATIONAL THIS YEAR PROMISES TO BE BETTER THAN EVER

From New York to California, and from Manitoba to the Mexican border, the choicest of horses, cattle, sheep, and swine will be assembled for the opening of the 29th International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago on Dec. 1.

Secretary-Manager B. H. Heide announces that the total number of entries, both of live stock and in the grain and hay department, are the largest ever received. Upon this he bases the opinion that the coming exposition, scheduled Dec. 1 to 6, will surpass all that have gone before it in the quantity of its exhibits and in their quality as well—entries for the most prominent state fair winners on last fall's circuits having been received.

According to the secretary's figures, there are several hundred more entered in the individual live stock classes than at any time before.

Shorthorns lead the last year's line-up by nearly 100 head, with a total of 642. "White faces" will number 422; and the Aberdeen-Angus breed will be represented by 346 choice individuals. Hampshires head the swine breeds for numbers with 384 and the Chester Whites are second with 212. A total of 1440 will take part in this division of the show.

Introduce Foreign Champions

The pastoral picture will have in it 200 more units than were to be seen last year, with a total of 1403 sheep. Of these the Shropshire breed will be in the majority, represented by 233 head. Percherons and Belgians again lead the draft horse breeds as to number. In the Belgian and Percheron rings several illustrious show animals will be introduced to American horse show rings for the first time, they being recently imported from across the water after winning at the Brussels Show in Belgium and the national French expositions. When the light horse and car load lot entries, which close later on, are added, the total number of animals on exhibit will be around the 12,000 mark, declares Mr. Heide.

Wool Show Added

A new note in the 1928 International will be sounded in the form of a Wool Show. It has been planned to encourage the production of better wool, as well as to improve on the methods ordinarily used in preparing fleeces for market. In the Grain and Hay Show, which has grown to be the largest display of forage products in the world, over 5000 samples will be on view. The fact that samples are on the way from the Canadian provinces, as well as Australia and New South Wales, gives this part of the exposition a truly international significance.

EDITORIAL

We have a friend who is a traveling salesman. His sole possessions are a nice car and a few clothes. He is not married. He has no near relatives. He lives in hotels. He has no home, not even a town which he calls his home town. He leads a care-free life but we do not envy him.

Many a farmer follows the wasteful habit of hauling his grain to market, selling it at a low price and then buying and taking home high-priced mill feeds. A gasoline engine and a feed grinder will remedy this condition. He can grind and mix his own feeds, whether for cattle, hogs or poultry.

A new grinder that Mc-D has placed on the market this fall permits of cutting roughage and then grinding it to any texture desired. You can turn your red clover, or alfalfa hay, or even corn fodder into a feed of any fineness you may want it.

Come in and let us tell you more about feed grinders. The farmer who markets his hay and grain via livestock market is the fellow who has been making money.

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE

Buck Dwayne on the draw kids Cal Bain in self-defense and finds himself an outlaw. Flying from pursuit, he meets Luke Stevens, another outlaw, and the two become pals. Luke narrowly escapes capture and Duane is shocked to find his brother outlaw severely wounded.

Duane buries Stevens. Then he goes on to Bland's camp, and gets into a fight with a man called Bosomer and wounds the latter. He makes a friend of an outlaw at Bland's called Euchre, who tells him of Mrs. Bland and the girl Jennie.

Duane meets Jennie, and promises to try his utmost to get her away from Bland's camp. To avert suspicion, it is planned that he pretend to care for Mrs. Bland. Euchre introduces him to the latter and he engages in conversation with her.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

Evidently the outlaw's wife liked Euchre, for her keen glance rested with amusement upon him.

"As for Jen, I'll tell you her story some day," went on the woman. "It's a common enough story along this river. Euchre is a tender hearted old fool, and Jen has taken him in."

When Euchre had shuffled into the house Mrs. Bland turned to Duane with curiosity and interest in her gaze.

"I'll tell you, Duane," she said earnestly. "I'm sure glad if you mean to bide a while. I'm a miserable woman, Duane. I'm an outlaw's wife, and I hate him and the life I have to lead. I come of a good family in Brownville."

"I never knew Bland was an outlaw till long after he married me. We were separated at times, and I imagined he was away on business. But the truth came out. Bland shot my own cousin who told me. My family cast me off, and I had to flee with Bland."

"I was only eighteen then. I've lived here since. I never see a decent woman or man. I never hear anything about my old home or folks or friends. I'm buried here—buried alive with a lot of thieves and murderers. Can you blame me for being glad to see a young fellow—a gentleman—like I used to go with?"

"I tell you it makes me feel full—I want to cry. I'm sick for somebody to talk to. I have no children, thank God. If I had I'd not stay here. I'm sick of this hole. I'm lonely."

There appeared to be no doubt about the truth of all this. Genuine emotion checked—then halted the hurried speech. She broke down and cried. It seemed strange to Duane that an outlaw's wife—and a woman who fitted her surroundings—should have weakness enough to weep.

"Would Bland object if I called on you occasionally?" inquired Duane.

"No, he wouldn't. He likes me to have friends. Ask him yourself when he comes back. The trouble has been that two or three of his men fell in love with me, and when half drunk got to fighting. You're not going to do that."

"I'm not going to get half drunk, that certain," replied Duane. Without any solicitation or encouragement from Duane, the Bland woman fell passionately in love with him. His conscience was never troubled about the beginning of that affair. She launched herself. It took no great perspicuity on his part to see that.

He was playing a game of love. Playing with life and death! Sometimes he trembled, not that he feared Bland or Alloway, or any man, but at the depths of life he had come to see into. He was carried out of his old mood.

Not once since this daring motive had stirred him had he been haunted by fancies of Bain beside his bed.

Rather had he been haunted by Jennie's sad face—her wistful smile—her eyes.

He never was able to speak a word to her. What little communication he had with her was through Euchre, who carried short messages. But he caught glimpses of her every time he went to the Bland house. She contrived somehow to pass door or window, to give him a look when chance afforded.

And Duane discovered with surprise that these moments were more thrilling to him than any with Mrs. Bland. Often Duane knew Jennie was sitting just inside the window, and then he felt inspired in his talk, and it was all made for her. So at least she came to know him while as yet she was almost a stranger.

Jennie had been instructed by Euchre to listen, to understand that this was Duane's only chance to help keep her mind from constant worry, to gather the import of every word which had a double meaning.

Euchre said that the girl had begun to wither under the strain, to burn up with intense hope, which had flamed within her. But all the difference Duane could see was a paler face and darker, and more wonderful eyes. The eyes seemed to be entreating him to hurry, that time was flying, that soon it might be too late.

Then there was another meaning in them—a light—a strange fire wholly inexplicable to Duane. It was only a flash, gone in an instant. But he remembered it because he had never seen it in any other woman's eyes.

Inside Duane's body there was a strife; his heart pounded, his blood raced, his breast bore a heavy pang. Something hot had dug into his vitals and the pain remained. In the depths of his mind, his soul, there was chaos. He felt something dying in him. He suffered. Hope seemed far away. Despair had seized upon him and was driving him into reckless mood when he thought of Jennie.

He had forgotten her. He had forgotten that he had promised to save her. He had forgotten that he meant to snuff out as many lives as might stand between her and freedom.

The very remembrance sheered off his morbid introspection. She made a difference. How strange for him to realize that! He felt grateful to her. He had been forced into outlawry; she had been stolen from her people and carried into captivity.

They had met in the river fastness, he to instill hope into her despairing life, she to be the means, perhaps, of keeping him from sinking to the level of her captors. He became conscious of a strong beating desire to see her and talk with her.

These thoughts had run thru his mind while on his way to Mrs. Bland's house. He had let Euchre go on ahead because he wanted more time to compose himself. Darkness had almost set in when he reached his destination. There was no light in the house. Mrs. Bland was waiting for him on the porch.

She embraced him, and the sudden, violent, unfamiliar contact sent such a shock through him that he all but forgot the deep game he was playing. She however, in her agitation did not notice his shrinking.

"Duane, you love me?" she whispered.

"Yes—yes," he burst out, eager to get it over, and even as he spoke he caught the pale gleam of Jennie's face through the window.

He felt a shame—he was glad she could not see. Did she remember that she had promised not to misunderstand any action of his? What did she think of him out there in the dusk with this bold woman in his arms?

Somehow that dim sight of Jennie's pale face, the big, dark eyes, thrilled him, inspired him to his hard task of the present. "Listen, dear," he said to the woman, and he meant his words for the girl. "I'm going to take you away from this outlaw den if I have to kill Bland, Alloway, Rudd—anybody who stands in my path. You were dragged here. You are good—I know it. There is happiness for you somewhere—a home among good people who will care for you. Just wait till

His voice trailed off and failed from excess of emotion. Kate Bland closed her eyes and leaned her head on his breast.

Duane felt her heart beat against his, and conscience smote him a keen blow. If she loved him so much! But memory—understanding of her character hardened him again and he gave her such commiseration as was due her sex and no more.

"It's Bland!" whispered the woman, grasping Duane with shaking hands. "You must run! No he'd see you. That'd be worse. It's Bland. I know his horse's trot."

"But you said he wouldn't mind my calling here!" protested Duane. "Euchre's with me. It'll be all right." "Maybe so," she replied, with visible effort at self-control. Manifestly she had a great fear of Bland. "If I could only think!"

Then she dragged Duane to the door, and pushed him in.

"Euchre come out with me, Duane you stay with the girl. I'll tell Bland you're in love with her. Jen if you give us away I'll wring your neck!"

The swift action and fierce whisper told Duane that Mrs. Bland was herself again. Duane stepped close to Jennie, who stood near the window.

Neither spoke, but her hands were outstretched to meet his own. They were small, trembling hands, cold as ice. He held them closely, trying to convey what he felt—that he would protect her. She leaned against him, and they looked out of the window.

The approaching outlaws, halted a rod or so from the porch. Then Mrs. Bland uttered an exclamation, ostensibly meant to express surprise and hurried out to meet them.

She greeted her husband warmly and gave welcome to the other man. Duane could not see well enough in the shadow to recognize Bland's companion, but he believed it was Alloway.

"Dog-tired we are and starved!" said Bland heavily. "Who's here with you?"

"That's Euchre on the porch. Duane is inside at the window with Jen," replied Mrs. Bland.

"Duane!" he exclaimed. Then he whispered low—something Duane could not catch.

"Why, I asked him to come," said the chief's wife. She spoke easily and naturally, and made no change in tone. "Jen has been ailing. She gets thinner and whiter every day. Duane came here one day with Euchre, saw Jen, and went loony over her pretty face, same as all you men. So I let him come."

"Kate, you let Duane make love to Jennie?" queried Bland incredulously.

"Yes, I did," replied the wife stubbornly. "Why not? Jen's in love with him. If he takes her away and marries her, she can be a decent woman."

Bland kept silent a moment, then his laugh peeled out loud and harsh.

"Jennie," whispered Duane, "that was clever of Mrs. Bland. We'll keep up the deception. Any day now be ready."

She pressed close to him, and a barely audible "Hurry" came breathing into his ear.

Then he stepped out into the moonlight and spoke. Bland returned the greeting and, though he was not amiable, he did not show resentment.

"Met Jasper as I rode in," said Bland presently. "Duane, I want you to stop quarreling with my men. If you were one of us—that'd be different. I can't keep my men from fighting. But I'm not called on to let an outsider hang around my camp and plug my rustlers."

"I guess I'll have to be hitting the trail for somewheres" said Duane.

"Why not join my band? You have got a bad start already, Duane, and if I know this border you'll never be a respectable citizen again. You're a born killer. I knew every bad man on this frontier."

"More than one of them have told me that something exploded in their brain, and when sense came back there lay another dead man. It's not so with me. I've done a little shooting, too; but I never wanted to kill another man just to rid myself of the last one. My dead men don't sit on my chest at night. That's the gun-fighter's trouble. He's crazy. He has to kill a new man—he's driven to it to forget the last one."

"But I'm no gun-fighter," protested Duane. "Circumstances made me—"

"No doubt," interrupted Bland with a laugh. "Circumstances made me a rustler. You don't know yourself. You're young; you've got a temper; your father was one of the most dangerous men Texas ever had. I don't see any other career for you. Instead of going it alone—a lone wolf, as the Texans say—why not make friends with other outlaws? You will live a while longer."

Euchre squirmed in his seat.

"Boss, I've been givin' the boy eggactly that same line of talk. That's why I took him to bunk with me. If he makes pards with us there won't be any more trouble. An' he'd be a grand feller fer the gang. Slickest of all the gun-throwsers I ever seen! An' I've rustled around over the southwest."

C. O. HESLER SPRINKLED BY NICK FOSTER'S GUN

C. O. Hesler was sprinkled with shot from a 12-gauge gun in the hands of J. N. Foster, Monday afternoon, Nov. 12. The other member of the party was W. R. Hesler, and the three were hunting in a field several miles north of Lovington. Claude and Mr. Foster were about 200 feet apart when the latter shot into a bunch of quail, without knowing that the former was within the range of his gun. About sixty shot went into Claude's legs, face and neck. He was brought to town at once and taken to the office of Dr. Scaggs, where most of the shot were picked out. Unless some infection would set in it is not thought he will suffer any serious effects from the accident.

Claude was wearing a heavy hunting coat and was carrying his gun across his arms with the stock extended in Mr. Foster's direction. The gun stock and coat received a share of the gun's charge, which otherwise would have gone into the abdomen.—Lovington Reporter.

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

Dr. B. Caldwell, M.D. AT AGE 83

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

LATE FALL NOT TOO EARLY TO BEGIN ANOTHER GARDEN

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 20—Some telling licks against insects, diseases and weeds can now be landed by gardeners who realize that it is not too early to begin thinking about next year's garden. It is pointed out by L. H. Strubinger, of the horticulture department, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

"Late fall is the best time to clean up and burn all the rubbish which has accumulated during the past growing season. Burning of such rubbish may destroy certain insects as well as their eggs or larvae thus helping to get rid of some serious pests. Also burning the refuse may aid in ridding the garden of certain kinds of diseases which may cause rather large losses. If weeds have been allowed to grow during the latter part of the season, many of the seeds produced will be destroyed in the burning of the trash."

"After the garden has been cleaned up, a heavy coating of manure should be applied in order to maintain the fertility and organic matter content of the soil, since vegetable crops take a very friable fertile soil for maximum production. Twenty-five to forty loads of good manure an acre of them are used for this purpose. This is applied at the rate of one-half to one ton of manure for every four square rods."

"As soon as the soil is in fit condition for plowing, the manure should be turned under so that it may begin to undergo decomposition and thus supply readily available plant food for growth early the following spring. Fall plowing also may turn up many of the insects which spend the winter in the soil, thus killing them through exposure. Plowing at this time also leaves the soil in a condition so that it may be greatly benefited by the alternate freezing and thawing of the winter months. Such action makes the soil more friable so it is in workable condition at an earlier time in the spring, thus permitting crops to be planted much earlier than is usually possible."

Minor School History Written by M. Ritchey Read at Homecoming

District an Important Factor of County's Development. Miss Ritchey's Sketch Has Much Historical Value.

The Homecoming held at the Minor School house on the evening of Nov. 14, 1928 was well attended and former teachers, pupils and patrons that were present expressed their pleasure by remarks recalling events and incidents that were decidedly interesting to all present. Letters from former pupils were read and then Mr. Smith the present teacher, gave boxes of candy to the following people among the Homecomers:

Mrs. Ed Campbell, the oldest pupil of Minor school.

Mrs. Eunice Casteel, the teacher of the earliest date 1892-93.

V. R. Ashbrook and Eugene Freese who had served the greatest number of years as directors in Minor district.

The following history of Minor school as a district was given by Miss Mary Ritchey and was greatly appreciated.

The Minor school district was formed in 1862. The first log school house was located on the Abia Minor farm on the south side of the road about 40 rods east of where the Eugene Freese residence now stands. Michael Warren taught the first school and Mrs. A. H. Dolan and Abia Chipps now of Sullivan were among the first pupils.

Other teachers at this place were George Cliver, Minnie Houston, Lizzie Shriver and Mrs. David Lowe.

In 1868 a new frame school house was built three-fourths of a mile north of the original site on the Thomas Mackan farm. Mrs. Vitura Kelly Merritt now of Allenville taught the first school there and other teachers in this school house were: James Scott, Carl M. Hoddy, Thomas Walker, and Rev. Houk. Pupils attending at that time now living in the county are: Mrs. F. M. Harbaugh, Mrs. Ella Crawford, Mrs. Edward Campbell, Henry Ray, and Wesley Clark.

Late in October 1871 through a defective flue this building was burned, but the furniture was saved and the teacher's desk is still in use.

In 1872 they redistricted and changed the size of the districts from a 3 mile square to two mile; and the school was again changed to the present site, on the Oliver Humble farm. The designers of this building evidently had "high school" in mind for it was first set about 3 1/2 feet off the ground on wooden blocks. John Powell taught the winter of 1873 and of the 56 pupils enrolled Allen Ritchey is the only one now living in the district.

Other teachers in this school house were Eunice Ellington, Lewis White, Walter Rose, Frank Wainright, Allie Anderson, John A. Shortess, Anna Neff, Jessie Seass, Flora Anderson, Thomas Powell, Anna Lowe, Dolsie Ritchey, Hettie Stricklan, Robert Brown, Lucy Freese, Joseph Burns, Lizzie Henneberry, Dora Baugher, Al Frazier, Z. B. Waggoner, C. S. Edwards, Eunice Ritchey, Anna Griffin, Lizzie McCarty, Lora Hardin, Ethel Potts, Margaret Bell, Gertrude Casteel, Abbie Lincoln, Cora Gardner, Mollie Lucas, Maye Jeffers, Nannie Ellis, Olive Clarke, Gertrude Hill, Grace Bracken, Alta Chipps, Grace Arnold, Harry Wischart, Hattie Riggan, Anna Magill, Estella Elder, Laura Mattox, Bonnie Campbell, Erma Fread, Myrtle Shaw and Katherine Shaw.

In 1916 a substantial brick building was erected and the following teachers have taught since: Eugenia Burns, Zora Kenney, Osa Vandever, Pauline Pierce, Mabel Martin, C. L. Martin, Katherine Shaw and our present teacher, genial and capable Verne A. Smith.

Signed—
Mary E. Ritchey.

WILLIAM LEWIS OF NEAR HAMMOND DIED SUDDENLY MONDAY

William Lewis one of the best known farmers of Moultrie county dropped dead in his garage at his home south of Hammond Monday morning about 7 o'clock. A stroke of apoplexy caused his sudden demise.

Mr. Lewis had taken a bucket of water to the garage to fill his radiator. After doing this, he put on the radiator cap. His farm hand Will Acton working nearby happened to glance toward the garage at this point and saw Mr. Lewis lying on the ground. He hastened to his side and found him dying. In a few minutes life had fled.

He had many friends in Hammond, Arthur and Lovington, also in Sullivan where he visited occasionally and frequently served on juries. He was a substantial citizen, a good farmer and a loyal Democrat.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Lewis and was born on the place where death claimed him, about fifty seven years ago. This farm is in the northeast corner of Moultrie county, two miles southeast of Hammond.

His aged father survives him. He also leaves his wife Mrs. Emma Lewis and two daughters, Mrs. Lucile Bandy of near Hammond and Mrs. LaVon Watson of Arthur and the following brothers and sisters: Frank Lewis of LaPlace, Dr. J. L. Lewis of Carlinville, Mrs. Emma Landgrebe of Lovington, Mrs. Hattie East of Lovington, Mrs. Mollie Moberly of Hammond and Mrs. May Clore of Pontiac.

He was a member of the Lovington Masonic lodge.

MRS. JESSIE BLAND KILLED WHEN HIT BY STREET CAR IN CHICAGO SATURDAY

Mrs. Jessie Evans Bland a former resident of this community was fatally injured by being struck by a street car at 74th and Bishop streets in Chicago Saturday afternoon. She died in an Englewood hospital the same day without regaining consciousness.

She was born near this city November 30, 1853 and was daughter of Benjamin and Mary McCune Evans, early settlers of this part of Illinois. She received her early education in the Sullivan public schools and later attended Westfield College at Westfield, Ill. In her youth she spent three years in California but lived here for many years before going to Chicago. She taught in the Sullivan public schools.

In 1893 she was united in marriage with Winfield Scott Bland in Chicago. To this union was born one child, Henry Band.

For the past 27 years she lived in Englewood, where her husband preceded her in death in 1914. She leaves her son Henry, her sisters Mrs. Anna McKenzie and Mrs. Kate Hudson and brothers, Edward, Job and Benjamin. One older sister, Mrs. Jennie Miller, died about two years ago.

For 26 years Mrs. Bland was a member of the Ashland Christian church and was an active worker in the church and its auxiliary organizations.

The remains were carried to their last resting place by R. R. Evans, Eugene Bland, O. C. Yarnell, E. A. McKenzie, Leo Reither and Frank Peterson.

Flower girls were Mary Evans, June Yarnell, Hazel Yarnell, Marie Evans and Mrs. Peterson.

SULLIVAN MARKETS

This ought to be turkey week but very few Moultrie county folks raise turkeys. Ollie Pankey marketed three this week that weighed 40 pounds at 35c per lb. Produce houses were offering around that price but very few were to be found.

Ducks have been moving liberally and price paid now is 15c per lb. Other poultry is not moving to market as rapidly as might be expected at Thanksgiving time. Hens are worth 15 to 20c; springs 15c to 21c; cox 10c; geese 14c. Eggs are worth 42c cash at produce houses and butterfat is 46c.

Corn shows another two cents gain over last week. Elevators were paying 72c Thursday for No. 4. Oats was 40c, wheat $1.02. A few sunflowers were coming in at $3.25 per cwt. Soybean price remains at $1.15.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING.

A county council and county executive meeting of the Moultrie County Sunday school association will be held at the M. E. church in this city at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

HUGH M. RIGNEY OF ARTHUR JOINS DENVER NEWSPAPER

Sunday morning following Sunday school hour at the Vine street Christian church in Arthur, Hugh M. Rigney, the superintendent, tendered his resignation. As a reason for resigning he stated he expected to leave for Denver on Wednesday of this week, there to take up his duties in connection with a community newspaper enterprise.

The announcement was a surprise for all present, as it will also be for Mr. Rigney's many friends in this part of the state. Victor McDonald was elected to fill the Sunday school vacancy.

Mrs. Rigney will remain in Arthur for the present, but expects to join her husband at Denver later.

Mr. Rigney is one of the best known newspaper men in this part of the state although he has not been actively engaged in the newspaper work for some years. He formerly published the Arthur Graphic-Clarion of which his son Hugh P. Rigney is now publisher.

While Mr. Rigney's many friends wish him success in Colorado they nevertheless hope, that the lure of Arthur will be too strong and that he will soon be back in that city, where he has been one of the leading boosters. Besides newspaper work and town boosting, Mr. Rigney has also been active in real estate affairs and has been a staunch standby of Democracy in both Lowe and Bourbon township affairs.

MISSIONARY AND STEWARDSHIP LESSONS EXEMPLIFIED IN CHURCH

Wednesday night was monthly church night at the Christian church. Following the pot-luck supper all went to the main auditorium of the church for evening's program.

The first feature on the program was staged by Rev. Barnett and boys and girls of the Christian Endeavor. It showed the difficulties usually met by those working in the church's every-member canvass and the way in which good sound argument can overcome them.

Following this, he ladies of the church staged an elaborate production which entailed quite a bit of work. It showed the good that can be realized out of missionary effort as brought to the attention of church people through reading a church paper "The World Call." The ladies were assisted by a number of the men of the church and boys and girls. Many participated in this pageant, which was very impressive and instructive.

SMYSER

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Robinson and family were Friday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Armantrout.

JUDGE LAMBRECHT HAD COURT SESSION IN JAIL SATURDAY NIGHT

Police Magistrate L. Lambrecht Saturday night held court in the county jail and disposed of two cases which needed his attention.

O. O. Allen of Decatur had given a bad check to Mrs. Mabel Hoggard in Lovington. She had him arrested in Decatur and he was brought to this city. He entered a plea of guilty to charge and was fined $10 and costs, making a total of $29. He paid up and was dismissed.

Les Sherman of near Arthur, had imbibed too freely of Volstead juice and was found lying alongside the road several miles north of this city Saturday night. Sheriff Lansden arrested him and brought him to this city. A charge of driving while intoxicated was changed to "disorderly conduct." He pleaded guilty to that charge and was assessed a fine of $60 and costs, or a total of $74.15, which was promptly paid.

NINETEEN HOGS FELL IN OLD WELL ON FARM NEAR BELLFLOWER, ILL.

Up near Bellflower, Illinois lives a farmer named George Moore who recently had more than his just share of hard luck.

On the Moore farm is an old abandoned well about 14 feet deep. Surrounding this well is a field in which some hogs were pastured. While rooting around the pasture the hogs got to rooting near the well and finally tackled the old well cover. It was rooted off and th inquisitive hogs, one after another—all 19—dropped in the well.

When Mr. Moore discovered the predicament of the hogs, the ten lower ones were dead. The nine on top of the pile were rescued alive. The loss is a heavy one for Mr. Moore.

The moral—fill up abandoned wells or fasten safe covers over them.

SULLIVAN INDEES BEST ASSUMPTION, 24 TO 23

CITY DADS PLAN AN ORDINANCE TO REGULATE MOTORS

At Monday night's meeting of the city council the matter of regulating certain motors in this city was taken under consideration. The light plant management reported that there were several motors in the city, the starting apparatus of which was not modern. By throwing the juice into these motors as has been done in the past, there is danger of seriously crippling the power plant. If the power is applied gradually there is no danger, but if thrown on all at once, the amount of juice consumed is too great for the carrying facilities.

It is planned to pass an ordinance regulating these matters and then insisting that all motor equipment conform with the rules laid down in the ordinance. Mark Pedigo was granted a license to run a box ball alley and pool table in a room on the south side of the square. This will be the fourth poolroom for Sullivan, but the only box ball alley.
