Railroads Fight Payment of Part Of School Taxes

Technical Objection Raised to Payment of $2,000 Levied by Non-High School Board. Also Object to Part of Grade School Taxes.

The amount of $2,000 of non-high school district tax money is involved in a court action which was up in the county court Monday morning. The C & E I railroad, the Wabash and the C. C. C. & St. L. are objecting to the payment of this amount in taxes.

The county treasurer is endeavoring to secure judgment against these companies to compel payment.

The objection is merely technical. The non-high board consisting of W. R. Kennedy, James Morrison and J. L. Mayes, all of Dora township met in June of last year and made the levy. No minutes were kept of this meeting and the levy was filed with the county clerk on October 4th which was two days later than the time limit set by law. Because of these two matters the railroads contend that the amount of taxes claimed for this purpose cannot be legally collected.

F. J. Thompson as attorney for the non-high board has shown that the minutes of the board have been amended and that in this way the provisions of the law have been complied with. At the hearing Monday morning none of the members of the non-high board appeared and the main witness for the state was Mrs. Roughton, county superintendent of schools. In her official capacity she is secretary of the board, but acts only on instructions given her by the board, of which she is not a member.

After hearing the arguments Judge Grider set Friday morning as time for hearing the arguments in the case.

The Illinois Central railroad is objecting to some of the taxes levied in the Sullivan, Bethany and grade school districts. In making the levy last year, a certain amount was levied to pay for bonded indebtedness. The railroad attorneys say that the law does not provide for any such levy and that the bonded indebtedness must be paid out of the building fund. The school districts through their attorney contend this levy was made under the amended school laws of 1927 and is correct in every detail.

Until the non-high suit is determined there will doubtless be no payment of the tuition claims of the districts which non-high pupils attended during the past school session.

A Good One -- To Pass Up

JAMES A. WEBB DIED AT BROTHER'S HOME ON TUESDAY

James A. (Turk) Webb member of a prominent pioneer family and well known as a farmhand died at the home of his brother, Henry H. Webb in Jonathan Creek township Tuesday. Early this spring he was employed by George Oliver, but his health failing he went to the home of his brother and for the past six weeks had been ill there.

He was a son of Henry and Amy Webb and was born in Jonathan Creek township. With the exception of a few months at a time when he would go to other states to work, he had spent practically his entire life time in Moultrie county.

Moultrie county. His day of birth was June 8, 1868 and he was 61 years, 1 month and 15 days old, when he died.

He was never married. He leaves the following brothers and sisters: George S. Webb of this city; Henry H. Webb of Jonathan Creek; Samuel Addison Webb and Tobe Webb of Decatur; Sarah, wife of Ben Freeman of this city, and Linnie, wife of Lee Reed of Algona, Iowa. Two brothers and two sisters preceded him in death.

The name "Turk" by which he was familiarly known, was acquired in a peculiar manner. While working as a broom corn cutter years ago in company with other men, he threw something at his employer's turkeys and killed one. His companions promptly named him "Turk" and the nickname stuck through life.

SOIL TESTING TRAIN HERE ON AUGUST 31

Luther Fuller, agricultural agent of the C & E I railroad was in this city Tuesday conferring with officers of the Community Club relative to making arrangements for a stop of the soil train here on the afternoon of Saturday, August 31st.

This train will carry demonstrations, laboratory, exhibits, competent speakers on soils and crops from the U. of I. and many other features of interest to the town and country people with a view of increasing the interest in better methods of farming.

Farmers are asked to bring in samples of soil to be tested for acidity and they will be taught how to make these tests themselves. Information will be forthcoming as to what steps to take to overcome the acidity of the soil.

The community is asked to cooperate with the C & E I folks in an effort to awaken interest in this project and secure a good crowd.

The president of the Community club has named Chester Horn, E. O. Dunscomb and J. F. Gibbon as a committee to confer with a committee to be named by Farm Adviser Hughes to make plans that will assure a success for this day.

The C & E I demonstration trains are not a new venture. That company has in the past had poultry and bull trains and the people have turned out to gather what information the exhibits and lectures offered.

RAIN THURSDAY AFTER HOT DRY SPELL WAS WELCOMED BY ALL

After about ten days of dry weather this locality was visited by a very welcome rain Thursday morning.

Threshing has been progressing rapidly and many farmers took advantage of the fine haying weather.

Work in the corn fields has been kept up and there is hope that some of the later corn, with favorable weather may mature a fair crop.

Soybeans and sunflowers have also been doing fine, but all growing crops were much in need of rain. The exceedingly heavy rains which have afflicted this territory this spring have packed the soil, making it subject to hard crusts after a few days of hot sultry weather.

Occasional rains and plenty of hot sultry weather will do wonders for the late corn crop.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

There will be an ice cream social at Jonathan Creek church on Tuesday evening, July 30th, at 7:30. Everybody invited.

DECATUR KIWANIS GUESTS FRIDAY OF SULLIVAN CLUB

As a mark of good will and appreciation for what the Decatur club has done for Sullivan Kiwanis, an invitation had been extended to the members of that organization and their wives to come here for a picnic party and chicken supper on Friday of last week.

The affair was held at the Country Club. In the afternoon the ladies were entertained at bridge while the men engaged in golf.

The golf affray was a blind bogey handicap tournament. Rev. Pappermann of Decatur won low score for the visitors and was given 3 golf balls. A similar prize was given Allen Jamieson for low net score. Dr. Flewelling won two balls by having low score on the blind bogey hole. Dave Beggs won one ball on Booby and Irving Bright was similarly rewarded for having high score on hole 2.

For Sullivan, Carl Wolf shot almost perfect golf and won 3 balls, C. R. Patterson won 3 for low net score. R. B. Foster was blind bogey winner. A. E. McCorvie and Brandenburg with 107 each tied for booby and on toss up Mac lost, but won by registering high score on hole two, so each got a ball for his efforts.

While the afternoon attendance from Decatur was rather small the night attendance was good. It is estimated that about 60 people from the neighboring city were present for the supper. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Horace McDavid, Mr. McDavid is president of Kiwanis International.

President J. L. McLaughlin of the local club was toastmaster. Mr. McDavid as the highest officer in Kiwanis was first called upon for a speech and responded briefly. Allen Jamieson president of the Decatur club also spoke and was followed by Dr. Carroll Flewelling, pastor of the Central Christian church in Decatur who made the main address of the evening. Harry Barber's famous Decatur quartette under the leadership of Eldon Geiger sang several selections. Miss Dorothy Hall played selections on her violin and was heartily encored.

The Decatur guests seemed to have a very pleasant evening and profusely expressed their appreciation. They stated "Any time you want us to come visit you just say 'chicken supper' and you can count on us being present in full force."

Road Oil, 4-H Clubs, Bakery, 132 Bridge, Airplane Landing

All These Matters Discussed at Community Club Meeting. The Street Oiling up to Property Owners. Demand Bridge Relief.

The Sullivan Community club held an interesting meeting on Monday night in the court house. There was a good attendance and discussion of several matters relating to city affairs.

W. H. Walker has re-stated his offer to do oiling free of charge on the streets of the city, if money is raised to defray the cost of the oil.

The city has agreed to pay half the cost of the oil, if the property owners pay the other half. The oil company agrees to carry the city vouchers, without interest, until such time as funds are available for their payment. The oil will cost 0.472 per gallon.

Mr. Walker advises the application of about 400 gallons per block of 200 feet with intersection. This will suffice for an oil surface 16 feet wide and two applications. The cost for the oil would run about $20 per block of which sum the city pays half and the property owners or tenants the other half. The city agrees to put the streets to grade and Commissioner Miller has also signified a willingness to help.

It will not be possible to oil one or two blocks of a street on this plan. The street ought to be taken care of from pavement to city limits. The northwest part of the city is especially in need of this kind of improvement. Mr. Walker suggested that several

SCOUTS TO DECATUR MONDAY FOR WEEK'S ENCAMPMENT

Under the leadership of Scout Master Rev. G. V. Herrick and Assistant Scout Master J. B. Martin, the Sullivan Boy Scouts will go to Camp Faries at Decatur Monday to spend a week.

This matter was decided at a meeting of the Scout Council on Tuesday night. This will be the first encampment of the reorganized Scout troop and it is expected that 20 to 30 boys will be able to go.

The Scout committee was at work Thursday morning raising funds to help defray the expenses of the encampment. The Boy Scouts assisted by members of the council will have an ice cream and cake stand on the court house lawn on Thursday and Saturday nights of this week. The proceeds realized from this venture will go into the Scout fund.

Rev. Herrick is an experienced Scout leader and has had charge of encampments in previous years before coming to Sullivan.

There is a small balance in the Scout treasury at this time but a fund of at least $250 will be required to defray the expenses of the encampment and to finance further Scout activities.

THAT NOISY CARNIVAL

The Sullivan Progress has always, as a matter of principle, been opposed to the form of amusement known as the "carnival". True, when sponsored by the Legion and in connection with some legitimate enterprise such as the 4th of July celebration, we have boosted for success of the entire venture, considering the carnival as just a sort of necessary evil.

When, however, an aggregation of this kind swoops down on a city, casts its tents, erects its gambling and other paraphernalia right in the heart of a residence section of the city, we feel it time to again raise a voice in protest.

At its very best a carnival is a nuisance. It would take an optimist, indeed, to find any redeeming traits in the makeup of any carnival outfit.

A number of vacant lots become a menace in a city's residential section, however, when it is possible at any time for a carnival to rent them and for six nights of the week set up a bedlam of noise and carousal which continues until the hour of midnight or later. The permit for this week's carnival to hold forth on South Hamilton street, was an unwarranted imposition and outrage on the people who live in that part of the city.

We trust that Sullivan may in time awaken to the fact that most of the enterprising, up to date cities will not permit any carnivals to hold forth within their city limits.

PATIENCE CEASES TO BE A VIRTUE

A community such as ours exists by trade with the farmers. They bring their produce and grain to this city and buy what they need with the money they get.

In order to make it possible to bring produce and crops to this city it is necessary that good roads be provided. When such entries into the city are shut off for some reason or other for any length of time, the farmers will go to other nearby cities.

That is the situation that confronts Sullivan now and has been a trade barrier for some time. Grain that ought to reach the local elevators is not being brought here. This refers to the territory east of Sullivan, known as Fullers Point, Jonathan Creek township, etc.

Last year the state built that part of route 132 from route 32 eastward, past the Illinois Masonic Home. Contract was let to Contractor L. R. Harshman for the construction of a bridge across Jonathan Creek. The paving stopped some distance west of this bridge but the grade to the bridge was built and the hill east of it was graded. All of this is ready for a top of gravel.

The contractor started the bridge work last summer. Unforeseen difficulties were encountered. Work has continued steadily to this time. While the west and center pier were being put in, the old bridge was left in place. When work on the east pier started it had to be removed. There is no temporary detour bridge. Traffic must detour on a road that at times becomes almost impassable.

This naturally interferes seriously with Sullivan's best interests. The farmers residing east of Jonathan Creek are being inconvenienced and cannot bring their crops here. They take them elsewhere.

This situation has now reached a point where something must be done to secure relief.

Most optimistic reports are to the effect that the new bridge may be ready for opening in December. That leaves four important months without adequate road facilities.

We appeal to the State Highway Department for relief. We have been patient. We have made all due allowances for the delay.

In justice to the farmers who use this road and the business men who deal with these farmers, something in the way of relief should be forthcoming. If there is no way to hurry the early completion of the bridge, we earnestly urge the state officials who have jurisdiction over this work, to give us a temporary bridge without delay.

A newspaper that takes money from its subscribers and then does not print matters of news brought to its attention because such printing might offend a customer, is taking money under false pretense. It is not living up to its implied contract with its subscriber. If sold as a newspaper and published as such, any deviation from giving that kind of service is a breach of faith.

Any transaction which favors an outside business institution in preference to a home institution giving the same kind of service is short-sighted and bound to react unfavorably on a community. It is the dollar spent in the old home town that is an industrious worker for that town. The dollar sent out of town is a slacker which will nevermore do this town any good.

Health and Happiness

WHY YOU SHOULD LEARN TO SWIM

If I were asked to name the one sport man could least afford to give up, I should unhesitatingly say: "Swimming." Swimming is the one form of exercise in which every muscle of the body is brought into play, and also many of the major internal organs. As a beautifier of the human form, it has no equal, for it takes off flesh in the wrong place and puts it back again in the right place. It gives symmetry and grace to the figure and carriage.

Aside from its highly beneficial results, I consider swimming indispensable to the prolongation and safety of human life. If I had my way it would be taught in all schools right from the beginning along with the three R's. The time to learn to swim is before some older person has had a chance to tell you that you can sink. If you have any choice in the matter, learn to swim in fresh water rather than salt. Also it is better to learn to swim in warm water, because in warm water the muscles relax—and relaxation is one of the chief essentials to good swimming and endurance.

Don't learn the breast stroke first. It is an awkward position for the body and forces the beginner to screw up his face, squint and "ship" an unnecessary quantity of water. The first stroke to learn—the easiest and the simplest—is the "crawl." And of course it is beautiful to look upon. The side stroke, in which the arms are never raised above the water is also graceful and good for one who tires quickly. Back swimming and floating are also important because they afford an opportunity for rest.

Once you have gained confidence and do not take fright at every drop of water that gets into your mouth, the next important thing to remember is that the really good swimmer does not hammer and pound the water. His arms cut the water with surprising rapidity and few splashes. Really scientific swimming involves swimming with the head under water—inhaling through the mouth on the level of the water and exhaling through the nose. Man is a land-animal and sometimes he experiences discomfort when trying to adjust himself to a different element. If the constant submersion bothers your ears, use small rubber plugs, which can be bought at all athletic and drug stores.

Swimming holds out one of the few encouraging inducements to fat people; they learn more easily than thin people because their flesh is more buoyant, and while they are learning they are also reducing. So if you have not already learned to swim—do so now, this summer. You will be well repaid in increased vigor, build, and general health—and I might add in social attainments, for the man or woman who does not swim nowadays isn't well, he just isn't "in the swim."

THE BRIDGE OF SIGNS

Recently a very rich and nationally-known citizen was sentenced to serve a term in jail, and was finally placed there that justice might prevail over all. Just what offense was, that brought this punishment, does not concern me particularly. Guilt must be assumed if proven beyond doubt. I did notice that the term of imprisonment was comparatively short.

Almost at the same time a poor old washerwoman living in a great city near me, was arrested "with the goods on her."

She had, in her squalid apartment, something like a gallon of corn whiskey; she admitted dispensing this liquid from time to time in order to ease the financial going; she was 81, and not able to turn out washing as in her younger years.

Recent enactments made hers an almost capital offense. The jurors, kind and heartfelt men, were puzzled; had this very old woman exerted her utmost strength, she could not have done much harm to anybody, by reason of her senility. But she was a violator of law, and knew she was doing wrong at the time. If I do not forget, she drew six months' imprisonment. She went to jail defiant.

A question as to the justice of the law arises, but it should not. There is no extenuation in violation of law by rich or poor, young or old. The so-called crime wave is appalling; the law must be stern and prevail—or, fall down in its impotence. It must not fail down.

Age and condition are no excuse for crime. Ignorance and self-will are the causes of most violations of law. Even poverty does not justify a man or woman to rob or to enter into unlawful commerce.

It never pays, even to violate an unreasonable law. Such laws are not done away with by that method. Enlightenment brings about better conditions, ignorance and crime never. I wish we could think of Americans as a happy, law-abiding people. We can only realize this, when our people universally work for it.

ODD FELLOWS PLAN BIG PICNIC FOR AUGUST 4TH

At Friday night's district meeting of the I. O. O. F. of this county at Bethany it was decided not to have the county picnic at the Old Folks Home in Mattoon this year but to join in the big statewide picnic which is to be held there August 4th.

Peoria Odd Fellows are chartering a special train for this occasion. The band from the Orphans Home at Lincoln will be there and other bands are being engaged. It is planned to make this the biggest picnic day the Home has ever had.

Those from this city who attended the meeting at Bethany were Hugh Roney, Harry Davis, Don Kingrey and Walter Birch.

MARTINS HERE FROM AZUSA, CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Martin and son of Azusa, Calif., arrived in Lovington the latter part of last week and will visit relatives and friends in Moultrie and Shelby counties for the next few weeks. They attended services at the Christian church here Sunday morning and at the close of the Sunday school Mrs. Martin gave an interesting talk on their new home and work in California. They are well pleased with the Pacific coast, having lived there for the past two years. They do not intend to return to Illinois to reside and claim that any one who lives in their country for a couple of years will never come back to this climate to live. Mr. Martin and family drove through from the coast in a new Ford car, making the trip in five days. They claim they have seen more rain here since their return last week than they have seen in the past two years in California.—Lovington Reporter.

GOD'S WONDERFUL LOVE

John 3:16, 17. For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life. For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved.

WINGLESS HENS.

EAT MEAT. HARRASSING HOOVER. WE ARE CANDY EATERS.

This is real news. Dr. Renwald, poultry expert in Nebraska, says he has produced a breed of wingless hens that also lack toenails.

They lay, but can't fly, can't scratch, can't be ardently interested in motherhood, having no wings to shelter a brood.

Such hens, being saved trouble of moulting the difficult wing feathers, should go on laying all year round producing 300 eggs a year.

To separate female usefulness from psychological disturbances like moulting would be marvelous in poultry, and among the primates.

The Arctic explorer, Stefanson, and a companion, Anderson, have lived for a year on nothing but meat, eating enormous quantities. Physicians say their health is better, their resistance to disease strengthened.

Let vegetarians muse on that. The rock in 1,000 million years produces soil, with the aid of earth worms.

The soil, after more centuries, produces grass. The cow eats grass for three years, digesting it slowly. Man eats the beefsteak in fifteen minutes.

Great labor-saving device. Give your children meat.

President Hoover, great engineer, has been kept busy since his inauguration by prohibition problems.

Now he is asked to develop and enforce new blue laws. The blue law gentlemen want Washington made into "Blue-Law-Paradise," that the city may be an example to the nation.

Poor President Hoover, listening to six speeches in favor of Sunday blue laws, all in one day, must wonder when the country will allow him to do some engineering.

After all, preventing Sunday golf in the District of Columbia is NOT as important as the Boulder Dam or flood control.

In the last six months Americans have eaten more than six and a half billion pounds of sugar. Prohibition helps that. More candy is sold.

The country this year will use thirteen billion pounds of sugar. If the tariff increase costs but two cents a pound, that will cost the public $260,000,000.

The city of Colby, Kansas, again votes not to tax anybody or property, real or personal, in the city.

Colby owns its power, light and water plant. Profits, which go to the city, makes taxes unnecessary.

In fact, because of surplus profits, the water rate is reduced 25 cents this year.

BATSON MAKES GOOD SHOWING AT CAMP LOGAN

Reynolds of Danville who broke 220. The high score for the day was made by the 132nd. High man broke 232 out of the possible 50. Red Duval of Lovington, an ex-marine shot with the 132nd.

"This bunch around here lacks pep" said the boss to the stenographer. Take this dictation and post it up in a half dozen places around the office.

"There is Work to do Here so be at it."

A little later he entered the office and found all gone but the stenographer.

"Where are the employees?" he demanded.

"I guess it's my fault" she replied. "I forgot to put a space between the "be" and the "at" in those notices I wrote and posted."

"Smith worked hard for years to land a political job."

"Well, what does he do now?"

"Nothing, he got the job." Ex.

A friend has remarked that when The Progress stated that mail order catalogs usually find a useful end in outhouses, we overlooked the fact that they are real interesting reading matter in cases of constipation. So that adds another count in favor of the mail order books. If you know of any other things they are good for, kindly report.

The following excerpts are taken from a little magazine entitled "Liberty" which reaches our exchange table once in a while:

The political preacher today drives more people out through the back door of the church than the gospel preacher can persuade to come in through the front door.

To hold fast to an old-fashioned custom simply because it is old fashioned, is about as sensible as to insist on riding the high-wheeled bicycle.

The worst thing that can happen to Christianity is to clothe it with civil power and propagate it with force.

A hypocrite is one who extols the virtues of religion while he is still subject to his vices.

Some churches are so fond of meddling with politics that they make sport of religion.

Why, when a young fellow starts going with a girl, do they call him her "suitor"?

Because he either does or he does not.—Exchange.

What was the most difficult part of the civil service exam you took at the post office?

Writing with the post office pens.—Exch.

"Nurse" said a lovelorn patient "I'm in love with you: I don't want to get well."

"Cheer up, you want" she assured him "The doctor's in love with me too and he saw you kissing me this morning."—Stanolind

A car stopped in front of Fred Booker's garage and the fellow in it called to Fred "Come on out here Fred. I want to acquaint you with my trouble."

Fred walked to the car and beaming on the lady who sat next to the fellow remarked "I'm sure glad to meet you."

"The national sports of Mexico are bull fighting and golf" wrote the student on an exam paper.

"How do you get that way" demanded the prof. "The Mexicans do not play golf."

"Sure they do, sir. Have you never heard of the Golf of Mexico?"

It was over in Mattoon. The policeman walked into the cafe in great dignity, saluted and addressed a diner, "Sir, your car waits without."

"Eh, what do you mean, waits without?"

"Why without lights, sir, here's your ticket."

"Some day" said the gallant neighbor as he was passing the widow Smith's place "I'll stop in and see your pretty farm."

"Is that so?" she retorted. "Well I'll have you understand that my pretty farm is not shown to any casual passerby."

Sunday morning golf is perhaps the biggest competitor that Sunday school and church has. The fellows who spend Sunday morning on the golf course should ask themselves this question: Which is the more important to the welfare of my community—the church or the country club?

EASY ON THE EATS, GIRLS! Overeating, says a dietician, is a sin against one's health. In which case you may be sure that your sins will find you stout.

Education is a refining influence. Before daughter went to college she nearly always ate her breakfast in the kitchen instead of in bed.

After getting a good education there is often a disposition not to make any good use of it.

VARIETY IN CROPS IS THE PATH LEADING TO FARM RELIEF

Governmental farm relief, if realized, at its very best, will not make all farmers prosperous. It is not a cure-all for the problems that confront the farmers.

The ideals of farm relief as expounded by its foremost agitators, seek for the farmers the same privileges of marketing and protective tariff enjoyed by other industries. The big obstacle in the way of attaining these conditions is the unorganized condition of agriculture.

The progressive farmers have never given much reliance to this legislative farm relief program. They may have protested against the unfairness of legislation, but they have been busy at the same time working out their own problems in their own way.

To some farmers the matter of co-operation with other farmers has appealed. Such men have joined farm bureaus, co-operative marketing associations, taken stock in farmers elevators, etc. Other farmers have evolved plans for their own relief and are engaged in adapting themselves to the times and the conditions they must meet to make a living and save a little for a rainy day.

Only a few short years ago the farmers of this part of the country placed their reliance in corn. Corn was the big crop. There may have been some wheat, oats and broomcorn, but the money crop was corn. When the corn crop was poor so were the farmers.

The old time corn farmer lived according to the saying of "putting all your eggs in one basket." He was much like the cotton farmer of the southern states, before the invasion of the boll weevil opened his eyes to the danger of his economic position.

During the world war anything would sell. There was a good market for corn and for other grains. A farmer did not have to be choicy as to what he raised for there was a big market for anything that was food for man or beast.

But suddenly the farmers woke up to the fact that the war was over. Corn instead of commanding $1.90 per bushel was down near 30c.

The answer to this problem was diversification. That is a long word to apply to farming. It means variation or change. In other words it means that instead of being a one-crop farmer he engages in producing a variety of crops.

In less than ten years this plan has done great things for some farmers. They have changed their plans of farming. They raise not only corn, wheat, oats and broomcorn but in their crop rotation they have worked in sweet clover and alfalfa; they have made soybeans and sunflowers a part of their crops. They have stocked up on dairy cattle and the fowls that used to have some cows have replaced them with better ones. And they raise hogs and sheep and chickens and other poultry.

A banker told the writer within the past year—"When a farmer wants a loan I can readily discover whether or not he is a good risk. I ask him 'how many cows and hogs have you on the place? Do you raise sheep and have you a flock of poultry?' If that answer is favorable I know he is farming intelligently and not likely to get into a jam."

The farmer who diversifies has a small but steady income. If he sells milk or cream he gets a weekly check that helps keep him square with the grocer. If he sells eggs and poultry that also helps considerably. A load of fat hogs for the market now and then and a calf or cow for the butcher also help. A little produce on the side, such as potatoes or vegetables for the grocer, help keep down any big account.

In the spring of 1928 the wheat crop was nearly all killed. If this had been a one-crop wheat country, it would have been pathetic. It was not however. Corn could be planted; but why risk all on corn, so the farmers did not plant all available ground in corn but they sowed oats and barley and planted soybeans and sunflowers. As a result Moultrie county had a well-balanced crop, all of which sold at a good price.

There are other ways of diversification, however. The government bureaus and others who have studied the farmers' problems continually point out that the farmer can be much more independent than he is now and can produce on his farm many things that he now buys.

In pioneering days the farmer was almost entirely dependent on his own efforts. Not only did his household weave the goods out of which clothing was made, but he did his own killing and preparing of meats; he grew and stored his vegetables, potatoes, etc., for the winter. He lived a rugged and healthy life. He had his wheat and corn ground and baked his own bread. In this and many other ways, he managed to live healthfully and happily.

Today not many farmers kill hogs and cure the meat. Many of them do not even raise the vegetables for their own tables. They buy potatoes and butter and many kindred things that nearly every farm could and would produce if any effort would be put forth along that line.

It is easy to set on the side lines and tell others what they ought to do. There are too many doing that for the farmers now. When the farmers demand economic equality and justice, the politicians tell them how to run their farms and how to arrange to borrow more money.

The substantial, level-headed farmer places little faith in any political panacea. He is diversifying. He is intelligently working out his solutions to the problems that confront him.

He is making his farm table dependent on what he can produce and not on what he can buy. He is not only aiming toward variety in crops and live-stock, but he is also raising variety in his gardens and his truck patches and orchards. He is not spending his money for what he can himself produce at far less cost.

The farmers, at least those in this part of the country, are no longer one-crop plungers. Necessity is developing them into business men who have so arranged their work, as to have a steady and reliable sources of income every week in the year. They are not carrying all their eggs in one basket. They are far-sightedly and industriously working out their own salvation.

If governmental relief ever does slightly aid them—well that will be just that much gravy, and many thanks for same.

NO ARGUMENT
"I wish, Matilda, you would not talk to me while I am driving in traffic."
"We can discuss that as we go along, Adolphus."

When the farmer starts working out his own Farm Relief, he usually begins by equipping himself with McCormick-Deering implements.

Toddy says "The old fashioned tourist cooked in a tin can instead of riding in it."

An IHC truck is a great help for the farmer. Especially in this true at harvest time when he is anxious to get his grain to the elevators. It is equally handy for many other kinds of farm hauling.

Plowing will soon be the order of the day. The fellow who does this with a Farmall or McCormick-Deering outfit does not have to waste half his time, letting his horses rest.

A little nonsense now and then makes news of the best of men.

Or in dandelion wine.

Ernest Devore feels there is no servant problem among old-fashioned people who still raise their own household and farm help.

Talking about hauling grain—how about a new wagon bed? We've got them.

If you are one of those farmers who is thinking about buying a gasoline engine, feed-grinder, etc., we want to talk to you.

ITEMS OF INTEREST AT THE STATE CAPITOL

(Compiled by H. Williamson, Sec'y. Illinois Press Association.)

The Illinois Chamber of Commerce, through its industrial development department, headed by C. L. Hardin, has asked Clarence F. Buck, director of the state department of agriculture, for information concerning the distribution by counties of the 9,570,000 acres of Illinois soil in corn last year. The Illinois Chamber of Commerce intends to utilize these figures in determining where corn stalks may be converted into pulp most advantageously. President Scott Brown of the association is making the organization a real factor for good in our state.

Garret De F. Kinney, director of finance, under whose department administration of the gasoline tax law is placed, calls attention to a section of the law which provides that all gasoline in storage on August 1 is liable to the tax even though purchased during July. Penalties for violation of the provision may be a fine of from $25 to $500 and imprisonment in the county jail not longer than six months. In addition, the offender is liable for the amount of tax due together with all costs necessary to its collection. Owners of filling stations face an additional penalty in that their licenses to operate may be revoked. Ten days is allowed in which to report to the department of finance on gasoline so stored and payment to the department of the amount of tax due on the stored gasoline must be made immediately thereafter.

Those who attend the state fair this year will notice a great improvement in the motor and foot traffic facilities about the grounds. Exhibits are being spread over a wider area to avoid congestion. The old Eighth street road, which bisects the grounds and gives ready access to the free parking grounds, is being drained and widened so that traffic may move freely upon it. The parking grounds are re-arranged so that cars can get in and out with less confusion and more cars can be accommodated in the sections nearest the grandstand and other buildings.

Twelve senators and eighteen members of the house of representatives are on the "honor roll" of the Illinois Municipal League, published in the Illinois Municipal Review in connection with an article reviewing legislation of interest to the organization. "While the resume here of attitudes of members is representative, it is in no sense complete. Undoubtedly other members of the assembly should have been included in this review," reads a footnote.

The total production of coal for the state during the month of June was 3,318,758 tons as compared with 2,923,605 in June of 1928, according to the monthly coal report issued by A. D. Lewis, director of mines and minerals. The average number of days worked during June was 12.8 and the report shows that 40,904 men were employed. The total production for the first six months of 1929 was 28,364,854 tons.

The new three-hour airway weather service has been put into operation at the Springfield office of the weather bureau. A few years ago two observations were made and telegraphed daily; now there are 15 each day—eight airway observations sent to the Omaha Airport Weather station, two to St. Louis, one to Chicago Airport and one to Peoria in addition to the three regular observations, two of which are sent over the country for use in making weather maps, newspaper bulletins, etc. This work necessitates a day and night service, including Sundays and holidays.

The application of the Illinois Central railroad to abandon trains No. 135 and 136 between Clinton and Pana, through the counties of DeWitt, Macon, Shelby and Christian is on the docket of the state commerce commission for an early hearing.

Former Congressman James M. Graham, who is a member of the executive committee of the Illinois organization to promote the Lincoln National Memorial highway from Hodgenville, Kentucky to Beardstown, has just returned from an inspection trip with other members of the committee over the proposed route to Vincennes. They attended a meeting with the Vincennes Chamber of Commerce, called especially with a view to effecting an organization in that state similar to the one now existing in Illinois. As soon as their organization is perfected both state organizations will move on to Kentucky and assist in effecting an organization there. It is then planned to effect an inter-state organization, representing these three states, so that joint action can be made more effective. Mr. Graham reported enthusiastic interest, all along the line.

The recent selection of Wm. B. Wilson, former secretary of labor, as arbitrator of labor disputes between the Illinois coal operators and the United Mine Workers of the state is generally accepted as a distinct advance in the rehabilitation of that industry. The wage contract entered into last fall, which does not expire until March 31, 1932, provides for the joint selection of a man to fill this position. It is believed that this action will have a far reaching influence and that it promises to further promote the stabilization of the industry and is an additional guarantee to the consumers of Illinois coal that their source of supply from Illinois mines will not be interrupted.

Mine fatalities in Illinois during the last six months were far below the average for the entire United States, according to an announcement by A. D. Lewis of the state department of mines and minerals. During that period Illinois produced 659,415 tons of coal per each man killed, while the average for the entire country was 250,000 tons per each fatality. This condition of greater safety in Illinois was attributed by the director to safety campaigns, first aid training and the absence of big explosions, due to the use of safety lamps.

Of the many important measures having to do with public health passed at the recent session of the Illinois general assembly, the most important and far-reaching, in the judgment of Dr. Andy Hall, director of health, is that prohibiting construction and modification of sewer systems without permission of the state water board. This statute is designed to prevent and abate the pollution of streams, lakes, ponds and other waters. "A general survey of the streams of the state is anticipated under the new law," said Doctor Hall.

House bills 54 and 56, introduced by Representative Frederick W. Rennick, Buda, and Senate bill 399, introduced by Senator Norman G. Flagg, Moro, change the terms and the dates of election of township officers so that there will be no township elections after 1933 in even numbered years. The purpose of the bills is to eliminate township elections at a time when people are interested in primary and general elections for president, state and county officers.

Aphids, or plant lice, and cutworms are particularly active in the flower gardens over the state this season, states C. C. Compton, assistant entomologist of the Illinois Natural History survey in a report to the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. Even the adults of white grubs, more generally called "June bugs" have taken a liking to flowers this season, feeding voraciously on zinnias.

The St. Louis public schools will again be heated with Illinois coal during the coming year. The contract specified Illinois coal, and as a result none but Illinois companies competed in bidding. The requirements will approximate 40,000 tons.

The second annual poultry tour sponsored by the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois will start from Urbana on September 3, taking a group of interested Illinois poultry raisers to Indiana and Ohio for study of the methods of successful poultry raisers in these states.

streets be oiled from Jackson street north and that one or two east and west streets be similarly treated. This would give most of the people of the northwest part an outlet in case of bad weather and would permit of use of the fire truck in case of fire when untreated streets get impassable.

Plans have already been perfected and money raised for the oiling of Hunter street from the Magill corner west. Granville Cochran has been looking after this matter. Several culverts have been placed and the street is ready for its oil.

The oiling plan is entirely up to the people. If they are interested enough to raise their part of the money, they can get the approval of the streets and alley committee of the city council to get the oiling done. It is advisable to confer with this committee, the chairman of which is Harry Fulk. The plan is offered to the entire city and no one locality will be especially favored.

On Tuesday morning E. O. Dunscomb and J. H. Alumbaugh raised the necessary funds for the improvement of Washington street from the Square south. This street will be oiled to width of 24 feet.

Any further information pertaining to this matter can be secured by applying to Harry Fulk, W. H. Walker or the officers of the Community Club.

Nobody stands to make any money out of this. Mr. Walker's offer is made in a spirit of town improvement. He is willing to do the work to show people that their streets can be put into good condition if the job is intelligently tackled. Other cities and villages in this part of the state are oiling their streets, and there is no good reason why Sullivan should not do likewise.

To Assist 4-H Clubs

E. A. McKenzie, for the Farm Bureau made a plea for support of 4-H club work. He stated that there are at present 177 members of boys and girls 4-H clubs in this county. Various projects are being worked on. Boys are raising pigs and heifers and girls are doing needlework, etc.

The Farm Bureau will have its annual picnic here the latter part of August. It is planned to have a big exhibit of 4-H club work at that time. The state will pay about $700 in prizes on such exhibits and additional funds will be raised in this county. There will be expense to prepare pens and stalls for showing of livestock and proper facilities will have to be provided to show the girls' work.

Talks were made strongly commending this work and it was voted to give it the club's support. The chairman was instructed to name a committee to co-operate with the Farm Bureau, raise funds, etc. On that committee the following were named: J. B. Tabor, Carl A. Dick and Dr. S. T. Butler.

Airplane Field

Mr. McKenzie, a member of the club's airplane committee reported that a suitable field had been found on the Will Bland farm west of this city where Harry Neville lives. He stated that he was having some difficulty in getting 23 tons of limestone to mark the field according to government specifications. J. B. Tabor, who was present, stated that he had plenty of limestone and would bring it to the landing field in his trucks. This limestone will be used to mark a circle 100 feet in diameter, the width of the limestone rim to be four feet.

How About a Bakery?

This question was asked and J. H. Alumbaugh reported that negotiations were in process with Mr. Frandsen of Windsor. He has an old established bakery there and would consider moving to a larger field. His baked goods is on sale here now to give the people the opportunity to try it. If after two weeks, things look alright, Mr. Frandsen will submit his proposition to the local grocers and if they feel that they can accept it, he may move here. The out of town bakers who now supply the city have cut size of loaves, refuse to relieve the grocers of unsold bread and there is a prospect that they will raise the price. Against these actions the grocers are protesting and it is hoped that the protest will end by having a new industry in town.

That Harshman Bridge

"Will we ever have a road into town from the east, so farmers can bring in their grain?" asked J. B. Tabor the elevator man. This brought forth a discussion of the bridge job at Jonathan Creek on Route 132. L. R. Harshman the contractor has been at work on that job for the past year. It was reported that there is no prospect of the bridge being completed before Christmas. This is losing a lot of trade for Sullivan, which is going to other cities and towns.

A discussion of the detour now used, indicated that this is not satisfactory and will not stand up in bad weather.

A motion was made that the officials of the club confer with county superintendent of highways Guy S. Little and that, if deemed advisable, a resolution be drafted and presented to the highway officials setting forth Sullivan's petition for relief. It was also suggested that it might be advisable for a committee to call on the state officials.

A conference with Mr. Little Tuesday morning brought forth the fact that Mr. Apple of Paris, the engineer in charge of state road work in this locality had been here several days ago to look over the situation. He was rather pessimistic about the outlook but suggested no remedy. In accordance with the instructions of Monday night's meeting a resolution setting forth the sentiments of the community has been sent to Mr. Apple, together with a letter from Mr. Little urging that some steps be taken to bring about the desired relief.

After all of these matters have been duly considered Monday night's meeting adjourned.

FIRST INSTALMENT

"Los Angeles!" the sneering preacher cried, as Jonah might have whinnied, "Nineveh!" and with equal scorn. "The Spanish missionaries may have called it the City of Angeles; but the moving pictures have changed its name to Los Diablos! For it is the central factory of Satan and his minions, the enemy of our homes and women—the school of crime. Unless, in God's good time, the ocean will rise and swallow it!"

Though he was two thousand miles or more away—the Reverend Doctor Steddon was so convinced by his own prophetic ire that he would hardly have been surprised to read in the Monday morning's paper that a benevolent earthquake had taken his hint and shrugged the new Babylon off into the Pacific ocean.

But Doctor Steddon, if he could have seen the realm he objugated, would have confessed that the devil had a certain grace as a gardener and that his minions were a handsome, happy throng. As it was, Doctor Steddon had never seen Los Angeles and had never seen a moving picture. He knew that the world was going to wrack and ruin—as usual—and he laid the blame on the nearest novelty—as usual.

His daughter had heard him lay the blame in previous years on other activities. She wished he wouldn't.

But then she had not escaped blame herself and she was in a mortal dread now of a vast cloud of obloquy lowering above her and ominous with lightning.

Her father and mother had named her Remember—after one of the Mayflower girls—nearly three hundred years after. Her father often wished that she had been liker to those Puritan maidens. But that was because he did not know how like she was to them, how much they, too, had terrified their parents with their love of finery and romantic experiment.

For it is only the styles, and not the souls that change. There are chronicles enough to prove that the same quota of the Remember and Praise-gods of Plymouth and the other colonies suffered the same bitter beatitudes and frantic bewilderments as Remember Steddon and Elwood Farnaby endured when their elbows touched in the choir loft of this mid-Western village.

Miss Steddon felt a sudden tremor in Farnaby's elbow; then it was gone from hers; she saw his nail whiten as it gripped the hymn book hard.

Somehow in the words he chanted seemed to stab him with a sense of guilt. He felt it a terrible thing for her to stand before that congregation and cry aloud words of ecstasy over her redemption from sin.

Their secret, unknown and unconfessed, was concealed by the very clamor of its publication. And it troubled Farnaby mightily to be gaining all the advantage of a lie by singing the truth.

When the choir was not singing openly and aboveboard, it was usually busily whispering. Even Elwood Farnaby had to lean over tonight and whisper important news to Remember. He was not permitted to call at her house or to be near her home after the service. Singing beside her in the house of God—that was different.

He told her now what he had just learned, that the factory where he was employed would close down the following week because of hard times. Elwood was to have been promoted to superintendent soon.

To Remember Steddon the news that Elwood would have no job in a week and would know no place to look for one had more than a commercial interest. It was the alarm of fate.

She had loved Elwood since they were children—had loved him all the more for the squalor of his home. He was the son of the town's most eminent drunkard, old "Fall-down Farnaby."

Among the slipshod children of his family Elwood alone had managed to acquire ambition. He had latterly supported his mother and a pack of brothers and sisters. He had even been able to afford to go to the war and win the guerdon of a wound that made him glorious in Remember's eyes and a little more lovable than ever.

Her father, however, had been unable to tolerate the thought of his daughter's marrying the son of the town sot. Doctor Steddon felt that he was proving his love, his loving wisdom toward his daughter by forbidding her even to meet young Farnaby outside the choir loft. He was sure that her love would wear out.

He did not know his daughter. Who ever did?

Elwood had expected that the bad news would shock her. But he could not understand the look of ghastly terror she gave him. He forgot it in his own bitter brooding and did not observe the deathly white that blanched her pallor.

Yet he had noted that she was paler of late and had added that worry to his backbreaking load of worries.

She coughed incessantly, too, and kept putting her hand to her chest as if it hurt her there.

On the way home under the wasted magic of the rising moon, Remember did not walk as usual between her father and mother with a hand on the arm of each. Tonight she kept at her mother's left elbow and clung so tight to the fat, warm arm that her mother whispered:

"What's the matter, honey?" "Nothing, mamma," she faltered. "I'm just a little tired, I guess."

Mem again was coughing violently and the rest of the way home Doctor Steddon was not a preacher anxious about his daughter's soul, but a father that was afraid of her life. The cough to her parents was an ominous problem. To her it might promise a solution.

Next morning at her father's command Mem went to see Doctor Bretherick. She told him that her parents were afraid her cold was more than a cold, and she coughed for him. He asked her many questions and she grew so confused and rapt in blushes that he asked her more. Suddenly he flung her a startled look, gasped, and stared into her eyes as if he would ransack her mind. In the mere shifting of his eyelid muscles she could read amazement, incredulity, conviction, anger, and finally pity.

All he said was, "My child!" There could be no solemn conference than theirs. Doctor Bretherick had attended Mem's mother when the girl was born. He thought of her still as a child, and now she dazed him and frightened him by her mystic knowledges and her fierce demands that he should help her out of her plight or help her out of the world.

He refused to do either and demanded that she meet her fate with heroism.

In the talk that followed, Dr. Bretherick drew out the fact Elwood Farnaby was "the man" and suggested a plan for their marriage when the telephone rang.

The doctor's welcoming "Hello!" broke through a many-wrinkled smile. It froze to a grimace. As Mem watched he kept saying: "Yes—Yes—Yes!" and finally said "That's right—bring him here."

He set down the telephone as if it were a drained cup of hemlock. "It wasn't Elwood?" Mem said. "No. Yes. Well—O God!"

what a bitter world this is!" Mem caught eagerly at grief. "Tell me! What's happened? what happened to Elwood? He's hurt. He's killed!"

"Yes!"

It was Dr. Bretherick who afterward found a solution.

"Your cough will take a long time to cure or kill," he said. "But it may come in very handy. I've got it all thought out. You can't stay in this town now, I suppose. Most of the animals crawl away and hide at such a time; so suppose you just vanish. Let your cough carry you off to—say, Arizona or California."

She was startled at this undreamed of escape. He went on:

"I'll tell the necessary facts. That's a large part of my practice and practice makes perfect. You will go to some strange town—and pose as a widow.

"You will marry an imaginary man out there and let him die quietly. Then, if you ever want to come home here, you can come back as Mrs. Somebody-or-other."

He chose Woodville as the name. Mem was to write of Mr. Woodville's devotion, then to describe a hasty marriage and request that her letters thereafter be addressed to her as Mrs. Woodville.

After a brief honeymoon she could eliminate Woodville in some way to be decided at leisure. It would be risky, he said, to let Mr. Woodville live too long.

A hurricane struck the little town of Caverly on the day of Elwood's funeral. When Mem expressed a wish to sing with the choir at the service over their late fellow-singer, her mother cried, "A girl who's got to be shipped out West has got no right to go out in weather like this."

So she stayed at home and stared through the streaming windows. She saw her poor old father set out to preach the funeral sermon.

He had the valor of the priests which leads them to risk death in order to defeat death; to endure all hardship lest the poorest soul go out of the world without a formal conge. Doctor Steddon clutched his old overcoat about him and plunged into rain that lashed the air in long, slanting lines.

Again and again Mem revolted at the outrage of robbing her own parents of their savings—their one shield against old age. She went again and again to Doctor Bretherick and demanded that he release her from her promises not to tell the truth and not to kill herself.

But he compelled her to his will and she was too glad for a will to replace her own panic to resist him. For a necessary stimulant he prophesied that somehow in that land of gold she was seeking she would find such wealth that she could repay their loan with usury, with wealth, perhaps. Who knew?

He spoke of many women who had begun poor and finished rich. "You might go into the movies, for instance, and make more money than Coal Oil Johnny," he said.

Mem imbibed mysterious tonics at the doctor's office, and always came away buoyed up with the feeling that her tragedy was unimportant, commonplace, and sure to have a happy finish.

But the moment she reached home she entered a demesne where everything was solemn, where jokes were never heard, except pathetic old witticisms more important in intention than in amusement.

And at last, one day, quite unexpectedly, when she was under no apparent tension at all, the girl went into Mrs. Steddon's room and said, in a quiet tone:

"Mamma, I want to tell you something. I'd rather break your heart than deceive you any longer."

"Why, honey! Why Mem dear, what on earth is it? You can't break this tough old heart of mine. What is it?"

She whispered it so softly that her breath was hardly syllabled. "Mamma, I—I'm going to have a baby."

The shock of the news was its own ether. Mrs. Steddon whispered back, cowering:

"You? You! My baby! You? A baby?"

Mem nodded and nodded till her knees were on the floor and her head in her mother's lap. Old hands came gropingly about her cheeks. She felt the drip, drip of tears falling into her hair, each tear a separate pearl from a crown of pride.

Then her mother fumbled at the dreadful question:

"But who—who—"

"Elwood!"

Mrs. Steddon's decision was easy, and she made no difficulty of the gross deceptions involved. Her husband must be protected in his illusions and protected from the necessity of wreaking his high moral principles on his own child. His child must be protected from the merciless world and the immediate wrath of the village.

FRANK MARLOW DIED SUDDENLY AT KING CITY, MO.

Mrs. Flossie Yarnell of this city and Mrs. Henry Brown of Bethany returned home Sunday after attending the funeral of Mrs. Brown's brother Frank Marlow at King City, Missouri. On their return trip they stopped off at St. Louis for a visit with Mrs. Yarnell's son Harold who is employed by the Graham Paper company in that city.

The account of Mr. Marlow's death as it appeared in the Tri-County News of King City is as follows:

Frank W. Marlow, 58 dropped dead at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon while working in the field at the home of his son, Claude W. Marlow on Empire Prairie. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Methodist church here, conducted by the Rev. James Froman of Trimble, Mo., and burial will be in the King City cemetery.

Mr. Marlow had been visiting at the home of his son several weeks, and had assisted him frequently in the farm work. They were cutting oats Tuesday; Claude running the binder and his father shocking the grain. Claude asked his father to rest a bit exchanging jobs and running the binder the remainder of the day.

"Stay right on there—you're not going to make an old man out of me," the older man is quoted as having answered laughingly as he continued picking up the bundles of grain.

Claude drove on, and on the next short round, less than five minutes later, found his father dead. His death was ascribed to a sudden heart attack.

Mr. Marlow was born Dec. 9, 1870, at Dahlonga, Ga. When he was a small boy he moved with his parents to Bethany, Ill., and there he grew to manhood. He was married there Dec. 7, 1891 to Mary Margaret Martin, who preceded him in death Sept. 3, 1918. To this union were born four children, Harry, Ella May, Claude and Philip, all of whom survive. Harry P. Marlow lives at Natoma, Kans. The daughter Mrs. L. M. Strickler, lives at Wheatland, Wyo. Phil's home is at Sylvan Grove, Kansas. All of the children are here to attend the funeral service today.

About twenty years of Mr. Marlow's life was spent in Missouri, and most of that time in or near King City. He left here about eleven years ago, however, but returned to Cabool, Mo., two or three years ago to establish a chinchilla rabbit farm, in which business he was engaged at the time he came here for a visit at his son's home. He is survived also by two brothers, Robert J. Marlow of Denver, Colo., and Joseph Marlow of California; and two sisters, Mrs. Henry Brown of Bethany, Ill., and Mrs. I. C. Head of Olney, Ill. and by seven grandchildren. Robert Marlow and Mrs. Brown have come to attend the funeral, as has also Mrs. Chester Yarnell of Sullivan, Ill., a niece.

Frank Marlow was widely known throughout this community in which he lived many years. He farmed in this vicinity several years before moving to town, and for many years owned a good farm near King City. After leaving here he was engaged in the motor car business in St. Joseph. He was a jovial fellow, easy to get acquainted with and who made friends readily. He was a member of the Modern Woodmen of America.

HOME-COMINGS, FALL FESTIVALS AND FAIRS

Many of the towns and villages in this part of the state are busy now planning for their fairs, home-coming, fall festivals, etc.

These annual events must be a good thing for these towns for they conduct them along business-like lines and in most cases make them pay well.

Sullivan has two events of this kind each year. The first is the 4th of July celebration. A big sum is raised by subscription and then all spent in one day of entertainment. It is all an out-go and there is no immediate return so far as the merchants are concerned. The other entertainment is the annual Chautauqua. This appeals to a certain class of people, but it stands to reason that it does not draw the crowds that a home-coming or county fair would draw.

ATLANTIC OCEAN CROSSING RECORD IS LOWERED

The new German liner Bremen made history Monday when it pulled into New York harbor just four days, 18 hours and 17 minutes after leaving Cherbourg, France. The fastest previous crossing had been made by the Mauretania last year when it made the crossing in 5 days, 8 hours and 34 minutes.

DEMOCRATIC FIGHT AGAINST TARIFF BOOST GAINS G.O.P. SUPPORT

If the country is going to be protected against the extortions contemplated by the Hawley tariff bill, credit for the rescue must be accorded the Democratic minority in the Senate. Under the leadership of Senator Robinson of Arkansas they have exposed the iniquities of the schedules proposed in the House bill, and through them the people have become aroused to the same fury of indignation as caused the wreck of the Taft Administration over the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

As a result the Administration Senators, who purposed driving through that measure with additional exactions, have been driven into a huddle and are now planning secret sessions of their part of the Finance Committee, with the Democrats excluded, to decide what residue of the loot they dare attempt to save.

When the directors of Republican strategy in the House of Representatives—after consultation with President Hoover—jettisoned his pledge that tariff revision should be confined to schedules pertinent to Farm Relief, and such few others as applied to industries that might show tangible evidence of depression because of foreign competition, the assumption was that the Senate would follow what has been its course, whenever it had a Republican majority, and add another story to the skyscraper character of the tariff bill.

Then we heard Senator Watson of Indiana, the Administration leader, announcing complete revision of the Fordney-McCumber tariff; Senator Smoot of Utah proclaiming that the sugar duty would be high enough to satisfy his beet-sugar constituents, and the rest of the high protectionists in line. Now Watson is singing in a low key, Smoot is trying to maneuver some sort of sliding scale that will make the assessment on the family sugar-bowl less obvious, Reed of Pennsylvania out against the project of making of the Tariff Commission a strictly partisan Board, appointed by the President, who, under the provisions of the Hawley bill, would be able to make the tariff practically what he pleases. This would, of course, represent a surrender of Congressional authority unparalleled since the principle of legislative control of revenue matters was established as a cardinal principle of Democratic government.

Despite themselves, the Administration forces find themselves being driven back to the promise of helping the farmer. It is now quite possible that the sugar steal will be prevented, that the indecent subterfuge of making a duty on hides, for the farmer's benefit, the excuse for boosting the price of every pair of shoes more than the farmer would gain on the whole hide would be blocked, and that at least some of the building materials would be kept where they belong, on the free list.

Fortunately for the average citizen, the Progressive Republicans in the Senate have joined with the Democrats in exposing the iniquities of the Hawley bill—the combination is too strong to be easily run over. The fight is not won yet, by any means, for there remains the familiar expedient of log-rolling and the use of the administration club when the Senate votes on the measure the Finance Committee is now incubating. Undoubtedly some of the weaker senators will be bribed by particular favors to industries and products of their own states to support the bill, but even these are not going to find it easy to defend such a vote in view of the nation-wide revulsion against extortions that have no better excuse than that the interests that furnished the campaign funds for the last election expect to realize handsomely on their investment.

The Democratic senators have in this tariff shown a front more nearly united than has been the case in many years. The public service they have rendered will not be forgotten. If the country's gratitude is commensurate with the country's gain because of their efforts, the Congress to be elected next year will show many seats now Republican filled by Democrats.

Ps. 105:37 "He brought them forth also with silver and gold and there was not one feeble person among their tribes."

In a very few words the Psalmist tells us the story of the delivery of Israel, the literal seed of Abraham from their Egyptian bondage. The literal seed of Abraham is a type of the spiritual seed, the born again person. When God brings us up out of Egypt away from the flesh pots, the leek, the garlic, and the onions, he does not bring us empty handed or sick (we mean spiritually) but gives us spiritual silver and gold in abundance that will buy the richest blessings heaven has in store for the redeemed ones, and a healthy spiritual body, one that can work and earn more spiritual silver and gold, so that we are assured that we will never want for any good thing.

Too often, just as was the case with the Hebrews, we long for the flesh pots of Egypt, and wander out in the wilderness of sin to die a spiritual death there, and never reach the promised land flowing with milk and honey, and big grapes.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
C. E. Barnett, Pastor

There are a thousand and one reasons why a person should go to church, but we are not attempting to name them all. A congregation devoutly engaged in worship is doing something for the community which can not be done in any other way. A collective confession of Christ, by church attendance, outruns in influence the confession of any individual. It has a power the strongest of sermons cannot exert. No man can absent himself needlessly from public worship without damaging the influence of Christian society and a resultant loss to his own soul. The Lord's army on the Lord's day should present a solid front. Go to church next Sunday and every Sunday. Let your neighbor see you going and perhaps he will

CAMPFIRE GIRLS HAD GREAT TIME AT PIFER'S

The Ackante camp fire girls went to Pifer's park on a camping trip. We went on Friday afternoon and came home Sunday morning. We started from Letha Bushart's home and cars were furnished by Gerald Alumbaugh and Miss Wood. We had a picnic supper. After supper was over Mr. Pifer took us boat riding. Five of the girls can row pretty well. About ten packages of fire crackers were shot. A fire was then built of papers. Each one had to entertain the rest. Fire crackers had been put in the fire and they began to go off. At 9:00 o'clock we went to bed. Three of the girls laughed and talked so long that the guardian got in bed with two of them and made the other girl get in another bed.

The next morning about 5:00 o'clock every one except the guardian was ready to get up.

As soon as breakfast was over and dishes washed we went boat riding. Four girls made plans for a treasure hunt in the afternoon. We went swimming in the river from 10 o'clock until eleven a. m. After dinner we had to rest an hour. We then went boat riding. The treasure hunt then began. The treasure was an ice cream cone apiece. After supper we had watermelon.

The next morning no one got up until they had to. Cars for the return trip were furnished by the Kiwanis club.

Those who were in the party were Miss Cleo Wood, guardian, Dorothy Brumfield, Bernice Fultz, Lucille Alumbaugh, Louise Cocran, Letha Bushart, June Myers, Jane Foster, Eleanor Cummins, Mildred Winchester, Corma Jane Finley, Vivian Reynolds, Rachel Kinsel and Sallie Bristow.

REST YOUR LAND AND GET GOOD RESULTS

W. J. Patterson, whose wheat land south of this city was cultivated the past season by Dick Ashbrook, reports that 68 acres gave a yield of 1356 bushels, or approximately 20 bushels per acre.

This land is not of the rich black prairie loam, but is timber land and the yield is considered very good.

Mr. Patterson believes that "resting" land does it much good and results in bigger yields. This wheat land lay fallow last year. That is to say it was plowed but not sown or planted. The ground was cultivated occasionally to keep the weeds down and at time of wheat sowing a good seed bed resulted. He is very much pleased with the crop. Mr. Ashbrook has again rented the land for next season.
