MRS. GEORGE YATES HAD WRIST WATCH IMBEDDED IN ARM

On June 30 George Yates shot and badly wounded his wife and then inflicted wounds on himself that resulted in death. The remains were brought to this city for burial. The trouble occurred at Granite City.

This week while operating on Mrs. Yates for the removal of the bullet from her arm, the surgeon was surprised to find Mrs. Yates' wrist watch imbedded in the arm. The bullet was not found. It is presumed that the bullet hit the wrist watch and was deflected. The watch was imbedded near the bone about five inches from where it had entered the arm.

OKLAHOMA BUYS BIG SHIPMENT OF MOULTRIE JERSEYS

Eighteen of Moultrie county's famous Jerseys were shipped to southeastern Oklahoma this week. In the shipment were 12 bulls and six heifer calves. All were from herds which show an average production of 400 lbs. of butter fat per cow.

Three men from Oklahoma came here the early part of the week. They had been told by Harry Marsh, the American Jersey Cattle Club field man, that Moultrie county had about the type of Jerseys that they needed to build up their herds.

Some years ago cotton growing became unprofitable in that part of the country and the people turned to dairying.

Ralph Emel, secretary of the Illinois Jersey Breeders and also one of the foremost Moultrie breeders has kept Mr. Marsh informed as to surplus stock for sale here. Mr. Marsh accompanied the Oklahoma delegation and helped to select the stock bought. The calves were from the herds of J. H. Sharp, Rollo Winings, Felix Lavery, John Craig, Ralph Emel, Ed Bayne, Herbert Bicknell and Wilbur Redfern.

R. M. Magill Answers Final Summons Friday

Retired Grocer and Educator Had Long Been a Resident of This Community. Lived for 50th Wedding Anniversary. Funeral Services Sunday.

Russell Milton Magill, aged resident of Sullivan, who had been long ill, died at his home on Friday morning August 30th at 3:35 o'clock.

He was a native of Ohio, having been born in Harrisville in that state September 16th, 1851. When four years of age, he accompanied his father through Indiana and Illinois to Missouri where they settled down at Louisiana. At the outbreak of the Civil War, due to much southern sentiment, the older Magill and his son left there and came to Oxville, in Scott county, Illinois, where R. M. Magill grew to manhood. He attended the public schools and later attended the Illinois Industrial College at Urbana, now the University of Illinois. He returned to Scott county and spent some years teaching school in that county and later in Morgan and Moultrie counties.

While in Morgan county he met Dora Belle Six and on the 28th day of August 1879 they were united in marriage. When illness made him a helpless invalid in recent months he expressed the wish that he might live to observe his 50th wedding anniversary. That wish was granted, Wednesday having been that golden anniversary.

In Moultrie county Mr. Magill was best known as a school teacher and later as a grocer. He was in that line of business here for a period of 20 years and retired in 1918. Since his retirement he had lived a quiet life with his wife and members of the family circle at his home in the north part of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Magill were the parents of five sons and two daughters. One son and one daughter died in infancy. Those who survive are: Dr. Ansel O. Magill of Decatur, Mrs. Anna D. Sears of Sullivan, Dr. Samuel R. Magill and Attorney John I. Magill of Springfield and Dr. Clark Magill of Chicago.

There are 14 grandchildren. At the time death claimed him his daughter Mrs. Sears and family were touring the west. They were located at Joplin, Missouri and arrangements were made to have the funeral Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Although Mrs. Sears had not arrived at that time services were held at the family home, being in charge of Rev. Sylvester Egan and Rev. George French. Interment was delayed until Monday morning after Mrs. Sears' arrival. The remains were laid to rest in Greenhill cemetery. The pall bearers were Leslie Horn, Ralph Wood and the four sons.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank all of my customers for the patronage that they have given me during the past seven years that I have been engaged in the Oil business, and hope to retain the good will of the public in all my future transactions in the grain business.

Respt. Yours
CHARLES H. JENNE.

AN EXPLANATION

In publishing a newspaper, there are many chances of making mistakes. There are approximately 8400 lines of type in one issue of The Progress. This type is handled several times. Correction lines are made up and must be put into place. Unfortunately mistakes will occur.

One such mistake appeared in last week's issue in the item relating to Henry McKim. The hearing after Mr. McKim's arrest was held in the office of "Justice of the Peace Edwards." That particular line in the story had a typographical error requiring correction. In making the correction the line was misplaced in the item. It was plainly to be seen by any reader that this was a mistake. The story in no way involved the integrity and standing of Judge Edwards.

Seeing that the mistake had occurred, we offered to Judge Edwards that we would print this story on a card and mail same with explanation to our subscribers. He did not see the need of doing that. There was really no possibility of any person of ordinary intelligence mistaking the facts in the item in question.

A few wise-crackers made it a point to inform Mr. Edwards that they had read into the article a meaning that was not there, hence this explanation.

There is no citizen in Sullivan whose standing for high motives and professional integrity is more above question than that of Judge Edwards. Presiding over the leading tribunal of its kind in the county, he passes on many cases that come into his court.

If anybody intentionally, or unintentionally for one minute regarded Mr. Edwards in any wrong light, we trust this will set them right and we humbly apologize to Mr. Edwards for the mistake in the use of his name.

Timothy, keep that which is committed to thy trust, avoiding profane and vain babblings, and opposition of science falsely so called.

—St. Paul's second letter to Timothy, Chapt. 4-20

The worst sorrows in life are not in its losses and misfortunes, but its fears.—A. C. Benson.

I don't think much of a man who is not wiser today than he was yesterday.—Abraham Lincoln.

BUSINESS EXPANSION

Every newspaper wants circulation—more circulation. The service it can render its readers and its advertisers is gauged by the size of its bona fide subscription list.

The Sullivan Progress already has a large list. It has grown steadily in circulation of that kind that really counts. This has been the result of publishing a paper of the kind that the people want and also of keeping persistently on the job seeking new subscriptions.

In line with this program of expansion and progress, we announce this week a big subscription campaign, the results of which, we hope, will place the Progress into hundreds of new homes in this and adjoining counties.

The prizes offered are substantial. Those who do not win prizes get a liberal commission. We never ask people to work for us without due compensation.

In our 24 years of newspaper work, we have been connected with about every kind of subscription campaign that has been put on. The automobile plan seems to be the most feasible.

We have also known many subscription building companies. In 1924 the Liner Circulation company put on a campaign for us. We found their methods and plan of work fair and above question. Their slogan is "Clean, Clever Campaigns."

We have again engaged that company to put on this drive for us and they have sent us one of their most capable men, Lieut. Lee Hirsch. Mr. Hirsch comes highly recommended, not only on the part of Mr. Liner but also from those papers where he has recently been engaged in circulation building.

Read detailed plans for this subscription drive as they appear on pages one, 4 and 5 of this issue.

We invite your participation.

SCHOOLS AGAIN ON JOB

Monday the most ambitious part of our population, wended its way school-ward. Many for the first time entered the schools to lay the foundation for an education that will cover a very important part of their young lives.

The public school system is the foundation of our American form of government. When we speak of "equal opportunity" we usual mean equal opportunity of education. The boy or girl, equipped with the fundamentals of an education has a basis on which a life of usefulness may be developed.

For the first time in fifty years the Sullivan schools opened without the Misses Mary and Sarah Powers officiating in the primary classes. What their service in the Sullivan schools has meant is hard to fully estimate, but suffice to say that they have a warm spot in the hearts of the three generations whose feet they started off aright on the pathway of education. The Powers School stands as a monument to their work in a material way. The love which the community has for them is however a greater and much more worth while monument.

May the days, following their voluntary retirement from their profession, be filled with the happiness that must accrue when they can look back over a half century of meritorious work, and know that it was well done and has borne good fruit. And may they live long and prosper.

MESSY MASS.

Into the White House last week strode Senator George Higgins Moses of New Hampshire, brimming with big ideas, says Time. He had just been named head of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee to maintain or augment a G. O. P. Senate majority in next year's elections.

The messiness of G. O. P. politics in Massachusetts is due to jealousies and backbiting between leaders and senatorial candidates. The Senate seat now occupied by white-coated Frederick Huntington Gillett is open to the 1930 election. Aged 78, an office-holder for a half-century, he is the Senate's best contract bridge player but otherwise has left no large impress upon its history. Younger men want his place, but he has volunteered to step aside only for Citizen Calvin Coolidge.

Louis Krah Liggett, drug tycoon, Republican National Committeeman for Massachusetts, contributed to the messiness of things Republican by charging that James Michael Curley, Democrat, had kept the religious issue alive during last year's campaign by "dastardly work"—circulating anti-Catholic literature. Last week Boss Curley sued Boss Liggett for civil and criminal libel.

An eager candidate for the Gillett seat in the Senate is one time Governor Alvan Tufts Fuller. Last week, disgusted with Committeeman Liggett's inept maneuver, he called him a "Jonah," said he ought to be thrown "over-board."

Massachusetts Democrats, elated at the "messiness" of Republican politics, sought out one Marcus A. Coolidge, Fitchburg manufacturer, asked him to stand for the Senate. Alive to the added danger of a Coolidge Democrat, Senator Moses at the White House declared: "The name of Coolidge is exclusively a Republican asset in Massachusetts."

GUIDEPOSTS TO Health and Happiness
By Bernarr Macfadden

ON GETTING A HUSBAND

In spite of the freedom girls today enjoy, there is large group of young women who cannot get husbands. It is for them that beauty and charm columns are run in the newspapers.

These columnists tell you that you must be neat in appearance, a good housekeeper, a fine cook, modest and yet entertaining, and that you must never let a man see your faults. I do not doubt that many girls are impressed by this information.

But it is shallow. It makes serious, fundamental principles out of superficial frills. It may be one way of getting a husband, but it is not the best way. Nor will it hold him.

Getting a husband does not depend upon the fragrance of your perfume, the color of your hair, your ability as a cook, nor the amount of "Comehither" in your eyes.

Getting a husband depends, fundamentally and primarily, upon the amount of physical attraction you possess. And I do not mean that a girl must be vampish or even beautiful.

Heart-Heart Talk
By John Joseph Haines M.D.

THE POWER

I am a firm believer in anything my reasoning power tells me is absolute truth. Once my belief is established, my faith lays hold in earnest.

All bodies set in motion by outside influence, and left to themselves, tend to become still—in other words, they come to rest. If I drop a pebble in a still pond, ripples start very quickly. When the impact of the pebble is gone, the little waves gradually become placid again. That's because the force is not continuous.

The great planets floating in space are in constant motion. Some wonderful power must have set them to work. And, unless that power is perpetual, the large bodies would in time cease to move.

Our earth is rolling now—a thousand miles per hour—swifter than the most powerful airplane! It is also rolling around the sun in an almost incomprehensible orbit, every 365 days. Some stupendous power set the pace. It is still causing the big spheroid to move exactly on time, and with the same unerring precision. The power is at work right now, as it was "in the beginning."

I don't need any book to tell me that this power is still at work. Eclipses can be figured thousands of years ahead, far more accurately than any man-made chronometer can register. The past proves this.

Call the power God, or any other name—I know there is a supreme power. Since great good comes from the exercise of this power that makes universal life possible, I know it is a good power, for which "God" is by all earthly reason the best name.

Theorists and doubters may tell me with all emphasis that there is no God; I know better. And, I am willing to put my faith, and all that I am and have, in the power that gives me my life and the lives of those I hold most dear. Men may believe as they please—I do the same.

BIBLE THOUGHT —FOR TODAY—
Bible thoughts memorized, will prove a precious heritage in after years.

THE LORD'S LOVE

John 17:23, 24, 25, 26. I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made perfect in one; and that the world may know that thou hast sent me, and hast loved them, as thou hast loved me. 24. Father, I will that they also, whom thou hast given me, be with me where I am; that they may behold my glory, which thou hast given me: for thou lovedst me before the foundation of the world. 25. O righteous Father, the world hath not known thee: but I have known thee, and these have known that thou hast sent me. 26. And I have declared unto them thy name, and will declare it; that the love wherewith thou hast loved me may be in them, and I in them.

PRAYER:

In boundless mercy gracious Lord appear,
Darkness dispel, the humble mourner cheer:
Vain thought remove, melt down the flinty heart,
Draw every soul to choose the better part.

HERE'S HOWE

BY E. W. HOWE

FRIENDS HARD TO HANDLE—DON'T WELCOME SIN—LEARNING WAYS OF WOMEN

There used to be a man who told me I should marry again, and had a woman picked out for me. Somehow I could never squelch him, I had known him so long, although I had never intimated to him that I needed such advice. His assumption that I needed his assistance was extremely distasteful to me; no doubt he spoke to women unknown to me, and made me ridiculous, but I could not help myself. Fortunately I am rid of this man, as he died some time ago, but others remain to keep me sufficiently humiliated. One of the heaviest burdens of my life has always been numerous persons among my acquaintances who make a fool of me, and I have never been able to get rid of them. According to my standards they are grossly impudent, but they seem to have friends, and prosper. I get along well with active enemies; they at least only scowl at me, and finally they quit talking about me behind my back—but I cannot handle some friends so successfully.

I am firmly convinced that the most sensible effort in which a man may engage is to do the best he can with such powers as Almighty God or heredity has given him. There are so many weak and unfortunate that I cannot help them all, but may I help myself? I must eat to live, and food is contrary and malicious. At 9:00 a. m., when suffering distress from unwise or overeating, I resolve to do better thereafter, but four hours later, with agreeable friends at table, I forget the solemn warning and resolutions of the morning. With my striving I make a little progress. Am I a fool for not making more, or have I inherent weaknesses of body and mind that me hopelessly to sin? Some say they can pray for strength, and receive it. Others say they are able to exercise their will, and overcome evil; but I have observed that both these boosters are usually as weak as I am; so generally so that their methods do not impress me. Is sin the seed planted in man to inevitably destroy him at eighty, or earlier? Anyway, I am able to regulate it a little, to my advantage, and shall persevere; I am still convinced that there is most comfort in life for those who resist sin as much as possible, instead of welcoming it.

I often think of a saying by Napoleon: "I will be compelled to go to school again," he said when contemplating his second marriage, "to learn the ways of new woman."—Napoleon was a king; the girl he was to marry a princess of a subject nation. She had been brought up in the simple German way; she had been assigned him for breeding purposes (and I do not say this in an offensive way, but as a mere statement of fact)—Why did he not say to this girl, as he said to his subjects: "Learn my ways."—Well, the most powerful man cannot do that with a woman. Let a king arrange for intimate association with a peasant woman, and he has another war on his hands. He is no longer king of his country or of himself. He has divided his regal power; he may be a Senate of the firm, but must wrangle with the House before his acts are constitutional.

TOOK SODA FOR STOMACH FOR 20 YEARS

"For 20 years I took soda for indigestion and stomach gas. Then I tried Adlerika. One bottle brought complete relief."—Jno. B. Hardy.

Adlerika relieves GAS and sour stomach in TEN minutes! Acts on BOTH upper and lower Bowel, removing poisons you never knew were there. Don't fool with medicine which cleans only PART of the bowels, but let Adlerika give stomach and bowels a REAL cleaning and see how good you feel! Sam B. Hall, Druggist.

Rules and Regulations

- No salaried employee of this newspaper is eligible to enter this competition. This does not apply to country correspondents.
- Any other reputable man, woman or child residing in this city or surrounding territory is eligible to enter this campaign and compete for the prizes.
- The winners of the prizes will be decided by their accredited votes, said votes being represented by ballots issued on subscriptions and coupons clipped from the papers. This newspaper reserves the right to include advertising and job printing if so desired.
- Participants in this campaign are not confined to their own town or community in which to secure votes, but may take orders anywhere in this section; or, for that matter, anywhere in the state or United States.
- Cash must accompany all orders where votes are desired. Candidates will be allowed to collect back subscriptions and renewals as well as entirely new subscriptions, and votes will be issued on all.
- Votes are free. It costs the subscriber nothing extra to cast votes for their favorite. Votes must be asked for at the time of paying subscription, otherwise subscribers waive this privilege.
- Votes are not transferable. Candidates cannot withdraw in favor of another candidate. Should a candidate withdraw from the race, his or her votes will be cancelled. Neither will it be permissible for candidates to give or transfer subscriptions to another candidate. Votes on such transferred subscriptions will be subject to disqualification at the discretion of the management.
- Any collusion on the part of candidates to nullify competition, or any other combination formed to the detriment of candidates or this newspaper will not be tolerated. Any candidate taking part in such combination stands liable to forfeit all rights to a prize or commission.
- All votes issued on ballots may be held in reserve and cast at the discretion of candidates or this newspaper. The free vote coupons appearing from time to time in the paper must be cast before the expiration date appearing thereon.
- In the event of a tie for any one of the prizes, a prize identical in value will be given each tying contestant.
- Participants in this campaign are authorized agents of this newspaper, but it is understood and agreed that they will be responsible for all moneys collected and will remit such amounts in full each day to the campaign department.
- No statement or promise made by any representative or candidate varying from the rules and statement appearing through the columns of this newspaper will be recognized by the publisher.
- In case of typographical or other error it is understood that neither the publisher nor campaign manager shall be held responsible except to make the necessary correction upon discovery of same.
- Candidates who remain ACTIVE to the finish, but fail to win one of the regular prizes offered, will be paid a twenty per cent cash commission on all subscription money turned in to their account. It is distinctly understood, however, that in the event any candidate becomes INACTIVE, failing to make a regular cash report, he or she will, at the discretion of the management, become disqualified and thereby forfeit all right to a prize or commission.
- To insure absolute fairness in the awarding of prizes, the race will be brought to a close under a sealed ballot box. During the entire last "period" of the campaign, a ballot box—locked and sealed—will repose in the vaults of a local bank, where candidates and their friends will deposit their final collections and reserve votes. In this way no one, not even the campaign manager, can possibly know the voting strength of the various candidates, which precludes any possibility of favoritism and insures fairness to the minutest degree.
- Ten thousand extra votes will be given a candidate for each five yearly subscriptions or its equivalent turned in during their first week in the campaign.
- This newspaper guarantees fair and impartial treatment to all participants, but should any question arise the decision of the management will be absolute and final.
- In becoming a candidate, participants agree to abide by the above conditions.

Just A Few Short Weeks To Win Prizes Worth Thousands of Dollars

Campaign Plan in Brief

The object of this big prize distribution is two-fold. Primarily, to increase the already large subscription list of this newspaper, to collect arrearage and advance subscription payments from present or old subscribers, and at the same time to afford the live-wire, energetic hustlers of this city and surrounding territory an opportunity to profit, and in a BIG way, through their spare time during the next few weeks. So it is a plan that works both ways, and to the ultimate good of all concerned.

In order to gain this end quickly and advantageously, the most valuable list of prizes ever offered by any newspaper in this section has been made ready for distribution among those who participate most actively. Ambition and energy are the only requisites for success.

The plan adopted is the fairest and most impartial conceivable. There will be no "special vote offers" inaugurated during the life of this campaign; neither will there be any "special prizes" given. The plan is straight-forward and simple, and is fully outlined in this announcement.

Let it be understood at the very outset that this is not a "beauty" nor "popularity" contest, but a strictly legitimate competitive proposition for enterprising men and women, and one into which no element of chance enters. One feature of this campaign is the fact that "Everybody Wins." There will be no losers in this race!

How To Enter = What To Do

The first thing to do is to clip the Entry Coupon appearing below; fill in your name and address and mail, or deliver, to the campaign department of this newspaper at once. This coupon entitles you, or the person whom you might wish to enter, with 5,000 FREE votes. These votes are given as a starter--to speed you on your way to win. Only one such Entry Coupon will be accepted for each entrant.

The next step is to call on, or write, the campaign department for a free working outfit. Thus equipped, you have but to see your friends and acquaintances and have them to pay up their subscription through you. That's all there is to it! However, let us say, you will never get anywhere unless you make the start--the earlier the better. Once started, let no one discourage you. Anything worth having is worth striving for. Six and a half short weeks and you may be riding in your own BIG automobile!

How Votes Are Secured

It takes votes to win, and they are secured in the following ways: First, by clipping the Free Vote Coupons appearing in each issue of this newspaper. There is no limit to the number of these coupons you may secure. Get your friends to saving them for you. They all count. Begin gathering them NOW, while they are good for 100 votes each. After next week these coupons will be reduced to 50 votes; the following week to 10 votes, and after that they will be discontinued entirely. The only restriction placed on voting these coupons is that they must be cast before the expiration date appearing thereon.

The other, and much faster way to accumulate votes in this campaign is by securing new and renewal subscriptions to this newspaper (the right is reserved to include job printing and advertising if so desired). On each order secured a certain number of votes are issued, the number varying according to the amount paid and during which "period" same are received at the campaign department. See schedule of votes opposite.

Early Start Means Easy Finish

The advantages of an early start are manifest. The campaign is of such short duration that immediate action is necessary for success. Orders taken during the early part of the campaign carry the MAXIMUM number of votes. Then, too, the first in the field will undoubtedly get the cream of votes and subscriptions, while those who put off entering until a later date will have to take what is left.

Don't lose valuable time "waiting to see what the other fellow is going to do," but pitch right in and show the "other fellow" how to do it!

The Pastor will be back in the pulpit next Sunday after her summer's absence therefrom. She will speak in the morning service on the subject, "The Office of the New Testament Ministry".

There is a tremendous responsibility attending this office, for we are representing Jesus Christ and his soul-saving gospel of power in a very special way. The subject of good will toward all mankind will be treated in the night service. Friends, we must have this spirit of good will to be Christ's own. Welcome!

Time of services same as last week except prayer meeting will be on Thursday night.

Brother Egan is going to be out of town preaching but some one else will take care of the services.

Using the same text as last week, Is. 40:31. The effect. When God caused inspired men to write the Bible, he used the commonplace things of that age to illustrate his meaning. If he were writing today, he might possibly say "Mount up with wings as airplanes". We got a helpful thought from the endurance airplane test at St. Louis recently. How much depended on the refueling ship, that the endurance ship might stay in the air, had the one failed, then the other would soon have had to come to earth for want of fuel. And how still they had to be while the refueling was in progress, of course not actually standing still, but moving forward in a straight way, not weaving from side to side, and they had to stay directly under the refueling plane. We think of Christians whose endurance flight was very brief, because they did not take time to refuel, or else did not sail steadily on under the refueling ship. And of others who stayed up until all their supply was exhausted, and they came down to earth with a crash, and it was a sad story, the angles had to tell around the throne. The Holy Spirit is our refueling plane, get under the spirit and sail steadily on, and then you will not have to come down for a long, long time.

SEVENTH INSTALMENT

Well, she would sell what God had made of her for what man might make of her!

At the studio she had met the casting director, Arthur Tierrey. It was he who said to this one or that one, "Here's a part; play it, and the company will give you so much a week."

He was the St. Peter of the movie heaven, empowered to admit or to deny. He was the man for her to seek. He had seemed a decent enough man, and he had looked at Mem without insolence. But you can never tell!

Mem studied herself a long while in the mirror, since her eyes and her smile must be her chief wardrobe, her siren equipment. She practiced such expressions as she supposed to represent invitation. They were silly and they made her rather ill.

She reached Tierrey's office and found him idly swapping stories with his assistant. He spoke to her courteously, motioned her into his office, closed the door, and took his own place behind his desk.

The telephone rang. He called in to it: "Sorry, Miss Waite; that part has been filled. The company couldn't make your salary. I begged you to take the cut, but you wouldn't. Times are hard and you'd better listen to reason. Sorry. Good-by!"

This was a discouraging background for Mem's siren scenario. But she determined to carry out her theory and, in all self-loathing adjusted herself in her big chair to what she imagined was a Cleopatra sinuosity. She thought of her best lines; secretly twiddled up her skirts and thrust her ankles well into view.

She turned upon Mr. Tierrey her most languishing eyes, and tried to opru enticement into them as into bowls of fire.

She pursed her lips and set them full. She widened her breast with deep sighs.

Tierrey seemed to recognize that she was deploying herself. He grew a little uneasy. But he was as polite to Mem as if she had been Robina Teele.

"What can I do for you?" "I want a chance to act." "What experience have you had?" he asked.

Mem was suddenly confronted with the fact that all actors must offer themselves for sale—not the pretty women only, but the old men, too, and the character women.

Actors are much abused for talking of themselves. Few of them do when business is not involved, but when it is they must discuss the goods they are trying to sell. Shoe merchants talk shoes; railroad presidents, railroads; politicians, politics; clergymen, salvation. Each salesman must recommend his own stock and talk it up.

So Mem had to grope for experience and dress her window with it. And she had had so little she lied a little, as one does who tries to sell anything:

"I was with the company that Tom Holby and Robina Teele played in. I took the part of an Arabian woman. Mr. Folger, the director—er—praised my—er—work."

"Well, he knows," said Tierrey, "but he's not with this company, you know. Have we your name and address and a photograph outside in our files?"

"No." "Well if you'll give them to Mr. Dobbs, with your height, weight, color of eyes and hair, and experience, we'll let you know when anything occurs. I'll introduce you to Mr. Dobbs and he—"

He moved toward the door to escape from the cruelty of his office, but a frenzy moved her to seize his arm in a fierce clutch.

She tried to play the vampire as she had seen the part enacted on the screen by various slithy toves. She drew her victim close to her, pressed tight against him, and poured upward into his eyes all the venom of an amorous basilisk.

"I'll pay the Price! I know what it costs to succeed, and I'm willing to pay. I'll do anything you say, be anything to you. You can't refuse me!"

She could hardly believe her own ears hearing her own voice, though with pride in the acting she was doing lifted her from the disgust for the role.

He looked at her without surprise, without horror, without even amusement, but—also without a hint of surrender. His only mood was one of jaded pity.

"You poor child, who's been filling your head with that stuff? Are you really trying to vamp me?"

The crass word angered her: "I'm trying to force my way to my career, and I don't care what it costs."

Tierrey's sarcastic smile faded. "Sit down a minute and listen to me. A little common sense ought to have told you that what you've been told is all rot. Suppose I were willing to give a job to every pretty girl who tried to bribe me with love. Do you know how many women I see a day—a hundred and fifty on some days; that's nearly a thousand a week. And if you won me over you'd still have to please the director and the managers and the author and the public. How long would our company keep going if we selected our actresses according to their immorality?"

"Forget this old rot about 'paying the Price.' Tell Mr. Dobbs your pedigree and we'll give you the first chance we get, and no initiation fee or commission will be charged. How's that? A little bit of all right, eh? You're a nice child, and pretty, and you'll get along."

He lifted her from her chair and put his arm around her as a comrade, and slapped her shoulder blades in an accolade of good fellowship.

She broke under the strain and began to cry. She dropped back into her chair and sobbed. It was good to be punished and rebuked into common decency by the way of common sense.

It chanced that the president of the company was returning to his office from a visit to one of the stages. This was the man whose name was familiar about the world. Every film from his factory was labeled: "Bermond presents—"; "Copyright by Bermond Company"; "This is a Bermond picture." The slogan of the company was, "This is a Bermond year."

When Mr. Bermond heard Mem crying, his heart hurt him. He did not like scandal, disorder, confusion, or grief on his lot.

He went to Mem and tried to console her. He took her hands down from her contorted face and forced her to look at him. Seen through the cascades of her tears she was strikingly attractive and appealing.

"Sarah Bernhardt failed in her first play, you know, and you may be a second Sarah some day," he said. "Just you wait!"

Mem's eyes were filling with rainbows. A bystander drew Bermond aside. It was Claymore, a dramatist who had had a few successes before he established himself in the moving pictures as a director. "That girl has the tear," he said to Bermond. "That woman you've given me for my next picture is awful. Let me take this kid and give her a real test. She might have just what we want."

"Sure! Fine! Go to it!" said Bermond, and hastened to Mem with the good news that Mr. Claymore—the great Mr. Claymore—was going to give her a chance!

The next morning found Mem at the studio betimes, borrowing mascara and advice from Miss Calder.

Claymore was waiting for her when she came from the women's dressing rooms. She was daubed, smeared, lined, powdered, rouged, mascaroed, and generally calced for duty. Her heart was beating in alternate throbs of fear and frenzy. Her feet were at the brink of the Rubicon.

Claymore had provided a camera man, a few women to handle the electric lights, a property man, and even a pair of musicians—a violinist and the treacher of a wheezy little portable melodeon.

Claymore marched her into the scene and gave her a little of what he called footwork.

"Go back to that door and come forward to this spot. Shake hands with—er—with your lover—er—Well—no. Let me see. That's too simple. Let's get down to business."

"You've a—Oh—well, just for instance, you've been—er—betrayed and your child has died and you've been accused of murdering it and you're now being called before the judge and the jury. Do you get me? You're coming into a courtroom under a charge of crime; you feel your shame, but you're innocent of the charge, yet you're overwhelmed with guilt for your fall, and the father of the child is—was killed in the war, say—and you don't much care whether you live or die; so you're in despair, yet defiant. That's a triple layer of emotion for you and I don't suppose you can get much of it over, but just try to give the atmosphere of it. Now back to the door. Walk through it once."

Claymore was as much embarrassed as Mem, for his invention was not in its best working order so early in the morning. He felt as silly as a man badgered by a peevish child to tell a story.

But his trite plot stirred Mem amazingly. He could not know how close his random shots had come home to her and flung her back from the forward-looking artist to the lorn fugitive who had stumbled into California laden with disgrace.

She was all atremble and her eyes darted, her fingers twitched. Claymore marveled at her instantaneous response to his suggestion. There were born artists who shivered on the least breath of inspiration and suggestion.

His first impression of Mem was that he had found a genius, and he fought against the obstacles he encountered later with the zest of a man digging toward known gold.

In a kind of stupor Mem obeyed his commands like the trained confederate of a hypnotist. She went to the door, came in reluctant, shamefaced, doomed. She advanced slowly till she reached the edge of the rug he had indicated, then halted, and with a fierce effort hoisted her head in defiance and braved the lightning of the judge.

"She heard Claymore call to her: 'That's fine! Now we'll take it!'" She started back, but was checked by the camera man's "Wait, please!" He ran forward and shouted directions on all sides for lights.

"Hit those spots! Throw the ash can on her. Bring up that Klieg! Put a diffuser on that Winfield. What's the matter with the second spot? Your carbons are flickering. Mike! Mile! Trim those carbons on the second spot! Pull 'em!"

Making Friends

Nine years ago on this date a message from the president of the Illinois Central System was published as an advertisement in the newspapers on the lines of this system. It was the first of a montly series in which this statement begins the tenth year. As advertising this monthly series undoubtedly has set a record for continuity and duration.

These monthly discussions of railway subjects are part of the program of the Illinois Central System for making friends. Among the purposes of our railroad in desiring the friendship of the public are these:

To obtain recognition of the fact that good service cannot be performed by impoverished railroads;

To take the mystery out of railroading, thereby removing the inevitable results of suspicion, distrust and misunderstanding;

To give the public facts upon which to base an intelligent attitude toward matters of current interest affecting the railroads;

To work toward co-operation instead of hostility in the settlement of questions involving relations with patrons and governmental agencies;

To arouse an appreciation of the railroads and of sound economic policies that will lessen unjust demands upon them;

To create improved morale among railway employes and thus make for the increased efficiency, economy and courtesy of railway service;

To meet the competition of other railroads and of other means of transportation.

The reception which this program has had from the patrons and friends of the Illinois Central System is highly gratifying. Looking to the future, we pledge our best efforts toward meriting the good will which our railroad so happily enjoys.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

L. A. DOWNS, President, Illinois Central System.

"TOILERS" AN EPIC OF MAN'S LIFE STRUGGLE

Coming Thursday and Friday, Sept. 12-13 to the Grand theatre, is the Reginald Barker special production of "THE TOILERS", a dramatic epic of the coal mines, especially written for Barker's direction by L. G. Rigby and produced by Tiffany-Stahl.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., plays the role of Steve, a young coal miner, who finds Mary (portrayed by Jobyna Ralston) lying in the snow in front of his shanty on Christmas Eve. He shares his humble home with Toby, cheerful and happy-go-lucky, and with Joe, grouchy and pessimistic. Mary is homeless and hysterical, but the boy calms her fears and she goes to sleep in the only bedroom the shack boasts of and Steve makes his two pals, when they come home a little the worse for "Christmas cheer," sleep on the floor.

Despite warnings of grouchy Joe Steve falls in love with Mary and their wedding day is set. But that day there is an explosion in the mine and Steve is among those trapped. How the drillers cut down through the rock to the imprisoned men; the agony of waiting while suffering thirst, hunger and the effects of the foul air; the anguish of the women waiting to know the fate of their loved ones—these gripping scenes bring "The Toilers" to its tremendous climax.
