Sullivan's Shoe Factory Prospects Dwindle As Support Is Withheld

Wage Earners Subscribe Willingly. Only About Half of the Necessary Quota has Been Raised. Business Men hold back And Slow up Drive

Other Cities Want Their Chance

Some Very Encouraging Developments—some not so good. Church of Christ Near 100 Per Cent Mark. No Let Up in Campaign. It Is Sullivan's One Big Chance. About 450 Out of 1100 to Whom Quotas were assigned Have Toed the Mark.

Sullivan has the hardest job of its existence right now. It is trying to raise funds sufficient to get a unit of the Brown Shoe Factory located here. Support expected from some sources is not forthcoming.

On page 5 of this issue appears the first published list of individual subscribers and of 100 per cent business and professional establishments.

Many business men's names are not on this list as yet. An examination of the list shows that the people of moderate means, the wage earners and the folks anxious to get a factory and employment for this city, are helping. They are signing up for their quotas.

Some of the business men, who four years ago indicated by their subscriptions, that they wanted a factory for Sullivan are holding back.

Those in charge of the drive, while still optimistic as to its ultimate success, are getting very much discouraged. Help is not forth coming from the sources where they had a right to expect it.

One of the men in charge of the drive in an interview Thursday morning stated: "The people want to know how this drive is going. Tell them that we have at this time about half subscribed of what we need. If we are to put this matter over, some who are holding back, must not only subscribe their quotas but they must lend a hand to the workers and help in this drive."

At a meeting of the workers Monday night, plans for the drive were fully outlined and many of the workers present at that time subscribed their quotas.

Tuesday was devoted to getting those workers who had not signed Monday night to sign up for their quotas. Many volunteer subscribers appeared at headquarters and signed up. Tuesday night a big parade was staged in this city and following the parade the big crowd that had assembled was addressed by a number of the workers from the band stand.

The drum corps of the Decatur Legion was present and helped to entertain the crowd. Most of the city's civic organizations were represented in the parade.

Wednesday morning the workers assembled at three different places: ward workers at Grand Theatre; school workers at the S. N. & H. grocery and all other workers at general headquarters.

At eight o'clock a half dozen air bombs announced the starting of the drive. The workers were paired off and each pair was given a number of people to see. They had quota blanks all filled in and requiring only the signatures of the people asked to subscribe.

All committees worked hard Wednesday. Quota blanks not signed up were returned to headquarters that night and Thursday morning the workers again got on the job.

While conditions did not look very encouraging, they have not yet given up the fight—in fact many say that they are just beginning and that they will not consider failure as the ultimate outcome of doing this great thing for the city.

Out of Town Support
An encouraging telegram reached C. R. Patterson's office Wednesday. It was from Charles Dunscomb of California, who wired a subscription of $250 to the fund. From other sources too came some encouragement. A travelling man got so enthused that he left a $5 subscription. A young man from Gays walked into headquarters after the parade Tuesday night and signed up his subscription. Several farmers have already made their voluntary subscriptions and others have asked when the solicitors will call on them.

The date for such drive has not been decided on, but is under consideration by the executive committee. Doubtless the work in Sullivan will be completed first.

From various sources comes the information that other cities are watching this drive very closely. The minute that it becomes apparent that Sullivan can not put it over, they will make their plea to the Brown Shoe Company. Many of them feel they could raise the necessary fund in a few days' drive. People of Sullivan must awake to the fact that this matter cannot be kept open indefinitely. One of these days the Shoe Company may issue an ultimatum, telling us that we have had our chance and that other cities must be given consideration.

Among the best workers in this drive are the members of the Church of Christ on South Hamilton street. At time of going to press only one or two signatures were missing to place the church membership 100 per cent back of this drive.

GIANT WALNUT YIELDS TO CASH

Lebanon, Ill. Sept. 24—The black walnut tree that stood behind the home of Mrs. Clara Z. Mason here for nobody knows how long, has at last fallen.

It was a giant patriarch among walnut trees, generous with its shade and its harvest. It might have been there yet had not walnut companies coveted it and kept importuning Mrs. Mason to sell it, raising their bids with each refusal. At last she said yes and down it came. A check for $400 was handed to Mrs. Mason and the tree trunk sent away to the mill.

The tree had stood probably not less than 200 years, maybe much longer. Walnut trees grow slowly and they make no record that man can read. The trunk was seventeen feet from ground to the lowest limb, five feet thick and twelve feet in circumference. It will produce 1,543 board feet of lumber.

There is only one other tree like it anywhere say the timber men who go up and down the land wherever walnut trees grow, and it stands in St. Louis county, Mo.

—The Christian Endeavor of the Christian church and the Epworth League of the M. E. church will have a wiener roast at Wyman park, Friday evening.

DOROTHEA SUMMITT AND O. W. EATON MARRIED SUNDAY

Miss Dorothea Summitt and Oliver W. Eaton were married at the First Methodist church in Decatur Sunday. Rev. Ernest J. Campbell, Springfield District M. E. superintendent who is a former pastor of the Sullivan church performed the ceremony. Attendees were Mr. and Mrs. W. Fenton Jones, cousins of the bridegroom.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Summitt of this city. She is a graduate of the local high school. After graduation she entered the Decatur and Macon county hospital for a four years' course in nurses training. After completing this course she went to Moberly, Mo., where for several years she was surgical supervisor in the Wabash Railway hospital. She resigned this job early this spring and returned to her home in this city to prepare for her marriage.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eaton of Maroa and is employed as freight agent for the I. T. R. R. in Decatur.

After a honeymoon trip to Indianapolis the couple will return to Decatur and take up their residence at 1173 West Eldorado St.

LIBRARY BOARD DECIDES TO BUY AND REMODEL ITS PRESENT QUARTERS

The Library Board has decided to buy for $2000 the present library room. Dr. Lawson has bought that part occupied by his office and is now remodeling it.

The Library board's action will be presented to the City Council for approval at its next meeting. If approved, plans for installing a heating system and making other changes will be put into effect. These proposed improvements will cost approximately $1500.

The action on the part of the Library Board was necessary as the owners of the building which the library occupies refused to put in a heating system or make other necessary changes.

The purchase price is considered very reasonable. The owners of the building have been the W. A. Steele heirs.

Progress' Prize Campaign Talk of Entire Community; One More Week of Big Votes

Just Seven Days From Next Saturday in Which to Secure the Big Votes on Progress' Subscriptions—Make Every Day Count.

Now is the Time to Help Your Favorite

One Week From Saturday at Midnight Comes First Reduction in Votes.

Developments during the past week in The Sullivan Progress' big "Everybody Wins" Prize subscription campaign have been the most sensational and spectacular yet recorded. Thousands, yes, hundreds of thousands of votes were cast; first one candidate would hold sway for supremacy, then another; battles were fought, won and lost and the race waged fast and furious.

Yet, so closely arrayed and with honors so equally divided up to the present time, IT DEPENDS ENTIRELY UPON THE RESULTS OBTAINED BETWEEN NOW AND THE CLOSE OF THE "FIRST PERIOD" Saturday night, October 5th—as to who the ultimate winners will be.

No one has a walk away for big votes are allowed. the big automobile. Neither is anyone hopelessly beaten. Just a good bunch of subscriptions turned in for any one of the various candidates would change the entire complexion of affairs and furnish new leaders in the race. In fact, a few long term subscriptions now, from unexpected sources might be the very ones needed to stem the tide of defeat and turn it into a sweeping victory.

Race Reaches Acute Stage
With but one more week after this Saturday night in which to turn in subscriptions and secure the MAXIMUM number of votes and but four more weeks to go before the race comes to a close, interest in the campaign intensifies. Each candidate realizes that the big prizes, stupendous in value, lie practically within their grasp either to be claimed for their very own or forfeited to more aggressive opponents during the next few weeks. Your success depends to a great extent upon the results obtained NOW while the

Be Safe—Not Sorry
If you halt now for a single moment; if you weaken for a single day, or if you overlook one single opportunity to better your chances to win you are surely taking the most desperate risk of losing the big prize, already partially won and which really belongs to you and you are nearly certain to bring dismal disappointment upon yourself, as well as your friends who will take it as sorely as you will yourself.

A Fight to Finish
Don't forget that this is a battle hereafter. Craft helps; speed too, but the rugged strength and lasting qualities of a few hundred thousand votes means victory here as the same traits win any battle.

Vote discreetly; hustle swiftly; watch and battle persistently to the end, and if you do not win at that it will be for no other reason than that some competitor embodies all your strength to a Twelve (renewal) 5-year subscriptions in the city of Sullivan would count 240,000 REGULAR votes and make six complete "clubs" with 300,000 EXTRA votes or a grand total of 540,000 votes.

Seven (new) 5-year subscriptions out-side the city of Sullivan would entitle you to 350,000 REGULAR and 150,000 EXTRA votes making a grand total of 500,000 votes.

Eight (new) 5-year subscriptions in the city of Sullivan would entitle you to 320,000 REGULAR votes and 200,000 EXTRA votes making a grand total of 520,000 votes.

It would take a few more shorter term subscriptions to get this many votes.

Editorial

IS YOUR NAME ON THE HONOR ROLL?

Have you ever bent your every effort toward the accomplishment of a thing—then comes the zero hour, when success or failure will be achieved?

That is the feeling we have at this moment. Ever since coming to Sullivan we have tried our best to do our little share in doing something really worth while for this city.

Side by side with others The Progress has labored to induce some big reliable manufacturing concern to build here and give employment to our people.

Right now the people of this city are giving their answer to these efforts. Right now, at this moment, (10 a. m. Wednesday, September 25, 1929) about two hundred workers are canvassing the city in an effort to secure enough subscriptions to insure a Brown Shoe Co. factory coming here.

What will the answer be? Do the people realize the vital need of an industry with a payroll for Sullivan, or do they look at the matter with a feeling of indifference?

When the workers today make their reports to headquarters, the answer will be given.

Especially is this true when the committee working among the merchants and business men makes its report. It is not easy to make the decision. The amount asked is big. Only by measuring it with future benefits that may derived can the quotas be said to be reasonable.

But they are reasonable. They are fair. They are not discriminatory. And they must be subscribed, if this proposition is to be put across.

In today's paper appears the honor list of subscribers; is your name among them? Are you endangering the future of this city by withholding your support at this time?

What Sullivan is trying to do is not guesswork. We know what the factory will do for this city, by having seen what it has done to others.

If you want a bigger city, here's the opportunity to do your share toward getting it.

If you want to give the people of this community the opportunity of getting paying jobs, now is your time to act.

Sullivan as a community reached its apex of prosperity about twenty years ago. It ceased to go forward and started on a gradual decline. The World War acted as a stimulant and for a time boomed things here as elsewhere. After this boom passed off the decline downhill has been rapid. We have lost in population. We have lost in outside trade. We have drifted along, hoping that something would turn up that would awaken our people and again put Sullivan among the best little cities in the state.

That something has turned up. It takes a sacrifice to get it. Everybody is asked to make that sacrifice, to give their fair share. Have you done it? Will you do it?

People of this community, the man looking for labor, the property owner who has seen his property values decline 50 per cent in the past few years, is looking to you. Many of them have given. The laboring men and women have been especially anxious to come and do their part. Many voluntary subscriptions have come to headquarters from that source before the drive really started.

Now these people are looking to you to do your share. They are scanning the list carefully today to see whether or not your name appears there. They will look for it day by day as this drive progresses toward its goal.

The workers get nothing for their efforts. They are giving of their valuable time. Some business and professional men have devoted practically all of the past two weeks to this matter. They are doing their part. Most of these workers signed up Monday night, the first opportunity offered them.

We need your cooperation and support, business men. We need your cooperation and support professional men; laborers and property owners you must do your share; non-resident property owners, you will derive benefits if this drive succeeds; farmers and people of the neighboring communities, this proposed factory will furnish labor for your children or for anybody who wants it.

This is our plea—Help yourself by helping Sullivan. You are not asked to donate—you are not asked to make a gift to the Brown Shoe Company—you are simply asked to invest a certain quota in the future of your community. It is an insurance, a protection, against further depreciation in value of what you already have here.

To those who have already subscribed, the committee extends its hearty thanks and appreciation. You will never regret what you have done, It means much to you and the community.

To those who have not signed—to those whose names do not appear today, let us say that there will be a new and revised list tomorrow. Get in line for that.

There will be a special honor list for the non resident subscribers.

The drive is on. The future of Sullivan is at stake. If we fail in this, we have shot our rocket. There will not be much fun playing with the stick.

DOLORES DEL RIO HAS GREAT ROLE IN LATEST

After an absence of nearly a year Dolores Del Rio's rare talent and beauty are to grace the screen of the Grand Theatre next Thursday and Friday, October 3rd and 4th when "Evangeline" her latest United Artists picture makes its local debut.

To film fans who revealed in the beauty and impressive drama of "Resurrection" and the tender romantic episodes of "Ramona", Edwin Carewe, producer-director of all Miss Del Rio's starring plays, promises that "Evangeline" will surpass the actress' finest previous efforts.

Dealing with the romance of Evangeline and Gabriel, Longfellow's immortal lovers, and the tragic days when the Acadians, a peaceable people settled at Grand Pre, Nova Scotia, were torn from their homes and deported to various sections of the United States, "Evangeline" is said to offer a soul-stirring dramatic tragedy and a romance marked by enduring love and willing sacrifice.

One of the most elaborate productions of recent years, Miss Del Rio's new play demands the utmost of the artist's talents and the support of an excellent cast of dramatic players. Among the most dominant characters of American literature, Evangeline's adventure in Acadia and in her search for Gabriel which led her through many states of the Eastern and Southern coastline, have likewise required settings of unusual natural beauty and historical accuracy. More than six months were required to photograph "Evangeline" and it is said that the screen play written by Finis Fox and produced by Mr. Carewe while following Mr. Longfellow's world famous poem faithfully, develops to the fullest incidents which the poet has treated only as a lyrical narrative.

WHOLE COOKED CHICKEN IN CANS NOW ON MARKET

A whole cooked chicken in a tin can is a new thing in the marketing of poultry products that has recently been brought to the attention of the public, says the Bureau of Agriculture Economics, United States Department of Agriculture. The birds are inspected for wholesomeness before cooking by bureau representatives operating under a nation-wide inspection service for the quality and condition of dairy and poultry products. If the consumer prefers to do his own cooking, he may buy a bird that has been dressed, drawn, and hard-chilled at the poultry plant and marketed in individual containers under Government inspection.

Heretofore the great bulk of market poultry has been purchased by the consumer either as live poultry, fresh-killed dressed poultry, or as poultry from freezers. The sale of such poultry has been through retail live and dressed poultry markets. The new method of marketing whole dressed birds in cans, thoroughly cooked and ready to serve, will doubtless enlarge the market for poultry, in the opinion of the marketing experts of the Department of Agriculture, inasmuch as canned poultry can be sold in retail stores everywhere where canned goods are carried.

Also the sale of poultry which has been "full drawn" at packing plants is expected to increase the demand for poultry, because the bird is ready to cook when purchased. There are no waste parts such as head, feet, and entrails and generally a sweeter, better flavored product is obtained by eliminating the entrail taint often present in birds marketed under the old system. The poultry is drawn in plants where each bird is examined for condition and wholesomeness, and only birds passed by the Government inspectors can be marketed. The birds after being drawn are individually wrapped or boxed and hard-chilled. The housewife may thaw out the poultry by placing it in water of moderate temperature or by keeping it overnight at room temperature.

MAY GET SHOE FACTORY

Sullivan is all aglow just now with the promise of a shoe factory to be located there by the Brown Shoe company of St. Louis. A mass meeting was held Monday night at the county seat at which a number of pep talks were made. Dennis Houlihan spoke for Lovington, assuring the Sullivan folks that this city is also interested in the success of the plan.

Editor Brandenburg is keeping us posted with a daily edition of the Progress, as to what progress the project is making.

TEACHERS GUESTS OF KIWANIS

The Sullivan Kiwanis club had a great meeting Friday night at the National Inn. The program this week has been "Education."

Locally Raymond A. Scheer, principal of the Sullivan Township High School was in charge of the program.

The wives of the club members, the faculties of the schools and husbands and wives were guests Friday night. Ninety sat down to the luncheon.

President McLaughlin opened the meeting and after the usual preliminaries turned it over to Mr. Scheer.

The first speaker on the program was Loren Brumfield, superintendent of the city's grade schools. He spoke on how the Kiwanis can be of aid in the grade school work.

Under-Weight Children

He stated that last year's medical examination of the pupils had shown that 57% were under weight and urged that a sentiment be fostered by Kiwanis to remedy this matter. He stated that this matter can be much helped by creating a sentiment in the community that an under-weight child lacks not only the advantage of perfect health but also cannot develop properly mentally and physically.

Dangerous Crossings

He then called attention to the dangerous street crossings which the little tots must pass over to and from school. He says that the teachers daily caution the pupils to be careful and "stop, look and listen" but impulsive youth often forgets to exercise these precautions. Kiwanis can foster a spirit of careful driving by impressing on the driver that the child on the street must be given every safeguard and protection.

Bigger Playgrounds

"We need bigger and better playgrounds," said Mr. Brumfield. The grounds at the Lowe School building are entirely inadequate for the number of children accommodated there. Over two hundred children are confined to an outdoor school ground not nearly as large as court house lawn. Organized play and athletics are impossible. Furthermore the grounds during many of the school months are a sticky, muddy mess.

He urged that Kiwanis look forward to the proper remedies for these conditions.

A quartette consisting of Messrs. Scheer, Dennis, Ashbrook and Roney sang several selections.

Miss Whitfield Speaks

Miss Clara Whitfield, the Algebra and Physiology teacher at the Sullivan Township High School then spoke on how the Kiwanis can help the work of that institution.

She made an exceptionally good talk and presented many valuable suggestions, especially in the matter of Vocational Guidance. She commended Kiwanis efforts in building Boy Scout and Campfire Girl activities. Anything that will tend to give the pupil a clean mind in a healthy body will be of most value.

She suggested the organization of a Service Board for high school pupils that can find employment for those who need it to work their way through school.

It is in the matter of Vocational Guidance (helping a student to choose what his life work is to be) that Kiwanis can do much.

Professional men and business men can act as counselors for boys who have chosen what they expect to do. The Doctor can help the boy who wants to study medicine; the lawyer, the boy who prefers law etc. Much valuable aid can be given the student through such contact.

She highly commended Lyceum work in schools, but stated that at present it looked as if such activity would be impossible this year. Advisable work along this line is that of local folks, such as physicians and dentists, who can visit the school and speaking to the pupils can supplement the work of hygiene now being taught.

Following Miss Whitfield's talk Dr. Butler suggested that it might be possible to secure former Sullivan men, who have made a success in life elsewhere, to come here and speak to the schools. One such, who visited here recently, is Ed Bean who is one of the best known managers of Zoological gardens and is now in charge of such work in Chicago.

President McLaughlin before closing the meeting stated that there would be no Kiwanis luncheon this week, but that in order to get credit for attendance on the records, each member is to pay his luncheon fee of 50c into the shoe factory fund.

When making apple jelly flavor a few glasses with nint and add vegetable green coloring.

Heart to Heart Talk

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M. D.

WEEDS

The pest of the gardener—the farmer—the owner of a liberal back yard. Weeds—weeds. In endless variety they come, and so vicissitudes of weather ever prevent a bumper crop of them. Useless, worthless weeds. Kill them, uproot them, burn them.

Still, nothing on this earth was made in vain. There is good in everything; because we do not recognize it is no proof whatever that good is not there. Things that interfere with our favorite diversions are not wholly bad because of that fact.

From some of the hated weeds, come medicines that save valuable lives. I have seen some of these wonderful drugs functioning beautifully. Is a thing worth while that saves human life? I cannot think of a greater blessing. But weeds have the very industrious habit of springing up where we do not want them, and that is where the trouble lies.

A contemplation of the human soul, makes me think of a garden; in it beautiful and useless things grow—things that are vital to human life and happiness. And weeds come too, just as in the botanical garden. It is our duty to prevent their coming; failing in that, then, to root them out before they get too firm a hold. If soul-weeds get the upper hand—if they grow bigger than the precious soul-plants, the good may be lost entirely by tearing out the deeper-rooted tares.

If weeds grow too long, and too many of them, there is no question of the garden's destruction. It is precisely the same in the garden of the soul.

All this round-about way to prove that weeds may be and are all right in their place—but the garden is not their place, no matter what garden.

If the weeds in my soul-garden are too deeply rooted to pull out safely, the Master of the garden will wait till the harvest time, then segregate the weeds and burn them. And He will save the good things He planted there.

GUIDEPOSTS TO Health and Happiness

BY BERNARR MAC FADDEN

DON'T GO TO BED WHEN YOU FEEL SICK!

What is the first thing you think of when you feel ill? Going to bed, of course! But everyone cannot give up as easily as that. There is work on hand, jobs to be done, children to look after and all the countless things that go to make up the day of the average active individual. And the person who is unable to "give up" and who says: "I will have to keep going until I drop in my tracks!" usually feels sorry for himself.

But if he only knew it, he is fortunate indeed, for he stands a better chance of getting well than the "lucky" one who can take to his bed at the first sign of indisposition.

The reason is obvious. What happens when you "give up and go to bed"? All mechanical stimulation of the organs of your body ceases. The digestion is not carried on so freely. Tissue change is not so active. The purifying functions of the body are retarded.

On top of this you are probably brought three times a day a tray loaded down with food that would be hard for a well person to digest. "You must eat to keep up your strength" the well meaning tray-bearer insists. And so you sigh, and eat. And you are longer than you expected to be in getting well. "You must keep warm," someone else cautions, piling blankets on you and closing the window to within two inches of the sill—"Just to keep the air fresh."

And there you are. A fine breeding place for new diseases and a paradise for whatever ailment sent you to bed in the first place. And it is only one more of Nature's miracles that you ever get well!

Why, you can make a well man sick by just such a procedure. Keep him in bed a week, load him with food, cuddle him and he will be so shaky when he gets up that he'll need your hand to steady him.

Keep up when you feel sick! Take more exercise than ever. Move about, bend, stretch, do everything you can to stimulate the normal functions of your body. Keep them all working. Keep your blood circulating and give the white corpuscles a chance to fight whatever ails you. Work the poison out through the pores instead of keeping it under the bed clothes.

And keep up your spirits! Doctors themselves, even while telling you to go to bed, will impress upon you the value of a cheerful attitude, even though forced. Try to get your mind off yourself and get interested in something else. But don't go to bed until you have to.

HERE'S HOWE

BY E. W. HOWE

BAD HABITS A KING STIMULATION

Most people believe that to achieve success in life it is essential to have a good president in the White House, a good pastor, a progressive Commercial club in his town, national prosperity, and neighbors devoted to God and country. The truth is, success depends entirely on the man who achieves it. He must have fewer bad habits than the human average; with such an advantage, success is certain. Another feature of the argument is, a man with fewer bad habits than the average actually gets along more comfortably than his acquaintances whose average of bad habits is higher than the unwritten law.

My favorite recollection of literature is that story of some drunken courtiers turning from a carouse. Encountering a proletarian sleeping off a debauch, they escorted him to the palace, and put him to bed. When he awakened, he found himself arrayed in royal raiment, surrounded with luxury, and lackeys who hastened to do his bidding; he went to sleep a drunken vagrant and awakened a king. And he was the most impudent king in history; he grandly ordered this and demanded that, and it was none too good for him. If the courtiers engaged in the prank failed to bow sufficiently low, they were reprimanded; a servant who neglected gold plate in serving food, was whipped, although the vagrant had been accustomed to pewter. Soon the vagrant was beaten, his rags restored and turned into the street. Every man believes he is capable of being a king, and that he has been wronged because he is not. And if suddenly promoted to so high an estate, he would be as mean and incapable as the worst of them.

A Methodist preacher of national distinction told me this story:

When a boy his mother was always expecting to die of heart disease; whisky was kept in the house, to stimulate her heart when it threatened to stop beating. She died at ninety-one and her heart beat feebly three days after all her other organs were dead.

The most universal human longing is for the possession of money. This is denied by a few, who say Principle is their real goal, but the truth of the statement cannot be reasonably questioned (it is a human characteristic that certain facts we all know to be universal are almost universally denied) And the surest way to acquire money is the exercise of character, honesty, industry, politeness. Aristocracy of birth is not fair, and nature accepts nothing that is not fair. Besides, the best of us date back in lineage to a very bad mess. So every one has the same chance at aristocracy, and what we recognize as the greatest human achievement: the possession of money.

THE THINKER

Back of the beating hammer
By which the steel is wrought,
Back of the workshop clamor
The seeker may find the Thot,
The Thought that is ever master
Of iron and steam and steel,
That rises above disaster
And tramples it under heel!

The drudge may fret and tinker
Or labor with dusty blows,
But back of him stands the thinker,
The clear-eyed man who knows
For into each plow or sower
Each piece and part and whole,
Must go the Brains of Labor,
Which gives the work a soul!

Might of the roaring boiler,
Force of the engine's thrust,
Strength of the sweating toiler,
Greatly in these we trust.
But back of them stands the Schemer,
The Thinker who drives things through,
Back of the Job—the Dreamer
Who's making the dream come true!

MRS. TERHUNE DID NOT PLAY BRIDGE

Through a confusion of names in last week's paper, the name of Mrs. W. I. Terhune was included in the list of guests at a bridge party. Mrs. Terhune was not present. She does not play bridge and wishes all her friends to know she does not play card games of any kind, and was not present at this game, nor any other game of bridge.—Republican Herald, Metropolitan, Ill.

From the above statement, we presume that Mrs. Terhune does not play bridge.

"Scenic Highway" the famous steed that Chal Newbould owned has changed owners and is now in the Mumma stables near Dunn. Owing a horse of this quality was too great a responsibility for a man like Chal. He lay awake nights thinking about old "Highway" out in the barn. He says he finally got him to a figure of 2:37. When he told his friends about this, they thought it was the price he sold him for. Chal says he got more, however in real money. It is not known just how the horse was gotten to Dunn, in a truck or by his own power. Suffice to say Chal is out of the horse business and is open to a trade of some other kind. What have you?

The Onion, says an exchange, is the king of vegetables. It is nutritious and wholesome. It is also a great aid, so we have heard, in keeping daughters from being too popular with the young sports. The mother who knows her onions and uses them liberally in the family diet has a sure remedy to discourage necking, spooning and other youthful diversions. In case onions do not do the trick, try garlic.

They asked Iee Roughton: "How come Lee that you're no longer stepping out with that sweetie you had last year?"

"Oh her" said Lee "Why she was a school teacher and every-time I came late or did not show up for a date, she wanted me to bring a written excuse from my mother."

THIS ONE GOT THE BRITCHES

The will has just been proved of a man living in a southwest suburb of London who died last November, in which he left his wife: "One pair of my trousers, free of duty and carriage paid, as a symbol of what she wanted to wear in my lifetime, but did not."

The most pitiful man is the defeatist. A defeatist is a man who isn't getting along as well as he expected to. He is licked and his usual recourse is to exhibit contempt for those who are getting ahead. He suggests that if he had been willing to sacrifice his soul, he too could have led the parade.

Because he is dishonest in the inventory of himself, nobody pays any attention to the defeatist. People are uncomfortable in his presence. They nod approval of his outburst against society, preferring to give silent assent rather than bluntly contradict.

Occasionally we get a man like Thoreau or Walt Whitman whose contempt for ordinary conventions is based on a real philosophy. They are what they are because they have made a choice. They are worth hearing.

But the defeatist lacks integrity—even in his wise-cracks. Ex.

John Gauger wants it strictly understood that he bought his new Buick car before the shoe factory drive ever got under way. The order was placed some weeks ago but the car has not yet arrived. John thinks some folks might jump to conclusions that would connect the car purchase with the factory drive. Some folks have funny ideas of that kind.

The best way to preserve a wedding ring is to dip it in dish water occasionally, says an exchange.

An old Sullivan lady was being shown around the Pyramids.

"Madam," said the guide impressively, as they halted opposite one of the mighty erections "It took nearly 2300 years to build this."

"I can quite believe it," rejoined the visitor vigorously. "Some of our workmen at home are very nearly as bad."

WOMAN IS FICKLE

"My wife has deceived me."

"How do you know?"

"She said to me the other night

"If you are not home by midnight I shall hang myself."

"But what has to do with the deception?"

"She didn't do it."

"You were just crazy to marry me," she reminded.

"I must have been," he admitted, ruefully.

REV. HERRICK WILL REMAIN ANOTHER YEAR

Sullivan is pleased over the re-appointment of Rev. George V. Herrick to the pastorate of the Methodist church for the ensuing year.

Rev. and Mrs. Herrick have been here for the past year and are very popular, not only with their own congregation, but with all who have learned to know them.

He is in charge of the Boy Scouts and takes an active part in other community activities.

At the close of the Decatur conference this week, Rev. and Mrs. Herrick returned to this city and Tuesday morning he was right in line with the other workers in the shoe factory drive.

Appointments in the Mattoon district of which Rev. F. A. McCarty was named superintendent are: Arthur, F. E. Neumeier; Gays, Robert A. Evans; Mattoon, T. B. Lugg; Shelbyville, A. P. Jordan.

Decatur district—Bethany, W. H. Johnson; Cadwell-Rosedale, J. E. Halfyard; Lovington, M. M. Blair.

Harry Cochran remains at Edinburg and Rev. Casely will continue with the Centenary church at Jacksonville.

LOREN BRUMFIELD HAS BOUGHT HIGGINS PROPERTY

Loren Brumfield, superintendent of the city grade schools has purchased the A. L. Higgins residence property on South Washington street. Mr. and Mrs. Higgins will move to Springfield next week. The new location will prove more convenient for Mr. Higgins who is on the real estate loan department of the Northwestern Insurance Company.

They have been residents of this city for about fifteen years. Mr. Higgins was the first farm advisor when the farm bureau was organized here and held that position until the fall of 1923. They have both taken an active part in the city's civic and religious affairs.

Try baking sweet potatoes and apples together. First boil the sweet potatoes in their skins. Peel and slice. Arrange in a baking dish with alternate layers of sliced apple. Sprinkle each layer with brown sugar and dots of butter. Put about half a cup of water in the bottom of the baking dish. Finish the dish with a layer of sweet potatoes, over which brown sugar and buttered crumbs should be spread. Bake until the apples are done and the top is brown.

START LAWN IN FALL

The urge to seed a new lawn usually comes to people in the spring, but early fall is the time when northern lawn grasses should be sown. Fall sowing enables the grass to stool out before winter arrives and to combat weeds better the following spring.

After the soil is thoroughly worked preparatory to sowing, the surface should be firmed with a rake or similar implement, and bone meal applied at the rate of about 20 pounds to 1,000 square feet. The bone meal helps the grass to make enough growth to get through the first winter in good condition. The seed should be sown evenly and covered uniformly but lightly. Light rolling after covering is often beneficial.

The Executive committee is not making public the results of Wednesday night's tabulation. The official report says that much more intensive work must be done. Some of the workers are discouraged. All must positively do their share, or there is great doubt as to the success of the drive. The goal is still far distant. There must be no let-up. The drive must go on. The future of Sullivan is at stake.

If you have done your share, urge your neighbor to do his. We have not got all the time in the world to put this matter over. There must be action. Other cities are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the drive here and are ready to put it over and get this factory if we cannot do so.

The first returns in from the drive indicate that people of moderate means and wage earners are signing up their quotas. Those who are holding back are many of the business houses and large property owners, many of whom pledged liberally when a drive was put on four years ago.

SOULS FOR SALE

by RUPERT HUGHES
ILLUSTRATED BY DONALD RILEY

TENTH INSTALMENT

Claymore, brooding deeply in his earnest soul, felt that he owed Mem some atonement. He meant it nobly, but it sounded crude when he checked the car in front of her little home and took her hand and said:

"If you will let me marry you, I'll see that my wife divorces me."

These divorces of convenience marked the new-fashioned way of accomplishing old-fashioned righteousness. He wanted to make her "an honest woman."

Mem laughed nervously.

"No thanks!" It was as unadvised as possible, but then it is not easy to make a brilliant answer to a stupid suggestion. She felt that she must improve on it a bit, but she helped it little when she added: "Just as much obliged. Good night!"

Two days later she began work with Tom Holby's company. Holby described the part she was to play, read her the big scenes.

People make love unconsciously at times and in the truest courtships never a word is spoken. Two souls travel mystic gardens together and come to deep understandings without the exchange of a syllabled thought.

Mem was so wooed by Holby.

The orders had gone forth to rush the Holby picture to a conclusion. Big night-storm scenes had been scheduled for the final takes, and on the final morning the first scenes were begun promptly at nine. Kendrick promised to let the company go at three to rest for the all-night grind, but it was not until half-past seven that the day's work was done.

At nine they went to the first of the sets. The Californian night was black and cold. The night in the story was one of tempest and battle. Tom Holby must run an automobile into a ditch and make a desperate war against four brutes who were instructed to put up a good fight.

Each bit of scenery through which she was to flash had been made ready the day before. Perforated rain pipes were reinforced by men who would play a fire hose or two upon the hapless actress. The gale was to be provided by an airplane propeller mounted on a truck.

Mem inspected the settings she was so briefly to adorn.

"Why do they build that fence around the wind machine?" she asked Kendrick.

"To keep people from walking into the propeller and getting chopped to mincemeat," said Kendrick.

After an hour preparation the army was ready for the battle.

A gentle rain fell from the pipes. The fire hose, aimed up in the air, added its volume. The wind machine set up its mad clatter. The water and the lightning filled it with shattering fire.

Then Mem was called forth. She clutched her cloak about her and thrust into the tempest. It was like driving through a slightly rarefied cataract. She hardly reached the pillar at the edge of the porch, clutched it for a moment, caught a quick breath, and flung down the steps. And that was that. All this preparation for one minute of action.

She was taken to a warm room and wrapped in blankets while the next scene was prepared. She was supposed to have run a long distance between the last scene and this, and she must enter it wet.

At length she got her signal and went forward again, head down, into the wind storm.

During her absence a telephone pole and a tree had been brought down by the storm and photographed as they fell. It was her business now to clamber across the pole and push through the branches of the tree, and so fight her way out of the picture. The wind machine had been shifted several times. The wind man in his confusion forgot to notice that the property men had forgotten in their confusion to set up the fence before the propeller. It was after midnight now and everybody was numb with cold, drenched with the promiscuous rain, and a little irresponsible. Their working day was already fifteen hours old and it would last at least five hours more.

Tom Holby had been photographed in a climb up the wet sides of a ravine, and was half-frozen in his soaked clothes, but he stayed to watch Mem through this scene.

She struggled with the maniac hurricane, stumbled and fell across the telephone pole, thrust aside the wires, lifted herself and breasted the wind again, drove into the wreck of the fallen tree. The branches whipped her wet flesh cruelly. The lightning just ahead of her blistered her vision like the white-hot irons driven in to the eyes of Shakespeare's Prince Clarence. The wind blew her breath back into her lungs. If she had not gained a little support from one stout bough of the tree she could never have reached the margin of the picture.

Kendrick's heart was glad with triumph as he saw her pass out of the camera range. He called, "Cut!" and the camera men were jubilant as each of them shouted "O. K. for me!"

Then Kendrick heard screams of terror, wild howls of fear. He ran forward and saw the blinded little figure of Mem still pressing on straight into the blur of the air-plane propeller.

His heart sickened. She would be sliced to shreds. She could not hear the yelled warnings in the noise of the machine.

The operator shut off his engine, but the propellers still whirled at a speed that made them only a whorl of light. The witnesses were paralyzed by the horror of the moment.

Tom Holby broke from a nightmare that outran the immediate beauty of the girl walking forward to a hideous fate. He ran and dived for her like a football tacker, hooked his left arm about her knees and flung her backward thrusting his right arm and his head beneath her, so that when she struck, her shoulders were upon his breast, her drenched hair fell across her face like seaweed.

She opened her eyes in a chaos of bewilderment. Just above her the flying propeller blades were glistening in the light of the sun arc.

They were still revolving when the wind machine man, leaping from the post where he had stood expecting her fate and his own eternal remorse, ran to lift her from the ground. Others helped up Tom Holby.

He had knocked himself unconscious when his head struck a rock in the road. His cheek was ripped and gushing blood.

He came to his senses at once and forced a ghastly laugh.

Mem screamed with fear for him. She had not yet realized her own escape. She was all pity for Tom Holby, and anxiety.

"It's nothing," he said. Then he staggered with dread of what Mem would have looked like now if he had waited an instant longer or missed his aim at her knees.

He drew her from the vortex of the propeller, which was subsiding with the dying snarl of a leopard that has missed its pounce.

The next day the company gathered to see the rushes of the night stuff.

Kendrick sighed. "That came near being a portrait of you walking out of this world."

Tom Holby did not speak, but he reached out and, seizing Mem's hand, wrung it with an eloquence beyond words. He seemed to be squeezing her heart with clinging hands.

She was consumed with an impatience to begin a new picture at once, and to be very busy with life and love, beauty and delight.

And yet, when Tom Holby, after they had left the lot, asked her to ride with him for a bit of air, told her he adored her and that she was adorable; when he courted her with deference and meekness and pleaded for a little kindness—her heart froze in her. She could not even accept a proffered beatitude.

She looked at him and thought—and said:

"Too many people love you, Tommy. You belong to the public, and you couldn't bring yourself down to really loving little me."

"Oh, but I could! I do!" he cried. "Damn my public! I don't care for anything but you."

"But I haven't had my public yet, and I love it. Just now the only love I can feel is acted love."

"Then let's have a rehearsal," he suggested, cynically. But she shook her head. "I want to laugh, Tommy," she cried. "Amuse me, make me laugh!"

"There's the new Charlie Chaplin comedy," he said. "We might get in."

"Let's try," said Mem.

Holby swung his car round.

"Tommy," said Mem. "What is comedy? I'm sick of all these crying scenes and emoting all over the place. I want to be a comedienne. Do you think I could be one?"

"I don't think so," said Holby, with scientific candor. You don't laugh much."

"No, but I'm going to! I think if I ever love anybody really, it will be a great comedian. Do you know any comedians who aren't married, Tommy?"

"Lots of 'em," said Holby. "A sense of humor keeps a man from getting married—or staying married long."

They took in a Chaplin show and on way home she snuggled close to Holby in the car. Yet when he spoke tenderly she made fun of him, giggled, reminded him of bits of the picture that had amused her. This enraged him.

"I'm going in for comedy," she said. "It's the only thing worth while. All this tears and passion makes me sick."

Holby fought out in his soul a decent battle of self-sacrifice before he brought himself to the height of recommending a rival.

"There's Ned Ling; he's looking for a pretty leading woman. He's not Chaplin, but he's awfully funny in his own way. If you're so hell bent on a comic career get your agent to go after him."

"Ned Ling," she mused. "Yes, I've seen him. I may make a try at him a little later."

But when she reached home there was something waiting in ambush for her—a letter from her father.

W. J. MYERS BOUGHT

"GREAT TRAIN ROBBERY"

EDISON'S FIRST FILM TO BE SHOWN AT GRAND

The first picture ever made by Thomas A. Edison, "The Great Train Robbery" will be seen at the Grand Theatre tonight and Friday in conjunction with the feature picture "College Love." Local residents recall that this picture was shown in Sullivan in 1902 at a street fair. The tent, improvised for a theatre, was located between what now is Alumbaugh's store and the Odd Fellow Building. A large banner proclaimed the sensational entertainment to be found therein for the trifling sum of five cents. Although "The Great Train Robbery" seems crude today, it is generally conceded to be the first successful transfer of a story to film and was in its day, truly a sensation.

PURVIS PARENT-TEACHERS ASSOCIATION MEETING

The first meeting of the Purvis P. T. A. was held Friday evening. The program consisted of a short business session in which the following committees were appointed:

Program for October meeting: Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Burwell.

Publicity—Miss Mary Daugherty and Miss Sarah Martin.

An entertainment was given by Mr. Waggoner which was very interesting. To close the meeting a weiner roast was enjoyed by all present.

PROGRESS' PRIZE CAMPAIGN TALK OF COMMUNITY; 1 WEEK MORE OF BIG VOTES

After October 5th there is a decline in the scale of votes and after October 19th it is more than cut in half.

Opportunity Plus

The Sullivan Progress will award the DeSoto Sedan, worth $1180 with other attractive prizes to the most energetic hustlers in Moultrie and adjoining counties and the opportunity for other live-wire workers to enter the campaign and make themselves important factors and probable winners of the very best prizes is actually calling loud, why, its anybody's race for that big DeSoto Sedan.

Here is an opportunity for the man or woman, boy or girl, who looks at things from a business standpoint, and arrives at a conclusion as to its merits by the way it appeals to them as a business proposition. Someone will earn better than $290 a week for the next four weeks work. How is that for a business proposition?

Speed Will Win

The crucial test is now at hand! If you intend doing anything big in this race, do it now. Pile up a reserve vote total during the remainder of this big vote period that will be unsurmountable. Now is the time to make reasonably certain of the prize you most desire.

It is this and next week's work that counts! Get In! Go! Win!

MRS. PRISCILLA DAWSON DIED MONDAY; FUNERAL HELD WEDNESDAY

Priscilla Dawson was born near Urbana, Champaign county, Ohio, on the fifteenth day of July, 1840 and departed this life on Sept. 23, 1929, being eighty-nine years, two months and eight days old. She was the daughter of John and Eliza Jane Weakley, one of eight children.

She was married to Thomas W. Dawson, February 4, 1858, who preceded her in death Nov. 11, 1913. To this union were born eleven children, there being nine boys and two girls. Five died in infancy and Joseph W. Dawson died two years ago last June. She leaves surviving three sons and two daughters, O. O. and W. W. Dawson of Lovington, P. E. Dawson of Decatur, Mrs. J. N. Foster of Lovington and Mrs. O. F. Cochran of Sullivan.

She also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Lina Farmer and Bettie Caudle of Arcadia, Kans; twenty-six grandchildren, forty-nine great grand children and many nephews and nieces and many other relatives and friends.

She came with her parents to Illinois when she was about 12 years of age and has lived in Lovington and vicinity ever since. After the death of her husband she lived with her children.

She united with the Christian church when she was seventeen years of age and was a faithful Christian all her life. Mrs. Dawson was a fine character, having a very pleasing disposition and to know her was a pleasure. She never complained of her condition, though she had been afflicted many years. She had a fine memory and was interested in the events of the day and age in which she lived. Reading was a great source of pleasure and information to her, she having always read the daily papers and many books. The bible was a great favorite of hers. She had read it through once and passages of it many times.

Those who knew her, and there were many, always were impressed by her kindness and always remained her friend. Her wise counsel, her loving kindness and her fine Christian life will be missed by her relatives and friends, but her example will be an inspiration to all these to live a life of Christian faith, that they may have the same hope that sustained her in her long, useful life.

This tribute is paid her by one who knows, "She was a faithful wife, a kind and loving mother and a Christian woman."

—Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Barclay of Weldon were in this city transacting business Thursday.

Commercial Notes

Charlotte Richardson who started Shorthand and Typing with the Juniors last year has returned to school for post-graduate work in those subjects.

The advanced typing class has been doing their 'bit' to help the Shoe Factory campaign. Saturday afternoon two of the girls, Edna Rauch and Mary Evans, with Blanda Ground of last year's class came out to the high school building and wrote letters for one of the Committees working for the Shoe Factory. Monday the class spent their typing period writing more letters for this committee. We certainly hope the factory will come. Some of us are going to be ready for an office job next spring.

The beginning classes are using four fingers now and getting to feel quite expert.

The advanced class is trying to write a page without an error and a fifteen minute test with not more than five errors at a rate for not less than 35. Fifty-three words a minute is the highest rate thus far for fifteen minutes with not more than five errors. This rate was made by Loveta Carson.

RETROSPECT

Work is Started! Mildred Chapin and Enid Newbould keep the Staff busy working. Pictures have been taken, ads have been sold, subscriptions taken, and meetings held, galore. The idea is to make it the best ever.

Miss Whitfield in charge of the photo work has been especially busy. All of the class pictures have been taken and plans for the groups made.

Lloyd Hawbaker, athletic editor, has been busy studying football in order to be able to give a good account of the 1929 season.

Mildred Chapin, the editor, with coordination work and planning, is the busiest of all. Miss Matthew general faculty advisor, is busy with the all school play. Not much has been accomplished as to the general make up.

The Business department hopes to set a precedent by making the 1930 annual self-supporting.

Enid Newbould, business manager, has been busy starting and supervising the ad selling and soliciting campaigns. To make the Annual self supporting about 350 books and $350.00 in Ads must be sold.

Pending the complete organization of the Student Council, a temporary ticket committee has been selected. It includes the following members: Lucile McIntire, Wallace Graven, Kenneth Walker, Hugh Righter, Russell Oliver, Mildred Chapin, Helen Dunscomb, Earl Rhodes, Enid Newbould and Wilma Wilson.

Many new books have been added to our list in the library. Six or seven books of Mathematics, from 15 to 20 books of fiction and about 6 chemistry books have been added.

From the entire student body Bob Sullivan was chosen as the Home Coming manager. School Reporter. Velva Wallace.

Executive Committee Issues Statement

Sullivan's Brown Shoe Factory drive took another lease on life late Thursday afternoon when several business men met their full quota.

The executive committee has issued an official statement showing exact amount pledged up to 10 o'clock this (Friday) morning. This statement exactly outline the conditions as they exist. The people are entitled to this information. They will be kept informed as to the exact progress of the drive.

The committees, hopeful of success, again started on their task Friday morning. The workers have had periods of great depression, and the end is not yet in sight. But the fact that the business men are beginning to see the prime importance that they get back of this matter is encouraging. Wage earners and people of the smaller quotas are signing up. Many such who have not yet signed are expected to do so, without further delay, if they want to see the drive succeed.

The old Court House bell has been resurrected from the basement of the court house and placed in front of the Factory Headquarters. Every time a new signed quota pledge is brought in the bell is rung.

Extra Special Bulletin

Since the above has been written and the official statement issued several more business men have signed the full amount of their quotas. Several smaller quota pledges have also been received, bring the additional total of the drive up another $4000 notch.

These contributors whose names reached the printer too late to be included in the official list are J. H. Alumbaugh, Sam B. Hall, W. R. Titus, George Titus, S. A. Blystone, John P. Murphy, E. L. Rentfrow, R. W. Misenheimer, Chester Drew, P. F. Davis, Vera Freeman, Regina Flesher, Hade Gladville, Hugh Hoke, Independent Oil Co., Hettie M. SHALL WE WRITE SULLIVAN'S DESTINY IN WORDS OF PROGRESS AND VICTORY

Or shall we be content to say:

"THE SADDEST WORDS OF TONGUE OR PEN ARE THESE FEW WORDS—IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN."

Neighbor it's all up to you. Don't pass the buck to the other fellow. Getting this factory fund over the top is as much your job as that of any other citizen in Sullivan.

Prize winners in the High School essay contest on the Shoe factory proposition are: Subject A—First Wilma Rhoades; second, Olive Ruth Martin; third, Everett Bushart.

Subject B—First, Daisy Helen Crane; second, Rose Eden Martin; third Mildred Chapin.

These winners received the cash prizes. Others whose names will be published later received honorable mention.

FINAL FLASH—Two more business houses have gone 100 percent—J. M. Cummins & Son and T. S. Hall, blacksmith.

Official Campaign Report

The undersigned committee, having been in the active charge of the campaign to secure the Brown Shoe Factory Fund, believing that the people of Sullivan and community and especially those who have so willingly and generously subscribed their quotas in this matter, have a right to know the actual situation of the campaign, and the exact amount subscribed to date, do hereby make the following statement which has been checked and verified up to ten o'clock a. m., this 27th day of September A. D. 1929.

TOTAL NUMBER OF SUBSCRIPTIONS TO DATE..... 498
TOTAL AMOUNT OF SUBSCRIPTIONS TO DATE..... $83,748.42

We further state and certify that the above includes every subscription of any size or amount that has been turned in to the committee and that so far as we know, no subscriptions or amounts were held back or reserved in any manner whatsoever.

There were made out and distributed to workers in the first instance, approximately 1100 cards with quotas fixed thereon, so that it may be seen that not quite one-half of the people who had quotas fixed have turned in their subscription.

This campaign has reached a very critical point. The next two or three days must necessarily determine whether the campaign is to be successful or not. If our people who are holding back will respond promptly, the campaign can be successfully concluded in the next few days. If on the other hand these folks who have not signed up refuse to do so, the campaign must necessarily fail. A large number of people have offered to subscribe a lesser amount than their quotas fixed in the first instance. The committee cannot accept these amounts. They have no authority to cut this quota. If they did so, they would not be treating the subscribers right who with personal sacrifice, came in with the full amount of their quotas.

It is now up to Sullivan to see what they are going to do and this decision is a very momentous one to this vicinity.

Dated this 27th day of September A. D. 1929.

I, F. J. Thompson being first duly sworn on oath state that as Treasurer of the Shoe Factory Fund there has come into my hands all the subscriptions that have been turned in to the Committee. I further state that I have carefully checked, listed and tabulated the same and that the above statement as to total number of subscriptions and the total amount subscribed up to ten o'clock a. m. this 27th day of September, is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

EDITORIAL

The eyes of the world are on Sullivan. We have tackled a big job. Is it too big for us?

No, it is not. The response already made by those who have pledged their full quota shows that success will be assured if all do their just, proportionate share.

If you have not signed, please look over the list of those who have. Have they more at stake than you? Does the future of Sullivan mean more to them than it does to you?

Ask yourself this question. Look at the matter, not alone from the dollars and cents viewpoint, but rather from a community standpoint. These people who have pledged their quota have thereby signified that they believe it is right to get this factory for Sullivan. They have faith in Sullivan's future. Have they more love for the old home town and more faith in it than you have?

When tomorrow's list appears, will your name be listed with those who have signed? You are not asked to make a donation—you are simply being asked to invest your fair and equitable share in the future development of this city. You are asked to help provide jobs for those who need them. You are being asked to assure the future prosperity of Sullivan. Are you with us?

Statement of Facts

as to the Brown Shoe Co. Proposition

THE BROWN SHOE COMPANY AGREES AS FOLLOWS:

- To give us exactly the same kind of contract that has been given to Mattoon, Charleston, Salem, and the other cities which have heretofore established factories.
- To build a factory here in Sullivan 250 feet long 46½ feet wide, 3 stories high, with an extension on one side from 50 to 100 feet long, from 46 to 80 feet wide, and 3 stories high.
- To invest in building and equipment and the completed plant, including the amount advanced by the city, at least Three Hundred Thousand Dollars ($300,000.00) by the time the factory is ready for operation. The plant is estimated to cost $150,000 and the machinery and other equipment is estimated to cost at least $150,000.
- To start on the work immediately when we have completed our campaign, and have it completed with all reasonable dispatch. It will take about six months to build the building and about 60 days to install machinery and get ready for operation.
- To pay out in pay roll within a period of ten years from date operation starts at plant, the sum of not less than One Million, Two Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($1,250,000.00)

SULLIVAN AND VICINITY AGREES AS FOLLOWS:

- To contribute $100,000.00 to be used toward the erection of the building.
- Secure a suitable site for the factory.
- Connect the premises with the city sewers, city water mains and electric light wires.
- See that the plant site is accessible by pavement and side walks.
- Arrange for the construction of a spur switch from the railroad to the factory.
- Agrees to pay all city, county and state taxes for a period of ten years from the opening of the factory.
- Agree to furnish free of charge, the necessary water for all purposes for a period of ten years from the opening of the factory.

The above is an outline of the proposition offered to Sullivan and this community by the Brown Shoe Company. It is identically the same contract signed by all other communities where this company has built shoe factories. The committee figures that the total amount necessary to pay all of the requirements will be approximately One Hundred Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($125,000.00). In consideration of that, the Company agrees to pay out for labor in this community during the period of ten years ten times the amount of this bonus or $1,250,000.00. As a matter of fact in every case where factories have heretofore been established by the Brown Shoe Company, they have greatly exceeded their promise in that regard. In Charleston for instance, in the ten year period they have paid out over 5 times the amount that they agreed to pay and the pay roll in the last year at Charleston has exceeded $800,000.00. The policy of the Brown Shoe Company is to do more than they agree to do rather than less than they promise.

Superintendent Ashbrook informs us that some novel plans are to be put into use soon, in an effort to increase attendance at Sunday school. Regular attendance will eagerly await and accept the opportunities these plans will provide.
Others will wish to be a part of the great movement. Definite announcements will be made from the platform soon and the movement begun. No one will wish to miss anything. Come to Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
The pastor's sermon subjects will be based upon the thoughts suggested by the Brown Shoe factory drive. The morning subject, 10:40, "The Builder's Psalm." Evening subject at 7:30 o'clock, "The Future Assured." We covet church attendance, not for our own gratification but for the good of man and the church.
The Christian Endeavor society is having spirited and enlightening discussions in its meetings. Many of the young people of the church are not affiliated with the society. We urge that these visit our meetings and acquaint themselves with the work. We believe they will become interested and wish to become members. Come Sunday evening at 6:30 when the topic to be discussed is "How Can the Young People's Organizations of our Church work together?"

Peter's Talent for Invention

By CLARISSA MACKIE

MR. DINGLE nipped on his eyeglasses and squinted along the wide, curving beach where a scattering crowd was gathered.
"There he goes, feather-pated idiot! The good lord only knows why I had to be afflicted with a son who shot through his university with lightning speed, affiliated himself with a motor corporation, and now goes around racing like a madman!"

"He is trying out a new invention, Mr. Dingle," said pretty Susan Clark beside him. "They say that Peter will be a genius if he can perfect this little safety contrivance he is trying out now."
"I wanted him in my own office," grieved Mr. Dingle, removing his eyeglasses as his son's car vanished around a bend.
"Oh, Mr. Dingle, were you in your father's office?" she asked with a mischievous grin.
"Of course not, Susan. I always had a distinct talent, so to speak, for the law," explained Silas Dingle, whose father had been a well-known insurance man.
"Perhaps, Mr. Dingle, Peter might have a talent for invention," murmured Susan timidly.
He turned and glared at her. "I do not wish my son to rush around faster than fast, and kill himself before he is married to the girl who is waiting for him!" he exploded.

Susan was quite pale. "Waiting for Peter—where?" she murmured.
"At my house," snapped Mr. Dingle impatiently. The next time he turned around Susan had vanished completely.
"It was the truth," he muttered, "or will be if Peter gets home alive."
Half an hour later Peter came home, alive and very well pleased with himself. "The gosh-darned thing is perfect," he told himself as he hastened from his bath to dress for dinner.

"Here is an old friend, Peter," smiled his father when the young man entered the drawing room, "Celia, my dear, you have not forgotten my son, Peter?"
A very beautiful girl shook hands with Peter Dingle. He gazed upon her with delight—she was such a perfect creature. So pink and white, so flaxen-haired, so blue-eyed. Her calm serenity impressed him as he renewed acquaintance with Celia St. Clair, the daughter of one of the richest men in the country. In spite of all the allure of the new arrival as soon as dinner was ended, Peter excused himself and vanished through the hedge that divided the Clark estate from that of the Dingles.

"Miss Susan?" he asked of the maid at the door.
"But Miss Susan has gone away, Mr. Peter."
"Where has she gone?"
"They left about three o'clock for New York—want to catch a steamer, the Buronia, for France, sir."
"I did not know that," muttered Peter glumly.
"They did not know themselves, sir, until Miss Susan came in during the races and said she wanted to go."

By the time Peter reached his own house, his mind was made up. He went upstairs, packed a bag, ordered his car and said good-by to his parents. The guest, he forgot entirely.
He drove out to the flying field, and got on an airplane for New York, telegraphing ahead for a stateroom on the Buronia, due to sail the next day.
All the while the airship sped toward the north Peter Dingle was composing telegrams, writing business letters, so that when they finally arrived in the city, all he had to do was to start his messages on their way, stop at a jeweler's, and then board the Buronia. Then he went to bed and slept soundly, quite sure that Susan and one of her parents, at least, were aboard the ship bound for Havre.

It was the second day when he strolled calmly upon the Clark family, their steamer chairs holding a vantage point on the lee quarter. Susan was gazing out to sea, a sad, large-eyed Susan, pale and woesome looking.
"Why, Peter, where did you come from?" boomed Mr. Clark.
"Home," clipped Peter, shaking hands with Mrs. Clark and then with Susan.
"How did you ever get here so soon?"
"Flew through the air—faster than fast—and slept aboard last night. Heard you were going and had to catch the same boat, Susan."
"Your father said your fiancée was there—or hinted it," murmured Susan lamely.
"Celia St. Clair?" asked Peter in a dazed manner. "I haven't seen the girl for fifteen years—we were about seven when I saw her last. Maybe father has some queer idea about uniting me to great wealth—but he doesn't know yet that my invention is a complete success. I will be richer than rich! So I just came after the only girl I ever loved and please, may I have Susan?" he asked whimsically.
"You are faster than fast," smiled Mr. Clark, and they both kissed Susan, now gladdened and blushing, and then Peter kissed them.

"I'll kiss Susan when I find a retired corner," grinned the audacious young man. "Now, I'm going to send a wireless to my parents, and I have to fit an engagement ring on Susan's finger!"

The Peaches Needed Attention

By RUBY DOUGLAS

TOM CRAFT of the famous Craft Orchard farm sat back in his chair and pulled at his pipe.
"Yes, mother," he said to his wife who sat opposite him, "I have asked Frank Hazen, my old school friend, to come out and spend the summer. He is a government fruit expert, a specialist in peaches, and I'd like to know what ails that new orchard out there. He has not been so well and the knock-off and rest will do him good."
This was such a long speech for her husband to make all at one time that Mrs. Craft looked at him over the rim of her glasses to see if he was quite right.
"Where'll you put him?" she asked, after a minute.
The old house was small and the Crafts had invited a niece to use the front parlor and little adjoining room used for a tearoom for motorists.
Tom pulled at his pipe. "Why couldn't Julia move upstairs and let Frank have her back room?" he asked.
"I—well, I wouldn't like to ask her to do that after the way she has fixed things up for herself."
"Tut—tut—Julie'd understand, I'll ask her myself."
And sulking action to words, he called Julie in from her own little quarters where she was arranging a menu for a luncheon party of motorists on the following day.
In her cretonne apron, Julie Henderson probably came nearer to being pretty than she ever did in anything else.
"What now, uncle?" she asked.
"Your uncle is going to ask you to give up your little room to a big hulk of a man, Julie," began Mrs. Craft.

Julie looked from one to the other. "But—of course," she said lamely. She was beginning to make expenses, and was more than interested in her business venture.
"Oh—not the tea room, child," said Craft, hastily. "No—the little room off."
Julie breathed freely again. "But I'll give them both up, gladly, uncle. You and Aunt Jennie have been good to let me have them as long as you have."
Mrs. Craft's eyes filled with tears. Julie was always so unselfish. She would have hidden her deepest desires from either of them if she thought an expression would worry them. As her uncle explained who Mr. Hazen was, Julie's face brightened.
"I think it is perfectly lovely, Uncle Tom, and I'll fix up the room to suit a man. Now it would give him a nightmare—it is so feminine."
"You'd make a home out of a hydroplane," said her uncle when he was called to inspect the room his guest was to occupy.
Frank Hazen arrived and was duly welcomed. He was a quiet, raven-haired fellow not much interested in anything but his work.
The four had a country supper prepared by Julie and her aunt and afterward they sat on the back porch and talked until the moon came up.
As the days went on, Julie learned to see beneath the weary veneer that years of tripping about from farm to farm and from problem to problem in fruit blights had painted over Frank Hazen's personality.
Night after night he sat with her on the porch, the honeysuckle vines just letting the moon peep through when it chose.
Julie's tea house business flourished and Hazen had found the trouble in the new orchard. The summer waned.
As it grew time for motorists not to need a country tea house Julie spoke of going back to the city, where she earned a meager living doing odds and ends for a woman's exchange.
Hazen knew that he had rested. He knew that his usefulness as a peach expert was over for the season.
But neither one wanted to leave the homelike atmosphere of the old Craft orchard.
"It's too bad we can't all stay here," remarked Tom Craft one night when they had been discussing the separation.
In the twilight, Frank Hazen looked across at Julie. He saw her sigh. It gave him hope of a dream coming true.
"Perhaps—if you and your wife would slip off to bed early Julie and I might—might find a way out of having to be separated," he said, boldly.
"Why—" gasped Julie.
Mrs. Craft arose. "Come, Tom," she said, "I sort of felt that we were not needed. Good night, dear."
When they were alone, Frank stepped over to Julie's chair. "Was that a very crude way, dear? I am not very fancy, but—I love you. Could we not make this little family permanent? I can see that I am needed here on this big fruit prospect and—you could run your tea house—and me, as well, couldn't you?"
Julie said a great many things that did not have to do with the running of a tea house and at breakfast time there was no talk of a separation, but of a rearrangement of the old house after the wedding.
"I told you the peaches out here needed attention," laughed Tom Craft.
"And—witness the blush on it now," replied Frank, squeezing Julie's hand beneath the cloth.

Superstition in America did not originate with the southern negro. The Indians had folklore of their own, while the Colonists brought their superstitions with them from their homes in Europe, where many of the beliefs and customs can be traced back to antiquity.
