73RD. YEAR NO. 47

Jim Judd again Victim of robbers at Allenville

Merchant and Postmaster Held up Monday Night. Losses Small Sum of Government Money. Robbing Him Seems To Be Somebody's Chief Pastime.

Jim Judd of Allenville doubtless holds the record for being the most robbed man in this part of the country.

Since the early part of June his store has been entered by robbers five times. Four times they escaped with a quantity of merchandise but the fifth time they left without getting anything.

Now to cap the climax, as it were, he was held up on the street Monday night and robbed. The robbers, three in number, got his brief case in which he was taking to his home, a quantity of money and stamps belonging to the government. Mr. Judd is postmaster of Allenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Judd had been working in their store, wherein the postoffice is also located until after eight o'clock when they locked up and started for home. In one hand Mr. Judd had the case containing about $14 in government money. In the other he had an oil can. Mrs. Judd was a few steps in advance. As a man stepped out in front of her she screamed. At the same time two other men surrounded Mr. Judd and threw a flashlight into his eyes blinding him temporarily. They took away his case, but failed to search him and thus overlooked about $100 which he had in his side pocket.

One of the men was tall and slim and the other two were of short, boyish build. The robbers then told Mr. and Mrs. Judd to "move on" which they did.

There have been other robberies in Allenville during the past year besides those which Mr. Judd has suffered. He is inclined to think that the crimes are being committed by Allenville men and an effort will be made to break up the ring which is under suspicion.

SEWER ENGINEER FROM CHICAGO SPOKE TO CITY COUNCIL MONDAY NIGHT

A city engineer from Chicago attended Monday night's meeting of the city council and outlined to that body a plan whereby the city could install a sewer system, at a very reasonable cost. This plan calls for the building of an intercepting sewer and septic tank and several of the large main sewers as the beginning of an adequate system which could be added to as various residential sections of the city demanded better sewer connections.

No action was taken on this matter, the prevailing opinion in the city being that the property owners have a big enough load at this time. Without doubt some action looking toward the installation of better sewer facilities will become necessary as the city grows.

CHARLES GREGORY COMPILING HISTORY OF GREGORY FAMILY

Charles Gregory of Lovington, former legislator and prominent politician in this state was a Sullivan visitor Monday. While in this city he called at The Progress office to show us a family history that he is compiling. As part of this history he will include the picture and accompanying write-up of Judge W. G. Cochran that appeared in last week's Progress.

Mr. Gregory has quite a collection of pictures and letters of the Civil war period, when his father, the late James Gregory served in the Union Army. He also has photostatic copies of other interesting letters of later date. It is one of the most interesting family history collections that has been brought to our attention. Mr. Gregory plans to make this as complete as is possible and may later have it published in book form. As part of the history Mr. Gregory has worked out a genealogical family tree that traces his ancestry back several generations.

NO SERIOUS DEFECT IN JNO. CR. BRIDGE

A report was being circulated around this community this week that a serious flaw had been discovered in the new Jonathan Creek bridge on route 132 and that a considerable portion of it would have to be rebuilt.

This report was a gigantic exaggeration. A slight change was made in the bridge structure, which amounted to but very little in the way of material or time, but gave rise to the story.

The bridge is practically complete and as soon as the grade is built to both ends of it, it will be passable. The Sullivan Community club is working on a project to cinder the grade so it will be passable all winter.

BETHANY GRAIN CO. HANDLED 419,095 BU. GRAIN PAST YEAR

One of the biggest business organizations in Moultrie county in volume of money changing hands during the year is the Farmers Elevator, operated at Bethany by The Bethany Grain Company.

During the year ending October 31st of this year that elevator marketed 419,095 bushels of grain. This was an increase of 71,887 bushels over the previous year and about 13,000 bushels below the five year average.

For this grain and seed and feed marketed by the elevator the sum of $342,433.37 was paid out.

These facts are embodied in the annual report of Secretary Wm. H. Mason as made at the annual meeting held in Bethany Saturday.

Other interesting facts in this report are as follows: bushels of corn bought during year 264,565; bushels of oats 79,818; bushels of wheat 29,915; bushels of soybeans 30,354. There was a carry over of nearly 7,000 bushels of soybeans from the previous year. On Oct. 31st there was on hand in the elevator 1442 bushels corn, 41,975 bushels oats, 7021 bushels wheat and 730 bushels soybeans.

The capital stock of the business is $60,000, now owned by approximately 120 stockholders. Dividends paid for the year were 7%. Labor for the year cost $7,243.50. New engine, installation and repair of engine room cost approximately $6200.

The main speaker at Saturday's annual meeting was Harrison Farkkopf of the marketing division of the Illinois Agricultural Ass'n. He urged the farmers organization to get in line and cooperate with the plans of farm relief now being worked out by the Federal Farm board. Mr. Farkkopf is a classmate of Farm Adviser John H. Hughes.

Mr. Hughes also addressed the meeting and a short talk was made by Arlo Chapin, editor of the Moultrie County News.

Secretary Mason, supplemented his annual report with an interesting talk relative to the work in the organization of some of its founders who have passed away. He complimented E. A. Walker, the elevator manager for his efficient service over a long period of years.

In the annual election of officers Homer Freeland was re-elected president; Wm. H. Mason, Secretary and H. T. McReynolds, treasurer. H. G. Stewart and John S. Smith were re-elected directors. Other members - on the directorate are J. A. Walton, Lloyd Younger, William Henneberry and J. B. Wagemann.

The meeting followed a sumptuous mid-day repast served in the basement of the Presbyterian church.

Those who attended the dinner and meeting from this city were Farm Adviser and Mrs. J. H. Hughes, Mrs. O. C. Worsham, Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Chapin, Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Hopper and Mr. and Mrs. Brandenburg.

It was a pleasant and optimistic gathering. The eats were good and plentiful and the business meeting showed that the stockholders have the utmost confidence in the management which its officers give this big business.

FIGHT IN ARTHUR; TWO MEN WILL HAVE HEARING SATURDAY

Sheriff Lansden arrested both men and brought them to this city. Both men have been released on bond after a hearing in Judge C. S. Edwards' court to appear for trial Saturday.

MRS. HARRIS REPORTS ON WELFARE WORK IN THE GRADE SCHOOLS

Mrs. Clyde C. Harris, county welfare and health worker makes the following report for work done in the grade schools of the county from September 4th to November 1st.

During that period of time she visited 82 grade schools and gave a health examination to 2173 children. A careful card index record is kept of such examinations.

The work has shown the following:

Nine pupils are goitre suspects. Ten children have bad eyes. Eight per cent of the children examined have poor vision. Fifty per cent of the children need dental work.

Thirty five per cent have enlarged tonsils. Forty six per cent of the pupils examined are considerably underweight.

These defects do not make for good scholarship. A child that is not in good physical condition cannot get as much out of its schooling as can the child, who is not bothered with toothache, bad eyesight or lack of vitality due to being underweight.

Mrs. Harris in commenting on her work has the following recommendations to make:

"Very often I find that the lack of food is not necessarily the cause of underweight. A careful study and survey and through information furnished by the child, I find that in many cases the child is allowed too much of food that suits its fancy or taste instead of the nourishing food at mealtime that a child needs.

"Foods that every child should have daily are: cereals (whole grain if possible) at least a pint of milk each day; fresh fruits and vegetables such as spinach and celery. Potatoes should be served only once each day and eggs and meat only once a day and then not at the same meal. Butter and bread (whole wheat or brown bread if possible) can be served at each meal. Candy and sweets if given are to be after meals—ALWAYS—if allowed before the meal the appetite is spoiled for the nourishing food that the body needs."

SEE SULLIVAN SUCCEED

If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally and upbraideth not: and it shall be given him.—But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering. CAUTIOUS CONFIDENCE

The folks who thought that Sullivan people would get all excited because the Brown Shoe company has located a factory here, are expressing some disappointment because not more real estate is being bought by the boosters. They seemed to think that after the factory contract was signed, there would be a bit of wild buying and speculation in real estate.

That situation has not developed. There have been some sales. There are some right along, but nobody is buying up a lot of vacant lots or business and residence property expecting to make a fortune out of it when the city grows, as it is bound to grow, after the factory opens.

That situation shows good sense. The fact that Sullivan is getting this factory does not indicate that Sullivan will be a boom city. What investments are being made are on a very conservative basis.

Following the signing of the factory contract many people who had property for sale, raised their price. This was not done exactly because they thought a boom was coming on and they thought there would be a big demand for property, but rather they became imbued with a feeling of confidence in the future of Sullivan. They may have been willing to dispose of property at a sacrifice before the advent of the factory, but following the assurance of the factory, they evidently considered their property here as good an investment as they could make of their money anywhere.

If there is one thing that the Brown Shoe Factory has done for Sullivan it is to restore confidence in the future of this city. Everybody looks forward to better days, to a bigger city, to better business conditions through a steady industrial weekly payroll.

Business men are making plans to meet bigger business conditions. They are right here and know conditions and consequently have a big advantage over other business men who will doubtless be attracted here later. These home folks are entitled to special consideration if they show their ability to meet the demands of a bigger Sullivan. If they stay in a rut of doing business as many have done for these many years, newcomers may overwhelm them and take away their trade. If they take advantage of modern merchandising methods, however, they will prosper as will the entire community.

Sullivan is not a boom city. Its people are not in a speculative mood in matters of real estate or otherwise, but those who are wise and far sighted are with cautious confidence building for the bright future that the city now faces.

DIRECT TO THE CONSUMERS

The manufacturers of mixed chicken feed are not in the market for sunflower seed this fall. Moultrie county farmers have raised hundreds of thousands of pounds of the seed.

That looks like a deplorable situation. It is hard to figure out come way that will remedy this condition.

Let us analyze it; let's look into the matter some. The big outlet for sunflower seed the past few years was by sale to the feed houses that use it in their formula of prepared chicken feed, generally known as "scratch feed." These folks are not in the market at this time. They do not want sunflower seed.

So that for the present disposes of that part of the situation. But it does not dispose of the big crop of sunflower seed, which we have on hand here in Moultrie county.

Let's look a little further into this situation. Sunflower seed is generally regarded as a valuable part of chicken food. It contains food value that no other grain seems to possess.

Does the fact that the manufacturers of mixed feed are not in the market for sunflower seed prove conclusively that there is no market for it? It does not and we'll tell you why.

You know that for every 100 lbs. of mixed poultry feed that is bought in this country at least 1000 lbs. of feed is raised and fed to poultry on farms. Farmers feed corn and wheat and oats and other grains to their chickens. Some of them mix these feeds so as to have properly balanced rations. These folks need sunflower seed. They can use it to good advantage. If it is good in the commercially mixed feed why should it not be good in the home mixed feed?

Now if we are right about these deductions, there is a big market for sunflower seed but the question is how to reach it.

There are thousands of poultrymen all over this country who could use from 100 to 1000 lbs. of sunflower seed, if the growers or the elevators could retail it to them at a reasonable price. It takes advertising in the farm papers and the poultry papers to reach this market. You can't do it on a day's notice, perhaps not even in a season's time. It takes organization and capital to build up this market. Moultrie county farmers can raise the sunflower seed and poultrymen can use it and will buy it at a figure that should return a profit to the growers. The question apparently is one of marketing. Where's the fellow big enough to put this matter over? If the big feed houses are too shortsighted to handle this matter are we folks in Moultrie county going to confess that they've got us licked, without ever making a real attempt to help ourselves?

The writer does not believe it. There is a market for all the sunflowers we have now and all that we can raise here. Co-operative advertising and marketing are what is needed and when these powers are invoked commercial feed manufacturers will sit up and take notice.

The dignified United States Senate at Washington, D. C., now engaged in raising tariff against foreign competition, legislated last week end on a commodity which particularly and peculiarly affects this agricultural community. Broom corn has been admitted to this country on the free list. The broom corn growers have been howling about this, so evidently there has been some brush coming in from Scandinavia, Mandalay, Pernambuco and other foreign competitive countries.

Editor Frank Collins of Arcola, who is the king pin among the broom corn magnates of this country went to Washington some months ago to do some lobbying. "Save us" said Mr. Collins "Or foreign competition will brush us off the industrial map and sweep us onto the shoals of disaster."

The House put a $10 per ton tariff on its bill. In the Senate an effort was made to boost this to $25 per ton. This effort failed. The Senators were indignant to think that a few broomcorn growing farmers could have such crust as to demand so much protection.

The whole proposition is a lot of bunk. If the tariff rate is imposed, the grower and seller of broomcorn brush will never know the difference but the makers and sellers of brooms will and the prices on the manufactured product will at once go up and the American housewives will be the ones who pay tribute.

We have noted and called attention to a matter in these editorial columns recently and feel inclined to do so again.

A big group of religious leaders today are engaged in an effort to discredit the newspapers of the country. This matter crops out in nearly every religious meeting, especially where the propaganda is directed toward the younger people.

Of course it is deplorable that some of the metropolitan newspapers play up scandal and a lot of silly trash, but these newspapers are only representative of the metropolitan field and not of the profession as a whole.

Since many religious leaders have become politico-religious they have developed a grudge against the newspapers who have not fallen in whole-heartedly with their ideas and so they proceed to discredit and damn the whole institution of a free press and endeavor to poison the mind of youth against it.

There will be no controversy between the press of this country and its religious institutions. Newspaper men are too sane and level headed to engage in such a controversy and think too much of religion, even though they may express their doubts as to some of its political tenets and some of the fantastic theories of its leaders.

Heart to Heart Talk

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M. D.

A POET PROPHET

Tennyson, I mean. Take your copy of Tennyson's Poems, and turn to "Locksley Hall." Wander down the first words in lines, until you come to this:

"For I dipt into the future, far as human eye could see."

Then read attentively the eighteen or twenty lines following; a prophecy is there that is being fulfilled to-day—and it is wonderfully beautiful.

He saw the age of flying. He visualized the era of commercial aviation, now being transformed into reality. He saw the world clash of arms; heard the heavens filled with shouting, sensed the rain of "ghastly dew" from the poison-gas bombs; the conflicts of "the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue."

He foretold the termination of the fearful thing, in "The Parliament of man, the federation of the world." After that,— "The common sense of most shall hold a fretful realm in awe—And, the kindly earth shall slumber, lapt in universal law."

Almost—almost—but not quite. It is coming—the time when "the common sense" of most shall prevail, even unto the reign of "universal law."

One of our own great statesmen declared an association of nations to be the need; still others, equally noted, wanted nothing of the sort. Confusion, uproar, hard words came to our national family councils; the people arose, and swept the whole mess aside. . . .

If I discern the signs of the times aright, world-effort is straining toward the point where, in the common sense of most shall hold the fretful few in awe. It will take universal law to bring peace and tranquility to the peoples of earth—and, the universal law is none other than God's law.

The laws of man can never transcend the laws of God. May heaven forbid that I should ever descend to the level of partisan politics!

"Was Maude in bright red frock at the dance?"

"Some of her darling; some of her."

"The word 'tariff' comes from Tarifa, the African seaport where the Algerian pirates made their headquarters and from which they sallied forth to levy tribute on passing merchantmen. Uncle

Si Tinklepough says he can't see but what it still means the same thing.

"Did you say he doesn't know how to kiss?"

"No. I said he didn't know how to kiss."

SULLIVAN NOW BUSY CITY SINCE BROWN CAME THINGS ARE DIFFERENT

(By G. C. Hines)

Sullivan is now a busy place and from all outward appearances it is to remain that way for some time to come. At present the main building and the wing of the Brown Shoe Co. factory is being built and the large boiler room is also taking form. The building will be by far the largest single one in the city and the labor expense alone will be $80,000. The contract for the building was let to Hagerman & Harshman, Sullivan contractors and this fact guarantees that the building will be built as it should be, because this firm has a reputation of long standing for square business methods.

The E. M. Hagerman & Co., was awarded the contract for the plumbing, and the L. T. Hagerman & Co., were the low bidders on the heating. Both of these firms belong in Sullivan and have been there many years. This shows conclusively that Brown & Co. are satisfied to secure local builders, and they in turn are employing home men where they can. About seventy-five men are now employed on the job. This gives Sullivan a worth-while payroll and the merchants there are not wearing a frozen frown either, because business is good since Brown came to town.

Not only have the business men begun to enjoy a better business, but property values have increased also, and houses that have stood idle for some time are now being filled up and what's more people are willing to pay a fair rental on them.

Sullivan bids fair to become a city now of some five or six thousand people and if the census enumerator will hold off a while the town will show a growth during the past ten years.

Since "Brown came to town" it has made a difference in Sullivan and don't think it hasn't.

Sullivan like other towns was are willing to pay a fair rental on but its different now, everyone is boosting and the old town sure presents signs of prosperity.—Hammond Courier.

MOST ILLNESS IS AMONG POOR PEOPLE

Information collected in a very carefully conducted survey of Hagertown, Md., indicates that the illness rate among poor people is definitely higher than among those who are economically better off. During childhood the illness rate was somewhat lower among the poor but prior to age 20 the reverse had set in and continued throughout the remainder of life.

As collected, the data showed that there were 949 cases of illness per 1,000 people per year among the well-to-do and comfortable, 1,042 among the moderate and 1,114 among the poor and very poor. Physicians were employed by the well-to-do in 70 per cent of all cases of illness; by the economically comfortable group in 53 per cent; by the very poor in 43 per cent. The greatest differences in the employment of medical service related to respiratory diseases.

THERE'S NO RUSH INTO MEDICAL PROFESSION

Last year 2,702 physicians of the United States died, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association, while 4,262 individuals graduated from medical schools of the United States during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1928. This gave a net increase in the profession of 1,470.

There are approximately 150,000 physicians in the United States. Thus the net increase in the profession last year amounted to a trifle less than one per cent.

Excess of births over deaths in the United States registration area during recent years has amounted to a little less than one percent. It appears therefore that the number of doctors in relation to the population of the country changed but little as a result of last year's experiences.

DRUNK LANGUAGE

The German language is said to have three hundred equivalents for "drunk." Apparently we do not equal the fertility of the Germans, although our language is also rich in slang synonyms for drunk.

Some readers may be able to add to the following, collected by Manuel Prenner and published in the periodical American Speech:

Crocked, basted, blind, blotto, boiled, boozed, bunned, canned, cockeyed, elevated, foxed, frazzled, fried, full, geezed, ginned, half seas over, high, hit, loaded, lushed, mellow, oiled, organized, orie-eyed, ossified, pickled, pie-eyed, plastered, potted, preserved, primed, Rileyed, rummed, sewed-up, shot, snozzled, soapy-eyed, soused, spifflicated, sq u i f f e d, stewed, stuccoed, tanked, three sheets in the wind, tight, tipsy, thuned, woozy.

A line drawn due south from Springfield, Illinois, would fall in the Pacific ocean about 500 miles west of South America.

MORGAN MEN GIVE WOMEN A FEED AND ENTERTAINMENT

One of the really live and worth while social organizations in this community is the Morgan Community club, whose members reside in the Morgan school district south of this city. Some of the members are folks who formerly lived there but have moved.

The club meets every two weeks and once a year the men are put to it to furnish the eats and the entertainment. Friday night of last week was Men's night and the supper and program was given in the Household Science rooms above the Thompson grocery.

The fare was chili and more chili.

The program was in charge of a competent entertainment committee. Just what was all done has not been made public but there are rumors to the effect that Leslie Horn made a speech, Curt Weger sang a solo and Art Ashbrook acted as ring master for the chorus girls. The ladies were all included in these stunts and everybody had a good time. Fifty-six were present as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Art Ashbrook and family, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Keller, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cazier, Mr. and Mrs. Curt Weger, Misses Alice, Anna and Charity Chaney, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Horn, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Gustin and family, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pifer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bayne, Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Williamson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Daze and family, Mr. and Mrs. Z. N. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Burr Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Murray and family, Mr. and Mrs. Irtys Peardro and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher of Ina, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Shirey.

JOHN DENTON'S MOTHER DIED LAST WEEK, AGED 83

Mrs. Nancy I. Denton died the early part of last week at the home of her daughter Mrs. Jessie Alexander in Aurora. She was the mother of John Denton of this city. She passed her 83rd birthday anniversary.

She was born in the Moweague community and her maiden name was Armstrong. She married James M. Denton, who preceded her in death about forty years ago. She has since been making her home with her children.

Besides her son John of this city, who is the eldest, she leaves six sons and daughters as follows: Frank Denton and Oren Denton of Manitou, Colorado; Mrs. Stella Hathaway and Mrs. Eleanor Edmiston of Decatur; Mrs. Ethel Barlow of Chicago and Mrs. Jessie Alexander of Aurora. The remains were brought to Decatur for interment Friday.

Frank Denton of Manitou who came for his mother's funeral returned to this city with his brother and spent the early part of the week at the John Denton home.

"MONEY" IN LOST MILK BOTTLES

Do you use milk bottles for jam, kerosene, paint, and other household articles? Perhaps you use them for flower vases, or in numerous other ways. If they get too dirty, probably they are thrown out with the ashes or trash.

Such a procedure is far too common, says the Bureau of Dairy Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, and adds materially to the consumer's milk bill. The annual milk-bottle bill of the Nation is close to $30,000,000 the bureau says, and at least $20,000,000 of this is lost occurring after the bottles leave the dairy.

Last year in one large city, junk men picked off the city dumps 20,000,000 milk bottles which had been thrown away. These bottles had a value of over $1,000,000.

SMALLEST U. OF I. STUDENT

The smallest student ever to enter the University of Illinois is a member of the Illinois Central System family, according to the November issue of the Illinois Central Magazine. He is George P. Brown, 18-year-old son of Mrs. Edith Brown, office assistant to Dr. J. G. Baker, local surgeon for the Illinois Central at Mattoon, Ill. George has grown only about two inches since he was 6 years old, his present height being forty-eight inches, with a corresponding weight of forty-seven and a half pounds. In grammar school George received one double promotion, and in high school he was an honor student. He plans to be an editorial writer and a novelist.

Sees Mankind Without Either Teeth or Chin

That mankind will not need to worry much longer about getting toothache or spilling remnants of breakfast on its chin is the conclusion of a British student of dental architecture, Dr. G. B. Palmer.

Soon men will have, he believes, neither teeth nor chin for any purpose at all. Toothless and chinless our descendants will roam the world, unless something forces a radical change in human food. Ages ago men and other animals needed really to work their jaws in order to eat.

Cooking had not reduced the majority of foods to a soft pulp, knives and forks had not been invented to relieve the teeth of their primeval duty to tear off whatever was to be eaten.

That is why nearly all the animals of man's class developed outward pointing front teeth that can bite or gnaw bits of meat or bark or succulent root. That is the reason, too, for the sharp-pointed "canine" teeth on either side of the front ones—spearlike, implements to transfix the selected morsel while it is being gnawed loose.

Nowadays none of these duties are necessary. Cooking and table manners have displaced them. Nature is always economical, Doctor Palmer believes, and accordingly she is gradually reducing the length of the human chin, the protrusion of the front teeth and the strength and number of the teeth themselves. In a few hundred years table manners are apt to leave everybody chinless and almost jawless.—E. E. Free, Ph. D., in the Washington Star.

Odd Foods Favored in Congo and Elsewhere

Koreans, like many Orientals, live mostly on rice. They cook their seaweed in oil and serve it with slices of red peppers. Kimsbee, a kind of sauerkraut, is a favorite Korean dish. To the north, the natives of Kamchatka relish the tongues and the marrow of the bones of reindeer, but the piece of resistance is the meat of unborn fawns. From the stomach of the reindeer the natives obtain their greens—half-digested balls of moss. A delectable native dish is reindeer sausage which has been surrounded by dough and dropped in boiling water. On the lower end of the peninsula, where salmon is plentiful, dishes of boiled fish eyes are considered a delicacy.

Perhaps few people live as close to nature as the pygmies of the Belgian Congo. Tender roots are staples, but birds, small game, rodents and caterpillars are not objectionable. A dish of white ants is prized highly by these diminutive people, while a slice of raw elephant meat makes a feast.—National Geographic Bulletin.

There are 25 persons in Illinois with annual incomes of a million dollars or more.

Report of the Annual Meeting of the Moultrie County Farm Bureau

By Farm Adviser J. H. Hughes

The Moultrie County Farm Bureau held its Annual Meeting Thursday, November 14th in the Household Science Club rooms at Sullivan. A pot luck dinner was served; there being 140 men and women present to enjoy pleasure of same. From expressions here and there it seemed that the pot luck idea proved a success as those in attendance expressed themselves being very much in favor of the plan. There were many from the out-lying portions of the County who of necessity were compelled to get acquainted with those from other portions of the County.

The Farm Adviser, J. H. Hughes, made his report and also made recommendations in the morning, after which a committee on amendments to the constitution was appointed by president, A. Jay Scott.

Mrs. Della Garrett prepared the coffee in a very handsome fashion and at 11:30 the meeting adjourned for the mid-day lunch.

Mr. George E. Metzger, Executive Secretary of the Illinois Agricultural Association made the first address in the afternoon and described quite vividly the picture of Agriculture as it now stands. Mr. Metzger has had much experience in Farm Organization work and is quite well posted on agricultural matters. He referred to the McNary-Haugen Bill and the affect which farm organizations have had in bringing about an extra session of Congress, resulting finally in a Federal Farm Board which was not the original desire of the Farm Organizations, but accepted by them with the hopes that it would do in part, at least, some of the things that had been expected of the legislation asked for; namely that of placing the farmer on an equality with industry and labor. Mr. Metzger pictured the disadvantage of the farmer in the present method of disposing of his farm products. In many cases as for instance: a case of the Livestock exchange at the greater Livestock Markets; 10 or 12 packers in Chicago will buy the Live Stock from 120 farms; whereas the ideal condition would be to reverse the figures and have more buyers and less sellers. The Farm Bureau movement to market the Farmers' livestock is an improvement of this condition, but has not been universally adopted. Much better conditions are existing in favor of the Farmers or the man who has livestock to sell when more of the livestock is pooled in the hands of one or two selling concerns.

Mrs. Henry Mies of Pontiac, Illinois gave a very instructive and interesting Home Bureau talk, flavored by the ideal of Home-making. Many comments were expressed in favor of the address delivered by Mrs. Mies.

Mr. M. E. Roberts, Field Representative for the Insurance Department of Illinois Agricultural Association gave a very conclusive address on Insurance; a field that is practically new to folks in Moultrie county. He stated that the Farm Bureau was ridiculed at first for getting into the Life Insurance business less than 1 year ago, but had definitely proved that it was possible for the farmers to operate an Old Line Legal Reserve Company on a going basis. Less than one year has elapsed and the Country Life Insurance Co. which was organized by the Farm Bureau is now making a drive to have and established $50,000,000.00 of Life Insurance on the books by February 1st. $13,000,000.00 was placed on the books the first 30 days of its existence which shows the power of organization. A survey has shown that only 40% of the farmers are protected by Life Insurance and some of this 40% now carry insurance that does not measure up to a high standard and is not entirely satisfactory. Likewise the Farm Bureau has its own Automobile Insurance Company the only absolute Mutual Company of its kind.

Farmers of Illinois have shown a willingness to carry this insurance as 17,000 Farm Bureau members are now protected in this manner. There are about 75 such policy holders in Moultrie County. The work not having been extended to a great extent.

Mrs. George Fulk gave a very brief and precise description of Home Bureau work as she had found it in Macon County. Mrs. Fulk's idea was that of acquainting her friends with the practical side of Home Bureau work. Mrs. Fulk belongs to the Macon County Home Bureau Organization, but stated that she would be very glad to cooperate with an organization of this kind, should such arise or be developed in Moultrie County.

At the business meeting, the Auditor's report was presented as having been made for the year ending October 31, 1929. This Audit was made by the I. A. A. Auditing Department. Comments of same by the auditor show that the expenses had exceeded the income during the past 2 years and that the surplus was very low. Twice as much money has been received for membership, during the past 12 months as was received the year previous, but in spite of this fact the surplus funds have constantly diminished.

A membership campaign is now being waged in Moultrie County and it is hoped that the membership may be brought up to the point where low finances will cease to be a draw-back.

The Farm Adviser reported that he had engaged a very heavy season with the extension department of the University of Illinois and that 7 different University men will visit the County during the next few months. These men are all specialists in their line and it is hoped that project cooperators may be secured to further extend the work following the visit of the specialists.

The seed corn testing laboratory will open about January 1st at which time corn will be tested for freedom from disease. This is one of the most profitable projects of the season perhaps, as enough corn was discarded as being entirely unfit for seed to have planted several 100 acres. In addition to this, such low yielding corn was discarded which otherwise would have been planted at a considerable disadvantage.

The 4-H Club work is progressing very nicely and prospects are in store for even more club work next year than during the season just past. A Baby Beef Club will be added.

According to the Farm Adviser's report for the 10 months ending October 31, 1929; 215 farm visits were made, 1,628 individual letters were written; 1,874 office callers were received; 49 meetings were held with attendance of 1,133; 42 articles were written for the press and 10,431 circulars were mailed.

Cooperative marketing will probably be one of the major projects during the coming year. Farm records and accounting will also be a new subject to be taken up by those who are interested in learning more about the business and the farm. Club work will be increased and the attention to soils and economy of crop products will be continued.

The results of the election was as follows.

Township: Director and Chairman, respectively:

Sullivan—Frank Emel, Earl Horn. Jonathan Creek—Walter Crane, Orville Powell.

Low—Fred Schuetz, T. P. Ellis. Lovington—Francis Murphy, Henry Francis.

Dora—W. W. Reeter, J. H. Sharp. Marrowbone—Herschel Reedy, Harris Bone.

Whitley—Everett Spencer, J. W. Rauch.

East Nelson—Farley Young, Reuben Davis.

Mr. Farley Young, Mr. W. W. Reeter and Mr. Fred Schuetz are the three old directors remaining on the Board; the remainder of the board members therefore having never served in this capacity before are: Frank Emel, Walter Crane, Francis Murphy, Herschel Reedy and Everett Spencer.

Local Township chairmen whose duty is to attend the matters of organization are: Earl Horn, Orville Powell, T. P. Ellis, Henry Francis, J. H. Sharp, Harris Bone, J. W. Rauch and Reuben Davis.

The Farm Bureau has a comprehensive program in view for the year ahead and by working through the various local units, it is hoped that it will be possible to extend the program to all of those who are willing to be served.

DEVIL-MAY-CARE

FIFTH 'NSTALMENT

Half an hour later her chair paused before the gate of Steven's place, out beyond Vita Serena, in southern Palm Beach. He was in his garden, at a table on which lay something that looked like a check-book. He was writing in it, but looked up as Lucy approached and waved away the colored servant who had admitted her. He rose and stared at her. He had shaved, had donned fresh flannels, a colored shirt, and a gay tie. He could wear clothes, she inconsequentially thought, better than any man she had ever seen.

"This is a surprise," he said.

She made no reply, but opened the satchel and dumped the money upon the table.

"What's it all about?" he asked.

"To save you from jail," she replied.

His eyes puckered, and a tiny crease appeared between them.

"Jail?" he echoed.

"Mr. Leeson has seen me. He told me that the man who wanted to marry me was a thief. Perhaps, Tim, one reason you professed such great devotion was because of what money I possess."

She was looking right at him, but his eyes never flickered. His hand moved toward the check-book; he swept a piece of paper from it and tore it into tiny bits.

"Perhaps," he agreed calmly.

"But—inasmuch as I'm not to marry you, I'd hardly take your money."

There was a hard finality in his voice.

"Not even to keep out of jail?" she demanded. "You're a shade better than I thought."

He bowed.

"Many thanks."

She bit her lip.

"But Mr. Leeson said you'd be arrested this afternoon."

He bowed again.

"Great little man—Leeson."

"I can't let you go to jail," she cried helplessly.

"And I couldn't take your money," he said.

"Then," she said slowly, "as I can't let you go to jail—"

"Why not?" he demanded. "Is it because, after all, you love me?"

"I hate you," she blazed. "That is why—you mustn't go to jail. You must take my money."

"You're a bit incomprehensible, Lucy," he told her. "You hate me; yet you'd have me. Well, I'd take money only from the woman I was married to, and I'd hate to take it from her."

"But you would?" she asked.

He shrugged.

"To avoid jail, yes."

"Then," she said, "I'll have to marry you. To-day. Now!"

Had Diana, sojourning at Jupiter's palace on Olympus, slipped down the mountainside and in some wayside parsonage in Thesary taken unto herself a husband the scandal would have been comparable to the marriage of Devil-May-Care.

Apparently hurried weddings, among nationally known people, are bound to cause gossip. But neither he nor Lucy would have cared a whit for that. Had their marriage been one of equal love and trust, they would have been uninterested in the nasty speculations of nasty people.

But Lucy had left him. She had strolled out of his patio as unconcernedly as though she had been having tea and was now on her way home to dress for dinner. Home! She had gone home.

Devil-May-Care she was called. Well, the insouciance that defied death itself could not defy Tim Stevens. He knew his rights and he would have them. He'd force—

But he slumped back in the wicker chair that protested against his twisted bulk. He'd try to force Lucy last night and she had chosen almost certain death in preference to himself. He might as well face the facts; he was no nearer Lucy now than he was before the minister had read the marriage ceremony to them.

To marry a man who positively ravened for her, and then coolly deny herself—that, he thought, was the explanation. She had no intention of coming back to him, ever. But to have loathed, given him an incredible sum of money, to have married him in order to assure his acceptance of the money, to have instilled in his heart the hope that, married, she would relent, would come to him

What exquisite torture was this? CHAPTER III

South, along on the Ocean Boulevard, Lucy bowed along in the little Ford. Somehow, the ocean seemed so grim and dour a few hours ago, now, in the gathering dusk, seemed gentle and inviting.

The path through the trees to the center of the island, where Faunce's cabin was located, was easily followed. In five minutes she was upon the edge of the clearing, and, her torch turned off, was standing gazing at the porch of the cabin.

Before the cabin blazed a fire. It had extended beyond the confines of the fireplace, and was, quite evidently, not for purposes of cooking, but for purposes of cheerful companionship and perhaps warmth. The resinous pine logs roared and cracked and threw a fierce light upon the face of Fergus Faunce, who sat upon his porch.

"Who's that?" she called.

"It's Lucy Harkness," she said. "I wonder," he said, still seated in his chair, "if our thoughts evoke our friends, or if the approach of our friends evoke our thoughts. Or has the tropic moon, which has just peered over the palms, brought delightful madness to me?"

She stared at the tropic moon which now had gloriously risen. She saw, silhouetted, the lacy outlines of the palms and the pines. She could hear the eternal rustle of the trees, as the pines kissed the palms, and the palms returned the caress. Little intimate noises came from the jungle, as though the night whispered secrets hidden from the day. Afar, the wild surf wooed the sand—And the glory, the unutterable glory of the Florida stars.

"Where shall I begin?" she asked suddenly.

"Where it suits you; or nowhere," he replied.

"I'm in trouble," she said.

"Of course," he said.

"Why 'of course'?" she demanded.

"All people are in trouble, always. They may not know it, but the fact remains."

"Well, I know it, and—Suppose I just wanted to stay here—oh, for as long as I chose, Fergus Faunce."

"Then here you should remain," he stated flatly.

"And that reputation of yours which I have just mentioned?"

"Would be as unimportant as I have just indicated to you?" he laughed. "But your own reputation; that would be a thing not lightly to be smirched by any act, even though merely acquiescent, of mine."

"In other words, you'd leave me, lest scandal—"

He shook his head.

"No, I don't think so. You didn't come here lightly, my child. You did some thinking. I simply said I would not lightly smirch you. Let's hear your reasons."

"Suppose I choose to give you none?"

"I shan't ask for them again. Sufficient unto the day is the Lucy thereof."

"Then I am evil?" She caught at his paraphrase.

"That was unfortunately put. Let me say that the Lord said, 'Let there be Lucy, and there was Lucy.'

"That is better, much better," she said judicially.

She lighted another cigarette, removed her hand from it abiding place upon his knee. She puffed at it slowly.

"Were you ever a damn fool, Fergus Faunce?" she asked.

"Yes," he replied.

"I'm glad of that," she said.

"Were you ever in a scandal, Fergus Faunce?"

"No he replied.

"Would you mind, terribly, being in one?"

"Not particularly," he answered.

"Would it affect your practice?" she persisted.

"Not in the slightest. Patients come to me for my skill with a knife, not for my morals," she said lazily.

She could feel his sudden rigidity. But his voice, when he spoke, was even and calm:

"Then, when I called you Lucy Harkness I called you out of your name."

"My name is Lucy Stevens," she said.

"Do I know the happy bridegroom?" he inquired.

"It was from his boat, last night, that I dived into the tide that swept me on your beach," she said.

"And the usual obvious reason being obviously not accountable, in your case, for today's marriage what did impel you to the act?"

"I hated him so," she murmured.

"Think of him, Fergus Faunce, a bridegroom minus a bride, wondering where on earth I am—"

"But you didn't do it just to play a trick upon him, Lucy," said the doctor.

"Fergus Faunce, I don't know why I did it!" she cried. "Can you tell me?"

"I'd rather not, just yet," he answered.

"Now, what do you mean by that?" she asked.

He waved the question aside.

"And what do you do next?" he asked.

"Next? It's a very sleepy Lucy that sits at your feet, Dr. Fergus Faunce. Probably I shall go to bed. I wonder, you who are willing to give life and reputation to me, what you will say if I demand your cabin?"

"It is yours already," he smiled.

"Frequently I sleep in a blanket by my fire; I love the stars, the moon, the waving branches—"

"Don't be poetical," she ordered. "Get the scolding over with, Fergus Faunce."

She had turned and was looking up at him, and the rays of the moon illumined her features. Faunce thought that he had never seen anything so elfinly beautiful as the face of this girl. Yet his smile was not even faintly tremulous.

"There will be no scolding, my child," he told her gently. "Of the Lucy man asks nothing save that they be. Do we scold the sun because it sulks and hides behind a cloud? Aren't we, rather, grateful for the hours when it shines upon us? The Lucys come but once in a generation, my child, and we who meet them, who are privileged to know them cannot censure, ever."

"Fergus Faunce, why didn't I, the moment I saw you, love you?" wailed Lucy.

"I am not good enough for that, my dear," he told her.

"Too good!" she cried. "A man like you—you do really love me? You really loved me the moment you saw me?"

"I adored you," he said simply.

"I knew it—knew it this morning," she said. "And if I were anything but a silly little fool, I'd have loved you. You're everything that I want to love, that I ought to love, that I need to love. Why don't I?"

He made no answer.

"I wonder if perhaps I will," she cried.

He shook his head.

"My dear, Love doesn't do what we want him to. But that you should want to love me—that lifts me above the rest of the world. Lucy Hark—Stevens, it's time you went to bed."

Wrapped in the blankets, she could hear him moving outside. Somewhere in Palm Beach Tim Stevens was crazy with anger, with worry. She smiled as she thought of Tim.

WASHINGTON SUBSCRIBER COMPLIMENTS SULLIVAN

The Progress is in receipt of a letter from Henry Smith, formerly of Gays but for a number of years a government employe in Washington, D. C. He reports a change of address for his subscription and also says:

"I take pleasure to congratulate the citizens of Sullivan and its neighbors both far and near for the hard work and cooperation they used in bringing around and proving, not only to The Progress, but to a number of doubtful Thomases that all you have to do to be a winner is to get into the game all over (both feet won't do). This is what you folks have done and in doing so you have solved one of the greatest problems that confronts small towns and cities today. In order to keep the home folks home, you must provide for this personal work with just compensation for their mental equipment and when this is done, it's all done."

"So when I visit Sullivan this coming spring I expect to see smiles and most everybody working."

Christianity is more than going to church on Sunday and attending revivals every night in the week. It is a tremendous living force constantly at work everywhere.

Every Christian should feel his individual responsibility in ministering to both saint and sinner: to establish one in the faith, to win the other to Christ, also to help the sick and needy.

Rev. 22:16—"I Jesus, am the bright and morning star."

The scriptures contain several hundred different names for our Lord each speaking of some special attribute of his. As in the text the name "Bright and Morning Star" is very assuring. The morning stars come with the closing of the night. If we have watched through the long hours of the night beside the bedside of a sick friend, we remember how gladly we beheld the rising of the morning star, and somehow the coming light was reassuring to us. Or as we look back to the night of sin while we were yet sinners, with what joy we beheld the morning star, that star of hope which preceded the Son of righteousness into our hearts. We remember as Christians those dark nights of sorrow and grief that we passed through and with what joy we beheld the Bright and Morning Star, and the assurance it gave us that very soon the Son of Righteousness would arise. Then it also has a prophetic meaning for us of today, as the night of this dispensation wears to a close we see the Bright and Morning Star arising, that star of hope that tells us very soon the Son of Righteousness shall appear, and we will know that it is a new day. It will be an unclouded day, and one without an ending.

ing will be announced at the close of the service.

We could not close this item without mentioning the very inspiring message of Dr. Gagely at the morning service. Those who missed it missed much. Dr. Gagely emphasized his three conceptions of the church. He said in substance that his first conception, gained quite young in life was that it was a place to display talent.

Second conception, gained in young manhood was that it was a bunch of hypocrites, but his third and last conception was that it was an organized body of believers whose purpose it was to serve humanity and spread the gospel.

Do not forget dear friend, your influence will be strongest where you are. If you do not attend your church services regularly, you will hinder the growth of your church just as much as your influence is strong.

The union Thanksgiving service will be held at the M. E. church, Wednesday evening, Nov. 27 at 7:30 o'clock.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

C. E. Barnett, Pastor

The Thanksgiving season is at hand. Next Sunday the second annual "Thanks for the Harvest" service will be held at 10:40 a. m. The fruits of the fields, brought into the church will serve as adornment and provide the setting for the thanksgiving sermon. We are requesting that all gifts be brought Saturday afternoon, between the hours of one and four. A committee will take them in charge and arrange in order. Monday morning all gifts will be packed and shipped to our benevolent homes in St. Louis and Jacksonville. Bring fruits, grain, vegetables, canned goods, either from home or store, flour, lard, (in pails) any suitable gift as expression of thanks and usable in these homes. Cash offerings accepted either by the committee, or at the service Sunday. The public is most cordially invited to attend and participate in the services.

Printed programs will permit everyone to have part responsibly and in union. The choir will render two anthems, "A Good Thing to Give Thanks" and "Never Ending Gladness." At the evening service 7:30 a'clock, the pastor will preach, following a special number by the Young People's choir. A glad, joyous service, a fitting close for Thanksgiving Sunday. "Rejoice and be exceedingly glad."

Christian Endeavor meeting at 6:30 p. m. Gerald Elder will be the leader. The subject, three T's, "Thanksgiving Through Thanksgiving." The Johnsonians lead the Eldertes by a few points in the contest.

The Sunday School sessions begin at 9:30 a. m. Come, tune in on the messages of the Lord as presented in His word.

The union thanksgiving services will be held at the M. E. church Wednesday evening, Nov. 27, Rev. J. C. Irvine delivering the message.
