FARMERS SELL GOOD GRAIN AT LOW PRICE

Grain Threshing and Marketing is Now Order of the Day. Offer 52c for This Year's Corn Crop.

New grain is coming in. Next week there will be a heavy flow of grain to the elevators. The quality is exceptionally good. The yield per acre is fair. Most of the wheat weighs better than 60 lbs. to the bushel and Loren Rhodes brought some oats to the Sullivan Grain Company the other day that weighed 40 lbs. to the bushel, or 8 lbs. overweight. The bad feature about the grain harvest is the low price. Oats is worth only 26c per bushel and wheat was being bought on Thursday at 74c per bushel. Most of the farmers cannot hold the grain but must sell to get some money to meet pressing obligation.

Elevators are offering 69c per bu. for No. 3 old yellow corn, 5-day delivery or 68c, 20-day delivery. White corn is worth 4c per bushel more.

Elevators are offering to contract for the purchase of the new corn crop at 52c a bushel and some contracts have been made on this basis.

Old soybeans are worth $1.15 per bushel. The new soybean con. on Page 4—Col. 3

Ohio Folks Caught Here With Chickens Stolen in Shelby

Sale of Chickens by People in Foreign Car Aroused Suspicion of Charley Jenne and Chal Newbold. Culprits Now in Shelby Jail.

Charley Jenne does not look like a detective. Looks are deceiving. Monday morning Mr. Jenne walked into the sheriff's office. In his hand he held a slip with some figures on it. "Sheriff," said he, "some folks in an Oakland car with an Ohio license number, have just sold some chickens to Chal Newbold at The Wadley Co. It looks suspicious to me, for they sold only part of what they had. They then got into the car and headed west. There was one woman and two men. Here's the number of their car."

Just about that time Mr. Newbold also called the sheriff's office to report the transaction. Sheriff Lansden and Deputy Lansden were by this time convinced that there was something "rotten in Denmark" or as Americans would say that there was "a nigger in the woodpile."

They started out to look for this suspicious car, with its suspicious passengers and its chickens. As they came out of the court house door, the car was passing along on the west side of the square. They followed. It stopped at the Shell filling station at the I. C. tracks on Hamilton street.

The officers approached and made the "pinch."

The older man in the party indignantly remarked "What the h—l sort of town is this, if a fellow can't sell the chickens that his father-in-law gave him." He was courteously informed that there was no law against selling a father-in-law's gift but that if chickens were stolen—well, that was another matter to consider.

The folks gave their names as Marvin Brown and wife Geraldine and William Hatcher, 18, brother of Geraldine.

When they saw the jig was up they talked. They said they lived (Continued on page 5, Col. 1)

EASTERN ILLINOIS JERSEY BREEDERS PLAN BIG SHOW

(By Ralph Emel)

Jersey breeders from six counties in Eastern Illinois have united to put over the greatest show of Illinois Jerseys ever held in the state. This show is known as the Eastern Illinois Parish Jersey Show and will be held at Charleston during the Coles County fair. The day of Wednesday July 30, has been set aside for the fair board and designated as Jersey Day. In its nature this is a sectional show patterned to a certain extent after the parish show on the Island of Jersey, the native home of the breed. It has been held extensively in this country in New Jersey, Michigan, Oregon, Ohio and Indiana and the shows in this country have been unusually successful in bringing out large and high class exhibits.

Prof. W. W. Yapp of the University of Illinois has been selected to judge the Jerseys. He is a judge of national reputation and proven ability and was Jersey judge at the National Dairy Show in St. Louis last fall. Prof. C. S. Rhode of the extension division of the dairy department at the University has gone through the six counties interested and selected their show herds. In every case a number of herds are represented in his county selections and he says he believes it will be a great show.

The counties taking part in the parish show are Moultrie, Coles, Jasper, Crawford, Lawrence and Richland. The prizes in the show are unusual in that every place wins the same prize be they first or last. The idea is to encourage representation among as many breeders as possible. In most of the classes each county is allowed two entries and the idea is to make the show a county project rather than an individual one.

A big basket dinner is to be held by the Jersey folks at noon and a local Charleston committee is making arrangements for it. Jersey breeders and their families from the counties in eastern Illinois are invited to bring their dinners and eat together.

The eyes of Jersey breeders in Eastern Illinois, Western Indiana and northern Kentucky are on this show and it is confidently expected that a big gathering of Jersey breeders will be at Charleston on July 30.

Kenneth Weger Attempts Suicide In Chicago Hotel

Former Sullivan Man in Serious Condition After Taking Poison. Had Left His Wife June 10th. Was War Veteran.

Kenneth Weger, a former Sullivan resident, is in a serious condition in a Chicago hospital, as a result of having taken poison with suicidal intent.

His grandmother, Mrs. Elvira Stricklan of this city has been called several times by hospital attendants since the act took place. Latest reports were that he was still living but the doctors in attendance have little hope of pulling him through.

Weger is a war veteran who has been in ill-health since his discharge and has spent much time in government hospitals.

He was twice married. Divorce was granted in the first case, he having been married by a nurse while in a hospital. He later married Miss Theresa Anderson of Chicago. Two children were born to this union. The son died about a year ago. A daughter, Theresa aged 5, is still living.

Reports say that Weger and his wife separated some time ago. He took poison in his hotel room and when police broke in they found him in serious condition. He had written the following note before trying self-destruction: "To my wife, somewhere in Cook county; I did not realize what a wonderful girl you were when I left you June 10th. Take care of Theresa. I'll meet you in heaven."

At the noon hour Thursday Mrs. Stricklan had not heard anything more and he was doubtless still alive.

Saturday evening Mrs. Clyde Bolin and children were uptown in their car. When they arrived at their home in the southwest part of the city the children ran into the house while Mrs. Bolin was closing the garage. A man appeared and grabbed her arm. She jerked loose and started running toward the house. In doing so she almost stumbled over another man who was hidden in the weeds. She screamed and the men ran. Sheriff Lansden was called and scouted around the neighborhood. Neither of the men was found, but a number of crap-shooting suspects were thoroughly scared when the sheriff appeared in that part of the city.

—Mrs. Sarah Barton left Thursday for Butler, Kentucky where she will spend several weeks visiting friends.

On the 4th of July 1866 she was united in marriage with S. M. Green, who died June 29, 1875. Four children were born to this union. Two of these preceded the mother in death. They are Montie M., wife of John T. Grider who died in 1898 and Effie who died Feb. 1, 1892. The two surviving children are Lola M., wife of U. G. Pogue and Cash W. Green. She also leaves her sister Mrs. Angeline Wright of Orlando, Florida and brother C. W. Powell of this city. ## CLEVELAND SAYS GIVE JOBS TO ILLINOIS MEN

At last week's opening of bids for highway construction at Springfield, Director H. H. Cleveland announced a policy that will meet with general approval all over the state.

Contractors who had bids at the letting were informed that the state expects all successful contractors to employ Illinois common labor in doing the work.

There has been considerable complaint within recent months that contractors are hiring labor at ridiculously low prices and if Illinois labor does not take the jobs at the wages offered, other laborers are brought in who will.

Because of the general depression, men are willing to work for less than a living wage and contractors are said to be taking advantage of this situation.

The state, of course, cannot regulate wages to be paid but Mr. Cleveland stated:

"Illinois money is paying for these roads, and the state is of the firm opinion that the state's money should not be used to hire out-of-state labor.

"We insist on successful bidders on contracts employing Illinois residents for their common labor tasks."

It was at this letting that Moore Bros. Construction company of East St. Louis was low with its bid of $250,478.33 on the 12.27 miles of paving on route 132 between this city and Dalton City.

Watts Construction Co., of Winchester, Illinois was low with its bid of $30,032.70 for building the bridge across the Okaw on the same route.

The Moore Bros. bid which is a little more than $20,000 per mile is considered exceptionally low for this class of work, as quite a bit of grading and several smaller bridges are included in the contract.

Editorial

These are the things that ye shall do; speak ye every man the truth to his neighbor; execute the judgment of truth and peace in your gates.

And let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against your neighbor; and love no false oath; for all these are things that I hate saith the Lord.

16-17, Chapter 8, of the Book of Zechariah.

We can travel 20 miles in the time it took our forefather to travel one in his vehicle. We have automobiles that give us great speed. We have good roads over which to travel. We have fast railroads and steamships and even airplanes wing their way through the skies at a pace undreamed of in days gone by. With all of this, is the world happier than it used to be? Do people get more out of life? As they rush madly, back and forth, along the ribbons of concrete, wherever mere whim may direct them, are present day folks developing into supermen because of all of this speed? It's really not adding much to human happiness. The folks who used to walk across fields to visit with neighbors—the folks who hitched a team to a buggy on Sunday morning and travelled to church and later to some relative's home for dinner and to spend the afternoon visiting had just as good a time as folks do nowadays. It's foolish for us to pity the folks that lived before us. They had many joys and good things out of life. They had simplicity and common sense and they laid the foundation of many things which we have today. While the world moves rapidly forward in many lines, human beings have not shown any remarkable improvement. They are just human beings—a baffling mass of conflicting emotions—shamelessly selfish—narrow-minded, egotistical, greedy, grasping, yet withal good hearted, neighborly, sympathetic, charitable, etc. Times may change and they do—inventions revolutionize men's way of living—but man will always be just a sort of parasite on earth, taking from earth all he can get, and giving as little as possible in return. —Mediocre Meditations.

TRYING TO JUSTIFY PROTECTION IS THE 18TH AMENDMENT TO BLAME? WHY WE PRINTED EDDIE MURRAY'S LETTER

"For agriculture, the tariff act of 1930 will be a distinct gain" said the Hon. Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture in President Hoover's cabinet in a recent radio address, a copy of which is before us.

In a rather lengthy argument Mr. Hyde then proceeds to justify certain things that are complained of by the people whom the new tariff rates will affect.

He has it all figured that even if prices on some things that the farmer must buy will be higher on account of tariff protection granted the manufacturers, he will realize higher prices on his agricultural products and the tariff will benefit the average farm family about $102 yearly.

Mr. Hyde is an old hand at politics. He is a shrewd manipulator at figures. He does not at any point in his argument show that there was any need for higher protection on those things the farmer buys, but by inference leaves the impression that the manufacturer is entitled to higher prices so he can share in some of the profits that the higher agricultural rates are supposed to add to the farmers' income.

The manufacturer will raise his prices. Tariff increases for him are no incentive to raise wages, or to secure protection against outside competition. It gives him an excuse for raising his prices. The farmer who buys what the protected manufacturer produces, pays that increased price.

Now how about the farmers' prices? The higher tariff on some farm products is now in effect. Do you see prices go up?

With the highest protective tariff ever in effect on agricultural products the prices continue to tumble. The tariff protection is absolutely futile.

The thing that the farmers have contended would happen has happened. Agricultural depression is reflected in manufacturing. The farmers of America constituted the American manufacturer's big market. The farmers have been on the rocks for the past six years or longer. Their finances and buying power have been depleted. They can't buy what the tariff-protected manufacturer has to sell. As a consequence many factories have closed and the cities are filled with unemployed. A business depression is in existence. Workingmen in the cities are not earning any wages. They are cutting living expenses down to the barest necessities. Farm prices continue to tumble. Why? Because a short-sighted policy in dealing with agriculture during the administrations of Harding-Coolidge and Hoover, has tended to wreck not only agriculture, but the big buying market that agriculture constituted. The farmers are not buying, so factories have quit producing. Factories have laid off their workingmen. Shortage of money among these workingmen is further reducing farm prices, for they cannot afford to buy farm products at even the low prices that now prevail.

The farmers' plan for farm relief was ridiculed and rejected. The politicians plan for farm relief has been put into effect. The results speak for themselves.

Another angle to this problem—the new tariff is meeting with great disfavor in foreign countries. The rates prohibit them selling any of their products in America. Why should they buy any articles made in this country and exported abroad? Well, they're not going to. They are building tariff walls of their own. American manufacturers, if they want to sell in foreign countries must open factories and manufacture there. That means the employment of foreign labor. How will that help the American workingman? How will it benefit the American farmer?

World economic conditions need re-adjustment. The protective tariff fallacy has served its time. It has been the favorite tool of industrial pirates and subservient political shysters. It has made millionaires by the thousands and brought poverty to city workingmen and farmers.

Not only is the iniquity of this false economic measure apparent on the farms but the ranks of the unemployed in the cities also bear testimony of it. The bubble has burst. The new tariff bill just serves to rub it in.

In recent years we have often seen statistics and boasts made by the Anti-Saloon League that Prohibition has added materially to the prosperity of this nation. We still have Prohibition, but where is the prosperity? Do prohibitionists claim credit for the present conditions? As a matter of fact, Prohibition has very little to do one way or the other with general business conditions. The booze-fighters and professional drys add or detract very little to any national conditions, be they good or bad.

Last week there appeared on this page a letter written by Eddie Murray, a man locked up in the local jail. He was recently convicted for robbing the Gays bank. Mr. Murray in his letter voiced a complaint that The Progress was writing too much about him. He objected to some of the things that have been said in print.

We printed Mr. Murray's complete letter. He was entitled to that.

Our excuse for saying so much about him is that, in a way, he is a notorious personage. He has figured largely in court proceedings. He has been given a trial before a jury. He was found guilty. He has figured in other escapades that have brought him into prominence. When a man gets himself so much in front of the public, he must expect that newspapers will write about him. Look at Charles A. Lindbergh. He has about as much privacy as a goldfish in a bowl. When he sneezes, the trailing reporters rush to their headquarters and an extra is issued with the news that Lindbergh is catching cold. Look at the Prince of Wales—when he dances with some girl, the newspapers smear pictures of the couple over their front pages for weeks and weeks. Then look at Al Capone. There's the lad that can get the publicity.

Publicity is not a newspaper's way of punishing anybody. Punishment is not a newspaper's province in the general scheme of things. Newspapers report what happens. If that report is wrong, corrections will gladly be made. If anything appears in The Progress that offends Eddie Murray, he is welcome to the use of enough space in our next edition to tell his side of the story.

There is an adage that anybody, even the worst criminal, is entitled to his day in court. We contend that every man accused of crime is also entitled to his day in print. The newspapers through the officials can usually get one side of the story. If the accused has another side to tell, it would be manifestly unfair if he were barred from telling it, if he feels inclined to do so.

We are glad that Eddie Murray wrote that letter. We have no ill-feeling toward Eddie. In fact, we are sorry for him that he is so unfortunate. If he is as innocent as he claims to be, we sincerely hope and trust that in some way he may be able to convince the courts before an injustice is done.

It is really foolish to hate and abuse our law-breakers or accused law-breakers. There is just one thing more deplorable than an innocent man convicted and that is a guilty man at large, preying on society and menacing life and property of honest people.

For Mr. Murray's case will say that he had his day in court. He had a good attorney. The law considered him innocent until proven guilty. The proof presented to the jury convinced its members that he had committed the crime of which he was accused.

If he is so absolutely certain that he is innocent, it is just too bad that proper arrangements cannot be made to take his case to the higher courts for a review of the evidence.

Let us repeat. We print the news as we get it from official sources. That does not however debar the accused from also using the columns of this newspaper to present to the public his version of the affair, in so long as he couches his statement in temperate language and is not libelous or abusive.

MIDSUMMER NIGHT ESCAPEE TANGLES BOYS IN BARB WIRE

"Twas near the hour of mid-night Saturday. The A & P store had closed for the day. It was beastly hot. Manager and Mrs. A. E. Crowder emerged from the store, hot and weary. Officer Getz happened along and offered to take them for a ride to cool off. The offer was accepted.

Officer Getz drove out North Worth street toward the park. He passed the park before turning in. As his car came up the embankment, another car appeared in view. This car was stopping and a number of men seemed to be at work changing a tire. Evidently they were not, for they jumped up and two grabbed what looked like a blanket spread on the ground.

Several clambered hurriedly into the car. All the excitement made the officer suspicious and he started rounding up the bunch. Several of the boys started running and how they did run! They got into the cow-pasture north of the Athletic field in record time.

Later they returned as the officer questioned those in the car. Nothing incriminating was found, but some of the boys were badly scratched by the wires. They contended that they missed the wires altogether when they fled into the pasture and really got the scratches as they crawled through the wires coming back out of the pasture.

As no evidence was available that the boys had done anything but what was lawful and in conformity with the dignity and the peace of the commonwealth no ar-

TOO MUCH PITY

A man who has won high distinction in his chosen field of labor came into my office not long ago. He walks with a limp, for one of his legs is shorter than the other.

He told me that for years he went around on crutches.

"I finally threw them away," he said, "and I'll tell you why. I got infernally tired of having people stop to ask me what had happened. I didn't want sympathy. It did me no good and slowed up my operations. I'm lame. I'll never be any better. But I can stand the lameness better than I can stand being pitied."

There is a great waste of pity in the world.

I know, for example, a couple who seem to be curiously mis-mated. The woman is 10 years older than the man. She is argumentative. She is not a very good housekeeper.

At least a hundred times I have heard somebody say: "I'm so sorry for Joe. He might have picked out lovely young girl and see what he went and did."

Now, the simple fact is that the man and woman are exceedingly happy. I personally can't see what he finds attractive in her, nor why she should have chosen him. But it is none of my business, and I certainly am not going to waste sympathy on two folks who seem to like each other and to be perfectly satisfied.

I live part of every year in the middle of Manhattan Island, and the rest of the time in a New England village. My Manhattan friends say: "What a terrible bore it must be to life in a little town. No theatres, no art galleries, no excitement. How I pity country people."

My village friends say: "I like to go to New York for a visit, but what a frightful place to live! Noise, and crime, and rush and expense! The poor folks who are crowded together in those big apartments just don't know what real living is. How I pity them."

What an absurd situation. What an emotional waste!

This seems to me to be a pretty good idea—don't weaken your emotional nature by pouring out pity unless you intend to do something about it.

Pity the sick and relieve them. Pity the poor, and divide with them. Sympathize with the struggles of youth, and lend a helping hand.

But don't get into the foolish habit of being sorry for anybody who happens to be different from yourself. The chances are that he is spending an equal amount of his time being sorry for you.

WHISKY AND ALCOHOL

Neither of these drugs should be used as beverages, no matter when or what the dilution. No medicine should be handled flippantly, carelessly or impudently. For most medicines are deadly in overdose. It is the "beverage" item that has brought these two valuable medicines into disrepute, and has divided our people socially and politically to a dimension equal to that of the slavery question preceding the Civil War!

Most rational-thinking men and women will admit that whisky and alcohol are all right "in their place." Where that place is, the educated physician, it seems to me, would be the better judge.

Once for all, alcohol and whisky are valuable medicines. When that is said, all is said. Capable physicians need pure alcohol in their offices daily. Great hospitals use it as a valuable adjunct in laboratory and nursing departments. It is little less than crime to deprive the wasting invalid of anything that can possibly aid in bringing about his comfort or recovery—so there!

Whisky is a valuable stimulant and aid to vital processes in "lingering" or wasting illness, especially in aged patients. Practical proofs have been well known for years. No chemical equation can do away with actual bedside experience. Drunkards are not made here, neither are monkey wrenches provided for political machinery in the sick room of the old and infirm.

Granted with our "dry" zealots, that we could do without alcohol and whisky; we could as a beverage; we could as a medicine; but you, dear reader, have no right to tell me what I shall or shall not give to my patient, in my efforts to restore him to health; if you assume that right, I shall ignore you. And you fight beverages all you want to; I'm with you there. But keep out of the way when I'm treating an invalid!

KIDNEY BEANS WITH TOMATOES

Soak one and a half cups of white kidney beans over night. Drain them and boil in water containing a quarter teaspoon of soda. Fry a tablespoon of minced onion in a little dripping. Add two cups of stewed tomatoes, season with a little salt and two level teaspoons of sugar. Barely cover with water and cook in a fireless cooker or double boiler until tender. This should take about three hours.

BEEF AND TOMATO PIE

Put meat left over from yesterday's bouillon through the meat chopper. For four cups of beef you will need a pint of canned tomatoes. Grease a baking dish with bacon fat or good drippings and put a layer of the tomato with a little onion juice, then a few bread crumbs and then a layer of meat. Continue in this way until near the top and then cover over with fresh mashed potatoes. Brush the potatoes with milk and cook for thirty minutes.

TOMATO TOAST

Two tomatoes, two eggs, one tablespoon butter, one-quarter cup of minced ham, a slice of onion, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, six rounds of buttered toast. Skin the tomatoes and chop; mince the onion and mix with the meat and tomatoes. Cook them with the butter in a saucepan about ten minutes, remove from the fire, add the beaten eggs, stir over the fire until it sets, then serve on the toast.

THE FIRE OF DRIFT-WOOD

By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

We sat within the farm-house old,
Whose windows, looking o'er the bay,
Gave to the sea-breeze damp and cold
An easy entrance, night and day.
Not far away we saw the port,
The strange, old-fashioned, silent town.
The lighthouse, the dismantled fort,
The wooden houses, quaint and brown.

We spake of many a vanished scene,
Of what we once had thought and said,
Of what had been, and might have been,
And who was changed, and who was dead;
And all that fills the heart of friends,
When first they feel, with secret pain,
Their lives thenceforth have separate ends,
And never can be one again;

The first slight swerving of the heart,
That words are powerless to express,
And leave it still unsaid in part,
Or say it in too great excess.
Oft did the words upon our lips,
As suddenly from out the fire
Built of the wreck of stranded ships,
The flames would leap and then expire.

The windows, rattling in their frames,
The ocean roaring up the beach,
The gusty blast, the bickering flames,
All mingled vaguely in our speech;
Until they made themselves a part
Of fancies floating through the brain,
The long-lost ventures of the heart,
That send no answers back again.
O flames that glowed; O hearts that yearned!
They were indeed too much akin
The drift-wood fire without that burned,
The thoughts that burned and glowed within.

Wahrheit und Dumheit

Physically, golf is the biggest thing in John D. Rockefeller's life. He is not a star player, but he is by no means a dabbler. He has made a study of the game, understands its principles thoroughly, and comes as close to being a golf bug as anyone. Over a stretch of several weeks this spring he averaged a trifles over thirty for six holes. Don't let anybody tell you that's bad golf for a man of ninety who weighs less than one hundred pounds. The Rockefeller bag contains more clubs than that of the average golfer. He has two drivers and two brassies of different weights. The brassie is his favorite club. He uses it frequently when others counsel an iron. His principle is: "Always use the heavier club."

In his tee shot, he develops medium trajectory. In approaching he knows how to run 'em up as well as pitch 'em on to the green. He goes straight for the flag, as golfers say, not content merely to dribble on to the green. He has a big rake-like putter and sweeps the ball into the hole. I saw him take four putts once, but he seldom requires more than the conventional two.

The prettiest attribute of his game is its direction. He loses not more than three balls a year. And he can tell exactly under what circumstances each was lost and whether the fault was his or his caddy's.—From "John D., a Portrait in Oils," by John K. Winkler.

In the days when it was considered quite the thing to entertain the doughboys in private homes, Mrs. Vanastorbilt called up the Army and Navy club and said, "I should like to have two of your men come to dinner with us Sunday at half past one, but please be sure that they are not Jews."

When Sunday came, two chocolate colored privates rang the bell at the Vanastorbilt house. Mrs. Vanastorbilt was, of course, greatly surprised, "Why," she stammered, "who invited you here?"

"Our commanding officer, Captain Cohen," replied one of the privates.—Illinois Farmer.

"Bud" Adamson says he has been milking cows for 50 years, but Thursday morning of this week was the first time he ever had one to go to sleep while he was drawing off the lactal fluid. Bossy did that every thing, gently settling down into her owner's lap and upsetting him both physically and mentally. The cow was so darned sleepy-headed he had trouble persuading her to get back on her feet so he could finish the milking job. Now that's what we call a good story—and it's true, too.—Atchison (Mo.) County Mail.

Family reunions, which are the vogue these days, always generate great pride in the "family tree." Family trees are peculiar things. They bear all sort of fruit. If you examine the various branches too closely you may find things that you wish never had been on your tree. Marriage dates and birth dates may be sort of confusing and not always easy to reconcile to the laws of biology. Then again you may find the proverbial black sheep that happens in the best regulated families. Family trees are interesting in another way. They may bear a crop of conscientious and lovable men and women, but no matter whose tree it may be, sooner or later you'll discover that its borne lots of nuts at some stage of its growth. Tracing ancestry may result in finding a Revolutionary general among your ancestors, but don't be shocked if you once in a while find a horse-thief too. There are laws of averages to consider and pride and grief often are closely allied together.

A neighboring paper tells this story: The bride and groom on their honeymoon trip had reached their hotel and were shown the room they were to occupy. It was equipped with twin beds. "Oh John," said the bride "I don't like this at all. I thought we were going to have a room all to ourselves."

A man who went to register just before election was asked his trade. "Mason and builder," he replied.

The next man in line was an old Irishman. When the question was put to him he said, "Knights of Columbus and bricklayer."

Drunk (triumphantly): "None of us; we was all on the back seat."—Mead Co-operation.

WIARD-BARBER WEDDING YESTERDAY
(From the Wilmington North Carolina Press)

In a lovely ceremony performed yesterday at five o'clock in the afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Barber in Garden City their daughter, Margaret became the bride of David Kyle Wiard of Washington, D. C., Monsignor Dennen officiating in the presence of many friends of the bride and groom.

The home was decorated beautifully with palms and Southern smilax and many baskets of gladioli and other summer flowers. The improvised altar in the living room was banked with pink and lavender hydrangeas against a background of palms and on the altar were placed cathedral candlesticks holding white tapers.

Amos Allen, pianist, with Miss Katherine Barber rendering the violin accompaniment, offered a program of wedding music and several vocal selections were given by Miss Mildred Farrar. The selections rendered were: "Venetian Love Song" (Nevin), "Indian Love Call", (Friml), "At Dawning", (Cadman), "Romance", (Rubenstein) and "O Promise Me", (DeKoven). The Lohengrin and Mendelssohn wedding marches were played.

Miss Elizabeth Barber, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of dusty rose chiffon with embroidered batiste yoke and picture hat of hair straw and tulle with rose velvet bow. She carried an arm bouquet of pinks and ferns tied with tulle.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a lovely gown of ivory chiffon created in Grecian style with yoke and fitted girde of rose pointe lace and cape of chiffon. Her tulle veil was worn with tulle cap with orange blossom buds outlining the face. She wore lace mitts and ivory brocaded crepe slippers with orange blossom buckles and her only ornament was a diamond and platinum pin, the gift of the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

The groom was attended by David Barber, Jr., as best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held for the wedding guests. Mrs. Barber, mother of the bride, wore a gown of navy and beige chiffon and a shoulder corsage of Sweetheart roses.

In the dining room, the table was centered with a wedding cake, and from the chandelier above four tulle streamers were suspended to the table and fastened with tulle bows and clusters of valley lilies. Mrs. W. A. Furlong received the guests in the dining room. Miss Mabel Stennet of Washington, D. C., and Misses May Shannon and Annie Topy, presided at the punch bowl. In the gift room, Misses Eleanor Dudley and Elizabeth Shannon received the guests.

During the late afternoon, the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to an unrevealed destination, the bride wearing a smart traveling suit of light navy blue wool crepella with beige blouse and blue stitched felt hat and blue accessories.

They will make their home in Washington, D. C., where Mr. Wiard holds a position with the Library of Congress.

Mr. Wiard is a son of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Wiard of this city where he has many friends, who join with The Progress in sending congratulations and best wishes.

In order that the public generally in the territory served by the Company may have an opportunity to learn of the current activities of the Company in rendering service to its present and new customers, there is reproduced below the Dividend Letter which is sent to stockholders with each quarterly dividend.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS:

During the last quarter your company had a net increase of 836 electric customers, adding to its lines 1,226 kilowatts in lighting and 3,297 kilowatts in power. Contracts for power include energy to operate the Texas Empire Pipe Line Company's pumping station to be located near Baylis, Illinois, which will be a 1,000 kilowatt load and a 150 horsepower installation to be used by the Congress Construction Company in the erection of a new bridge over the Illinois River at Hardin now being built for the Illinois State Highway Department.

Electric franchises have been granted your company in 13 communities, thirty-two municipalities have granted street lighting contracts for periods of ten years or more and 13 have entered into contracts for energy to operate their municipal pumping stations.

Gas franchises have been granted the Company at Havana, Windsor, Arcola, Bushnell, Lewistown, Tower Hill, and Beardstown. Preparation for the necessary construction work to render gas service is well under way. In Beardstown the Company has been supplying gas for many years.

During the last quarter your company has been granted authority by the Illinois Commerce Commission to serve Cheneyville, Florence, Detroit, Milton, Walnut Grove, Dowell and Iuka, the first five cities have not heretofore had electric service while Iuka was formerly served by a municipal plant.

AGRICULTURE'S NEW ALLY

Electric power is uniquely adapted to many kinds of farming. It can do the scattered jobs that no other agency except the human hand ever performed until electric power—mobile, divisible and subject to automatic control—became available.

CENTRAL ILLINOIS PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

Electric power brings to the farm a cheap, reliable and automatic substitute for human nerves and muscular power in that vast department of agricultural effort called "chores".

This kind of farm work, especially in animal husbandry, assures the best returns to the farm and the greatest benefits to the nation now, and to posterity.

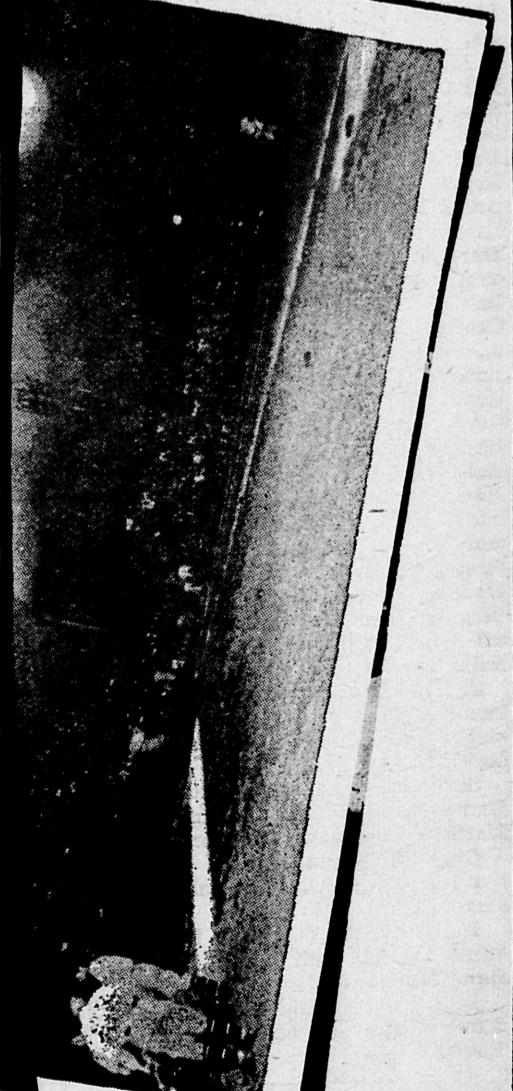

Mills and shops could always be placed near abundant and cheap power. Farms cannot be moved to power, and neither animals nor crops can be manufactured on an assembly line. Nature dispersed the farmer's tasks over broad acres, and in the home and barnyard his productive efforts are spread in time as well as space.

The distributable power of the modern electric system and of the automobile and tractor began about 1910 to modify the structure and operations of both agriculture and manufacture. Agriculture shares in that technical revolution which is decentralizing factory industry.

Electric power has made it possible to place the factory nearer to the raw materials—to put the machine wherever man chooses to fabricate raw materials. At the same time, electric power has begun to perform many tasks.

The picture on the last page of this folder shows the crowds attending the first night baseball game of the Quincy Three-Eye League Baseball Team on June 17. This illumination of baseball diamonds for night games is one of the many new uses of electricity and following several of these pioneer installations baseball authorities have freely predicted that night games will undoubtedly be the solution to dwindling attendance at minor league games.

Respectfully yours,

DUNLAP HERE WITH FLY SWATTER

Mr. Dunlap, who has been examining the books of the Arcola Homestead and Loan Association for about four years, was here Monday and made his regular examination. Mr. Dunlap is a brother of Senator Dunlap of Savoy and though he lives in Champaign he carried about a hundred pounds of baggage when he arrived here Monday including a heavy overcoat and a fly swatter. The first thing he unpacks when he starts to work is his four pound paper weight and his fly swatter. He has a deadly aim and when a fly lights near him he pauses in his column of figures until the fly has been duly executed and then proceeds down the column with an accuracy which is almost uncanny. He is a wizard with figures. —Arcola Record Herald

JAMES HAS GONE

Last week James Farlow, well known man about town, was arrested on a charge of having stolen a quantity of lead from L. T. Hagerman & Co. The warrant was sworn out by Mrs. Ethel Neaves, wife of Bob Neaves. Her husband was accused of having done the stealing but she says that James did it. At a preliminary hearing before Judge Lambrecht, Mr. Farlow was released on his own recognizance to appear for trial Saturday. Saturday came on due time but James did not. He had departed for parts unknown.

Don't leave any cereals in packages when shutting up the house for a vacation, however short. It is better to give away small remnants than to have to combat weevils on your return. Weevils getting into one kind of cereals may spread to your flour or any other cereal foods not in tight glass or tin containers.

FARMERS SELL GOOD GRAIN AT LOW PRICE

price is somewhat uncertain at this time. Some acreage has been contracted by the elevators at $1.25 per bushel. Present prospects indicate that Moultrie will raise a record breaking amount of soybeans this year. There is a large acreage and the stand is fine. Here and there a field of beans has been planted to permit of cultivation. These look much better than those fields sown with a grain drill.

Produce Prices

Butterfat is 27c per lb. eggs are 14c. Produce houses are offering 5c per lb. for geese and 7c for ducks. Leghorn roosters are worth 5c per lb. and the bigger varieties are worth 8c. Spring chickens are worth 10c to 18c per lb. Old hens are worth 10c to 14c per lb.

ARTHUR MEN FACE SERIOUS CHARGES

Raymond Robinson 35 and Ben Nichols 50 are under $1000 bond to appear before the grand jury to answer to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of two Arthur girls.

The girls are Dora and Pauline Humphrey, aged 13 and 15. Both have a good reputation and the charge in no way reflects on their good character.

A few evening ago the girls were out walking. A car came along with Robinson, Nichols and another younger man. They stopped and invited the girls to take a ride. They refused. After some argument, the girls were taken into the car. A stop was made at a farm house where a married woman joined the party. A ride was then taken. The girls were indignant when they reached home and reported the matter at once. The warrants followed. When the men were arrested and brought into Judge Lambrecht's court, he held them under bonds of $1,000. They gave bond for further appearance. Officials are conducting a further investigation into the case.

Both Nichols and Robinson are married, the latter being the father of four small children.

DUNSCOMBS RETURN FROM EASTERN TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Dunscomb returned Monday night from an extended Eastern trip during which Mr. Dunscomb represented the local Kiwanis club as a delegate at the Atlantic City International convention. They made the trip east by rail and bus, going to Indianapolis on the Big 4 and from there by bus eastward. They spent the first Sunday of their trip at Philadelphia and then went to Atlantic City where they remained until July 3rd. From there they went to Newark, N. J. where their son Lester is employed. They visited New York and other eastern points. In New York City they called at Mt. Sinai hospital and saw the Misses Addie and Lizzie Wood. The former is dietician there. They left New York Saturday night in Lester's car, he accompanying them home. The return trip was made without stop, except for gas and eat and for a short visit with a friend of Lester's in Peru, Indiana.

Mr. Dunscomb is slated to make a detailed report of his trip at the Kiwanis dinner on Friday of this week.

STABILIZING THE PRICE OF OATS

By Charles W. Bliss of Hillsboro

Jake Blevins threshed his oats last week and hauled them off to town. They said they'd give him twenty cents, for oats had gone 'way down. But Jake set up a lusty howl, and plainly showed his grief.

"What has become," he loudly cried, "of that there 'Farm Relief'?"

"The Farm Board's got it, they replied, "and hold it like a vise, while Alexander Legge attempts to 'stabilize' the price.

"He's stabilized the price of wheat—you know the consequence—for wheat is selling here at home for less than eighty cents. He's worked on cotton and on rye, on cattle and on shoats, and now he's busily engaged in stabilizing oats."

Then Jake hauled home his load of oats, and said unto his spouse, "I'll never give my oats away, I'll feed 'em to the cows."

"Why, Jake," said she, "you stupid dolt, that Farm Board's smooth as silk, for they've already stabilized the price they pay for milk!"

And then with wrath Jake swelled all up, his frame began to shake, he popped his fists and cussed and said: "That Farm Board's a damned fake! The more they monkey with 'Relief' the more we are bereft; they'll 'stabilize' and 'stabilize' until we've nothing left!"

CLYDE F. CUSICK ENGAGED AS GENERAL AGENT OF FARM BUREAU INSURANCE

The Executive Board of the Moultrie County Farm Bureau recently arranged with Mr. Clyde F. Cusick of Allendale, Ill., to take up the Farm Bureau Insurance work in this county. There are several different lines of insurance which have been developed by the State Farm Bureau which have proved very advantageous to the membership. These different lines include those of Automobile, Employer's Liability, Hail Insurance on farm crops, and also Life Insurance.

A good portion of Mr. Cusick's time will be spent in writing the life insurance for the Country Life Insurance Company of Chicago which was organized by the Farm Bureau less than 2 years ago. It is an Old Line Legal Reserve Company organized on a perfectly sound basis and in its short length of time which it has been in existence, it has taken on 25 or 30 million dollars of Life Insurance. Mr. Cusick's business is to secure the quota that has been allotted to this county, as well as to build up the other lines of insurance. From the recommendation which we have concerning him it would seem that he should be able to do this. He, at present, is a member of the Wabash County Farm Bureau, 41 years of age, and a graduate of the College of Commerce at Valparaiso, Indiana. He taught school in Wabash county for three years and was employed in the bank at Allendale for six years. For three years he covered a territory of 35 counties in Southeastern Illinois as Bond Salesman. The past few years he has been serving as special agent in the insurance work in Wabash County and has been quite successful. We have reasons to believe that he will be just as successful in Moultrie County. More of our members should interest themselves in the Farm Bureau Insurance, because of the savings that might be had in this way.

Mr. Cusick at first agreed to be on the job by August 1, but we had a letter from him recently, stating that it might be possible for him to come a week or two earlier. Therefore, if you are interested in any of the various lines of insurance named above, all you need to do is to call upon our General Agent of Insurance to explain the matter to you.

in Ohio, but Mrs. Brown's sister, living near Hinton in Shelby county was ill, so they came west to visit her. Running out of money, they had stolen 12 chickens from the flock of William Abrams, a neighbor. Fearing to sell the chickens near home, they decided to risk it here at Sullivan.

They had sold 11 chickens here and had received a check for $5.18 made out to the fictitious name of "Jones". They cashed the check in payment of groceries at the Community grocery. The groceries were returned, the check was secured and turned back to Mr. Newbould and the chickens will be returned to the Abrams farm in Shelby county.

An investigation of the car disclosed that they carried a gas pump with ten feet of hose, evidently used to steal gas from cars. They also had a very elaborate assortment of tools, which it was later learned had been stolen from a handcar house near Hinton, at a time when 15 gallons of gas were also taken.

Shelby county officials were notified. They got in touch with William Abrams, but he had never missed the chickens from his big flock.

Shelby county deputy sheriffs came Monday afternoon and got the folks and they will have to answer to their misdeeds in the Shelby courts. The chickens were also taken home.

Officials are determined to prosecute vigorously all chicken thieves and make that petty form of stealing very unprofitable and unpopular.

CHAMPIONS DO BATTLE

trix Hill 19. Grace Thompson 15 vs. Iva Ashbrook 22.

Championship Game

In the race for the Sentel cup tournament Jim Lehman surprised himself when he defeated Bert McCune. Jim had practically conceded that he could not beat Bert, but somehow or other Bert was not up to his best game and that put him out of the running.

Frank Newbould who stopped Hugh Brown the I. C. fast-mail will now have the privilege of showing up Jim Lehman or being shown up. Frank is always ambitious to give Judge Sentel lessons. If he puts Jim Lehman on the shelf, he's going to have a chance to show how good he really is when he meets the winner of the Carl Wolf vs. A. O. Crosno match.

A. O. is the only one of the Arthur contingent who has survived this far. This is surprising for as Doc Norris says "Arthur has some fairly good players." Doc shoots a whale of a ball himself when he's in fine fettle but he did not get near the championship this year. The Eads boys and Mert Howell are also right there with a good game and a coming champion is Hugh Rigney, who takes his golf with intense and pre-meditated seriousness. Sure Arthur has some good players, we thought everybody took that for granted. If A. O. Crosno happens to beat C. C. Wolf they'll have a special day at the Arthur fair to celebrate the event and Doc Norris will be master of ceremonies.

Goodbye Bill!

Bill Gardner, sad to say, is out of the running. "Wild Bill" made a great and popular champion last year. He had an idea that he was going to be a sort of Bobby Jones when it comes to winning championships but alas he went up against Bo Wood on a day when that lad was laying the wood on the ball and Bill lost, one up. Bo says he's got one good game a year in his make-up and that was the one he dealt out to Bill. Pee-Gee Collins, who caddies for Bill, was almost heart-broken and refused to eat his supper after the match. His idol had fallen.

But Bo did not hold his fame long. In a strenuous battle against Paul Marshall Hankla Sunday afternoon the victor over Gardner was vanquished. He held Paul in a sweat for 13 holes and then broke. Hankla has been playing good ball and bids fair to give a real battle to the winner of the Scott vs. Dr. Butler match. Mr. Scott eased Gerald Elder's championship hopes out of the race.

The semi-finals thus resolve themselves into games between the winners of the Lehman vs. Newbould and Wolf vs. Crosno matches and the winner of the Scott vs. Butler vs. Hankla match. One of these seven will win the coveted "Sentel" cup.

Two of the players who were listed last week in the Progress "bum prophecy" have fallen by the way side—Bert McCune and Bill Gardner. Judge Sentel did not like to have his defeat by Carl Wolf conceded so far in advance and said he had a notion to upset the dope by defeating Carl. If he had any designs of that kind, he forgot about them when the match came off.

So the race now resolves itself into seeing whether Jovial Jim the grounds-keeper is a better golfer than Frank Newbould the would-be pro; whether A. O. Crosno can uphold the honors of Arthur in a battle against Carl Wolf. The foregoing is in the upper bracket. In the lower bracket the Bethany banker will find in the Sullivan dentist a worthy foe. If Dr. Don plays one of his flashy games Troy may fall and Gerald the Sullivan-Allenville banker will have been avenged. Whoever wins in the Scott vs. Butler affray will have Paul Hankla to contend with.

Roy Patterson had an unexpected thrill Sunday afternoon during the Wood-Hankla game. Bo drove one off number 5 tee. Pat was about 215 yards up the fairway hunting a lost ball. Bo's drive had the speed of a cannon ball and at 215 yards was flying high, wide and handsome and for a time it looked as if it were going to bean the ex-mayor. It just grazed his head however. Both Mr. Wood and Mr. Patterson were scared stiff for a minute, while the ball continued its flight up the fairway for a 300 yard drive. When that boy Wood really connects up with a ball, you can't tell where it's going to stop.

Husband and wife.

The finals in the husband and wife Johnson cup tournament was played Wednesday. The winners were Mr. and Mrs. Bert McCune.

During the past week Mr. and Mrs. Lute Hudson defeated Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. McCune defeated Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hill. So far this match seems to have run its course this year without any serious domestic troubles.

It took 20 holes to decide the winner, as both couples were playing championship golf. Effingham played here Thursday afternoon of this week.

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

TWELFTH INSTALLMENT

"Thank you, Mr. Henderson. My name is Eric Hamilton, and I'm from Chicago, too. That ought to be a bond."

"Thanks. And now," Henderson added in a level tone, "I'd like to have you tell me what you meant by speaking of Miss Carrington as your wife."

Eric permitted himself a glance of surprise, while mentally he registered the name.

"I meant that the lady and I are married," he suavely informed the caller.

"Since when?"

"Oh, for some little time."

"The hotel people didn't seem to know anything about it. They called her Miss Parsons."

"One doesn't confide all one's affairs to the hotel people, you know," Hamilton mildly pointed out. "And I admit we're newly weds. Still, he added, "we meant to tell them tonight."

"They call Miss Carrington, 'Miss Berson' uptown and 'Miss Parsons' at this hotel. I can't understand," Henderson went on as Hamilton took this in silence, "why she changed her name after skipping out the way she did. But why the devil should she have two names?"

"Four," Hamilton corrected: "Carrington, Parsons, Berson and Hamilton. But Hamilton is the real one. Berson is the result of a blunder. Some one uptown twisted Parsons into Berson and the habit spread."

"Damned queer, I call it," Henderson muttered. "And cutting me dead when I finally found her," he ended. "That's beyond belief!" And Hamilton made no comment on this outburst, so Henderson added with an evident effort at self-control:

"Wasn't this marriage of yours rather sudden?"

"I suppose you might call it so," Eric conceded. "But we've known each other more than a fortnight, and lots of couples don't wait that long. Strangers in the same town get better acquainted in a few weeks of vacation, you know, than they ordinarily would in a year," he bromidically pointed out.

"Vacation?" Henderson broke out, so loudly that his companion had to remind him of the time and place by an apprehensive look around the room. It worked. Henderson lowered his voice.

"Do you realize, young man, that this bride of yours skipped out, without warning, a week before she was billed to make her first American appearance at the most important musical event of the year—the big Chicago benefit for the flood sufferers?—And that isn't all she's done," he ended with a groan.

"No," Hamilton slowly admitted "I didn't realize that. What else has she done?"

Henderson sent him a sudden peering look from his near-sighted eyes, but he was too full of his own troubles to be analytical.

"She's wrecked half a dozen October concert engagements," he bitterly announced, "including one with the Chicago Orchestra and another with the Philadelphia Orchestra. And she has knocked on the head the prettiest autumn recital ever planned for an artiste. It was to come off early next month. That was bad enough; but of course we all made allowances for her because of the awful shock she'd had—"

"She hasn't said much about that shock," Eric confessed. "I wish you would tell me the whole story."

Henderson leaned nearer and peered into his face again, this time more closely.

N. Y. Woman Lost 14 Pounds of Fat

One 85 Cent Bottle of Kruschen Salts Did It

"I am starting on my second bottle of Kruschen Salts and am real pleased with results. I take it for reducing and so far have lost 14 pounds and I think it is doing wonders for me. I do not feel so tired evenings when I get home from work."

A generous bottle of Kruschen Salts that last 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at Sam B. Hall's or any drugstore in America—take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut down on starches and walk a little each day.

Before the bottle is empty surplus fat is leaving you—indolence changes to activity—you'll feel younger—eyes will brighten—step grows spry. Millions know this—you ought to know it. Kruschen Salts is the ideal treatment for constipation, indigestion, headaches, nervousness and acidity.

—Adv.

"See here," he suddenly demanded. "Why should I talk over Miss Carrington's affairs with you? I don't know anything about you."

"We're fifty-fifty on that," Hamilton reminded him. "But I'm her husband."

"I've only your word for it." "I can give you proof any time it's necessary. But first I want to know a whole lot more about you. Where do you come in on Eve's affairs?"

Henderson turned squarely and stared at him. He seemed unable to speak.

"Do you mean to say," he inquired at last, "that my name doesn't mean anything more than a name to you, and that Eve Carrington married you without telling you about me?"

"Not a thing. Not a word."

Henderson hunched forward, eyes on the rug at his feet. "Well," he muttered, "that certainly ties up the package—with a string! I thought no musician could surprise me, for the Lord knows emphasizing every word, 'I happen to be Eve's dead father's lifelong friend, they're a crazy lot. But this!' He straightened and met Hamilton's sympathetic eyes.

"You see," he added deliberately, "I'm her guardian, and her manager, and the man she was going to marry!"

Hamilton's breath caught under the blow, but he took it with outward calmness.

"Now that we understand each other, suppose you tell me about the shock my wife had before she left Chicago," he suggested. "She doesn't even mention it."

"That's easy, though I guess you've read most of the details. You know all about the drownings, of course."

"I don't even know what you mean."

Henderson took out his handkerchief and wiped his moist face. "It's very odd you don't know," he muttered. "Hasn't Eve told you anything at all?"

"I've admitted that she hasn't discussed the shock."

"I suppose that isn't strange, really. She was shot to pieces by it, poor girl."

Eric caught his arm.

"Mr. Henderson," he cried, "I wish you'd stop beating about the bush and tell me that whole story from start to finish."

"All right," Henderson agreed. He went on with increasing seriousness: "I'll start at the beginning. Eve was pretty tired when she got back to America the first of July, after her European tour, and the year ahead of her here was going to be just as strenuous as the past year. She's a genius, you know—a wonder. Even now there isn't another American pianiste who can touch her. She'll head all the women players of the world in a few years more. You don't need to know anything about music, to realize she's a genius," Henderson was saying. "You have only to hear her play."

"I've never heard her play." Hamilton spoke absently, irritated by the departure from the main theme. He immediately regretted his words, for Henderson was plainly amazed by them.

"What?" he gasped. "You've known Eve Carrington more than two weeks and haven't heard her play! Still," he now remembered, "she had turned from her music completely during that last week in Chicago—"

"You were talking about the Heckner drownings," Eric reminded him.

Henderson shook his gray head. "It doesn't seem possible," he brought out. "I can't imagine Eve away from a piano that long, even in the nervous state she was in. But I suppose it's no more impossible than the rest of this business."

"Eve went to Mackinac early in August, for a fortnight's rest. She was the guest of the Heckners, in their summer home there. She's an intimate friend of Mrs. Heckner, who is devoted to her and was doing everything she could to make Eve's first American season a big success."

"Eve is strong for boating and swimming and every sort of outdoor sport," Henderson went on, having replaced the spectacles.

MONEY to Loan

I would like to make some small real estate loans. Parties interested inquire.

J. A. WEBB

"Learned 'em when she was a kid, and keeps herself fit that way. The Heckner children (there were four of them) were crazy about her, and spent most of their time at her heels. They were just learning to row and swim, but of course they were never allowed to go off by themselves. However, they knew there was an old boat a mile or so up the beach and they sneaked off alone one morning and got that boat into the water and pushed it in. Their governess thot they had merely run away from her to play on the sand, but, just the same, she chased along the beach, looking for them, and on the way another child met her and told her what the youngsters had done. They were pretty far out by that time."

"Yes. Go on."

"It was early and the shore was almost deserted; but Eve had happened along with two women she walked with every morning. She and her friends had been standing for a few minutes watching the rowboat and wondering why the devil it was acting so queer—and at the same time the Heckner governess came running toward them, off her head with terror and shrieking that all the children had been in that boat."

Henderson stopped again.

"Eve took just time enough to kick off her shoes before she raced into the water and started for the kids. She realized that it was all up to her, for most of the men were away that day, and the governess and the other two women couldn't swim a stroke. One of them had sense enough to rush back toward town for help, and the other raced around on the sand, yelling."

He stopped again, took the big cigar from his lips, and looked at it as if wondering how it got there.

"I knew those kids, myself," he explained. "I'd been at Mackinac over the previous week-end and I had taken the twins out rowing. Oh, well—" He restored the cigar to his mouth, puffed at it fiercely for a moment, and resumed:

"Eve's a good swimmer, but it was a hard pull, for the boat had upset almost a quarter of a mile from shore and her skirt was heavy and the lake was rough. All four youngsters were clinging to the boat when she got out to them and when they saw her, the twin boys—ten, they were—began to laugh. They thought it was all over now but the fun of the rescue. They told her to take the girls first, which of course she'd have done anyway, so she took the youngest, little Nancy Heckner, who is only seven, and brought her in all right. She flung Nancy to the woman on shore to be looked after, and she tore off her soaked skirt and went right out again for the next girl, Mary who isn't quite nine. Mary was about ready to go under by this time, and the twins were trying their best to help her."

"There wasn't any smiling now, but the boys buckled up when their sister was taken off their hands and promised Eve they'd hold on till she got back. But Herman said good-by as she started off, and she didn't like that indication or the way he had looked. It rattled her and she had an awful time getting Mary to shore for the kid was in a panic. The newspaper men did a lot of fancy writing on that second rescue. She got Mary to shore, though, and started back a third time. The women tried to hold her then, for they saw she was about all it, but she went. She went," he repeated softly. "The twins sank before she reached them, so she started diving—" "Go on!" Hamilton begged again, and the big man obeyed after a glance at him. It was clear to each of them now that the other loved the girl they were discussing.

"The woman that ran back to town had found some men in a field," Henderson continued, "and they finally got a boat and reached Eve just in time to save her. It took almost an hour to bring her to consciousness after they got her to shore. They brought back one of the twins, Herman with her, but he was dead when they got him to the surface. Henry's body wasn't recovered till that afternoon. It was a ghastly business but Eve had saved the two little girls."

"By God! that was stunning!" Hamilton said on a choked breath. "Of course it was stunning," Henderson agreed.

High School Boys Grow Corn For Vacational Agriculture Projects

Loyle Davis' reason for selecting corn for his project in first year Agriculture at the local high school were set down by him in so many words as follows: "I can raise corn at a profit. (b) I can select some good seed corn from my plot and thus increase the yield and quality of corn on our farm. (c) The profits I can make will enable me to buy some brood sows for my project next fall." Davis says his aims are: "(a) To raise this crop of corn for profit. (b) Select and sell some seed corn. (c) Check the value of commercial fertilizer on my corn. (d) Buy two or three good pure-bred sows for next year."

With the help of his dad Loyle selected a ten acre plot of ground east of the house for his corn. He figured that his major activities for the year should include preparation of the seed bed, seeding, fertilizing, cultivating, harvesting and checking yields and marketing the crop.

A strip of land wide enough to make one acre was left unfertilized thru the center of the field to check the effect of fertilizer on yield and maturity of the corn. The yield of this acre will be compared to that of the corn growing on either side and receiving an application of fertilizer. At harvest time Loyle plans to run moisture tests on both the plots in order to check the maturity and weight of the corn and thus getting the true yield of corn. In this manner he will know whether or not it paid him to use fertilizer on this crop of corn.

Loyle has kept notes on the observation and management of his project during the time the project has been in progress. Notes are sent in to his teacher each week during the summer months. Some of the notes follow:

"Sept. 25, 1929—Selected 10 acres of clover field for project and plowed with two bottom tractor plow.

April 15, 1930—Harrowed land.

May 6, 1930—Bought one ton fertilizer, 2-14-4, to put on corn.

May 7, 1930—Planted corn about three inches deep.

May 10, 1930—Rolled Corn.

May 16, 1930—Corn is up about two inches high.

June 6, 1930—Corn is losing color because of dry weather. Fertilized corn is growing faster than other.

June 13, 1930—Corn has a lot of suckers on it.

June 20, 1930—Corn grew two inches last night after the rain.

June 27, 1930—Checked stand of corn and found only 92% perfect. Fertilized corn grows larger than unfertilized.

An accurate record of labor and all other costs which Loyle is keeping will enable him to determine exactly what he makes or loses when his project is completed. From this record Loyle will learn first hand what it costs to produce an acre of corn, what items make up the greater expense, whether or not it paid him to use commercial fertilizer and whether or not he made any profit from his project.

Eight other boys of the local high school classes are carrying on corn projects in a very similar manner. The general plan of procedure is essentially the same in every case. The boys having corn projects are: First year class in Agriculture—James Slover, Everett Bundy, Jesse Pound, Wayne Purvis and Loyle Davis. Second year—Clifton Cole and Wilson Ashbrook. Third year—Homer Sullivan and Fred Cogdal.

The number of acres in each boys project varies from five to fifteen, ten acres being the most common size. Ten acres makes the most generally satisfactory size corn project. The acreage is not large enough to make the responsibility too much for the boy and at the same time may afford him a chance to use his initiative and managerial ability to make a profit of some consequence.

It is especially desirable also that each boy own, manage and be entirely responsible for his project. Thus the project becomes a measure of the boy. In other words the success or failure of the project is a measure of the boy's ability and industry and not of dad's. Dad's advice and interest is always solicited, however, by the wide awake boy.

NO DEVELOPMENTS IN KERCHIVAL CASE

There have been no further developments in the case of Mrs. Nelle Kerchival who last week was fined $100 and costs on a peace disturbance charge in the court of Judge Lambrecht. At that time she was given a 20 day stay in sentence to enable her to get the money to pay the fine or go to jail. Mrs. Kerchival is accused of having disturbed the peace and quiet of the neighborhood where she lives by expressing her opinion relative to her neighbors in language that was neither chaste nor dignified, and exceedingly ungrammatical.

THE WEATHER

Such lovely weather. The recent heat spasm that climbed to as high as 112 degrees is a thing of the past. The mornings and evenings are cool and the nights are just about right. The temperature at times slips down to really chilly extremes. The leaves on the trees are playfully rustling in the breezes and the girls wear a heavier coat of sun-tan powder on their knees. Some fellows have gotten chilled too much, as is indicated by their sneezes.

We need rain. The hot weather boiled the moisture out of the soil. It hurt some of the early corn too. The tender tassels as they emerged from their sheath were partially cooked by the blazing heat and this fact is evidenced by "white-tops" to be seen in the corn fields. But there will be plenty of corn anyway.

We wish we had friends like Ruth Hanna McCormick. She's got oodles of unearned increment herself—that is money that came her way by accident of birth, and then when she wants to go to the United States Senate her relatives gladly give her from $5000 to $15,000 each to help her achieve her ambition.

Can you imagine why a woman with so much money wants to go to the Senate? If she ever got there, do you think she'd know how to vote on matters affecting us poor duffers who have to count our dimes and pennies daily in an effort to make them last until the Hoover administration comes to a close?

We believe in representative government. We contend that millionaires cannot represent us.

Let us suggest something new in the way of government—we make a motion that in order to protect our ideals of representative government, there be established in this nation a non-legislating department at Washington, D. C.; that this department be one of honor and glory alone and that to it be accorded all first places of honor and distinction at banquets and social affairs; that its members alone be permitted to entertain the foreign kings and snobs that may visit this nation; that this new branch be known as the Millionaire branch of government but that it be prohibited from in any way monkeying with laws or legislation; that for a start each state be given five memberships in this branch and that these memberships be sold at public auction, the proceeds of the sale to go into the United States treasury, so as to reduce the taxes of common folks; that each year an additional five memberships for each state be sold in this club; that a person need not reside in the state for which he buys a membership. The terms are to be for a period of four years only, so that they will be plenty of sales and plenty of money coming in.

This is just a skeleton outline of what we have in mind. Wouldn't it be grand? We could give the millionaires all the honor and glory they want. They would not be limited in the amount of money they spend and we could keep them from tinkering with the laws that so vitally affect about 99 percent of the American people who have no millions or much else to speak of.

Just because some fellow has money that's no sign at all that he has brains. Let's segregate the brainless and useless rich and keep them out of our hall of government. Do I hear a second to the motion?

T-BONE CALF CLUB TO HAVE A JUDGING TEAM

Members of the Baby Beef Calf club will start work soon to develop a livestock judging team. This team will consist of the three members of the club ranking highest in a practice judging contest and will be coached by H. P. Erwin, vocational Ag. instructor of the S.T.H.S. The team will go to Urbana August 4th to compete with 4-H judging teams from every county in the state. The boys will meet with Mr. Erwin at the next regular meeting Monday, July 21 at the Farm Bureau office. Plans are also being made for a demonstration team to compete in the county club show, on August 26.

SHORTS

There are about 3500 cities in these United States that are of the size of Sullivan. The estimated population of the entire country, according to the 1930 census is 122,000,000.

Uncle Sam started calling in the large sized bills about a year ago. Over a billion dollars worth of it is still out, although not much of it appears in circulation. Nearly four billion dollars of the new currency is now in circulation.

Sixty-eight banks in Illinois closed their doors and suspended business during 1929-1930. That's up to now.

The theatre at Findlay has suspended, due to lack of patronage.

Next year's automobile license plates in Illinois will be black figures on a field of light green. An order has been placed with an Ohio firm for 1,400,000 passenger plates and 225,000 truck plates.

The Shelby County board of supervisors has decided that a man who owns an automobile, of any kind or character, cannot be classed as a pauper and will get no county help.

A lumber magnate named W. D. Alexander in Bloomington thought so well of Ruth Hanna McCormick's ambition to go to the United States Senate that he dug down in his own pocket to the tune of $7,207 to finance her campaign in McLean county. Wonder what he was looking forward to?

Acts 3:6—"And Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk."

The story tells us that this man to whom Peter was speaking was lame from birth. There is a lameness of the spirit caused by sin, that also dates from the physical birth. These cripples line the streets of our cities, we find them in places of business, and there are few homes that do not have one or more. They are asking alms of the world, and the world is giving freely. Just like the lame man at the gate, they do not know there is something far better than that which they have been receiving. This man never knew until Peter, a disciple of the Lord told him. There are some who will never know, unless you, His disciples tell them. Had Peter failed to tell this man of Jesus who was able to make whole, this man would perhaps have lived on thru life a cripple and died one. If you do not tell that spiritual lame man next door of Jesus, who is able to heal the spiritual cripple, likely he too will come down to death still a cripple.

HARRISON BORDERS AND PATRICIA BROWN WED

Harrison Borders and Patricia Hazel Brown were united in marriage here Thursday afternoon of last week. Judge C. S. Edwards performed the ceremony.

This was not an ordinary wedding. The groom was released from jail long enough to participate and the bride applied for and got the marriage license.

The bride is a daughter of J. Brown who lives near Lovington. She worked for a time in Sycamore and there had an Italian lover. He did not treat her so nice so she came home. She then met Borders. He was out on parole from the Pontiac reformatory. The young folks decided to get married. But before this could take place it seems that Borders got into some more trouble, at least he is accused of having broken into several places at Lovington and stolen various articles. He was arrested and brought to this city where he is being held until a hearing can be had in his case.

His bride, who has returned to her home near Lovington is anxiously awaiting the outcome of her new husband's troubles.
