DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION WEDNESDAY

Springfield Was Scene of Large Gathering. Candidates Give Their Opinions on Campaign Issues.

Moultrie county democracy was represented at the State Convention in Springfield Tuesday by Clarence Miller, Frank Newbould, Omer E. Lowe and Ed Brandenburg. The last named served as a member of the committee on permanent organization.

As is usually the case the convention hall in legislators' room in the State House was filled with cheering, enthusiastic Democrats from all parts of the state. The 19th Congressional district was well represented.

The convention got under way about 11 o'clock when it was called to order by the Hon. Bruce Campbell of East St. Louis. The permanent chairman was Mrs. Sarah Bond Hanley of Monmouth, a representative in the Legislature from the 32nd district.

Candidates for office who were present were introduced to the convention and made short talks. Other prominent Democrats also appeared and engaged in flights of oratory.

The main attraction of the convention was Ex-senator James Hamilton Lewis who is again the party's candidate for that office in opposition to Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick. Mr. Lewis made one of his flowery talks telling what was wrong with the country and calling attention to fact that in Democracy's success lies hope for relief. Mrs. Eva Batterson, candidate for State Supt. of Schools made a short, peppy talk.

Others who spoke were Judge Dietrich of Beardstown and Walter Nesbit of Belleville, candidates for congressman at large. Judge Dietrich, especially, is an orator of ability and roused his hearers to a high pitch of enthusiasm. Judge Norman Jones of Springfield and Floyd Thompson of Chicago, past leaders in the party's struggle to wrest the governorship

GUNMEN SPATTER BREAD TRUCK WITH LEAD MONDAY MORN.

Harvey Mabis drives a bread truck for the Gehrke Bakery in Champaign. He delivers to rural communities, among them Sullivan.

Last week one morning he was held up near White Heath, south of Champaign and robbed of $65. Monday morning of this week he had a gun battle near the same place. Following the robbery last week, he decided to carry a gun.

Monday morning as he was coming west, a Buick car approached from that direction. When this car got near the bread wagon, one of the men began shooting. Mabis, instead of stopping, kept his truck going and also shot at the passing Buick. Seven glancing shots struck to cab of the bread truck. One was close enough to burn the driver's arm. He does not know whether his shots did any damage.

He kept right on with his work and was here on time to deliver bread at Alumbaugh's. He is of the opinion that the men who tried to hold him up were the same ones who did the job last week. They evidently tried to kill him in passing, as he had told Champaign county officials that he could identify both of the men, after last week's robbery.

MRS. ABBOTT GOT MULES IN PROPERTY DIVISION

The suit to determine ownership of a team of mules that were a part of the estate of the late John Clayton was amicably decided in Judge Lambrecht's court Saturday. Mrs. Jesse Abbott and the rest of the Clayton heirs appeared there and after a discussion agreed to a distribution of the personal property that was part of the estate. In such distribution Mrs. Abbott got the mules.

TEACHERS AGAIN TO BE OFFERED U. EXTENSION WORK

Moultrie county teachers will again have the opportunity of doing University extension work at the Township High School here this fall and winter.

Prof. C. W. Moore of the Illinois State Normal University who conducted classes here last winter will again offer this work to those who desire to profit by it. The plan followed will be similar to that of last year when about 40 teachers took the course.

Loren Brumfield, president of the teachers county organization states that Prof. Moore proposes to give courses in Education, History and Political Science, Economics and Sociology this year. He will be here Wednesday, September 10th and wants all teachers interested to meet him at the Township High School at 7 o'clock. More detailed information will be forthcoming later.

University credits are earned by the teachers who take this extension work. It is simply a matter of bringing the University to those who have not the time to attend, but are busy teaching.

MUNCH CELEBRATES 20 YEARS IN DRUG TRADE AT LOVINGTON

On next Saturday, August 23rd, 1930, M. W. Munch of Lovington will celebrate his 20th year in the drug business, in the same location.

It was on the 23rd day of August, 1910 that he started the present store and since that time many changes have taken place in Lovington.

Just four firms are in business there now that were there 20 years ago. They are Hardware State Bank, G. W. Bryant Garage, B. & N. store and J. S. Strohm. All others have changed or gone out of business.

Here are the names of some of those who were in business then or later—names very familiar to Lovington people. Many of these have passed on: D. R. Sutter, L. S. Runyan, Robert Selby, W. A. McMullin, Int Stanley, B. N. McMullin, A. O. McBride, T. L. McDaniel, A. Z. Goney, C. G. & Hal Foster, Fern Neff, Foster Bros., S. P. Drake, A. G. Piper, T. J. Hines, J. M. Shepherd and others. Mr. Munch has seen Lovington grow. He has been for all things that would help the town. He served on the community park committee and helped to improve the park.

In business affairs he has been guided by the principle of a "square deal for everybody" with good goods at a fair price. He secured his education by attending the public schools, the U. of I., Illinois Wesleyan and graduated from the National Institute of Pharmacy at Chicago in 1905. A short time after that he passed the registered pharmacist examination for Illinois.

He served as village clerk for 15 years. He has been on the hard road committees several times to go to Springfield to see the Governor about roads for his community.

In November 1919 his drug store was completely remodelled with new front, new show windows, new floor, new lighting system, and walls and shelving all refinished. Several new show cases were added at that time. Everything was brought up to date and in first class shape.

MRS. MAUDE MARTIN IS SEEKING DIVORCE

Mrs. Maude Martin of this city has filed suit for divorce against her husband Guy (Lucky) Martin. In her bill, which was filed by Cochran, Sentel & Cochran, she states that they were married August 13th, 1912 and have three children, the oldest of which is 17 and the youngest 11.

She accuses her husband, who now lives in Macon county of cruelty, neglecting to provide for herself and children and the excessive use of liquor.

Mr. Martin is well known here in Sullivan, where he conducted a restaurant about 10 years ago.

NEW STORE FRONT

Contractors were at work this week installing a new front in the Coy Shoe store. The building is owned by Chester Horn. The new front will have modern display windows and will be a big improvement.

The Missionary Society of the M. E. church will have a bakery sale Saturday at the store of the Duncomb Dry Goods Co.

Work Progressing Along Route 132 Right-of-Way

Buildings Being Moved, Forests Razed, Crops Harvested, While Graders and Bridge Builders Make the Dirt Fly.

Illinois road building is booming along. Contractors and subcontractors on the Sullivan to Dalton City section of route 132 are putting in hard licks daily. Bridge builders are working merrily along. Graders are putting the road in shape and when pouring of concrete starts about September 1st, the slab will be put down with greatest possible rapidity.

Several buildings which were on the right of way at Dunn Station have been moved. Timber on some tracts has been cut. Farmers are cutting their corn and taking other crops off the right of way. Everybody is working willingly and hard to speed the work and give Bethany a hard road outlet before bad winter weather makes the oil and mud roads almost impassable.

Federal Aid
Announcement was made this week that the Federal government would make available $5,000,000 for road work in Illinois this fall. This is money that had been intended for 1931 expenditure, but to help out the unemployment situation the funds are now available.

It seems possible that Coles county might get some action on the Mattoon end of route 132, as that county has been rather overlooked in this year's road building program. Some counties will get more roads this fall. The Masonic Home to Mattoon section of route 132 is an important arterial highway which should be completed in the very near future.

J. H. SMITH'S MOTHER DIED IN HER 95TH YEAR

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Smith died at her home in Mt. Vernon Friday night following a short illness. Had she lived to October 31st she would have observed her 95th birthday anniversary. She was the mother of J. H. Smith, the Sullivan clothier. She was a native of Kentucky and was the widow of George W. Smith who died in 1876. She leaves four sons, J. H. Smith of this city, Robert, Amos and George of Mt. Vernon; also two daughters Mrs. Mollie Glazbrook and Mrs. Belle Buck, both of Mt. Vernon. For the past 30 years she had made her home with Mrs. Buck, her youngest daughter.

J. H. Smith, Mrs. Sam Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nichols motored to Mt. Vernon Sunday to attend the funeral. Shortly before the funeral service was held Mt. Vernon was visited with a heavy shower of rain and the water ran knee deep down some of the streets. This rain slightly delayed interment which took place in Mt. Vernon cemetery.

SPECIAL SERMON SERIES AT METHODIST CHURCH

Reverend Lawrence is planning two special sermon series which will be given during the fall and winter at the Methodist church on Sunday evenings.

The first is called "The Gospel in Literature", a series that will take up the stories that have been based on some part of the Gospels, or have been taken from some teaching found there. These stories, or poems, are the following: Enoch Arden, The Cotter's Saturday Night, Goldsmith's Village Parson, The Prisoner of Chillon, The Ancient Mariner, Snow Bound and Saul.

The second series is called The Gospel in Drama, plays that are based on some Gospel teaching. The plays to be given are: The Enemy, Saint Joan, The Big Parade, Ben Hur, The Devil's Disciple, Hell Bent For Heaven, The Passing of the Third Floor Back, The Servant in the House, The Miracle, The Fool in Christ, One Increasing Purpose, The Power of a Lie, Princess Salome, The Way of All Flesh, and Seventh Heaven.

The first series will start the first Sunday night in October, the two series continuing until April. Reverend Lawrence is planning to have a small portion of each story and play acted out by the Dramatic club of the church.

SULLIVAN GRADE SCHOOLS WILL HAVE ONE TEACHER LESS

At a meeting of the board of education of the Sullivan grade schools this week, it was decided that as a matter of economy, no teacher will be engaged to fill the of Miss Vida Freese some weeks ago. The work will be so apportioned among the other teachers as to be able to get along with one less.

The grade schools are financially embarrassed, due to the fact that the law does not permit the levying of enough tax money to properly run the schools and to retire the bonds on the new school building as they become due. Other measures of economy are being planned.

MRS. TICHENOR HEADS CHAUTAUQUA FOR NEXT SEASON

Sullivan's Chautauqua came to a close Friday night. The programs had pleased everybody who attended. Many comments were heard as to the uniformly good talent which this year entertained the Chautauqua fans.

Sale of season tickets for next year's chautauqua fell short of the number which will be required to insure this class of entertainment next year. J. Oscar Hall, manager of the Lear Chautauqua Co., who was here on the closing night, stated that an advance sale of 400 season tickets was absolutely necessary. The sale seems to have fallen about 150 short of this number. A campaign is contemplated for some time during the winter season to make up this deficiency.

Officers elected for next year are as follows:

President—Mrs. Jessie Tichenor.
Vice president—Mrs. Ada Chapin.
Secretary—Miss Mayme Patterson.
Treasurer—Ivan Wood.

Board of directors—O. E. Lowe Dr. A. E. Turner, Rev. L. Lawrence, J. L. McLaughlin, J. A. Reeder, Rev. C. E. Barnett, Mrs. C. E. McPheeters, Mrs. A. E. McCorvie, Mrs. George A. Sentel, Mrs. W. B. Fortner, Mrs. Charles Jenne and Miss Lula Clark.

THIEVES PROMISE TO RETURN STOLEN CAR

D. W. Carnine's Chevrolet sedan was stolen out of his garage Sunday night. The keys had been left in the car and the thief or thieves made an easy get-away. They left a note asking Mr. Carnine not to worry about the car as it would be well taken care of and returned in a few days. It had not been returned Thursday.

Thursday morning a big new Buick car belonging to Simon Bernstein of Decatur was found on route 32 south of this city near the C. O. Patterson farm. Why it was abandoned in that place had the officials rather mystified. A report from Decatur said that the man who stole it was in custody there.

DISCOURAGING REPORTS FROM BUTLER BEDSIDE

Latest reports received here on Thursday morning from the bedside of Dr. S. T. Butler who is in the hospital at Boulder, Colorado were very discouraging to his many friends. He has a case of double pneumonia and other complications. He has lapsed into unconsciousness and not much hope is entertained for a rally. His son Charles is at his bedside.

His son Dr. Edward Butler of Buffalo, N. Y. came Wednesday. He arrived in Mattoon by train and his brother Dr. Donald Butler got him there.

Dr. S. T. Butler's health was failing when he left here some weeks to visit his brother Dr. Lone Butler and family in Colorado. He has grown steadily worse and was taken to a hospital about two weeks ago.

ENFORCING MOTOR LAWS

In Judge Lambrecht's justice court this week Gifford Wheeler was assessed a fine of $5.00 and costs for running his automobile with a cut-out open. Everett Drew was brought into court for having three people on his motorcycle which was one more than is permitted by law. He too paid a fine of $5 and costs.

Factory Notes Will Be Placed In Judgment In Judgment

Notes Given to Collectors with Instructions to Place in Judgment If They Can Secure No Payment No Other Way.

The committees having in charge the task of collecting the shoe factory subscription notes held a meeting Monday night to check over results to date.

Over 200 letters have been written to delinquent subscribers within the past three weeks. Some of them responded. Others did not.

It was decided to place delinquent notes in the hands of attorneys and judgment if other means of collection fail.

The committee feels that all delinquent subscribers have been given ample time and an opportunity to extend time for payment by making part payment and executing new notes for balance.

In justice to those subscribers who have met their payments in full, many at great sacrifice, the committee has decided that it is in line with their duty to enforce collection and settlement of all unpaid subscriptions.

The guarantors who signed the $10,000 pledge are entitled to this protection. Every dollar that can possibly be collected will be collected before the guarantors are asked to pay one cent on their guaranty pledge.

JONATHAN CREEK CHICKEN FRY SEPT. 9

The Jonathan Creek chicken fry will take place on Tuesday evening September 9th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Dolan, 1 1/2 miles north of the Masonic Home. Mark this date with a red ring on your calendar, so you won't forget it.

HARRIS GOLDEN WEDDING OBSERVED AT FAMILY HOME

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Harris observed their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday. Fifty years ago on Friday they had been married in this city. It was planned to have a basket dinner and celebration in Wyman park. At about 11 o'clock Sunday morning the storm blew up and the celebrants hastened to the Harris home on South Main street and the dinner and celebration took place there.

They received many beautiful gifts. Those present were Mrs. Charlotte Murphy of St. Louis, Mrs. A. A. Batman, son George and daughter Mrs. Cassie Salyers and son, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Corp. Paul Jeffers of the local contingent suffered an accident on Friday evening. He was riding on a truck which was sideswiped by another truck. His left leg was caught between the two trucks and some of the ankle bones were broken. He was taken to the staff hospital for treatment and later removed to the hospital at Fort Sheridan.

The local company won a cup for having a 100 per cent attendance of enlisted men.

Governor Emmerson visited the camp for inspection and made an address to the assembled citizen soldiers.

Many of the local men were back at work at their shoe factory jobs Monday morning.

MOULTRIE COUNTY LOSES MR. RIGGS

Decatur officials got Grant Riggs Monday. He had been in the county jail here several weeks. He was taken into custody here on a charge of forging checks. He was out of the penitentiary on parole. He has now been returned there by the Decatur officials to complete his sentence.

Riggs is a linotype operator by trade and worked on Decatur papers as a substitute operator.

He was an impatient inmate of the county jail here. He had saws smuggled into his cell which were taken away from him. Orders for more saws were intercepted. The saws he had and those he ordered were of such kind that he could have sawed any cell bars if given ample opportunity and a world of time to do it in.

Officials had a suspicion that Riggs, who seemed to have a peculiar mental twist, might know something about the high school building burglary but he would not admit anything of the kind.

OIL WELL ON HORN FARM DOWN 600 FEET

The oil well that is being drilled on Doy Horn's farm northwest of Windsor had reached a depth of over 600 feet Wednesday. Some trouble was being experienced by the drillers that was halting work. They say that they expect to find oil at a depth of about 2300 feet. Several other oil companies are busy getting leases signed up in that vicinity.

LOYAL DAUGHTERS TO SERVE CHICKEN WEDNESDAY NITE

One of the busiest organizations in Sullivan right now is the Loyal Daughters Class of the Christian church. The members have a reputation to uphold. That reputation is that of serving the best possible meal that can be prepared for 50c.

A demonstration of this cooking and serving ability will be given Wednesday night of next week when that class will have its big chicken fry in Freeland grove. Dozens, perhaps hundreds of good fat fries will be sacrificed to make this a big culinary success.

Not only will the tables be graced with platters heaped high with fried chicken but all of the other good things that you'd expect at a feast of this kind will be placed before you with the invitation "help yourself". And all its going to cost you is just 50c, one half dollar. The meal you'll get would cost you about $2.50 or more in any first class New York or Chicago restaurant. So remember this date. Come and eat your fill for 50c and give thanks that you live in a community where 50c will buy so much of such good eats.

PRINTED TIME BOOKS FOR SHOE EMPLOYES

The Progress printed and delivered to the Brown Shoe Company Monday morning a large order of time books for the employees. This work was paid for by advertisements of local merchants that appear therein. The solicitor for the work was Mont Parris, a former Sullivan resident. He has gotten out similar books in other cities where shoe factories operate.

A feature of these time books was the "trade at home" reminder that appears therein. The employees are reminded of the fact that Sullivan would have no shoe factory if the local merchants had not joined with other community boosters to subscribe the necessary funds.

BASKET DINNER

There will be a basket dinner, August 24th, at the Cadwell M. E. church in Cadwell. Every body is invited.

Thou visitest the earth and waterest it: thou greatly enrichest it with the river of God, which is full of water; thou preparest them corn when thou hast so provided for it. Thou waterest the ridges thereof abundantly; thou settlest the furrows thereof; thou makest it soft with showers; thou blessest the springing thereof.

—Verses 9 and 10 of the 65th Psalm.

Sometimes I long for a lazy isle,
Ten thousand miles from home,
Where the warm sun shines and the blue sky smiles
And the milk-white breakers foam—
A coral island, bravely set
In the midst of the southern sea,
Away from the hurry and noise and fret
Forever surrounding me!

For I tire of labor and care and fight,
And I weary of plan and scheme,
And ever and ever my thoughts take flight
To the island of my dream.
And I fancy drowsing the whole day long
In a hammock that gently swings—
Away from the clamorous toiling throng.
Away from the swirl of things!

And yet I know in a little while,
When the first glad hours were spent,
I'd sicken and tire of my lazy isle
And cease to be content!
I'd hear the call of the world's great game—
The battle with gold and men—
And I'd sail once more with a heart of flame,
Back to the game again!

CRIME AND LAW COMPROMISE

LEWIS VS. McCORMICK—A BATTLE ROYAL

Poor old Chicago! Jake Lingle has been dead some months now. His murderer is still unpunished. These daily murders occasionally throw a flash of light into high places. The other day a gunman was bumped off who left some records showing that high officials were on the payrolls of the gangsters. Of course they are! If such were not the case, murderers in Chicago would be treated like murderers elsewhere. In Chicago the right to murder is a privilege granted to the hoodlums by those in whom people have vested the authority of law.

Looking on as a mere outsider, who is not seething with the indignation of a reformer or anything like that, it appears that there must be a close companionship between Chicago gunmen and racketeers and the judges and other officials of the law. So thoroughly is the whole structure of crime and law enforcement saturated with graft and boodle, booze and vice, that the world at large cannot do otherwise than question the sincerity of Chicago until she manages to even the score by sending to the electric chair at least one murderer for every man who is murdered.

Chicago had better start cleaning house, if it wants to finish the job before the opening of its big World's Fair in 1933.

The most spectacular political race in the whole nation this year will be the campaign for United States Senator from Illinois.

The combatants are James Hamilton Lewis, Democrat and Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican. The former spent about $10 to get the Democratic nomination. Mrs. McCormick spent over $252,000 of her own money and her relatives chipped in with about $67,000 more. It took this much to defeat Senator Charles S. Deneen who sought Republican renomination.

The winner of this race will not have a walk-away by any means. Mrs. McCormick is a smart woman. She has been close to politics all her life-time. She knows how to play the game. She is an organizer. She is a good campaigner. She has powerful newspaper support. She has the state Republican machine back of her. Len Small is friendly to her and will give her what assistance he can. She has plenty of money. She will spend just as much as she dares to. Her family and friends and political organizations will donate liberally. She will leave nothing undone to win election.

At that she is not popular with the Illinois Republicans. Postmasters are afraid of what she may do to their jobs if elected. She does not forget her friends. Charles S. Deneen has many friends in Illinois. They hated to see him beaten. They are not too friendly to Ruth Hanna. All of the politicians who are now luke-warm will be whipped into line before election day. She will poll a big vote. She has a normal Republican majority of over 250,000 in the state to rely on. Can she be elected? Well, under usual conditions she could be. This, however, is going to be an unusual year. Furthermore, she is opposed by a rather unusual candidate.

James Hamilton Lewis is a statesman with a national reputation. He served a six-year term in the Senate while Woodrow Wilson was president. He staunchly supported the President. He made a record for service that cannot successfully be challenged. He has never gone back on the party that has honored him. He was not listed as a Hoovercrat in 1928. He's a 100 per cent Democrat and he is proud of that fact. He has never aspired to be any bigger than the party to which he owes what political prestige he has.

James Hamilton Lewis will poll the full Democratic strength in Illinois this fall. Republican politicians will not vote for him. They may refrain from voting altogether, but it is too much to expect them to vote for Lewis.

There are in the state of Illinois perhaps as many as 500,000 voters who are rather independent in their way of political thinking and voting. They will decide by their votes who will represent this state in the Senate for the next six years. On this rather large group devolves the task of choosing between Lewis and McCormick. Indications are that Lewis will draw heavily on this vote. Predictions are made at this time that he will get the bulk of it. He will get enough to have a substantial majority.

James Hamilton Lewis will succeed Charles S. Deneen in the United States Senate. He will be seated without investigating any large campaign expenditures. His election will not be tainted with filthy lucre and questionable political activities. If Lewis is elected it will not be because of the money he may spend, but it will be because he is the choice of the voters of Illinois. The Senate will welcome him as a valuable member, a real representative of the great state of Illinois, a statesman of foresight and ability.

THE GOLDEN WEDDING
By David Gray
O Love, whose patient pilgrim feet
Life's longest path have trod;
Whose ministry hath symbolized sweet
The dearer love of God;
The sacred myrtle wreathes again
Thine altar, as of old;
And what was green with summer then,
Is mellowed now to gold.
Not now, as then, the future's face
Is flushed with fancy's light;
But memory with a milder grace,
Shall rule the feast tonight.
Blest was the sun of joy that shone,
Nor less the blinding shower;
The bud of fifty years ago
Is love's perfected flower.
O memory ope thy mystic door;
O dream of youth, return;
And let the light that gleamed of yore
Beside this altar burn
The past is plain; 'twas love designed
E'en sorrow's iron chain;
And mercy's shining thread has twined
With the dark warp of pain.
So be it still. O Thou who hast
That younger bridal blest,
'Til the May-morn of love has passed
To evening's golden west;
Come to this later Cana, Lord,
And, at thy touch divine;
The water of that earlier board
Tonight shall turn to wine.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS TO PARTICIPATE IN THE WASHINGTON BICENTENNIAL
Plans of the United States George Washington Bicentennial for the Celebration of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the birth of George Washington in 1932 provide for the active participation of women's organizations throughout the country. Under the direction of Mrs. John Dickinson Sherman, a member of the Commission, this feature of the celebration is progressing with a sharp impetus. Complete programs depicting the life, character and achievements of George Washington have been prepared for use during 1931 and 1932. Papers on the forty subjects listed in the programs are informative, educational and interesting. The use of the programs by Women's organizations is counted upon to arouse the proper sense of gratitude to the founder of the Republic, that the memory of George Washington and a true impression and service may live forever in the hearts and minds of the people.
Regarding the participation of women in the celebration, Mrs. Sherman says:
"George Washington was known in his day as the 'Defender of the Mothers' and 'The Protector of Daughters'. It is fitting, therefore, that the women of our country take a major part in the coming national celebration. Their part will be a crusade for higher ideals of citizenship and to create a keen appreciation of George Washington in the hearts and minds of the American people. Their participation in this feature of the program of women's activities will be a fine, patriotic service, of distinct worth to their country as well as to all persons within the scope of their influence."
The programs appear in pamphlet form with a list of authorities for reference for each program. The range of subjects covers the life story of George Washington as indicated in the following titles "George Washington and His Family Relationships", "Homes of George Washington", "George Washington's Youth and Manhood", "George Washington the Man of Sentiment", "George Washington the Man of Action", "The Social Life of George Washington", "The Mother of George Washington", "George Washington the Soldier", "George Washington the President", "George Washington the Builder of the Nation", "George Washington the Christian."

FAREWELL PARTY AT METHODIST CHURCH
An informal farewell was held at the Methodist church Monday night for Miss Gertrude McClure, church organist and Mrs. A. G. Dixon and family.
Many members and friends attended and listened to a program of brief speeches by J. A. Reeder, church school superintendent, Mrs. Charles Jenne of the Fourth Division of the Ladies Aid, Mrs. Elmer Richardson and Miss Roberta Luke, the latter representing the class taught by Miss McClure.
The orchestra from the Lovington Methodist church assisted by some players of the Methodist church of Sullivan gave a splendid musical program. Refreshments were served during the social hour.
The program was in charge of Mr. Sabin who presented Mrs. Dixon and Miss McClure each with a beautiful gift, a token of friendship and good wishes in their new ventures, given by their many friends. Miss McClure was presented by the church with a Gladstone bag and Mrs. Dixon was given some beads by the Ladies Aid.

The Way of Life

BY BRUCE BARTON

WHERE TO START
One morning a very unhappy young man laylaid me outside my front door.
He is twenty-two years old, and an idealist. The men in the plant where he works use coarse language, their crudeness grates on him. Also, his job is dull.
I read biographies," he said. "Great men have all had an aim. I seem to be headed nowhere. I haven't found myself."
Reader what would you have said to that boy?
I said that most of the men we read about in biographies did not have any great purpose. A few, such as musicians and painters, had a talent that could not be mistaken. The great majority, of whom Lincoln is the classic example, were just as discouraged in youth as my young friend. They did not know where they were going, but they did not quit. They simply plugged ahead and, usually to their own surprise, won out.
I said, in the second place, that all men are crude and all men are wonderful. The purest saint has secrets in his heart that makes him blush, the worst man has moments of splendor.
Man is the noblest of all creatures, and the most tragic—a little higher than the animals, a little lower than the angels. With all his crudeness, he does his work, sacrifices for his young, and faces blind fate with courage.

"Don't criticize men or judge them," I said to the lad. "Like them. Sympathize with them. Laugh with them. God will do the judging."
Finally I said that, while it might do the younger man good to change his job, I doubted whether it would. He is in a fast-growing industry which has made fortunes and will make many others.
I told him about a friend of mine who was driving through the Kentucky mountains. Wanting to get to Cincinnati for the night, he asked directions of a native.
"Go down this road about ten miles, and take your right turn," the native began. Then he stopped and spat. "No, I think you'd better to go the other way and take your first left." He spat again, thought deeply, and then, in a sudden burst of confidence, exclaimed: "Tell you what, neighbor. If I was aiming to go to Cincinnati I wouldn't start from here."
Most of us want to arrive, but we'd like to start from somewhere else. Maybe I'm wrong, but I have come to the conclusion that it doesn't make much difference where one starts that all businesses are good and all are bad, all are dull and all are thrilling.
And that the most important thing about getting somewhere is not studying maps or wondering about other roads. But starting, right here, where we are.

The Family Doctor

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M. D.

"PROGRESS" VS. LONG LIFE
There is no doubting that this earth was designed for the occupancy of man and for the lower animals, and everything needed for health and long life was placed within their reach and for their benefit.
"Civilization" has brought with it many diseases unknown to the cave dweller, the primitives man. The oldest man I ever saw was 101; he had lived next to nature all his long life; he had not tried to turn night into day, and had lived the way God intended him to live; long life was his reward. It was no accident, no freak of nature that he did this; he simply obeyed nature's laws.
I saw a man this very day, tubbed and togged in the very latest—on his way to the golf links. Apoplexy was written all over him. He wore a flannel suit, soft cap, knee breeches, flat shoes and was smoking furiously to keep his internal machinery "hitting on all six." He had probably never had his toes or fingers in the dirt in his life—nor had he likely ever done a lick of manual labor.
Here he was out seeking health, breathing like a porpoise. He was, doubtless worth plenty of money, man's goal these days, it seems. But a careful observer wouldn't insure his LIFE for five dollars! He was apparently between fifty and sixty years of age—the time when a man should be at his best; dear reader, would you be in his condition for what he has accumulated for his heirs to squander? Frankly, I wouldn't, nor for a hundred times that much.
We make a "great game" of this life of ours—and call it civilization and progress. Is the game worth what it costs? If more people put in a few hours of actual physical labor each day, and followed it with eight hours of good, sound sleep, there wouldn't be so many youngish widows out in the social suburbs. I know I'm ancient, but I'm talking sense!

Hints for the Home

CHOCOLATE
Chocolate is somewhat out of fashion in the summer.
Quite rightly. Why eat chocolate layer cake when we may eat strawberry short-cake? Why pour hot chocolate sauce over our ice cream when we may have crushed raspberries instead? And so on down the line, contrasting the deliciousness of summer fruits with the always-available taste for chocolate.
Yet most of us like chocolate. And chocolate has the big advantage of being always there—always on the pantry shelf, not given to mildew and soft spots if the weather gets warm or damp, not fluctuating in price according to droughts and cloudbursts.
So the housewife turns to chocolate even in mid-summer, thankful for its useful, stand-by qualities.

Here are some good recipes for using it:

CHOCOLATE PUDDING
Melt an ounce and a half of chocolate in a double boiler, and add a tablespoon and a half of corn starch mixed with three-quarters of a cup of sugar. Stir till smooth. Add two cups of hot milk, stirring slowly as you add it, and cook for twenty-five minutes, stirring from time to time. Then a beaten egg yolk and a teaspoon of vanilla. Pour into a baking dish, cover with a meringue, brown in the oven and serve very cold with or without cream.

CHOCOLATE BREAD
Sift together two and a quarter cups of flour, five teaspoons of baking powder a quarter of a cup of sugar, three tablespoons of cocoa and a teaspoon of salt. Add an egg beaten in a cup of milk, and three tablespoons of cooking oil or fat. Mix, and then add a third of a cup of nuts. Bake slowly in a loaf for about forty minutes.

CHOCOLATE JELLY
One pint of boiling water, two pinches of salt, one and a half squares of chocolate, one-third package of gelatine, two level tablespoons of sugar, one teaspoon of vanilla. Put the water, salt and chocolate in a saucepan. Stir over fire until the chocolate melts, then let it boil for three or four minutes. Soften the gelatine in a little cold water and pour the boiling mixture over it. Stir until dissolved, then add sugar and vanilla. Pour into a mould and set aside to harden. Serve with plain or whipped cream.

CHOCOLATE PANCAKES
Mix four tablespoons of flour, two tablespoons of sugar, a cup of cararoon crumbs, and two tablespoons of melted butter with the yolks of six eggs and the whites of three. Add enough milk to make a pancake batter, and fry in small thin pancakes. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve with chocolate fudge sauce, made by melting four tablespoons each of melted chocolate and sugar in half a cup of milk and cooking to make a thick syrup.

RITCHEY SAYS: "WE'LL SHOW 'EM HOW TO PLAY"
"Well, we got licked. Yes sir, they beat us 17 to 3 down at Gays last Sunday. Me and Russell Freeman managed the Sullivan team. We had a good time even if we didn't win the game."
So said Col. Clarence Ritchey Tuesday morning in reporting his Sunday's activities. He continued: "There'll be a different story to tell next Sunday. Me and Sona are rounding up the old Sullivan Maroons and we'll go down and show those Gays boys how to play ball. Yes sir, we'll sure show 'em how next Sunday."

—Mrs. Victor Batman and daughter Beverly Ann of St. Louis returned home Saturday after spending the week with her mother Mrs. Laura Dale.
—Mrs. Inez Reedy, employed in the lacing department of the shoe factory injured her left hand on Monday when the fingers were caught in a lacing machine.
—Charles Monroe of Decatur was a Sullivan business visitor on Tuesday.
—The week at that place.
—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harsh and daughter Amanda came Saturday to spend two weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cummins.

An undertaker once confided to us that a question that always gives him quite a kick is when he has a funeral and some-one asks: "John Jones' funeral! Why is Jones dead?"
The undertaker usually answers: "No, Jones isn't dead. We're just practicing with him."

The fellow was trying his best to carve his restaurant steak. Finally he called the waiter and said:
"Brother, I've eaten all kinds of meat in my day. I don't mind your serving me a piece of a horse that served in the Civil War cavalry. But, please, dear Sir, the next time you serve horse, take off the harness."

They tell about the farmer who was kissing the hired girl. His little son saw him. "Goody, goody, Pa, I caught you kissing Mary."
"Mary!" exclaimed the man "why gracious goodness, sonny. Run along and get me my glasses. I thought it was Ma I was kissin'."

Bill: Fine day George. There's fall in the air.
George: Eh, what's that. I don't hear so well.
Bill: Why there's fall in the air. I said FALL IN THE AIR.
George: Well now, consarn ye! Why should I? Why should I?
"Yes my dear," said the parson to his wife "Things are getting better. The women are reforming. I saw a sign down the street that said 'Ladies Ready to Wear Clothes.'"

"I'm a 100 per cent American. I was born here" boasted the fellow who liked to talk loud.
"Yeah" said the Irishman who had been naturalized "and what did you have when you got here. I at least had a pair of pants and $10 in my pocket. I did not depend on my parents to make me an American, I'm one of my own free will. So why in blazes should you think you're better than me?"

A friend confessed today that he is unable to learn by example, but must be burned by experience. Preaching, warnings, failure of others, leave him unimpressed. He assumes he is an exception until the contrary has been proved.

Reason tells us that refusal to profit by example is expensive stupidity. Imagination prompts us to take a chance, and discover the truth for ourselves.
Fools perceive wisdom, but are unable to heed it.
All of us have some measure of the fool in us. We resent the rules that limit ordinary men. So, although our common sense and reason tell us one thing, our desire to test the rule leads us to do the opposite. Every man is probably wiser than his actions would indicate. Bushart, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Williams, Mrs. Margaret Wright and two children, Mrs. W. H. Birch and Patricia.

The girls wish to thank each and every one in the community of Sullivan who helped make their camping trip possible. Those who patronized our bakery and popcorn sales, the Kiwanis club who so kindly helped in transporting them to camp, Mr. Noah Smith for the roasting cars, the parents who cooperated so willingly that their daughters might enjoy a week of outdoor, wholesome camp life and Mr. White the manager of the Rocks.

At CAMP

The alarm clocks ringing

All birds singing

It's camping time for us

There's no time to fuss.

Finally our cabin, Bide-a-Wee,

Oh, such a happy sight to see!

Our beds all made and work all done

We all shall make merry in the sun.

Then for a swim and a dive or two

No one surely could be blue.

Hikes and trails are our delight

But we're ready for our rest at night.

Our suppers we eat in Pirates

Cave

The cooks' dishwashing for to save

In boating and in swimming too

Aching sunburn is always due.

"The Rocks" are a delight and joy

A joy for any girl or boy

And as Memory paints these pictures in our minds

I'm sure we'll never forget these good times.

ILLINOIS CROP REPORT FOR AUGUST 1ST, 1930

State corn crop, which earlier in the season promised one of the best crops ever raised had declined to 62 per cent on August 1st, due to prolonged summer drought combined with excessive heat in July, according to the joint report issued by the U. S. and Illinois Departments of Agriculture. The decline in the condition of corn continued at the close of the month when this survey was made. State condition is the lowest since 1901 when the August 1st condition was reported at 51 per cent.

Small grain prospects vary to some extent but for the state as a whole are about average or better and of excellent quality. Yields have turned out better than straw indications and test quality is unusually heavy. Threshing is completed in the central and southern areas and nearing completion in the north. This work has progressed with little or no interruption and all grains have been secured in good condition. Soybeans have declined from the earlier favorable prospect to somewhat below average. The prospect for the soybean yield has been seriously reduced but the outlook for soybean forage may be rated as fair unless further damage occurs. All grass, tree, fruit and most of the vegetable crops are reported below average. Broomcorn prospect has been lowered by drought but was reported up to average or better on August 1st. Except plowing operations which have been retarded or prevented by hard soil conditions all farm work is well advanced.

Livestock are still reported in fair condition though beginning to show the effects of the feed shortage in the southern half of the state. The prolonged drought has resulted in a serious water supply problem over most of the central and southern counties. This condition is requiring a great deal of extra time and labor on the part of many individual farmers in order to meet the situation.

No section of the state has escaped varying damage from drought and heat but in a general way corn and late corn conditions on August 1st ranged from average in the north to spotted poor to fair through the central district and to mostly poor or a failure in the south. Bottom lands as a rule show up to advantage this season and have the better crop prospects.

The condition or yield of Illinois crops on August 1st with ten year averages given in parenthesis follows: corn 62% (75); winter wheat 17.8 bu. (16.2); spring wheat 85% (76); oats 76% (76); rye 15 bu. (15.2); barley 85% (84); potatoes 72% (76); soybeans 77% (83); cowpeas 66% (80); alfalfa 76% (87); tame hay 61% (77); pasture 41% (76); apples 37% (53); peaches 0 (44); pecans 56% (58).

Illinois crop production outlook on August 1st with past five year average in parenthesis follows: corn 263,796,000 bu. (326,691,000); winter wheat 35,956,000 bu. (32,078,000); spring wheat 4,407,000 bu. (2,659,000); oats 142,600,000 bu. (145,686,000); barley 9,840,000 bu. (11,647,000); rye 1,080,000 bu. (1,119,000); tame hay 3,876,000 tons (4,330,000); potatoes 4,556,000 bu. (6,215,000); sweet potatoes 960,000 bu. (1,072,000); broomcorn 7,750 tons (7,500) apples 4,800,000 bu. (6,860,000); commercial apples 896,000 bbls. (1,119,000); peaches 0 bushels (1,324,000); pears 368,000 bu. (542,000).

U. S. crop production outlook, August 1st followed by 1929 production and past five year average in parenthesis: corn 2,211,823,000 (2,614,307,000 bu. (2,699,809,000); all wheat 821,000,000 bu. (806,000,000) (833,000,000) oats 1,316,000,000 bu. (1,234,000) (1,372,000,000); barley 40,655,000 bu. (40,533,000) (50,581,000); tame hay 83,460,000 tons (101,786,000) (93,630,000); potatoes 372,557,000 bu. (359,796,000) (393,000,000); sweet potatoes 66,251,000 bu. (84,661,000) (74,100,000); broomcorn 58,800 tons (47,200) (51,200); apples all 146,440,000 bu. (142,978,000) (180,262,000); commercial apples 30,722,000 bbls. (29,011,000) (32,373,000); peaches 48,906,000 bu. (45,789,000) (56,821,000); pears 24,277,000 bu. (21,563,000) (21,384,000); cotton 14,362,000 bales (14,828,000).

THIS YEARS AUTO LICENSE FEES WILL BUILD MANY MILES OF HARD ROADS

Springfield, Ill., August 19—Automobile license fees collected in the first seven months of 1930 by the Automobile department of Secretary of State William J. Straton's office will build 600 miles of hard surfaced pavement. On August 1 the license fees collected were $17,861,452 which will pay for 600 miles of pavement at the figure of slightly less than $30,000 a mile which the State now is paying.

Under State law, all of the collections of the automobile department of the Secretary of State's office are paid into the road fund in the State treasury. The license fee total on August 1 was $1,508,000 more than the collections on the same date last year.

An increase in all classes of registrations, except dealers, was responsible for the large fee increase. Passenger cars increased from 1,332,862 on August 1, 1929 to 1,372,717 on August 1, 1930. The difference is 39,855. The truck increase was 5,875. The increase in motorcycles was 363 and 5,486 now are being operated in Illinois. Trailers increased from 4,111 to 5,881.

The August 1 report shows an increase of $390,000 in the collections of the corporation department of the Secretary of State's office. The collections of this department on August 1 of this year were $3,661,000 as compared with $3,270,000 on the same date last year.

The report also shows the total fee collections of the Secretary of State's office for the first seven months of 1930 to be $21,522,691.00, making this office by far the greatest revenue producer of the state government.

Hints for the Home

PEACHES
Peaches are, and for the next few weeks will be, at their best and cheapest. So have them every day and more than once a day, if your family likes them.

And if you use a little imagination in serving them there are few families that will tire of them before the end of the season. Here are some ways of using them to suggest new ideas to the cook:

PEACH FOAM

Press three or four ripe peaches through a colander making one cup pulp and juice together. Stir one envelope gelatine with one-half cup of sugar and dissolve in one cup of boiling water. Add peach pulp and juice flavored with one tablespoon lemon juice or almond extract and pinch of salt. Set in cool place and when beginning to jell add the well-beaten whites of two eggs, and beat all together until very thick so it will not separate. Pour into molds and set in cool place until firm. Serve with custard sauce.

BAKED PEACHES

Plunge the ripe peaches into boiling water for a moment, then the skins will rub off easily as the skin of a scalded tomato. Arrange in a rather deep baking dish, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and dot the tops of the peaches with bits of butter. Add a cup of boiling water to the baking pan and bake in a steady, moderate oven. Serve hot or cold.

PEACH FRITTERS

Peel and split ripe peaches and sprinkle with powdered sugar and let stand for an hour. Drain, dip in fritter batter, fry brown in deep fat, drain, sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve.

PEACH DELIGHT

Peel and split ripe peaches and fill a baking dish, sprinkling each layer of fruit with sugar. Dot the top with butter, add a cup of water and sprinkle with flour. Make a crust of one and one-half cups of flour sifted with a little salt and a teaspoon of baking powder, rubbing into the flour then half a cup of lard and adding ice water to mix. Cover the peaches with a thin sheet of the dough, split the crust and serve with fresh cream.

FAMOUS JERSEY BULL REMAINS IN MOULTRIE CO.

(By Eden Martin)

Roy E. Martin of south of Sullivan has purchased the half interest which Paul Wilson held in Fauvics Gumboge Lad No. 215111 which will keep this famous Jersey Bull in Moultrie county, at least part of the time. The other half interest is owned by Mr. Wilcox prominent Jersey breeder of Pana.

Fauvics Gumboge Lad has established a wide reputation as a sire throughout the country and especially in the state of Illinois, having been pronounced the best Jersey bull in the state by a prominent judge who stated that he was among the best half dozen sires in the country. He was shown twice at the state fair at Springfield, winning first place in the state and second in the open both times.

A daughter of this bull belonging to Ed Bayne held the state record for production for three consecutive years, her best record having only been beaten by the Jess Powell cow, which produced twelve pounds more fat last year, taking the state record away from her. The Powell cow is also a daughter of Fauvics Gumboge Lad. Her record last year was 635 lbs. fat in 359 days. She has the distinction also of making an excellent show record during the same period while she was on test. Among the other outstanding daughters of Fauvics Gumboge Lad now on test in Moultrie county, Oral Bundy has one which is making an enviable record, and this remarkable sire is credited with his share of glory for the splendid records which Moultrie county has established in dairy testing.

A short time ago a field agent of the American Jersey Cattle Club at New York was here seeking a sire to head the Jersey herd of the University of Nebraska and stated that among the bulls which he had considered in a search which had extended over several states, he considered in a search which had extended over several states, he considered Fauvics Gumboge Lad much more desirable for the purpose than any which he had seen. In behalf of the university he made the owners a very attractive offer, but it was said that Mr. Wilcox did not desire to sell and it was refused.

Jersey breeders who appreciate the strains represented by Fauvics Gumboge Lad will, no doubt, rejoice at the arrangement which prevents his being taken permanently out of the county.

from the Republican party made stirring appeals for party loyalty. Congressman Henry Rainey of Carrollton, one of the orators in the House at Washington told of the accomplishment of Democratic ideals, such as the income tax law and federal reserve banking system after the Republican party chieftains had long opposed them. He cited the beneficial legislation written into the nation's law during the first term of Woodrow Wilson as president, before the World War engrossed the nation's attention.

The chairman of the platform committee was Michael Igoo of Chicago. The platform as adopted embodies the ideas of Senator Lewis and the party chieftains. Any differences of opinion as to the various things stated in the platform were ironed out during conference Tuesday night and no opposition was voiced on the floor of the convention.

Editors Honored

An interesting feature of the convention was the presence of what were perhaps three oldest and most prominent members of the Democratic newspaper fraternity. Their work was given recognition by their being introduced to the delegates. These men were Charles Bliss of Hillsboro, Joseph Page of Jerseyville and Thomas Benton Shoaff of Shelbyville. All of these editors are past 80 years of age but are still on the firing line, engaged in newspaper work and steadfastly advocating the principles of the Democratic party.

G. O. P. Friday

The Republican state convention will meet in Springfield today (Friday).

Both of these conventions had a short session in April following the primary and then adjourned until August to see how political issues would shape up by that time.

—Miss Ethel Birch has as her house guests, Mrs. R. C. Anthony, Mr. and Mrs. William Soutter and J. L. Case of Chicago. Mr. Case is the inventor and manipulator of the first dirigible airship in the United States, better known as lighter than air. He also holds the record of having attained the highest altitude in a gas balloon. Miss Birch accompanied them to the State Fair on Tuesday and they visited in St. Louis Wednesday and Thursday and will return to Chicago Sunday.

TO GET RID OF ANTS

House-inhabiting ants, such as the little red or Pharaoh's ant, and other species that get into furniture, woodwork, etc., are difficult to eradicate because of their inaccessibility. If the nest can be located, destroy the inmates by injecting into the opening a little carbon disulphide, kerosene, or gasoline. Use an oil can or syringe. Take care of course, to keep fire away from these inflammable materials. Dusting sodium fluoride about the runways of ants will kill them. Leave no food where ants can get at it.

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months. I have continued taking one teaspoonful in warm water every morning. I then weighed 217 pounds, was always bothered with pains in my back and lower part of abdomen and sides.

"Now I am glad to say I am a well woman, feel much stronger, years younger and my weight is 170 pounds. I do not only feel better but I look better, so all my friends say.

"I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that is in it." Mrs. S. A. Solomon, New Bern, N. C., Jan. 1930." "P. S. You may think I am exaggerating by writing such a long letter but truly I feel indebted to you for putting out such wonderful salts that I cannot say enough."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at Sam B. Hall's and druggists the world over. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—walk a little each day. Do not overeat.—Adv.

SULLIVAN AND SHOES

People of Sullivan have done a wonderful piece of work for themselves and the community by doing what was necessary to secure the new branch plant of the Brown Shoe company.

Some times one wonders as to the benefit of community grants and assistance to new industries, but Sullivan has proven that at least once in a while the return justifies the expense and labor.

The Brown Shoe company plant has created a new Sullivan—Sullivan that seems destined to steady growth and progress. The shoe plant is the little city's only important industry, but its operation has made all the difference in the world. Decatur congratulates people of Sullivan both for good judgment and their ability to do what was necessary to realize their ambition.—Decatur Review.

—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brandenburger and son Byron spent the week end visiting relatives in Freeburg and other parts of St. Clair county. On their return Sunday night they were accompanied by Mr. Brandenburger's oldest sister, Mrs. Philip Maurer, who is spending the week here.

The only surviving child of the late William Bolin is Mrs. Amanda Bolin of this city.

Those at the Wiard home besides Mr. and Mrs. Wiard were Mrs. Carrie Winn and son Plum Winn and wife and child of Tipton, Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Purvis, son Francis and daughter Dorothy; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Watkins of Findlay and Mrs. Bolin.

At the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pound there was another gathering which was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Homer Johnson of this city, Roy Johnson of Bennett, Iowa and Eva Bolin of Tipton, Iowa, Mrs. Earl Ray and daughter Marguerite of Decatur.

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

FINAL INSTALLMENT

... All the faces seemed oddly familiar at moments and then seemed strange again. So did things the men said. At times she was like one slowly coming out of ether, recalling first the happenings that had occurred before she went under: doctors—a nurse—packing—flight—some terrible situation—children—those children—She had a panic over that and cried out, and the man who said he was a doctor gave her another dose. There was more that was horrible—some nightmare—At last she slept.

When she awoke things were a little better. The familiar face of her nurse was near her—the nurse who had attended her in Chicago—and she was in a quiet room bright with sunshine—She had liked that nurse, but she could not remember having brought her to New York—Or was she still in Chicago?

"Oh, Miss Driscoll," she said brokenly, "is—it really—you."

"It really is," Miss Driscoll buoyantly confirmed. "But please don't talk, Miss Carrington. Go right to sleep again."

The doctor who had brought her home came to the bedside at this, and his expression was so radiant that Eve was impressed by it. Miss Driscoll was radiant also, and the two appeared to have some radiant understanding—Eve carried into unconsciousness the memory of this radiance—and its contrast with the tragic face of the young man who had been in the group—and the eyes of those children—and the even more recent nightmare—a black wall—

"But, my God, Doctor!" Hamilton exploded late the next night, "make allowance for me. Of course I'm happy over her recovery. Isn't it what I've been working for all along? But can't you see my position? She doesn't know me from Adam. I've got to win her all over again."

"You hadn't won her very much so far," Carrick frankly said.

"You can see her for a few minutes tomorrow afternoon," he promised. "In the meantime I'll pave the way for you by telling her tomorrow noon as much as she's able to hear, about her case and her Good Samaritan. That ought to start you off with a bang, and I'll keep her convalescing here another week or two, so you can finish the job. She's got to be mighty quiet for a while."

"Just now the girl is having some black hours—still thinking of those drowning boys and afraid of another lapse. But the tragedy is a month behind her, and a month does a lot for patients of her age. It's up to me to keep her mind at ease on the other points, and you can help when the time

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

comes."

"How?"

"By furnishing cheerful companionship," Carrick grinned. Hamilton presented himself at the door of Eve's sitting-room at five the next afternoon, temporarily obscured by a great armful of chrysanthemums. Miss Driscoll admitted him, with an eloquent "She's all ready for you!" she said. She too had listened to the account of the Samaritan's good deeds.

He found Eve lying on a divan which had been sent to the sitting room for use during her convalescence. She gave him both her hands, but for a moment did not speak.

To be talking to her from that distance, as a man she was meeting for the first time, was the most racking experience he had ever endured. His lips stiffened as he tried to smile, and the desperate depression he had felt since the experiment strengthened with every moment. She was looking at him, she was interested, but it was clear that her interest was based on gratitude. Nevertheless, here he was, starting out with a fair field and some favor.

"There's only one thing I ask," Eric told Eve at this point in his reflections. "I want to be allowed to read to you and talk to you and otherwise help to amuse you during your convalescence."

"I'm really beginning to feel like myself," Eve was telling him when Henderson's call was announced. "I think Doctor Carrick is entirely too cautious. I'll be able to go home in a few days more and do my resting there."

Hamilton shook his head and bromidically pointed out that they must make haste slowly.

Her meeting with Henderson, he now observed, was without sentiment.

"You understand, don't you?" was her opening question; and Henderson, in a voice roughened by emotion, assured her that he did. Moreover, he held Eve's hand longer than even such a reunion justified, and he continued to hold it, drawing his chair close to her couch and patting her hand at intervals with his disengaged one. His manner was sympathetic and paternal, and hers held no trace of fear of him. Very reluctantly Eric left them together; and Henderson, who had been carefully coached for the interview by Carrick, made a few brief comments on the meeting and went straight to the point of his visit.

"It may relieve your mind, my dear, to know that I have jilted you," he comfortably mentioned, blinking at her with his near-sighted eyes. "When a girl runs away to get out of marrying me, she doesn't have to add any explanations afterward. I've grasped the idea that she doesn't want me. Bloch says I'm not subtle, and perhaps I'm not. But I can get that much."

"There's no one in the world I'd rather have as a friend," Eve said. "And as a manager," she added more self-consciously. "But perhaps you are through with me."

"I'll never be through with you but you are free to marry any one you like."

"I don't want to marry any one," Eve murmured.

"Not today, perhaps, or tomorrow, but—"

Henderson now knew all about the formal marriage, and also something about the whirlwind courtship.

"I'm horribly sorry for the way I've treated you," Eve unsteadily confessed. "I can't believe I did such things. But of course you realize that I didn't know—I wasn't responsible—and I was terribly afraid of you when I ran away. That sounds idiotic now, but it's the way I felt."

"I understand everything," Henderson again patted her hand, and Eve thus reminded that he still held it, gently took it from him. Henderson sighed.

"Well, that's settled," he said philosophically.

At the end of a week Eve was permitted to have her dinner in the hotel dining-room with Hamilton.

"Nothing there exciting enough to hurt her," Carrick decided, "and it will be a little change."

But it was rather exciting, after all. It was quite unusually exciting to meet Hamilton's eyes and to follow the intonations of his voice when he spoke to her. The things he said were so casual and his voice and expression were so eloquent. Over the desert his guard dropped for a moment.

"Of course you know I'm mad about you," he mentioned. "Carrick and your journal may have told you that. I have been from the first day I met you. But I'm not going to say anything about it just yet," he hastily added.

When he was leaving her at her sitting room door an hour later he showed a similar restraint. They had made enormous strides in the past few days and his spirits were effervescent. Besides, Carrick had assured him that the light vein was the right vein.

"Do you see this door mat?" Hamilton asked, pointing down to the useful object lying in the outer hall just beyond Eve's door.

"Yes."

"Well, any other man as much in love with you as I am would be spending the night on it. But I'm not, I'm going sensibly to bed."

He went away exultant over the little laugh as she closed the door.

"I said I wouldn't make love to you till you were well," he remarked the next afternoon, "so of course I won't. But you're almost well, so I want to call your attention to the fact that you have the most adorable mouth in the world. There's something about it—"

"If you joke like that you'll spoil everything."

"Joke! Great Scott! Is that your idea of joking? It isn't mine. You see," he explained, "you don't understand me yet, but you're going to. My point—the point I'll make when I really start to talk to you—is that I simply can't wait for you much longer. I can't live without you. I can't really breathe any more when I'm not with you."

"Even at that you have about twelve hours a day for breathing," she pointed out, and softened the words with the smile he loved.

"What of it. What about the twelve when I can't breathe? Do you like to feel that I'm struggling for breath when I'm away from you?"

"You're impossible," she said, still with the adorable smile.

"Only when I'm not with you, darling. When I'm with you, as I shall point out to you sometime, I'm a superman, ready to play golf with the planets. There's nothing I can't do—"

"Except to stop talking like that."

"I'm not talking like that. I'm just telling you how I'm going to talk some day, when I really begin—"

"I think," he casually remarked the next evening, "Wednesday might be a good day for us to be married all over again."

Her eyebrows rose.

"How utterly absurd you can be when you give your mind to it. We might even go to the same little parsonage and the same old minister. They weren't very attractive, but there's a certain sentiment in choosing the same setting."

"I wish you wouldn't say such foolish things!"

"Surely you're not going to deny our expediency marriage," he sighed. "Of course it was only a bluff, but it's a beautiful memory and it was fine practice for the next time we do it. By the way, what have you done with the wedding ring I gave you?"

"Is that a new joke?"

Under her tone he sobered.

"No, dear. We really did go through a marriage ceremony."

With the understanding that it was purely a matter of form—

"A marriage ceremony—a matter of form?" She gasped. "I can't believe it. What are you talking about?"

"You needn't believe it if you don't want to," he said comfortably. "It's of no importance whatever. It was simply a precaution we had to take to protect you when you were so afraid of Henderson. It didn't mean anything but that, and it can be annulled any time. You have your marriage certificate somewhere around—in your handbag I think."

He told the story simply and with sudden seriousness.

"You were in a state of shivering terror of Henderson," he ended, "though you didn't know why, and Carrick and I, who didn't know anything about him, of course, were afraid he had some hold over you. We know now that it was your abysmal dread of the marriage."

She nodded.

"It's like hearing about some one else."

He decided that they had been serious long enough.

"Keep on thinking how wonderful I am," he invited. "And some day soon I'll tell you how wonderful you are. There never was a girl like you since the world began, and there'll never be another. It isn't my love for you that makes me think so; I'll make that point clear when I start. It's you. I'm going to tell you all about the heart of you, and the courage of you, and the dignity of you, and the mind of you, and the magnificence of you—"

"Don't!" she begged, laughing, yet confused.

"I will," he promised. "But not yet, of course."

After all this restraint it was disconcerting to have her make the remark she made during their honeymoon a fortnight later.

"I'll forgive you for rushing the wedding this week," she said dreamily. "What I can't forgive is that you didn't rush it last week. The first day I was really myself again I felt that I had loved you a thousand years. I didn't know you, but I loved you. I was head over heels in love with you at the end of the week; and by that time I knew you, too. If you had tried to leave me I'd have pursued you with shrieks."

Her arm was around his neck now and she gently pinched his ear.

"Yet think of the time we've wasted since then!" she sighed.

THE END.

THE WEATHER

Showers and cooler weather have made this a different sort of country to live in. The farmers no longer moan about how little corn they are going to get, but rather they are estimating how much it will make. You hear estimates that many fields will do as well as 50 bushels per acre. There are many poor fields, however, that will cut down the average.

A good soaking shower visited this part of the state Sunday near the noon hour. This with previous showers since the heat wave has broken, has put life back into the fields. Lawns are beginning to look green and even the pastures give promise of forage. Soybeans look refreshed but no one seems to want to venture a guess as to how much the bean crop was hurt by the hot weather.

This has been the week of the State Fair. Lots of livestock and politicians have been on display at Springfield. Not all of the braying which filled the air was done by the mules on display in the fairgrounds.

Wednesday the Democrats told how the world ought to be run. They let a woman chairman boss the show, but State Chairman Tom Donovan had things all planned ahead so everything ran smoothly.

Today (Friday) the Republicans will hold forth in the Armory. Ever since the Republicans split up into Small and Anti-Small factions they have had their meetings in the Armory where plenty of guns and ammunition are available should either side get out of control. The G. O. P. brethren will resolute and point with pride. They will make speeches telling that this country is prosperous, but the Democrats are too dumb to know when they are well off and so they make a lot of noise and that causes stock market busts and low prices for grain and all of the other things that patriots like Elmer Bowers, Buck Spauld, John Davis and that kind of fellows complain about. These G. O. P. statesmen will try and dope out a way by which Mrs. McCormick, whom the Democrats have dubbed "Lady Beautiful" can exchange a million or so of dollars for a few hundred thousand votes. Ruth has the coin and she's willing to spend it to buy what she wants, but a few narrow-minded Democrats and insurgent Republican senators say that if Ruthie spends too much of her kale, they'll be very impotent to her and when she knocks at the Senate doors (should misfortune of that kind befall) they will tell her to go back home and wash the dishes, to tend the kiddies and milk the Holsteins. In fact some of these sons of wild jackasses (as Senator Moses calls them) have been so rude as to say that the lady in question has spent too much already, and goodness knows, she hasn't really begun, for the big fight is still ahead.

So with all of these problems the G. O. P. will be vexed. The Chicago gang will want to be wet and the downstate gang will want to be dry. Mrs. McCormick says she's dry politically, but the Trib and the Chicago gang that helped

BETHANY AVIATOR KILLED IN SERVICE AT SAN ANTONIO

Hugh Scott received a telegram Monday about one o'clock stating that his son, Robert, had been killed about nine o'clock in an aerial collision at San Antonio, Texas. He and another young man of the same age from Oklahoma were each in a plane and when about two hundred feet in the air their planes had a collision and each was killed.

Robert Lee Scott was born near Florence, Alabama, January 11, 1907. When ten years old he came with his parents to Bethany. He graduated from the Bethany township High school in the class of 1925. SOYBEANS

The soybean was introduced into the United States as early as 1804, but only in the last 10 years have we really begun to appreciate it. Production is now reaching commercial proportions, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. The crop has many things in its favor. It produces a large yield of beans and an excellent forage. It is easy to grow and to harvest. The beans have great possibilities in the production of oil, meal, and human food and industrial products. Soybean production will continue to increase as we find better methods and machinery for handling the crop and still more uses for the soybean and its products for industrial purposes.

Hab. 3:18—"Yet I will rejoice in the Lord, I will joy in the God of my salvation."

The old prophet has just said, although the fig tree shall cease to blossom, and there shall be no fruit in the vine, the fields void of grain, the flocks cease to increase, and no herd in the stalls, "Yet I will rejoice in the Lord." Habakkuk was not going to let a famine of material things make a pessimist of him and rob him of his joy, his happiness was not dependent on stocks and bonds or well filled granaries, but came from the God of his salvation. It might be well for us while passing through this present drought and crop failure to borrow the old prophets prospectus of life and use it. It seems so natural for most of us to lean on the arm of flesh just as long as that arm does not fail us, and only when it has become too short to bring to us the material blessings of life, do we turn from it to the far reaching arm of the great God of the universe.

We truly believe the hand of divine providence is in the drought and that God will be recognized, and if we refuse to acknowledge him and continue to trust in the arm of flesh, in loving kindness he often removes the material things that have hid his face from us, and the physical disaster is turned into a spiritual blessing. God would teach us through the failure of material things the folly of trusting in them.

SOYBEANS AS GREEN MANURE

Soybeans grown as a green-manure crop should be plowed under at the blossom stage to insure the maximum soil improvement. The United States Department of Agriculture has found. Soybeans blossom in from 30 to 95 days after planting, depending on the variety, time of planting, and soil and climatic conditions. Most of the nitrogen has been gathered in the plant by blossom time. About the maximum amount of organic matter has been produced and the plant is still tender and juicy enough to decay within 35 to 45 days. If allowed to grow longer, the plant becomes woody and decays slowly. The crop should be covered by about 3 inches of soil, so the plants will have sufficient soil moisture even in drouths to decay. If covered with less soil, decay may be retarded by lack of moisture; if deeper, air will be excluded and decay retarded.

"Why not have one of the neighbor women write her and make that suggestion."

Feed Shortage Impending

SEES AGRICULTURAL AGENT FOR ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

(By H. J. Schwietert, I. C. R. R. General Agent.)

Feed shortage is staring the farmers in the face as fall and winter approach. So much time has been consumed in talking of the surpluses that we have overlooked the fact that there is bound to be a shortage along the lines of hay and other forage crops. The hay crop this year in the hay producing belts has not been excessive. In fact it has not been what was expected. The dry weather has cut that crop down very much and we may look forward to high prices for all kinds of good hay.

The corn crop has been almost ruined as compared to other years. The production is going to be hundreds of millions of bushels below last year and previous years. It does not seem possible help the corn crop very much. The loss suffered account the drouth is irreparable. This does not only mean a shortage of corn but it means a shortage of fodder for the livestock.

Save Straw for Feed

With these facts staring us in the face it is incumbent upon everyone of us to diligently apply ourselves in providing all the feed stuffs possible for our live stock. The straw stacks should be conserved and every ton of straw available for feeding purposes should be carefully housed for future use. The fields of corn that are not going to make corn for commercial purposes should be harvested stalks and all for putting into silos, or if you do not have a silo, it should be put into the shock and fed during the winter months. Or better still, it should be shredded and mixed with other feeds and given to the live stock in that way. However it may be fed, it should be saved for it will be needed.

Hold Your Cattle

The saving of feed is especially important for the beef cattle man and the dairyman. Cattle are being dumped on the market because of poor pastures and dairy cows are being sold for the same reason. In fact many of them are being sold without reason. Some of our farmers have become panic stricken and are dumping their cattle on the markets regardless of price and their real value. This is unfortunate as in many cases it will include the breeding stock. Next year the reaction will set in. Breeding stock must again be had and the purchase of same will be made at much higher prices than they were sold for. By all means save your breeding stock.

Higher Prices in Prospect

The present outlook is that beef and dairy products will both be high in price. For months we have stated that dairying would come back and we have not changed our position in this connection. The dry weather which has cut down our pastures and feed has also lowered production of milk which in turn has affected production of all other dairy products. Therefore, milk is going to be higher in price and butter and cheese and other dairy products are going to be higher in price. This will not be easily overcome, as many farmers have sold a part of all of their dairy herds and the cows that are left on our farms will be unable to make up the shortage that is now contemplated even by the best of feeding. However many of the herds that are left on our farms will be underfed and as a result there will still be a shortage of liquid milk.

In some sections of the country there is still time to overcome some of the feed shortage by seeding various forage crops that will make for late fall and winter forage. This is especially true of the South where soy beans, sorghum grasses, Austrian peas, winter vetch, and other similar crops may be stored and grown to advantage. Any kind of crop suitable for feed should be stored for the lean days that are ahead. There is still time to save part of a bad situation but it must be done now. The conditions call for quick action. A word to the wise is sufficient. Do it now. Save all the feed stuffs possible.

KIWANIS CONVENTION IN SPRINGFIELD SEPT 22-24

Springfield, Ill., August 13—Registration for the annual Illinois-Eastern Iowa district Kiwanis convention September 22-24 in this city, will open here Friday of this week.

Approximately 1,000 Kiwanians and their wives will attend the conclave, representing the 102 clubs of the district whose membership totals 5,600.

Chicago is expected to furnish the largest registration from any one city. Plans are under way to bring the Cook County Kiwanians to the convention in a special train via the Chicago and Alton, it was stated by Henry A. Dornmeyer of that city, district secretary, who is assisting local Kiwanians in arranging the convention.

Throughout the district, local clubs are selecting their official delegates. District Governor Cope Callan, Urbana, Ill., has urged that clubs not limit their representation to official delegates but to send as many members as possible to the gathering.

Engaged in whipping into shape the final details of the convention program, the local committee has taken cognizance of the fact that for many of the Kiwanians, the Springfield convention will mark their first visit to a region so closely identified with the life of Abraham Lincoln. Trips to Lincoln's tomb, home, and the historic Old Salem Park, near Petersburg, will be offered.

Kiwanians who plan to attend the convention should address their registration blank to the Springfield Kiwanis club.

Scrap Book

MY LOVE

By James Russell Lowell

Not as all other women are
Is she that to my soul is dear;
Her glorious fancies come from far,
Beneath the silver evenin'-star,
And yet her heart is ever near.

Great feelings hath she of her own
Which lesser souls may never know;
God giveth them to her alone,
And sweet they are as any tone
Wherewith the wind may choose to blow.

Yet in herself she dwelleth not,
Although no home were half so fair;
No simplest duty is forgot,
Life hath no dim and lowly spot
That doth not in her sunshine share.

She doeth little kindnesses,
Which most leave undone, or despise;
For naught that sets one heart at ease,
And giveth happiness or peace,
Is low-esteemed in her eyes.

She hath no scorn or common things,
And, though she seem of other birth,
Round us her heart intwines and clings,
And patiently she folds her wings
To tread the humble paths of earth.

Blessing she is: God made her so,
And deeds of week-day holiness
Fall from her noiseless as the snow,
Nor hath she ever chanced to know
That aught were easier than to bless.

She is most fair, and thereunto
Her life doth rightly harmonize;
Feeling or though that was not true
Ne'er made less beautiful the blue
Unclouded heaven of her eyes.

She is a woman: one in whom
The spring-time of her childish years
Hath never lost its fresh perfume,
Though knowing well that life
Hath room.

For many blights and many tears,
I love her with a love as still
As a broad river's peaceful might
Which, by high tower and lowly mill,
Seems following its own wayward will,
And yet doth ever flow aright.

And, on its full, deep breast serene,
Like quiet isles my duties lie;
It flows around them and between,
And makes them fresh and fair

and green,
Sweet homes wherein to live and die.

SUCCESS AND FAILURE

Genius, that power that dazzles mortal eyes,
Is off' but perseverance in disguise.
Continuous effort in itself implies,
In spite of countless falls, the power to rise.
Twixt failure and success the point's so fine,
Men know not when they touch the line.

As the tide goes clear out it comes again clear in.
In business, 'tis the wisest men that win.
But Oh! how often when shades of doubt dismay,
With little more persistence, courage, vim,
Success will dawn o'er fortune's cloudy rim.

Then take this honey from the bitterest cup,
No real falls, so long as one still tries,
For seeming setbacks make the strong man wise.
There is no defeat, in truth, save from within,
Unless you're beaten there, you're sure to win."
