

MUTUALINS. PROTECTION FOR HOMES

Attack Made by Decatur Herald May Give Certificate Holders Wrong Impression. Two Local Companies Absolutely Reliable.

Many people of this community have been somewhat puzzled this past week relative to the matter of mutual life insurance. This frame of mind is due to a series of articles which are appearing in the Decatur Herald attacking this form of insurance and contending that most of the so-called mutual benefit associations in this part of the state are insolvent.

There are for such associations represented in this community. The oldest is the Moultrie County Mutual of which C. W. Green is secretary-manager; next in age of service is the Sullivan Mutual Association of which J. F. Gibbon is manager. Jack Baker is manager of an association that has Urbana as its office location and Jim Cummins has an association called the

BAKERY SELLS BREAD AT 7c A LOAF

Mistakes in type-setting are made in the best regulated shops. One such occurred last week in the advertisement of the Home Town Bakery, where white bread was listed at 10c a loaf. It ought to have been 7c a loaf. The Bakery's bread trade is growing rapidly and three bakers are now busily employed while Mrs. Basden and Miss Mary Kenney wait on the customers.

Home-Coming Today At Township High To Be Gala Affair

Beginning with Pep Meeting in Morning and Ending with Play at Night, There will be Something Stirring Every Minute.

All has been hustle and bustle and pleasant anticipation at the Sullivan Township High School this week, while preparations were under way for the big Home coming festivities which take place today (Friday).

The pep meeting at 11:00 a. m. promises to give a great deal of support for the winning of the Homecoming game, (Villa Grove vs. Sullivan). Among the alumni speakers to appear on the program will be "Jobey" Dunscomb, Superintendent of Windsor High School, who is a former athlete of S. T. H. S.

There is much discussion about how to make a turtle run for the turtle race which takes place at 11:30 a. m. There are several students training turtles for the race. Very few of the students have had experience with racing turtles.

Classes and organizations have worked out some plan for the All-School Parade at 1:30 p. m. and promise a good parade. The parade will assemble near High School Campus on Hamilton street and march south to Harrison Street, thence east to Van Buren, south to Jefferson around the south, east and north sides of the square to Main, thence north to Victory field.

Mr. Scheer has succeeded in getting a large number of chickens for the Homecoming supper. No one is sure where they are all coming from, but, nevertheless, they're sure to taste good. The banquet will be served from 5:30 to 7:30.

BRUCE SLUGGERS WENT DOWN TO DEFEAT SUNDAY

The Colored Boys baseball team from Decatur was just a little huskier and had more ability than was expected and the Bruce Sluggers bit the dust on Kinsel's diamond at Bruce Sunday afternoon to the tune of 10 to 6.

A good crowd turned out, despite the fact that Windsor too had a two-color game and lots of fans took their baseball via radio, listening in on the Cardinal-Athletics world series games.

The same Colored sons of swat who trimmed Bruce Sunday have been booked for a return game and Ot Kinsel is going to strengthen up some weak spots on his lineup so they can be given a hearty reception and sent back home with a basket of goose-eggs.

This return game will be played at Bruce next Sunday afternoon.

CITY COUNCIL MAY MOVE MEETING PLACE TO LIGHT OFFICE

At Monday night's meeting of the city council the matter of changing the meeting place to the City Light office was discussed.

There is sufficient room in that office for holding the council meetings. The place is always heated and easily accessible.

The city hall is a big barn-like structure, an architectural atrocity. The entire upper story is used for council meetings, although the desk of the mayor and clerk and the council table take up about one 20th of the floor space. It takes lots of coal to heat this big room for the council meetings and the city officials feel that it would be a move toward economy to change the city's headquarters to the light plant office.

BLASTING THE STUMPS TO MAKE ROOM FOR THE CITY'S FUTURE DEAD

Contractor Loeb and a number of helpers were busy this week blasting the stumps out of the new addition to Greenhill cemetery and in some parts of the old cemetery. The dynamite blasts sounded like a continuous celebration.

Road Work Progress Assures Bethany of Hard Road Outlet

Contractors on all Units of Work Are Plugging Along and Doing A Satisfactory Job. Local Labor Employed and Well Paid.

Bethany's dream of a hard road outlet is almost realized and that the road to Dalton City will be completed this fall is now a practical certainty.

Moore Brothers Construction company is rapidly approaching Bethany with the pouring of the slab on route 132. The work started at Dalton City and has been progressing very satisfactorily southeasterly toward Bethany.

The other work on route 132 is also coming along in good shape. Watts Construction Company of Winchester is making good progress on the Okaw bridge. All but three of the bridge piers have been built and the superstructure of one span has been put into place. Russell Harshman poured the footings this week for a good-sized bridge on the Chester Horn right of way.

All of this work has been handled in such way as to merit the hearty commendation of the people of Moultrie county. Headquarters for the construction gangs has been at Bethany and that community is enjoying a measure of prosperity because of this fact.

While much complaint has been registered in some parts of the state because of low wages paid for road work, no fault can be found with Moore Brothers. This company has employed all local help possible and the wages paid were 41c an hour for most work. The minimum wage paid was 30c per hour. The company has operated efficiently and its foremen have shown ability to cope with any difficulties that have arisen. On the last Sunday in September the company operated its mixers and poured a piece of slab. That was an exception to their rule of operation and was the only Sunday on which they have worked since going into the road building business.

CITY ELECTRIC RATES HAVE BEEN REDUCED

City Council by Ordinance Order Cut Which Will be Substantial Aid to Patrons of Light and Power Plant.

The rates for current furnished by the Sullivan light and power plant was substantially reduced by an ordinance passed by the city council at its regular meeting on Monday night.

This new rate will go into effect on the statements mailed Nov. 1st for October service.

The rate for the first 25 kilowatt hours of light service were reduced 2 cents per kilowatt hour. All over the first 25 will be at the old rate of 8c. The minimum charge will be $1.00 per month.

The power rate will remain as at present; 8c for the first 100 K. W. H. but has been given a substantial reduction of 2c per K. W. H. on all used above the first 100. The minimum power rate is $2.50 per month.

A refrigerator rate was adopted. It is a new rating and is 5c straight per K. W. H. with a minimum monthly rate of $2.50.

The heat rate remains the same as heretofore. 5c per K. W. H. for the first 35 and 3c for all additional.

Where a refrigerator unit and heat unit is on one meter the rate is 5c per K. W. H. for the first 70 and 3c for all additional.

Ten per cent discount is allowed where the bills are paid by the 10th of the month.

Supt. Cunningham called attention to the fact that the rates are only slightly higher on the lighting than those of the C. I. P. S. in neighboring cities. That company's rate is 10c net per kilowatt hour and if payment is not made by the 10th of the month 10 per cent is added to the bill. The Sullivan rate for the first 25 K. W. H. is 12c less a 10 per cent discount, which makes it 10.8 cents net.

If plans of the city's electric department develop as now contemplated Sullivan may look for more reductions in future years. The light plant at the present time is a well-paying proposition. The payments still due Fairbanks-Morse & Co., for the Diesel Oil burning engines are being retired faster than they become due.

KIWANIS HAD BIG MEETING FRIDAY; 3 MORE NEW MEMBERS

The local Kiwanis club was host Friday night at a banquet for the teachers of the Sullivan schools, their husbands and wives. The meeting was held in the Masonic Dining room. Following the banquet and program, a bridge party was held in the ante-room.

President Joe McLaughlin presided. Three new members were introduced—Rev. C. E. Barnett, L. N. McMullin and Loren Brumfield.

Judge Sentel made an address of welcome to the guests and this was responded to by Glenn Kilby for the high school teachers and Miss Etha Lindsay for the grade schools. Mrs. Daisy McPeeters spoke for the Parent-Teachers Association and Rev. A. E. Turner for the Sullivan ministry.

The main speaker of the evening was Mrs. Cora B. Ryman of Decatur, who is superintendent of the Macon county schools. She is a pleasing speaker and a favorite with Sullivan audiences.

During the evening a quartette composed of J. B. Martin, D. G. Carnine, O. F. Cochran and J. Eden Martin sang while Newbould's orchestra sent forth its strains of melody.

Tonight (Friday) the club members and wives will attend the High school home-coming banquet and special tables have been reserved for their accommodation.

SEE SULLIVAN SUCCEED

Editorial

For he knoweth vain men; he seeth wickedness also; will he not then consider it?

For vain man would be wise, though man be born like a wild ass's colt.

If thou prepare thine heart and stretch out thine hands toward him;

If iniquity be in thy hand, put it far away, and let not wickedness dwell in thy tabernacles.

For then shalt thou lift up thy face without spot; yea, thou shalt be steadfast and shalt not fear.—Job. XI:11-15.

Grass is the forgiveness of nature—her constant benediction. Fields trampled with battle, saturated with blood, torn with the ruts of the cannon, grow green again with grass; and carnage is forgotten. Forests decay, harvests perish, flowers vanish, but grass is immortal. Beleaguered by sullen hosts of winter, it withdraws into the impregnable fortress of its subterranean vitality and emerges upon the first solicitation of spring. Sown by the winds, by the wandering birds, propagated by the subtle agriculture of the elements which are its ministers and servants, it softens the rude outline of the world. And when the fitful fever is ended and the foolish wrangle of market and forum is closed, it gently comes and heals over the scar which our descent has made into the earth.

It bears no blazonry of bloom to charm the senses with fragrance or splendor, but its homely hue is more enchanting than the lily or the rose. It yields no fruit in earth or air, and yet, should its harvest fail for a single year, famine would depopulate the world. —By John James Ingalls.

OUR CONGRESSMAN SPEAKS SO DOES MRS. MCCORMICK

Congressman Adkins, in language more explicit than polite, stated to a Moultrie county audience Monday that Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick will not be denied a seat in the United States Senate, if elected.

"Leave that to Ruth" said the statesman from the 19th district and then gave forth the illuminating assertion that "The United States Senate will not have the guts to throw out a woman."

By inference this is an insult to the women voters of Illinois. The Congressman boldly holds the view that women in politics may use every possible means, legal or illegal, to attain their ends and that male chivalry will protect them in their activities.

Do the women of Moultrie subscribe to such a doctrine? Do they want to be represented in the United States Senate by a senator of their sex, who holds office because the male senators, in a forgiving spirit are ready to overlook the ways and means she adopted in getting there and have not the "guts" to throw her out?

We believe that Congressman Adkins is mistaken. We must take issue with him on this question, though he perhaps know more about governmental affairs at Washington than we do.

We firmly believe that the United States Senate will judge Mrs. McCormick's case as it would that of any male senator who, through the excessive expenditure of money, had secured his credentials to represent a state in that august body.

Mrs. McCormick, if elected, may face two hurdles before she can claim her senate seat. The first is the excessive expenditure of money and the other is the contempt that she has shown for the committee, appointed by the Senate and authorized to investigate her campaign expenditures. She will not find the Senate in a very forgiving mood. She made charges of crime against both Democrats and Republicans alike, for both were represented on this investigation committee.

But stepping down from his pinnacle of cocksureness, the Honorable Adkins admitted that if the Senate would be so unchivalrous as to deny a seat to Mrs. McCormick, things would not be altogether bad for the Republican party, for Governor Emmerson would then have the power to fill the vacant seat by appointment.

The women of Illinois will not approve of the Congressman's attitude in this matter. Some day Illinois will have a woman senator. She will present her credentials to the United States Senate without question and without blot. She will be truly representative of the women of Illinois. She will ask no favors. She will need no excuses. She will win her seat through merit and not through money. And when that time comes the Senators of this great nation, will welcome such a representative from Illinois to partake in its deliberations.

That time is not here. Mrs. McCormick's political activities are not such as to commend her to the people of Illinois as qualified to one of the state's two seats in the Upper House of Congress.

We still contend that if Illinois is willing and by a plurality vote on November 4th elects Mrs. McCormick, she is entitled to her seat in the Senate. We believe firmly in states rights in this and other matters of government. The Congress of the United States, in both upper and lower houses, has, however, by precedent, shown that this is not the attitude that it takes in such cases.

Illinois can evade the whole unsavory situation. It can elect James Hamilton Lewis and thus refrain from having the Senate again pass judgment on this great commonwealth, holding it up to the scorn and derision of the sisterhood of states.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick went to the graveyard of political ideas Monday to bring forth some weak arguments against her opponent, James Hamilton Lewis. She told of the activity of the ex-senator in the campaign of 1916 while campaigning for the re-election of President Woodrow Wilson. If the Senator's activities in any way aided in bringing about Wilson's election, not only Illinois, but the world at large, owes him a debt that it will be hard to repay.

She waved the terrifying banner of Internationalism. This same bogey-man word had in sonorous boom-boom style also been used on his audience by Congressman Adkins. Both of the speakers accused the Democrats of favoring "Internationalism." The Congressman linked up the Democratic party with Internationalism and international bankers in an effort to wreck the Republican party's pet protective tariff scheme. He stated that the tariff was the workman's greatest protection and that the manufacturers and the billions of capital controlled by the international bankers was being used in an attack on American labor and American standards of living.

To prove this assertion he declared that Henry Ford had built a tractor factory in Cork, Ireland employing 8000 workers; that the product of that factory was being shipped to America duty free, under the classification of farm implements. And they blame this condition on the Democrats!

Henry Ford is not a Democrat. He helped elect Hoover. The Republican party has built the protective tariff wall. Henry finds a hole in it and uses it to import his foreign-made tractors. 8000 American workers are thrown out of work. So they blame it on the Democrats! Is that consistent? Is that nice?

But there is another side to this part of the protective tariff question. The Congressman did not touch on that. The Republican party has built a tariff wall so high for the benefit of the American manufacturers, who furnish the bulk of Republican campaign funds, that foreign nations cannot send their products here. They cannot trade with us. Thus competition is shut out and the American manufacturers can charge the American farmer and laborer any price that they desire. Foreign nations, shut off from selling to us, have also been shut off from buying from us. They have retaliated too in a high tariff against American-made products. The American manufacturer, to meet this situation, is building factories in these foreign countries. Henry Ford is building automobiles in Italy. General Motors is spending millions in erecting foreign factories. That means the employment of foreign labor to manufacture what ought to have been manufactured in these United States. The high protective tariff thus defeats its own ends. Instead of protecting American laboring men in their jobs, it takes the work away from them and in foreign factories, gives it to the people of those countries.

Internationalism has a terrifying sound, but what is it? It is nothing more or less than the recognition that this is a "Neighborhood world." A nation cannot live to itself anymore. It must co-operate with the other nations of the world. It must recognize their rights and aid them in keeping the peace of the world.

The League of Nations, which the speakers both so severely derided, has shown its true worth. It has kept nations out of war through the peaceable settlement of their differences. It has guided a war-worn Europe through the years following the close of the world war on the pathways of peace. It has frustrated time and again, designs of the warlords for strife and conquest.

The United States is not a member of the League, although its representatives sit in on many important councils and former Secretary of State Kellogg was but recently chosen to a judgeship in the World Court.

So Mrs. McCormick had better hunt a real, present-day issue, instead of harping away on an opposition to matters that have shown their real worth to humanity.

We do not believe that Mrs. McCormick made one vote in her visit here Monday. Some who came to hear her and were desirous of being convinced in her favor, went away sorrowfully, disappointed and disillusioned.

All that may be said of her visit was this: She came late. She spoke. She went her way. We wish her well. We sincerely hope for her sake and for the honor of Illinois, that she will not receive a plurality of votes at the November 4th election.

EGG LAYING CHAMPIONS

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 7.—At Quincy, Kankakee and Murphysboro, promising young pullets are arriving and will continue to arrive throughout October to go on test for egg production records in the three poultry experimental plants conducted by the Illinois department of agriculture, E. G. Horner, chief poultryman, announces. The twelve months' contests start on Nov. 1. Mr. Horner is confident that the forthcoming contests will establish new records.

THIEVES FILL PRISONS

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 7.—Of the 4,577 prisoners committed to state penal institutions during the year ending June 30, 1929, 1,183, or 25.84 percent were convicted of larceny or stealing. Crimes of this character show an increase, as do the total commitments to state prisons.

—Al Swisher of Decatur is visiting with home folks in this city.

STUDENTS AT DAIRY SHOW

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 7.—Dixon high school students, pronounced Illinois state champions in judging dairy cattle, are to compete against the champions of all other states, October 11, opening day of the National Dairy Show at St. Louis. To gain this distinction the three that form the team, placed first in local, district and sectional contests and in the state finals. More than 1,500 students, representing 156 classes in vocational agriculture, participated in the contest.

Always leave at least an inch of the stem ends of beets when cooking them, so as to prevent "bleeding", or having the color run out. The skins are left on for the same reason. To peel cooked beets quickly drop them for a moment into cold water and the skin and stem can be slipped off. Serve hot, sliced or diced, with butter, salt, and pepper.

The Way of Life

BY BRUCE BARTON

GIVING

A man met his lawyer, and said: "One of these days I shall want you to revise my will."

The lawyer nodded encouragingly.

"When you drew it," the man continued, "I hadn't accumulated much. Naturally, I left everything to my family. Now I am better fixed. I'd like to provide for relatives, give to the men who have helped me make my money, and contribute to charities. There's no hurry about it, of course. In another ten years I ought to be considerably richer. The amounts I can give now are small in comparison with what I expect to do then."

The lawyer advised him to have the will rewritten that very day.

"If you live ten years and prosper you can revise the figures upward," he said. "But suppose something should happen to you tomorrow. You would die leaving a selfish will."

Two very rich men have died in recent years, leaving very selfish wills. The great business of one of them is already dwindling. The men who manage it were given no share in it; their hearts are not in their work.

The other rich man, a bachelor, who paid small salaries but promised his younger associates that they would be "taken care of," left his millions to a museum. By those who do not know the facts it was hailed as a princely gift. It was no gift. Having trained every faculty to get, get, get, he simply could not give. He merely dodged the issue by writing in the name of a museum which he had hardly even seen.

You say, "What has this to do with me? I am not a millionaire."

The fact is that you, an average American, have more money today than you used to think you'd ever have. Are you giving any?

The muscles of the soul are like the muscles of the body. If you say: "Some day in the future I'll take physical exercise," you find, when the time comes, that you can't. The muscles have atrophied.

If you say, "Some day when I have more I will begin to give," you will never give. The habit requires cultivation.

We are about to have new standards in this country. Our day of worshipping wealth is past. Money no longer confers distinction; a millionaire is no more uncommon than an automobile, and not nearly so uncommon as a horse.

The givers will be the heroes of the future. And the time will come when those who merely get, will be held up to scorn. And their children will hang their heads.

Main Street Looks at Broadway

By Ernest Camp Jr.

NEW YORK—Sparkling in a new brown bonnet, with the meanest snap brim you ever saw—yes, and a perfect riot of a necktie, figured with tiny polo balls and mallets—I skipped over to Governor's Island the other day to witness my first game of polo.

Some of my wise-cracking friends whispered it around that all I went for was to wear that necktie. The dumbness of some people! I went to show off the hat.

Don't Know Who Won

It was a rousing good game. The score and the name of the winning team will be announced later. I'll also try to find out who it was that lost. I haven't had a chance to buy a newspaper yet.

The most exciting feature of the contest took place in the third inning—or do you call it a quarter?—when a near panic occurred in the grandstand. A small boy, dispensing soft drinks to the crowd, became confused in making change and yelled:

"Whose dollar is this?"

Dead and wounded are as follows:

It all brings to mind the gag about the fond mother who was visiting her freshman son at college.

John had showed her the campus and the stadium. "Now mother," he said, "we'll take a look at the polo field."

"Ah," exclaimed the mother rapturously, "what could be nicer than fields of waving polo!"

Sitting in a hotel the other evening I saw a bellhop enter the crowded lobby and bawl:

"Mr. Lindbergh please, Mr. Lindbergh, wanted on the telephone."

The effect was electric. Forty heads popped out of newspapers. Everybody bolted to attention. I thought for a moment I was going to be trampled.

Teaching Personality

New York University announces a new course in "personality" for business men and women.

Edward J. Kilduc, assistant dean in the school of commerce, accounts, and finance, says:

"Studies have shown that success, even in such technical lines as engineering, is due approximately 15 per cent to technical knowledge and about 85 per cent to those human qualities which have to do with successfully dealing with people."

Here's New York for you. He is a Wall Street broker, and was divorced from his wife eleven years ago. They had five children.

Today he owns a summer home in Maine, where he has as guests every year his ex-wife and her new hubby, who is an old friend of his in addition to the five children, their wives and husbands—and his new girl friend!

Radio's Latest

The latest yelp in radio is the midget set, compactly got up to resemble a mantel clock. Other marvels exhibited here at the recent Radio World's Fair included a radio-phonograph combination that enables the set owner to make phonograph records, or transcriptions of radio programs, in his own home.

Joe Shirey and Fred Wiedner bought the Burns Bros. garage on Jefferson street.

Work was in progress on the mile of hard road west of this city.

MURDERERS PLENTIFUL

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 8.—Murders, in Illinois last year, totaled 674, or 109 less than in the preceding year, bringing the rate down to 8.9 per 100,000 population, the lowest since 1921, according to a statistical report issued by Dr. Andy Hall, state health director. Suicides also declined to 14.4 per 100,000 population. Only 1,087 people took their own lives in Illinois last year, compared to 1,227 in 1928.

GUARD AGAINST FIRES

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 7.—With the season for cold weather here, State Fire Marshal S. L. Legree has issued a warning for all property owners to lose no time in placing their heating equipment in safe condition. Records of the fire marshal's office show that heating equipment, flues, and sparks on wooden shingle roofs are three of the six leading causes of fire.

mechanism that changes the phonograph records. Everything but rock the baby—and meet the monthly payments.

Those gaudy, epauletted ushers who glitter like rear admirals in Broadway movie temples are giving way, in many cases, to girl employees.

Girls are obtainable at much lower wages. And box offices, like everything else, are feeling the pinch of depression. Besides, say the managers, girls are more efficient and attentive.

A gasoline filling station near Jersey City features girl attendants exclusively. They look right fetching in their white jumpers and white caps, worn jauntily over one eye.

Leaders in the industry predict that more and more homes will have radio sets in several rooms. Many new homes will have them built, concealed, into the house walls.

Wahrheit und Dumheit

The fire loss of the United States is said to be $100 per minute and this does not take into consideration the cigarettes that are smoked.

Some newspapers a political only when it comes to matter of getting, printing and publishing jobs from the offices filled by folks of that political faith.

The colored congregation received a prayer from sick brother: "Dear Lord, please send me $50."

"Now such faith" said the brethren "ought to be rewarded." They accordingly took up a collection that amounted $42 and gave it to the parson. He delivered it.

The next Sunday the congregation received another prayer. It read, "Dear Lord, the next time I ask you for $50, please send it direct and don't entrust it to any parson."

Some movie fans say it's just too bad that they have no animal actors since the talkies became so popular. Now we assure we've heard lots of jackass braying in some of the talkies & have seen. It's usually passed off as singing.

Judge Edwards: "Can you look familiar to me. Haven't you been here before?"

The culprit: "Never Judge. The only time I ever saw a man that looked like you was when I saw President Harding."

Judge: "The case is dismissed. You are an observant man."

Blondy Bell: "I'm not going out with George any more."

Dizzy Daisy: "Why not?"

B. B.: "Why at the filling station the other night I heard him tell John Bupp that he always 'takes Ethyl'."

The Judge: "You are accused of stealing? Do you want a lawyer?"

Meandering Mike: "No Judge I want no lawyer, but I'll take a few good witnesses if you have them."

Old time Mosquito (to young mosquito): "Am I to think when I was your age I could only bite girls on the hands and face?"

"What's become of your hired man, Jim?"

"Why he fell off the roof last week while shingling and lit in a barrel of turpentine."

"Poor fellow! How is he?"

"Dunno! They aint caught him yet."

It happened at a Bruce ball game.

"I wonder" said the man from Sullivan to the stranger at his elbow "whether that big fat red-headed woman over there is trying to flirt with me?"

"I'd not sure" replied the stranger "but I'll go and find out. She's my wife."

"I can tell you what the score is before the game starts" said the Deatur colored boy.

"Aw, go on!" said the Gays fan "you can't neither."

"Sure I can, It's nothing to nothing before it starts."

LIBERTY SPEAKS

Some clergymen are better politicians than preachers. The fruit of bigotry is intolerance and the result of intolerance is persecution.

Those who reach the highest attainments in righteousness say the least about it.

The most dangerous enemy to religion is that individual who is so self-satisfied with his creed that he seeks by law to enforce his belief on everybody.

American Education: Two opposing groups of young fellows on a muddy field, scrapping to gain possession of an inflated pigskin and to carry it across a white chalk line. Idolizing the fellow who is most adept at this game and holding him up before the youth of the land as an ideal.

(Red Grange is an outstanding type) His fame enabled him to borrow $20,000 from an Urbana bank which later failed. Red's note was recently sold for $50.

Temperance: This used to be a good idealistic American word. You don't hear much about it any more. The Godly ladies and men who for many years sought to inculcate the ideal of temperance, through precept and education, have been misled into the belief that their aims could best be attained through the use of Federal law and the enforcement officers' guns. They left behind them, the temperance ideal when they embraced the tenets of prohibition.

MOULTRIE COUNTY DAIRY HERD IMPROVEMENT ASS'N. SEPT. REPORT

Ten High Herds

W. F. Farrell, Lake City, 8 cows; av. milk 920; av. fat 45.8.
J. E. Cotner, Bethany, 6 cows; av. milk 819; av. fat 45.5.
A. D. Tipword, Bethany, 5 cows; av. milk 743; av. fat 39.3.
Lewis Wheeler, Bethany, 10 cows; av. milk 701; av. fat 37.6.
Charles W. Prettyman, Arthur, 10 cows; av. milk 886; av. fat 37.3.

J. W. Dale, Sullivan, 3 cows; av. milk 566; av. fat 35.0.
J. A. Powell, Windsor, 5 cows; av. milk 796; av. fat 35.5.

H. G. Floyd, Decatur, 12 cows; av. milk 686; av. fat 35.0.
Ralph C. Emel, Sullivan, 7 cows; av. milk 657; av. fat 35.0.

Mrs. Reta Wilson, Sullivan, 5 cows; av. milk 766; av. fat 34.2.

The association average for September was 611 lbs. milk, 29.9 lbs. fat.

The highest producing cow was a grade Jersey owned by W. F. Farrell. This cow's production was 1275 lbs. milk, 62.5 lbs. fat.

Mr. Farrell's herd was fed the following list of rations during September: 2800 lbs. soybean hay, 1188 lbs. ground corn and cob, 891 lbs. ground oats, 444 lbs. of bran, 444 lbs. linseed oil meal. The feed cost totaled $62.49 and the returns above feed cost for the eight cows was $116.98 for the 30 day period.

Leslie Scott of Mt. Zion figures he has made a saving of $146.00 for the year on the feed bill for his herd of four Jersey cows thru utilizing the information that is made available to association members. This herd was being fed excessive quantities of ground feed and following suggestions Mr. Scott reduced the amount being fed about half with no loss either in production or conditions of his cows.

Mr. Scott paid $42.00 for the year's membership in the Moultrie association and feels the money was well spent. With a herd of but four cows, he has saved more than three times this amount on his feed bill alone. With a larger herd of course the saving would have been much greater. There are many dairy herds throughout central Illinois that are not being fed according to production, neither do they receive properly balanced rations. If the owners of these herds would join a cow testing association they would be astonished at the benefits derived through proper feeding of their better cows and culling out the inferior producers.

The Moultrie County Dairy Tour will be held according to present plans on Oct. 21. The tour starts one mile east of Bethany about 8 a. m. and several leading herds will be visited. The owners of dairy herds should plan on attending this tour as it will undoubtedly prove an inspiration to them.

P. J. Smith, Tester.

JAPANESE KUDCA VINE TREMENDOUS GROWER

Samuel Elder who delights in growing unusual botanical specimens brought to the Progress office the other day a sample vine taken from a plant which he grew at his home this summer. It is known as the Japanese Kudca vine and is adapted for covering trellises, porches, etc. It is a rapid grower as is evidenced by the fact that the sample vine brought to this office measured 25 feet. With a little better care Sam thinks he could grow vines to twice that length in a favorable season.

David Hardware Sullivan, Illinois

McCORMICK SPOKE HERE ON MONDAY

and ended by introducing Mrs. McCormick, who is also a congressman from this state.

Mrs. Warren Presides
The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Gladys Warren of Bethany, chairman of the Republican women's organization in this county. Others on the stage were Charles A. Gregory, chairman of the county central committee, Judge George A. Sentel and Rev. Crowder of Bethany. None of the county candidates or other prominent Republicans were in evidence on the stage, although Postmaster McPheeters of Sullivan and Postmaster Crowder of Bethany were in evidence in distributing Mrs. McCormick's badges. Among the ladies prominent in this work were Mrs. E. A. McKenzie and Miss Nina Ashworth of this city, Miss Della Hull and several ladies from Bethany.

Bethany was represented by a big delegation wearing badges with the slogan "Bethany always Republican."

League and Prohibition
Mrs. McCormick devoted most of her campaign talk to the League of Nations and World court and to her attitude on the wet and dry referendum which will be up for a vote on November 4th.

She stressed the need for voting the Republican ticket this year so that the Hoover administration can work out the salvation of this country in the time of a worldwide depression. She stated that the Democratic solution of hard times during Republican administration was always "vote the democratic ticket."

"Amusing Gentleman"
She referred to her opponent, James Hamilton Lewis as that "eloquent, distinguished and amusing gentleman" in launching an attack on his attitude toward "internationalism." She stated that Senator Lewis was in sympathy with the "Wilsonian policies" which sought to have this nation enter the League of Nations.

She hearkened back a little further in her opponent's record and accused him of having campaigned for re-election of President Wilson in 1916 on the slogan "He kept us out of War." She stated that if the Democratic party were successful in the election of 1932 it would at once resume the Wilsonian policies.

Opposes World Court
She said that she made her successful primary campaign on the issue of opposition to this nation entering the so-called "World Court." She stated that this matter would probably not be disposed of at the short session of Congress in December, but that either she or Senator Lewis would be called upon to vote on the matter at the next long session. She stated that the Democratic party was the advocate of "internationalism" and all of its terrors and evils.

Wet or dry?
She reiterated her stand that she is "personally, politically and privately" dry. She stated that she will vote "NO" on the question of prohibition repeal or modifications which will be submitted to referendum vote in Illinois on November 4th and urged all other voters to vote the same way.

"A serious and complex social problem" was what she called the liquor question and stated that efforts must be made "to continue to attempt to solve it." It has no place before the country as a "political issue" to be used as a "political football" by different individuals in primary or election. The referendum is to her "personally delightful" as it gives the voters an opportunity to pass on this matter in Illinois. The discussion that will result will be of great value to all.

Slams Anti-Saloon League
"Any group or organization that tries to dictate that voters shall ignore a referendum on a question of public policy is wrong. No voter is a 100 per cent American who does not cast a vote on a question of public policy that may be submitted to him."

Her actions in the Senate, if elected, will be governed by the result of the wet or dry referendum. She stated that her opponent, Senator Lewis "wants people to believe that if they vote for him and elect him and then run home they can still blow the froth off a glass of beer that he has placed on their table."

Family History
She took a leaf out of the campaign book of her late opponent, Senator Deneen, by reciting a touching bit of family history. She stated that her father, the late Mark Hanna was brought up as a "strictest Quaker" and despite the general impression to the contrary, "he never touched a drop of liquor in his life." He was brought up and dominated by his devout Quaker mother, of the size of a "half pint of cider" and in the days of '96 while he was out campaigning to elect William McKinley to the presidency, this little mother sat knitting by the fire-side, waiting until late hours of the night for Mark to come home, so she could say a few words of advice to him.

Applause was not vociferous at any stage of the meeting. Republican politicians gathered in the rear of the room, did not warm up to the speaker. Plenty of Democrats availed themselves of the opportunity to hear Mrs. McCormick who is today perhaps the best known woman in this country. She was accompanied to this city by her daughter.

Following the close of the meeting here she went to Taylorville to address an afternoon meeting.

Congressman Adkins
Starting in as a stage sifter, then impressed into service as a pinch-hit speaker, Congressman Adkins made one of his usual bombastic political orations praising everything that the Republican administration has done. He stated emphatically that the Democratic party had made an alliance with International Bankers and manufacturers and that only the high protective law stood between demoralization and the American laborer.

Introduces McCormick
After fulminating for about three fourths of an hour, the candidate promised to bring his discourse to a close with the arrival of Mrs. McCormick, but failed to do so for another 15 minutes which he spent in eulogizing the Republican senatorial candidate and telling the audience that there is not a ghost of a chance of Lotie Holman O'Neil's being elected to the United States Senate.

As to whether or not the senate will seat Mrs. McCormick if elected, the Congressman quoted himself in remarks made some time ago to a colleague to the effect "Leave that to Ruth."

Will "lack guts"
"The United States Senate" said the Congressman "will not have the guts to throw a woman out of the senate. If you do" he warned senators who discussed the matter with him, "You will have every woman on your tail when you get back to your home states."

First Woman Senator
"There will be women senators elected" said Adkins, "so why not have Illinois be the first state that takes this action. The opportunity to do this is now here. Don't let the matter of seating her bother you. In case she is not seated, our good Governor will name a Republican to take the seat."

REV. LAWRENCE AT MATTOON CONFERENCE

Rev. Lawrence attended the Fall District meeting of the Mattoon district of the Illinois Conference held at Mattoon Monday all day and evening. Some prominent speakers and workers of the Methodist Episcopal church spoke at the meeting, among them being Dr. H. H. Kendall of the Home Mission Board, Dr. S. T. ## HOW ABOUT APPROACHES TO JONATHAN CR. BRIDGE?

The folks who live east of Jonathan Creek and come to Sullivan over the new bridge that crosses Jonathan Creek east of the Masonic Home are much concerned about the condition of the approaches to this bridge when bad weather sets in. There has been some talk of cindering these approaches, but not much attention has been paid to the matter during the dry summer and fall days. Some little oil has been put on the grades but this will not keep the road in passable condition, unless something else is done to it.

Lawrence was made secretary of the Association.

SHORTAGE OF SEED CORN PUTS PREMIUM ON PROPER STORAGE

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 9.—The serious seed corn situation brought on in some parts of the country's corn belt by the past season's drought will put a premium on proper storage of seed ears during the coming fall and winter, it is pointed out by J. O. Hackleman, crops extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Much seed corn annually is injured by improper storage after farmers have gone to the expense and trouble of fieldpicking it from the standing stalks, he said. This is more important than ever this year when a shortage is looming, he pointed out. Farmers in the central and northern parts of Illinois, especially, have a chance to profit from careful storage. They have prospects for more than enough seed corn for their own needs. Any extra seed which they pick and store carefully should find a ready market in the southern part of the corn belt where there will be a shortage.

"The important thing in the storage of seed corn is to dry it out quickly to stop the spread of diseases in the ears and prevent damage from freezing. Fire drying is not absolutely necessary provided the corn is not piled. It should be placed on racks around which the air can circulate and the racks should be so arranged that every portion of the room is well ventilated. If there is any question as to air pockets or portions of the room in which the air is likely to become stagnant and thus cause the corn to mould, an electric fan or some form of forced ventilation must be provided.

"Seed corn should not be exposed to freezing temperatures until after the moisture content has been reduced to 15 per cent or less."

CARNINE CAR FOUND

The Dolan Carnine car which was stolen some weeks ago was found this week in Bloomington. It was parked on a street and a garage man took it in charge. It had license plates on it that were stolen from Henry Jenne's car on the night that the Carnine car disappeared.

SULLIVAN MARKETS

Soybeans in great quantity reached the local elevators last week. The price is down to $1.05. The rains this week stopped soybean threshing for the time being. Very little new corn has been marketed although quite a bit of it has already been shucked. As soon as the fields are dry and the soybeans are out of the way, corn shucking will proceed with great vigor. Beans in this locality are averaging about 20 bushels per acre and quality is good.

Corn is quoted at 66c per bu.; wheat 67c and oats 30c.

Butterfat is 34c per lb. Eggs are 22c per dozen.

Poultry prices have taken a downward slump and springs and old hens are worth from 10 to 16c per lb. Ducks are 8 to 10c and geese are listed at 6c.

Last Year's Prices

At this time last year the prices paid locally were as follows: soybeans $1.40 per bu.; sunflowers $2.00 per cwt.; old corn 88c. New corn had not matured and no contracts were being made, although the price was around 76c per bu. Wheat was $1.17; oats 41c. Eggs were 36c per dozen; butterfat 44c and hens and springs were worth from 17 to 20c per lb.

It will be noted that the biggest difference in last year's prices and this year's is in wheat, 50c per bu. eggs are worth 14c per dozen less than last year and butterfat 10c per lb.

MUTUAL INSURANCE PROTECTION FOR HOMES

New Douglas Mutual, doing most of its business in Douglas and adjoining counties.

This article will deal with the first two named associations, their past record and present status.

Operating 11 Years

The Moultrie County Mutual Relief Association was organized in August 1919 and five years ago was re-organized to conform with new laws, as made by the legislature.

During the time this association has been in existence it has paid 91 death claims of $500 each. These claims were in no instance delayed more than 30 days. The money thus paid went to home folks, people who were well known to the other members of the association. The membership in this association has always been around 1000 and the assessment per member in case of death has been 50c with an annual expense assessment of $1.00 to pay the secretary and buy stamps, printing and other such incidental expenses. During the eleven years this association has operated the annual cost per member has thus been approximately $4.00 for carrying $500 of protection.

No Claim Evaded

This association during all of the time of its existence has had but one disputed claim. That claim was not paid on advice of the board of directors, as the deceased member had joined the association under false pretense, his age being about 25 years more than stated on his application. The beneficiaries under the certificate were repaid all that had been paid to the association and the matter was dropped.

This association is today in good standing financially. The record it has made has inspired its members with confidence in its ability to do just what it promises. It has proven itself the lowest priced kind of home protection for its members as can be attested by the beneficiaries of the 91 death claims that have been promptly and fully paid.

The Sullivan Mutual

After the Moultrie County Mutual had been in successful operation several years a demand arose for higher death benefits and consequently higher assessments. The directors decided to abide by the original $500 plan and another association was then organized in 1921 under the name of the Sullivan Mutual Relief Association. The membership of this association has always been over the 1000 mark. The yearly expense assessment for payment of secretary, postage and other incidentals has been $1.00.

This company has paid 43 death claims. The first claims paid were on a basis of an assessment of $1.00 per member and until the membership reached the total of 1000 the amounts paid were consequently less, being based on the number of members. The last 32 claims paid in full were for $1000. The yearly average cost of being a member of this association has been approximately $6.00 or in other words the members have had $1000 protection for the yearly expenditure of $6.00.

In the Decatur Herald report as published Sunday it was shown that on January 1st this association had a liability of $4,000 in unpaid death claims and not a very large balance in the treasury. In explanation of this the officers say that the $4,000 in liabilities were at that time in course of liquidation and were all paid in full to the entire satisfaction of the beneficiaries.

Sound Financially

This association's October statement as furnished to the State Insurance department appears on page 6 of this issue. It shows that the association has a deposit of $1533.83 in the banks at this time and has a call of $909.60 in the course of collection, giving it admitted assets of $2443.43 and against this there is a liability of $1,000 on a death claim of a former resident (Mrs. Tobe Davis) who died some weeks ago in California. Final required proofs in this claim have not yet been received, but the money is ready to be paid on this claim, leaving a substantial balance on hand.

There are doubtless mutual associations, which operate on a large state-wide basis that are questionable as to their liability. There are doubtless smaller associations that keep cluttering up the court dockets with unpaid claim suits. That this is a fact none can deny. That such evidence is damning to all mutual associations is preposterous and unfair.

Furnish Protection

Associations such as the Moultrie County Mutual and the Sullivan Mutual have done much good to their members. They have held the cost of insurance down to bedrock. They have made it possible for people to carry such protection who could not pay the premiums required by the old line life insurance companies. True, such a certificate has no cumulative value. The member cannot withdraw and cash in. The amounts paid are assessments which go to make the amount paid to the beneficiaries of the deceased.

People Have Faith

It would be hard, indeed, to make the people who have seen how these two associations have fulfilled their every promise to their members believe that these associations are unreliable or untrustworthy.

They are not being operated for private gain. The books are open to inspection to parties interested. Reports are promptly forwarded monthly to the insurance department of the state government at Springfield.

The Decatur Herald articles will answer a useful purpose if by calling attention to this class of insurance, they can drive out of the field associations that are weak and unreliable.

If the articles induce people to drop their mutual insurance and home protection in associations that have functioned properly, they will do great harm, which will become manifest when the member passes away without any protection whatever to leave to his family.

People will do well to seek some underlying motive in the activities of our esteemed contemporary in Decatur. The object of the crusade cannot do otherwise than bring about some good—but it may also result in great harm. Before you lose faith in your mutual association membership, kindly investigate and get all of the facts. Look into the past record and performance of the Moultrie County Mutual and Sullivan Mutual before you take action which you may later regret.

FAMOUS STAGE PLAY REACHES LOCAL TALKIE SCREEN

Widespread interest has been aroused by the announcement of the Grand Theatre that the management has secured one of the prize talking pictures of the year in the booking of "Her Unborn Child," which will begin a special two days' engagement beginning Tuesday, Oct. 14th.

As a stage play "Her Unborn Child" has thrilled millions of playgoers for the past ten years, including its run of 1 year at the Eltinge and Forty-Eighth Street Theatres in New York City. The pungent dialog, unconventional situations, delightful comedy interludes and smashing dramatic power which startled legitimate theatre audiences has been carefully preserved in the talking picture version, produced by Windsor Picture Plays, Inc., and recorded by De Forest Talkie System.

The touchingly human story of a boy and girl in love, forgetting everything else, presents one of the most unusual subjects yet selected for the talking screen, and "Her Unborn Child" will afford patrons of the Grand Theatre many breathless moments during the unfolding of its moving drama.

The talkies of the famous stage play presents a cast of unusual merit, recruited in the main from the ranks of Broadway stars, among them being Adele Ronson, Harry Davenport, Frances Underwood, Pauline Drake and Elisha Cook, Jr.

APPELATE COURT RULES IN PARTITION SUIT IN J. E. LANDERS ESTATE

The Appellate court this week upheld the motion of Attorney C. R. Patterson to dismiss the appeal of Mrs. Ross Thomas in her case against her half sisters, Mrs. Gladys Burns and Mrs. Freda Dent.

This suit is the outgrowth of efforts to settle the estate of their father, the late J. E. Landers. Mr. Landers had a life estate in a 200-acre farm in this county. During his life time he put about $8000 of improvements on this farm. Mrs. Thomas in her suit for partition sets forth that she helped to finance these improvements. There are four heirs, Mrs. Thomas and her brother Jim Landers, and the two half-sisters Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Dent. Mrs. Thomas has asked that before division of the estate be made, that these other two sisters be compelled to contribute toward the costs of the improvements made and of funeral expenses, etc.

Attorney Patterson for the two defendants filed a cross bill setting forth that a plea that other interested parties had been omitted from the original bill. J. L. McLaughlin for Mrs. Thomas demurred to the cross bill and made a motion to strike it from the record. The circuit court over-ruled this demurrer and motion and on this action the case was appealed to the Appellate court which upheld Attorney Patterson and granted his motion to dismiss the appeal.

The case now comes back to the local court for further action.

HUNTERS LICENSE FEES TO PAY $14,000,000 BOND ISSUE IN FULL

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 7.—Leave to your grandchildren an Illinois that has some of the natural beauties that your grandfathers found when they came here.

This is the theme of a circular just off the press in behalf of the $14,000,000 bond issue proposition for conservation, forest preserves and public recreation grounds to be voted on at the November 4 election.

On the first page of the circular is a cartoon of a small boy walking down a country lane with a fishing rod on his shoulder and his dog at his side. On either side are "Keep Out, No Fishing and private Grounds" signs.

Beneath this cartoon is this plea of the youth to the adult:

"We can't vote. We know you will vote for the $14,000,000 conservation, forest preserves and public recreation grounds bond issue proposition for us November 4th.

"My daddy says he and the other hunters and fishermen will pay the bill from hunting and fishing license fees and it won't cost you a cent in taxes."

The circular shows the proposition has been endorsed by many prominent citizens of the state and by the following organizations: The American Legion, The Associated Anglers, The Federation of Young Men's Clubs, The Illinois Division of the Izaak Walton League, The Illinois Federation of Labor, The Illinois Business Men's Good Fellowship Club, The Illinois Sportsmen's League, The Illinois-Eastern Iowa District of the Kiwanis International, The Rock Island Rod and Reel Club, and the Sportsmen's Mutual.

The circular, which is sponsored by the Illinois Forest Preserve and Conservation Council, a non-factional and non political organization also contains the principal provisions of the enabling act passed by the legislature.

Adoption of the proposition at the November 4 election, under the law, will bring the following results:

Acquisition by the state department of conservation of an average of 2,000 acres of upland in each county of the state where possible.

Purchase by the department of conservation of 80,000 acres of river bottom and marshland.

The average price paid for this land will not exceed $50 per acre if possible.

Twenty-five percent of the land will be set aside for song and game bird sanctuaries and shall be reforested.

Ten percent will be set aside for general recreation for Boy Scouts and similar organizations and civic and church organizations and camping and picnicking grounds for individuals.

No hunting and fishing will be allowed on the thirty-five percent of the land designated above.

The remaining 65 percent will be reserved for public hunting and fishing.

Provides that monies derived from the sale of licenses for hunting, fishing, etc., shall be used to retire the bonds and pay the interest. In this connection the circular contains a table to show that the income from the sale of licenses by the department of conservation will be more than sufficient to pay the interest and principal on the bonds without a cent of direct taxes.

The sale of licenses for hunting, fishing, etc., is increasing at the rate of 40,000 a year indicating, the circular says, retirement of the $14,000,000 in bonds long before they are due.

The final page of the circular contains this plea:

"Vote Yes on the Conservation, Forest Preserve and Public Recreation Grounds Ballot. No direct taxes. Entire cost will be paid by hunting and fishing licenses. "Put a state-owned forest preserve and public playground in your county without costing you a cent in taxes."

SEVENTH INSTALLMENT

She sat beside him and her voice and her laugh, and her little tricks of manner sometimes made it impossible that she was not the same woman who had come so happily to his arms in the cold, bleak room of the little hotel high up in the mountains.

She told Giles frankly that she had been a little nervous of meeting him. "I thought perhaps the family hatred had extended itself to you," she said bitterly. "Life is very unkind to some of us, Mr. Chittenden. I am glad you do not hate me as badly as I had expected you would."

Chittenden hesitated. "When I was on the other side of the world my hatred for you was a very real and vital thing," he said gravely. "I used to hope for an opportunity to, well—" He shrugged his shoulders and smiled. "Avenger" is such a melodramatic word, isn't it?"

"There is no other word that gives quite the same explanation," she answered. "Don't you still hope for it?"

"No."

"What made you change?"

Giles looked away from her down the crowded little restaurant, and in an aching imagination he saw again the bare, ugly room of the mountain hotel, and heard the wind howling as it flung the snow against the windows.

"Something happened—" he said.

She did not answer at once, then she said quietly:

"Well, whatever it was, I am glad. I don't want to be hated any more. I don't think any one—even your mother—could hate me any more if she knew what I know."

"What do you mean?"

Julie lowered her voice.

"If you would like to drive home with me afterwards I will tell you."

"What is it you were going to tell me?" Giles asked after they got into her car. He felt an immense curiosity in this woman, and also an inexplicable pity for her, which somehow angered him.

According to all accounts she was worthless and heartless, and yet—once before he had blundered into tragedy through listening to and believing the things other people said.

The car stopped.

"We are just home," Julie said. "Come in, and I will tell you."

Julie threw herself down into a big chair with a half sigh.

Giles said nothing. He stood leaning against the mantel-shelf looking down at her, vaguely conscious of something tragic that seemed to have stolen into the room during the last few moments. Suddenly Julie raised her eyes.

"I'm glad you don't ask thousands of questions," she said. "You are such a restless person, Mr. Chittenden. I can be quite sure that you won't say 'Oh, my God!' or anything like that when I tell you that I am going to die."

"I don't look like it, do I?" she queried whimsically. "But it's true, all the same. It's quite signed and sealed, with no hope of a reprieve. I've been to every specialist in London who would take my money, and they all say the same thing. There could be an operation, but I won't have it. I hate the idea of the knife, especially as it can be a cure—but only just a way of prolonging life for a little while. I don't think I want to prolong it either. It's not been such fun when one looks back."

"What are you going to do then?"

"I'm going abroad. Couldn't bear the idea of dying here in London, where so many people know me, so I'm going right away where I shan't know any one, and nobody will know me. What do you think of it, Mr. Chittenden?"

"I think you're a very brave woman," Giles said, and suddenly he leaned down and took her hand. To his surprise the tears welled up into her eyes and splashed on to her frock.

"That's foolish of me, isn't it?" she said. "And they're not because I'm frightened—these tears! It's just because the way you took hold of my hand reminded me of some one—" She drew a hard breath as if of pain. "Some one I really loved. There was a man I once really loved, Mr. Chittenden."

"I am sure there was."

"He died—" Julie sat very still for a moment, then she gently drew her hand away. "That finished me, in the same way that something of the kind has finished the other Julie too. He died, and then it was as if I died too, all that was best of me at least, and all the hateful rotten part lived on! My cousin Julie is like that now! It must be in the family. Perhaps you don't know her well enough to see it or recognize it, but I do! I knew directly she came home from Switzerland—We've never been great friends—I told you she didn't approve of me! But the day after she came home—about six weeks ago, I suppose it must be, or more—she came to see me, and she said: "I want to ask your pardon for all the hard things I've said to you and thought of you. You've been right, and I've been wrong all the time. It's no use trying to be good—it's no use trying to lead a decent life. The only way is to get every ounce of pleasure possible, never mind at whose expense. That's what I'm going to do in the future—that's what she said."

"I said: 'You poor little fool!—there's no man in all the world worth breaking your heart over'—she wouldn't admit anything, of course, but I knew!—Julie laughed softly. "And now there is something I want to ask you—something I want you to do for me. Will you be kind to Julie?—the other Julie? I'm sorry for her. I know just what she's going thru. I've been thru it all myself, you see. And I think you could help her. You're the sort of man who understands. If you'll just be friends with her—"

"I'll do anything I can, but—"

"She's got amongst a horrible set of people," Julie said. "Not really vicious people, but silly and worthless! They make her drink too much, and swear—and sit up all night, and she's not that sort! She won't be able to bear it as well as I used to. I saw her the other night. She's got hold of a new friend—"

"You mean—Schofield. He's not a bad fellow—"

"No. It's a girl—a common little American—"

"American?"

"Yes—a girl named Sadie Barrow—why, do you know her?" for Giles had made a sudden convulsive movement.

"No—yes—at least—no, I don't know her." Not know her! Sadie Barrow? His own wife.

So Sadie had come to London without acquainting him of the fact. (Giles Chittenden felt cold with anger.)

How the devil must be laughing at this successful double-cross which had not only brought Sadie to England when he least wished to see her, but had thrown her across Julie's path.

Confound all women! Chittenden thought, then he looked again at the one sitting crouching in the chair before him. He stooped impulsively towards her and took her hand.

"I should like to be your friend too, if I may. I should like to be able to help you."

"Thank you, and, Giles—"

"Yes."

"I was never quite so wicked as people have made out. It was not my fault about—Rodney. I told him so many times it was useless—why, he was only a boy compared with me—a spoilt, weak boy."

"I am afraid he was."

"So don't think too badly of me." She drew her hand gently away. "And now—please go. I'm so tired."

She did not look at him or rise from her chair, and Giles walked reluctantly to the door, pausing when he reached it to look back. It seemed horrible to leave her like that—alone! Horrible to think of all the friends and lovers she had known there was not one to stand by her now and hold her hand as she went through the dark valley lying before her.

A day or two later he saw a small announcement in the newspaper to the effect that she had gone abroad, and would be absent for some time, and that no letters would be forwarded. It was the same night that his mother rang up on the telephone to inform him that she was giving a party.

"When?" he asked, ruthlessly cutting short her voluble explanations.

"To-night. Twelve midnight, Giles. There'll be ham and eggs and hot coffee about four."

"Good Lord!"

"Don't talk like that. It will be such fun. Every one's coming!"

"Who is 'every one'?"

"Doris, of course—she's bringing a party. And Lawrence Schofield—"

"What made you ask him?"

"To please Miss Farrow, of course. They're always together! I really believe they will make a match of it."

"I thought you didn't like Miss Farrow?"

"Well, just between ourselves, I don't! But I find that one must be broad-minded in these matters. You see, it takes all sorts to make a world."

"It certainly does. Who else?"

"A lot of people you don't know. She rang off and Giles turned away from the 'phone with a shrug of his shoulders. It was only when he was in his mother's house that he suddenly realized that in all probability Sadie would be there also. For a moment he hesitated, a sudden chill feeling at his heart, then he philosophically pushed the thought aside and went on.

She was almost the first person he saw when he entered Mrs. Ardon's crowded drawing room.

She was talking to a group of people which included Julie Farrow and several others whom Giles knew slightly, and it was Julie who first caught sight of him and waved an airy hand.

Giles went straight across to her. He did not know in the least what sort of reception to expect from his wife, but after he had greeted Julie and the others whom he knew, it was she who said in her insistent way:

"Present your friend."

It was Julie who obeyed.

"Mr. Chittenden. Miss Barrow."

"Pleased to meet you," Sadie said impulsively.

There was a twinkle in her eyes for which Giles could have shaken her.

Schofield was with Julie, beaming happily upon every one.

"We haven't met lately, Mr. Chittenden," Julie was saying. "Where have you been hiding? So kind of your mother to ask me here tonight."

"So kind of you to come," Giles answered formally. He could see that Sadie was manoeuvring to reach his side, and presently they were a little apart from the rest.

"Isn't it a scream?" Sadie demanded. "Fancy meeting you in your own mother's house, and she not knowing that she's entertaining a daughter-in-law unawares?"

"You are at perfect liberty to tell her if you choose," Giles answered coolly, though inwardly he was raging. "I have no doubt that you have told other people already."

Sadie gave a little scream of repudiation.

"Tell any one! Not me! It would cook my little goose once and for all if it was known that I'd got such highly respectable relations. No, thanks. Freedom for me all the time, and if there's anything left over, freedom again."

"Why have you come to London?"

Her face changed subtly. "Not to find you, my lambkin, so don't worry! I've come to have a good time, and don't you interfere, or it will be worse for you."

"Sadie, the situation is impossible—"

She laughed in his face.

"Rubbish! Don't pretend that you want me to come back to you. Sadie shrugged her naked shoulders.

"Times change!" she said. She moved away from him, her slim, scantily-clad body swaying with a little impudent movement.

Giles watched her with hard eyes. And this was his wife! This common little—he pulled his thoughts up sharply, ashamed of them. After all, he had once thought her good enough to marry.

Giles turned again to Julie.

"I suppose it would be utterly useless for me to ask you to drop this damnable play-acting?"

"My dear man, what on earth do you mean?"

"What I say. You're never natural for a single moment. You hate this sort of—of piffle—as much as I hate it. You—you despise people like—like these people here—"

Julie laughed serenely.

"I brought Lawrence and Sadie Barrow. By the way, what do you think of Sadie?"

"Is she a new friend of yours?"

THE WEATHER

Monday morning dawned, chilly and cold. The sky was overcast with drifting clouds. In Sullivan's uptown little groups were seen here and there, apparently waiting for something. About the hour of ten they started drifting toward the Grand Theatre. They were intent on seeing and hearing 'Ruth.' Even John Elliott and Ray Meeker were parked at a place of vantage where they might feast their eyes on Illinois famous woman politician.

Into this crowd, expectorating vigorously, as occasion demanded, there came our beloved congressman. Postmasters were thick all around. County candidates circulated around in the background. Beautiful lady politicians—and where do they grow prettier than in old Moultrie—were pinning badges on those who would permit. And they waited and waited. Gradually they drifted into the theatre and for an hour or so were given a program of some really good music, vocal and instrumental. Then Congressman Charley started talking. He talked and talked and talked some more. Really the crowd that had come to hear Ruth was not deserving of the punishment meted out to it. But what could they do? Ruth was momentarily expected, so they patiently waited for her. She came. Her speech is reported elsewhere in this paper.

This is a weather report. When the crowd came out of the theatre they found the skies weeping. The sidewalks were wet and everything had a damp and bedraggled look. The scene was as sad and depressing outside the theatre as it had been within. And so we have rain to report. It rained more or less Monday and Monday night and all day Tuesday and some more Tuesday night. But the weather has shifted to more pleasant ways now.

The rains have delayed corn shucking and bean threshing. They have made some country roads muddy and sloppy. It has turned nice and warm again since the rain stopped and the grass and flowers are taking a new lease on life and making the autumnal days beautiful.

We said last week apples were plentiful and cheap. Our friends protest and say that apples are high in price. We stand corrected. Basket grapes send their fragrance to the nostrils as you pass the groceries and pumpkins and squashes clutter up things underfoot. A friend told us the other day of a small town where a carload of grapes were shipped in and distributed. My, they must use a lot of grape jelly in that burg!

The farmers are way ahead of the season with their work. Wheat has been sown and quite a bit of corn has been shucked. Some farmers are starting on their fall plowing.

We heard the other day about hard times on the farms. It's said and depressing. One farmer reports that the roof on his house is so bad that when it rains they are forced to go out and sit in their new sedan to keep from getting wet. And they say this country is prosperous!

There is grass on the hillsides

Is. 40:31—"They that wait upon the Lord shall mount up with wings as eagles."

No doubt but that we dwell too long and too often among the dark damp shadows, and all because we have not waited on the Lord. Most plants, especially those which bloom, make a very slender and frail growth if kept continually in the shadows. A Christian whom God hath planted to bloom (let your light so shine) and send forth fragrance, will make a very stunted growth if always living in the spiritual shadows. The Lord has made it possible for us to rise above the shadows, and by the very simple process of waiting on Him. The Lord would have us cease our activities until he can loosen the roots of self-interests that are binding us fast in the soil that lies among the shadows. Then after we have been loosened we find that we are being lifted up, and up, and up, until like the eagle we find that we have been carried far above the tempting things of this world. The eagle rises to heights where he can not longer be tempted by the lamb at play in the grass. We too may be lifted until we no longer see many of the things that were a temptation to us. But ever remember that the devil is the prince of the power of the air, and while we cannot be longer tempted by visible things, the devil still meets us with suggestions as he did Eve in the garden.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

C. E. Barnett, Pastor

October is a month of great events. Oct. 12, 1492 Christopher Columbus and his sailors had their first glimpse of the world. Oct. 17, 1777 Burgoyne surrendered to Gen. Gates, and on Oct. 19, 1781 Lord Cornwallis surrendered to George Washington, at Yorktown. The pastor was born in October and married in October, the dates do not matter. In October 1930 the International Convention of Disciples of Christ, the World Convention and the Youth Convention will be held. Thousands are going for the fellowship, inspiration and instruction "On to Washington." It is probable the pastor will attend. In the meantime it is October in the local church. Opportunities for service are with us continually. Sundays bring renewed opportunities for worship at church. Let us make October a banner month in attendance, and possibly some great discoveries in the field of service, accompanied by self-surrender for the Master.

Sunday School at 9:30 a. m., preaching at 10:40 and 7:30 p. m.

Christian Endeavor meeting at 6:30 p. m. "Marks of a Good Citizen" the subject for discussion.
