DEMOCRATIC LANDSLIDE SWEEPS NATION

Four Democrats Win In Moultrie; Lewis Gets Big Vote Over Mrs. McCormick

Moultrie County Tuesday elected four Democrats to county office and one Republican. Halac Lansden was the lone Republican who emerged from the Democratic landslide undefeated. His majority over J. N. Foster was 77.

Col. Jennings on official returns had won his race for county judge over Oscar F. Cochran by a scant 58 majority.

Paul L. Chipps rolled up a majority of 582 in his race to wrest the county clerk's office from J. B. Martin.

Orman Newbould easily won his race for county treasurer over Ida Carnine by a majority of 869.

Albert Walker rolled up a record-breaking majority in defeating Loren Brumfield for superintendent of schools. His lead was 1642.

James Hamilton Lewis for Senator carried the county by 1257 over Ruth Hanna McCormick. Mrs. O'Neill polled only 419 votes.

All of the other Democratic candidates received very substantial majorities.

Charles Adkins was re-elected to Congress in the 19th congressional district, defeating Charles Borchers. Mr. Borchers' expected big majority in Macon county did not materialize and he fell far behind Senator Lewis in this district. His support of Hoover in 1928 doubtless lost him many votes.

Jennings Wins

Col. J. E. Jennings has achieved his life's ambition and now is entitled to be called Judge Jennings. His opponent O. F. Cochran, called him up Wednesday morning and said "I want to extend my congratulations to you Judge Jennings."

Judge Jennings will make a very able and efficient County Judge. He brings to the office a wealth of experience and a thorough knowledge of Moultrie county and the people he is to serve.

His victory is a victory for the printed word. Because of his rheumatic handicap he was unable to make a personal canvass. He mapped out his campaign and gave the printer orders for thousands of envelopes and printed letters. His son Benjamin acted as his campaign manager and assistant and daily consignments of letters were sent to the voters. It proved effective. He defeated an active and able opponent, whose popularity is attested by the closeness of this race.

Chipps for Clerk

About two years ago Paul Chipps first confided to his friends that he had an ambition to be county clerk and to have the task of writing out marriage licenses, recording birth and death certificates and doing such other duties as had for the past three terms been done by or under the supervision of J. B. Martin.

Some of "Pete's" friends laughed at him. "Why Martin had 1000 and more majority last time" they told him. "That proves nothing" said Pete. "I want to be county clerk." He started campaigning and in more or less degree he kept it up until the close of the polls Tuesday evening.

The new county clerk is a farmer by occupation. He is a world war veteran, an amateur ball player and a general all-round good fellow who has the good-will of all his acquaintances. He extended his circle of acquaintances during his campaign and he admits himself that so zealous was he that he called on some voters twice in the same day.

Mr. Chipps is the first Democratic county clerk Moultrie has had since Cash Green handed the office over to J. B. Martin, his successor, twelve years ago December 1st.

The out-going clerk, J. B. Martin and his deputy Roy Fitzgerrall have been very accommodating in taking care of the duties of the office and any information desired was at all times available.

Newbould, County Financier
Orman Newbould is a new man in county politics but he finished second high on the Democratic ticket. After he made up his mind he wanted to be treasurer, he made a very systematic campaign. Relatives living in neighboring towns gave a helping hand to "Uncle Orman" and his friends were very confident that he would win.

He had as his opponent Mrs. Ida Carnine, wife of the present treasurer. Mr. and Mrs. Carnine are both good campaigners and made a thorough campaign. Their friends in the Republican party were so firmly convinced that they would win that some bets on this race were placed even on election day. Mrs. Carnine's defeat is no reflection whatever on her integrity and high-standing in the community. If it shows anything, it is that the voters were not ready to elect a woman to that office, or that they desired a complete change and not simply a switch from husband to wife. In defeat as in victory Mr. and Mrs. Carnine smilingly acknowledged that they had done their level best and many of Newbould's supporters were heard to say "It's too bad all can't win."

Walker's Majority

I. J. Martin, long prominent in politics and journalism in Moultrie county says that Albert Walker's majority of 1642 votes in his race for the office of county superintendent of school sets a record for a majority for a local county office.

Mr. Walker was not a new man

Louis Kulcinski To Demonstrate Here Tuesday

State Physical Education Director to Give Program at Area Meeting of Parent-Teachers Association in Lowe School.

A very important school meeting will take place here Tuesday night, November 11th under the auspices of the local Parent-Teachers Association. The meeting will be in the Lowe school building and will start at 7:30 p. m.

Louis Kulcinski, state supervisor of physical education will be here to talk and demonstrate physical education work. He will explain the laws relating to physical education in the public schools and will outline the health activities sponsored by the State health program of his department.

He will demonstrate how health work of this kind can be applied in rural and elementary schools.

With a class of 20 local pupils he will give some physical education demonstrations.

His entire program will take about 30 minutes. He expects to Later he did get nominated and in a Republican landslide Mrs. Lois Coombes nosed him out by small majority. He went to Arthur and taught school, but always his thoughts returned to the idea of "how nice it would be if I could preside over all of the schools in Moultrie county." Last year he moved to Sullivan. He entered the primary campaign and won the nomination from Mrs. Roughton. After that his election was generally conceded but nobody ever dreamed that he would have a majority of 1642.

This majority may be somewhat misleading insofar as Mr. Walker's opponent is concerned. It would be too bad, indeed, if people got

Republicans May Lose Senate And Congress; N. Y. Re-Elects Gov. Roosevelt

A landslide for the Democratic candidates featured Tuesday's election. From coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf the people showed their dissatisfaction with present day conditions by voting against the party in charge of national affairs.

Democrats may have a majority in Congress and the Senate will be very close.

Illinois gave James Hamilton Lewis a majority of approximately 750,000 over Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick in their race for United States Senator. Mrs. O'Neill ran a poor third.

This landslide victory of Senator Lewis carried into office Edward J. Barrett the Democratic candidate for state treasurer and came near defeating Francis Blair for superintendent of public instruction. Judge Dietrich of Beardstown and Walter Nesbit of Belleville seem to have been elected congressmen at large. Nesbit's election is still in doubt as Richard Yates is whittling down his lead. Dietrich's election is assured and Frank L. Smith has been decisively defeated. He is the same man who was denied a Senate seat several years ago.

The Democratic candidates for University trustees have all been elected. Chicago voters gave the Democrats a majority of about 450,000 and the downstate continued to swell this lead for Senator Lewis.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, popular governor of New York and a possibility for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1932 won re-election by over 700,000. Out of this unheard of majority for a Democrat in New York a presidential boom is sure to emerge and a suggested ticket is Roosevelt of New York for President and Lewis of Illinois as his running mate.

In this state the voters seemed to have voted about 3 to 1 in favor of the Prohibition repeal referendum questions. Indications were Thursday morning that the other questions of public policy had all been defeated, with perhaps the one affecting the state banking laws.

SUPT. OF SCHOOLS-ELECT

ALBERT WALKER

The unexpected defeat of Clarence Buck of Monmouth for state treasurer is the first breakup in the organized bankers clique which has controlled the state's finances for many years and has time and again thwarted Charles Gregory's ambition to be state treasurer. Buck's defeat will be a severe blow to the prestige of the Emerson regime.

Illinois Democrats made great gains in the state senate and Legislature and but for the fact that many districts ran but one Democrat instead of two, they might have wrested control from the Republicans. Had W. E. Gilmore had a Democratic running mate in this district he too would have been elected, for rock-ribbed Campaign county went Democratic on Tuesday. Moultrie county went

Wash you, make you clean; put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes; cease to do evil; Learn to do well; seek judgment, relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow.

Come now and let us reason together saith the Lord; though your sins be as as scarlet, they shall be white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be like wool.

If ye be willing and obedient, ye shall eat the good of the land. —Isaiah Chap. 1: 16, 17, 18, 19.

The easy roads are crowded
And the level roads are jammed;

The pleasant little river
With the drifting folks are crammed

But off yonder where it's rocky,
Where you get a better view,

You will find the ranks are thinning
And the travellers are few.

Where the going's smooth and pleasant
You will always find the throng,

For the many, more's the pity,
Seem to like to drift along,

But the steep that call for courage,
And the task that's hard to do

In the end results in glory
For the never-wavering few.

—Edgar A. Guest.

LET'S GET THOSE TWO ROADS BUILT GOOD STREETS POSSIBLE, IF WE WANT THEM WILL THE PANIC BENEFIT AGRICULTURE?

Election day has come and passed. Now let us turn our thoughts to other things that are important.

A recent report from Springfield stated that next year the state of Illinois will institute another big road building program. That ought to interest Moultrie county. We want two roads included in that program. Both of these are connecting links that will make the roads we already have more useful.

We want that section of Route 133 from Arthur west to Lovington built. Arthur deserves a hard road connection with the county seat of Moultrie county. Long neglected by the state highway department, Arthur now has a hard road leading eastwardly. We want Arthur to have a hard road leading westwardly to connect with Route 32 at Lovington. Some of Moultrie's best citizens live at Arthur. Many people of that enterprising city are members of the Sullivan Country Club.

This section of the road will be easily constructed. There are no hills to grade down nor big bridges to build.

Another road that we want is that section of route 132 from the present terminus of the paving near the Masonic Home to Mattoon. This road now ends in a claybank grade near the approach to the Jonathan Creek bridge. Right now that grade is good. It was recently given another covering of oil—but wait until next spring!

We firmly believe that the highway department expects to finish this road into Mattoon next year. There is no dispute on the matter of location. This road will be an important connecting link between the southeastern part of this state and the capitol at Springfield. It may in time be designated as the Lincoln Highway if that proposition is ever revived and pushed to completion.

Now just wanting these roads will not get us anywhere. Every other part of the state of Illinois wants roads. They are going to make strong pleas to get them. Moultrie people must be wide awake and press their claims. They must continue to invite the co-operation of Mattoon and other interested communities.

Let's not take too much for granted. We do not want to pester the highway department officials by undiplomatic nagging. But we don't want them to forget that Moultrie is right in the market for two more pieces of hard road next year.

This has been a summer of good dirt streets. The grades have kept up well. Streets in this city are right now in fair condition and much can be done to keep them so.

The biggest detriment to dirt streets or country roads is lack of drainage. Get the water off the surface of the streets, keep the roadside ditches clean and you will have your street problems half solved.

Just a casual survey of street conditions in this city shows that practically all gutters alongside dirt streets have been overgrown with weeds. Falling leaves have been blown into them. Rubbish has been piled into them. Tile openings are clogged. Everything is in readiness for a siege of bad streets as soon as rainy winter weather starts.

The city has very little money to spend on its streets. That is why The Progress is in favor of a wheel tax and urges the city council to give such matter serious consideration. But though the city may be lacking in money, why can't the individual property owner lend a helping hand? It will be to his benefit to see that weeds and rubbish are burned out of the ditches and rubbish is removed. Anybody with a lick of common sense and an ounce of civic pride and ambition can do some good street work alongside his property. In fact many folks need the exercise. It will do them good.

Sullivan is a good city. It is as clean and well kept as many, but it is far indeed from what it might be. A little energy, a little community pride properly exercised would make it the best looking city of its size in central Illinois.

To attain that end plenty of co-operation between the property owners and the city officials is needed. Also may we invite the attention to our many clubs composed of the women of this community to a "City Beautiful" problem. It is a project worthy their most careful attention.

This is a wealthy country. It has a high standard of living.

Somewhere something has happened to throw things out of kelter, however.

This country still has unlimited wealth. It has great and undeveloped natural resources. Its fields are fertile, its granaries are fairly well filled.

Despite all of this a panic is upon us. Why?

People have lost confidence in the future. Instead of being a nation of spenders, we have suddenly become a nation of hoarders. The big men with money have locked the doors on their bankroll.

Inequality has had something to do with it.

Farmers felt that they were not getting a fair deal. They were not making money. Their purchasing power was thus curtailed.

With the farmers letting up on buying, factories found no market for their products. Many of them cut down on production. That meant cutting down on number of men and women employed. That reduced these laborers to a status of economic depression still lower than that of the farmers. The farmers at least can raise the foodstuffs they need. The city laborer can not. When his pay stops there is no further income.

These are the people you find in the bread lines. These are the free soup-house patrons. Winter is just ahead. The situation looks rather gloomy.

They say these things travel in cycles. Maybe so. We hope we've reached bottom and are on the up-curve.

Before times can become much better some things must happen. First the big business man must be assured that it is to his interest to loosen up. To put his money into circulation through starting his factories. The farmers must be given a square deal, that will restore confidence that in the future farming will again be lucrative and well-paying. The small merchant and business and professional man, must buy wisely the things that he needs but has been doing without

The government must recognize the situation as it exists and cease to misrepresent with statements that prosperity is almost here.

The stock gambler and speculator must be suppressed. The grain gambler, whether it be the Federal Farm Board or the board of trade speculator must be forced to quit tampering with the farm products market.

The United States has had a wild joy-ride. The administration under Coolidge encouraged that spree. We have awakened and find it is the morning after. The country has an awful headache. It must sober up. It must look around and take into consideration all of those things which have brought the panic state into being. It must give the farmer a square deal. It must make the protective tariff effective on what he has to sell as well as on what he has to buy. It must either do this, or else revoke the special privilege that it has granted for years to its tariff-favored pets.

The Republican policies of protective tariff have wrecked the country's prosperity. Through a wild orgy of price inflation, it has created thousands of millionaires. It has worked to the detriment of the farmers and laborers. The common people demand a new deal. The old plan has been tried and found wanting. It has led to wreck and ruin.

A new start must be made based on that old political adage "Equal rights to all, special privilege to none."

Ten Years Ago In Sullivan

(From Progress Files)

The Progress of ten years ago was filled with returns of the Harding landslide. The Republicans has swept the country and plans were under way here for a big, rousing celebration.

In Moultrie county Merrill Wehmhoff had been elected states attorney over Elliott Billman by 572; Pete English had beat Loren Batson for circuit clerk by 440; C. O. Tohill had been elected coroner over Dr. O. M. Williamson by 641 and Charles Moody beat C. E. Hankley for the non-existent office of county surveyor by 509.

ILLINOIS HAS LOW DEATH RATE FOR 1929

Springfield, Nov. 4—The general death rate in Illinois for 1929 11.1 per 1,000 population, was the lowest among all the states within its population range, according to the annual report the state department of public health is now compiling. Other states of like density in population, and their mortality rates for last year follow: New York, 11.9; Pennsylvania, 11.8; and Ohio 12 per 1,000 population.

Michigan and California also had higher rates than Illinois. Infant mortality records show that New York and Illinois averaged alike, 61 to each 1000 babies born. Ten states, all much smaller than Illinois in population, had lower rates of infant mortality last year. Examination of nearly 200,000 diagnostic specimens, sanitary supervision of 700 milk pasteurizing plants, free distribution of nearly 100,000 packages of vaccines, antitoxins and other biologicals for disease prevention and cure, and other branches of service conducted by the state department of public health are given as factors contributing this improvement in public health.

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES GET 3 BILLION DOLLARS A YEAR

"Always working for those who work"—thus L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central System, characterizes the railroads, discussing the benefits derived from the railroads by every industrial worker in the country. These benefits he outlines in a letter to the public, as follows: The railroads assemble and distribute raw materials and finished products. They make possible human existence in cities by transporting food and fuel and other necessities of life. They aid in the location and promotion of indus-

STATE TO ASSIST IN PAYING 4-H PREMIUMS

Springfield, Nov. 4—County farm advisers throughout Illinois are receiving blanks whereon they may apply to Stuart E. Pierson, director of agriculture, for participation in the state fund to reimburse, in part, the premium payments made this year at agricultural and home economics exhibits in which Four-H club members participated. The law, passed in 1929, permits the distribution of funds to replace three-fourths of the first $700 in the premiums paid at exhibitions conducted under the farm advisers' supervision. Each county may draw up to $525.

Main Street Looks at Broadway

By Ernest Camp Jr.

New York—Nine months I have spent in New York. Yet I have not eaten more than a half dozen decent meals—and all of these at private homes and apartments.

No matter where you eat or what you spend, it seems almost impossible to find pure, fresh, and unadulterated food, intelligently cooked and served.

Like almost everything else you buy here, food is usually an ingenious swindle.

Tasteless Vegetables

Vegetables and fruits, in particular, are unfit for human consumption. That is, in the opinion of one who comes from the South, where the humblest laborers in the cotton fields eat better vegetables than New Yorkers pay cover charges for.

All the vegetables I have seen in New York taste exactly alike—exactly like water-soaked sawdust. They are not fresh, and no one knows how to prepare them.

Then there is milk. After drinking some of the pale, pellucid fluid that parades under that name, I can understand one reason for the pitiful little sunken-jawed children that haunt these streets—their wasted, heart-breaking little bodies.

Milk! Any self-respecting, God-fearing cow who saw this stuff would turn over in her stall and weep great, salty tears.

It is about the color of household ammonia, and contains about as much butter fat as the clear, sparkling liquid that we used to quaff from the Old Oaken Bucket.

You stop at a fruit stand and pay as high as ten cents apiece for "apples," and what do you get? A large, rather wellshaped fruit of pale green or yellow color with a flat, flavorless meat and no juice whatsoever.

Down in the mountains of Tennessee and Georgia, such junk is fed to hogs. But so long as New Yorkers don't know, and can't get any better—who cares?

The Orange Swindle

But perhaps the biggest joke—or the biggest burglary—is the "orange juice" you buy at innumerable street stands. Thousands of people have convinced themselves that this is excellent for "health."

It's a thin, concoction of plain water, sugar, artificial color and a casual dash of orange. Health! Orange juice! Haw! Haw! Haw! A walk around the corner would do a lot more good.

I am told that even the "chocolate" candy that I buy is principally cinnamon, ingeniously used to simulate chocolate, with just enough of the real article added to give the product a deceptive color and flavor.

Even the air in New York City—and I am not joking—is adulterated. It reeks with a large percentage of dirt, carbon monoxide (auto exhaust), chemical fumes, and other foul, nauseous gases than the air anywhere else that I have been luckless enough to discover.

The Water Is Pure

As yet, these clever New Yorkers have found no way to adulterate the water that we drink. But give them time! Give them time! Rome wasn't built in a day—

Otto Kahn, the banker and philanthropist, owns twenty-five automobiles. And his chauffeur states that all of them are constantly in use.

—Just goes to show that the wealthy have their cares and burdens, too. If I had twenty-five cars to use all in one day, I don't believe I'd get anything else done whatever. Tough life!

"Who's that new girl I seen you with last night?"
"That ain't no new girl, it's my old girl painted over."

The Way of Life

BY BRUCE BARTON

"QUOTA MAD"

A famous advertising agent was talking with me about business in these United States.

It is his function to prepare the advertising for several large manufacturers, and to consult with them on their sales problems. He goes home every night all tired out. He says he doesn't know anybody in business who is getting any real fun out of it.

"I'll give you my program for a typical day," he said. "I come down to my office a little before nine, and there is the sales manager of a shoe company waiting for me. His pockets are full of charts. His company's sales are 20 per cent ahead of last year, but is he satisfied? Not for a minute. He must set the mark for next year 50 per cent ahead.

"Then I go over to the office of a food manufacturer. He has just closed up the best year of his history. And we try to figure out how he can do twice as much again!

"I lunch with the officers of a cement company. If they would get together with their competitors, and agree to curtail production just a little, they could all make more money. The price of their product might have to be raised a trifle, but I doubt it, because the sales expense would be that much less. But will they curtail? Never. Every year must show bigger figures. The quotas must go up and up.

"The trouble with this country is that we have gone crazy on the subject of volume. We are quotas mad."

As we talked I recalled a conversation I had some years ago with an American who represents a French manufacturer in this country.

"I have a heart-breaking time with that Frenchman," he said. "Every year I go over there and plead with him to double his factory. We could sell twice as much of his stuff if he would only turn it out. And do you know what he says? He just waves his hands in French fashion and sputters: 'Why should I double my plant and work twice as hard? I and my family are making money enough. We have a good time. We enjoy our lives. Why should we work ourselves to death?'"

That seems to us Americans a very terrible utterance. It is treason to the spirit of modern business. Of course, a man should force his production, and his sales, and force his own poor mind and body until he dies at the age of sixty with an order blank in his hand.

Somewhere between the French attitude and our attitude there must be a half-way point that would combine the best elements of both.

"Life," says the Bible, "is more than bread, and the spirit than raiment." It also asks the question, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own life?"

Or, in modern language, what's the use of killing yourself by being quotas mad?

STATE TO ASSIST IN PAYING 4-H PREMIUMS

Springfield, Nov. 4—County farm advisers throughout Illinois are receiving blanks whereon they may apply to Stuart E. Pierson, director of agriculture, for participation in the state fund to reimburse, in part, the premium payments made this year at agricultural and home economics exhibits in which Four-H club members participated. The law, passed in 1929, permits the distribution of funds to replace three-fourths of the first $700 in the premiums paid at exhibitions conducted under the farm advisers' supervision. Each county may draw up to $525.

Mr. Brown: "Why Lloyd what's the idea of wearing your glasses to bed?"

Lloyd: "My sight is not so good Dad and I had a dream the other night in which I hardly recognized the people. That's why I'm wearing my glasses to sleep. I want to see whom I'm dreaming about."

Moultrie Farmer: "Ma do you know that long dry spell last summer cost us just about 2000 bushels of corn?"

His wife: "Well that may be Pa, but remember how nicely the salt ran out of the shakers when there was no rain or dampness in the air."

Factory Boy: "Honey dear, when's your birthday?"
The Sweetie: "Just whenever it's convenient to you Big Papa."

"Well daughter, that's quickly answered" said Mr. Lowe, "Take me to one of these speak-easies."

"Sure I can and I do. I want to try them out. The loud talkies we have in the smaller towns give me a headache."

Telephone Company please take notice. Canton in China, one of the oldest cities in the world recently put into service the most modern type of dial telephones. It took seventeen months to complete the system which is now the most modern in the far east. We hope no Chinaman from Canton visits Sullivan. We'd feel awfully silly to have them find us cranking the old boxes here in order to get service. We always thought China was a backward nation.

For many years lots of good people have been worrying about what folks should drink or not drink.

The time has now arrived when this same folks ought to turn their thoughts to the matter whether people shall eat or not eat. And thinking along that line, they might make suggestions as to where the eats shall come from during the coming winter. Don't that make good sense?

The Railroads Work for Those Who Work

A Message from L. A. Downs, President, Illinois Central System.

Every industrial worker has all the railroads of the country working for him. They assemble and distribute raw materials and finished products—a service fundamental to modern industry. They make possible human existence in cities by transporting food and fuel and other necessities of life. They aid in the location and promotion of industries. They employ more than one and one-half million workers and pay them approximately three billion dollars a year. They and their employes purchase and use the products of all other industries, thereby giving employment to many more workers. They pay taxes which lighten the tax burden of everyone else. Thus the railroads serve us all. Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

DEMOCRATIC LANDSLIDE SWEEPS THE NATION

Four Democrats Win in Moultrie; Lewis Gets Big Vote Over Mrs. McCormick.

the idea that Mr. Brumfield's defeat by such a figure was a reflection on his ability as a school man or his integrity as a very useful and popular man in this community. The facts in the case are that Mr. Brumfield, of all the Republican candidates, did not make a thorough campaign. He did not take off from his duties as principal of the Sullivan schools and did not make much of an investment in time or money to win the office for which he had been nominated. Had he done so perhaps the result would not have been so one-sided, but Mr. Walker would doubtless have won anyway. Two good school men were pitted against each other in this race and it goes without saying that in the future they will be in hearty accord in cooperating for the best interests of the pupils of Sullivan's schools.

The House of Lansden

Moultrie county people have a habit of voting for a Lansden for sheriff. The third generation of the House of Lansden from the Township of Marrowbone has now been elevated to the office which in past years has been filled by his ancestors. Halac Lansden's grandfather, the late Thomas Lansden served two full terms in that office. The newly elected sheriff's father Charles Lansden will have served nine years in that office when his present term expires and Halac takes the reins. Halac Lansden has served as deputy sheriff for the past three years. By marriage he is related to the Jenne family with a large relationship in Sullivan and Jonathan Creek township. The Lansden family having resided in Bethany and Sullivan at different periods really has two home townships and this is reflected in the vote cast in this race Tuesday.

J. N. Foster made a wonderful race in Lovington township. In other parts of the county he received somewhat less votes than did the others on his ticket. Halac Lansden made great inroads on the lead that Lovington gave "Nick" by running strong in Allenville, Lowe township, Sullivan No. 3 and Marrowbone. The winner of this office was in doubt until nearly all precinct were in. Mr. Foster made a thorough canvass of the voters, but evidently the "Lansden for Sheriff" habit is too deeply ingrained among Moultrie's voters to be easily shaken. The new sheriff is one of the youngest officials Moultrie county has had in some time, being only 31 years of age. During his campaign he promised to retain the services of his father Charles Lansden, the present sheriff, as his deputy which means that there will be no change in the personnel of this office.

Horse Power Machine

Persons who claim to feel as "strong as a horse," who enjoy the opportunity to put their strength to a practical test, will be interested to know that a device known as the eurometer, which gauges the strength of human beings in terms of horse power, has been perfected. It consists of a bicycle transmission and a hand-wheel geared to a cylinder, which offers resistance to the motion of transmission.

The person being tested is required to maintain the velocity of the resisting cylinder at a predetermined number of revolutions per minute. When the machine is in motion a weight brake is gradually applied until the revolutions fall below a given standard. The weight registers upon a scale beam on which the horse power is the unit of measure.—Washington Star.

"Open Range" Has Gone

The bureau of animal industry says that there are essentially no cattle ranches in Montana operating on the old principles, using open range exclusively. There are, however, large tracts of public domain that many ranchers make use of at certain times of the year, in the vicinity of Butte, Mont. It is the customary practice for many of the beef cattle ranchers to make use of the national forest ranges during the summer months, and many of these operators make use of the available public domain in their vicinity during the early spring months before turning their cattle onto the national forest ranges.

Wood for Golf Clubs

The golf clubs known as drivers, spoons and brassies are made of wood; putters are sometimes made of this material also. The heads of others are malleable iron. Formerly the heads of wooden clubs were made of beech and apple, but lately these woods have been almost entirely supplanted by an American wood—persimmon. The old shafts were made of a variety of woods such as ash, lancewood and greenheart, but modern shafts are almost exclusively of hickory. The finest are made of split hickory. This is hickory which is split from the wood with the grain and not sawn off the plank.

Salts Cause a Crust

Nearly every one has noticed the white formation that sometimes discolors brick walls, particularly after a season of damp weather. The crust is caused by the solidification on the surface of various kinds of chemical salts that become dissolved within the brick and gradually seep to the surface. Usually the formation disappears after a few seasons, as the salts gradually are washed away.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Thieves Wasted Time

When H. W. Pratt, traveling salesman, reported a theft of 100 shoes at Youngstown, Ohio, he grinned. He explained that the thieves would be able to make little use of their loot, for the shoes were all for the left foot. The shoes were found later thrown away in the road.

that way and even in Platt, Thomas Kastel, Democrat was elected to the office of county judge.

Douglas county went Republican as usual, with perhaps the exception of county clerk. Mr. Hawkins who has held that office for 32 years was on early returns shown to have lost.

Coles county elected a Democratic superintendent of schools and treasurer. Shelby county elected all Democrats except superintendent of schools and the margin in favor of Supt. White is very small and may be changed by the official county.

Other nearby counties also elected most of their Democratic candidates with the exception of Macon which, while giving Senator Lewis a 2 to 1 vote, elected all Republicans to county office.

Democrats in Cook county swept into every office by record-breaking majorities.

High Place of Flowers in Art Decoration

We are indebted to the flowers for what happens their beauty affords us, to many for their fragrance, and for the joy and pleasure in growing them in our gardens, but the extent of our indebtedness does not end here, according to a flower enthusiast.

"Early in the history of art the flowers lent their aid to decoration," he says. "The acanthus, which gave its leaves to crest the capital of the Corinthian column, the roses conventionalized in the rich fabrics of ancient Persia, until they have been thought sheer inventions of the weaver, are among the first items of an indebtedness which has steadily grown in volume until today, when the designers who find their inspirations in the flowers are a vast and increasing host. In a modern mansion of the best type the outer walls are enriched with the leafy beauty of the sunflower; within, the mosaic floors, the silk and paper hangings, repeat themes suggested by the vine, the wild clematis and the mayflower. The stained glass windows, from New York, where their manufacture excels that of any other city in the world, are exquisite with boldly treated lilies, poppies and columbines."

Maze of Galleries and Halls in Hill of Cuma

Three complete subterranean halls, ranging from 600 to 900 feet in diameter, have been discovered in the celebrated caves of Cuma, near Naples, in which the nine sibyls of Roman history are said to have written their books. Only three of these books have survived. The halls were discovered only after the removal of thousands of tons of earth. The excavators, working under the direction of Professor Maiuri, traced an underground gallery a mile long and found that the interior of the hill of Cuma, which is ten miles from Naples overlooking the sea, consists of a maze of galleries and ancient halls resembling basilicas and wondrous shrines.

A subterranean temple of Apollo was also discovered. A statue of the Greek god was erected there in the days of the Emperor Augustus. Although the statue has now disappeared, the great niche remains.—New York Times Magazine.

Actual Stock Exchange "Seats"

In the early days a "seat" on the Boston Stock exchange was an actuality, each member having his own chair and desk and forbidden under penalty of a fine from trading out of it. Due to the fact that seats were arranged in parallel rows along the walls and facing it, some of the more unfortunate members were at some distance from the rest of the president of the exchange, who had the conduct of business in charge, so that in times of brisk bidding they could with difficulty make their bids or offers heard. It was not until 1885 in Boston that seats were finally abolished and not until 1868 in New York and 1885 in Boston that continuous daily sessions were inaugurated.—Boston Transcript.

Painful Impression

There is no real pain when you cut your finger, Professor Pieron of the College of France informed the international congress on psychology. What you have, then, is just the impression that there is a pain. A real pain, the professor explained, is a sense level reached when specific sense organs are stimulated. Whether toothache, lumbago or a punch on the jaw stimulates these organs, we do not know, says the San Francisco Chronicle, for the professor did not go into such particulars. But what we do know is that the impression of a pain hurts just the same.

Essentials of Happiness

What makes for happy living? Three things above all else. A healthy body, first and foremost. Then an environment which offers fair opportunity for a man's normal activities and aspirations. And finally a community of people who do two things; they must respect each individual's personality and leave him to work out his own salvation according to his own nature in so far as he harms nobody; and they must co-operate good-naturedly with him in his work and his play.—Prof. Walter B. Pitkin in the Household Magazine.

Wolf Killed by Brave Woman

There are many stories of how the last Scottish wolf met its doom; many places in Scotland claim the honor of being the scene of the kill. Glen Morrison may be the one, and here a woman was the slayer. On her return home from taking food to her men-folk, she was attacked by an angry and famished wolf, but she wound a cloth round her wrist and hand, then, gripping a knife, thrust it down the animal's throat and dispatched it without receiving a wound.

Discovery of Radium

In 1896 Henri Becquerel discovered that a crystal of salt of uranium could in the dark reduce the silver bromide on a photographic plate, even when a sheet of black paper was placed between. Evidently a radiation different from light was given out by the salt. Pierre and Mme. Curie found that the mineral pitchblende had the same properties. The mineral radium is white and turns black in the air. It belongs to the uranium family.

June Yarnell Writes Best Essay

Some weeks ago, on invitation to a temperature of 143 degrees extended by the Sullivan Dairy, the eighth grade class of the Sullivan grade schools were shown through the dairy and its operations were explained to them. Isaac Brothers, owners of the dairy then offered prizes for the three best essays written on what the children had learned during their trip. Thirty nine essays were submitted to judges and first prize was awarded to June Yarnell; Second to Vivian Loy and third to Rhoda Belle Duncan. Miss Yarnell's prize winning essay appears herewith. The others will be published in succeeding issues of this paper:

June Yarnell 8-One MILK AND ITS PRODUCTS

I do not think there are many people in this town who are like the little boy from the city. He came to small town to visit his grandfather who owned a cow. That evening his grandpa asked him if he wanted to go with him to get the milk. The little boy went. His grandpa went to a vacant lot where he kept the cow and began to milk. The small boy said, "Oh you get your milk from cows. We get ours from bottles."

The dairy also gets their milk from cows. They have many customers who bring them milk or sweet cream every morning. In the dairy is a pair of scales, with no springs, on which they weigh the milk. After weighing the milk on these scales there can be no question over the weight.

Samples are taken of the milk at different times. These samples are tested for butterfat. After being taken through different processes the butterfat gathers in the long, narrow neck of the bottle. They have a small instrument with which they measure it. This gives them the per cent of butterfat in your cream or milk. The per cent of butterfat times the number of pounds of cream, multiplied by the price of cream gives the amount of money due the customer. The price you receive for your milk is according to the per cent of butterfat it contains.

In order to sell pure, clean, products and reach the requirements of the state they must pasteurize all milk. The milk is poured in a large vat or container lined with metal. There are large coils on the inside which hot water heated by steam goes through. They heat the milk to a temperature of 143 degrees (F) and keep it there for thirty minutes. This kills all harmful germs but does not hurt the useful ones which make milk sour so we can have cottage cheese. This is called pasteurization. There is an automatic clock on the end of the pasteurizer which keeps record of every day. This tells whether they pasteurize every day or not, to what temperature they reach and how long they keep it. As it comes from the pasteurizer it runs over fourteen metal tubes filled with cold water to cool the milk. It drops into a large container. The milk is automatically taken from this and put into bottles. It is capped in the same way.

There is more to making good ice cream than the mixing and freezing. In mixing, eggs, cream, and other wholesome foodstuffs are added. After it is mixed it is put in the freezer, whipped very much and pulled through the viscolizer which makes it much smoother than home-made cream. When it is taken from the freezer it is a great deal like mush. It runs from the freezer into containers. Then it is set in the cold room for the ageing process where it is left from twenty-four to thirty-six hours. By eating ice cream in the summer you may keep cool during the hottest parts.

The churn in which they make the butter is a large wooden container. On the inside are paddles and other devices to keep the cream moving. The churn also rotates. When the butter is taken out, cut, and wrapped it is placed in the cold room. This room has a temperature of zero. It is left here till it is sold among our local markets. That is not long, as they do not make butter in large enough quantities to keep it long.

Many other articles besides what I have mentioned are made there. Some of these are cottage cheese and chocolate milk which is a new drink they are putting out. It is very good, you better try some and find out for yourself. If you like treats and you get hot very easy you probably know they make many flavored ices, and doubtless other products just as good.

The dairy of Sullivan has a certificate given by the state saying their products are pure and that they meet all requirements of the state for a sanitary dairy.

WHO'S WHO

Claiming perhaps more activities than any other senior, Jean Pearce is rapidly becoming known among the students and faculty as one of the most popular and peppy leaders of the high school.

This cheerfully deposed person was born near Sullivan, Illinois, on August 19, 1914 and moved to Michigan in 1926. She entered high school here in her freshman year and as her activities she was a member of the Glee Club, the Home Economics club, and entered the declamation contest. In her sophomore year she was a member of the Glee Club and of the Home Ec. club as she was in her junior year and is now in her senior year. Besides this she was as a sophomore, a member of the debating squad and treasurer of her class. In her junior year she was president of the Home Ec. club, vice president of the Arguenots and chairman of the J. Prom invitation committee. To bring her high school career to a fitting close she is a Big Sister, president of the Arguenots, secretary of the senior class and a member of the Wahoo staff.

Jean plans to be a teacher after graduation. Certainly such a brilliant and illustrious girl will find success in her work.

SAFETY LEADERS TO MEET AT SPRINGFIELD

Safety leaders from practically every county in the state are interested in the convention to be held at Springfield on Nov. 24 and 25 by the Illinois State Conference on Street and Highway Safety to draft a drivers' license law as outlined in the Hoover traffic code. The proposed bill is to be presented to the general assembly which convenes in January.

A meeting of the arrangement committee has been called by its chairman Dr. John Dill Robertson, director of safety for the Motorists Association of Illinois for Wednesday evening (Nov. 5) at the Hamilton Club in Chicago. Representatives of the national highway department in Washington, who will attend the traffic meeting in Chicago on Wednesday and Thursday staged by the United States Chamber of Commerce to further the movement for uniform traffic regulation, will address the members of the arrangement committee.

Vice-President Curtis, who will be in Chicago Wednesday, has also been invited to address the meeting.

"It is proposed to draft the same drivers' license law for Illinois that is now in operation in eleven states and which has resulted in an annual reduction in 29 per cent in automobile fatalities," said Dr. Robertson. "The bill will be a non revenue measure. The adoption of the law will mean a reduction of 29 per cent in automobile fatalities," said Dr. Robertson. "The bill will be a non-revenue measure. The adoption of the law will mean a reduction of 500 automobile fatalities for the state taking the results obtained by the other states operating the Hoover Measure as a criterion."

AVOID THE MISTAKES MOST PARENTS MAKE

You see them everywhere—children who are disobedient, rude, unpopular with others. But these children weren't born that way. These undesirable traits developed gradually because some parent made bad mistakes in child training. Not because he intended to but because he didn't understand child psychology, didn't know how to teach good habits, how to guide his child to successful living.

The eyes of many parents have been opened to a new understanding of children, they have been helped to work out better, easier, happier ways of training their children by reading "The Parents' Magazine." Each month it brings them very practical, helpful articles on every phase of child care from crib to college. It deals with such subjects as obedience, baby care, sex education, finicky appetites, adolescence, temper, habits, and character training. Doctors, teachers, psychologists, experts in many fields of child training, as well as mothers and fathers write its interesting, helpful articles. Mistakes in child training are costly. They may affect the entire future of your boy or girl. That is why you can't afford to be without "The Parents' Magazine." The subscription price is only $2.00 for one year or $3.00 for three years. Subscriptions will be received at the office of this newspaper, or may be sent direct to the S. N. Department, The Parents' Magazine, 251 Fourth Ave., New York, N. Y.

"Join Red Cross," Urges Vice President Curtis

America's prominent citizens join in urging all men and women to become members of the Red Cross during the period of the annual roll call from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

The Honorable Charles Curtis, Vice President of the United States, says: "The American Red Cross is in a position to and does more to relieve those stricken by misfortune than any other organization in the world. Its splendid work has done much to bring a friendly feeling in all parts of the world for the people of our country because they sustain the American Red Cross. This wonderful organization is entitled to the liberal support of our people."

The Honorable Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, says: "No one can predict when or where disaster may occur or acute emergency arise. The American Red Cross represents our community insurance against such misfortunes. The organization stands ready at all times to render speedy relief to any stricken area in our own country or to assist in the relief of disaster in foreign countries. The Red Cross is the agency which carries on when emergency has disrupted customary modes and means of life in a community."

Six Foreign Countries Receive Red Cross Aid

Relief was given by the American Red Cross during the year in six foreign nations in disasters ranging from a tidal wave in Newfoundland, an earthquake in Persia, floods in France to help for refugees from Russia and prevention of a smallpox epidemic in Costa Rica.

The $5,000 Red Cross contribution to Newfoundland, following the tidal wave, which took twenty-six lives and destroyed many homes and fishing boats, was the first from an outside country to reach the distressed people.

The sum of $5,000 was given to the fund for the relief of the Mennonite refugees of German descent, who had determined to leave Russia for new lands. About 13,000 passed through Germany, where the German Red Cross, aided by Red Cross societies of other nations, helped them. The majority are being transported to new countries in the western world and the American Red Cross has transmitted contributions from individuals in this country.

When Costa Rica was menaced by a smallpox epidemic, the American Red Cross sent fifty thousand tubes of vaccine, in two airplane loads, undoubtedly saving the country from a serious outbreak of the dread disease.

REMEMBER OR FORGET

By Hamilton Aide

I sat beside the streamlet, I watched the water flow, As we together watched it One little year ago:

The soft rain pattered on the leaves

The April grass was wet.

Ah! folly to remember; 'Tis wiser to forget.

The nightingales made vocal June's palace paved with gold; I watched the rose you gave me

Its warm red heart unfold; But breath of rose and birds song Were fraught with wild regret.

'Tis madness to remember; 'Twere wisdom to forget.

I stood among the gold corn, Alas! no more, I knew, To gather gleaner's measure

Of the love that fell from you. For me, no gracious harvest— Would God we ne'er had met!

'Tis hard, Love, to remember, But 'tis harder to forget.

The streamlet now is frozen, The nightingales are fed, The cornfields are deserted, And every rose is dead,

I sit beside my lonely fire, And pray for wisdom yet; For calmness to remember, Or courage to forget.

NINETY DISASTERS CALL OUT RED CROSS

Vice Chairman Fieser Cites $1,200,000 Spent in Relief—3,500 Chapters Aid in Work.

Readiness to act in an emergency, should a disaster strike, has become part of the Red Cross Chapter program in thousands of communities. The need for this training of local committees was revealed last year, when more than ninety communities required disaster relief work by the Red Cross.

As in former years, tornadoes brought the greatest damage. Twenty-four serious tornadoes occurred. Fire also took toll of life and property in twenty-four communities. Seven forest fires did great damage; eighteen areas were affected by floods, and nine storms caused heavy losses. Other disasters were cloudbursts, cyclones, epidemics, mine explosions and shipwrecks. In the insular possessions of the United States the Red Cross gave relief in twelve disasters, chiefly from hurricanes. In foreign countries relief was given by the American Red Cross in six instances of earthquakes, floods and to refugees.

The disaster relief work of the Red Cross cost $1,208,151 last year. Statistics showed an approximate death rate of 790 persons in these disasters; buildings destroyed or damaged, 19,578; persons injured, 1,487, and persons assisted by the Red Cross, 96,872.

Through disaster preparedness of Red Cross Chapters, undoubtedly great numbers of lives were saved, and much distress and grief following the calamities was prevented, according to James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations of the Red Cross.

"This type of work is supported by the memberships of citizens of the United States, their volunteer contributions, and their devoted work," Mr. Fieser said.

"Every man and woman is urged to join as a member of the local Red Cross Chapter, not only to be a partner in supporting the work through his membership, but also to serve should an emergency occur."

It will be my endeavor to so conduct the office of County Clerk as to prove that your confidence in me was not misplaced.

Never want to see if a headache will "wear off." Why suffer when there's Bayer Aspirin? The many millions of men and women who use it in increasing quantities every year prove that it does relieve such pain. And as surely relieves that of neuralgia; neuritis; even rheumatism. Doctors declare genuine Aspirin (with the Bayer Cross on every box and tablet) does not affect the heart. Any drugstore.

BROKEN

RUBY M. AYRES

ELEVENTH INSTALLMENT

"You can't say it! Julie—" With fierce little movement he drew her into his arms and kissed her lips.

"I love you," he whispered. "I've never loved any one but you. Forgive me, Julie—"

She put her hands against his chest, trying to hold him from her. "Forgive you? And then what?" she asked hoarsely. She began to cry, softly and brokenly. "You might leave me alone—you might leave me alone," she sobbed, helplessly.

She knew she had reached the end of her endurance. She knew that if she gave in to him now there would be no retracing her steps. She tried to think of Lawrence Schofield—tried to believe that he was far the better man of the two, and that with him she would stand a greater chance of happiness, but common-sense and logic died against the magic of Chittenham's arms and the touch of his lips. She only knew that during all the weeks since they parted in Switzerland, she had ached for this moment, dreamed of it and longed for it, and that now in spite of her proud defiance it had come, and when Chittenham asked again:

"Do you love me?—do you want me after all, Julie?" she had no answer.

She let him draw her closely into his arms, and when he pressed her head down against his shoulder, she closed her eyes with a little sigh of spent resignation.

It was a long time before either of them spoke again. Chittenham did not attempt to kiss her, he just held her in his arms, his cheek against her hair, as if she had been a tired child who had come to him for comfort and protection.

It was Julie who moved first.

"Bim will be in soon. Poor Bim, I've been such a beast to her lately."

She drew a little back from him, looking at him with eyes that were all wet and ashamed, and yet happier than he had seen them since that night in Switzerland.

It was typical of Julie that now she had given in, she was ready to acknowledge herself fully beaten. With Chittenham's first kiss she put the past behind her and kept her eyes closed to the future. For the moment the present was all sufficient. The great ache and unhappiness of her heart had been taken away; he was here and he loved her. The happiness of that knowledge and the relief of her own admission that she loved him, for a little while blinded her to everything else.

"Bim is away—" Chittenham said. "I rang her up before I came here. She was called out of town, I forget what reason she gave—some friend, I think—"

Julie flushed.

"I wonder if that was true? Or if it was I who really drove her away. I've been horrible lately—"

He folded her close to his heart once more.

"It's all over and done with," he whispered.

"Is it?" A little line of pain creased her forehead. "You must be a wonderful man if you can say that with such confidence," she told him sadly.

She closed her eyes wearily before the insistence of his.

"I mean—I suppose no miracles have happened, have they?"

"Only that you are here, in my arms."

"That is not what I mean."

He knew what she meant, and he answered her directly.

"I am still married, if that is what you mean, Julie?"

"Yes." He could hardly catch the whisper.

He turned her face from its resting place against his shoulder, and kissed her.

"I shall ask my wife to set me free. We are nothing to one another."

Julie shivered.

"Supposing she won't consent? Shall you tell her about me?"

Chittenham hesitated.

"She may not be sufficiently interested to want to know. She and I have not been anything to one another for a long time. Where are you going?"

Julie had risen to her feet, gently disengaging his arms.

"I am just wondering how all this came about," she said brokenly. "How I—how you made me give in to you. It was the last thought in my mind when I came in. No—don't touch me, please—"

For he had risen also and moved towards her.

"Giles—do you think I've been very easy to break?"

Chittenham winced. Her words hurt him. She looked infinitely pathetic as she stood there, her face still stained with tears, and her lips trembling. He made a swiftly passionate movement towards her.

"Julie—do you really love me, my dear?"

The hot color rushed from her chin to her brow.

"Will it sound very horrid of me if I say that I wish I didn't?" she whispered. "No—no, stay there. I want to talk to you. It's still all so unreal—I feel so muddled—as if it's just a dream that I can only faintly remember. Tell me—why did you come back this evening?"

"Because I heard that you were to marry Schofield."

"Oh!" Her eyes fell. Poor Lawrence! She had forgotten him completely.

"And now—what do we do now?" she asked softly.

Chittenham held out his arms.

"Come here and I will tell you."

She went to him readily enough, and for a little while everything was forgotten in kisses, and the foolish words of lovers which yet hold all the wisdom of the world.

The chiming of a clock brought them back to earth.

She pushed him from her.

"It was your fault," she said feverishly. "I was weak enough to let it be your fault. I suppose I haven't any pride, or I should just have gone on and got over it—"

"I'm glad you didn't, Julie."

With sudden impulse, Julie raised her hand to her lips and kissed it, then with revulsion of feeling she almost angrily pushed it from her.

He took her face between his hands, and kissed her passionately.

"Nothing shall ever part us any more," he whispered against her lips.

But she was not satisfied.

"Giles—supposing she won't divorce you?"

"I am not afraid of that."

"But supposing she won't?"

Julie insisted feverishly.

"Need we suppose any such thing?"

"I want to suppose everything. I want to know what the worst is that we may have to face."

Chittenham looked away from her, and there was a hard line about his mouth.

"If such a thing happened—it would be for you to say—" he answered at last.

"What do you mean?"

"That then there would be only one way in which we could belong to each other, Julie."

She did not pretend to misunderstand him, but the hot blood rose to her soft hair and her eyes fell.

"Would you care enough for that—if there was no other way, Julie?"

For a moment she was silent, then with a swift little gesture she turned to him, hiding her face against his breast.

It was two o'clock before Giles thought of leaving the flat.

"Such a scandal!" he teased Julie. "Neither of us would have a shred of reputation left if our best and dearest friends know how abominably we have been behaving."

Julie made a little grimace.

"I haven't any best and dearest friends except Bim—" she answered, and then abruptly: "Giles, what do you think of Sadie?"

"Sadie—" He was glad that as her cheek was resting against his shoulder, she could not see his face. It seemed an ill omen that at this moment she should speak of his wife. He avoided a deliberate answer.

"What a question! I hardly know what to say," he said lightly.

"I only asked because she has spoken about you several times. I think she rather likes you."

"Nonsense!"

His voice sounded almost angry and Julie looked up at him in surprise.

"Don't you want her to like you? She and I are great friends. I prefer her to any one I have met since—" She stopped with a little shrug of her shoulders.

"Since you and I met on the top of the world," Giles added for her.

It was nearly three in the morning when he left the flat, and the streets were silent and deserted as he walked away through the darkness, pausing for a moment to look back at the lighted window where Julie stood with her face pressed to the pane to catch a last glimpse of him.

Behind him was the sound of other steps, a little slower than his, and yet in some strange way seeming deliberately to be dogging him.

Chittenham glanced over his shoulder, irritatingly conscious of being followed.

A taxicab on the lookout for a late fare turned a corner, and Giles hailed it. At all events it would put an end once and for all to his interested follower. As he slammed up the door he glanced backwards along the road the way he had come.

The man was passing beneath a street lamp, and in the sudden light his figure seemed strangely familiar, although for the moment Chittenham could not place the resemblance.

The taxicab moved away and then all at once he knew—it was Lombard! That was the resemblance he had seen—Harry Lombard!

For an instant he was conscious of angry premonition; what did it mean?—then he laughed at himself. The idea was preposterous! Why should Lombard have followed him? He remembered their last meeting—and Lombard's deplorable insinuations.

Chittenham's face grew grim.

Supposing Lombard had been waiting outside Julie's flat during the past five hours?

When Chittenham was dressing in the morning his mother rang through on the phone.

"I only rang up to ask if you will come this afternoon."

"Why do you want me to come? You know I'm an unbeliever."

There was a little hesitation before the plaintive voice came again.

"To tell you the truth, I'm just a tiny bit nervous! I've never been mixed up in anything of the kind before, and I thought with you there—"

"The evil spirits couldn't get you, eh?—don't worry—" Giles laughed. "I meant to come anyway."

"And Giles—in case you're angry at meeting her again after what happened the other night—Miss Farrow is coming! I know I said I wouldn't have her in the house any more, but after all, one must be broad-minded—"

Giles guffawed.

It takes all sorts to make a world," his mother went on. "So you will be nice and polite to her, won't you, dear?"

"I think I can safely promise you that."

He smiled to himself as he hung up the receiver. It seemed absurd that his mother should have thought it necessary to ask him to be polite to Julie!

He had hardly finished dressing when a message came to say that Lombard was downstairs waiting to see him.

THE WEATHER

On Monday morning fog beset us. Tuesday morning we were again in the fog.

But Wednesday morning all the fog had disappeared. The sun rose in all its magnetic glory...

The world seems brighter than usual. The air is crisper, the frost is whiter and the sun shines with a beauty undimmed.

Now we're not claiming that the election results Tuesday did all this, but it has come to pass since then. Every time we read some new election returns...

Now don't get the idea that we are going to claim that the Democrats elected Lewis Senator...

The man whom the Democrats had selected as their nominee. The same kind of voting was done here in Moultrie county.

Mrs. McCormick made a gallant fight against great odds. Her wealth was her biggest handicap.

You know it's hard to write of the weather this week. A friend told us this morning that it had been reported to him that we jumped and whooped and hollered on election night.

No matter what the weather may be in the future—and we expect it will be very much like it has been in the past—it's up to the men elected to office Tuesday...

But plot and action are of little consequence in the welter of laughs and roars that patches and tosses this splendid show along to one grand hilarious tidal-wave finale.

Name "Taffy" Traced to Javanes Word for Rum

The American word taffy and the British word toffee, for candy made of molasses, originate from the Javanes word for rum: tape, or tafe, distilled from molasses.

The word came to the Philippines with the Indonesian colonies from Asia that had long inhabited the mountains of northern Luzon; these people, however, do not make rum, but ferment wine from rice and give it the Javanes name for rum.

Another variation is the name of the wine from sugar cane juice, basi. When the British freebooter, Captain Anson, conveyed a prize he had taken, the silver-laden Spanish galleon Cabadonga, around Luzon toward Maco, he sent ashore for water and the islanders gave him me copious drinks of basi that had lightning effect.

Returning to ship, the men's tongues were thick, and in explaining their condition to Anson they said they had been enjoying a few cups of Bashi; Captain Anson charted his channel and named it Bashi channel, and the islands, really the Babuyan group, he called Bashi's islands. So goes, round the world of commerce, a bit of taffy on the tongue.

Man of Peace Honored for Wartime Invention

A clergyman who evidently did not consider that there was anything incongruous in serving the Prince of Peace and at the same time inventing "gadgets" to help in the maiming and killing of his fellow-men has a tablet to his memory at the Tower of London—quite an appropriate place.

He was Rev. John Alexander Forsyth, a Scotsman, who invented the percussion lock for small arms, and who also produced a detonating powder for which it is said, he was offered $100,000 by Napoleon. Forsyth left his quiet manse to work in the Tower, and when his duties were over he returned to his village with an honorary LL.D. degree. The reverend inventor died in 1843. His is the first memorial to a private individual that has ever been erected in the precincts of the Tower.

Heat Homes From "Bottle"

Homes of the future will be heated by electricity "bottled" up in a reservoir in the house at night when the electric company's facilities are not busy, and used the next day. In the opinion of Chester I. Hall, an electrical engineer, the "bottle," containing water, would be heated during the night by electrodes which would raise the water temperature to boiling. By reason of insulation, the reservoir would retain its heat during the day. It would be equipped with thermostatic controls. Such a heating plant would be economical, it was estimated, if the power company could store the heat during the idle hours of the night.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Right Diet Affects Teeth

If you want strong, white teeth pay attention to your diet as well as to your toothbrush. The food you eat is just as important as the dentifrice you use. Dr. Walter H. Eddy, food chemist and health authority, offers this advice. Several recent surveys, he reports, have shown that individuals whose diet was deficient in milk and green vegetables were possessors of weak and quickly decayed teeth because the blood which feeds the teeth was not sufficiently supplied with the necessary lime salts to give them strength.—Good Housekeeping Magazine.

Wily Elephant

Though tigers and leopards can not, as a class, be said to sham death, there have been instances in which one of these—after having to all appearances, been shot dead—has suddenly "come to life" and been very much alive, until finally dispatched. There is an instance on record of a newly captured elephant playing the "artful dodger" so successfully that it completely deceived its captors, who releasing its bonds, left it for dead, but scarcely had they gone a little distance when, to their amazement, the creature rose, and trumpeting loudly, made good its escape.

Beautiful English Cathedral

England's most beautiful cathedral, at Salisbury, has been called England's finest poem in stone. It is, indeed, the most harmonious and best proportioned of the English cathedrals, for it was built within the short space of 40 years (1220-1260), where many others have taken centuries to complete them. It is a pure example of early English architecture, unalloyed by foreign influence. Its spire, rising from the very middle of the church, is the loftiest in England.—Detroit News.

British Sailors in 1812

Histories of the British navy indicate that the British frigates were manned principally by Englishmen during the War of 1812. They are described as a mixed class of men, being secured in various ways. Bounties were offered for enlistment in the navy and when this did not bring enough recruits certain county was required to raise a certain number in proportion to population. They were known as quota men. In addition, numbers were pressed into the service.

Apology for Errors

My errors, I hope are only those of charity to mankind; and such as my own charity has caused me to commit, that of others may more easily excuse.—Dryden.

L. ATCHISON AWARDED TROPHY PLAQUE FROM GOODYEAR TIRE CO.

Trophy plaque finished in fine art metal and executed with splendid artistic technique has been received and is on display at Les Atchison's Tire & Battery Station, Goodyear tire dealer located at Northeast Corner of Square.

The trophy is awarded in recognition of the sales achievement which the Tire & Battery Station attained during July and August of this year in the Goodyear Zeppelin nation wide sales race staged for Goodyear tire dealers.

Featuring transportation, the plaque shows the various modes of travel on land and sea back thru the early stages of man's progress, carrying the development along to the modern Zeppelin type airship.

"It is interesting to note," remarked Mr. Atchison in connection with the award of the trophy which he has on display in his store window, "that Goodyear's own development in the rubber industry parallels that portrayed in the plaque—starting back with the rubber tires for horsedrawn carriages and pioneering in automobile and truck and bus tire development as well as leading the way in America in the construction and operation of lighter-than-air ships.

"Goodyear-Zeppelin is now constructing two of the world's largest airships for the United States Navy. The "U.S. Akron" more than three-fourths of the structure of which has been completed, will be ready for its initial flight next spring at Akron.

"So I am mighty proud of this plaque because it not only represents this splendid achievement on the part of a large industry but a lot of hard work as well on the part of my own organization to win the trophy."

FORD CAR STOLEN HERE THIS WEEK

Wednesday when Claude Wheeler, salesman for the Capitol Chevrolet Sales in this city, went to the Doner Implement store where his employers keep used cars in storage, he found that the 1929 model Ford that he wanted to take to Bethany to demonstrate was not there. He went back to the office and asked who had this car out. Further investigation disclosed that it had been stolen and no trace of it had been found Thursday morning. The supposition is that somebody walked in in broad daylight Tuesday and drove the car away.

Sullivan has won three out of four of the regular scheduled Okaw Valley games, and her certainty in the conference will be determined after meeting the Monticello team in the past four years. Monticello has eked out four victories. This should be our year to win. This is the last game of the season and should be supported by every person in the community. Due to the fact that it follows in the same week of the Shelbyville Armistice game it is necessary to play this game on Saturday afternoon Nov. 15. Remember the date and plan to help Sullivan defeat Monticello. There is no Sullivan game this week.

As has been the custom since last year delegates have been selected to represent S. T. H. S. at the State High School Chorus. These delegates have been picked from the members of the glee clubs. Last year a quartette of girls was sent. This year Mrs. Roney is sending a mixed quartet.

Miss Wilson and Miss Barrick attended the University of Illinois game against Purdue Saturday. They spent the week end at the home of Miss Barrick in Urbana. Miss Dixon spent the week end with her parents in Burlington, Wisconsin.

Poland. Mr. Poland returned to this city about two months ago and bought the Shell filling station near the I. C. tracks on Hamilton street. He left Sullivan for Decatur about 16 years ago. See his adv. then see him.
