75TH YEAR NO. 46

Was Killed By Friend

James Dickerson Played "William Tell" and Placed Bottle on Head for Friend to Shoot Off. Friend's Aim too Low.

James Dickerson, a former Sullivan man, was shot and killed at Lester, Iowa Monday. The tragedy was peculiar in the events that led up to the killing.

Dickerson and George Marnette, 36, drove up to the filling station and stopped to get some gas. While waiting Marnette picked up a pistol, lying on a desk and started bragging about his ability as an expert shot.

"All right, William Tell" Dickerson said "If you're so good, shoot this bottle off my head." The pair stepped outside and Dickerson put the bottle on his head, walked a few paces away from Marnette. While Dickerson's back was turned, Marnette took aim and shot. The bullet passed entirely through Dickerson's head and he fell dead.

Marnette was arrested. He knew very little about Dickerson, who was a chance acquaintance. A search of Dickerson's clothes disclosed a photo of a girl. That photo had been taken at "The Star Art Studio, Sullivan, Illinois." The sheriff at Rock Rapids, Iowa, the county seat of the county where the tragedy took place, took several photos of the dead man in enclosed them with the photo found in his possession and sent them to Sheriff Lamsden in this city. The dead man had been going by the name of Dickinson.

When these exhibits arrived here, Mr. Holzmueller of the studio identified the picture as that of a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Shepherd of Arthur. It had been taken about ten years ago. Levy Dickerson was interviewed and at once identified the pictures of the dead man as being James Dickerson, a distant relative. He had spent some time in this community about ten years ago. At time of death he was about 29 years of age.

Mrs. Roscoe Shepherd and Mrs. Clarence Hoke of Arthur are his sisters. His home town was Elberton, Kentucky. The picture which he carried and which served to identify him was of a niece, Bonnie Shepherd.

The relatives were notified by the sheriff and gave orders that the remains be shipped to Arthur for burial.

Flag Was Presented

Impressive Armistice Day Exercises Took Place on High School Grounds. Legion Gave Flag to the School.

Sullivan had an impressive Armistice day observance Wednesday. By proclamation of Mayor McFerrin most of the places of business closed during the afternoon.

At 1 o'clock a parade formed at Legion headquarters. It consisted of Colors, high school band, National Guard escort and Legionnaires. The march was around the square and out to the High school grounds.

Commander Hawley of the Legion then presented the school with a large silk flag. President Dick on behalf of the school made the speech of acceptance. Lloyd Brown blew Colors and Taps. J. Frank Gibbon and Dr. George A. Roney raised the colors until they floated from the top of the new flag pole which the school had erected on the grounds east of the building. It was one of the most impressive patriotic services ever seen in this city.

Col. Percival of Decatur was unable to be present to make the address of the day but Hon. Howard Doyle of Decatur, a member of the General Assembly made a very pleasing talk that has been the subject of much favorable comment from those who heard it.

Later in the day the Sullivan football team met and defeated the Lovington high school team on Victory field by the score of 40 to 0.

Wednesday evening the benefit bridge party given by the Legion Auxiliary in the club rooms was very well attended. Twenty two tables were at play. Of the ladies present, Mrs. Ed Gilham won 1st prize, Mrs. Frank Shell second and Mrs. Edgar McKenzie, booby. F. W. Wood was best player among the men; Guy Little ranked second and George Henderson came near not ranking at all for he got booby prize.

Spoke To Farmers

W. F. Schilling of Federal Farm Board Tells of Work the Board Is Doing to Help Agriculture. Disapproves of New Movement in Illinois.

In the opinion of W. F. Schilling member of the Federal Farm Board, who spoke here Thursday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Moultrie County Farm Bureau, the Farmers Protective Association "that is apparently masquerading as a friend of agriculture is especially fostered as a wet nurse to the Chicago Board of Trade."

Mr. Schilling arrived here on Thursday morning. In the afternoon he spoke in the circuit court room. Not only farmers but business men and women of this community had been invited to hear Mr. Schilling and the result was a good turnout.

Mr. Schilling was introduced by H. Fahrnkopf, director of grain marketing of the I. A. A.

Among some of the high points in Mr. Schilling's address are the following:

"If the farmers of the country were familiar with the intent and purposes of the marketing act they would spend little time absorbing propaganda detrimental to their own best interests. Surely the work of the Federal Farm Board has elicited the enmity of a lot of people who have long enjoyed the privilege of a goodly profit without seeing that the farmer got a fair price and a fair living.

Answering the recent wail of Barney Kilbourne of Minneapolis, president of the National Poultry and Egg Dealers Association on his comment that the private dealers in poultry and eggs lost $30,000,000 on eggs last year because of the interference of the Farm Board in the markets Mr. Schilling said: "I feel terribly sorry for Barney and his associates in their sad plight for they were just darn poor guessers in the market for the Farm Board had not financed

Subscription List Grows

Folks Like The Progress "2 for 1" Offer and Many New Subscribers are Being Added Through Courtesy of Old Ones Who Pay in Advance.

If you receive a copy of The Progress this week that is not marked "Sample Copy" it may mean that some friend has paid his subscription in advance and handed in your name as the party who is to receive the premium subscription. If such is the case it means that you are going to get The Progress for a whole year as a gift from the regular subscriber who paid his subscription in advance.

Many are taking advantage of the "2 for 1" subscription offer. Dozens of people are now getting The Progress who did not get it when we first made this liberal offer. We then stated that we wanted 50 to 100 new subscribers and we would let our old subscribers pick these new ones. It looks now as if we set our goal too low. We have not decided as yet when this "2 for 1" offer will close, but assure you that it will be done without giving much of a preliminary warning. If you want to take advantage of it, do not delay.

The regular subscription price of The Progress is $1.50 per year, never less. It's worth every cent of that. This price means that for less than 3c a week you get one of the newest and best edited weekly papers in the state. (Do I hear any applause to this statement?) You see, we believe in the merits of our paper and do not hesitate to say so. If you disagree, write us a letter. We like to get kicks once in a while.

But please don't forget about this "2 for 1" subscription offer. If you can't come to the office to pay, mail in your subscription payment. No matter how far you may now be paid in advance, you can come in on this "2 for 1" offer if you pay another year. Nobody is barred. We want subscription payments and new subscribers. The offer is open. Our subscription list is growing.

There is somebody you'd like to send The Progress to. Now's the time to do it without any extra cost.

Jury Finds For Mrs. Maria Ground In Dalton Case

Reverses Decision Rendered by Justice of the Peace. Ray Abbott Will Be Brought Back Here to Appear in Court November 24th.

A case of great interest to the people of Dalton City was that of Mrs. Maria J. Ground vs. Harry Ground. Mrs. Ground owns some property in Dalton City. Harry Ground, her stepson is tenant thereon. She served notice on him last summer to get off. He claimed that she had told him he could live there as long as she lived and that on the strength of such promise he had built a shed on the premises.

When the case was heard in a justice court, Harry Ground won. Mrs. Ground appealed it. It was heard by a jury in the circuit court here Monday. The jury returned a sealed verdict which was opened by Judge Wamsley Wednesday. The jury found in favor of Mrs. Ground and unless he appeals the case to a higher court Harry Ground must move. The costs in the case are also assessed against the defendant.

DELINQUENT TAX IN MOULTRIE IS LESS THAN 1%

The amount of taxes uncollectible in Moultrie county this year was approximately $5000. This is less than one per cent of the total amount of taxes, which was $592,000.

The uncollectible taxes are those which were not paid by the party against whom they were charged and were not bid in by anybody at the tax sale. The county will realize in some way on the forfeited real estate taxes which are against lands and lots. The amount of such taxes is $2984.73. The amount of personal property taxes not paid is $2,106.91.

This tax collection is one of which Moultrie county may be proud. Reports say that in some localities as much as 25 per cent of the real estate defaulted in payment of taxes. Chicago has had a tax mixup for a number of years and this has caused a shortage in state and school funds.

Delay in paying taxes, through tax sales or forfeitures, causes much expense for the property owner. Redeeming property that has been sold for taxes is an expensive proceeding.

Record Is Spoiled

Monticello Succeeded in Scoring on Sullivan Friday. Game Ended 6-6. Lovington Easy Wednesday. Play Bement in Final Game Today.

(By Sam Bolin)

Sullivan's light team staged a last quarter rally to earn a tie with Monticello's great team. Our weight at least ten pounds less a man, Monticello broke through our line to throw our backs for repeated losses in Friday's game.

Watts, Monticello full back, gained at will through our line. Leech and Allen knifed our tackles for substantial gains. Monticello took the ball on their own 20 yard line and with Watts, Leech and Allen taking turns at carrying the ball, they marched to our 10 yard line. A delayed pass Finston to Doss resulted in a touchdown. A place kick for the extra point was low.

Monticello continued to out-play during the first half and were on the verge of another score as the half ended. The first half was clearly Monticello's. Monticello made 10 first downs to Sullivan's one.

Sullivan came out at the second half and played a much better game than they had in the first. The boys held Monticello when it seemed certain that Monticello would score.

Unable to make consistent gains around Monticello's ends Sullivan took to air and began a march from our own 18 yard line which resulted in a touchdown. However Sullivan lost the ball after taking it almost to center of the field. Monticello failed to gain and Sullivan took the ball on their own 48 yard line and passed to a touchdown.

Dwyer passed to Freeman for a 20 yard gain. Dwyer made 2 around end. A pass Earl to Bill was incomplete. Grote made 16 yards on a triple pass in the backfield. Dwyer failed to gain. A pass was blocked by Leech. Dwyer made 2 yards and on the next play Earl passed to Dwyer and the ball was

TWISTER DOES DAMAGE NORTHWEST OF BETHANY

A twister, accompanying a thunderstorm Wednesday evening did considerable damage on the Walter Dalton farm where Scott Dalton lives.

The wind came about 6:30. It wrecked an old house in which soybeans were stored, it damaged some cribs and blew off roofs. The window panes of the house were sucked out by the vacuum caused by the twister's passing. It totally tore up and wrecked an orchard near the house.

So far as could be learned on Thursday morning the Dalton place was the only one damaged.

Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look upon the earth beneath; for the heavens shall vanish away like smoke and the earth shall wax old like a garment, and they that dwell therein shall die in like manner; but my salvation shall be for ever and my righteousness shall not be abolished.—Isaiah LI—6.

WHAT IS GOOD?

"What is the real good?" I ask in musing mood. "Order," said the law court; "Knowledge" said the school; "Truth," said the wise man; "Pleasure" said the fool; "Love," said the maiden; "Beauty," said the page; "Freedom," said the dreamer; "Home," said the sage; "Fame," said the soldier; "Equity," the seer. Spake my heart full sadly: "The answer is not here." Then within my bosom, softly this I heard: "Each heart holds the secret: 'Kindness is the word.'"

—John Boyle O'Reilly

Fred J. Kern — My Friend and Teacher

Death Monday called my old "Boss". Fred J. Kern died at his home in Belleville early Monday morning, following a stroke of apoplexy, the third that he had suffered since the beginning of the year. He was past 67 years of age.

For 27 years I knew Fred Kern intimately and well. He started me in newspaper work. He gave me an invaluable opportunity.

It was on a March day in 1905 that Mr. Kern came to a commercial college where I was learning the rudiments of stenography and bookkeeping. He asked the Professor to send him a stenographer. Quite by chance, the Professor's eye fell on me and he beckoned me to his office. "Go down to the News-Democrat" said he "Mr. Kern wants a stenographer for a few days."

I went. For a period of thirteen years I was in the employ of Mr. Kern, first as stenographer and bookkeeper and later in all branches of the editorial staff. He taught me his ideals of the profession. I sincerely hope that by practice, I have never caused him to regret the interest he took in me.

I knew Fred Kern perhaps as well as any man ever knew him. And I can say this truthfully, without boasting. I knew him in victory, I knew him in defeat. His political idealism made an impress on me that time will never efface. He fought always for the workingman. He despised hypocrisy. His acts were never underhanded. He never betrayed a friend. He never compromised with a foe when he knew that his cause was right and compromise would be an admission of weakness.

Fred J. Kern was a poor lad. He worked in the mines, on the farm, as grocer clerk and in lumbering camps. In his early days he was an energetic roustabout. Bubbling with vitality and energy, it is hard to say where life's course would have led him. In an accidental discharge of a gun he lost his left hand. No longer able to depend on hard labor, his brain awakened to its capabilities. He sought an education. He achieved sufficient knowledge to become a teacher. Later he became a newspaper man. He loved that profession and devoted his life to it.

In upholding the ideal of justice for the man who labors, is it strange that he found his way into politics? He was ever aggressive, a crusader for what he knew to be right. His contacts and his friendships were with men who were leaders. After service in Springfield he achieved his ambition to go to Congress. He served one term. Before his return to Belleville his fellow citizens had nominated him for mayor. He served five continuous terms. He could have served longer had he chosen so to do. If his service in that office were summed up and boiled down it would be this: "He awakened Belleville; he pulled it out of the mud."

A close friend of Edward F. Dunne, he was called to head the State Board of Administration when Judge Dunne was elected governor in 1912. He served in that capacity throughout the Dunne administration and until a reorganization of government took place under Gov. Lowden.

He then returned to his active duty as editor and publisher. He made a big success of his life's work in this line. He was one of the greatest editors that the present or any other generation in Illinois has ever known. Hypocrites and four-flushers hated and feared him. His ability to express his ideas in words that all could understand made him a tower of strength to those whose cause he espoused and turned the pitiless light of publicity on those whose cause was selfish and unworthy.

There were ups and downs in Fred Kern's life. I could write and write and use reams of paper to tell of the admirable things that I know about him. But such would be but a weak tribute. Mere words of laudation and praise can never fully express the way I feel about Fred J. Kern, one of the very best friends that life has given me.

The wonderful newspaper which he built—The Belleville News-Democrat—is the best monument that he leaves behind in a material way. But the influence that his work has had on his community, on those who came into contact

HON. FRED J. KERN

Editor and Publisher of The Belleville News-Democrat.

There is no death! The stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore;
And bright in heaven's jeweled crown,
They shine forevermore.

And ever near us, though unseen,
The dear immortal spirits tread;
For all the boundless universe
Is life—There is no dead!

—Lord Lytton

with him, is of far greater value to the free institutions of this nation, than can ever be adequately gauged by man, or expressed in words.

I knew that Mr. Kern's health was failing. Sunday I was in Belleville and called at his home. He was on an automobile ride. I did not see him. I hope that they told him I called. It would be nice to know that in his last hours he knew that one whom he had befriended—one whom he had aided, had felt a call to see him once more before the final summons came.

In sorrow and a sense of irreparable loss, I lay this tribute on his bier. No more will I feel as I write that, "Mr. Kern will read this in The Progress." His approval, as evidenced by reprinting Progress editorials in his big daily paper was one of the joys that journalism has brought me. I feel deeply moved to know that he considered last week's editorial "What Must You Have to be Rich" of value enough to pass on to his readers through his own editorial columns.

I've lost a friend, a guide. But I have left to me the memories of a pleasant association, of a kindly interest in my welfare.

And as the Death Angel drew nigh, I know that Fred J. Kern, viewed his inevitable coming in that spirit as commended by William Cullen Bryant in the following words:

So live that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan that moves
To that mysterious realm, where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death.
Thou go not, like the quarry-slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams.

The Democratic party stands for a tariff for revenue only, with emphasis upon the word "only". We do not propose to tax one man for the benefit of another, except for the necessary revenue that we must raise to administer the Government economically.  The real question that we have to consider is that of the rights and interests of the consuming masses of American people. The question of industry in this country is, and from our standpoint always must be, second to the rights and necessities of the great American consuming public.

MANY ROAD LETTINGS SET FOR NOVEMBER

Springfield, Nov. 10.—Illinois' highway department will break all records for speed in opening road bids during November. Projects in three lettings, Nov. 2, 12 and 30, are estimated to total $14,943,766. They embrace 294.34 miles of paving, 90.04 miles of grading and a number of bridge jobs. Frank T. Sheets, chief highway engineer, announced that this record-breaking speed is for a two-fold purpose—to provide as much work for the unemployed, this winter, as possible and to get an early start in the spring on this work and the $34,000,000 program scheduled for 1932.

Main Street Looks at Broadway

A Disappointed Visitor

Premier Laval, who is practically the ruler of France, the President of that country being largely a figurehead, learned, when he landed in New York, that being a personage has its troubles. He wanted to look at the big city but, he confided to his intimates, the most he saw when he approached the Battery, was a lot of silk hats and broad backs belonging to the welcoming committee.

Even his mile ride up Broadway to the City Hall did not give him much chance to see things as the crowds pressed close to his auto and demanded he look at them and not at the building.

His experience is that of all famous men. The way to see New York is to slip in quietly and roam around without any committee telling you what to do or where to go. Still, he enjoyed it all, he claims.

Doctor's Fees

There is no place in the world where you can pay more for doctoring than in New York, fees of $3,000 and $5,000 being nothing uncommon for wealthy people to pay. But, on the other hand, if you haven't got a cent, you can probably get the same service from one of the hundreds of free dispensaries.

Dr. Lorenz, of Vienna, once charged Armour $20,000 for an operation on his little daughter, Lolita, in Chicago, and cured her of a hip disease. On his way West he stopped off in this city and treated more than twenty poor children for the same trouble. And none of them paid one cent. That kind of charity, or kindness, is going on all the time here and in most other big cities.

When One Doctor Squawked

One fashionable doctor here who gets top fees, has been in the habit of sending his patients who had bad teeth to a certain dentist. He made him famous, and the tooth-puller finally got to charging $3,000 fees himself.

Recently the doctor's 18-year old son needed dental work and he sent him to the dentist. After the work was done he got a bill for $3,000. Everybody knows one doctor never charges another for attention and the doctor expected the work to be free.

He squawked like a stuck pig and got the bill down to half, which he paid. The dentist told him he had to charge him full rates because he had only so many hours a day to work and his time was fully taken up. Needless to state, the doctor is now recommending another dentist to his clients.

Great Bus Terminal

A few years ago a small theatre on the edge of the Times Square district found itself unable to draw. The owner closed it down and put it on the market. Because it was so handy to many hotels, the different bus companies clubbed together and turned it into a terminal.

Its big waiting room, with ticket offices at one side and a huge information desk in the center, rivals many of the big railroad stations of the country in size and convenience. One thing noticeable about it is that the crowds are much smaller than in the usual railroad depots, the reason being that instead of buses leaving for some other big city three or four times a day, service is almost hourly and there is none of that bunched up at railroad offices.

When the theatre was turned into a waiting room, nothing was taken out but the seats on the main floor. The balcony and gallery still exist and look down upon the proscenium arch which marks the site of the old stage.

MIGHTY COON HUNTERS' SPIRITS ARE DEPRESSED

We ran into a real depression the other morning. We saw Matt Dedman and Guy Booker conferring and as these two men have but one big idea in common, we asked them "When does the coon and possum season open?" "Derried if I know" said Guy and Matt admitted his ignorance also on the subject.

"What's wrong?" we demanded to know for in other years these two and their dogs could never wait with patience until the law said "Go." They'd sit on a stump in some brush alongside the river, with their dogs held in leash until 12 o'clock midnight heralded the opening of the first day of the hunting season.

"For one thing" said Matt "you know Queenie's dead." This was Guy's most famous hunter. "And then" said Guy "Jim Harris is no longer here and Slim Harlow has moved away."

And so one excuse after another was trotted out. The depression had affected their spirit of adventure. "Wood choppers last winter cleared out lots of the places where we used to hunt and could imagine that we'd meet a bear face to face sooner or later" said Matt.

We accused the boys of being just lazy, but they did not plead guilty. Matt intimated that he had to give some time to rocking his grandson, James Dedman, the Third, who lives with him. They also gave a fellow the idea that dogs were not as good as they used to be. Out of the entire interview, only one thing seemed to impress us—the boys have lost their grip on youth; they must be getting old when they no longer hear the call of the wild. Who ever thought either Guy or Matt could resist wandering along streams on frosty nights and hearing the old dogs barking on the trail?

We are sorry to tell you readers this story—maybe now you feel depressed too. Steward!

WAY OF LIFE

WHERE COMMUNISM FALLS DOWN

For several reasons I find it difficult to get as excited as some of my friends about the threat of Communism.

In the first place, we have had universal education in this country for a long time. Nearly all can read and write, and quite a large proportion can think.

In the second place, our wealth, though very inequitably distributed, is enjoyed by a far larger proportion of people than has ever been true in any nation before. Millions own homes, and land and stocks. Few are entirely satisfied; no one imagines the present social structure ideal, but very few care to risk losing what they have on the vague promise of acquiring more.

But there is a third and more fundamental reason. Communism, even if it came, would not continue. Some form of capitalistic society would very rapidly take its place.

Here is an interesting illustration.

Back in the latter days of the Civil War, when it was necessary to draft men for the Northern armies, the Indians of the West thought it a propitious time to revolt.

Several regiments of Union Soldiers were withdrawn from the front to settle the uprising. A Pennsylvania politician made a smart suggestion.

He said to Abraham Lincoln: "Our Federal military prisons are filled with Southern military prisoners. These boys are young and keen and good fighters, as we have plenty of reasons to know. I'll bet that most of them would rather be outdoors fighting the Indians than sitting idly in jail. Why not recruit them into regiments and send them West?"

The proposal was adopted and was immediately successful. But this is what happened in one instance, which throws a fine clear light on the practicability of Communism. I quote from my father's Life of Lincoln:

"A thousand men were enlisted at Alton, Illinois, and Camp Douglas in Chicago. They left Chicago on two special trains. Each man had in his pockets two hundred dollars bounty in United States greenbacks, and none of them had any other money. During the period of their imprisonment most of them had become habitual card players, if they had not previously been so. It is said that before they reached their destination a very few individuals had the lion's share of the money. Perhaps never before on earth was there so equitable an experiment in the results of starting men out in life on the basis of equal division of property. The equal division appears not to have lasted very long."

Life is a battle and a gamble. We can improve the rules, give fairer handicaps to the less favored, and make the game more humane.

But we can't alter the fundamentals of human nature. Communism tries to do that; and Communists will always fail.

DEMOCRATS WON IN IMPORTANT EASTERN ELECTIONS LAST WEEK

Washington, Nov. 11.—Mayorality elections followed the same Democratic trend as the congressional and state elections on Nov. 3.

The three largest cities in Connecticut elected Democratic executives—New Haven, Hartford and Bridgeport. In the former two, Democrats succeeded Republicans, and in the last named the Democratic mayor was re-elected.

The Democrats carried ten upstate towns in New York. Seven of these were former Republican strongholds. Gloversville elected the first Democratic mayor since 1912. Newburgh's new mayor is the first Democrat elected since 1908 and the third in 41 years. Olean scored its first Democratic municipal victory since 1921. Troy and Utica were other big towns that elected Democratic executives and ousted Republicans.

Springfield and Worcester, the two largest cities in Massachusetts, holding mayoralty elections, both elected Democratic executives. The latter had a Republican mayor. Pittsfield also went Democratic.

AN INTELLIGENT DOG

They were discussing dogs, and the tales were becoming "pretty tall" when one of the group took the lead.

"Smith," he said, "had a most intelligent retriever. One night Smith's house caught fire. All was instant confusion. Old Smith and wife flew for the children and bundled out with them in quick order. Alas, one of them had been left behind. But up jumped the dog, rushed into the house, and soon reappeared with the missing child. Every one was saved; but Rover dashed through the flames again.

"What did the dog want? No one knew. Presently the noble animal reappeared scorched and burned, with—what do you think?"

"Give it up," cried the eager listeners.

REPLY TO "LUTHERAN'S ANSWER"

In October 23 issue of The Sullivan Progress is published what purports to be a reply to "a reader's" reply to a former announcement made by the Lutheran church in which certain so-called definitions of baptism were stated. The article above mentioned makes great complaint about lack of courtesy in that the aforesaid criticism was made. Is it a discourtesy to reply to a man who has plainly stated that which is a point blank contradiction of what another church teaches? This Lutheran preacher feels free to announce a definition of baptism that not only is without support in a single authority on earth but also attacks the teaching of other churches. But when this sort of conduct is criticized the cry of "discourtesy" is raised. It would be a pretty form of courtesy that permits one man to come into a community where certain churches are established that believe in the New Testament doctrine of baptism and boldly publish a statement that challenges one of the fundamental tenets of those churches and then cry "discourtesy" when such liberty is criticized. But we here again call upon the Lutheran Church to cite one standard authority for such definition of Baptism as was given by their first article. If it cannot be cited, then common fairness as well as reverence for God would suggest that a suitable confession be given the public.

In one paragraph of the last article is found this statement: "We Lutherans know very well that in the early Church, immersion was often practiced in baptism, but we know just as definitely that immersion is not the only Scriptural way of baptizing." Now how does this church know that immersion was ever practiced? Is it by the meaning of the word? If so, then if the word itself through its meaning tells them that immersion was practiced, then why say it was "sometimes" practiced? At just what times was it NOT practiced if the practice is derived from the meaning of the word. But if they know it from secular history, then please cite us the history of the early Church that says it was practiced "sometimes." If this Lutheran church knows anything about church history at all it knows that immersion was the exclusive practice for baptism and that the change to sprinkling was brought into use by the Catholic church, the church which Lutherans pretend to oppose. But the Catholics are more consistent in this than the Lutherans for they do not claim that sprinkling is in the word but that the Church has the right to adopt the practice regardless of the original word. While the Lutherans profess to accept the Word as authority and yet contend for sprinkling, a word not in a single definition of the word for baptism.

If there was but one word for the three so-called modes, then we would necessarily find the definitions all included under one word. But there are three distinct words even in the Hebrew for the three acts. In Lev. 15:15, 16 is the following language: "And the priest shall take some of the log of oil and POUR it into the palm of his own left hand: And the priest shall DIP his right finger in the oil that is in his left hand and shall SPRINKLE of the oil with his finger seven times before the Lord." Here the three words, pour and dip (or immerse) and sprinkle are used in one connection in a way that shows they are not all the same action. And each word comes from a different Hebrew word. They are: YATSAQ, for pour, TABAL for dip and NAZAH for sprinkle. This shows that even in the Old Testament the three acts were considered as three distinct and different actions and are thus designated by three different words.

Coming to the New Testament we find that pour, sprinkle and immerse or dip are regarded as three distinct and different acts and are therefore to be designated by three different Greek words. For instance, the Greek word for dip or immerse is BAPTIZO, for pour is EPICHEO and for sprinkle it is RANTIZO. Now if the Lord had intended the ordinance of baptism to be administered by either of the three acts in controversy he certainly would have used some one of the other Greek words part of the time. If he intended His ordinance to be administered sometimes by pouring or sprinkling how does it happen that the Greek words for those acts were not used, seeing the Greeks had a separate word for each of the three actions? Yet it is a fact that the words RANTIZO and EPICHEO are NOT ONCE USED in connection with the ordinance of baptism. Will the Lutherans explain this to the readers?

Instead of coming into our midst and boldly publishing a tenet that not only contradicts the belief of other churches (which according to this Lutheran preacher is discourtesy) but also the doctrine of the New Testament, it would be more consistent to stay with the Book. Paul says there is ONE baptism, not three. If sprinkling is baptism then immersion and pouring are not. If sprinkling, pouring and immersion are baptism, then there are three baptisms and not one, and the Lutheran preacher is right while Paul is wrong.

The writer of article under consideration says he will not have anything more to say. Of course in a temporal court it goes hard with the "hit and run" fellows. But in the highway of religion this preacher can hit the unsuspecting with his false doctrines and then when he is called or is about to be called to account will fire off an accumulation of untenable matter and then say "I will say no more" just like a "hit and run" specimen.

MURPHY'S CAR STOLEN FRIDAY; RETURNED SATURDAY

A Chevrolet coach belonging to T. A. Murphy the dry cleaner, was stolen from in front of his place of residence on West Jackson street Friday evening about 6 o'clock.

Raymond (Toddy) Martz and Melvin Ward, two 20-year old Shelbyville boys are in the county jail charged with the theft. They are being held to await grand jury action under $2,000 bond each. Unable to give bond, they remain in jail. Both have confessed their guilt.

Mr. Murphy had gone home somewhat earlier than usual Friday night in order to take his parents and some other members of the family to Humboldt to visit relatives. When his father went out to put something in the car, he did not find it and asked T. A.

"Did you park on the street east of the house?" When told that such was not the case he stated "There is no car out front." The officers were notified.

Later that evening Mr. Murphy had a call from a Decatur filling station. The attendant said he had 5 gallons of gas charged to him. Asked why, he stated "Two boys with your car were here a few minutes ago and bought 5 gallons. They left without paying. I took the number and looked it up and find it's your car." Mr. Murphy, of course, did not feel like paying for gas for the thieves that had his car.

Saturday the car was found abandoned in Shelbyville. Later that day it was returned to Mr. Murphy. He got it within 23 hours of the time when it was stolen.

Investigation pointed to young Ward as having had a hand in the stealing. He was arrested. Later Martz was gathered in. Both boys confessed. They could give no good reason for their actions, except that they wanted a car to go to Decatur and thence to Shelbyville. Both are reported to have been in some minor troubles before.

FARMERS BORROWING ON WHEAT SOWED THIS FALL

The chattel mortgage records in the office of Circuit Clerk Cadell West show that farmers are borrowing on any available collateral. Loans are being made on next year's wheat crop. One farmer borrowed on his wheat acreage early in October.

Collateral on many loans consist of livestock, implements and crops, corn in field and by the bushel, soybeans and corn, cattle, growing crops, household goods, household furniture, cows, tractor and plow, etc.

With wheat prices advancing slowly, many farmers are beginning to feel that they may have made a mistake in cutting down their wheat acreage this fall. A reduction of wheat acreage all over the country is doubtless a big factor in the advance in the price of that grain.

-SULPHURIC ACID

Avoid Sulphur in Gasoline

Have you ever seen what sulphuric acid does to metal surfaces? Ask the man at any Skelly pump to show you a valve eaten and burned by sulphuric acid.

Just one drop of sulphuric acid eats in with gluttonish delight. One drop sears and corrodes hardest steel surfaces. In a hurry this one drop bites into the polished seat of a valve. Then valves do not seat properly, compression is lost, and carbon forms. Sulphuric acid explains many of your repair bills.

Sulphur in gasoline forms deadly, poisonous sulphuric acid in your cylinders. It attacks all reachable metal parts: valves, wrist-pins, cylinder walls and bearings.

Steer clear of sulphur in gasoline. Turn to Skelly Sulphur-Free* Gasoline, carefully refined from purest crude oils and then freed from sulphur through Skelly "sulphur-wash" processes. Why take chances? Drive in to a Skelly pump next time you refill.

To those Chemically-minded:

Sulphur compounds in gasoline produce SO_2 and SO_3 in the cylinders. H_2O is derived from combustion gases. H_2SO_4 is insoluble in, and about twice as heavy as, lubricating oil, so of course the acid is not halted by the oil.

* Skelly Gasoline is 99% free from sulphur. Only a negligible, harmless trace remains after Skelly "sulphur-wash" processes are completed. Many gasolines contain several times more sulphur than Skelly Gasoline.

MEMBERS OF SHERMAN FAMILY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT SUNDAY

Five members of a Lake City family were injured, two of them seriously, in an automobile accident near their home at 2:15 p. m. Sunday.

The injured are: James Sherman, deep cut on his neck.

Mrs. James Sherman, possible fracture of back. Condition serious.

Viola Sherman 19, minor cuts and bruises.

Geraldine Sherman, 16 bruised hip.

Grace Mary Sherman, 12, scalp wound from forehead to base of skull. Condition serious.

The accident occurred when the Sherman car, making a left turn to leave Route 32 at Lake City, was struck by an automobile driven by Glenn Thompson of Aurora.

Mr. Thompson was not hurt.

The injured were taken temporarily to a nearby farm house and as soon as possible were brought to St. Mary's hospital in a Moran & Sons ambulance. The three with minor injuries were released after receiving emergency treatment.

Traveling Fast

Both the Sherman and Thompson cars were traveling northward on Route 32. Mr. Sherman declared he gave a hand signal for a left turn, and stated he was not aware that Mr. Thompson's car was behind. The Thompson car, he declared was traveling at high speed.

According to Chas. Hochstetler of Sullivan, state highway police, who arrived on the scene within a few minutes after the collision, Mr. Thompson claimed he failed to see Mr. Sherman give a signal. He had planned to go around the Sherman car, Mr. Hochstetler said.

Mr. Thompson applied his brakes so firmly that the pavement indicated his wheels were locked for a distance of 100 feet. The Sherman car continued in its turn and seeing he would be unable to get around it on the left side, and that he would not be able to stop in time, Mr. Thompson turned to the right in an effort to swing around the Sherman car on that side.

Car Overturned

In the maneuver Mr. Thompson's bumper hooked the left rear fender of the Sherman car. The latter machine, an old four-cylinder model was thrown off balance by the glancing impact, turned over twice and came to rest right side up. It was damaged beyond repair.

The Thompson car remained right side up and damaged only to the extent of a broken bumper, and crumpled front fender and shattered head light.

After a brief investigation by Mr. Hochstetler, Mr. Thompson was exonerated from responsibility for the accident.

A large crowd of curious people quickly collected at the scene of the accident and for more than an hour impeded traffic on the highway.—Decatur Herald.

Later—Tuesday morning Mrs. Sherman's condition was still serious and Grace Mary had been given serum to prevent lockjaw. The little son was slightly injured on the ankle and was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sherman.

LOCAL SERVICE STATION TRIES FOR BIG CUP

Jim Dedman, manager of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Service Station is this city's entrant in the competition for the handsome big silver trophy to be awarded by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to the station manager showing the greatest increase in gasoline sales during the months of November and December.

The first and Grand prize will be in the form of a large and beautiful cup. Additional cups, smaller in size, are to be awarded to managers showing the largest increase in gallons sold for their respective divisions. Jim Dedman is working hard to win, not only the Divisional Trophy, but the Grand Prize as well. He explains that his station is fortunate enough to be among the few stations selected to take part in the competition and he is planning to make the most of the opportunity.

This local man is very anxious to bring the big cup to Sullivan. With this cup he intends to start a collection that will far outshine Bobby Jones' famous assortment of silverware.

Winning this cup will mean a great deal to Mr. Dedman. He explains that it will open the doors to real opportunities for him with the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) if he can place the big trophy on his mantel.

Motorists of Sullivan can help bring this Grand Prize to this community by patronizing Mr. Dedman and inviting their friends to patronize him also.

on the one yard line. McDavid scored on a delayed buck. "Tiny" Ashbrook running interference. Grote on a triple pass in the backfield failed to score the extra point by inches.

The game ended with ball in Sullivan's territory in Monticello's possession. Some of the high lights of the game were Watts' great plunging and Fremon's 70 yard punt over Monticello's goal line. Russell Ashbrook at center played a great game and was ably supported by the rest of the line.

Sullivan's Lineup:
Davis, le; W. Ashbrook, lt; Shirley, lg; R. Ashbrook, c; Grote, r; Cummins, rt; Ballinger, r. ee; McDavid, Q; Fremon, l. h.; Dwyer, r. h.; Poland, f. b.

LOVINGTON DEFEATED

Sullivan celebrated the 13th anniversary of the end of the World War by defeating Lovington 40 to 0. The home team scored in every period and the game was featured by the long runs of Fremon, McDavid and Dwyer.

Grote scored the first touchdown in the first quarter on triple pass in the backfield. Dwyer opened the second with 67 yard dash to the goal and Fremon scored before the half ended.

Fremon opened the scoring for the second half with a 52 yard run touchdown. McDavid went through the center of the line and outran Lovington's secondary defense for 71 yards and a touchdown. Earn passed to Dwyer for a touchdown and that ended the scoring.

Fremon again showed that he is capable of booting more than 70 yards for he stood on his own 20 yard line and booted across his opponents goal line.

Russell Ashbrook and Davis showed well on defense but were ably supported by Cummins, Shirley, Poland, W. Ashbrook and Grote.

Sullivan ends the season at Bement today. This should be a good game as Bement has showed steady improvement since the start of the season. If Sullivan wins today she will finish her season without being defeated and scored on only once which was a tie.

Wednesday's Lineup:
Sullivan—Davis, le; W. Ashbrook, lt; Shirley, lg; R. Ashbrook, c; Grote, rg; Cummins, rt; McDonald, re; McDavid, q; Fremon, lh; Dwyer, rh; Poland, fb.

HOW TO SIT WHILE DRIVING AN AUTOMOBILE

The common habit among Sullivan motorists of slumping in their seats while driving is an open invitation to automobile accident, the Automobile Safety League warned today.

The League based its statement on the findings of Dr. Dudley B. Reed, director of the health service of the University of Chicago, and other authorities who point out that sitting in an improper position induces fatigue, thereby encouraging accidents, places the body where quick response cannot easily be made in emergencies, sometimes limits the vision and is often a contributing cause to nervous and other troubles arising from undue strain, cramped lungs and other organs.

Posture experts point out that it is easier to sit correctly on deep pile upholstery than on smooth and slippery materials which induce sliding and slipping about on the seat. On long drives, especially, the correct position can be maintained most successfully on mohair velvet or velmo upholstery as the erect fibers of the material grip the clothing, offering support to the motorist instead of causing him to slip and slide about.

Here are the essentials of proper riding or driving position as suggested by the League from reports by Dr. Reed.

Sit with the back well against the back of the seat and with the weight resting mainly on the seat bones. One should recline slightly more than ninety degrees and there should be support for the back below the shoulder blades and at the top of the hips. The feet should reach the floor and pedals without stretching or straining and there should be no pressure under the knee. In this correct body position, quick response in emergencies can be given with less effort, the spine is placed where it can serve most efficiently as nature's own shock absorber for the body, there is less fatigue and the lungs and other organs are given the greatest freedom to function in a natural manner.

THIEVES STEAL POULTRY
LOAD FROM F. WHITACRE
Hi-jackers stole the truck and its load of poultry belonging to Floyd Whitacre of Stewardson, real early Tuesday morning. The crime was committed north of Kankakee.

Whitacre had sent the load to Chicago with a Stewardson youth named Harrington as driver. Harrington stopped at Kankakee for gasoline. It is there that the hi-jackers picked him for their victim, it is believed, but full particulars are lacking at the time of this writing. When the crime was committed they boarded the truck and drove over many round-about country roads. Harrington had been blindfolded and he soon lost sense of direction and distance. The thieves put him off at a lonely place and made their get-away with truck and poultry.

Harrington was unable to get in telephonic communication with Mr. Whitacre for some time, but finally got the connection and reported that some one drive up after him.

Bandits in Chicago kidnapped two of Whitacre's truck drivers in the outskirts of that city less than a year ago, and confederates got away with a truck loaded with poultry, eggs, and cream. Later the truck and part of the load were recovered in Chicago. We never heard of any arrests in connection with this crime.—Windsor Gazette.

During the month of October 294 pupils gained a total of 521 lbs., 43 pupils lost 51 lbs. 70 pupils remained the same as the last report. The health of the school children is probably at its best at this time of the year.

The pupils of the Lowe school are having a contest between classes to see which class can have the highest percentage of pupils who wash their teeth at least twice each day. The Eight One section seems to be leading with the highest percentage.

The second six weeks tests will be held Nov. 19 and 20. Going to school is about like any other work; the reward is about in proportion to the amount of energy expended. Many pupils can get all their school work during the day while at school.

Some need to do a little home work in order to carry their work. The teachers are doing their best to have all pupils carry their work but in case one not (as the report card may show) the parent should consult with the teacher in trying to find out the trouble.

A few pupils might fail to carry their work because they are allowed to be out too much at night. Grade school pupils need to be at home most of the school day evenings in order that they may have plenty of sleep and rest, without which they cannot concentrate on the next day's lessons.

THE DEATH OF THE FLOWERS

The melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year—Of wailing winds and naked woods and meadows brown and sear. Heaped in the hollows of the grove, the autumn leaves lie dead; They rustle to the eddying gust, and to the rabbit's tread. The robin and the wren are flown, and from the shrubs the jay, And from the wood-top calls the crow through all the gloomy day.

Where are the flowers, the fair young flowers, that lately sprang and stood In brighter light and softer airs, a beauteous sisterhood?

Alas! they all are in their graves; the gentle race of flowers Are lying in their lowly beds with the fair and good of ours. The rain is falling where they lie, but the cold November rain Calls not from the gloomy earth the lovely ones again.

The wind-flower and the violet, they perished long ago, And the briar-rose and the orchid died amid the summer glow; But on the hill the golden-rod, and the aster in the wood, And the yellow sunflower by the brook, in autumn beauty stood. Till fell the frost from the clear cold heaven, as falls the plague on men And the brightness of their smile has gone from upland, glade, and glen.

And now, when comes the calm mild day, as still such days will come, To call the squirrel and the bee from out their winter home; When the sound of dropping nuts is heard, though all the trees are still, And twinkle in the smoky light the waters of the rill; The south-wind searches for the flowers whose fragrance late he bore, And sighs to find them in the wood and by the stream no more.

And then I think of one who in her youthful beauty died; The fair meek blossom that grew up and faded by my side, In the cold moist earth we laid her, when the forests cast the leaf, And we wept that one so lovely should have a life so brief; Yet not unmeet it was that one, like that young friend of ours, So gentle and so beautiful, should perish with the flowers.

CLYDE KIRKENDOLL PLEADS GUILTY; IS SENTENCED TO PEN

Clyde Kirkendoll entered a plea of guilty to charge of arson in the circuit court Wednesday and Judge Wamsley sentenced him to an indeterminate term in the Southern Illinois penitentiary. The Sheriff was planning to take him there Friday morning.

Kirkendoll and Homer Moran last summer visited the Loveless slaughter house southeast of this city. They wanted to steal hides and failing to find what they were after they got peeved and threw lighted matches in the hay. The hay lit and the barn burned. Moran entered a plea of guilty some weeks ago and is already doing time.

Advance Dope Grand Theatre

You are invited to "Ten Nights in the Barroom" at the Grand Theatre Thursday and Friday nights of this week. You'll be delighted with this old classic in its new setting. Don't miss it.

SPECIAL—from Page 20, Sunday's Decatur Herald-Review:—"Although the Laurel and Hardy feature length comedy 'Pardon Us' has not yet been announced for Decatur, impatient fans may see it next Saturday afternoon and night in the Grand Theatre, Sullivan. This comedy is promised for Decatur eventually."

So far so good, but if you will see it "eventually" why not now? The basis of the plot for "Pardon Us" is that Laurel and Hardy go to jail for bootlegging and they have a heck of a time. There is plenty of razzberry, and gangs and thrills. Here's some dope on these comedians: Stanley Laurel was an understudy of Charley Chaplin's when Charley was getting $60 a week over in England. Laurel is the son of stage parents and finally drifted to this country after Chaplin had already made a big success. He was persuaded to go into pictures. He did and met up with Oliver Hardy. Oliver is the son of an Atlanta, Georgia politician. He graduated from law school, practiced a little but preferred to sing tenor and act. He finally got to be a director for the old Lubin company. In 1927 he met up with Stanley Laurel and since then the team has made many comedy sketches. Oliver is a golf player who knows his stuff. He's won 24 cups and 2 gold medals.

Also Saturday night—an Episode of African adventures and an "Our Gang Comedy." Come and bring the whole family.

The Road to Reno
How many husbands and wives these days are interested in Reno? Every time there is a first class family spat, among folks who can afford it, the husband and wife count their savings to see how soon they'll have enough to buy a ticket and pay a lawyer in Reno. They say that in this famous Nevada city the divorcees get RENO-vated. But be that as it may, you ought to see the show that's coming to The Grand Sunday and Monday nights. The folks who will exert themselves for your entertainment are Lilyan Tashman, Buddy Rogers, Peggy Shannon, William Boyd, Irving Pichel and Skeets Gallagher. Skeets is the fellow who took a shine to one of the Siamese twins and told him "I'll take you to dinner tonight if you can get away." It might not be amiss to learn a little more about this Reno business for statistics show that one out of six marriages in America goes on the rocks. We holler about free love in Russia where divorce is easy, but American divorcees are just about as numerous as those in the land of Stalin and the soviets.

Also if you come to learn about Reno you'll see a Charley Chase comedy, a Silly Symphony and News.

Here's a Special
Manager Hays says that on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week the Charles A. Worthan Community Players in person will be here presenting Varieties. The feature play on these nights is "The Woman Between." The featured star is Lily Damita, who was the outstanding femme in "The Cock-eyed World." Others featured are Lester Vail, O. P. Heggie etc. They say that Lily's dresses in this picture constitute an exhibit of Paris styles for 1932. With the "Varieties" and "The Woman Between" Tuesday and Wednesday night ought to be a good time to be at The Grand.

"The Squaw Man"
Years ago we saw Dustin Farnum in "The Squaw Man". Of the hundreds of shows we have seen that is one of the outstanding ones—not to be forgotten. Thursday and Friday night of next week "The Squaw Man" will be the feature bill at The Grand. Warner Baxter is the featured player. Lupe Velez and Eleanor Boardman play the important feminine

EIGHTH INSTALLMENT

"I am not aware—" I began stiffly. "I have always believed that I furnished to the Neighborhood Club its only leaven of humor."

"Don't spoil it," she begged. "Don't. If you could know how I have enjoyed it. All afternoon I have been chuckling. The fire-tongs!"

Then I knew that my wife had been to Mrs. Dane and I drew a long breath. "I assure you," I said gravely, "that while doubtless I carried the wretched things home and—er—placed them where they were found. I have not the slightest recollection of it. And it is hardly amusing, is it?"

"Amusing!" she cried. "It's delicious. It has made me a young woman again. Horace, if I could have seen your wife's face when she found them, I would give cheerfully almost anything I possess."

But underneath her mirth I knew there was something else. And, after all, she could convince my wife if she were convinced herself.

I told her of the visit Sperry and I had made the night Arthur Wells was shot, and of what we discovered: of the clerk at the pharmacy and his statement, and last of all, of my experience in the deserted house.

She was very serious when I finished. Tea came, but we forgot to drink it. Her eyes flashed with excitement, her faded face flushed. And with it all, as I look back, there was an air of suppressed excitement that seemed to have nothing to do with my narrative. I remembered it, however, when the denouncement came the following week.

She was a remarkable woman. Even then she knew, or strongly suspected the thing that the rest of us had missed, the x of the equation. But I think it only fair to record that she was in possession of facts which we did not have, and which she did not divulge until the end.

"You have been so ungenerous with me," she said finally, "that I am tempted not to tell you why I sent for you. Of course, I know I am only a helpless old woman, and you men are people of affairs. But now and then I have a flash of intelligence. I'm going to tell you, but you don't deserve it."

She went down into the black silk bag at her side which was as much a part of her attire as the false front she wore with such careless abandon and drew out a newspaper clipping.

"On going over Clara's notes," she said, "I came to the conclusion last Tuesday, that the matter of the missing handbag and the letters was important. More important, probably, than the mere record shows. Do you recall the note of distress in Miss Jeremy's voice? It was almost a wail."

I had noticed it. "I have plenty of time to think," she added, not without pathos. "There is only one Monday night in the week, and—the days are long. It occurred to me to try to trace that bag."

"In what way?" "How does any one trace lost articles?" she demanded. "By advertising, of course. Last Wednesday I advertised for the bag."

I was too astonished to speak. "I reasoned like this: If there was no such bag, there was no harm done. As a matter of fact, if there was no such bag, the chances were that we were all wrong anyhow. If there was such a bag, I wanted it. Here is the advertisement as I inserted it."

She gave me a small newspaper cutting:

"Lost, a handbag containing private letters, car-tickets, etc. Liberal reward paid for its return."

Please write to A 31, the Daily News."

I sat with it on my palm. It was so simple, so direct. And I, a lawyer and presumably reasonably acute, had not thought of it!

"You are wasted on us, Mrs. Dane," I acknowledged. "Well? I see something has come of it."

"Yes, but I'm not ready for it."

She dived again into the bag, and brought up another clipping. "On the day that I had that inserted," she said impressively, "this also appeared. They were in the same column." She read the second clipping aloud slowly, that I might gain all its significance.

"Lost on the night of Monday, November the second, between State Avenue and Park Avenue, possibly on an Eastern Line street car, a black handbag containing keys, car-tickets, private letters, and a small sum of money. Reward and no questions asked if returned to Daily News office."

She passed the clipping to me and I compared the two. It looked strange, and I confess to a tingling feeling that coincidence, that element so much to be feared in any investigation, was not the solution here. But there was such a chance, and I spoke of it.

"Coincidence rubbish!" she retorted. "I am not through, my friend."

She went down into the bag again and I expected nothing less than the pocketbook, letters and all, to appear. But she dragged up, among a miscellany of articles women like to carry, an envelope.

"Yesterday," she said, "I took a taxicab ride. You know my chair gets tiresome, occasionally, I stopped at the newspaper office, and I found the bag had not been turned in, but that there was a letter for A 31." She held out the envelope to me.

"Read it," she observed. "It is a curious human document. You'll probably be no wiser for reading it, but it shows one thing: We are on the track of something."

I have the letter before me now. It is written on glazed paper, ruled with blue lines. The writing is of the flowing style we used to call Spencerian, and if it lacks character I am inclined to believe that its weakness is merely the result of infrequent use of a pen.

"You know who this is from. I have the bag and the letters. In a safe place. If you would treat me like a human being, you could have them. I know where the walking stick is, also. I will tell you this. I have no wish to do her any harm. The way I reason is this: As long as I have the things, I've got the whiphand. I've got you too, although you may think I haven't."

"About the other matter I was innocent. I swear it again. I never did it. You are the only one in all the world. I would rather be dead than go on like this."

It is unsigned.

I stared from the letter to Mrs. Dane. She was watching me, her face grave and rather sad.

"You and I, Horace," she said, "live our orderly lives. We eat, and sleep, and talk, and even labor. We think we are living. But for the last day or two I have been seeing visions—you and I and the rest of us, living on the surface, and underneath, carefully kept down so it will not make us uncomfortable, a world of passion and crime and violence and suffering. That letter is a tragedy."

But if she had any suspicion then as to the writer, and I think she had not, she said nothing and soon after I started for home.

In one way, Mrs. Johnson's refusal to speak to me that evening had a certain value, for it enabled me to leave the house without explanation and thus to discover that an overcoat had been left in place of my own, it had been taken away. It also gave me an opportunity to return the fire-tongs, a proceeding which I had considered would assist in a return of the entente cordiale at home, but which most unjustly appeared to have exactly the opposite effect.

It has been my experience that the most innocent action may, under certain circumstances, assume an appearance of extreme guilt.

By Saturday the condition of affairs between my wife and myself remained in statu quo, and I had decided on a bold step. This was to call a special meeting of the Neighborhood Club without Miss Jeremy, and put before them the situation as it stood at that time, with a view to formulating a future course of action, and also of publicly vindicating myself before my wife.

In deference to Herbert Robinson's recent attack of influenza, we met at the Robinson house. Sperry himself wheeled Mrs. Dane over, and made a speech.

"We have called this meeting," he said, "to determine whether the Neighborhood Club, as a body wishes to go on with an investigation, or to stop where we are."

He paused, but, as no one spoke, he went on again. "It is really not as simple as that," he said. "To stop now, in view of the evidence we intend to place before the Club is to leave in all our minds certain suspicions that may be entirely unjust. On the other hand, to go on is very possible to place us all in a position where to keep silent is to be an accessory after crime."

He then proceeded, in orderly fashion, to review the entire situation up to then.

Mrs. Dane then read and explained the two clippings and the letter, and the situation, so far as it had developed, was before the Club.

Were we to go on, or to stop?

We broke into animated discussion. The letter to A 31 was the rock on which all our theories floundered, that and the message the governess had sent to Charlie Ellingham not to come to the Wells house that night. By no stretch of rather excited imaginations could we imagine Ellingham writing such a letter. Who had written the letter, then and for whom was it meant?

As to the telephone message, it seemed to preclude the possibility of Ellingham's having gone to the house that night. But the fact remained that a man, as yet unidentified, was undoubtedly concerned in the case, had written the letter and had probably been in the Wells house the night I went there alone.

In the end, we decided to hold one more seance, and then, unless the further developments were such that we must go on, to let the affair drop.

That my wife had felt a certain bitterness toward Miss Jeremy, a jealousy of her powers, even of her youth, had not dawned on me. But when on Sunday, in her new humility, she suggested that we call on the medium that afternoon, I realized that, in her own way, she was making a sort of atonement.

Miss Jeremy was out riding with Sperry, but arrived shortly after we got there. Sperry was glad to see us.

It was not hard to see how things were with him. He helped the girl out of her wraps with a manner that was almost proprietary, and drew a chair for her close to the small fire which hardly affected the chill of the room.

Sperry looked at the girl and smiled. "Shall I tell them?" he said. "I want very much to have them know."

He stood up, and with that unconscious drama which actuates a man at a crisis in his affairs, he put a hand on her shoulder. "This young lady is going to marry me," he said. "We are very happy today."

My wife, to my surprise, kissed the girl.

Tea was brought in by Hawkins! I knew him immediately, but he did not at once see me. He was evidently accustomed to seeing Sperry there, and he did not recognize my wife. But when he had put down the tray and turned to pick up Sperry's overcoat to carry it into the hall, he saw me. The man actually started. I cannot say that he changed color. He was always a pale, anemic-looking individual. But it was a perceptible instant before he stooped and gathered up the coat.

HOW TO PREPARE POULTRY FOR MARKET

Many farm chickens and turkeys reach the market in poor condition because they are not killed and bled properly. Hang up the bird by its feet on a wire hook. When killing it, grasp it by the bony part of the skull. Don't hold a bird by the neck—this often causes discolored spots. Use a sharp-pointed, narrow-bladed knife. Make a small cut inside the mouth on the right side of the throat, cutting downward and to the right. Thrust the knife through the groove along the middle of the roof of the mouth until it pierces the brain. Hanging the bird head down and braining it carefully make it bleed well. Poorly bled poultry shows dark, blood-filled veins and reddened areas of skin, which mar the appearance and make the flesh spoil more quickly.

The Federal Government is receiving bids for a $3,000,000 sea wall and intercepting sewer in the Mississippi River at the Quad Cities. The project will employ more than 1,000 men.

Before cooking beef liver, pour boiling water over it to draw the blood out.

MORE AND BETTER BABY CHICKS TO BE HATCHED

Springfield, Nov. 10.—The production of more purebred baby chicks, recognized as "State Standard Accredited," is forecast for the coming hatching season by Stuart E. Pierson, director of the state department of agriculture. He bases this prediction on the increase in demands for state inspection of the flocks that furnish hatching eggs to the accredited hatcheries, and to the fact that more incubation plants have planned to operate under state supervision this year than formerly.

Sunday school 6:30 p. m.
Divine service 7:30 p. m.
DEATH AND AFTER—The Lutheran church teaches that the body, which in death was separated from the soul, will be raised on the Last Day and reunited with the soul; that all men will be judged by Jesus Christ; that all believers in Christ will be given eternal life in heaven, while all unbelievers will be sent into eternal condemnation. References: John 5, 28, 29. Matthew 25, 31-46.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

A. E. Turner, pastor

9:45 a. m. Church school.
10:50 a. m. Morning worship.
6:30 p. m. Young People's meeting (M. E. Church)
No evening service.
The morning service will be "Sustaining Our Enthusiasms." The anniversary of the greatest event in modern times, viewed in retrospect. A study of Armistice Day in explanation of the all-human tendency to spend our enthusiasm extravagantly as preludes to hum-drum indifference. Whether the Allies really won the war will be determined by our attitudes of today and after. Come and take a backward look with us.

Remember the service Sunday evening, November 22, in recognition of "Music, the Handmaid of the Church." You will be sorry if you miss it. It will include community singing, with cornet accompaniment, two choice solos and brief comment by the minister on "Seven Writers That Have Done Most for Music in the Church."

GOSPEL MISSION

Time of services the same.
Brother Foster is preaching some fine spirit filled sermons. You should not miss a one.

Ps. 66:1 "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble."

Everything that God has said, He has backed up and when He said He was ever present help in trouble, He wants to prove to you that He is. People are looking everywhere today for help, except the right place. They are looking to man and his organizations and overlooking God and his sure refuge. He said he was a refuge. A refuge from what? Well today, He is a refuge from the depression. To be sure the depression may overtake us, it may sweep away all our earthly means, but if we are trusting in God, we have a sure refuge in Him. Saints all down the ages have found a refuge in him, starvation overtook some of them, but their refuge remained, every earthly prop was swept from beneath others, but their refuge was sure, others saw the last of their strength conquered through trials, afflictions and sufferings, but His strength failed not.

We believe the world is full of the spirits of anti-Christ today, preparing the way and making ready for the superman, the real anti-Christ, we believe that we are fast approaching the time of sorrows, and while these storms of trouble are sweeping over the old world, it is a good thing to have a place of refuge.

METHODIST CHURCH

L. L. Lawrence, pastor
Church school—9:30 a. m. J. A. Reeder, Supt.
Morning worship—10:45.
Sermon by Rev. Lawrence.
"Christianity and the World Crisis."

Young People's meeting—6:30 p. m. in Methodist church.
Evening worship—7:30. Sermon by Rev. Lawrence.
"Armageddon Now."

The morning and evening sermons both are continuing the Armistice Day sermons of last Sunday morning and evening. The morning sermon deals with the social revolutions throughout the world as they are affecting Christianity. The evening sermon will use such prominent events and activities as League of Nations, Kellogg Peace Pact and the Permanent International Court. The sermon Sunday night will conclude the Armistice series.

Church orchestra meets at the church each Tuesday night under the direction of Lloyd Brown. Plans are being made for this orchestra to play at the union Thanksgiving service.

Professor Moore is meeting members of the Church School orchestra at the church each Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. This orchestra is newly organized and all those who play instruments, but have never met with the orchestra are cordially invited to join.

The two choirs under the direction of Mrs. Helen McCune, and Miss Billie Miller, meet at the church each Thursday night. Miss Miller's choir meets at 7:15, and Mrs. McCune's choir at 8 o'clock. The Men's Sextette meeting during the same evening.

Present-day thinking on the fundamentals of religion, especially Christianity, are being given each Wednesday night at the Mid-week service. Next Wednesday night Rev. Lawrence will speak on "Is The Bible God's Word?" Many Christians are today intellectually doubtful. It is time that we think openly correct on our religion.

The Union Thanksgiving service will be held in the Methodist church Wednesday night, Nov. 25. A very beautiful and large musical program is under way. It will be an evening for thanksgiving and praise. Music will occupy most of the service. Rev. Turner will give a brief talk.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

C. E. Barnett, pastor

At the First Christian church, next Sunday, all regular services will be resumed. The calendar for the day will be: Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. Morning worship and communion 10:40 a. m. Christian Endeavor, 6:30 p. m. Evening worship 7:30 o'clock.

The pastor will preach both morning and evening. Sermon subjects, respectively will be "The Summons to Hold the Line" and "The Bright Light in the Clouds." The Christian Endeavor topic is "What is the Purpose of Life." Genevieve Drew will be the leader. An apt quotation for every one is "No time is wasted that is used in getting ready."

Special Announcement
"The hour is at hand." "That thou doest, do quickly." We wish to take these words from their setting in the scriptures and apply them to our approaching Thanks for the Harvest services. The date is Thanksgiving Sunday, Nov. 22. Because of circumstances we have not been able to make preparations for this service as we had intended. For us, the hour is at hand, and what we do must be done quickly. We are confident of a most hearty response to suggestion and appeal through these columns and announcements at the church. Our annual Thanks for the Harvest service is an appeal for and an opportunity to present our gifts for the Christian Orphans Home at St. Louis and the Home for the Aged at Jacksonville.

Accordingly, as heretofore, a committee will be at the church on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 21 between the hours of one and four, to receive these gifts and we respectfully urge that insofar as possible they be presented at this time, that they may be properly arranged for display during the service of Sunday the 22nd.

What shall we bring? Excerpts from letters received from these homes supply this information. From the Christian Orphans Home: "Farm produce of any kind can be used, wheat, corn, cured pork, lard, eggs, dried vegetables and fruit. Anything you can use in your family, we can use in larger quantities."

From the Home for the Aged. "In the kitchen we need flour, sugar, coffee, tea, postum, meats of all kinds, lard, cereals, canned goods, including canned soups. In the laundry, soap, soap chips, sal soda and starch. Other needs, sheets (60x99) pillow cases 20x30 and dish towels, face towels and napkins. Cotton blankets for three quarter beds, muslin and outing night shirts, large and medium sizes for men, light weight winter underwear in medium sizes for women. Our nurse suggests that we need sal-hapitica, peroxide, Haley's M.-O., mentholatum, listerine, Vick's Vapo Rub, etc."

These letter close with the expressed faith that "God will provide for them" and "that God will bless us in this benevolent ministry." Let us not fail them in such faith and present our gifts at the designated time and place. These gifts will be shipped direct to these homes.

FAMOUS POLITICAL MEETING WAS HELD HERE

There have been rumors around town this week about a Republican political meeting held here recently. The rumor states that the meeting was attended by two G. O. P. leaders and was in a hall that would not have accommodated a much larger number. The meeting or conference may have been exceedingly important, however, and the brethren are anxiously watching any move that those who participated in the deliberations may take. Great events are often forecast by meetings of this nature.

THE WEATHER

Where are the blustering winds and the snow flurries that November is supposed to bring with it? Here it is near the middle of November and the weather is so nice and mild that it is delightful. There are occasional showers. Once in a while the thunder rolls 'and up northwest of Bethany at Scott Dalton's there was a small size tornado Wednesday.

The winds keep blowing the golden and brightly colored leaves off the trees, but the weather is so nice and lazy that folks are not energetic enough to rake and burn as they are apt to do this time of the year. We heard today of a fellow who says he found mushrooms in the woods. Another tells about the violets blooming and next thing we know the robins will be back and building nests. You folks in California and Florida and even Cleve Miller up in Oregon surely can't have anything nicer in the way of pleasant weather than we've been enjoying this fall.

Hunters are out looking for quail. They are getting a lot of good exercise but we have not heard of anybody getting much else. We hope the quail keep safely hidden until about Dec. 11th.

Travelling toward Southern Illinois the other day we saw piles of pumpkins and many baskets of apples, sweet potatoes and pears at roadside markets. The land is full of good things to eat.

We have just had a visit from Mr. Schilling the Federal Farm Board member who speaks this (Thursday) afternoon before the Farm Bureau meeting. Mr. Schilling is the dairy and poultry member of the board. He hails from Minnesota and the thing we liked best about him is that he's a fellow newspaper man—not a big Dairy sort of fellow like Col. Robert McCormick, but an honest-to-goodness small town weekly guy. We mixed farm relief talk with discussion as to the best way in which to run a linotype, etc. He told some very interesting things that his department is doing to foster co-operative marketing. He's a big husky man and sort of reminded me of my good friend Andra Burwell of Decatur. If we can get our copy all written in time, we're going to go over to the court house and hear him speak.

Mr. Schilling confided to us that he was 59 on Wednesday. He said that he spent the day in St. Louis. Flags were waving everywhere and for a time he thought that somebody must have tipped off the patriotic St. Louisans that he was in town and that it was his birthday. Then came disillusionment, when he happened to remember that it was Armistice day and that folks perhaps did not know he was there and cared less.

Do you know that in many parts of Illinois folks are still hauling water? They are. This drought that we had last year is just like the present depression will be. It will take time to wear off. You can't expect dry ground to feed well springs. You can't expect disorganized factories and busted banks to blossom into the fragrance of great prosperity on a few days notice.

But better days are coming. Cheer up—Carry on.

FIRE ALARMS

The fire department was called out twice during the past week. Friday it was called to the home of Mrs. Mattie Smith.

On Tuesday it responded to an alarm at the Clyde Bolin residence. In both cases but little damage was done.

Warning: This story is not new—we'll tell it anyway:

Mother: "Darling what songs did they sing at church this morning?"

Her little Daughter: "I don't remember all, but one was 'The Constipated Cross-eyed Bear'."

The mother was flabbergasted and went over to ask a church-going neighbor. She was enlightened when told that the song was "The Consecrated Cross I bear."

the purchase of enough eggs to set a hen."

Referring to the milk fight going on in the St. Louis territory the speaker asserted that the farmers were their own worst enemies in this fight that the only way to bring the Pevely Dairy Company to time was to separate their milk and sell the butterfat to their co-operative creameries. Milk wagons will not run on water.

The speaker said when prices went down the Chicago wheat speculators cursed the Farm Board and when they went up the speculators grabbed off a little glory for themselves. But the fact remains that the Farmers Organization had the wheat in both instances.

"Why is it that in all your small towns and cities you see groups of idle men and vacant store buildings? Is because agriculture is prosperous or not. Did the Farm Board and the Marketing act create this condition? The farmers of the country might just as well be accused of the stock market crash in Wall street."

At the business meeting of the Farm Bureau held Thursday morning in the Armory the following township directors and chairmen were chosen. The first named is director, the second is chairman: Sullivan, Oral Bundy, O. C. Worsham; Marrowbone—H. S. Reedy, Harris Bone; Lowe—Fred Scheutz, Oliver H. Shable; Lovington—Francis Murphy, R. P. Bicknell; East Nelson—Charles Shuman, Ora Kimbrough; Whitley T. M. Edwards, J. W. Rauen; Dora—Earl Cruitt, John Albright. These officials will meet later to elect officials for the Bureau for the coming year.

This dividend is payable January 15, 1932, to all preferred stockholders of record, on the books of the Company at the close of business December 31, 1931.

CARL WEILEPP MAY RUN FOR CONGRESS; OTHER PROSPECTS

Carl Weilepp, Decatur attorney, was a Sullivan visitor recently. He accompanied Dave Beggs of that city, who was speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon.

Following the luncheon Mr. Weilepp called on Democrats here to feel them out relative to his ambition to secure the Democratic congressional nomination at next Spring's primary.

Mr. Weilepp is but one of a number of Democrats who are sizing up the situation before making a definite announcement of their candidacy. Charles Borchers of Decatur who was the candidate in 1930 is said to have an ambition to try again.

L. L. Williams of Clinton and Louis Busch of Champaign are being mentioned. Locally there is some talk that Col. Meeker is ambitious to take another try at the office and some folks think J. L. McLaughlin ought to throw his hat into the ring. Some Decatur friends were booming Mrs. Cora Ryman, county superintendent of that county, but she has definitely declined to be considered as a prospective candidate.

A prominent Democrat whose record in the General Assembly has given him much favorable publicity is Howard Doyle of Decatur. Mr. Doyle may be a congressional candidate unless he feels that he can better serve his constituents in the Legislature.

The recent redistricting of the state by the General Assembly is under fire in the courts. It may result in re-instating the old district lines. In that case this district will again be constituted as heretofore. Douglas and Coles county will remain a part of this district and Effingham and Fayette counties will be taken away. This may cause a change in the aspirations of congressional candidates. Douglas and Coles may be counted safely Republican while Fayette and Effingham are Democratic.

The present political activity is but a preliminary skirmish. Before the race gets under way, several candidates not now considered may throw their hats into the ring.
