Community Liberally Gave so All Might Have a Christmas Feast. 61 Baskets Delivered Thursday Afternoon. Food, Clothing, Toys.

Sixty one baskets were distributed to the needy in this community as Christmas presents this year. The delivery was done by Supervisor Frank Newbould, Andrus Harrington, Harris Wood and Cliff Miller. Mr. Miller donated his truck as well as his services. The baskets were bigger and better than ever before.

Organizations, individuals and The Grand Theatre donated many of the things that went into the baskets. Cash donations were used to buy bread, roasts, candy, sugar for the baskets. Many of the baskets were filled at the county welfare office in the court house by Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Howard Wood, Mrs. F. D. Sona and Mrs. C. W. Take It On The Chin -- And Grin

Taking everything into consideration, we still contend that Sullivan is the best city of its size in this part of the country.

It becomes necessary to re-assert this principle of faith because of some unfortunate events that have transpired during the past week.

The Merchants & Farmers State bank closed its doors Saturday. That was not a nice Christmas present for the community, but the action taken by the board of directors seems to have been the only thing to do. The bank, its stockholders and depositors, are simply victims of the depression Grin. that holds the whole world in its grip.

The closing caused no excitement. The whole community seems to feel that John Webb and the men associated with him in the bank did their utmost to serve to the best of their ability. The community knows that they worked hard and under normal conditions the bank would have achieved a measure of success. But nothing is normal these days.

There is little prospect that doors of the Merchants & older residents of this community say that this bank or its That is not true—there are prob- consin, now prohibit 'hitch-hi

Steele and Zackie Whitfield were sent to the penitentiary for wrecking the bank.

The reorganized bank always labored under the handicap of obligations taken over from the former looted institution. In some years it was able to charge off some of these poor notes, but the last year or two, instead of reducing bad paper, conditions brought in more.

The close of the bank will tie up business more or less. It is just one more blow for a community that has weathered many. But at that, conditions are no worse here than in other communities, and much better than in many.

A mere monetary loss does not ruin Sullivan. It may check and it may dampen the enthusiasm, it may for a time depress and suppress the spirit of the people. But such feeling is only temporary.

A stranger coming in here and mingling with the people could not otherwise than be impressed with Sullivan's grit. The general attitude seems to be to -"Take it on the chin, and grin."

One dark night an oriental monarch, who was also a philosopher, placed a boulder in the middle of a highway. Concealing himself he watched the result of his experiment. Many people stubbed their toes on the rock, or else walked grumblingly around it. Finally, one lusty youth paused to survey the obstruction, then seized it and heaved it rom the path. And lo, where it had rested he found a purse of gold! Doubtless there is a moral concealed in this little tale, but we must leave you to discover it.—Exchange.

Uncle Andy Cuts A Mellon For Friends

It takes a lot of nerve to do what Uncle Andy Mellon has done. He is, as you know, the secretary of this nation's almost empty treasury. As such, he seems to be the big man in handing back income tax refunds.

According to a report made to Congress last week Mr. Mellon's department of the government refunded about $69. 000.000 last year in income taxes alleged to have been collected by mistake.

That's rather magnanimous, to say the least. Some of these beneficiaries had expert lawyers and other technicians who looked the situation over for them. They found that in $25 for the same amount of amuse- toring?"-Rock Island Magazine. age.

reason for this is that so many of them pop up and nearly everybody who finds one thinks that he has a relic that ought to be worth big money. A real first edition of that historic paper would be worth quite a bit to a collector of antiques. But practically all of these copies that are found are simply reprints. They are copies made from a set of plates years ago. Thousands of copies were printed and sold at a nominal sum as souvenirs at a world's fair or some such important event.

Very few authentic original copies of the Ulster Gazette are in existence. There is a copy in the Congressional Library and several eastern museums boast of having copies.

If you find a copy, however, do not get excited about it. Because of the many reprint copies in existence they have very little mone-observes, radio can have no effect on any of these factors that enter into evaporation of water from the earth's surface or into the condensation of atmospheric vapor. Attributing droughts and floods to radio, in his opinion, is just another instance of the common human habit of ascribing a little understood occurrence to something that is even more mysterious.

Obviously, Doctor Humphreys
