76TH YEAR NO. 15

WILLIAM WOOD PLEADS GUILTY; OTHER CASES

Virgil Knutzen Not a Love Pirate; Several Divorces are Granted. Action in Foreclosure Suits; Next Day of Court April 16th.

William Wood, under indictment for giving a worthless check in a horse-buying deal, entered a plea of guilty before Judge Wamsley Saturday on a forgery charge and was given an indeterminate sentence in the Southern Illinois penitentiary. He has a wife and several children. The court found his age to be 28. His home is in the Lake City community.

Knutzen "Not Guilty"
The court Saturday opened the verdict of the jury which recently heard the case in which Perry Hardwick of Mattoon was suing Dr. Virgil H. Knutzen of Lovington. Mr. Hardwick alleged that the doctor had stolen his wife's affections. The jury, after hearing the evidence, decided against Mr. Hardwick. Attorney for the complainant made a motion for a new trial.

To Federal Court
The case of Mrs. Josephine Waggoner, widow of the late R. O. Waggoner, and executrix of his will, against the C. C. C. & St. L. (Big Four) railway, was transferred to the Federal Court at Danville. Mr. Waggoner met death when a train struck him while crossing a track of the aforesaid company in the village of Gays several months ago. Mrs. Waggoner is suing the company for damages.

Divorce Cases
The Judge heard evidence in the divorce case of William Walker vs. Ortha Walker and granted a divorce decree.
Same action was taken in the case of William Granville Betts vs. Patience Georgiana Betts. After the complainant was heard, final decree was granted.

In the case of Laverne Haws vs. John Haws, the complainant was granted a divorce and custody of the minor children. The court's decision on alimony and support was held in reserve.

Chas. Wood, Rec.
In the partition suit of Mrs. Dora Ray and others against O. A. Foster and others, the court appointed Charles Wood as receiver and he qualified by giving bond in the sum of $1000.

An Arthur Case
In the case of the Arthur Homestead & Loan Association against E. W. Boyd as executor of the will of the late A. J. Monroe, N. S. Monroe & Sons, Inc., and John R. Coburn, the report of Master in Chancery O. F. Cochran was filed and approved. A judgment decree of $4,619.40 was entered and the Master was instructed to sell.
The next day of court will be April 16th.

TAXES CAN NOW BE PAID AT ANY BANK IN COUNTY

Tuesday county treasurer John Orman Newbould received notification that his surety bond had been approved. This matter has been pending for some time.

Under the new arrangements every bank in the county is now a depository for county funds. This means that the banks can collect taxes as has been done in former years.

Total amount of taxes paid up to Tuesday was $91,546.09. This is nearly one-fifth of the total for the year. The first delinquent date will be on May 1st. Taxes on real estate this year can be paid in two installments of equal amount. If the first installment is not paid by May 1st it becomes delinquent and penalty accrues.

Moultrie county's taxes this year are approximately $500,000. Treasurer Newbould has been paying the taxes to the treasurers of the towns, school treasurers and cities as fast as it has been coming in.

ROAD CONTRACT TO BE LET APRIL 27

The state highway department has issued a Call for bids to be submitted at a road letting April 27th.
Included in this letting is Route 132, Section 105, being that portion of the route from its present paved terminus east of the Masonic Home to Mattoon. In this section there are 11.25 miles of paving. Contract will also be let for Section 105-B-C, which is the Okaw bridge on this route, north of Allenville.

Building of this road this summer will be a big boost to this part of the country and many will find employment on this job.

STUDENTS GAVE CHICAGO A LOOK OVER SATURDAY

High school students who went to Chicago on the educational trip last Saturday were: Dorman Shirey, Earl Freeman, Bill Fleming, Billy Richardson, Paul McDavid, Beatrice Hill, Gertrude Pence, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin, Miss Emel, Miss Barrick, Mr. Scheer, Eileen Myers, Pauline Elder, Bernice Elder, Ruth Oliver, Floyd Barnes, Hugh Grote, John Tichenor, Vanous Franklin, Gene Backenstow, Leo Horn, Elmer Dunscomb, Wayne Hughes and Charles Reeder.

SIX DEMOCRATS; 2 REPUBLICANS ELECTED TUES.

Four of Commissioners Seeking Re-election Were Defeated. Democratic East Nelson Township Elected Republican, and Republican Marrowbone Chose a Democrat.

Four of the present highway commissioners in Moultrie county were defeated for re-election Tuesday. Politically the returns of the election show that six Democratic highway commissioners and two Republicans were elected.

In Sullivan township Clarence Miller, Democrat was re-elected without opposition. He received a total of 338 votes.

McDaniel Loses
In East Nelson township Shim McDaniel, Democrat, running for re-election was defeated by Ted Graham, Republican by a majority of 26 votes.

A big vote was polled and great interest was shown.
At the Allenville poll Mr. McDaniel got 168, Graham 170. At the north poll McDaniel 110; Graham 134. Total for McDaniel 278; Graham 304.
Marrowbone Democratic
Marrowbone township elected another Democratic official Tuesday when Ol Harding was elected commissioner over Charles Van Meter who sought re-election. The total vote was: Van Meter 303, (Continued on last page)

DOBBINS REPORTED AS PROBABLE VICTOR

Reports from some of the counties that comprise the 19th Congressional District indicate that the Democrats will select D. C.

D. C. DOBBINS

Dobbins as their Congressional nominee at the primary Tuesday. Of all the candidates in the race, he has doubtless made the most thorough campaign. He promises, that if nominated, he will institute a systematic campaign for election November 8th.

22 ABSENTEE VOTERS
Twenty-two voters this year availed themselves of the privilege of voting absentee primary ballots in this county. Most of this number were Republicans.

TELEPHONE MAN DIED FROM WIRE SCRATCH MON.

Jesse McCulley of Bruce Was Unfortunate Victim of Trivial Accident Wednesday. Burial in French Cemetery.

Jesse McCulley, an employe of the Bruce telephone company died at his home Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock as a result of septicaemia (blood poisoning).

About ten days before his death he was working on repairs on the telephone lines near the Hubert Lilly corner east of Allenville. He sustained some scratches on his hands. He complained of these scratches to his wife when he returned home saying "my hands are just cut to pieces." He treated the scratches with home preparations and continued work on the following days.

About the middle of last week he complained of having chills and otherwise feeling bad. Medical aid was summoned but his condition grew gradually worse. One of the scratches on his hand had become infected and the poison spread rapidly throughout his system, causing great agony until death relieved him.

The remains were brought to the McMullin Funeral home in this city where an inquest was held by Coroner Robinson. The jury heard the evidence and returned a verdict in accordance with the facts as presented. The jurors were J. A. Wright, A. K. Palmer, Charles Clark, Jno. Baucom, G. O. Campbell and Ed Batman.

The telephone company carries insurance against accidents that their employes may suffer.

Jesse McCulley was born near Bruce June 9, 1902. Practically his entire life time was spent in that community. On April 7, 1928 he was united in marriage with Mrs. Alma Spaug. She survives him as do the following stepchildren: Mrs. Dale McCulley of near Gays, Wanda and Jane Spaug at home. He also leaves his stepfather, D. A. McCulley, brothers Harry and Dale of Gays and sisters Mrs. Hazel Ray of Sullivan and Miss Flossie at home.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Bruce church, in charge of Rev. W. B. Hopper. Burial was in the French cemetery.

NEW GROCERY OPENED FOR BUSINESS WEDNESDAY

The Floyd Grocery Company Wednesday opened in the room on the northeast corner of the square where the Tire & Battery station was formerly located. Mr. Floyd has been a resident of this city for several years and has been employed in the oil business. Before coming to Sullivan he was a grocer and has had plenty of experience in the line he is now engaged in. Besides selling groceries, he will buy poultry and eggs and will have a grocery huckster wagon on the road calling on the trade, beginning Monday morning.

—The Domestic Science club will meet at the home of Mrs. G. R. Fleming Friday afternoon.

JUDGE JENNINGS HEARS CASES AND GIVES SENTENCES

In the county court, before Judge J. E. Jennings a plea of guilty was entered Monday in two charges against Homer Andrews. Mr. Andrews, a one time grain buyer at Dalton City, admitted having given worthless checks in payment of grain. He was sentenced to 75 days at the state penal farm on each charge, or 150 days in all.

Arthur White, indicted for driving an automobile while intoxicated appeared and entered a plea of not guilty. He gave bond for his appearance for trial April 18th. He contends that he only sat in a car and did not drive it.

Ike Bailey plead guilty to a petit larceny charge. He was indicted for taking a pair of overshoes at the home of J. N. Foster. After making his plea Mr. Bailey explained that the shoes were out alongside the road when he picked them up. He was fined $5.00 and given one day in jail, said day to end at sunset Monday. He is also to pay the costs in the case which are over $20.

ROOSEVELT IS FAVORITE OF CANDIDATES

Four of Five Candidates for Delegate Favor New Yorker if Re-elected from Lewis Instructions. Progress Gets Information for Voters.

Four of the five men who are candidates on the Democratic ticket for delegate to the national convention, have written The Progress saying that their second choice at this time for the presidential nomination is Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mr. Allen of Decatur places Gov. Ritchie second and Gov. Roosevelt third. All of course, expect to vote for Senator James Hamilton Lewis on the first ballot.

Two delegates will be elected from this congressional district.

On March 26th The Progress wrote to the five candidates as follows:
"Complying with the wishes of a number of leading Democrats of this community, I am writing this letter today to all Democratic candidates for delegate to the National Convention. The information thus gathered will be used in a political story before the end of the primary campaign.

"We believe that the voters are entitled to this information so they can vote intelligently on delegates.

SATURDAY IS ELECTION DAY FOR SCHOOLS

Three Elections Here in Sullivan; No Opposition on Tickets of High and Grade Schools. Non-high Election at Dalton City.

Three school elections will be held in Sullivan Saturday. In all districts in the county directors and board members will be elected.

The Sullivan grade school election will be held in the Matt Dedman store on the east side of the square. Only one ticket has been filed and on it are three names for re-election: J. L. McLaughlin, for president; Chester Horn and Burney McDavid for board members.

The Township high school election will be held in The Progress office. Here too, only one ticket is in the field this year. On it are Carl A. Dick for re-election as president; Raymond Shasteen and C. B. Freeland for board members. The terms of Dave Cummins and Ed Brandenburg expire. They are not seeking re-election.

In the office of Carl A. Dick an election will be held for school trustee. The term of U. G. Dazey expires and his name appears on the ballot for re-election. The holdover trustees are John Graven and I. J. Martin.

At Dalton City a Non-High election will be held. The name of John Roney appears on the ticket for re-election. The two holdover members are James Morrison and J. L. Mays.

HARDWARE STATE BANK TAKES IN NEW STOCKHOLDERS

The Hardware State Bank of Lovington was first organized as a private bank forty-seven years ago by S. P. Drake, who for a time operated it in the rear of his Hardware store. Later L. G. Hostetler came into the organization and these two men operated the bank as a private bank for many, many years. Later J. R. Drake came into the organization, and for many years has been the bank's cashier. In 1920 the bank was incorporated as a State bank. The three men operated the bank until S. P. Drake passed on in June of 1930.

Realizing the uncertainty of life, and believing that it will greatly add to the strength and stability of the bank, to enlarge the number of its stockholders, the two remaining stockholders of the bank decided to sell, and have sold and assigned two-fifths of the Capital Stock of the bank to a group selected as being representative business men and citizens of the community. The present list of stockholders of the bank include the following: L. G. Hostetler, J. R. Drake, S. P. Drake Estate, G. W. Bryant, S. H. Curry, Dennis Houlihan, John W. Hines, A. A. Brown, T. E. Pargeon, H. B. Hoelscher, Walter C. Hoffman, Ira S. Hoffman, A. F. Hoffman, F. B. Wood, T. L. Conn and T. P. Ellis.

A bank is, in a very real sense, a community affair, and is the most vitally important institution in any community. In taking this forward step of the addition of this group of business men as stockholders, will not only be a benefit to the bank but will be of benefit to the entire community in years to come.

The management of the bank will not be changed in any way, except by enlargement a little later of the Board of Directors.

PARENT-TEACHERS MEETING TUESDAY

"Humane Education" will be the topic of the Parent-Teachers meeting at Lowe school building on Tuesday evening, April 12th, beginning at 7:30. Miss Redmon's room will furnish several numbers, including a playlet "The Trial of the Birds", and a solo by Joan Shell. There will also be music by Mrs. J. H. Hughes, and by the grade school chorus under the direction of Miss Nalbach.

Prizes will be awarded for the best posters illustrating kindness to animals, and these posters will be on display.

THE OFFICE OF CIRCUIT CLERK IS IMPORTANT

An experienced man assures accuracy in recording and in the other legal matters which are handled through this office.

Cadell West, who seeks re-nomination in Tuesday's primary has filled the office efficiently. His office has always proven more than self-supporting. His work has met with the unqualified approval of the courts, attorneys and of the real estate men.

Information is always available. Experience makes it possible for him to give such information, as to county records, promptly and accurately.

If you favor a continuance of the kind of service that Mr. West has given to the tax-payers of Moultrie county, you can assure his re-nomination by marking your ballot as follows:

FOR CIRCUIT CLERK CADELL WEST

This name will be found in the second column on your Democratic primary ballot. Look for it. Take your time when in the voting booth to find the names of those candidates whom you want to vote for. —adv.

MRS. GEORGE FINLEY DIED LAST THURSDAY FUNERAL HELD SUNDAY

Mrs. Ola Finley, wife of George Finley, a Whitley township farmer, died at her home Thursday night of last week. A recent attack of flu, followed by heart troubles caused her death.

The Finley family is well known here in Sullivan. They lived here some years ago and he was associated with his father T. P. Finley in the shoe business. Later they moved to Mattoon but for some years have been on a farm in Whitley township.

Deceased was born near Cooks Mills in February 1881. Twenty-seven years ago she was married to George Finley. The husband and four children survive her. They are LaGreta, wife of Paul Hostetler, Geraldine, Frieda and Freddie at home. She leaves two brothers and two sisters.

Funeral services were held at Smysor church Sunday afternoon, in charge of Rev. Glenn Armstrong the pastor. Mrs. Finley had been a member of that church for many years.

TOWN MEETING TUESDAY MADE ANNUAL TAX LEVY

The annual town meeting was held Tuesday afternoon. Reports of treasurer of town funds were submitted. It was shown that there are no outstanding debts or loaned money. Balance on hand in road and bridge fund is $755.73; in special oil fund $2003.50; in town fund $1570.40.

The township is now required to pay pauper aid, instead of being paid out of the county treasury as in former years. Due to the mild winter, Supervisor Newbould stated that the pauper relief for the township was the lowest in many years.

In making next year's levy the amount for pauper relief was put at $2,500. A reduction was made of $500 in fees and salaries and of $100 in maintenance of cemeteries.

The levy as passed by the town board and filed with the county clerk is as follows:

Fees and salaries $3,400; Election expenses $300; expenses of auditing board $100; legal services $300; printing $300; support of poor $2500; maintenance of cemeteries $100—total $7,000.

MOVED TO FARM

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cazier moved Monday from their residence on Washington street to their farm near Bruce. Mrs. Jas. Shasteen has rented their city property.

PATRONS' DAY AT TWP. HIGH SCHOOL APR. 15

Good Program Arranged For Annual Educational Events. Rural Schools in District Invited to Participate.

The annual Patron's day of the Sullivan township high school for 1932 has been set for Friday, Apr. 15. This will be open house to all teachers, pupils and patrons of the district.

All pupils of the rural schools of the district are invited and urged to attend and participate in the literary and athletic contests which have been arranged to promote their interest in school activities, further their acquaintance with each other, and provide contact with high school environment.

With the rather wide variety of events, opportunity is offered for pupils from every school to participate in some event.

School directors are requested to grant this day to their teacher and pupils, as it cannot fail to have a distinct educational advantage to them.

The County Superintendent of Schools endorses the character and value of the activities of the "day" and expects to have all schools function in these activities.

Program
9:00 a. m.—Band concert.
9:30 a. m.—One act play (English Classes)
10:00 a. m.—Girls' Declamation
10:30 a. m. S. T. H. S. Chorus Concert.

1:00 p. m.—Athletic Contests.
Girls events in Gym; boys on H. S. Track.
3:00 p. m.—Decision of judges, awarding ribbons and banner in H. S. auditorium.

The following facts will be of interest to all participants:

There are six events for girls and seven for boys as enumerated in the eligibility list.

In declamation, boys compete against boys and girls against the girls. Selections may be humorous, dramatic or a learned oration, but should not require more than 7 minutes for delivery. Enter one girl and one boy.

Enter two boys in the three legged race as one leg of each will be tied together for this race. Boys under ten years only may enter this race.

In the sack race for boys under ten, each boy will be furnished with a sack, in which he must race 50 yards.

In the one legged race for girls, each girl will have both feet tied together and will race the length of the gymnasium.

In the running tournament for girls two girls are required to represent one school. Each girl will run twice across the gym as her part in the race.

In the nail driving contest each girl will be required to drive 5 nails without bending. The one driving them first is winner.

In the Indian club race each girl will exchange the places of two Indian clubs and return to the starting point, leaving both clubs standing. The one who first returns wins.

Points are earned in contests as follows: Declamations 1st 50; 2nd 30; 3rd 20.
Athletics 1st 25; 2nd 15; 3rd, 10.

THERE IS NO NEED OF YOUR CHILDREN HAVING DIPHTHERIA

Diphtheria is one of the most dreaded diseases of childhood. It can be prevented by giving Toxigenic Antitoxin or Toxoid. Children from six months on through school age should have this treatment and then there will be no fear of this disease. If you wish your child given this treatment, sign the blanks that they bring from school and return at once. Give full name and age of child and sign your name. Dates of clinics will be arranged as soon as we are notified through the schools of how many children returning consent slips. If you wish any information ask your family physician or call or write Mrs. Clyde C. Harris, Sullivan.

MARRIED BY LAMBRECHT

Speak not in the ears of a fool; for he will despise the wisdom of thy words.

A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver.

A lying tongue hateth those who are afflicted by it; and a flattering mouth worketh ruin. —Random Proverbs

A great deal of the joy of life consists in doing perfectly, or at least to the best of one's ability, everything which he attempts to do. Happy indeed is the man who can survey his handiwork and say to himself, "This is Good." There is a sense of satisfaction, a pride in surveying such a work—a work which is rounded, full, exact, complete in all its parts—which the superficial man, who leaves his work in a slovenly, slipshod, half-finished condition, can never know.—Anon.

A slender acquaintance with the world must convince every man that actions, not words, are the true criterion of the attachment of friends; and that the most liberal professions of good will are very far from being the surest marks of it.—George Washington.

Tuesday's Primary Election

Tuesday of next week is general primary day. On that day the Democrats and Republicans will select their candidates for office. These candidates, so selected, will be on the ballot for the election November 8th.

Many candidates are seeking nominations Tuesday. In county affairs there is but one contest—that for circuit clerk. This is on the Democratic ticket where Cadell West seeks renomination and Ivan Wood is his opponent.

Because of the many candidates for the Democratic nomination for state offices, The Progress has been asked by a number of voters for information.

We do not presume to advise how you shall vote. We'll tell you how we are going to vote and our reasons therefor. These candidates have been picked because we feel they are truly representative of Democracy and because we feel they can be elected next fall.

For President

The only name on the Democratic ballot is that of James Hamilton Lewis. The Illinois delegates will give Senator Lewis a "favorite son" vote. We believe that the sentiment in this state is overwhelmingly for Franklin D. Roosevelt. We will write in Mr. Roosevelt's name and place a cross in front of it.

For United States Senator

For this office we will vote for William H. Dieterich. He is a downstate man and is now a Congressman-at-large. He was elected two years ago by a big majority. He is well liked both in Chicago and downstate and if nominated can and will be elected.

For Governor

The hottest fight for a nomination for state office is that which is being waged for governor. There are three prominent candidates. Two of these, Judge Horner and Michael Igoe are from Chicago. Bruce Campbell is from Belleville. The state central committee, dominated by Mayor Cermak of Chicago, has picked Judge Horner and endorsed him. Mr. Igoe has built an organization of his own. The fight is really a fight between Mr. Igoe and Mayor Cermak to determine who shall be boss of the Cook county Democracy. We are going to vote for Bruce Campbell. He is not mixed up in the Chicago fight; he is the only downstate man in the race; he is in every way qualified for the office he seeks; he is the only candidate for governor who visited Moultrie county during this campaign; he has the best chance for election, for downstate Democrats will not take kindly to a Chicago candidate so long as Chicago is delinquent in its tax payments to the state; he is the only man who can defeat any Republican candidate, whether he be from Chicago or downstate. The Judge Horner crowd is spending a lot of money. They are impressing downstate voters with their claims. Do not be misled. Vote for Bruce Campbell. He can be nominated and if nominated, can be elected.

Lieutenant Governor

For this office we are going to vote for another of the "Slate" candidates—Thomas F. Donovan. Mr. Donovan lives in Joliet. For the past ten years he has been chairman of the State Democratic committee and has been a staunch fighter for the Democracy of the state.

For Secretary of State

A Chicago man—Edward J. Hughes, has the committee endorsement. Chicago is entitled to representation on the ticket and this man Hughes is ideally qualified for the office he seeks. We feel quite sure he will be nominated. He will be a strong candidate in the November election.

For Auditor

Two years ago, Edward Barrett, a Chicago unknown got on the ticket and defeated Mr. Zacharias, the "slate" candidate for the nomination for state treasurer. He made a thorough campaign and was elected. He has made an outstanding treasurer. He deserves an endorsement and continuance in state office. As the state treasurer cannot succeed himself, Mr. Barrett seeks the nomination for State Auditor. The committee has endorsed him. He will be nominated. He will put new life and force into what is now the weakest state office.

For Treasurer

Fourteen Democrats want to be the candidate for state treasurer. The state committee has endorsed John C. Martin of Salem. Mr. Martin is well known to a number of men here and they all speak in highest terms of him. He is a Salem banker and deserves whole-hearted downstate support.

For Attorney General

For this important office we disagree with the "Slate" endorsement and will cast our vote for Judge Truman Snell of Carlinville. Judge Snell is an old warhorse of Democracy. He has served ably and well in the Legislature and if nominated and elected will make an attorney general of whom the entire state can be proud.

Clerk of Supreme Court

The state committee has endorsed a man named Bloch of Chicago. We are going to vote for H. D. Lukenbill of Springfield. We do not know this man personally, but friends have highly recommended him.

Congressman at Large

Two candidates will be nominated for this office. We are going to vote for Walter Nesbit, our old Belleville neighbor. He has the "slate" endorsement. He came very near being elected two years ago.

Our other vote will be given to John M. Pfeifer of Springfield. Mr. Pfeifer in this issue of The Progress sets forth his qualifications. Look them over.

Clerk of Appellate Court

It is hard here to make a choice between Roy Johnston of Taylorville and G. H. Couchman of Hoopston. Both are fine men, well qualified. Our vote goes to Mr. Johnston, though we'd like to vote for both—which is, of course, impossible.

Delegates to Nominating Convention

In this issue appear statements from the five candidates who seek this party honor. Look these statements over and make your own decision. Two will be named. You have two votes.

For alternate we will cast our ballot for Dr. Freeman and John D. Eads.

For Representative in Congress

Six good, staunch and true Democrats are seeking this nomination. Charles Borchers, who was a Hooverer in 1928 is also in the running. Most of these men you have met. Two of them are from Moultrie county—Raymond D. Meeker and George Fulk. You are qualified to make your own selection. The important thing is to nominate a man who can be elected in November. Such a man must make a strenuous campaign. He must have some funds to finance such campaign. This district is normally overwhelmingly Republican. Whoever gets this nomination has a big job ahead of him, if he wants to win in November.

For State Senator

We cheerfully and gladly vote in this case to nominate W. E. C. Clifford. He is one of the leading Democrats of Champaign county. A number of years ago he was a candidate for state treasurer. He too has a big job cut out for him if he wants to win in November. If any Democrat can be elected to the state senate from this district (Champaign, Piatt and Moultrie counties) that man is Cass Clifford.

For Representative in General Assembly

This is another case where you can make your choice. We will not advise. All three candidates are good friends of ours. Only one of them can be nominated. Two could have been nominated and perhaps elected but the Senatorial committee, upon whom devolved the task of making the decision, decided to have but one candidate. The three candidates have made a thorough canvass of the county. Their platforms and requests for your vote appear in this issue.

All except Four

We have told you how we are going to vote for all except four of the nominations where there are contests. These four are—Delegate to National convention; Congress; Representative and Circuit Clerk. Please do not forget to vote in all of these cases.

Publish Marked Ballot

On page 10 of this issue appears a ballot marked in accordance with the views expressed in the fore-going editorial. If you approve of our selections, tear this ballot out of the paper and take it with you for your guidance when you go to the polls to cast your vote Tuesday.

One Final Plea

Do not be misled by the Judge Horner arguments at this late hour. The best interests of Illinois will be served by having a downstate Democrat in the Governor's chair at Springfield for the next four years. This can only be assured by the nomination and election of Bruce Campbell.

Remember that there is nothing stable in human affairs; therefore avoid undue elation in prosperity, or undue depression in adversity. —Isocrates.

Campbell For Governor

PLATFORM OF BRUCE CAMPBELL, CANDIDATE FOR THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR GOVERNOR.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF BRUCE CAMPBELL, CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Bruce A. Campbell was born in Albion, Illinois in 1879. He comes from a pioneer Illinois family of old American stock. The first of his ancestors settled in Illinois in 1816 and all his forbears have lived in this state since that time. He has lived in Illinois all his life.

Mr. Campbell attended the public schools in Albion, graduated from the Albion High School in 1894, from the Southern Collegiate Institute, also at Albion in 1897. In 1900 he graduated from the University of Illinois with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. While at the University he was for two years president of the Students Democratic Club; a member of the Debating Team; a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity. Later he was elected to and became a member of the honorary scholarship fraternity of Phi Beta Kappa.

He studied law in the office of his father and was admitted to the bar in 1901. He practiced law at Albion until 1905, serving as City Attorney in 1903-04.

In 1904 he was elected a member of the Lower House of the General Assembly from the 48th District, composed of the Counties of Crawford, Lawrence, Wabash, Edwards, White, Gallatin and Hardin.

In 1905 Mr. Campbell removed to East St. Louis, where he has since been engaged in the general practice of law. He has never been a candidate for public office since coming to St. Clair County except that in 1910 he was drafted to make a hopeless race for Congress from the 22nd District.

He has been a delegate to every State Convention since 1900, and in 1922 and 1926 was both temporary and permanent chairman of the Democratic State Convention, and was temporary chairman of the State Convention in 1930.

In 1930 he also served as chairman of the committee for drafting the Democratic State platform of that year upon which Senator Lewis ran and was elected by a majority of nearly three-quarters of a million.

He was District Delegate to the Democratic National Convention in Baltimore in 1912, and a Delegate at Large to the 1924 and 1928 Conventions at New York and Houston. In 1930 he served as vice chairman of the National Committee for the Central Region of Eight States, including Illinois, and devoted nearly all of his time to the campaign. He has spoken frequently in every campaign since 1900.

He was president of the Illinois State Bar Association in 1922-23, and he served as president of the East St. Louis Bar Association in 1912.

Fraternally Mr. Campbell is an Elk, a member of the Modern Woodmen of America, 32 degree and Knight Templar Mason and a member of all precedent bodies, and a Shriner; he is also a Rotarian.

Mr. Campbell was president of the Illinois Elks Association in 1911-1912, and was Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks of the United States in 1918 and 1919. He was a member of the Elks National War Relief Commission during the War and since 1921 has served upon the National Elks Commission which built the Elks Memorial Building at Chicago and founded and has since published the Elks Magazine, and he is now Vice Chairman of the Commission operating and managing both institutions.

For the last three years, during its entire existence, he has been chairman of the Illinois Elks Association Crippled Children's Clinic, which is now operating diagnostic clinics in 65 cities of the State. During this period over ten thousand crippled children's cases have been diagnosed at these clinics; over four hundred of the children have been completely cured and a like number are about ready to be discharged with complete restoration to health and activity.

Mr. Campbell is married and lives at 21 Oak Knoll Place, Belleville, Illinois, about half way between the business sections of East St. Louis and Belleville. His office is in East St. Louis, and he has lived in East St. Louis more than twenty years of his twenty-seven years' residence in St. Clair County. He has one son who is in business in Chicago, and one grandson about two and one-half years old.

TOO COLD IN CANADA

It was necessary for taxation purposes to decide on which side of the Canadian and United States border a farm, which an old lady had just purchased, actually lay. Surveyors finally announced that the farm was just on the American side of the border.

BROWNS PLAY FIRST GAME WITH SWANS HERE NEXT SUNDAY

The Sullivan Browns baseball club will play the first game of the season here Sunday afternoon at the city ball park, north of Wyman Lake.

The opposing team is the Decatur Swans, a colored aggregation. A good game of ball is in prospect.

The Browns will show this community a better brand of ball this year than last season, due to the fact that they are better organized and have better material in their lineup.

The line-up for the season is as follows:

Carter 1b; Poland 2d; Sterns or Hennigh ss; Trago 3b; Evans catcher; Misenhimer and Paul pitchers; Montie Lawrence Blue lf; Gutrie cf; Temple rf.

ROCKFORD WOMAN COMMENTS ON ECONOMY IN SULLIVAN SCHOOLS

Rockford, Ill.
April 2, 1932.

Editor Sullivan Progress
Dear Sir:

At the death of my first husband more than thirty years ago I moved to Sullivan to educate my four children. I chose Sullivan in preference to neighboring towns purely for the reputation of its splendid teachers and progressive schools, and I have never been sorry that I did so. We had no P. T. A. in those days, but I used sometimes to hear of the teachers meetings held informally for the discussion of new methods and new ideas.

My children reflected their school life in their play and conversation, as all children do. They took imaginary trips from the head waters of the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico. They lived with the French explorers for their teacher read Parkman to them. Robinson Crusoe and Friday or Hiawatha and the old Nokomis built their homes in my back yard. They argued as to whether there was more water in the world now than in the time of Adam and Eve. They learned more from their public school music teacher than they did in private lessons for they all learned to read notes and sing in part for their own amusement.

I read in your paper that your school board is saving $3500 next year. They have dropped six teachers, shortened the school year and otherwise lowered teachers salaries. You also hope for a population of 5000 within the next ten years. Do you think anyone will now move to Sullivan to educate a family? I'm sure I would not. My youngest daughter still lives there and her children now have fewer educational advantages than she had. Teachers are too overworked and have too many financial worries to give the children the real inspiration they should have. Methods are more stereotyped as they have to be under such circumstances. My grandchildren's interests lie largely outside of school. They never challenge each other with mental arithmetic. Instead, an eight year old girl defines a heart in answer to the question "What is a heart?"—"A heart is a vital organ." And as I suspected, although she has seen a chicken heart many times, she has no idea what "vital" and "organ" mean. My older granddaughter makes notebooks of the "classics" she reads illustrating them with pictures of Richard Arlen and Nancy Carroll, but she doesn't know the meaning of the first four lines of the poem she has illustrated.

At the present rate Sullivan can save on her school system in thirty years their contribution to the Shoe Factory. This year you have saved on the children of the grade schools a sum equal to half the weekly payroll of the factory and you are educating your children to hold the cheapest and most poorly paid positions among the factory employes, while the better paid positions will be held by products of other schools.

And why should any of these children grow up to teach school? Why spend four years in high school and two years in normal school to secure a job for eight months in your public schools when they can get an easier job for twelve months in your shoe factory?

What the future holds for the children of Sullivan, Heaven only knows, but it seems to me that it is the stupidest of blunders to sacrifice the interests of the children by giving them teachers who are overworked, underpaid, and therefore too discouraged to do their best work and keep the school system to its former high standards.

Yours truly,
Mrs. C. C. Johnson.

SERVICE MAN REPLIES

I listened, Sunday evening to a radio address by David Lawrence, editor of the United States Daily at Washington, in which he spoke of the ex-servicemen of the country as a menace to the rest of humanity. As I understood it, we are an avaricious minority, to be watched carefully and suppressed relentlessly. At times I was not sure that Mr. Lawrence was not confusing us with Al Capone.

I could not help remembering the different tone in the speeches of such as Mr. Lawrence a few years ago, when the world was a-flame with war, and they were urging that same "minority" to push on to Berlin. I recalled the Argentine drive, and those same boys, choking with gas fumes, ragged, lousy and bleeding, marching on through bursting shells and machinegun fire, while their friends lay dying on the field behind.

With repulsion I recalled seeing human bodies piled up like cord wood, several limbs laid back in place, being loaded on flat cars to be hauled to a temporary burial place. I can still see the long lines of German prisoners carrying our mutilated American boys back to the rear, because we did not have time to do it ourselves.

A Reliable Old Plow Team

Have the American people so soon forgotten that it was this same menacing minority which, by their sacrifice and determination, ended that war at least a year before anyone had expected it? Have they realized the saving which cessation of hostilities made in lives, and suffering, and good American dollars? Can you believe that any of those boys came out of the Argonne, without having been blighted like a hot house flower thrust into a blast furnace?

We won that victory. You and your "fat-head" politicians threw it away. We fought to make the world safe for democracy—a war to end wars—to keep the sacred home fires burning, and to protect them from the terrible "Hun." Now, we can't even protect them from the sheriff. The blundering and unscrupulous politicians have done as thorough a job of devastating this great land of ours as the murderous "Hun" ever could have done, and it is time to call a halt.

As a class, the world war veterans have slept for thirteen years. There has been a strong sentiment throughout the land for the soldier to keep out of politics, and we have done it. Now the world is sitting upon a powder keg, and the veteran is stirring in his sleep. We're going back into harness, but we'll fight this battle with bullets, and not bullets. No world war veteran worthy of the name will vote for Herbert Hoover or for Senator Glenn. The latter should be wiped out at the polls on April 12th, and the former at the republican convention.

A word about the unemployed. Many of these awful looking tramps you see upon the streets, are boys who marched home thirteen years ago, with banners flying, amidst the cheers of an admiring populace. Now they're starving.

But it's not the first time they've been hungry. They were often that way in 1918. And they could starve now, if you would only give them hope. A grain of hope is often worth a pound of bacon when you are hungry, but when that last spark flickers out, as it most surely will if you go to the polls on April 12th and ask them to face four or six more years of this, there is no telling what they will do.

Bonus legislation is of minor importance, and no veteran would insist upon it if it cannot be paid. Straightening out the wretched condition of this country, is of vital importance, and, as World War Veterans, we ask and implore every patriotic organization, and every loyal, red-blooded man and woman, to go into your respective party primary on Tuesday, April 12th, with blood in your eye, and help us clean house. Your responsibility as a voter at this critical time, is tremendous. Will you face it as we tried to face our problems thirteen years ago.

J. E. Maartin,
Secretary Veterans Voters League of Moultrie County.

ROTATION SHAKEUP URGED AS WAY TO GET CLOVER BONUS

Urbana, Ill., April 5—Corn and wheat are not the so-called "high-profit" crops they once were, and consequently this is a good time to change farm rotations permanently to take advantage of the "bonus" offered by a clover crops, says L. B. Miller, associate in soil experiment fields at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Such a change would insure more uniform production from year to year with no increase in surplus and would slash the bushel costs of growing corn, Miller said.

"Rotation studies over a long period of years here at Urbana show an average yield of 34 bushels of corn an acre under a corn and oats rotation and a 51-bushel corn yield with a rotation of corn, oats and red clover on similar unfertilized land. Two farms of the same size, operated under these systems, would produce the same number of bushels of corn a farm. However, the farm growing the corn and oats rotation would have half of its land in corn, while the farm growing the corn, oats and red clover rotation would have only one-third of its land in corn. Similarly, the change in rotation increased the oats yield from 31.7 bushels to 44 bushels an acre.

"Thus, the farm growing one-third of its acreage in clover would produce as much corn and almost as much oats as the other farm and in addition would have the clover crop as a 'bonus' to be used for feed and for soil improvement. "Census reports for 1930 show that in ten typical corn belt counties of central Illinois more than 55 per cent of the crop land was in corn and only 13.1 per cent in legumes, including tame hay and soy beans. Parts of many farms in northern and central Illinois will grow red clover without liming. Most of the brown silt loam soils require only a little limestone or phosphate to make them good clover producers."

ASH GROVE FARMER ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

Benzil Sexson, 33 farmer living in Ashgrove township in Shelby county, was killed instantly at 10 o'clock, Sunday morning when he fell from the front bumper of his own automobile, and was run over by the machine, driven by his wife.

According to the facts as pieced together by Deputy Coroner Wirt Lovins of Windsor, several of Sexson's horses had broken loose and had strayed over the roads and fields in the vicinity of his farm. Sexson, his wife, and a young farm hand named Curry were endeavoring to round up the animals, using Sexson's car.

Sexson, presumably to see better and coax the horses as they were found, was standing on the front bumper, his hand grasping the radiator cap. Mrs. Sexson was driving, and according to Mr. Lovins, they had found one horse and were driving slowly down the road near it.

Mrs. Sexson, however, accidentally struck a rut in the road, which loosened her husband's grip, and he fell headlong to the ground, the machine passing over his body. Sexson suffered several skull fractures, a broken neck and a broken back, any one of which might have been fatal.

Horror-stricken, Mrs. Sexson with the help of young Curry, lifted her husband's body into the auto and rushed to Windsor, where she was unable to find a physician. Under impression he was still alive

He was born on the farm on which he lived, which was owned by his grandfather.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Ollie Sexson, formerly of Tower Hill, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Sexson, two grandfathers, Preston Colson of Windsor, and I. F. Sexson of Gays, one one sister, Ruth of Springfield.

The funeral was conducted on Tuesday afternoon in the Ashgrove Christian church. Burial was in the Ashgrove cemetery.

MICHAEL L. IGOE For Governor

The present outlook indicates that the democrats of Illinois next Tuesday will name the man who in the November election will be chosen governor of the state.

How seriously are the democratic voters considering their responsibility in this matter? Will they be able to select the man who would make the best governor as well as a winning candidate?

Michael L. Igoe is a man of ability and character and he is best informed in state affairs and therefore the most capable candidate that is offered.

He has had long experience as a member of the legislature, has been active in all its deliberations and has never evaded responsibility or dodged a question.

For several years he has been the democratic leader in the house, chosen at each session by unanimous vote of the party caucus. In all these years he has best served the party by serving the best interests of the state.

His leadership has been so capable and his legislative record so clean and patriotic that his opponents have not found anything to attack or criticize.

He knows the needs of the state and he knows, better than any other candidate, the trustworthy men of the state. He is the only democrat for Governor who has this broad acquaintance with state affairs. He is clean, able, honest and well informed and will make a good Governor.

Democrats, nominate and elect Michael L. Igoe for governor and throughout the next four years you will be able to point with pride to the success of your choice.

At the THEATRE

This Thursday and Friday—Robert Montgomery and Madge Evans in "Lovers Courageous." Some good added attractions.

The Silent Witness

Here's a good Saturday picture. Lionel Atwill (distinguished English actor who achieved a great success in the stage presentation of this play) is the star. Grete Nissen, a beautiful and alluring blonde is the heroine. There are lots of thrilling and breath-taking moments in this picture. It's a strange love crime; a kiss that led to murder; his kiss on her lips and his finger prints on her throat. There is one of those murder trials that so many of the picture loving public like to see.

You'll want to see justice done, right vindicated and wrong punished—in other words you'll want to see the final chapter of "The Vanishing Legion." Also some good extras.

Mack and Bob Sunday
As an added attraction to regular picture program Sunday only, "Mack and Bob" the famous Radio Entertainers from W. L. S. Chicago, will be seen.

The boys from Knoxville, will offer a program of songs and musical numbers such as have made them so popular over the radio and on the records. There is no extra admission charge, regular prices will prevail and the show will be continuous from 3 p. m.

You doubtless like Jack Oakie. He's not been seen here for some time, but Jack is out front in Sunday and Monday's feature bill. The play is "Dancers in the Dark" and with Oakie are Miriam Hopkins, William Collier Jr. and Eugene Pallette. See a dancer whom men met easily—loved carelessly—and forgot early. Love in her heart, hate in her soul, she danced the Melody of Death.—Then too there will be a hilarious comedy, a snappy cartoon and Pathe News. Please remember that Mack & Bob are on Sunday only.

Claudette Colbert
One of the most winsome actresses is this Claudette Colbert, born in France, but thoroughly Americanized. In Tuesday and Wednesday night's program she plays the lead in the picture "The Wiser Sex." We don't know how "sexy" this picture is but Miss Colbert will keep it from being objectionable. There is love and intrigue, romance and attempted murder. Melvyn Douglas, a comer, is featured in the advance copy of this picture, as also are Lilyan Tashman and William Boyd. EXTRA—See the Wheeler & Woolsey comedy "Oh, Oh! Cleopatra"; also another comedy and a screen novelty. Looks like a big night!

Joan Bennett—John Boles
Joan is a sister of Constance Bennett. John Boles can sing. They are the headlines in "Careless Lady" Thursday and Friday night's attraction next week.

It's quite a big cast and doubtless a good show. John will use his tenor tuned voice to sing "When you hear this song, Remember Me." and doubtless some other ditties as the play winds along. The press agent says: "Women will adore this picture! And if they're a friend of friend-husband, they'll bring him along to share a grand entertainment." It's nothing really against the man, but this fellow Boles lived in France for a while, studied French and taught it a few years. Manager Hays says "Advance reports on this picture are very good." He don't often give you folks a bum steer. Other things on the program are comedy, screen song and Pathe News.

REV. LAWRENCE ANNOUNCES SPECIAL FRIDAY SERVICES

One of the most unique, and most profitable services ever held in the Methodist church in Sullivan was the one held on Good Friday this year.

The church was open from 8 o'clock in the morning until midnight that night, continuous through noon and evening meal hours, with the pastor, Rev. Lawrence, conducting some kind of service throughout the entire period. People began coming in at 8:30 in the morning, and continued coming in groups, couples, and singly until the church was closed.

There were services of baptism, reception into the church, prayers, sacraments, counselling, all day and into the later hours of the night. There were 6 baptisms, 6 receptions into the church, 5 transfers into the church, and a large number present for prayer, meditation, and sacraments.

Rev. Lawrence will follow this same form of service during the last two Fridays of the Preaching Mission which starts Sunday night.

The Holy Communion service will not be ministered on these days; but the rites of baptism, reception into the church, prayer and meditation and counselling will be administered. The church will be open from 8:00 o'clock in the morning until 5:30 in the evening on Friday, April 22, and on Friday, April 29.

WORLD WAR YARNS

BY "FRANK E. HAGAN"

Such Taking Ways!

If some one says to you, "Why that fellow would steal a red-hot stove if you didn't watch him!" you'd probably laugh at that as a pleasant bit of exaggeration because it's obvious that no one could ever do that. But a captain of the judge advocate's court in one sector of France is the authority for this story:

"It happened during the recent cold spell when some of our troops were traveling from the seaboard to the interior. They traveled in semi-open horse cars and it was cold, d—d cold! One train stopped in front of a small railroad station and six soldiers with cold hands and feet jumped from the car and entered the waiting room.

"In the center of the room was a large square coal stove with red-hot sides. There was a whispered conference. Then one man stood on another's shoulders and disjoined the stovepipe. At the same time two others placed poles under the bottom of the stove, lifted it off the floor and walked out of the room with it. They placed it in the horse car, stuck the pipe out of one door and were warm for the remainder of the trip. Of course, the French authorities raised a big row about it and presented a bill for 400 francs for the stove and the coal in it. When the commanding officer heard the story he ordered the bill paid without a murmur. He said it was worth every cent of it—for American soldiers to prove that you could steal a red-hot stove and get away with it.

JUST A TOAST
Here is hoping we all go to heaven and our friends will all be there for lunch
But if they are not,
I'd rather be hot
And mingle in hell with the bunch.

European Lotteries
Lotteries were suppressed in Belgium in 1830, in Sweden in 1841, in Switzerland in 1865, but they are still common in many continental countries. Usually, however, the lotteries are supervised by the government officials.

Sopronia Protects Jim

By LOLAH TREADWELL LEE

WITH faltering step the old lady approached the desk of the Traveler's Aid in the interurban depot.

"I'm Mrs. Cutler," she informed the attendant, hesitatingly. "Be ye right sure nobody's asked fer me?" For the second time the girl shook her head.

Daisy Cutler walked slowly back to the bench and sat down beside her aged suitcase and shopping bag. For a moment her faded, blue eyes stared anxiously at the door which led to the street, then from her purse she took a letter and opened it.

"Your boy's in a mess," she read slowly. "You better come here. Get the early train from Sunset Point. It gets here at ten. I'll meet you. Something's got to be done about Jim. Your Sister, Sopronia."

Daisy sat staring into space, the letter crushed in her work-worn hand. "I wonder what Jim could've done," she mused. "It's only been a week since I got that long letter from him. He's a good, hard-working boy an' a good son to me. Sopronia alius said I was too easy with him, but her boy, Fred, never did love an' trust her like my boy does me, even if I didn't lick him enough, like she said."

Again she glanced toward the door. Coming toward her was Sopronia, her square-cut face barren of expression.

"I'm right glad to see you, Daisy," she said, as she stooped to pick up the suitcase. "Come on, we'll get a street car right away."
"I couldn't help bein' late," she went on. "The car's right close. Come on." With the suitcase in one hand and a healthy grip on Daisy with the other, she started toward the door, talking constantly and at the top of her voice.

Several times Daisy attempted to speak, then gave up in despair. Impatiently Sopronia helped her up the step and into the car; then still gripping her arm, dropped the suitcase and turned to the conductor.

"I want off at Salina street," she informed him, grabbing his shoulder and turning him completely around from counting change into another woman's hand.

He nodded and she steered Daisy to a seat, then piled the suitcase and shopping bag near her.

"I told him," she resumed, utterly oblivious of the other passengers, "that not while I lived could we marry such a woman. He just laughed at me, his own aunt, an' it made me mad! I been tryin' to watch over him an' he ain't got no sense."

"I wish you'd a let me be, though, Sopronia," came Daisy's quavering voice, "I ain't got much money an' travelin' costs a lot."

"Well, if he's goin' to live in my house, he's a goin' to be decent!" came firmly from Sopronia. "I know that girl! Her very name means carousin' an' doin' things as ain't decent! I mind the time back home when she stepped on my corn right after church services, so I wouldn't see her squeeze the preacher's hand. She makes her livin' now posin' fer artists. I seen one o' the pictures! She didn't have no clothes on, jest a filmy piece o' lace a floatin' about her middle." Daisy opened her mouth to speak but Sopronia took no notice.

"I come to Los Angeles to live, Daisy; to get away from kin-folks," she went on. "Then your Jim had to walk in on me an' ask to live with me. What could I do but take 'im in?" She folded her hands across her stomach, stiff and taut. "He stays out nights, sometimes till eleven o'clock. He smokes cigarettes an' reads magazines with pictures o' naked women in 'em!"

"But Sopy—"
Sopy shook Daisy's hand rudely from her arm.

"I'm goin' to have my say!" she informed her vehemently. "Jim can't run around with that girl! As soon as he seen her he grinned an' she set her cap fer him. I reckon I know the signs! She ain't no better than she should be! She rolls her eyes at the men an' puts black paint around 'em, too! She paints her lips an'—"

Daisy closed her eyes wearily but the alert Sopronia put the quietus on such rudeness.

"What you goin' to do about it?" she demanded, pompously. "You're his mother. If my boy Fred acted out like that I'd—"

"Sopy," said Daisy, wearily, "you wrote me to come here, that my boy was in trouble. I been here an hour an' you ain't done nothin' but go on about a girl. What's she got to do with it? Who is she?"

"You ought to know!" exploded Sopronia. "I'm a talkin' about that awful Sybil Fairstone!"

Daisy, her eyes full of disgust, looked her sister up and down. "Why, Jim ain't nothin' to her," she said slowly. "Your boy Fred married her last week an' my Jim stood up with 'em."

DEMOCRATIC-PIATT COUNTY FARMER
For Representative 24th District
CHAMPAIGN — MOULTRIE — PIATT COUNTIES

In the past campaigns I have been given the hearty endorsement of my Home County-folks who have known me all their lives. I have served as Commissioner, Supervisor, Highway Engineer, Legislator and was for 16 years President of the Monticello Community High School Board.

While platforms are usually "Bunk" and intended to catch votes,—of course I favor strict economy in government.

I also favor the principle of an income tax to be applied on our school tax.

I am for a property tax only on that part clear of debt the balance to follow the mortgage which now escapes taxation.

I will advocate a bank guaranty law for depositors.

I am for justice for labor as our prosperity depends on well paid, well employed labor.

I will favor a reduction in salaries of officers including Legislators as most of us farmers and business men are working for less than nothing.

I respectfully ask your investigation of my record. I am sure if you do you will support me.

I think you want a Representative who stands on his own feet, remembers his obligations and the people who elect him.

Men and ladies (over 21) I shall be proud to receive your support and influence at the Primary, April 12.

I shall endeavor to make myself worthy of your Confidence and Trust. Experience and ability should count.

G. L. TODD, CHAIRMAN NEW VETERANS VOTERS NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE

(Contributed)

A mass meeting of World War Veterans was held at the Armory in this city Sunday afternoon and a permanent organization was effected, known as a non-partisan veterans voters league, to be operative in both political parties. Because of the late start, it was decided to confine the activities of the league to a study of the qualifications of candidates for party nominations to the offices of U. S. Senator, Congressman at large, and Congressman for the 19th district.

Officers were elected as follows: Chairman—G. L. Todd, Sullivan. Secretary—J. E. Martin, Sullivan.

Treasurer—George A. Roney, Sullivan.

Executive Committee
Marrowbone—Coy Brown, Bethany.

East Nelson—Murray Shaw. Lovington—Elmer Cochran. Sullivan—James F. Lehman.

Lowe—John S. Pribble. Jonathan Creek—Glenn Fabert. Dora—George Ault.

Whitley—Otis Goddard.

By a unanimous vote, the meeting endorsed the candidacy of Newton Jenkins for the republican nomination for U. S. Senator, and statements were read from eight other candidates as follows: William H. Dieterich, for the democratic nomination for U. S. Senator; A. D. Sizer for the republican nomination for Congressman at large; Carl N. Weillepp, R. D. Meeker, George Fulk, and D. C. Dobbins for the democratic nomination for congressman, 19th district; and Chas. Adkins and Eugene Bland for the republican nomination for Congressman, 19th district; all of whom were pronounced friendly toward veterans legislation. Clarence Miller of Sullivan also assured those present of the attitude of Scott Lucas, candidate for the democratic nomination for U. S. Senator.

Statements of candidates have been referred to the executive committee for further consideration, and a meeting of the committee was called to be held in the Legion club rooms in Sullivan Wednesday evening, April 6th.

It was announced by officials of the veterans league that it is not the purpose of the organization to oppose any candidate merely because he is not an ex-serviceman, nor attempt to coerce any public official into voting for veterans' legislation against the best interests of the country at large. It is desired, however, to insure the nomination and election of men who are familiar with this important question, and who are friendly toward the cause of the ex-serviceman and his dependents.

VINEGAR CLEANS EGGS
To clean eggs touch the soiled spots with a cloth dampened in vinegar. If the eggs are badly stained let them stand in vinegar for 15 minutes, but not longer as it will destroy the shell. This treatment cleans the eggs without giving them the appearance of being washed. It removes one of the common causes for low grading.

Farm Bureau

(By J. H. Hughes)

A report just received from State Entomologist W. P. Flint reveals that the recent cold snap did not kill much of the insects. Chinch bugs show only a slight kill and it is more than probable that they will be with us in numbers again this season. Every precaution should be taken to destroy them wherever possible. Fence rows and especially those bordering on timbered areas are a natural hiding place. Avoid barley or rye both of which chinch bugs are very fond of.

Many farmers will plant chinch bug resistant corn in Moultrie Co., this season. This type of corn last year gave increases of 10 to 20 bushels per acre more than the common dent varieties when exposed to the ravages of this much despised pest. Tar lines no doubt will be necessary and farmers should prepare to use some such artificial means of control.

A few farmers in Moultrie county are giving their orchards the dormant spray for control of scale. Some orchards that have been neglected are badly infested and without immediate care and attention the trees will die.

The law of compensation is beginning to get into action. Farmers in this section are planting more oats than common. While they expect to get little for them yet they can be raised with limited amount of labor and expense. Apparently less corn than common will be planted to add to the already huge surplus on hand.

Along with the additional oat acreage farmers are seeding an unusual amount of legumes taking advantage of the low seed prices and thereby adding to their soil building program. To rest the soil now and be prepared for heavier production later an occasion demands is a very logical plan to follow.

A 4-H club rally day is contemplated Saturday, April 16. Further announcement of which will appear in next week's issue. A meeting for club leaders and officers will be held at the Farm Bureau office Saturday at 1:30 p. m., April 9th.

VETERAN BUREAU IS GROWING RAPIDLY

Billion a Year Concern, With Costs Mounting.

Washington. — Renewed agitation for the passage of legislation permitting World War veterans to borrow the remaining 50 per cent of the value of their bonus insurance certificates served to focus attention on the tremendous growth in recent years of the funds expended by the war veterans' administration.

Testimony delivered before the house appropriations committee by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, disclosed that the veterans' administration is now a billion dollars a year concern with expenditures still growing. His figures revealed that in 1933 the veterans' administrator expected to expend in excess of a billion dollars on administration of veterans' matters, payments to beneficiaries, on adjusted compensation certificates, hospitalization and other activities.

During the past twelve years the independent establishment handling veterans' matters has expanded by leaps and bounds until today it is estimated it will take 40,000 civilian employees to care for the interests of the hundreds of thousands of veterans now receiving aid from the government in one form or another. During the next fiscal year this department will utilize facilities at more than 300 hospitals and furnish beds for in excess of 63,000 patients.

Build New Hospitals.

With the approximate billion dollar appropriation, which it now seems assured of receiving, new hospitals will be built, new beds provided, approximately a million veterans given treatment of some kind, or funds for some particular reason, loans made to other veterans on bonus certificates, compensation paid to disabled veterans and salaries paid to the army of employees.

In event legislation is passed permitting the veterans to cash the full value of their compensation certificates another two billion dollars would be added to the sum which the veterans' administration would handle in the next few years.

The big items of the veterans' administration bill as requested for 1933 by General Hines follow:

Administration, medical, hospital and domiciliary services, $116,000,000.

Army and navy pensions, $225,000,000.

Adjusted service certificate fund, $150,000,000.

Military and naval service, $110,000,000.

In his budget message President Hoover asked $1,000,000,000 for veterans' administration affairs, approximately one-fourth of the entire federal budget.

Of this sum $150,000,000 was for use in making loans to veterans on their bonus certificates. The house appropriations committee cut this figure to $94,237,795. Virtually no cut was made at all inasmuch as the $50,000,000 reduction was effected by cutting down the figure for bonus payments with the definite understanding General Hines can go to congress to get this sum, if it is needed, in a deficiency bill next December.

322 Hospitals Utilized.

As of December 31, 42,255 veterans whose hospitalization was authorized by the veterans' administration were receiving treatment. Three hundred and twenty-two hospitals were utilized; 64 by the administration itself, 216 belonging to the state and civil institutions, 17 to the public health service, 16 to the United States navy, 7 to the United States army, and 2 to the Department of the Interior.

On December 21, 1931, the veterans' administration was afforded domiciliary care for 17,210 additional veterans. During the 1931 year the department treated 850,489 out patients and gave 2,148,432 physical examinations.

As of December 31, 1931, 318,114 veterans were receiving compensation for disability incurred in, resulting from, or aggravated by military service during the World War. Compensation was also being paid to the dependents of 97,543 veterans whose death occurred in, or resulted from service in the World War. The amount of compensation payments, depending upon the degree of disability, ranges from $8 per month for a temporary partial condition to $200 per month for what is known as a double permanent and total disability.

General Hines said the number of active awards for disability compensation has increased by 135,024 since June 20, 1923.

A big increase in the number of those receiving benefits for disability resulting from other than military and naval service was recorded last year.

HOW TO GET A SPARE TIRE COVER FREE

A number of the motorists of this community have discovered a way to get a nice new cover for their spare tire, with little or no outlay, which is something that appeals to most people. One candidate for governor is giving away thousands of these tire covers with his name in large letters on them.

For a time there were many of these covers in evidence on the streets and roads, but soon they began to disappear, and the writer wondered why, until he discovered that a lot of drivers were repainting them, covering up the lettering. A 15c can of paint and a few minutes work transformed a glaring piece of political ballyhoo into a neat black tire cover. Some even have reduced the 15c outlay for the can of paint, by securing a small sample can put out by some paint houses, and doing the job with that.

People are learning to be thirft'7 around here, under the administration of Mister Hoover.—Cerro Gordo News.

NOT MIXING RELIGION AND POLITICAL ISSUES

In Thursday morning's mail, the Progress editor received a communication from Geo. W. Safford, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League. This communication was addressed to us as Superintendent of the Christian church Sunday School. Mr. Safford sent a number of leaflets showing whom the Anti-Saloon League has endorsed in the primary campaign, now drawing to a close. He requests that these leaflets be distributed; that telephones, local papers and church bulletins be also used to disseminate the endorsements of his League.

We wrote to Mr. Safford as follows: "Mr. Geo. B. Safford, State Superintendent, Anti-Saloon League of Illinois. Dear Mr. Safford: "I am in receipt of Anti-Saloon League political literature sent to me for distribution. Am sorry that I cannot comply with your request. The Sunday School of which I am superintendent is a religious institution and not a political organization. We are not using it in any way to advance any political issue or candidate. The literature which you mailed to me has been filed in the waste basket."

MRS. DAVIS DIES AT HER HOME IN GAYS

Mrs. Nancy Davis, widow of S. N. Davis, died at 4:20 o'clock on Monday afternoon at her home in Gays. Death was due to flu and a heart ailment.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon in the Christian church with burial in Branch Side cemetery.

The death of Mrs. Davis is the third in the family in four months. A son Sheldon Davis passed away Dec. 2 and Mrs. Tracy, a daughter died March 22.

Mrs. Davis was born March 31, 1860 in Gays Community, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Pierce. She was married Nov. 3, 1876 to Samuel N. Davis who died July 14, 1910.

She leaves five children. They are Mrs. Anna Alley of Miller, S. D., Mrs. Edna Davis of Jefferson, Iowa, Mrs. Laura Hortenstine of Roswell, N. M., Samuel Davis of near Allenville and Kenneth Davis of Windsor. There are 12 grandchildren and three great grandchildren. Rufus Pierce and Fred Pierce of Coles Station, Rudolph Pierce of St. Louis, Mo., and Thomas Pierce of Montrose, Mo., are brothers and Mrs. Jessie Flesher of Urban and Mrs. Dora Henderson of Coles Station are sisters.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEETING WAS WELL ATTENDED

The meeting of the Okaw Young People's Association of the Christian churches of this part of the state was held Monday night at Lovington. The attendance was 165. Bethany with 27, won the attendance banner.

The next meeting will be held in Gays. Those from Sullivan who attended Monday night's meeting were: Doris and William Seitz, Donald McKown, Adeline Elliott, Byron Brandenburger, Olive and Paul Dazey, Marie Stallworth, Charlotte Baker, Mrs. G. R. Fleming, Helen Sampson, Billie Fleming, Homer Johnson, Ronnie Leavitt, James Horn, Alta and Gerold Elder.

LUTE HUDSON ILL

Lute Hudson the Bethany clothier has been confined to his home by illness for the past few weeks. He has many friends here in Sullivan, being one of the most active members of the local country club. Here's hoping Lute will soon be able to swing his golf clubs again and teach Bill Gardner, Oscar Cochran and some of the other golfers a few of the fine points of the game.

Mrs. P. G. Wiard spent a week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Earl Smith at Gary, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. George Wiard motored to that city Sunday and Mrs. Wiard returned home with them.

The Loyal Women's class of the Christian church will meet on Wednesday, April 13th with Mrs. Edith Hayden. Mrs. Hettie Ellis will be the leader.

Silks and Tubs

By DORIS M. THOMPSON

MIL straightened up from the tub of soapy water and shook a hand free from the warm suds to brush some scraggly hair off her face as she watched a sedan come up the road.

She was tired and in a few minutes Bee Williams would be there with another new silk dress and more tales of her wonderful life in the city. Already the car was turning into the lane. Mil surveyed the wash flapping on the line; heavy flannel shirts, colorless aprons and house dresses. No silks there.

"Hello, Mil. Why, honey, what's the matter? You look as if something terrible was goin' to happen."

Mil shrugged. "Nothin' now could happen around this here place."

"Aw gee Mil, why don't you come back with me? We'll have a grand time in the city. Frank could find a job for you easy."

Mil's eyes looked almost hopeful, but she shook her head. "Oh, I couldn't take a chance. I'd never get away without pa knowin' it, and if he did . . ." she shuddered.

"But he won't have to know. You can fix things up on the sly and slip off during the day when he and Eric are in the fields. Pa will lend you money enough to get there. I know what I'll do; when I get back Frank and I'll look around for a place for you and let you know when to come. How'll that be?"

Half afraid to agree, Mil nodded assent. "I must be gettin' back with the car now. Don't forget to come to our party tonight. We're going to have the Baxter boys over to play."

Mil remained seated awhile looking over the barren area of Dakota farm land which stretched on every side. Scrubby bushes poked up here and there. She pictured without turning about the scene behind her. A three-room shack, hideous and unpainted, four rooms, if one counted the place above set between the rafters which served as a place for Eric to sleep.

Her thoughts passed on to her father; hard Hank Hanson he was called. For thirty years he had clung to his claim, thirty lonesome years of hard labor for his women folk. First her mother, whose more genteel rearing, unable to stand the grind, had made her leave twelve-year-old Mil to carry on her work. Now, after sixteen years of it . . . Mil rose as she saw her father approaching from a nearby field. She finished hanging the wash and went into her shanty to prepare the noonday meal. Her father entered.

"Sorta late gettin' dinner, ain't ya?"

"Yuh, I guess so," she answered listlessly.

"Suppose Bee Williams kept you talkin' all mornin'. Saw her car from the field."

Mil finished the supper dishes early. She had nothing nice to wear to Bee's house, but she wanted to go. It would be her first party in three years.

Her father watched her preparations. "Hope you ain't plannin' on takin' the horse any place, Mil. I've got to go over to Simon's to borrow his harness."

She turned without a word and re-entered her small bedroom.

Every day she waited for word from the big city in the bordering state and always she was preparing for her departure, little things at a time; so she wouldn't notice. Finally a letter came. Hank Hanson met the mailman himself and brought it in.

"See you got a letter from Bee. What's she up to now?"

Mil went to her room to read it. "Come as soon as you can," she read. "We have found a lady who will wait for you."

Bee had planned everything. The next morning Mil sent a note to Mrs. Williams with the mailman saying that arrangements were all right for the following afternoon.

Everything was on the table at sharp noon the next day. Mil tried to appear calm, but her eyes had a really anticipatory look for the first time in years. At 1:30 she was ready to leave and taking a last look at the only place which had been home to her she set out for the barn. Half-way there she was stopped by an excited clattering of voices near the road. A group of men were huddled together as if they carried something. Simon Hentchiss ran ahead to her.

"Your father's hurt, Mil. He was out by the road when Henry Crabb's team of runaway horses caught him. Will you get a bed ready?"

She stood as still as stone. "Don't take it so hard, Mil. I know it's a shock, but maybe he won't be so bad off." Simon tried to console her.

She turned to re-enter the hut. "I'll fix his cot," she said in a toneless voice.

That night Mil went out to the barn, lifted a straw suitcase from the rig and brought it into the house. Hank Hanson's eyes gleamed across at her in the lamplight as he lay on his cot near the wall. The doctor said he would lie there the rest of his life.

Hints for the Home

by Nancy Hart

Grapefruit Salad Dressing 1 cup salad oil, 1-3 cup grape fruit puice, 1/2 teaspoon of salt, dash of pepper, 1/2 teaspoon sugar. Mix all ingredients and shake in a covered bottle until thick.

The taste and character of such flavorings as lemon, almond, orange, are accented and heightened when combined with a few drops of vanilla.

Frozen Custard Four eggs, one pint of cream, one pint of milk, half pound of sugar, two ounces of chocolate. Put the milk over the fire in a double boiler; add the chocolate, grated. Beat the eggs and sugar together until light, add them to the hot milk, cook one minute, take from the fire, add the cream, and a teaspoon of vanilla. When cold, freeze. This makes a frozen custard.

Cranberry Juice Cocktail 3 cups water 1 1/2 cup cranberries 3/4 cup sugar Pick over and wash cranberries. Add water. Let cranberries cook until they burst, then strain. Next bring juice to boiling point, add sugar, and cook two minutes longer. Then chill and serve ice cold in beverage glasses.

Fig Pudding Soak two and a quarter cups of breadcrumbs in a third of a cup of milk. Chop a cup of figs and a half cup of suet together, add three well beaten eggs, a cup of brown sugar and the softened breadcrumbs, with a half teaspoon of salt. Steam in a buttered mould for three and three-quarters hours. Serve with hard sauce, lemon sauce or egg sauce.

DOLE DEFEATED Much is heard these days about a "dole" in governmental affairs. It means government support in time of unemployment. Quite generally people do not favor the "dole". Now this had nothing to do with the township commissioner race in Mattoon Tuesday, except for the fact that Mattoon defeated a "Dole". In this case the "Dole" was Bill Dole, Republican, who had held the office for the past 18 years. He had been a consistent fighter for hard roads and often went to Springfield to tell Gov. Small and the other officials where to head in at. Mr. Dole was like the proverbial pitcher which went to the well once too often. The voters Tuesday rejected him and elected Frank Phillips, Democrat by a majority of 1536.

MRS. HAROLD DEHART DIED SATURDAY AT HER PARENTS' HOME

Mrs. Bertha Viola DeHart (nee Abbott) died early Saturday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Abbott at Bruce. She leaves a baby son, Harold Junior, born five days before her death.

The young matron was the wife of Harold DeHart to whom she was united in marriage on July 4 of last year.

She was born July 14, 1914 near Bruce and at the time of her death was 17 years, 8 months and 19 days of age. Besides her husband and son she leaves her parents, two sisters and eight brothers as follows: Mrs. Ed Reedy of Kirksville; Mrs. R. C. Horn of Bruce; James, Nathan, William, Marion Abbott of Webster City, Iowa and Cadell, Earl, Carl and Charles at home. She had been a member of the M. E. church for the past two years.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at Bruce with Rev. Ridgeway of Allenville in charge. He was assisted by Rev. C. F. Wagner of Windsor. Burial was in the French cemetery.

RAILROAD DEPRESSION HAS HIT ALLENVILLE

Allenville (Special) Allenville has been hit by the depression which is causing the railroads to cut down on their labor expenditures. There have been several changes in the section.

Frank Turner, section foreman, who has served out of here for 23 years, has been transferred to Sullivan, where he takes the place of Thurman Campbell. His section has been lengthened from 6 to 11 miles and extends from the Nelson river bridge to Bethany.

This change will affect several men here who formerly worked on the section. It is said to also throw several Sullivan men out of work. Allenville will be without a section foreman as Mr. Turner will live in either Sullivan or Bethany.

CITY COUNCIL HAD MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

The city council held a regular meeting Monday evening and instructed the city clerk to make inquiry as to the advisability of joining the Municipal League, which has headquarters in Urbana. It was reported that the membership dues are reasonable.

The question of widening Harrison and Jefferson streets for one or two blocks west of the public square, was before the council and the discussion indicated that if the demand for this improvement is sufficiently strong, and the financial hardship not too severe upon property owners, the council will be found in favor of it. Since a bus line has been routed over these streets, the traffic problem has become acute.

The finance committee reported favorably upon the petition of City Treasurer George A. Roney, that a depository of city funds be designated by the city council, and recommended that the First National bank of this city be selected. City Attorney R. W. Martin was asked to report on the legal aspects of the matter.

Moultrie County Can Nominate Meeker For Congress

Probably the Democratic voters of Moultrie county do not fully realize the importance of the Primary election Next Tuesday as to the nomination of a Candidate for Congress.

Moultrie county is entitled to and can nominate the candidate if the voters will contribute what assistance they can and help name Meeker for the office. Reports that I have been able to get are that he will run well in each of the other seven counties and if the voters of this county will concentrate on him he can secure the nomination.

Last Monday night he was endorsed by the Independent voters League of Macon county and has been endorsed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Moultrie county as well as by other organizations.

The plain fact is in my judgment that four of the candidates as far as getting the nomination is concerned are practically "out", leaving the race between Champaign, Macon, and Moultrie counties with the balance in favor of the Moultrie County Candidate.

While Macon and Champaign counties are much larger in population than Moultrie the fact remains that Moultrie county at the last Primary election cast more democratic votes than either of the other two and in all probability will do so at the primary Tuesday.

Moultrie county is the only County located in the very heart of the district and there is no sane reason why the democrats in Moultrie and Shelby counties, the two counties which furnish the bulk of the Democrat votes, should nominate a man for Congress from a county which has in the past consistently furnished votes to elect a Republican Congressman, and which is located at the extreme end of the District.

The argument has been advanced that Champaign county has not had a Democratic Candidate for Congress for twenty-four years. That argument is fatuous. They could have had it at any time in all those years for the mere asking as the nomination has gone begging and it has at times been necessary to search for a candidate.

In 1910 I. J. Martin was the nominee and in 1922 Meeker was the nominee from Moultrie county at a time when no one else would accept it and when there was slight chance for election and now at a time when there is a possibility that a Democrat will be elected to Congress from this District, Republican counties with a negligible Democratic vote are insisting that it should go to them.

Champaign county at present has the State Senator three representatives in the Legislature, the Circuit Judge and other offices. The same holds good practically in Macon county. Champaign also has a candidates for Congressman at large on the Republican ticket with very good chance for receiving the nomination which might possibly result in there being two Congressmen from that county.

The last time that Moultrie County had a representative in Congress was about forty years ago when Hon. John R. Eden represented this District. It has been longer ago than that since Shelby County had the Congressman, the two counties which are democratic and which will in the coming election furnish more democratic votes than any four of the other counties.

In the mean time the 19th District has been represented by William McKinley of Champaign for years in Congress, then for two terms by Allen Moore of Piatt and since that time by the Hon. Chas. Adkins of Macon all from strong Republican counties. The argument that either Champaign or Macon counties are entitled to the nomination because of their size is to me, to say the least, facetious.

Meeker served the 24th District as Senator without the least criticism, was the Democratic nominee for Congress in 1922 when no one else would have it and made a creditable race. This campaign is being financed by no one to whom he will later be under obligations and if the people of this county will get back of him, as I believe they should, his nomination is assured.

ROOSEVELT IS FAVORITE OF CANDIDATES

"Who is your second choice for the Presidential nomination?" "Who is your third choice?"

"Illinois delegates will, of course give a complimentary vote to Senator Lewis but the voters want to know how their delegates stand when it comes to voting for the other candidates."

From Mr. O'Neill

E. M. O'Neill filed out this questionnaire as follows:
First—James Hamilton Lewis; second—Franklin D. Roosevelt; third—Albert Cabell Ritchie.

The letters of the other four candidates follow:

From Craig VanMeter

Mattoon, Ill.
March 29, 1932
Mr. Ed C. Brandenburg, Publisher, The Progress, Sullivan, Ill.

Your letter of recent date received in which you asked me to express a choice for President in the event that the Illinois Delegation is released by Senator Lewis.

Of course, the Illinois Delegation will be instructed for Senator Lewis and I will abide by those instructions. In the event that we are released my first choice for President is Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York. With reference to the third choice, I had not arrived at any third choice and I do not believe that it will be necessary to do so, as I believe that Governor Roosevelt will be nominated on an early ballot. I think there are a number of other able candidates but believe that Roosevelt is the outstanding one and that he will be nominated without any difficulty.

Trusting that this is the information you desire, I am,
Yours truly,
Craig Van Meter.

From Charley Taylor

Tuscola, Illinois
March 29th, 1932.
The Progress, Sullivan, Illinois.

My dear Ed:
Replying to your letter of inquiry as to my Presidential choice for the candidate of the Democratic party of the on-coming election.

Of course we will give our first ballots to our Senator Lewis and if there are any chances of nominating him I for one will stick right there.

I have always favored a candidate from the Middle West and it is my opinion that we have a chance of nominating one at this time.

If we can't get a candidate from west of the Allegheny mountains, it looks as though we had a choice of two candidates, namely the two Governors, Roosevelt and Ritchie.

Roosevelt (at this time) stands out in front and outside the objections that usually appear to a man from New York state would be the strongest candidate.

If I should be chosen as a delegate to the Democratic convention from this district my mind will be open for advice from the real Democrats of the 19th Congressional District and will be guided accordingly.

At this time I would favor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

Very truly
Charles E. Taylor

From J. M. Allen

Decatur, Illinois
March 28, 1932.
Mr. Ed C. Brandenburg, Publisher "The Progress" Sullivan, Illinois.

Dear Mr. Brandenburg:

In reply to your inquiry of Mar. 26, as to my position in the matter of choosing a candidate for president at the Democratic National Convention, I believe I would rate my selections right now—Senator Lewis, first, as long as the complimentary vote to him is held together in our state; second, Governor Ritchie of Maryland; and third, Baker or Roosevelt.

The fact of the matter is, our party has a wealth of good material to choose from, but I am trying to be guided by what I hear in the different counties of our district, as well as by my own wishes. I have long been an admirer of both Governor Ritchie and Governor Roosevelt, as well as Baker. My admiration is fast growing for Governor Ritchie, because of the fearless manner in which he puts forth his own ideas, and especially for his idea, "Less Government in Business and More Business in Government."

With cordial best wishes, I remain,
Yours very truly,
J. M. Allen.

From Prof. Rodkey

Urbana, Illinois
March 31, 1932.

Hon. Ed C. Brandenburg, Publisher, The Sullivan Progress, Sullivan, Illinois.

Dear Mr. Brandenburg:
First let me thank you very kindly for the favorable notice which you gave me in your last issue. Such notices at this time will unquestionably be of real value in support of my candidacy for the office of delegate to the Democratic National Convention, and I am very grateful for them.

In reply to your inquiry of Mar. 26th about my second and third choices for the Presidential nomination I must state that the convention is yet too far off in the future for me to make my choices with certainty. However if the convention were now in session I believe I would favor Franklin D. Roosevelt for second choice and Melvin E. Traylor for third choice.

Developments within the next three months may of course cause me to modify my views in this matter. Naturally I am eager to find a candidate who can win for us in November and also one who is truly concerned about, and eminently qualified to deal with the problems of the day—especially the great farm problem of the Middle West. If I am so fortunate as to be chosen as a delegate on April 12th I shall write to all of the prospective Democratic candidates for President and ask for statements of their views on such key problems as those of Prohibition, Farm Relief, Unemployment, and Foreign relations. I trust that under the circumstances of my election I would receive very frank clear-cut replies which would be of value to me in the guidance of my conduct in the convention.

With kindest regards I am,
Very sincerely yours,
F. S. Rodkey.

TWO BIRTHDAYS WERE CELEBRATED WITH PARTY

An April Fool party was given Friday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Cochran in honor of Margaret's 19th birthday, April 2, and Charlotte Barclay's 21st birthday, April 1.

Train—2 o'clock

By ELIZABETH B. LUDLOW

"Thank the Lord!" Bill had said, grabbing his friend, Anthony Harcourt by the arm. "Listen, fella, you've simply got to meet my girl. It's her first visit to New York. Take her to tea at the Ritz. I'll meet you there at five. I'm in a deuce of a rush!"

"But, I say, I—" Tony Harcourt had begun hopefully.
"Oh, yes," Bill had stopped long enough to shout back at him. "Train—two o'clock. Grand Central. Medium height, slim, dark hair, adorable nose."

That was how it happened that Tony Harcourt was trying to meet every two o'clock train arriving at the Grand Central terminal. He didn't know where she was coming from and, worst of all, he had forgotten her name, although he had heard Bill mention it several times. He had met two trains where almost everybody had been met by friends or seemed to know exactly where they were going.

Not every one, though. Tony approached three brunettes that had seemed a bit undecided, but each one had frozen him with a glance almost before he could make his carefully prepared speech—"I beg your pardon, but was Bill Felton to have met you?"

As Tony approached the third train, he was inwardly muttering, "Darned old fool. Why couldn't he do his own dirty work? I give up. This task requires super-human powers." But he noticed that, as he was rather tardy in approaching his third train, most of the passengers had left. Those that remained were chatting with friends who had met them—all except one, a slim dark girl of medium height with an adorable nose. "Of course," thought Tony Harcourt with a leaping of his pulses, "that is all the description that girl would need. I've been wasting time." She was looking about in a puzzled, hurt, almost frightened way, and he approached her with his carefully prepared speech—"I beg your pardon, but was Mr. Bill—"

"Oh, yes," cried the girl, relief and joy in his lovely eyes raised to his. "Did Bill send you? I was just about to appeal to the Traveler's Aid. New York is rather overwhelming when you've never been here before, isn't it?"

"It certainly is," agreed Tony, holding close the small gloved hand she had given him. "I'm awfully sorry to be late but, Bill gave me the sketchiest description and directions. I've been trying to meet all the two o'clock trains." Suddenly he realized that they were still looking at each other and that he still held her hand. The realization came to her at the same time and she colored and withdrew it. Then both laughed.

"You darling—you darling—oh, d—n Bill's luck," said Tony to himself, but aloud he said, "The program is tea at the Ritz where Bill will join us at five."

"Oh, grand!" exclaimed Bill's girl happily. "Wouldn't he just think of something nice like that. But we have lots of time, haven't we? Do you know what I'd like to do first? I'd like to drive around Central park. The train was so hot and dusty, and I've always wanted to see Central park."

"Central park it shall be," said Tony. He would have driven her to Alaska if she had asked him to.

When finally established in his car and while he threaded his way through the traffic, he said, "Now, I can see why Bill mentioned the nose. Of course, that was really the only description needed."

She brought her shining eyes back from their excited and delighted scrutiny of New York to laugh up at him. "I know," she said. "I've often thought of wearing a mask, but—but imagine Bill really noticing my nose!"

"I can," he told her. "I was planning to have a cast made of it and erected here in Central park. Gee, I'm glad Bill couldn't get off to meet you."

"So am I," she said softly. And he thought, "Is she feeling it, too? Gosh, I can't stand Bill's having her. Anyhow, I'll have three hours of her that I'll never forget."

He drew up in the shade of a tree that stood guard over a small pond. "Do you know," he said, "I don't even know your name."

"Nancy," she said. And he loved her because she only told him her first name, as though that was all that mattered between her and him.

She had taken off her hat and the breeze blew her soft, dark curls. She was so—so—everything he had always dreamed a girl should be. His time with her was so short!

"Nancy," he said suddenly, "Let's really talk. Tell me—what books do you like? Do you believe in God? How many eggs do you like for breakfast?"

It was six-thirty when they reached the Ritz. Tony stopped at the entrance.

"Nancy! oh Nancy, why are you engaged to Bill Felton?" he asked tensely, gripping her arm.
"Bill Felton?" exclaimed Nancy, her eyes wide. "Engaged! Why, there's some mistake. I'm Bill Felton's sister!"

THREE WEEKS OF SPECIAL MISSION AT THE M. E. CHURCH

Rev. F. A. McCarty, district superintendent of the Mattoon district of the Illinois Conference of the Methodist church, will start the three weeks preaching service this Sunday night in the Methodist church in Sullivan. The three weeks service is not evangelistic in nature, but is intended to give to all who come sermons relative to the Christian life today. No personal work of any kind will be done in the congregation at any evening service. The following subjects are the topics of the sermons. Rev. Lawrence will preach on:

Monday, Apr. 11—"The Greatest Thing in the World."

Tuesday, Apr. 12—"What Does it Mean to Be a Christian?"

Wednesday, Apr. 13—"What God is to Me."

Thursday, Apr. 14—"Can Anything Good Come out of Sullivan?"

Friday, Apr. 15—"Only One Way to Live."

Sunday, April 17

Morning—"What Brought the Christ to the Cross."

Evening—"What Happens at Calvary?"

Monday, Apr. 18—"What Shall I do with My Life?"

Tuesday, Apr. 19—"Can I Carry That Cross?"

Wednesday, Apr. 20—"What Is Salvation?"

Thursday, Apr. 21—"Our Part in our Salvation."

Friday, Apr. 22—"What Must I Do to be Saved?"

Sunday, April 24

Morning—"What Christ Does For a Soul."

Evening—"Why You and I Are Here."

Monday, Apr. 25—"From a Carpenter to the Christ."

Tuesday, Apr. 26—"What if Herod Had Slain Jesus?"

Wednesday, Apr. 27—"The Hungry Heart."

Thursday, April 28—"Saved By Grace."

Friday, April 29—"If It Were Not So."

Rev. Carl Hearn, who led and directed the music during the meetings last year, and who played and sang, will be here in the same capacity this year during the last two weeks of the meeting.

During the last two Fridays of the meeting, Friday, April 22 and Friday, April 29, Rev. Lawrence will be at the church both days from early morning until late evening for counsel, for prayer, for baptism, for reception into the church, and for any other matter any one may desire to come for. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone in the community to attend these services. Other than the regular Sunday offerings only two offerings will be taken during the meetings to defray the expenses.

—C. E. Barnett attended the State Christian Ministerial Retreat held in Springfield Monday and Tuesday. Mrs. Barnett and her father H. A. Studebaker, accompanied him. Mrs. Barnett spent Monday night at the home of her son W. C. Barnett at Franklin and Mr. Studebaker was at the home of his son O. W. Studebaker at Auburn Monday night.

—Supt. of schools Albert Walker visited 5 schools near Lovington Tuesday and at night attended a P. T. A. meeting at Dalton City where he was one of the speakers. Prof. Kenneth Roney of Shelbyville also attended.

—Miss Helen Barger and Miss Jane Buckalew left last week on a southern tour.

SPECIAL HIGH SCHOOL EXCURSION TO CHICAGO

The educational excursion to Chicago via the C. & E. I. which the high school students had been looking forward to with a great deal of interest for the past several weeks, was operated Saturday, April 2nd. Except for a brisk chilly wind from off the Lake, the day was ideal for the occasion.

The special left Pana at 6:30 a. m., picking up passengers at Henton, Westervelt, Sullivan, Tuscola, and Villa Grove. There were 115 passengers on the train arriving in Chicago, 62 of which boarded the train at Sullivan. Included in the Sullivan group, there were 20 from Bethany and 4 from Windsor.

The train arrived at Dearborn Station soon after 11 o'clock where the party was met by two Gray Line Sightseeing busses. They traveled east on Seventh Street to Michigan, north on Michigan to Ohio street, east on Ohio to Lake Shore Drive then north to Lincoln park. Returning Lake Shore Drive, Michigan Blvd., and Washington St., to Marshall Fields where a three course luncheon was served in the guests dining room on the 7th floor.

After luncheon, the party visited the Shedd Aquarium and the Planetarium.

The visit to the Planetarium was a very interesting one indeed. To one who knows little about Astronomy and who has never visited a place of this kind, it is wonderful and to those who know more about astronomy it is more wonderful. How interesting to see the Planets as they move about in their orbits and to note their relative position, one to the other at different times of the year. There was a very interesting lecture given during the demonstration and it was said by some that the visit to the Planetarium alone, was well worth the cost of the trip.

The last visit before returning home was to the Field Museum, after which the party returned to Dearborn Station where each one was given a night box lunch.

The train left the Station on schedule, six o'clock and arrived at Sullivan at 10:15 p. m.

There were no hazards during the day and everyone felt that they had spent an enjoyable day.

PIATT AND MOULTRIE'S CHOICE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Eugene Neff of Cerro Gordo has been endorsed by our Committees as Piatt and Moultrie counties candidate for Representative in this the 24th Senatorial District.

He is eminently fitted by years of Experience in Public Matters for this important job. It has been over twenty years since Piatt County has had a Republican Member in the Lower House and nearly the same length of time as Moultrie County has been represented.

This year we have an excellent chance of representation. This can be accomplished if the voter will vote only for Mr. Neff, for by so doing you will give him three votes, and thus overcome the large number of votes in the County of Champaign, which has five candidates for this office. Remember, if you want to help, vote for Mr. Neff alone. If this is done he has a most excellent chance of winning the nomination.

THE PIATT COUNTY REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE
M. N. MIKLES, Chairman,
J. C. TIPPETT, Secretary.

THE MOULTRIE COUNTY REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE
CHARLES A. GREGORY, Chairman.
NINA ASHWORTH, Secretary.

In Little Old New York

New York worships in twenty of the thirty five tongues spoken on her streets. More than 200 of her churches belong to those who still cherish the ties of the land from which they sprang.

New York eats more pork than beef, more beef than poultry, more poultry than fish, more fish than veal, mutton and lamb.

The banana is the city's most popular fruit, with oranges second and apples third.

Did you ever hear of dinner shopping? Every evening between 6 and 8 o'clock hundreds go shopping in the West Forties, between Fifth and Sixth avenues and Broadway for dinner.

There is a tobacco prescription shop in the city. A man goes into this shop, tells what brand he likes and is given a mixture in a tin box with his name typewritten on the label, together with a number.

Without shame New York may accept the title of the foremost nickel-grabbing city in the world, since nickel-grabbing is done under pressure of necessity.

JOHN M. PFEIFER

of — SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS Democratic Candidate for REPRESENTATIVE IN CONGRESS STATE AT LARGE

Prosperity cannot return until agricultural conditions mend.

At present prices, all of the wheat, corn, oats and cotton raised last year in the entire United States would not pay one-third of the yearly expenses of the Federal Government.

Let's stop a large part of the activities of the numberless bureaus, boards and commissions, instead of imposing additional taxes.

The farmer is advised by one bureau to let the fertile lands of Illinois lie idle, to sow no wheat, and in the South to plow up every third row of cotton.

Let's abandon Prohibition, thereby giving an additional outlet to the products of the farm, giving employment to hundreds of thousands producing millions of dollars in revenue, and greatly reducing racketeering and crime.

Let's increase money and credit by giving the Federal Reserve Bank additional powers if necessary, by the use of silver or paper money (Treasury Notes) and any other orderly means that will cause a rise in the average commodity price until a fair average commodity price is again reached.

reserve fund of nickels is a never-ending game in New York.

The great herd of the police force was again demonstrated recently. A policeman rounding the corner at Fifth Avenue and East 50th Street early one morning, surprised a woman digging with a child's sand shovel in St. Patrick's Cathedral lawn.

Wall Street received its name from the stockade or wall erected in 1653 by the last of the Dutch governors. At first this was merely a cattle guard, formed of felled trees with their roots all lying in one direction, to prevent cattle straying.

Nothing could be simpler than the construction of a coolie coat. It can be made entirely in one piece or sleeves may be pieced to the one piece that comprises the front and back, or if you like you may make the back in one piece with two front pieces attached.

The diagram shows how to cut the material for a coat coming to the finger tips. The dimensions are as follows:

AB and CD equal 24 inches. AC and BD equal 1 1/2 yards. AE, BG, FC and HD equal 18 inches. EF and GH equal 18 inches. IE, JF, GK and HL equal 10 inches. MN equals 6 inches. Following a pattern cut according to this design you may make ABCD from one piece of material 1 1/2 yards long and 24 inches wide.

Beginning at O, which is midway from C and D, slash to the center point Y to make the front opening. Then cut three inches either side from Y to make M and N 6 inches long for the neck opening.

The sleeve extensions at either side (IEJF and GKHL) are 10 inches wide and 18 inches long. If your material is wide enough you can cut it all from a piece 44 inches wide.

You may, if you like, slope the front edges from M to O and from N to O or you may turn back the material from Y to M and from Y to N to form revers.

In sewing the coat together fold over at XZ and join AEL to CFI and BGK to DHL in a French seam or fell. Hem or face along OC-ABDO, the edges of the sleeves, and down the front opening and neck opening.

You may use figured or bordered material or you can make the back and front from one color and sleeves from another.

GAYS FOX STORY

Gays—(Special) R. Kenzel, a farmer living three miles north of Gays recently missed some chickens. He suspected that a fox was getting them.

Near his home, in the middle of an open field, was a straw stack two or more years old. Mr. Kenzel went fox hunting and the first place he hunted was at this straw stack.

He found Mr. Red Fox, but he got away from him. He had a nice lodging place and apparently had not heard of the Hoover depression as he seemed to be living on the fat of the land.

In storage at the den were found a rabbit and its young. No chickens were in reserve and the surroundings looked as if Mr. Fox had gotten tired of chicken meat and turned to rabbit for a change.

Mrs. Sam Palmer and Mrs. Arthur Palmer entertained guests at the Sam Palmer home Tuesday evening, complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Will Robinson, who expect to leave shortly for California where they will live. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McLaughlin and Miss Jessie Burton.

White "Missy"

By STANDISH B. REAMER

A SMALL town down in Oklahoma—dignifiedly named after a former president. A town of twenty-two hundred beings—only one white, and that one a woman.

Mrs. Nettie Young sat at the telegraph desk as the train pulled in. She was operator at the station—a life appointee, first because of the heroism which brought death to her husband and second because she was competent enough an operator to take the few messages regarding train movements—for a personal message or two from a town inhabitant was a rarity.

Two years had passed since her husband was killed. Two years of such activities of an unusual character for a woman in her position that sadness at her loss long had been softened.

As she dispatched the regular train passing formula, she noticed that a man—a white man—was standing on the station platform, evidently having alighted from the train.

After gazing fixedly at the one main street of the town a few moments, the man turned into the station. Raising his hat, he said: "I'm wondering if there is a hotel in this town—or some place where I can put up for awhile."

Mrs. Young smiled in a friendly manner and replied, "No, we have no hotel here. Only traveling men stop here—and get out as quickly as they can. You see—well, I am the only white person in the town."

"What?" the man cried in surprise. "Do you mean that the entire population is colored?"

"Yes. The people here—that is the men—all work in the oil fields, going over on the train—and the women work in the cotton fields, or do housework on the plantations."

"Well, why do you stay here?" Mrs. Young flushed—pleasantly, for she could not feel indignant at the honesty of his searching eyes.

Before she could reply, a small colored girl entered the station, weeping, and put out a dark finger cut and bleeding, and cried out: "Fixie, Missy, fixie."

Mrs. Young turned smilingly to the man. "That is my answer," she said. "These people—all of them—depend upon me. I am their 'first aid' on almost every occasion—injury like this, their family troubles, even their love affairs. It is my life work."

When she had finished and the child had scampered off without even a "thank you," she turned to the stranger and said, "You cannot find any place in town where you would want to room."

"My name is Ralton—Charles Ralton. This town is near to a locality in which I have certain interests. You see, I am a rancher—far western part of the state. Dad's ranch—left to me to carry on when he died, although my college training fitted me for city business life. I suppose I must go on to Tulsa to find a hotel—but" he hesitated, then resumed haltingly, as he continued studying her features, "I wish there was some place here. You see—well, it's so close to where I want to be."

Nettie had been moved strangely by Ralton's appearance and his evident appreciation of her neat, mature beauty.

"There's a vacant cottage on the street back of the station," she said. "It is clean and neat. If you could 'batch' it."

"Just the thing," Ralton replied, heartily. "I'll take it solely upon your recommendation."

Nettie closed the station office and went with him to the cottage and also called upon a colored woman of the old "mammy" type who agreed to cook for Ralton.

Days passed and Nettie and Ralton became friends. Ralton never tired of hearing Nettie's tales of how she took part in the lives of the colored people about her. To them she was "missy"—to young and old she was the arbiter of disputes, the healer of family jars, the refuge of youth and maiden when hearts were wrung with doubt or jealousies. But her work among the children interested Ralton the most.

Ralton finally told Nettie he had invested a considerable sum in the oil regions about Tulsa and had come to keep watch on affairs without his presence being known. Their friendship developed quickly—grew into the steady, lasting love of mature lives and shortly Ralton insisted upon their marriage.

Nettie, however, refused to consider wedding Ralton unless he would consent to erect a home outside of the town and establish a school, to be under her direction and maintained by him until the school district should see fit to take control. Ralton not only promised all she asked, but proved his earnestness by having construction work on both home and school started while awaiting the arrival of their wedding day.

When "Missy" was married the entire population of the town joined in a wild celebration at which "Missy" was overwhelmed with the people's crude expressions of gratitude for what she had done for them.

FIFTH INSTALLMENT CHAPTER VII

And then Miss Starling came home, and, scared half out of her wits, Jenny told her part of the truth—that there had been a gentleman to see Miss Diana, and that ever since he went away she had been like this, crying and sobbing and would not be quiet.

"I told you nobody was to be allowed in," the Creature said in cold anger. "However, the mischief is done. Stop howling and go over to Dr. Rathbone's. If he is not there, and I am sure he will not be, leave a message and ask him to come over as soon as possible. Stop howling, do you hear?"

Jenny fled, with the sound of Diana's bitter sobbing ringing in her ears like the cry of a lost soul. "Dennis . . . Dennis . . . Dennis . . ."

It was late before Rathbone came over to the cottage.

He walked into Diana's room and stood looking down at her.

She was lying on her back, one thin arm flung onto the pillow above her head, her eyes staring up at the ceiling.

Rathbone spoke her name in a quiet voice, and her gaze wandered down to the level of his face and rested there.

"Well," he said with a smile, "and what have you been doing to yourself?"

"Nothing," she said stonily. "It's what people do to me."

"Oh, it's like that, is it?"

He sat down beside her and took her hand—her pulse was terribly weak. After a moment he laid it gently down on the quilt.

"Have you been asleep?"

"I had a draught. I didn't want it but she made me." She shot a look of bitter enmity at the Creature.

"That was quite right," Rathbone said.

He spoke to the Creature. "I will come down in a moment" he said, dismissing her.

She went away, and Rathbone stood looking at Diana.

He had merely tried to rouse her when he had suggested that perhaps she was not worth saving. He understood her well enough to know how her pride and interest would be stung, but now, as he looked at her deathly face and obstinately closed lips, he wondered.

He said quietly, "Open your eyes, please, and listen to what I have to say."

To his surprise she obeyed at once.

"If you are going to lecture me," she began, and he interrupted ruthlessly:

"That is exactly what I am going to do. If you had obeyed my orders and behaved like a sensible girl instead of like a silly, wilful child, by this time you would have been well on the road to recovery, but as it is, by your folly this afternoon you have put yourself back considerably, and believe me—no man in this world is worth it. She said breathlessly:

"You don't know anything about it."

"And I don't wish to," he said. "But I give you warning now that unless you give me your word that in future you will do exactly as I have told you I shall write to Mrs. Gladwyn and tell her I must give up the case. I have dozens of really sick people on my hands without wasting valuable time on one who could soon be well and strong if she wished. Do you understand?"

She said with trembling lips:

"You are not very kind. I shall die if you give me up."

"Very well, then, there is to be no more nonsense."

"No," she whispered.

"And you will go to sleep and believe that everything will come right in the end. It so often does, you know."

"Not for me."

"Well, we shall see." He bent over her, feeling her pulse once more. Her eyes had closed as if the lids were too heavy to control, and he waited for a moment, a gleam of anxiety in his eyes, but she did not stir, and he went quietly from the room.

"My aunt wants to take me to Aix," Diana told Miss Starling the next morning, as soon as she had opened a letter that had arrived by the early post.

The Creature raised her brows.

"Oh, indeed. We must see what Dr. Rathbone has to say about that."

"He's said it already: he said I wasn't fit for the journey. I hate Aix, anyway; people there think of nothing but illness. We went once; last year, I think it was. I was bored to death."

The Creature smiled.

"I have yet to hear you say that you have thoroughly enjoyed yourself anywhere," she said.

Diana considered the point.

"Well, I don't know that I ever have," she admitted. "You look forward to a thing, and then when it comes it's disappointing."

"Half the pleasure of life is in looking forward to things," Miss Starling said, carefully folding one of Diana's silken garments.

"What do you look forward to?"

Diana asked.

"Some day I hope to go to Normandy but it's more than I can afford at present."

"How much would it cost?"

Miss Starling hesitated.

"I should think every penny of twenty pounds," she said at last.

"That would be if I stayed a fortnight, of course."

Twenty pounds! Not so much as Diana often gave for one of her frocks.

"Why Normandy?" she asked.

"Italy is much more beautiful."

Normandy has associations for me," the Creature said quietly. "I have never been there, but a great friend of mine who died is buried there, and I have always promised myself that some day I will go and see his grave."

"Oh—the man you told me about?"

"Yes, the man I told you about."

"How did he die?"

"He was drowned, saving the life of a little boy."

"That was brave of him."

"He was brave—the bravest man I ever knew."

There was a little silence.

"That's the kind of thing Dr. Rathbone would do," Diana said thoughtfully. She felt a little surprised that the Creature should be so human. "Give his life for somebody, I mean."

"Dr. Rathbone won the Military Cross in the war," Miss Starling said unemotionally.

Diana was silent for a moment; then she said, "I wonder he has never married."

"We can't all marry, and it isn't the only thing in life."

"It must be lonely for him."

"I think he is too busy a man to trouble about loneliness."

"All the same," Diana said obstinately, "I wonder some woman hasn't managed to catch him."

"To catch him?—What do you mean?"

"Marry him. I suppose he's quite rich."

"Hasn't he got a sister, or a niece, or anyone who ever stays with him?" Diana persisted.

"I have never tried to discover. It is not my business."

"I think you must try and get a little nap before you have your supper," Miss Starling said practically.

"I can't sleep to order," was Diana's fretful reply.

"You can try," the Creature insisted.

"And if Dr. Rathbone comes, wake me—even if I am asleep," was Diana's parting shot. It would be so like the Creature to insist that she was not to be disturbed.

But Rathbone did not come, although Diana lay awake for a long time listening for the sound of his car down the lane. He always sounded the horn when he turned from the main road, and she had grown to know and recognize it.

CHAPTER VIII

The doctor came on Saturday afternoon in the middle of a thunderstorm.

Diana had been busy thinking about Dennis, who had cabled that he had arrived in New York. She was torn with her emotions at knowing he was with Linda.

The noise of the thunder had drowned the little sounds of Rathbone's arrival, and when he spoke to her she looked up, her face drenched in tears.

"Oh—Dr. Rathbone . . ."

She would have been pleased to see an angel from heaven. In her eagerness she threw the bed coverings from her and sprang up to greet him. "Oh, I'm so glad you've come."

He laughed and took her hand.

"Glad! Do you always cry when you're glad?" he said. He strode across the rooms and pulled the window down. The rain was coming in and had made a little pool on the floor.

"Get back to bed and cover yourself up," he ordered. "You'll take cold."

He looked at her whimsically. "And what were the tears for?" he asked.

She brushed them away with her bare hands as a child might have done.

"I think I was miserable. I thought you were never coming again. It seems so long since I saw you."

"Yes," he agreed. "It does seem a long time." Then they both were silent for a moment looking at one another.

"Why haven't you been all the week?"

"For one thing, I've been busy, and for another, I thought you could do without me."

"Well," Diana said impulsively, "now you know I can't—and that is all about it."

Then again they were silent, looking steadily at one another, while the thunder rolled overhead shaking the stout walls of the little house.

He turned sharply away and stood for a moment staring out at the pouring rain, his big shoulders almost blocking out the window. Then he said, in a matter-of-fact voice:

"I think you might get up tomorrow and have your lunch down stairs. You must be tired of this room. A change will do you good if you don't overdo it." He turned round again. "By the way, any visitors this week?"

"No." In spite of herself, Diana felt she was flushing. She thought that what he really wished to discover was whether Dennis had been again. She said a trifle impatiently, "I don't think people are very fond of visiting you when you're ill."

"You can have anyone you like now, if they don't stay too long," he told her. "It would cheer you up to see some of your friends."

"What friends?" she asked wearily.

"You must have dozens."

She shrugged her slim shoulders.

"Nobody I really care about—no girls, at least."

"A man, then," he suggested half jokingly.

Diana was plucking the quilt together with nervous fingers. She was quite sure now that he was trying to discover something about Dennis, and with sudden bravado she lifted her head and looked at him.

"He is in America."

"He?" It was with chagrin that Diana realized that Rathbone had forgotten all about Waterman and that he was genuinely mystified to know to whom she referred.

She said defiantly, "The man who came here—before I was so ill again."

"Oh—I see. Then perhaps it is as well he is in America," he said significantly.

The tone of his voice angered her; he was treating her like a child.

"I shall never love anyone else," she said, her voice taking a higher pitch of excitement. "No matter what anyone says." She paused breathlessly, but he made no comment, and she went on in the same way: "Aunt Gladwyn says it's indecent to love a married man; she says the modern girl is indecent. I

WILDCAT BOUNTIES ENRICH TRAPPERS

Steel Traps Click Dollar Tunes Throughout Maine.

Augusta, Maine.—Steel traps have clicked a cash register song throughout the state of Maine during the past year, reducing the number of wildcats by nearly 1,000 and enriching the trappers to the extent of nearly $1,500.

The forest felines, wildest of the wild creatures sought by sportsmen, as elusive as shadows when stalked by the man with a gun, have suffered heavy casualties in traps because of a weakness which they share with humans—the desire for something for nothing.

When roaming the woods in search of his natural food, live game, the wildcat enjoys comparative safety, for his habitat breeds no animals capable of engaging him in combat and he is gifted with uncanny ability to sense the presence of and evade his most deadly enemy—man.

But the tawny, untamable, like his two-legged foe, usually finds the lure of "something for nothing" most difficult to resist. Thus the success of trappers on capturing the game that seems to meow in derision at rifles and shotguns. Thus the cash register song, echoing along the traplines, a dirge for the cats, but a joyful chorus for those to whom it means "shoes for the baby."

Each time the jaws of a cat trap snap together the state parts with $20 in bounty money. The cat, snarling in rage and pain, has his fury aggravated by the discovery that the bait—food which he had attempted to seize without earning it through the usual stalk and kill, "something for nothing"—is just beyond the reach of his paws.

British Cannery Making Inroads in U. S. Industry

London.—While other British industries are steadily declining, fruit and vegetable canning enterprises are outstripping their competitors abroad.

Less than four years ago the canning industry in the United States had no serious rival, but it now has been almost shoved out of the British market by home factories. Even the supply of pork and beans, a delicacy formerly furnished exclusively by American packers, has been taken over by the British, with a resultant increase in popularity.

Horse flesh is another product canned here in large quantities for export, mostly to the European continent. It is often said in France that many of the "beefsteaks" served in small restaurants actually are horseflesh, and with proper preparation it is difficult to tell the difference.

Canning of fruit has increased more than 500 per cent in the last five years, while vegetable canning industries have grown no less than 2,500 per cent. The present output for both is more than 80,000,000 cans yearly.

—Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wood and son Harris and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wright came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Harris Friday night and tendered him a surprise party in honor of his birthday anniversary. The guests brought a freezer of home-made ice cream with them.

—A dandy show awaits Marjorie Loeb if she will present this Progress invitation to Manager Hays at The Grand.

suppose you think so too."

He ignored the last words. He said gravely:

"The fact that a man is married cannot prevent a woman from loving him, but it should prevent her—prevent them both—from behaving foolishly."

To the Democratic Voters of the 24th Senatorial District: ---

You have a right to know what to expect of those who represent you in the Legislature for the next two years. Some of the major problems, as I see them are as follows:

First: Putting the State Government on a business basis.

Second: An honest adjustment and assessment of all taxable property.

Third: An income tax that shall be applied so as to reduce the tax on real estate.

Fourth: Abolish selling short any commodities.

Fifth: No sales tax that will place the burden on the rank and file of the people.

Sixth: Curb big business combinations that are now threatening the home owned business.

Seventh: Loans and interest rates to home builders and owners that will make it possible for all people who are threatened with foreclosures to redeem their homes and others to buy or build homes. To establish a true Democracy it must be possible for all people to own homes.

Eighth: Adjustment of the laboring conditions to abolish unemployment.

Ninth: In order to return to prosperity the state as well as the nation must put forth every effort to acquire a just return to the farmer for his products and to labor for their services.

Tenth: In order to restore confidence we must back up our government, our business, our banks and our neighbors. And in return these must place confidence in the people.

I am your neighbor, have been in your business in Monticello for thirty years. I welcome an investigation. I am a Democratic candidate for Representative.

I will appreciate your support at the April 12th Primary.

KIWANIS FAREWELL PARTY FRIDAY FOR DR. A. E. TURNER

The program at Kiwanis luncheon Friday was in the nature of a farewell party for Dr. A. E. Turner, pastor of the local Presbyterian church for the past year. Dr. Turner has accepted a call to the Presbyterian church at Vandalia.

Albert Walker was in charge of the program. Dr. Turner's two associates in local ministerial work, Rev. Barnett of the Christian Church and Rev. Lawrence of the M. E. church were guests at the luncheon. Both spoke of their pleasant contact with the departing pastor and wished him well in his new field. For the Kiwanis the message of farewell and good will was delivered by A. E. McCorvie. On behalf of the club, J. L. McLaughlin presented Dr. Turner with a number of April foot gifts and followed that by the presentation of a desk set.

Dr. Turner responded to the many nice things said about him and the good wishes tendered him by his fellow Kiwanians.

A CORRECTION

Judge Lambrecht, who presided in the recent McCarthy case says that only one official, Cloyd Freeman, testified that Mr. McCarthy was drunk when arrested. Sheriff Lansden and Officer John Pifer testified that he smelled of liquor, but would not swear that he was drunk. Five other witnesses testified that the defendant was not drunk, so the Judge found him not guilty.

SUNSHINE NONSENSE

It has been reported that Buck Fisher, Les Atchison, Uncle Walt Birch and a few other husbands of members of the local Sunshine club were treated to candy Friday night. The girls had gotten the candy at the Filson party in the afternoon. The delicious looking chocolates had some peculiar surprises wrapped up in their interiors. Any time a woman gives chocolates to her husband, nibble carefully before you bite—it isn't natural for a woman to give chocolates away!

Real estate men, among themselves, divide New York into districts. There is, for example, the Grand Central district, the Plaza district, the Pennsylvania district, and so on. One of these experts said recently that the absorption power of the Grand Central district, upon to 1929, had been about a million feet of rentable space a year. Now there is a surplus there of three and one-half million feet. From this he deduced that the district was now about three years behind former normal growth. He thinks the whole of Manhattan is about three years overbuilt.

It appears to be a fact that in New York, and I suppose in all other places, one side of the street, in a certain area, is very much better for business purposes than the other side. They tell me, for instance, that the greatest pedestrian travel is between the Pennsylvania and Grand Central stations. The mass of people on foot cross on the north side of Thirty-fourth street, then turn up the west side of Fifth avenue to Thirty-eighth street, where they cross to the east side of Fifth avenue to walk the four blocks to Forty-second street. This crossing of the avenue is explained by the old Wendell estate, a church, and the Public library being on the east side. The crowds cross so as to be on the side with the shops.

One of the reasons the Empire State building was constructed on its present location was that it is about half-way between the two stations. But in these days that doesn't do it much good. Its saving asset has been the tower. People have been patronizing that lofty view of the city and country at the rate of about $1,000,000 a year. How long this patronage will continue, nobody knows.

Frank Case, owner of the Algonquin, that meeting place of celebrities, was accosted by an Englishman, who expressed a desire to become a patron of the hotel. Mr. Case welcomed the idea with enthusiasm.

"But I say, how about my dog?" inquired the prospective guest. "Will it be all right if I bring him? He is just a little fellow."

"It is evident," replied Mr. Case, "that you are not aware of the condition of the hotel business in this country. You could bring your dog if he were an Irish wolfhound or a St. Bernard. You could bring him, and welcome, if he were a team of huskies. And, if you care to bring a giraffe, or a hippopotamus with you, that will be all right, too."

I happened to see Henry L. Mencken entering an elevator and said to Mr. Case that I had not known Mr. Mencken was in New York.

"I don't want anyone to know it," asserted Mr. Case. "Nor do I wish them to know that Dorothy Parker or anyone else is in the hotel. If the news got circulated, some of the larger hotel keepers probably would kidnap them."

Expert Avers Jealousy

Is Cause of Stammering

Berkeley, Calif.—Jealousy is the principal cause of children's stammering. Miss Delight Rice, in charge of correction of speech defects, lip reading, and deafness among school children here, advanced this theory at a recent meeting of the board of education.

"In the young child," she said, "stammering is usually due to a disturbance of the emotions. In my experience, jealousy is the outstanding cause. How neglected the first child feels when the second baby arrives! As this trouble works in cycles, the jealous child finds that stammering attracts attention."

Kansan Is Decorated,

Doesn't Know Why

Newton, Kan.—Despite the fact that he did not see service overseas, Ira H. Burke, of Newton, has been selected by Rumania to be decorated in recognition of his services to that country in the World war.

Under the impression that there was some mistake, Mr. Burke returned the elaborate insignia the first time he received it. He was a captain in the war.

But the Rumanian legation at Washington advised him that there was no mistake, and his credentials as a knight of the Order of the Star of Rumania came back a second time. He still doesn't know why.

WAY OF LIFE
By Bruce Barton

WE RICH
A young man, who is vice president of a New York bank, told me that he dined recently at a fashionable resort.

"All the other guests were very rich," he said. "They were older people, many of them retired. They were shaking in their boots. They are afraid there will be a social upheaval and that their money will be taken away."

I told him I thought these people had a right to worry.

"The social order will not be over-turned," I said, "nor will people like your friends be stripped of their possessions. But I do believe that, when this depression is over, the rich will be poorer and the poor will have a degree of comfort and security that they have never possessed before. And this will be better for everybody."

In saying this, I am taking a position which is contrary to my own selfish interests, for, while I am not and never shall be rich, I have an income that is much above the average. If taxes are higher, mine will go up with the rest.

But shouldn't they? What have I done to deserve as much as I get out of life?

You may answer: "You have worked hard. You have been ambitious and intelligent. Any man who will apply himself in this country can do well."

This is not a complete answer. To be sure, I have worked. But where did I work the hardest? On a farm one summer (I still ache when I think about it). And in Montana in a construction camp. The hours, in each case, were more than twelve a day, and at night we were too weary for anything but bed.

On my farm my income was one dollar a day; in the construction camp it was sixty-five dollars a month.

If I have increased my income it is not because I have worked harder but because I happened to get out of these tough jobs into one that is much easier and much better paid.

If I have used intelligence, it is not greatly to my credit. I happened to have been born into a home of culture. I was sent to college, and my expenses were paid.

Many rich people, who are worried for fear they will have to bear a larger burden in the future, have had all these advantages, plus the added advantage of inherited wealth. When they grumble they give me a pain. Surely, we who have had the best luck in this country are going to be wise enough to recognize it and to assume cheerfully our share of the load.

APRIL 12TH

The Only Candidate For Democratic Nomination

FOR GOVERNOR Who Does Not Live in Chicago

Why jeopardize Illinois Democracy by a factional fight over Cook County spoils? Republicans are saying that every time the Democrats have a chance to win they throw it away. Don't let the personal and factional fight for political leadership between Cermak and Igoe spoil Democratic chances for victory this time. Nominate BRUCE CAMPBELL, the only candidate who can surely carry the Democrats to success in November. He can defeat any candidate the Republicans nominate, and he is the ONLY one who can. Even the Republican candidates admit that Campbell's nomination means their defeat. Campbell will get a quarter of a million more votes in November than either of his opponents.

Elect your local candidates by nominating BRUCE CAMPBELL to head the ticket

He stands for:

- Sympathetic cooperation with agriculture.
- Just and equitable assessment of all property, real and personal, relieving real estate of the unfair burden it now bears.
- Honest, economical and efficient administration of government, reducing waste and extravagance.
- Sympathetic cooperation with and fairness to organized labor.
- Reduction of taxes.

Betty's Bill

By CORONA REMINGTON

BIG Bill Collingsworth strode up the front steps of the Desuonnes home with the air of a conquering hero. He gave the door bell a sharp punch and in a moment Betty herself had opened the door and stood before him, pink and radiant.

"I knew it was you by the way you rang," she said, when they had exchanged the usual greetings.

"You have good news, too."

By this time they were walking slowly toward the living room.

"I have," he answered, standing stock still. "The greatest news that anyone ever had in this whole world. Get your frills ready, we're going to be married soon."

"Bill!" she exclaimed, giving his hand a little squeeze. "Tell me, do I can't wait to hear. Let's sit down quick before I fall."

"You know old John Tollman? Mean old devil, but he's got the kale all right. Well, he was in a street car accident not long ago and he's engaged me to take the case and recover damages. Me! Can you believe it. We ought to be able to get married on the fee."

"Bill Collingsworth, you're the greatest lawyer in this whole city full of men. I've always known it, and now the world's beginning to find it out," said Betty, looking adoringly at her fiance.

When old Tollman entered Bill Collingsworth's office the next day the young lawyer experienced a sudden revulsion of feeling as his swift glance took in the crabbled old face, the colorless lips, the diamond stickpin and the heavy fur coat of his prospective client.

"Well, young man," he began, throwing off his coat and dropping stiffly into a chair. "I hear you're a smart chap and that's the very kind I'm looking for. This is going to be a hard case, the company will contest it on the grounds that it was my fault, but I'm a good client. I'll do and say what my lawyer tells me." He winked at young Collingsworth and continued, "and I got a bunch o' witnesses who are willing to do the same," he ended laughing loudly and slapping his leg.

"I'm sorry," said Collingsworth rising, his face drawn and white. "but I'm afraid I'm not just the kind of an attorney you need. I don't believe I could handle your case."

"I guess I must have come to the wrong place," snarled Tollman, his jovial manner suddenly gone. "I reckon you ain't a lawyer at all but a Sunday school teacher."

"I'm proud of my Bill," said Betty after she had heard the story, "and what do you care? Something better may come along any day."

Disconsolately, he returned to his office. It poured all day and not a client came near. The whole week was a nightmare. It seemed as if every one had forgotten him.

After days of silence the jangling of the telephone at his elbow made him start suddenly.

"This is Harrison of the Railway and Light company," said a hearty voice. "Could you come down to my office some time this afternoon?" Collingsworth silently swallowed amazement and consulted a blank date book.

"Let's see," he said over the wire. "One o'clock . . . Two . . . I could see you for half an hour from three-thirty to four. Will that do?"

"Fine!" answered Harrison. "I'll expect you then. Good-by."

"Now, what d'you suppose he wants with me?" muttered Collingsworth after he had hung up.

But he could not solve the problem, and it was nearly four o'clock before he found out.

"Heard something about you the other day," said Harrison when greetings were over. "Somebody told me that you had refused the Tollman case because you didn't think he was using honest methods."

"I didn't say anything of the sort," answered Collingsworth hotly. "I simply refused the case without explanation. My reasons for doing so are my own."

"That's all right, son, I understand," soothed the older man. "I just want to tell you that you've got a backbone and I like your business methods. Crookedness may get by for awhile but honesty stands the test of time. Now, I've been enquiring about you and you seem to be a pretty smart young man. Mr. Eckel, our attorney for the past twenty years, is retiring the first of the year and going abroad to live. How'd you like to step into his shoes?"

Collingsworth gripped the arm of his chair and struggled to modify the ecstasy in his voice as he spoke.

"Frankly, I think I'd like it mighty well," he answered after a moment.

"That's the way for a man to talk; no beating around the bush. All right, you can come around the first of the week and we'll fix up the papers."

Collingsworth rose abruptly.

"I have an important engagement," he said blushing.

"All right, young man, you run along and tell her," laughed Harrison, clapping him on the back. "I had just such an engagement once myself."

Advice for Joan

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

HER problem was as new to Joan as if no other girl had ever tried to solve a similar one. Which to marry—the poor, beloved young man or the rich young man whom she respected and liked and might, in time, come to love.

There had come into her life two men. One, young Milton Arnold, son of the president of the local cotton mills.

The other, Barry Mason, principal of the school where she taught. Milt would inherit thousands. Barry had an invalid mother dependent on him and principalships are seldom stepping stones to a fortune.

In a burst of confidence she told her mother all about it. They've both asked to marry me," she confessed. "But I don't know—I don't know—"

"Joan," she said suddenly, "why don't you spend your vacation with Aunt Carol? Go away from both these estimable young men and think things over for yourself."

"I'm afraid," said Joan, "that if I do that, I'll surely want Milt. Just a glimpse of that sort of life—"

"As you like," said her mother.

In the end, Joan went to Boston. She was met at the station by her aunt's brown limousine and brown-suited chauffeur. She was driven to the solemn brownstone-fronted house in Back Bay; then shown to her room and told by a precise white-capped maid that her aunt would be home at five.

At five promptly, Aunt Carol, magnificently furred and gowned, came hurrying into the room and took Joan in her arms.

"Your mother wrote me," she said archly, "that you've run away from two ardent admirers. And meanwhile, we must see that you have the finest time."

Not even Sally Arnold, Milt's debutante sister, could have whirled through more gayety than did Joan in the following days.

Dinners, dances, luncheons, shopping tours, opera—it was a wonder if either Barry or Milt were ever spared a thought.

And yet, lying in the exquisitely-draped four poster, Joan's thoughts nightly traveled home. This sort of life would be hers forever if she married Milt. If she married Barry—well, of course, it was absurd to think she would know abject poverty or anything remotely approaching it. What she would know would be doing her own household tasks, careful, economy, doing without this to obtain that, and, if there should be a family, a constant speculation as to where dentist bills, music lessons and college educations were coming from.

Joan didn't see a great deal of her aunt. Once introduced to the bevy of young people that were daughters and sons of her aunt's friends, she was swept along without effort on her part on the surge of various activities.

It was the last night of her stay that Aunt Carol came into her room as she was undressing.

"Have you settled that momentous question of yours?" she asked with a smile.

Joan shook her head.

"I take it for granted," went on her aunt, "that both are fine young men, and their incomes being equal—Joan, do you love one of them?"

A rosy flush suffused the sweet contours of Joan's face. "I—I think so," she confessed.

Her aunt came over and laid a hand heavy with shining rings on Joan's slender shoulder. "Take the one you love, Joan. If it's the rich one—well and good. If the poor one—take him. Life brings hardships and disappointments that only love will withstand. You see, I know." She paused, then went on gravely. "I'm going to tell you a little secret. Joan, I once had the same decision to make that you have. I loved a poor young man and I married the rich one. I haven't been altogether unhappy, but I stepped into somebody else's life and have never had time to live my own. I'd swap my limousine, house and position for a sweet young thing just like yourself and all the joys you are going to bring to your mother—a good son-in-law, grandchildren and—"

Joan leaned down and kissed her pretty niece and departed.

Joan's father met her at the station in the old car that had to be cranked before it would go. "Hope life with the plutocrats hasn't spoiled your taste for home, Joannie," he grinned. "Between you and me, I owe your Aunt Carol a lot. I was once quite sweet on her, but she turned me down for a young man with a million. If she hadn't, I should never have got your mother."

Joan said "Yes" to Barry that very evening. "It's love that counts," she told him gravely. "Life brings many hardships that only love can withstand. Better marry a poor young man—"

But Barry, who did not realize what it was all about, shook her gently by her shoulders. "I'm not so darn poor, Joan!" he said. "And I'm due for a raise next year!" And he wondered, as he took her in his arms, at the funny little smile that lingered on Joan's cupid-bow lips.

FRIENDS IN COUNCIL MET MONDAY AT THE HOME OF MRS. SCHEER

The Friends in Council club met at the home of Mrs. R. A. Scheer, Monday afternoon with twenty-five members present.

Announcement was made for Health Week, April 24th to May 1st.

The District meeting of Women's clubs to be held in Arthur at the Baptist church April 21st and 22nd was also mentioned.

It is planned to have the Pre-school clinic during Health Week. This is conducted by the club and the Parent Teacher Association.

Mrs. Leona Stone was elected to club membership.

The following program was given:

Roll call responded to with "Current Events."

Health talk, Mrs. Mattie Harris. Mrs. Harris also told of the immunizing for diphtheria and it is planned to have all children of school age, made immune to diphtheria in a county wide drive this spring. This will be under the supervision of Mrs. Harris.

A committee from the F. I. C. club was named to give assistance in this drive. Mrs. C. E. McFerrin was named as chairman.

Following this, two selections were given by the Boys' chorus of the township high school, under the direction of Mrs. Susan Roney. The chorus gave the song which was sung at the Moultrie county contest held in Arthur recently. It was "I Passed by your Window." Following this number the boys sang "Hail to the Orange" with banjo accompaniment by Dean Harshman.

Hugh Grote and Dean Harshman gave several popular selections and the chorus also gave one popular number.

Miss Beatrice Hill played a piano solo. This concluded the program.

The next meeting will be held at the Grand theatre, April 19th. Mrs. G. A. Sental will be in charge. Manager Everett Hays will also show a film at this meeting. Mrs. Ray Isaacs is directing a playlet to be given entitled "A Dish of China Tea." Several of the club members will dance the minuet and the ladies' chorus will sing.

This meeting will start promptly at 2 p. m. Several ladies from Decatur who took part in this same play, have been invited, as have also the Women's club of Harris-town, who also have given this play. This is to be guest day and each member is allowed to invite four guests.

The May Luncheon which will be held at the National Inn Monday, May 6th marks the close of the club year.

Following the close of the Boys' Glee Club numbers Monday they were each given a candy bar by the club.

The Man We Need In Congress

GEORGE FULK (Meet him face to face)

A Farmer Honest Experienced Safe Capable

"Mr. Fulk is a man who can be counted upon to stand for something among those time-servers at Washington." — Hamilton Holt, personal friend and adviser of Woodrow Wilson; formerly Editor The New York Independent.

"Mr. Fulk was an associate of my office from 1904 to 1906. He is able, courageous, efficient and of unimpeachable character." George Packard, formerly President Chicago Bar Ass'n; leading counsel for the First National Bank of Chicago.

"Dear Mr. Fulk: I do not wish to allow the National Agricultural Conference to pass into history without making acknowledgement of my obligation to you for your fine cooperation and effective work in making the Conference a success."—Henry C. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

"I know that at the Second Hague Peace Conference Mr. Fulk was recognized by the delegates as a man of marked ability and influence."—Frank P. Mies, member Chicago Bar Ass'n; formerly personal friend and adviser of President Theodore Roosevelt.

"Mr. Fulk was one of the few farmers who saw the relation between international affairs and agricultural prosperity. Last, but not least, he works without the least thought of personal favor but rather that he may be of larger service to humanity in causes that are of the most vital importance to the peoples of all nations. His Christian training, his native legal ability and experience and his personal uprightness of character thoroughly qualify him for membership in the United States Congress."—J. W. Lear, D. D., Dean of Bethany Biblical Seminary, Chicago.

AIRPLANE ROUTE TO EUROPE IS PLANNED

Survey Awaits Sanction of Iceland Government.

New York.—Immediate and detailed survey of the air route to Europe by way of Canada, Greenland, Iceland, the Faroe islands, and England, with a view to establishing a transatlantic mail line, awaits only the sanction of the government of Iceland of a bill just introduced in the parliament of the land.

This bill would give to the Trans-American Airlines corporation, a subsidiary of the Thompson Aeronautical corporation, now flying passengers and mail between Cleveland and Detroit and between Detroit and Chicago as well as to northern Michigan, permission to establish a base in Island under a contract running for 75 years and giving the company exclusive privileges for 15 years.

Richard F. Hoyt, chairman of the board of the Curtiss-Wright corporation and a director of Trans-American, said recently that there would be no delay in making a study of the exact route and flying schedule to be followed should this bill become a law. The detailed work before the proposed transatlantic airline, which would become an international undertaking, might require a permit for two years, he added.

The northern route to Europe has held the interest of airline operators for several years because of the shortness of the over-water legs involved. None exceed 400 miles in length. The United States army round-the-world flyers made use of this route, as did Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and his three companions, who brought their plane into New York harbor after an unheralded flight from the North sea by way of the northern islands and Newfoundland.

Last August Parker D. Cramer, pilot of many fine flights, and his radio operator, Oliver Paquette, were lost on the last short leg of a flight over the northern route, that from the Shetland islands to Copenhagen.

Cramer had taken off secretly from Cleveland on July 28 to blaze a trail for the Trans-American corporation, and had successfully flown by way of Canada, Labrador and the Greenland icecap as far as the Shetlands.

For more than a year the British arctic air route expedition, headed by Capt. H. G. Watkins, studied the conditions in Greenland and last autumn Lieut. N. H. D'Aeth, flying officer of the expedition, reported that he considered the route across Greenland feasible for scheduled flying operations.

Women Refuse Ballot by Quebec Legislature

Quebec.—Standing true to its traditions as the stronghold of Old world conservatism in the New world, the province of Quebec remains the only section of the British empire where women are still forbidden to vote.

By a vote of 52 to 23 the legislature has refused to extend the franchise taking the stand that "women should be queens of their homes and not political intriguers or hustling loafers."

The question was not decided along party lines, for two Liberal members sponsored the bill which would have given women the vote while other Liberals were equally strong in opposing it.

Dr. Anatole Plante, sponsor of the bill, argued that the present situation placed Quebec women in a position of inferiority to those of other Canadian provinces.

Radio Jazz Arouses Turtles From Sleep

Des Moines, Iowa.—Mrs. Clarence Cornwell has as pets in her home two turtles that, in outward appearance, are just like any other, but inwardly, Mrs. Cornwell believes, that are far superior to the run of the water turtles. The pets, it seems, have a soul for music. So long as there is no music in the room they lie almost motionless in their tank of water. But the instant the radio brings orchestra music into the house they become excited and swim rapidly about kicking their feet, so Mrs. Cornwell says, in time with the music.

Round Table Volume Contains Million Words

London.—Reports of proceedings of the second session of the Indian Round Table conference, including verbatim speeches, fill a volume of more than a million words. The Bible is about 25 per cent shorter. It is estimated that during the first and second sessions more than two and a half million words were spoken. At least another half million will be spoken by the time the round table proceedings are finished in a third and final session in 1934.

Sparrows Steal Milk
Harrow, England.—Householders who have found their morning milk missing from the doorstep, have discovered that sparrows and chaffinches are the thieves.

THE WEATHER

This Thursday is a typical April day. We have had sunshine and rain, blue skies and dark and threatening clouds. A good soaking rain is badly needed for gardens and fields.

Wheat fields do not look any too good. The March cold weather hit the wheat hard and it needs plenty of rain to do any good. The early sown oats is reported not to have been such a big success. Oats sowing is now practically completed and many farmers are done plowing for corn, although none will be planted for some weeks to come.

We heard of a peculiar crop harvest the other day. Tom Roney planted potatoes in February. They did not show up above the ground, so he investigated. He found mashed potatoes where he had planted his crop—and how those mashed potatoes did smell. As a crop it was a total loss. You just simply can't grow good mashed potatoes underground.

One crop is due for harvest on Tuesday. That is the crop of primary votes. The sowers are the candidates. They have fanned the field with the hot air of their arguments; they have fertilized it with promises of tax reduction; they have sowed the hands of the workers who are to bring in the harvest. And oh, what will the harvest be? We see state payrollers circulating around, doing anything except earning the pay they get from the state.

Our Republican brethren here in Moultrie are puzzled beyond belief—that is some of them are. Who shall they vote for for governor? Like lambs without a shepherd they are wafted now hither now yon. They don't like Custer—hope this is his "last stand" and that the result will be another "massacre." They don't think much of Malone nor Brundage, Oskar Carlstrom the Aledo Swede has not made much of a hit with them despite the efforts of Merrill Wehmhoff.

There is a general impression prevailing around here that old Len Small is going to get that Republican nomination and the bosses and bosslets who are outside the Small fold don't seem to care if he does. Colonel William Benjamin Hopper, First Lieutenant Frank McPheeters, Grand Marshall Charles McClure and Adj. General Ray Yeakle are rounding up the Small faithful and they feel that the number will be numerous and enthusiastic.

Did you "see by the papers" that Franklin D. Roosevelt won hands down in Wisconsin the other day? The Roosevelt band wagon is getting under way. If he gets the delegates from Massachusetts and Pennsylvania the latter part of this month, he'll roll right into the Democratic convention with enough votes to get the nomination on the first or second ballot. The "Stop Roosevelt" movement that the capitalistic press was eager for has died a-bornin'.

Spring is here. Take your spring tonics. Roll up your sleeves and get busy planting, sowing, cleaning house, playing golf, baseball and fishing. Eat a mess of greens now and then, so your insides know that winter is past.

We'll be tellin' you some more things next week.

SIX DEMOCRATS TWO REPUBLICANS ELECTED TUESDAY

Harding 310. Majority for the Democrat 7. In the race for cemetery trustee T. L. Hudson received 334 to 268 cast for Herschel Reedy.

Dora Keeps Wagahoft
One of the two townships to go Republican Tuesday in the commissioner race was Dora where Oscar Wagahoft was re-elected, receiving 336 votes to 151 cast for T. F. Sheehan, Democrat.

Baughner Relected
Ollie Baughner, Whitley democratic commissioner who sought re-election was handicapped in his campaign by illness. He won by a big majority Tuesday over W. E. Phipps, the Republican candidate. At the Bruce poll the vote was 165 for Baughner and 10 for Phipps and at Gays 165 for Baughner and 185 for Phipps—Baughner's majority 134.

Hot Time in Lovington
Lovington had a hot election on Tuesday. It was a three-cornered affair. Joe Burcham was the Democratic candidate; W. W. Cochran, Republican, seeking re-election and E. F. Lawson, Independent. Burcham was elected by a plurality of 18.

Early in the morning the workers for the candidates got busy and approximately 1000 votes were cast. The vote by precincts was as follows: First—Cochran 122, Burcham 115, Lawson 71; Second—Cochran 124, Burcham 189; Lawson 93; Third—Cochran 125; Burcham 85; Lawson 74. Totals, Cochran 371; Burcham 389; Lawson 238.

For graveyard trustee M. W. Munch received 411 votes on the Republican ticket and I. S. Hoffman 367 on the Democratic; C. H. Burress, Democrat was elected poundmaster with 405 votes to 351 cast for Nick Coy.

Jonathan Creek
Russell Fresh, Democrat was re-elected highway commissioner, receiving 211 votes to 101 cast for Henry Brown. For school trustee Loren Cadwell, Rep. received 78 votes; Jim Pound Dem. 196. Fay Taylor, Dem. was elected constable without opposition, receiving 184 votes.

Elected Dead Man
For cemetery trustee there was only one name on the ballot that of L. L. Dolan. Mr. Dolan died recently, after the ballots had been printed. At that, 57 voters cast their ballots for him. His name was in the Republican column. Twenty-nine voters wrote the name of his son John Dolan into the Democratic column and voted for him.

Lowe township
Lowe township had a three-cornered commissioner fight. Lloyd Ascherman, Dem. received 290 votes; Tom Sallee, Rep. received 162 and Jack White, Ind., received 63.

In Bourbon township, Douglas county a hot battle was waged for the office of commissioner. Tom Hood, Dem. won over Charles L. DeHart. Hood polled 594 votes; DeHart 240.

Four Defeated
The four Moultrie commissioners who went down in defeat Tuesday were as follows: Tom Sallee, Rep. in Lowe; W. W. Cochran, Rep. in Lovington; Charles VanMeter, Rep. in Marrowbone and Shim McDaniel Dem. in East Nelson.
