Decatur Won Practice Game Here Tuesday

Dennis' Basketball Squad in a Try Out in Pre-Season Game With Kintner's Decatur Boys. Last Minute Rally Won.

A constant ebb and flow of cage aspirants trotted on and off the floor as Sullivan high dropped a hard fought practice game to Gay Kintner's Decatur quintet by a 27 to 23 count. The game which was played here at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning before an enthusiastic through will not be counted in the records of either team as it was played only for the respective mentors to get a line on their prospects under fire.

Decatur Thursday morning defeated the Dennis Reds in Another practice game in the Armory in that city 19 to 24.

Decatur was off to an early lead but baskets by Dwyer and McDavid at the end of the initial quarter brought the count to 10 to 7. From then on the game developed into a nip and tuck affair and although the Red and White continued to lead at no time until the end of the game could they stretch their advantage over 3 points. The locals kept peppering away at the hoop and at the third quarter had pulled up alongside their rivals with 21 tallies apiece.

The crowd was in an uproar as the count was still knotted with only two minutes of play remaining. At this juncture the Reds became panicky and casting aside organized play they let go with a deluge of shots from all corners of the floor. These hurried offerings bounced harmlessly off the backboard and as the whole Red team drove down the floor to bat in a rebound or to toss in the all-important bucket they carelessly left their goal uncovered as Dongoski took a short pass from Kush to flip in the winning basket after Kush had given them the lead on a free throw.

There were frequent episodes of team play despite the ever changing

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By Jim Scott

Selecting an all-star team is ticklish business. For example our Okaw Valley Honorary grid team contains no less than 5 local boys. It is our honest opinion of the conference's outstanding performers but to an outsider it would stink bias so we'll do the proper thing and forget all about it.

However, this column, with your help, is to undertake the precarious task of naming an all-star Moultrie county basketball team to be chosen from the players appearing in the past decade. Those now competing on high school teams are not to be considered. Without your help our selections would be a flop as we don't profess to have accurate knowledge as to the county's outstanding cagers over a span of 10 years. Please write or tell us your choice and we'll eliminate our many prospects until we can assemble a synthetic quintet which should be the answer to a coaches wildest dream. This mythical five will be published in this column one week before the in-

Seek Probation Of Estate of Man Who Is Presumed Dead

John W. Landon lived in Moultrie county once upon a time. He was single. About 20 years ago he left. The last time he was heard from was 18 years ago. He was then in Kansas.

Some years after his disappearance an estate of a deceased brother was probated and the sum of $286 as an inheritance was awarded to the missing man. That money has been in the hands of a trustee for a number of years.

Members of the Landon family live in Minnesota. They knew of their uncle's disappearance and of his inheritance.

They presume that he is dead. If living he would be about 69 years of age. Homer Landon of Euclid, Minn., through Attorney J. L. McLaughlin of this city has made application for letters of administration in the estate of the missing man. Judge Jennings has set hearing of the case for Feb. 6th.

If John W. Landon does not put in an appearance, the estate will be probated and the $286 divided among the legal heirs.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

By Elmina Scheer

The banquet in honor of our Championship Football team was held in the gymnasium Tuesday evening. A large crowd was present to wish the boys luck and to extoll their virtues. Jim Purvis, the Freshman football coach at Purdue and Milt Olander, assistant Football coach, University of Illinois delivered very interesting and inspiring addresses. We're all terribly proud of this team, and with true optimism we're hoping for another championship next year.

Mr. Dennis, in his speech, issued certificates for football awards to the following:

A little trouble was experienced last week in regard to the disappearance of several sweat shirts from the locker room. The football boys spent a couple of days in an extensive search for them, but

HUBERT TABOR'S ELEVEN WON THANKSGIVING GAME

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Tichenor and family and Russell, Edith and Mildred Stark of this city spent from Thursday to Sunday with relatives in Benton, Illinois.

Mr. Tichenor witnessed the Thanksgiving Day football game between Hubert Tabor's Benton team and West Frankfort. He estimates the attendance at about 5,000.

Tabor's team won, 13 to 0, in a hard fought battle where the advantages accrued to them when "Black John" of the West Frankfort aggregation got a little too rough and his team suffered penalties. In both cases the penalties gave Benton the impetus that carried the pigskin across their opponent's goal line.

Will Moultrie Need $22,500 For Relief?

Action of Finance Committee of the Board of Supervisors Makes it Appear that Conditions in the County are Very Bad.

There is a question in the mind of many Moultrie county folks, as to the wisdom of the action of the finance committee of the Moultrie county Board of Supervisors in asking the state for $22,500 of gas tax refunds to be used in equal amounts over a period of three months for the relief of destitute people and those in necessitous circumstances.

At the recent meeting of the board of supervisors, it was left to that committee to draw up a resolution, asking that some gas tax funds be allotted to this county for relief purposes. The proper form on which to make this request was not available at the time and arrived some days later. The committee then met and asked for $22,500. It stated that 1200 people of this county would need aid. The amount asked is to be paid to the county as follows: $7,500 in December; $7,500 in January and $7,500 in February.

It will be a surprise to many people to know that there are so many destitute in Moultrie county. The general impression has been that while perhaps more money would be needed for relief this winter than is available through local taxation, yet the situation was much better than the action of the finance committee might indicate.

If the state gives Moultrie county $22,500 for relief purposes—and it will do so if requested,—very little if anything from gas tax refunds will be available for doing any road work for a long time to come.

The road program is knocked out and there can be no action on the secondary state roads, such as the Bruce extension, the Kirksville road or the Cadwell road.

Officials interested in the road program have had nothing to say, (for publication) about the action of the finance committee, but grumbles of displeasure are easily heard.

It is rather doubtful whether the action of the finance committee will meet with the hearty endorsement of all members of the county board. The matter may be up for an airing at the next special meeting of the board sometime in December. In the meantime the December allotment of $7,500 will doubtless be paid into the county treasury for relief purposes.

LET ME BE AWARE

God—let me beware.
Let me not stumble blindly down the ways,
Just getting somehow safely through the days,
Not even groping for another land,
Not even wondering why it all was planned,
Eyes to the ground, unseeking for the light,
Soul never aching for a wild-winged flight,
Please, keep me eager just to do my share—
God—let me beware.

God—let me beware.
Stab my soul fiercely with others' pain.
Let me walk seeing horror and stain.
Let my hands, groping, find other hands,
Give me the heart that divines, understands,
Give me the courage, wounded, to fight,
Flood me with knowledge, drench me in light,
Please, keep me eager just to do my share—
God—let me beware.

Our Crazy Financial System.

A man isolated on an island with a ton of gold and nothing else, would die. All of his gold-wealth could not prolong his life.

But, in the present foolish civilization, gold constitutes wealth.

The farmer with many tons of wheat, corn, potatoes, livestock, wool and all other things necessary to feed and clothe man, today is in distress. The man with hundreds of acres of good farmland faces ruin and bankruptcy.

The man with a big supply of gold, or its equivalent in money, is well fixed. He can exchange a little of it for all that he needs to live and enjoy life.

Gold is not food, nor drink, nor clothing. But gold rules the world. On it are based values. It furnishes the basis of currency, of exchange, of credit.

Gold is that small unit of metal, easily controlled by the masters of finance,—the 1 per cent of population which controls 96% of the wealth of the country.

Our gold values are not a firm financial foundation. For example—a man who borrowed $1000 in gold in 1920 borrowed something whose purchasing power at that time was just about one third of what it is today, in food, or cloth, or land or merchandise of any kind. But that debt today is still $1000 in gold and the creditor can demand payment in gold or its monetary equivalent. That $1000 in 1920 represented the value of 1,000 bushels of corn; today it represents the value of 8,000 bushels of corn the food value of which has not diminished though its gold value has.

In pioneer days a man with a thousand bushels of corn, a few hundred bushels of wheat, some livestock, potatoes, wool to clothe his family and wood to heat his home, had about everything he could desire and by the standards of that time was rich. Today that man has but little. He is poverty stricken with all his possessions because judged by the standard of gold, they have but little monetary value in the world's market.

The man who ten years ago owned a quarter section of good black land, had something which at that time was worth $250 per acre in gold, or its monetary equivalent. Loan companies recognized such worth and loaned $125 per acre on such farm.

The land is still there. It is producing as much or more than it did ten years ago, but where has the value flown? The loan company demands repayment of its loan and the owner finds that his equity has disappeared. The $125 equity which the farmer had in his farm 10 years ago has vanished into thin air, but the $125 per acre loan, secured by mortgage, has not, consequently the loan company takes repayment of its loan, in title to the farm. Though the $125 per acre today would buy three-fold in merchandise and commodities what it would have bought ten years ago, the nation's financial system does not recognize that very apparent fact and as a consequence the loan company gets three times its initial loan, though the amount of money involved has the same face or gold value.

We repeat, our national system of finance, our national system of economics is wrong. It is unjust. It is inequitable. Is gold to blame? If not on gold, on what can we base a more liberal, a more responsive system of finance?

The present system is tailor-made to fit the needs of the country's financiers, but does it fit the needs of the common man—of the producers of foodstuffs and those other things necessary for man's well-being?

What the solution will be we do not know. Some solution will eventually be found. These crazy fluctuations in values of the things that man needs to live must cease before the 99 per cent of population that toils and labors can be given any measure of security against depressions, unemployment panics, wars and the rest of the ills which curse the world today.

Giving Aid To The Enemy.

Large advertising appropriations, formerly spent in purchase of newspaper space are now diverted to radio. Such advertising is in an experimental stage. A lot of it is as silly in oral recitation as the cigarette advertising that appears in print.

As a consequence of such diversion of advertising funds from newspapers to radio, a reasonable assumption is that the newspaper's strongest business competitor today is radio.

The newspapers, however, are to a large measure responsible for the strength of their competitor. They give the radio programs columns and columns of free space. They donate liberally of that commodity for which other advertisers must pay good hard cash.

Their excuse may be that readers demand information as to radio programs. Perhaps so. If the newspaper did not give the information relative to radio programs, very few people would know when to dial in for the broadcast.

The harm of such withholding of information would be greater far to the radio programs and advertisers than to the newspapers. If newspaper publishers collectively had a lick of sense they would demand payment for every line of radio information that they print.

Their present donation of space is giving aid and comfort to an enemy that never has given anything of value to newspapers. The only newspapers that have not suffered through radio competition are those who operate their own broadcasting stations.

Another Great Carlstrom Feat.

Some officials who go out of office in January are paying off political debts and doing all the dirt they can before they have to relinquish the authority they now wield.

Illinois has been rather unfortunate for a number of years in its attorney general. During Oscar Carlstrom's term in that office, he has done some outstanding things.

Two especially are note-worthy. He compromised with Len Small and let him settle his indebtedness to the state for about 50% of what the Supreme Court of this state said that Mr. Small owed. This meant a loss to the state of over $600,000. Then he rushed to Washington and raved and ranted and tore his shirt trying to have the Senate accept Frank L. Smith into membership. The Senate refused. It had the evidence that Frank L. Smith, while chairman of the Illinois commission regulating utility rates, had accepted large campaign contributions from Samuel Insull, the state's utility magnate. Did Mr. Carlstrom ever institute proceedings to prosecute Mr. Smith for this law violation? He did not. Len Small and Frank L. Smith have much cause to be thankful to Oscar Carlstrom.

But Mr. Carlstrom is also a friend of Andrew Russell and Fred Sterling. Both of these men at one time were state treasurers. There has always been a doubt as to whether or not they accounted in full for the interest they collected on state funds, while in their possession. A number of years ago civil suits, asking for an accounting were filed in the Sangamon county circuit court. The Attorney General and others upon whom devolved the duty of prosecuting these suits never took such action.

Otto Kerner of Chicago, in his campaign as candidate for attorney general, this year promised the people, that if elected, he would force a showdown on these suits; also that he would endeavor to open the Len Small suit and try to collect what the state had coming, compromise or no compromise.

Mr. Kerner was elected. Great agitation on the part of some office holders resulted. They feared that Mr. Kerner would make good his pledge to the people. He's that sort of man.

Attorney General Carlstrom, acted. He went into the circuit court of Sangamon county and before Judge Jesse Brown of Alton made a motion to have the suits for an accounting against Mr. Russell and Mr. Sterling dismissed. Mr. Kerner had heard of the impending action. He appeared in court to protest. These suits had been on the docket many years, why dismiss them now? He argued that he had promised the people that he would investigate these suits. But the Judge, a Republican, turned deaf ears to Mr. Kerner's plea and granted Mr. Carlstrom's motion to dismiss.

This we claim is Mr. Carlstrom's third great feat in protecting the law breakers of Illinois and kicking the taxpayers in the face. For a third time he has come to the rescue of friends in trouble.

We hope and trust, that Judge Kerner when he takes office on January 9th will re-institute proceedings against any past state officials, whose record may not be clear, as to their financial obligations to the people of the state.

Under the Carlstrom regime Illinois has had one law for the rich law violator and another law for the poor one.

Did Illinois need a change in government? Carlstrom's latest action added but another good reason to those which before the election towered mountain high.

ILLINOIS CONTINUES HIGHWAY EXPENDITURES

Springfield, Nov. 30—Contracts for state and county highway work, awarded and approved by the state department of public works and buildings during the past week will provide more than $300,000 worth of work, according to the division of highways.

The biggest job placed under contract within the week was 8.26 miles of paving in Knox and Warren counties, to cost $146,289.69. Next in cost was that for the superstructure of a bridge over the Illinois at Marseilles. The state, through the waterway division of the department of purchases and construction, LaSalle county and the city of Marseilles will share the cost, $64,316.60. County work in LaSalle, Macon, Saline and Sangamon counties, brings the total up to $302,844.07.

—You may have heard the story of the enterprising preacher whose audience seemed half asleep when he was ready to start his sermon. He stepped to the front of the stage and whipped out a terrific blast of profanity. All woke up and sat up in rapt attention. That said the preacher, "was what I heard a roughneck say this morning" and he proceeded to admonish his audience on the sins of profanity.

Peculiar Situation For The Democrats

Politics has lots of peculiarities. In other years when the Democratic committee worked hard up to election day and then got licked, nobody paid much attention to them.

But alas, 'tis different now. You never would have guessed how important or how popular a mere committeeman could be!

Folks wait for you in your office, they waylay you on the street corners, they patiently ambush you on your home doorstep.

And can you blame them? They want jobs. The poor committeeman has no jobs to give, but they feel that he may have some contact with the fellows who have such jobs.

But we insist that there are peculiarities. For instance, you are besieged by men and women who never before paraded their Democracy or became beligerently active in making donations to the campaign funds, or volunteering their services to get out voters on election day. But they'll tell you that grandpa voted Democratic and Pa did and as soon as Ma could vote she joined the followers of Andrew Jackson and Thomas Jefferson. And because of this family adherence to the tenets of Democracy they feel that they deserve recognition. Bless them, we hope they all succeed!

Fellows who four years ago fought the efforts of the county committee, when it worked hard for Al Smith and the national Democratic ticket, now are regulars of regulars and feel that any party defection on their part should be forgotten and forgiven. Folks are peculiar that way. Of course the committee that they opposed directly and indirectly that year, is just about the same committee that they seek endorsements from now. You don't even hear of Hoovercrats any more. That too, is peculiar, isn't it?

Folks who get peeved in township primaries and helped elect fellows of the other party, now again are very regular while those who were victims of their displeasure and party desertion register strenuous protest against party approval and payroll rewards.

Never in our short lifetime had we ever supposed that so many people were ambitious to be post masters, game wardens, motorcoops and what not?

It is peculiar too to know the attitude of some folks toward party success. To them party success means just one thing—jobs. "Why," say they "what's the use of electing Democrats if they don't hand out jobs to the fellows who helped elect them?"

That's one way of looking at the thing, but it rather a peculiar way, isn't it? Our humble idea of electing Democrats was rather to improve government—to make it more economical and efficient—jobs are secondary. Folks who never did make good on any job they ever had, feel that they could make good on the state payroll, peculiar, isn't it? But that's how folks are.

A fellow told us the other day of a county where some of the campaign pledges were not paid until after election, and everything was in the bag and the payers then proceeded to apply for jobs. This fellow rather facetiously said, "Do you think they would have paid, if we had lost the election?" Answer that one yourself.

Some folks will get peeved at some of the peculiarities we have pointed out in this little sketch. Now that will be just too bad. We hate to hurt anybody's feelings, but the situation of a Democratic organization being besieged by office seekers, is so unusual, that it's rather hard to get your bearings and you've got to be goldarned careful of whom you speak, to whom you speak and how and when and where.

Our Republican friends have wiped away their tears and on a while we even see a smile hover over their sad countenances as they see Clarence Miller, O. C. Worsham, Omer Lowe and some of the rest of us trying to keep impatient job-seekers in good humor.

WOOD FOR SMOKING PIPES

What American woods are the best substitutes for French briar in the manufacture of pipes is a question recently asked the Forest Service, of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Two shrubs found in California, manzanita and wild lilac, have burls which, the Forest Products Laboratory believes, are a very fair substitute for French briar. Of the two, wild lilac appears to offer the greater commercial possibilities, owing to the larger size of its burls and their more frequent occurrence. Qualities sought for in woods for pipe bowls are high resistance to charring, freedom from warping and cracking, attractive figure, ability to take color and polish, and a "sweet" taste in continued use.

WM. F. LODGE HEADS CENTRAL STATES FORESTRY CONGRESS

William F. Lodge of Monticello was elected president of the Central States Forestry Congress in convention at Louisville, Ky., last week.

Mr. Lodge will be remembered by many people of this community as one of the first speakers to address Democratic rallies in headquarters here in the recent campaign.

Next year the forestry congress will meet at the World's Fair in Chicago.

The Boy On The Corner

(By H. S. Butler)

The boy stood on the corner
The tears ran down his cheeks,
As the people gathered 'round
To no one once he speaks.

A man says, Son, What is it
That makes you look so sad?
What has occurred so recently
To make you feel so bad?

The little fellow then would sob
And how the tears would flow,
While everybody wondered then
What gave him so much woe.

Some said they guessed he must be sick
Some said he'd strayed from home,
Some said "I guess he don't live here
I guess he thought he'd roam."

And while they guessed 'twas this or that
The boy said not a word,
But all the time his sobs
Could be distinctly heard.

Then all at once some one spied
What seemed a bunch of hair,
It could be seen there was no life
In what was lying there.

Altho the boy said nothing
His eyes still filled with fog,
And everybody understood
An auto'd killed his dog.

And she has reared his children,
and kissed away their tears!
And she has seen him come and go through all the passing years
She knows his every mood and whim and what he likes for tea
And now he says he's done with her,
and oh, that bothers me!

She gave her youthful heart to him and he has drained it dry,
Time was the light of all his world
was in her laughing eye;
And she has grown s used to him,
but now they can't agree
And he declares he's done with her,
and oh, that bothers me!

She's run to get his slippers out,
she's mended off his coat,
On winter days she's stood to wrap his muffler round his throat;
She's nursed him countless nights and days as gently as could be,
And he declares he's done with her,
and oh, that bothers me!

She's the mother of his children,
all these years she's been his wife,
She must by now be part of him
and all his daily life,
She must be linked to everything
he touches or can see,
But still he says he's done with her,
and oh, that bothers me!

THE PRINTED WORD

Without a doubt the Democratic newspapers that kept peaching doctrines of Democracy through thick and thin, helped materially to bring about party success on November 8th. Now a Democratic newspaper cannot very well exist and function unless it has the support of those who claim to be Democrats, any more than a church can continue to exist and function unless it has the support of those who profess to be Christians.

After her grips were placed in her room, she became obsessed with fear that there might be a fire that night. Her room was on the third floor.

She stepped into the hall and started investigating. At the end of the hallway was a door. She opened it. It was the public bath and an old pompous man was in the tub.

"Oh, excuse me!" she stammered. "I thought this was the fire escape." She hurried back toward her room. Splashy footsteps followed her. She turned. There was the old man, looking like Lord Plushbottom and clothed only in a towel, "Where's the fire?" he excitedly hollered. —Adapted

Mattoon Booze Peddlers Involve Arthur White

Moultrie county officers were looking for Arthur White Monday evening. They wanted to ask him some questions.

Mr. White is on probation, following a guilty plea to a liquor charge in the county court some months ago.

The latter part of last week a Mattoon car drove into the Doner garage in this city. In it were a man and woman. That day Sheriff Lansden had received word from Effingham to be on the lookout for some criminals from that part of the state who were supposed to be headed this way. He dropped into the Doner garage to see if any strange cars had reported there. He found Mr. Doner in conversation with the Mattoon folks. He asked about strange cars and was told "I don't know these folks."

The Sheriff then questioned the Mattoon people. They were Peggy Margaret Ward and C. C. Sisk. A search of their car revealed four gallons of booze. They said that they did not own the stuff but had brought it to Sullivan for Arthur White. They further said that the booze had been left at their home by some man who brought it from downstate. They were told to deliver it here to Sullivan.

An information was issued against these people and, Judge Jennings being too ill to appear in court, Judge Thomas Kastel of Monticello was called here to preside.

Monday evening before Judge Kastel, the defendants entered pleas of guilty and told their story. The Judge gave Mr. Sisk 30 days in the county jail and assessed him his share of the costs of the case. The woman was given a fine of $50 and costs. Her friend whom she expected to pay for her, failed to appear and she too became a jail inmate.

The officers then began looking for Arthur White to see what explanation he had to offer as to why his probation should not be terminated and why he should not be sent to the penal farm, on sentence now hanging over him.

Skelly Announces a NEW "all in 1" Gasoline

SKELLY REFINERY ENGINEERS HAVE SUCCESSFULLY COMBINED

"Most gasolines are neither high test nor high anti-knock. A few gasolines are either high test or high anti-knock. New Skelly Gasoline is both high test and high anti-knock.

"Just one of these two qualities, high test or high anti-knock, makes a gasoline a good buy—makes it stand above most competition.

"But we were not satisfied to give you high test or high anti-knock. We were determined to jump out ahead of the field by giving you both at no extra cost. It took over six months of development work, more than $250,000 worth of refinery changes, months and months of road testing and experimentation by refinery engineers, to give you both in one gasoline.

"Remember these three facts when you buy gasoline:

"Most gasolines are neither high test nor high anti-knock.

"A few gasolines are either high test or high anti-knock.

"New Skelly gasoline is both high test and high anti-knock."

HIGH TEST
to Vaporize
Quickly for Instant Starting

When you want to start instantly with a cold motor, your gasoline must vaporize of its own accord. High Test Skelly Aromax Gasoline is built to vaporize without the help of motor heat—to get into full action instantly—to turn over the motor right now.

No "raw" gasoline goes into your motor. Step on the starter and a spray of vaporized, High Test Skelly Gasoline goes into your cylinder head—a vapor so fine that your spark "takes hold" instantly, and your motor is ready to pull you away without "warm-up."

The pans shown above demonstrate the difference between Aromax Gasoline and ordinary gasoline. Skelly Aromax Gasoline vaporizes more quickly because it is high test.

Winter Gravity as high as 72 degrees, varying with geography and temperatures.

JUST COMPARE IT WITH OTHER GASOLINES ON A HILL

HIGH ANTI-KNOCK
for Smoother Power on Hills

"Pop-off" gasolines give a shotgun-like "kick" with each explosion. That is why "pop-off" gasolines knock on slow hill climbs. They give the effect of a series of jerks.

New Skelly Aromax Gasoline, because it is High Anti-Knock, gives in every explosion a smooth, strong, silent push. Coming one after another, these send your car along smoothly, silently, and with far greater power. No "pop-off." No jerking. No knocking.

Just compare smooth, silent Skelly Aromax Gasoline with others on a hill. Your car glides on up without seeming effort.

The high anti-knock (high octane) rating alone of New Skelly Aromax Gasoline would put this new fuel out in the lead. Combining high test and high anti-knock, at no extra cost to you, Skelly Gasoline gives you the most for your money. Try it today.

Buck Jones Club Will Organize At Theatre Saturday

As our most valuable national assets our boys and girls must be treasured and trained. Not only the training that will help them to acquire wealth and social position, but that which will teach them to live in peace and happiness with their neighbors and in cheerfulness and contentment within their home, making them good American citizens.

Feeling that our theatre is more than just an amusement center; that it is indeed an integral part of the community we are forming a Buck Jones Rangers club, a national organization based on the pioneer ideals that founded our country.

In our program there is a special and vital place for parents. If your boy or girl is between the ages of six and sixteen your duty requires so little trouble or expense. Visit the club yourself, see what we are doing for your boy and girl. They will learn rope spinning, lassoing, story telling, and harmonica playing. Join the fun of the Rodeo and the Round Up.

Here is a movement worthy of your support. Consider that what your children put into this movement now will be worth more to them than dollars and cents later on. Fortunes may crumble! Ideals may be shattered! But character on a firm foundation—never!

Boys and Girls between the ages of six and eighteen will meet at the Grand Theatre, Saturday, December 3rd to organize a "Ranger club." Membership is free and those who become members are invited to see the show Saturday afternoon as guests of the management.

To become a member of the Buck Jones Ranger Club all are required to make the following pledge:

"As a Buck Jones Ranger I must be courteous and obedient to my elders.

I must study and learn. I must be courageous, honest, industrious, truthful and unselfish.

I must be a pal to my playmates and a big brother (or sister) to all boys and girls younger than myself.

I must keep my daily life as straight and clean and free from all knots and snarls as this, my lariat."

- Laws of a Ranger
1. Trusty as a Ranger.
 2. Loyal to Every Test.
 3. Helpful to a Stranger.
 4. Friendly to all.
 5. Courteous to all.
 6. Kindly to all.
 7. Obedient to Parents and Teachers.
 8. Cheerful in Work or Play.
 9. Thrifty in all things.
 10. Brave in the Right.
 11. Clean in thought, in speech and deed.
 12. Reverent to our Maker.

Speaking of Sports

pending county tourney. Reminiscing over yesteryears the following cage luminaries are brought to mind:

Lovington—Heinsch, Dean Hoover, Jay Dickson, Hewitt, Alexander, Armstrong, Milburn, Cook, Foster and Davidson.

Sullivan—Freeman, J. Smith, Carmine, Tabor, Kellar, Baker, Bishop, Nedden, Lundy, Wood, Dunscomb and Brumfield.

Windsor—Hennigh, Rose, Richardson, Nihiser, Rozene, Webb, T. Elliott, Duncan, Wallace, Storm, Curry and Lemmons.

Bethany—Reuss, Jim Ward, Logan, Cunningham, Rhodes, Snow, Walton, Oathout, Stables.

Arthur—Eads, Gregg, Fleming, Boyd, Folkerts and Tohill.

This list is to aid you in recalling old favorites and of course we realize that we have omitted many worthy performers who started prior to '26. One thing brought out by this list is that Windsor can point to twice as many really great players as can any other county schools. It goes without saying that handsome Jobey Dunscomb, the coach and ex-Sullivan boy, has yearly produced stronger teams in proportion to the town's population than any other coach in the state and that goes for Pop Dale, Guy Kintner and all the other highly publicized mentors. Off hand we feel safe in saying that Windsor has copped the Moultrie county banner no less than 5 times

At this writing (Monday) there is little news from the Red cage headquarters. The athletes enjoyed a two day holiday session and luckily there were no casualties resulting from over activity at the more or less, mostly more glutinous Turkey Day festivities. Friday afternoon most of the squad reported at the gym to sharpen up their somewhat blunt basket eye, which is the one phase of the game that the Reds are weak at. They have speed to run, floor play, team work, etc., but they simply must develop into accurate out-of-court shots if they expect to snare the nip and tuck affairs. Pete McDavid is an accurate marksman, as is Fritz Poland, but Fritz, as you know, will depart with the new semester. Right now there is quite a battle being waged between Richardson, Jack Poland and Kinsel for the center post left vacant by Earl Freeman. To date, Kinsel, who saw considerable service last year has a slight edge. After the football banquet practice will begin in earnest and much will be brought to light when Dennis' boys tangle with Decatur in a couple of practice tilts this week. Last year the two teams split even in their pre-season rehearsals.

On Tuesday, Dec. 6, Jobey Dunscomb's ever dangerous Windsor five will be here to inaugurate the cage season. For the first time in many, many years Windsor appears to have a rather weak quintet but with weeks of practice behind them they should furnish the Reds with a goodly bit of competition and who knows but what Jobey has a new crop of stars in the making.

Negotiations are under way for an inter-sectional game with Lincoln.

This is the open season for college grid stars to capitalize on their magic names. The Saturday Evening Post leads all periodicals with stories by Grange, Shaver, Dalrymple, Pinkert, Schwartz and Wood. Such accounts are of vital interest to your football fan and they also offer choice bits of employment to the Ghost writer—the one who really pens the article.

A funny thing—this Tribune trophy yearly awarded a Big Ten player who has proven most valuable to his team. No one school has yet had more than one player to win the trophy. Last year Pug Rentner ran wild through the Wildcats' opponents and was freely granted a post on anybody's and everybody's All-American eleven. Then after the season had closed, Tiny Engebretsen, unheard of by the average football fan was chosen as the Purple's most valuable player. This year Rentner was stopped in practically every game only to be named the team's most valuable. Just another way

Man Who Died At Poor Farm Left No Relatives

Mark Cabbie died at 1 o'clock Wednesday morning at the county farm where he had been an inmate since September 20, 1914. For the past four years he was totally blind. He was past 88 years of age, having been born September 23, 1844 in Roanoke, Va.

He was married but his wife died many years ago. He often stated that so far as he knew he had no living relative before going to the county farm he worked as a stockman. He was of Scotch-Irish descent.

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in charge of Rev. Lawrence. Burial was in Greenhill cemetery.

the football world has of honoring the college senior.

It may be a little early but just the same we remind you that during the Yuletide holidays there are to be some right merry battles out at the S. T. H. S. gym before a county champion emerges, and the old adage, "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" may be safely applied to Dennis' defending champions. The Windsor regime seems to be a thing of the past but over at Arthur Coach Coates has a mighty promising five headed by Bouck and Piper and at Bethany Coach Guy Cunningham will have his strongest orange and black team of recent years. Two big rough and tumble guards, veterans Smith and Mathias, will be back in their defensive roles. Tipword, an elongated red-headed letterman will handle the pivot post after Smith has executed the customary center jump. Mallinson, a well-built senior who played two years with Mahomet will occupy a forward berth where he will pair with the Sandy-thatched Doc Grabb, who is to their cage team what Bill Dwyer was to the Red's high geared grid machine. Last year as a Sophomore Doc tallied 375 points which gave him a first place in the Central Illinois scoring barometer and it is on his shoulders that fans pin their hopes of a brilliant season. He learned the game at an early age when habits are more easily formed—while other boys were dicker for candy and electric trains Doc was to be found in his back yard practicing the all-important fundamentals, dribble-pivot-shot. As a Freshman he had easily mastered these cage requisites but was too frail to play regular. Now as Doc flits about the court he displays perfect rhythm and smooth ball handling which to him are mechanical, the fruits of his dogged, untiring efforts executed way back in the grades. With a trifle more fight and a little better defensive play he would be a likely candidate for an all-Central Illinois team.

This column is open for contributions from prognosticators who believe they can dope out the county tourney.

You may not know it but—Jack Beynon, Illini quarterback, is a candidate for Ruby's basketball team. . . Bob Kamp who starred on the Illini cage team last year scored over 50 points for Mt. Vernon high school in a final district game. The Mt. Vernon team which was proclaimed one of the strongest prep teams of all time easily won the state tourney at Eaton, Bob Kamp, and Babe Kamp scored at will. . . Russel Ward, Bethany halfback about 8 years ago, kicked 17 out of 18 attempts for points after touchdown in a game against Blue Mound. Bethany won 118 to 3. . . Pete McDavid Red grid captain and basketball star is an outstanding scholar. Not far behind Pete comes Wiley another member of the championship eleven. . . Abingdon is not alone famous as the home of Gil Berry as LeMarr showed up well on the Illini Freshman football team, and Wiley, a great basketball star, is expected to find a place on the strong Wesleyan team. Both boys played on the Abingdon team which appeared in the state tourney a few years ago. Henry, who served as guard on the Titan team, is brother of Ernie Henry of the highly touted Benton team which suffered a defeat in their first game in the state finals last year. Ernie, a handsome blond, who did practically nothing in that Benton-Kewanee battle last year was lauded by Craig Ruby last week as the greatest prep cager he had ever seen—Strong words Mr. Ruby. Can anyone tell us what happened to Geo. Soper, the Peoria Central star who called by the Chicago Trib. 'The greatest prep player' . . . Ex-Eureka basketball stars Short, Sands, Craig, Cagle, Walker and Wasilewski have been playing with the crack century team which is now leading in the Decatur Industrial loop. . . Roy Hildebrand, ex-Latham cage star and now candidate for the state normal team could not walk or go to school until he was 9 years old due to infantile paralysis. . . LaRue Van Meter former Johnson City coach and now at Illinois college is blessed with a 7 foot center termed La-sier. A press dispatch in Sunday's Tribune states that Dick Davidson whose home is at La Place, Ill. would receive passes good for one year at a local theatre for being chosen as the best linesman at Center State Teachers' College. Dick was a star center on Lovington's basketball team a few years back.

A large crowd was at the high school Tuesday morning to get their first glimpse of the latest Red cage edition. Maybe we shouldn't call them Reds as they were forced to don white jerseys to avoid conflict with Decatur's scarlet clad athletes. Although billed as a practice game it was played under the exact conditions that prevail at a regular scheduled affair.

The fracas again proved that if a team makes frantic last minute efforts to score, instead of pursuing the orthodox style of play, then they will invariably lose the game. With two minutes to play and the score deadlocked the locals resorted to hasty long shots that were not lined up. One of the boys swung the ball down between his legs in pendulum fashion executing on of the old fashion "pull" shots which traveled over half the length of the floor. The entire team swept down the floor in vain attempt to toss in the sorely needed counter thus leaving their own goal exposed to the visitors. Impending scoring assault. Dogonski the boy with the retiring chin, registered the basket which put the game on the old ice block when he and comrade drove under the Red goal with Dunk the lone sentinel on duty. The Red garbed visitors could have registered more in the final frantic moments had they not been guilty of an assortment of fumbles.

Both teams substituted freely in an attempt to find a smooth working combination. Coach Kintner has 10 men apparently of equal skill which will cause him much deliberation when it comes to selecting a starting five. Don't think for a moment that the temperamental Gay wasn't craving a victory. The commodore timekeeper, Geo. Kellar, was kept busy in those final few minutes wig-wagging his finger in semaphore mesmerisms to let Kintner know just how the seconds were elapsing.

Both teams displayed frequent flashes of gridiron tactics which was to be expected. The Sullivan boys played far below their par and some strenuous drills will be necessary to round them back in to form. At times they showed signs of potential power and drive but as a whole their play was rather sluggish and basket eyes were decidedly off. All the boys were given a chance, thus two regulars Grote and Dunscomb played little more than half the game. Pete McDavid was by far the best man on the floor while Dwyer at times looked like a hard driving guard of the Ray Rex school. As the game got under way Pettit Scotty McGlasson turned jockey and began to ride Dwyer concerning his grid notoriety but soon gave it up as the chatter bothered our Bill not one bit. The game also indicated that Dennis needs a scoring center and that Fritz Poland will probably hold down a first string berth just as long as his eligibility is good. The diminutive Scotty McGlasson a star in both football and basketball displayed a fine floor game while a newcomer, Jensen, a six foot one inch blond looked quite promising.

Incidentally this is the first Redskin defeat that we've had occasion to write of. However, 'twas on a practice combat so we'll cross our fingers and wish that such an event will not re-occur.

GARDNER'S ACTIONS INSPIRATION FOR SONG

Some time recently Bill Gardner and John Lucas went to Bement to see a football game. The ground was wet and John remained in the car afraid of getting cold and wet feet. Bill did get cold feet when he learned of the admission price. He saw the game but because he was "scotch" and went in over the fence the boys at the post office have been razzing him. They sing a song that Charley Mac wrote about the event. Bill also sings.

We have been asked to write up Bill about this incident but because he's a good friend of ours, we've decided not to write a word about the matter. We'll keep it quiet to show us how to play golf—in fact he promised that ten years ago and, sad to say, we're still the poorest players in the club.

If you pass the post office and hear some ungodly noise and discord, it's not a fight or riot, but it is the boys singing.

they were unable to recover all of them. As the boys are not to be awarded their letters until the shirts are returned, it is very imperative that they all be located as soon as possible. The blame for this is attributed to the boys and anyone who can find a shirt and return it will find his efforts rewarded by their gratitude.

Tuesday was really a big day here at school. A basketball game was held with Decatur in the gym at eight-fifteen. Decatur beat our team 27-23, but the game was fairly close and exciting all the way through. All the students were present and their hearty cheers certainly sounded good. If all the students could turn out like that to regular games and cheer as they did Tuesday I'm sure all the boys would be so enthused that, even if they didn't win, the game would be well worth the effort. Students are selling season tickets which are priced so low that everyone can afford to buy one. Adults are selling for $1.75 and students for 75 cents. Everyone is urged to buy a ticket and attend the games.

An assembly program was presented Tuesday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wells. Mr. Wells played several pieces on the bassoon, saxophone, and banjo, while Mrs. Wells accompanied him on the piano. Mrs. Wells gave a very clever musical reading, and the two of them played a very novel quartet with the alto, tenor and soprano saxophone and piano. The program was thoroughly enjoyed by the pupils, and they encored the entertainers so many times that the teachers began to suspect that it was merely a ruse to get out of the last hour class. Ruse or not, it didn't work and the pupils were finally obliged to go docilely to classes.

A veteran game with Decatur is scheduled Thursday morning at 9 o'clock in the Decatur armory. No admission fee is required, and it will furnish an excellent opportunity for fans to see our team in action in a pre-season game.

Most of the teachers spent the Thanksgiving vacation at their home towns. They all reported a very enjoyable week end. If the teachers enjoy a vacation, maybe you think the students don't. Everyone had ample time to catch up on sleep and reading, not to mention the good times that a holiday always brings.

The mumps are all over town. Dulcie's mother has them; Maude's grandmother has them. See the victims in the Junior Class play, "The Mummy and The Mumps."

The film portraying the life of Alexander Hamilton was shown in the assembly Monday morning. It contained more history than any which have been shown heretofore. The early days under the Constitution, and Hamilton's cleverness in finances, which made the credit of the United States respected, were its main features. I believe we're really learning something from these pictures; they're much more vivid than the same material would be in printed form.

Band tryouts were held by Mr. Moore this week for a picked band to play at basketball games. The tryouts were made on a strictly competitive basis, and the band presented will be the best that the school has to offer. As is usual, a few upsets occurred and many of the old players were unable to make the grade. Several popular pieces and some old favorites are being worked up and during band practice, students in the assembly may be observed tapping their feet in time to the irresistible rhythm of "Goofus". ing personnel. Paul McDavid constituted the Red's offensive threat garnering 12 points. Pste augmented this with an aggressive brand of ball throughout. Fritz Poland also performed well dropping in two pretty out-of-court shots. Captain Herb Wilson, Donsoski, and clever Scotty McGlasson starred for the visitors.

Both teams were guilty of much fouling and many neat tricks were executed in the fray. Fast offensive ball was the rage and not once was the 10 second rule brought into evidence.

CHURCHES WILL OBSERVE UNIVERSAL BIBLE SUNDAY

Springfield, December 1—Governor Louis L. Emmerson urges the observance of Universal Bible Sunday on next Sunday, December 4, by the churches of Illinois.

The American Bible Society, an international and interdenominational agency engaged in the circulating of the Scriptures, and which last year put into distribution nearly ten million volumes of Scriptures in fifty different countries and in upwards of 200 languages has prompted Universal Bible Sunday for over a decade. Many churches in America and in foreign lands will unite in the observance of Universal Bible Sunday in order to emphasize the important place the Bible holds in the development of Christian life and character.

In commending Universal Bible Sunday Governor Emmerson says: "It is a privilege to commend the American Bible Society in extending the observance of Universal Bible Sunday."

No man can be educated who is not conversant with the Bible, and no one can have the peace that comes with understanding, until he finds that understanding in the promises of the Scriptures.

"Economic problems come and go, social upheavals threaten the nations of the world, and industrial plants are antiquated almost overnight by new discoveries, yet no matter what changes occur in government or in individual life, the Bible survives like a Gibraltar against which the winds of doubt and the waves of misbelief beat unceasingly, yet uselessly."

R. C. PARKS WRITES ABOUT TEXAS POLITICS
Houston, Texas,
Nov. 28, 1932.

Dear Ed:—
Please find enclosed the $1.50 for The Progress. Couldnt do without it. How do you like that for English?

In regard to "Ma" will say she is a fighter. She licked the big fat boy "Ross" at the polls three times and in three different courts. The fat boy or should I say fat HEAD, played the baby act and came out for the Republican candidate for governor, sat with him on the platform and asked his official family to bolt the ticket.

There are very few people outside of Texas that understand the Ferguson situation and I might state that about 40% of the people in Texas don't know what it is all about. Just about every one that had anything to do with the impeachment of Jim Ferguson is on the "Rocks" politically. You have never heard of any court actions against him. They did, at one time, trump up about twenty-one charges against him and when they went in before the court and set them out, the court asked the attorneys, if that was all they had to present against Jim Ferguson. When they answered "yes" he proceeded to give them a hot lecture. He said that he was ashamed for a bunch of attorneys to come before him with such flimsy evidence and expect him to take up the court's time with it. That was the last of that. I hope to see Jim elected Governor again in the near future. He is just a victim of 18th amendment.

Well, so much for that. You fellows surely did yourself proud in your elections and it did me good to hear the election news over the radio; a great deal of difference from four years ago. There are a lot of Republican politicians who will now find out that there is really a depression on.

With kindest personal regards to you and all my friends in Illinois I am,

Very truly yours,

R. C. Parks.

Farm Bureau

Eat Your Own Meat

Three cent hogs afford the farmer an opportunity to provide his winter pork supply at extremely low prices, provided he will slaughter, cut and cure his own hogs. Present hog prices supply cured bacon at approximately 8 cents, fresh loins at 6 cents, cured hams at 7 cents, fresh boston at 4 1/2 cents, sausage at 4 1/2 cents fresh picnic at 4 cents and lard at 3 cents per pound.

The above prices do not include any labor. A 4 cent steer or heifer if home slaughtered will provide porterhouse steak at 16 cents, sirloin steak at 13 1/2 cents, rib roast at 11 cents, round steak at 11 cents, chuck roast (including the arm) at 8 cents, rump roast at 6 1/2 cents, plate (including brisket) at 4 cents, and lean trimmings (hamburger) at 5 1/2 cents per pound. It usually is impossible for one family to utilize an entire beef carcass. However, 8 farmers may organize a beef ring. Each member contributes a steer or heifer for slaughter every two or three weeks and receives one eighth of the meat whenever an animal is slaughtered.

The Farm Bureau will hold a meeting and demonstration at the Illinois Masonic Home farm on Tuesday, Dec. 6 at 1:30 when Mr. James M. Stewart, Assistant farm adviser of Fulton county, who is temporarily with the college of Agriculture, University of Illinois, will demonstrate up to date methods of cutting and curing pork.

Last year a similar demonstration was held at the county farm at which more than 100 people were in attendance. It seems to be the custom according to Farm Adviser J. H. Hughes among many farmers in this county to rely upon someone else to prepare their meat supply. They do not seem to have acquired the art of cutting and curing their own hams and bacon. Some of the most delicious cures have been made upon the farm and there is no good reason why Moultrie county farmers should not be able to follow the practice successfully. This demonstration like all other extension meetings is open to the public and is not restricted to Farm Bureau members alone. The Illinois Masonic Home Farm is located 2 miles east of Sullivan on route 132.

Agriculture and Business

Dr. L. J. Norton of the Department of Agricultural Economics at the University of Illinois spoke on the above subject at the Farm Bureau office in Sullivan last week. He pointed out that the outlook for any product was determined largely by the general business situation. The central feature of this situation is the depression which has now lasted three years. There are signs that the bottom has at last been reached. The most important cause of the depression was the collapse in the general level of prices, which have declined something over 30 per cent since 1929. This decline represents a readjustment from the high wartime price level. Similar adjustments have followed earlier periods of war time prices. Many farm products have declined more than the general average and even though there is but little rise in the general average, prices of the most depressed farm products will surely rise from present levels.

As a means of getting out of the depression, a continuation of the program of readjustment of prices and costs all along the line is the most likely way. The most difficult part of this process is in connection with debts which were contracted at a higher level of prices. Difficulties in connection with these may lead to a drastic change in our monetary system. The idea that our difficulties are the result of a general surplus was stated to be untrue. We are not poor because we have too much, but because large groups of people have quit producing in efforts to maintain old levels of prices and because of a lack of balance between different classes of prices.

At a farm bureau meeting at Rosedale school Monday night, Oliver Schable was elected township chairman for Lowe township and F. W. Schuetz was nominated for director.

LOSS OF FIVE HERD SIRES PUTS HIGHER VALUE ON RECORDS

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 30. Illinois farmers, who get more than 16 per cent of all their cash income from milk, can thank four Will county dairymen for proving the value of herd records in saving outstanding dairy sires, it is reported by J. G. Cash, assistant in dairy extension at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

During the past year, records which these four dairymen obtained through continual testing in the Will County Dairy Herd Improvement Association revealed that they had been using five sires which were such good transmitters of efficient production that the daughters excelled the dams. Unfortunately, the bulls all had gone to the butcher before their value as transmitters of efficient production was established.

A. H. Grunewald, Joliet, was the owner of two of the bulls, while the other three were owned by F. B. Sayers, Orland Park; Basil Bennett, Lemont, and Glenwood Manual Training School, Glenwood.

Fortunately the benefits of dairy herd improvement association work did not stop with proving the value of the five sires which were unknowingly sacrificed to the butcher, Cash pointed out.

"Grunewald started testing in 1925 with a herd average of 241 pounds of butterfat a cow a year and $87.90 a cow returns above feed cost. In 1932 he had built up his herd average to 349 pounds of butterfat a cow, with the result that his returns above feed cost averaged $113 a cow."

"Bennett started testing in 1927 with a 211-pound fat average and by 1932 had increased this to 289 pounds. This increase in efficiency offset the drop in prices so that his returns a cow were practically the same in 1932 as in 1927."

"Glenwood School and Sayers started testing in 1928. Glenwood's record for the first year showed a herd of 47 cows averaging 255 pounds of fat, while their 1932 record showed 32 cows averaging 331 pounds. In other words, they were getting as much milk from 32 cows as they formerly did from 47. Similarly, Sayer's herd in 1928 averaged 310 pounds of butterfat a cow, while in 1932 his average was 473 pounds."

—Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Neville Barnett and son Jimmie, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Shanks and sons were entertained to dinner at the D. G. Carnine home Thanksgiving day.

—William Horn student at the college at Jacksonville returned to that city Sunday evening after enjoying the Thanksgiving holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Horn.

—Miss Evelyn Finley of Chicago spent Thanksgiving and the week end with her mother, Mrs. G. L. Todd.

A New "All-In-1" Gasoline Developed By Skelly Oil Co.

Fisher Oil Co., Announces New Product Which Is High Test, High Anti-Knock and Tailor-Made.

A new high test gasoline has just been announced by Skelly Oil Company, and Fisher Oil Co., distributor of Skelly products.

It is a new type of gasoline which, according to the announcement, is more than high test because it combines for the first time in one product the important advantages of high test, high anti-knock, and "tailor-making" for local conditions.

This combination of improvement is recognized as a revolutionary achievement in gasoline refining. As pointed out by W. H. (Buck) Fisher, of Fisher Oil Co., every motorist wants high test gasoline for quick starting, high anti-knock gasoline for smooth, silent power, and he wants a gasoline made to fit the temperature and other conditions peculiar to his state and community. The new Skelly gasoline provides all these in one motor fuel.

Skelly Oil Company has spent many months in refinery research and road tests and has spent $250,000 in refinery improvements to make such a gasoline possible. It is an "all in one" gasoline which already has become the talk of the oil industry and of motorists wherever Skelly gasoline is sold.

Send Out Test Cars

Mr. Fisher, discussing the new gasoline, said: "The efforts of Skelly research chemists to improve Skelly products are carried on continuously. The work on the specific improvements embodied in the new Skelly Aromax Gasoline began months ago. Besides the development work of many petroleum experts, it has been necessary to make refinery changes costing $250,000 to give motorists this new all in one gasoline.

"They have gone to a great deal of extra effort and expense in equipping a fleet of test cars with the most modern laboratory instruments they could buy. These cars have been traveling over all kinds of roads and through all kinds of weather to gather the facts necessary to make Skelly gasoline exactly right for each state and each community.

"The laboratory engineer in charge of each test car makes 44 observations each 15 minutes he is on the road and these facts—a total of about 10,000 each day from the entire fleet—are mailed daily to Skelly laboratory headquarters. This wealth of information, available to no other oil company, is the basis for making the exact type of gasoline to be shipped for given weather conditions in a given locality."

More detailed information about the new Skelly product, is given in large advertisements appearing in The Progress.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL HAS BEEN POSTPONED

The annual Red Cross roll call in this community has been postponed until after the Christmas holidays. This roll call is made annually before Thanksgiving Day. On that day it steps aside to give the Christmas Seal a clear field.

DECATUR NEWSPAPER MEN CALLERS HERE

Wednesday afternoon of last week Earl Smith, the main spirit in the newly organized Sentinel Publishing Company of Decatur was a caller at The Progress office. He was accompanied by the foreman of the Sentinel shop.

The company publishes the "Decatur Sentinel" a weekly newspaper. The first issues, according to Mr. Smith's opinion, have been a decided success, financially and in support given.

Mr. Smith is one of the city commissioners in Decatur and one of his pet projects has been a proposed municipal light and power plant. The slogan of his newspaper is "Always Guarding Decatur's Best Interests." He stated that he had noticed in Chicago and Decatur newspapers reports of the awards made to The Progress recently at the U. of I. Press Association meeting and he was seeking advice and pointers on how to get out an up-to-date weekly, mechanically and from every other angle.

—Harry Fultz of Villa Grove spent the week end with his family.

On Thursday and Friday nights of this week, see the Gigolo picture "Evenings for Sale." Also the Two Black Crows. An exceptionally good program is on tap these two nights.

Buck Jones

Saturday's show this week is a humdinger. Buck Jones in "Forbidden Trail" will make your heart throb a little faster and life seem more worth while. It is the spirit of the old west with plenty of comedy thrown in. Barbara Weeks is his popular leading lady and Mary Carr has a prominent part. There is a sheriff, a Chinese Cook, a negro man and lots of other interesting characters in the cast. Buck of course is the hero and Wallis Clark makes such an adorable villain. Frank LaRue who plays the part of "Collins" looks beery, no—not with hop-suds, but like Wallace Berry one of the most handsome and interesting men on the screen.

Edgar Kennedy will entertain you with a comedy "Parlor, Bedroom and Wrath" and as an added attraction there will be "Aesop's Fables." If only old man Aesop, who lived hundreds of years ago, could see his fables now! Omigosh!

Sunday and Monday

In the Sunday and Monday show you'll see not only picture stars, but radio stars as well. Among the air-agitators will be Burns and Allen, Kate Smith, Four Mills Brothers, Boswell Sisters, Arthur Tracy, Don Lovis and a number of disturbers who pose as orchestras.

The name of the play is "The Big Broadcast." Stuart Erwin stars in it and Bing Crosby, Lelia Hyams and others assist. The whole show consists of a number of episodes, put together, some comic, some tragic, some romantic, etc. It is said to be a picture that will appeal to the kids and if it does that the grownups will of course like it too, for the children, you know, are more up to date and discriminating. Here's something that is good—Zazu Pitts and Thelma Tood in "Alum and Eve" to this let there be added a Krazy Kat cartoon and a News Reel. As cats are never as crazy as members of the human race, we herewith raise a protest against feline desecration in these horrible cartoons.

What would we humans think if cats treated us that way? Huh! Did you ever think of that?

A Horror Film

Do you like horror for entertainment? Some folks, the writer among them, do, provided it is a screen horror only. On Tuesday and Wednesday night you can have your fill of scares, spine-tickling, hair-raising sensations, if you go to The Grand. "The Most Dangerous Game" is the name of the picture and from its very beginning to its satisfactory ending you'll hold on to your seat while your cold feet will shimmy in your shoes. Leave the kids home, says Mae Tinee. But come and enjoy yourself. It's different. It wouldn't do at all to tell you the story, it would take some of the enjoyment out of it for you. Joel McCrea, Fay Wray, Bob Armstrong and Leslie Banks, put the thing across in great style. There will also be comedy for dessert and Screen Novelties to steady your nerves.

Too Busy to Work

Will Rogers best screen acting is done as an indolent, philosophic nabo. Rogers gets right down to earth in his philosophy and his acting. You can understand him. He entertains and leaves a very wholesome lesson with you. Some years ago Ben Ames Williams, one of our favorite authors wrote "Jubilo". That's the story this picture is based on. It will be here on Thursday and Friday nights next week. Marian Nixon is the leading feminine character. Dick Powell is a lovin' kid. Patches on his pants, holes in his shoes, a song on his lips—just a tramp and bigosh it's Bill Rogers, America's most famous comedian. Mark this date on your calendar. Girls try to date up your sweeties for that night and you boys better hurry to date up your girls before more enterprising men beat you to it. There will also be some other good features on these two nights—but who cares? Isn't Rogers enough entertainment for you?

PURCHASED RESIDENCE

ILLINOIS CATTLE GET T. B. HEALTH EXAMINATION

Springfield, Nov. 30.—Two million head of cattle have been tested for tuberculosis in the state of Illinois, according to an announcement issued by the state department of agriculture. In bringing that number of cattle under inspection, the report stated, about 9,000,000 tests have been administered, as retests require the average animal to pass investigation four-and-one-half times. The prevalence of the disease has been reduced to less than one per cent, and about 150,000 cattle have been condemned during the advancement of the disease-eradication program, according to the announcement.

4-H CLUB NEWS

KARL AND HIS CALF

Karl H. Kainz, a 14-year old farm boy, got a start in 4-H club work with a $16 Holstein calf which recently landed him the title of Iowa champion dairy calf club member. Now he is 20 years old and his 4-H training has raised him to the rank of one of the most capable young farmers and citizens in his community.

The story of Karl's experience should make any farm boy ashamed of himself who thinks he has no chance in the world. Karl had more than a fair start in life. His grandparents gave him that. It was to take over the running of an 80-acre farm, or mortgage the farm and use the proceeds to get an education. Karl figured how he could save the money and also get the education he needed. That was by going in for a heavy 4-H program. It was the way he got the $16 calf.

The boy went in for all the dairy projects he could—raising and fitting a calf, showing it, maturing it as a milk cow, and so on. In six years of persevering work he knew more about dairying and farming that it might have taken him a lifetime otherwise. And he had a barrel of fun with it, to say nothing of all the interesting experiences of going to the shows and camps and all that.

Today Karl has a herd of seven milk cows and the young stock which he has not sold. He proudly exhibits some 40 prizes he has won on the herd, including two championships. He also won the trophy offered for having the best Holstein heifer in Clayton county, his home. This year he was champion county showman.

He has held the leading offices of his local and county 4-H clubs, and helped to organize them. He is a director in the county Holstein breeders association and a member of the county farm bureau. He keeps accurate records on his cows, both feeding and yield and some day the neighbors say he will be a great man in agriculture. And all from a $16 calf and plenty of pluck.

If you have a baby, you have constant need of this wonderful preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs. A child who gets this gentle stimulant for the stomach, liver and bowels is always healthier. It keeps children's delicate systems from clogging. It will overcome the most stubborn condition of constipation. It builds them up, and is nothing like the strong cathartics that sap their strength and energy.

A coated tongue or bad breath is the signal for a spoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Children take it readily, for it is really delicious in flavor. Taste it! Take Syrup Pepsin yourself, when sluggish or bilious, or you are troubled with sick headaches and no appetite. Take some for several days when run-down, and see how it picks you up. It is a prescription preparation which every drug store has ready; in big bottles, just ask anywhere for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

insisted. "There was quite a different look about her when she told me."
She lay still watching him with adoring eyes. Presently she said shyly, "Dennis?"
"Um?"
"You love me best in all the world, don't you?"
"What would you do if I said the answer was in the negative?" he asked, teasingly.
"Die," Pauline whispered.
"Then you may safely live," he assured her.
Pauline sighed and closed her eyes.
It was no use; she realized that nothing on earth would ever make Dennis romantic.

It was at breakfast the next morning that Barbara announced she must go home that day, 'home' meaning the queerly furnished flat in Greenwich where she kept the clothes she was not wearing, and slept when she was not staying in other people's houses. Barbara did not often come down to breakfast, but this morning she was standing looking out of the window when Dennis came into the room whistling.

When he saw her he broke off in dismay.
"Hullo! Couldn't you sleep?" he asked, with a poor attempt at humor.

Barbara met his eyes calmly.
"I lay awake thinking of you."

"So sorry," said Barbara, looking directly at him. "I came down for a book. I had no idea you were in. So sorry!" she added again, a little smile curving her lips. "Good night!" and she went away. Dennis looked angry. "Good-night," said Pauline.
"She knew good and well we were here," he said. "Damn the woman!" he said under his breath. "I told you I knew Barbara wasn't happy," Pauline informed him later on when she was lying cozily in bed. "I wouldn't tell anyone but you, Dennis, darling, but she does love someone—frightfully!"
"Half a dozen of 'em, I should think!"
"No—seriously, one!" Pauline she said in her charming voice.

Dennis flushed; not because he thought for a moment she meant it, but because everything she said and did for some reason or another irritated and annoyed him.
"Indigestion," he said briefly. Barbara laughed—she was very difficult to offend.
"No, we had a very good dinner," she answered seriously. "Spoiled by your vacant chair, of course, but otherwise perfect."

Dennis scowled and took up the paper. Barbara might be in love, he told himself, remembering Pauline's words last night, but that any man could possibly fall in love with her. . . .
Pauline came into the room at that moment.
"Why—Barbara!" she said, amazed.
"Yes—myself in the flesh," Barbara said calmly. "I had a wire this morning on urgent business, I must go back home."

"Go back! You haven't been here a week!"
"I'll come back—never fear! Your spare-room bed is too comfortable to forget," said Barbara.
Barbara was stirring her coffee with an irritating little tinkle of silver against the china cup. "I wonder if I may ring up for a taxi presently," she said.

"Dennis will drive you down," Pauline said quickly. "He has to go down to Albany on business this morning—you told me so last night," she added faintly, meeting her husband's annoyed eyes.
"I said I might have to," he answered.

"Well—you could take Barbara couldn't you?" Pauline asked.
"Delighted."
"Do you hate many people as much as you hate me?" Barbara asked Dennis later on, when they were driving away in the little two-seater car.

"People who hate well generally love well," Dennis said surlily.
"Yes," Barbara's queer eyes looked straight ahead down the road. "I should think you would make a good lover," she agreed.

Dennis jerked the wheel.
"I dare say Pauline could give you any information you require," he said.
"A lover and a husband—two different things," Barbara said, sweetly.
"Aren't we talking a lot of rubbish?" Dennis said with exasperation.

Barbara folded her hands in her lap with mock resignation.
"Very well—from now until our journey's end I am dumb," she said mockingly.

Dennis quickened speed. The journey could not be at an end too quickly for him. They turned onto one of the new broad arterial roads, and he let the engine out to its fullest extent. He never dared do such a thing when Pauline was with him. Presently he stole a side-long glance at her. She was sitting very still, perfectly controlled and unmoved. She was a strange woman, he thought, and almost angrily he wished he understood her.
Barbara suddenly touched his arm.
"There is a crossroad just ahead," she said in her calm voice. "I am not at all afraid, but you are driving rather recklessly, you know, and there is Pauline to consider, so. . . ."

Afterward he wondered stupidly what she had been going to say, but her words were lost in a chaos of shouting and confusion and the grinding of brakes—and then—struggling back to consciousness he heard her voice still, agonized, broken with tears—unlike the cool, indifferent tones to which he had grown so irritatingly accustomed.

"Oh, my dear—Dennis—Dennis—speak to me—Dennis!"
It was a dream—opening his eyes he was conscious of a confusion of sky and clouds from which Barbara's face wet with tears and white with dread bent over him.
So she could feel, after all! Pauline had been right, and she had a heart hidden away beneath all her artificialities.

Pauline had said something else about her, too. What was it? Oh, yes, with difficulty he sorted the words from the confusion in his brain—"She does love someone—frightfully!"
And then his own question: "Who is the poor devil, then?"
Who was the poor devil? In the midst of all his pain O'Hara was conscious of a maddening desire to know the name of the man.

Well, he would ask her! Surely to ask a simple question like that would not be wrong?
Barbara, whom he had never liked—whom he pretended to despise—this woman with the tears on her white face, bending over him, bending so low that surely her lips touched his, cool and fragrant?

Dennis O'Hara closed his eyes. He was in pain, in great pain—there was a heavy weight across the lower part of his body, crushing him. He wondered what Pauline would say when she heard—poor little Pauline! He tried to recall her face to his fading consciousness, but somehow he could only see Barbara's eyes and the tears on her white cheeks—only feel the cool fragrance of her lips on his, only realize through the sea of pain in which he was drowning that at last he knew the name of the man she loved.

Pauline was busy arranging fresh flowers in the drawing room when the news was brought to her. She was not feeling very happy. Barbara's sudden departure had hurt her and left her puzzled.
Pauline longed to be a perfect hostess as well as a perfect wife. Her anxious mind explored every nook and cranny of her household to find in what particular detail she had failed in hospitality, and reluctantly she decided it must have been her husband.

Dennis was never nice to Barbara. It was impossible to disguise the fact that he did not like her. This morning at breakfast time, for instance, he had shown only too plainly that he objected to taking Barbara in the car. It was too bad of him.

Pauline carefully arranged the red roses in a silver bowl—a wedding present. Only six months ago since she had unpacked it, together with a host of other lovely things. Only six months! It seemed a long time, and yet she knew people who had been married for sixteen years—twenty years, thirty years and even longer.

"I expect that time will go more quickly when we're really settled down and used to being married," Pauline told herself with a little feeling of satisfaction. A sharp thorn from one of the roses gave Pauline a nasty prick, and it was while she was busy wiping away the tiny bead of blood from her finger that the door bell rang.

"The postman!" Pauline thought as she went to the front door, but the little letter box was empty and through the glass panels she could see the burly outline of a man's waiting figure.

Pauline opened the door, then she caught her breath sharply, for the man wore an officer's uniform. He looked at Pauline with kindly eyes.

"Mrs. O'Hara?" he queried doubtfully.
"Yes," Pauline was panicky. Did she owe one of the tradesmen anything? She had always been so careful about not getting into debt. She was a thousand miles from the truth when the man reluctantly broke the news to her. "I am sorry to say there has been a bit of an accident. Gentleman by name O'Hara—"

Pauline thought she would have died on the spot.
Dennis hurt! Killed! "Oh, my God!" she whispered, white-lipped.

CHRISTMAS ON SUNDAY

Christmas day, Dec. 25th this year falls on Sunday. The Post office will observe Monday, Dec. 26 as a legal holiday and there will be no mail delivery on that day.

Why a Funeral Home?

WHILE we will, of course, serve anywhere, we always recommend the use of our comfortable, modern funeral home because it offers many advantages over the private residence as the most fitting place for the funeral service.

The private home is constructed for the activities of life and even in the hours of sorrow these activities must go on. Our funeral home is designed to meet all the special needs of this trying period with the greatest possible convenience and comfort.

Here everything is provided for paying the last beautiful respects to the departed in perfect freedom from the distractions of the residence and intrusion from without.

MANY ATTENDED "NIGHT OF MUSIC" SERVICES AT LOCAL M. E. CHURCH

A very large congregation listened to the Night of Music given last Sunday night at the Methodist church consisting of both vocal and instrumental numbers, and a brief talk by Rev. Lawrence on "The Universe, God's Symphony." The program was climaxed in a beautiful manner by three harp numbers given by Mr. Beganz of Lovington.

A different, but beautiful program will be given this Sunday night in the form of a drama-pantomime entitled, "The Wise and Foolish Virgins." Ten young ladies will represent the Wise and Foolish Virgins, robed in lovely colors, each carrying her little lamp. A blue light will glow on the platform permitting the virgins' lamps to distinctly show. Music will accompany the drama, coming from the balcony.

One week from Sunday night an "Old Time" service and program will be given. Among the program numbers will be a number of old hymns and songs sung long ago. The Committee is requesting that members and friends interested in this part of the program either phone in their favorite songs to Rev. Lawrence, or write numbers on slips of paper and hand them in at one of the services this Sunday. Any ideas for an "Old Time" service will be welcomed, and may be given to any member of the Committee, or better, to John McClure, the chairman for the program, or to Rev. Lawrence.

A beautiful Home Service is planned for the following Sunday night, and work has already started on the Christmas program which will be new and appealing to everyone.

—Newlywed invitation — Mr. and Mrs. Virgil F. Winnings of Bethany are invited to see a Grand Theatre show as guests of The Sullivan Progress.

—Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Isenberg and son James and Paul of Shelbyville spent Thursday with her sister Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hankla.

Smysor Had Big Men's S.S. Meeting Monday Night

Over 125 men and women attended the Men's Sunday school Ass'n. meeting held Monday night in the Smysor church. This was the first meeting of the association ever held in that church, though its men's class has always taken an active interest in the association's work.

It was decided to have the next meeting at Windsor on Tuesday night, January 3rd.

The Jonathan Creek Men's class won the banner last month, proved their ability to maintain interest in the association, by bringing a delegation of 16. This being the largest in attendance, they were again awarded the attendance banner.

Bruce Munson presided for the Smysor program. There were several vocal and instrumental selections, one of which was a solo by Rev. Marion Arterburn. Willis Vose of Mattoon made an entertaining talk. Bruce Munson gave a reading. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Stephen Owings, late of Litchfield, but since this week the new pastor of the Mattoon church.

—Mr. and Mrs. Tim Edwards of Whitley are enjoying the stock show at Chicago.

GOSPEL MISSION

Over the Post Office

Time of services the same. We are glad to report an increasing interest in the services. My soul shall be joyful in the Lord. Ps. 35:9.

We who are older know, both from experience and from observation that life is made up with many tears, the infant comes into the world with a wail and the old man leaves it with a sigh, and between the wail of the infant and the sigh of the old man are many, many tears, David experienced it, yet he said, "My soul shall be joyful in the Lord" the secret lies in the last three words of the text "in the Lord". Does it not bring joy to your heart when you think of your position in the Lord. John as he realizes his position in the Lord exclaims, "Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God." God's child, that is our position. If that does not fill your cup, then think of your possessions. "And if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ." And if that doesn't run your cup over, then think of the promises, the Bible is chuck full of them, and they are made to you, if you are his child. God has not said, we said we need not go through the waters, but he has promised that when we do, He will be with us. You may get in clear up to your neck, but it will never get over your head, if you are trusting in the Lord.

"REAL WINTER" PREDICTED

Chicago, Nov. 29—Chicago and other parts of the middle west, after two comparatively mild seasons, are going to have a real winter this year, according to the forecast today of C. A. Donnel, government meteorologist.

HUNTING and trespassing signs at Progress office, 6 for 25c.

Here it is December again. That is the month in which I was born. I'll not tell the date, but presents are welcome any time during the month. I have two nephews and one niece whose birthdays are on the same day mine is, so if I get more presents, than I can use or find storage room for, I'll give them a few. Thanks in advance.

All joking aside—and that's where joking ought to be—this month of December came in nice and gently on Thursday. It arrived right on time—the hour of midnight. November 1932 passed into history. And history will have a lot to say about this month of November and the 8th day thereof. The sun is shining today. Furnaces need but little coal. Roads are drying off and farmers are shucking corn.

This earth is a wonderful place once in a while, but everything considered, you just simply can't make a lady out of Mother Nature. You can't tell when she'll fly off the handle and blow a blizzard over the prairies or do other things that are not lady-like and genteel.

If you look at our market report today, you'll note that butterfat and eggs are going up. That's nice. But will you look at Leghorn roosters—2c per pound? Imagine buying all that wonderful comb and voice, that beautiful array of feathers and that virility and vitality at 2c a pound, an average of 8c a rooster. We have an idea—excuse it please, but here it is—Every red-blooded Democrat or son of a Democrat ought to have a victory rooster—a Leghorn. He could do the election crowing for him. He could train him to walk down the street with him and when he meets up with a Republican friend, the rooster could square off, flap his wings and crow lustily. If we can put this idea across, Leghorn roosters will be worth $2.00 a pound in a short time instead of 2c a pound as now.

On the of the nicest things under the sun was the International Live stock show in Chicago during the past week. Sorry we did not see it, but it must have been a wonderful sight—the exhibitors were the cream of the earth's human crop while their exhibits cannot possibly be excelled anywhere on earth. When better times come, you'll see poultry shows, livestock shows, 4-H shows and things of that kind leading the way. The problems of agriculture are not the producing of lots of inferior stuff, but how to produce superior stuff.

And now a word about banquets—we're going to one in Springfield tonight—to foregather and to exchange ideas with Democratic editors. Banquets are not unalloyed pleasure. We have attended some where the misery and punishment far exceeded the joys of the occasion. But that's life. If everything were just lovely and perfect, what a stale and uninteresting world this would be! It is by contrasting the bright spots with the dark ones that real enjoyment can be ascertained.

Clark Dennis at a banquet the other night said a mouthful. He congratulated his successful football squad but added these words: "The success of the past season is not measured by a championship won. Whether or not the season has been a success cannot be told until ten or fifteen years have passed and we see how the boys on this squad have applied to life the lessons they learned on the gridiron."

Here's a real radical thought. Is it really worth while to tinker around with outworn politician ideals and theories—is it worth the effort to try and patch up something that the world has outgrown, or would it be common sense to junk a lot of what we now regard as so exceedingly important, and rebuild anew?

William Jennings Bryan in 1893 said "Thou shalt not press down on this brow of labor, this crown of thorns; thou shalt not crucify mankind on a cross of gold." But the statesmen, led by Mark Hanna went ahead and did just that thing. Today the thorns are digging deep into the brow of labor, and industry and commerce, with their kindred activities, are most surely crucified on that golden cross. By their fruits ye shall know them. Bill Bryan was right lots of times, and when he made the above statement, (though we may not be quoting the words correctly) he spoke as the prophet Jeremiah of old when he predicted the downfall of Judah.
