New Court Action to Get Money from People Who at Any Time Owned M. & F. Stock Since Reorganization; Webb Hearing Recedes.

There were several important developments in the matter of liquidating the assets of the closed Merchants & Farmers State bank this week.

Tuesday before Master in Chancery O. F. Cochran a hearing started on the charges of banking irregularities filed by Receiver Gregory against John A. Webb. The receiver is asking an accounting on some of the former bank president's affairs with the bank. Mr. Webb while bank president conducted a private loan business of his own and bought and sold notes to the bank.

When this case was filed "The Progress" contained a detailed account of the more important charges against Mr. Webb. Most of the charges are based on information contained in a lengthy re-

Stock Brings Fair Prices at Local Community Sale

The cash receipts of the community sale at the Wood & Little sale barn in this city Friday amounted to $1950.50. There were no notes or time payments.

Livestock was the only thing offered for sale. It is a fact worthy of noting that farmers are not selling their farm implements.

There was spirited bidding on horses and mules and pigs sold fairly well. The offering of cows was not so good and they sold for anything up to $28.

A 7-year team of horses brought $157.50; a 9-year mule team went for $140.00. A 9-year old grey mare brought $57.00 and a black smooth-mouth mare found a new owner for $50.50.

Four good yearling calves brought $68. There was a ready sale for anything offered. Scows sold for around $8.00 to $10.00 and fair sized gilts went at $5.10 to $10.10. Shoats brought from $2.00 to $4.00, depending on weight.

A good crowd of buyers attended. While some of the stuff sold was offered by traders, most of it was bought by farmers.

BIG CROWD IN TOWN TO SEE "STATE FAIR"

The crowd in Sullivan Wednesday night was perhaps the biggest since band concert nights last summer, excepting Saturday night crowds.

What brought them to town was the desire to see "State Fair" the Will Rogers picture now showing at The Grand. For the first show the house was packed to capacity. Hundreds, unable to get in for the first show, were waiting in the lobby and in front of the theatre for the second show. It certainly did not look like depression times. Comments on the picture were favorable and Manager Hays expects two more big nights on Thursday and Friday when the same picture is being shown.

Wednesday was a day that made some of Sullivan's young men smile. Not only was it shoe factory pay day, but Illinois paid those who had seen National Guard duty at Taylorville, very substantial checks. It was a great Washington's birthday. The bank remained open to handle all of these items of big money.

Ledbetter Starts Co. Judge Campaign

Fred F. Ledbetter at the request of many friends has decided to seek nomination on the Democratic ticket for the office of county judge of Moultrie county.

Mr. Ledbetter was born in Bruce, Jan. 19, 1889, a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ledbetter. He received his high school training in Sullivan, graduating in the class of 1909 and later studied law in Chicago receiving the degrees of L. B. and L. L. M. He was admitted to the bar in Illinois in 1912 and practiced for several years in Chicago.

He is a veteran having served as lieutenant in the air force both as instructor and pursuit pilot.

Mr. Ledbetter says at this particular time of high taxes and exceedingly low incomes, the office of county judge becomes one of the most important in the county in order that tax difficulties may be settled justly and in the light of the new deal which the democratic party promises. Also the important duty of probate of estates devolves upon the County Judge of this county. Mr. Ledbetter has had extensive training in this field in the Court of Judge Horner, now governor of Illinois.

Mr. Ledbetter says this office requires a man of broad training and dauntless courage and he asks your support at the primary with the promise of equal justice to all and special privilege to none.

If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.—2 Chronicles 7:14

THE FUTURE — NOT THE PAST

New times demand new measures and new men; The world advances and, in time, outgrows The laws that, in our father's day, were best; And, doubtless, after us, some purer scheme Will be shaped out by wiser men than we, Made wiser by the steady growth of truth. The time is ripe, and rotten-ripe, for change; Then let it come; I have no dread of what Is called for by the instinct of mankind. Nor think I that God's world would fall apart Because we tear a parchment more or less; Truth is eternal but her effluence, With endless change, is fitted to the hour; Her mirror is turned forward, to reflect The promise of the future, not the past. —James Russell Lowell.

Government And Money

The American dollar is only as good as the American government.

A good definition for money that appears in a recent financial treatise is: "Money is an evidence of services having been rendered, which entitles the holder to the right to receive services of an equal value in return."

In other words, money in itself is of no value. It is what can be bought with money, that makes it valuable.

The American system of finance has been tried and found wanting. Anybody can realize that. There is no stability of value in American money, only as that value is given it by the government.

In the early days of the republic the financial wizards of that time developed the scheme of "hard money" and gold was placed on the pedestal as the financiers' god and we have worshipped gold ever since.

Gold was scarce. It was easy to control and consequently all money based on a gold standard was easy of manipulation by the men who made a business of dealing in money.

Times have changed but the love of gold and the worship and adulation by its slaves has increased. The big banking interests have held the economic destiny of a great people by the throat. They have permitted legislation only that might continue their control of the medium of exchange.

Under such management and control the country has come mighty close to going to hell and it topples on brink of the chasm of disaster today.

The American people are face to face with the gravest problem in their history. Old standards and ideals have been swept aside. The banking system of the country, except in the big financial centers, is on the rocks.

There is no need of telling the grief and woe that bests the land, as it is so apparent on every side.

The money powers have been able to do nothing in a constructive way. To save themselves they have curtailed credits and thrown the nations' industries and borrowers into liquidation and bankruptcy. They are scared to death. Politicians are up a tree, utterly incapable of shaking off the old fallacies of finance and still looking to some miracle that will save the country's financial system.

Many remedies are being proposed.

In the meantime the government is selling bonds and encouraging postal savings accounts, all of which ties up the liquid finances of the country just that much more, for every dollar thus invested is a dollar taken out of circulation and out of taxation.

What the country needs is more money—money backed by the government, gold or no gold. As long as the people have faith in their government, that government's money is good.

Such being the case, why can not the government issue about $20,000,000,000 in currency? With such currency it can retire government's bonded indebtedness and thus save an interest payment of nearly $1,000,000,000 a year.

Turn loose $20,000,000,000 in currency. Call in all government bonds. Balance the budget. Pay the country's debts and turn loose a stream of easy money—government money—into the channels of trade and commerce and the depression will be whipped to a standstill. Furthermore, the barons of finance—the high priests of the god of gold—will have to reshape their plans or go out of business.

If some such plan as this were followed the government and its financial structure would again be in control of the people.

The above plan is not a "Progress" plan, but it appeals to us as one of the best that has as yet been brought to our attention.

If this country is to survive, it must engage in dangerous experimentation. Putting patches on the present status of imbecility and financial chaos will not solve our problems.

Beery Days Will Soon Be Here

Each generation will solve its own problems in its own way. The present generation has decided to discard national prohibition.

The Congress of the United States has voted to submit an amendment for repeal to the 48 states. Ratification by 36 states will wipe the prohibition amendment out of the constitution of the United States.

There is great jubilation among the "wets". They see victory for their cause.

There are two kinds of wets. Those who are happy because they feel that alcoholic beverage will soon be easily and lawfully available and those who feel that the prohibition amendment was really a detriment and a setback to the work of inculcating the principles of temperance and sobriety. Of course there are other wets, all of whom have their own selfish interests.

But there were also two or more kinds of dries. The one kind, the most pernicious sort, were the busy-bodies who are always ready to reform people by law—to try to make other people like as they are. This kind was ready to replace the teacher and preacher of temperance, with a policeman's club and court procedure. The other kind honestly believed in the prohibition amendment and felt that it was a solution of the liquor problem. Bootleggers, gangsters and racketeers generally were also aligned on the side of the prohibition dries, because the law gave them a wonderful field in which to ply their nefarious trade.

Let us not forget the other type of citizen however—the hypocrite. This individual was for prohibition for the other fellow and voted dry. For himself, he secured and drank all of the booze he wanted. That situation was irksome. It was damnable to public morals. It undermined respect for government and it destroyed self-respect. That is why this sort of citizen finally voted to again legalize booze. He'll feel better doing his drinking when he knows he is no longer violating the laws of his country.

The liquor question is as old as the question of sex. Likewise it will always be with us. There is no ultimate final solution of it. Centuries from now people will agitate it. They will find some way to handle it and feel that it is finally definitely solved. It never will be. Each succeeding generation will reserve to itself the right to solve it as it sees fit.

Repeal of prohibition in the United States is just a passing phase of this problem. It is nothing to get excited about. When the liquor interests get too snooty and too domineering, they will spoil their own playhouse, just like the racketeers of prohibition days have done.

The pendulum of prohibition sentiment swings now to one extreme, then to the other. Drunkenness is always an evil. The drunkard is always the victim of his own folly.

We are glad that we lived in the ante-prohibition days. We have enjoyed living under the laws of Volstead. And it will be interesting to sit by and see just what is going to happen now.

"Lonie, vas vollen sie haben?"
"Fritz, gebe uns zwei glas Lager, Damit vier unser Durscht loeschen."

Information About Income Tax Returns

It is the desire of the Internal Revenue Bureau that the new provisions of the Revenue Act of 1932 shall be given the widest publicity possible, in order that persons who may be liable for the filing of an income tax return may not be delinquent and thereby incur penalties provided by law.

Many, who were not required to file returns for 1931 and prior years, will find they should file a return for the year 1932 because of the reduction in personal exemptions. The personal exemption allowed a single person is $1,000. The amount allowed a married person who has maintained that status during the entire year is $2,500. If there was a change in marital status during the year the personal exemption must be prorated according to the period involved in each case.

In every case where a single person, whether head of a family or not, has received a net income of $1,000 or more, or a gross income of $5,000 or more, a return must be filed.

Who Must File
If a single person is head of a family and is required to file a return because his net income equals or exceeds $1,000, he may claim on his return a personal exemption of $2,500, or, if the status changed during the year, the exemption allowed will be prorated between $1,000 and $2,500.

In the case of married persons a return should be filed if the net income is $2,500 or more or the gross income is $5,000 or more, except when the marital status has changed during the year a return should be filed if the net income equals or exceeds the personal exemption.

Dependents $400
A taxpayer may claim a credit of $400 for each dependent person under eighteen years of age, or who otherwise is incapable of self-support, receiving his or her chief support from the taxpayer. When there is a change of status of dependents during the year the credit of $400 must be prorated.

The credit for dependents should not be taken into account in determining whether a return should be filed.
All partnerships and corporations are required to file returns regardless of the amount of gross income or net income. The specific exemption of $3,000 which formerly was allowed corporations has been eliminated. There is no specific exemption allowed corporations.

By March 15th
All returns for the calendar year 1932 must be filed on or before March 15, 1933, in the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, Springfield, Illinois, or placed in the hands of a deputy collector of internal revenue. If the person filing is a resident of another internal revenue district, the return should be forwarded direct to the collector of such district.

Blank forms for income tax returns may be secured by making request of the Collector's office at Springfield or at the branch office at East St. Louis and Pekin.

It is important that returns be filed as soon as possible in order that they may receive early audit and that congestion of work may be avoided near the close of the filing period.

When The Pavement Is Slick

(By H. S. Butler)
If you're driving on the concrete
When the slab is covered o'er,
And you can't see the black line
Although you pore and pore.

It is time then to be careful
And it's time to curb your speed,
For ice and snow are treacherous
And may to sorrow lead.

And some time you may hear one say
He can control his car,
That he can stop it any time
And not go very far.

But when there's ice upon the slab
The brakes don't mean a thing,
And if they're suddenly applied
Hark: Hear the angels sing.

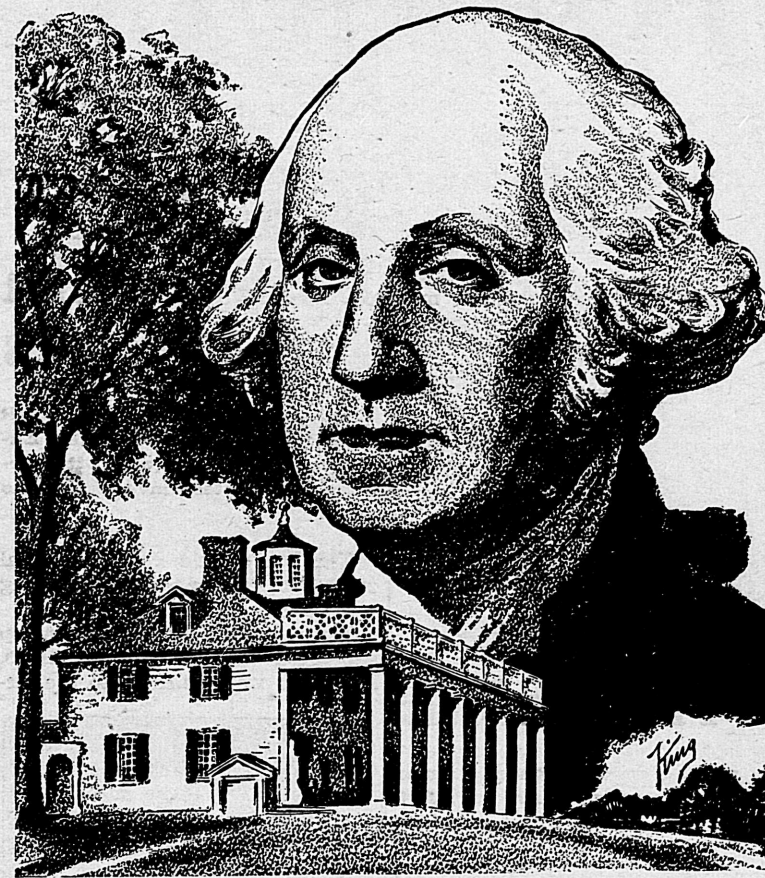

So then it is much safer
To stop and count the cost,
For driving somewhat slower
Does not mean time is lost.

And it might save some pastor
A sermon unexpected,
And keep a lot of relatives
From being so dejected.

If you drive your car with care
It will count you with the sages,
And not compel some church choir
To sing softly "Rock of Ages."

Nature and Fortune Never Made A Better Man

Thomas J. Wertheimer in Current History

ONE of the recent biographers of Washington has given us so just and true a picture of the man as that drawn by Jefferson more than a century ago. "I think I knew General Washington intimately and thoroughly," he said. "His mind was great and powerful, without being of the very first order; his penetration strong, though not so acute as that of Newton or Bacon or Locke, and, as far as he saw, no judgment was ever sounder. It was slow in operation, being little aided by invention or imagination, but sure in conclusion. Hence the common remark of his officers, of the advantage he derived from councils of war, where hearing all suggestions, he selected whatever was best. . . . He was incapable of fear, meeting personal dangers with the calmest unconcern. Perhaps the strongest feature in his character was prudence, never acting until every circumstance, every consideration, was maturely weighed; refraining if he saw a doubt but, when once decided, going through with his purpose, whatever obstacles opposed.

Hearing All Suggestions, He Selected Whatever Was Best.

"His heart was not warm in its affections, but he exactly calculated every man's value and gave him a solid esteem proportioned to it. . . . It may be true he said that never did nature and fortune combine more perfectly to make a great man and to place him in the same constellation with whatever worthies have merited from man everlasting remembrance."

After all has been said, it was Washington's character which was supremely great, which was responsible for the greatness of his achievements. In the Revolution it was the trust in Washington which held together a faltering and discouraged people, which tided the country over the darkest hours which was responsible for the eventual victory.

After peace had been won it was this trust in Washington which made it possible for a disunited people to attain enduring strength and unity. There have been greater generals than Washington, greater statesmen; there has been no greater character. When the writings of his detractors have passed into obscurity his memory will remain what it has always been, a sacred legacy to the American people.

Washington's Family

George Washington's mother was Mary Ball, said to have been a lineal descendant from John Ball, medieval champion of the rights of man. Her mother was Mary Montague, who, as "the widow Johnson," was married to Colonel Joseph Ball. Her grandfather was Colonel William Ball, who emigrated to Virginia in 1650, and settled in Lancaster county. George Washington's father was Augustine Washington, the grandson of Lawrence Washington and the great-grandson of John Washington, who came from England about 1650 and settled in Westmoreland county, Virginia. The English ancestry has been traced back through Laurentia Washington, father of Lawrence, several generations to the Sulgrave branch of the family.

Lord Cornwallis' Army Disorderly on Surrender

At the surrender of Lord Cornwallis his British soldiers presented a brilliant contrast to the Americans. Cornwallis had ordered that a new uniform be issued to each man and that in marching out of the spacious field at Yorktown each company conduct itself in strictest order, even to the humiliating end when the arms were to be grounded. Doctor Thatcher, a surgeon in Washington's army, wrote of that October 19, 1781:

"But in their line of march we remarked a disorderly unsoldierly conduct; their step was irregular, and their ranks frequently broken. But it was in the last act of the drama that the spirit and pride of the British soldiers were put to the severest test—here their mortification could not be concealed. Some of the platoon officers appeared to be exceedingly chagrined when giving the word, 'Ground arms,' and I am witness that they performed that duty in a very unofficer-like manner, and that many of the soldiers manifested a sullen temper, throwing their arms on the pile with violence, as if determined to render them useless. This irregularity was checked by order of General Lincoln." (The latter had been delegated by Washington as the American in charge of the capitulation.)

"The Americans," Doctor Thatcher related, "though not all in uniform, nor their dress so neat, yet exhibited an erect soldiery air and every countenance beamed with satisfaction and joy."

Washington Memorial National Carillon

The photo shows the Star Spangled Banner national peace chimes, known as the Washington Memorial National Carillon—first large American carillon made in America by American bell-makers. On the extreme right is the latest addition to the shrine being installed.

Brandy Sauce

Prof. Glenn Kilby is dean of men at the STHS. The other day one of the bashful students wanted to see him. He came to the office and bashfully asked Miss Emel "I wanna see Mr. Kilby. Is the bean dizzy?"

A friend asks: "Are you setting a good example—or just setting?"

This happened when John Pence was a little fellow. A schoolmate of his saw him on the street and greeted him: "Dearie" said her mother, "Who is that boy?" "That is Johnny" the tot replied. "His whole name is Johnny Sitdown—that's what the teacher calls him."

If newspaper advertising ever adopted the silly tactics that are used over the radio—Uncle Sam would bar the papers from the mails.

"Why has Uncle Joe such a long neck?" inquired a little girl. "That's easy" said her brother, "How else could his head connect up with the rest of his body?"

Another thing that don't help conquer the depression: years ago when the boys went to see the girls, they were entertained and given nice home-cooked meals. Nowadays the giddy girls trlp out into the gas buggies and the boys take them to swell eating places and blow their dough.

Harry Sumner—"My son, I hear you have been most recalcitrant." Harold: "Be yourself, Pop, you have been doing crossword puzzles again."

There's no telling how long Methuselah might have lived if his appendix and tonsils had been removed, and he'd used the right brand of tooth paste and smoked coughless cigarettes.

The head of a large department store was passing through the packing room one day when he saw a boy lounging against a wooden box, whistling cheerfully. The chief motioned the boy to follow him into his office.

"How much do you get a week? he barked?" "Ten dollars, sir." "Then here's a week's pay—get out!"

When the boy had left, the boss summoned the foreman of the packing department. "When did we hire that boy?" he demanded.

"We never hired him," came the astonished answer. "He just brought in a package from another firm."—Labor.

GIVE ME THIS
Instead of riches give to me Eyes, the great good things to see The golden earth, the jeweled sky, The best that in all things doth lie.

Give me this—the song of bird— In lovely wood, at sunset heard— Piping of his evening hymn 'Mid a leafy twilight dim.

Give me this—a stream that wind-eth Where the sighing willow bendeth. Singing through the woodland ways Never ending songs of praise.

Give me these, with eyes to see— And richer than a King I'll be. —Labor.

Lee Roughton: "One of my Springfield friends is an Elk, a Moose and a Lion."

Richard Duncomb: "Gosh, and what do they charge to see the circus?"

"Why" asked one of the Sullivan boys in army service, do they call us fellows who have to peel potatoes K. P.'s?" "Huh" grunted his buddy, "but yer iggermant! K. P. means keep peeling, keep peeling."

One local young man remarks: "Kissing a girl is like opening a bottle of olives. The first may come hard, but it's a cinch to get the rest."

Sign in a St. Louis cafe: "We know your check is good, but we don't trust the banks."

The Atlanta Journal says: "We favor, not the proposed five day week, but a five-day week-end."

Eddie Cantor says: "Adam and Eve were the first bookkeepers. They invented the loose-leaf system."

In these days it is necessary for a business man to plan his work and then work his plan.

With deep anguish, he begged her to reconsider her answer. "It you don't marry me I'll blow my brains out," he vowed.

"Oh, would you, really?" she gurgled. "I wish you would do it. It would be a great joke on father for he thinks you haven't any." —Pathfinder.

At the THEATRE

If we were called upon, with what limited knowledge we have to pick the silliest picture title of any show that has ever appeared at The Grand it would be "The Half Naked Truth" which showed here Sunday and Monday. There was nothing whatever in the picture to entitle it to a label or label of that kind. It was a good clean picture, well portrayed. Lee Tracy and Lupe Velez and Eugene Pallette put on a good show and those expecting to see a lot of "nakedness" must have been sorely disappointed.

"Hell Fire Austin"

There is a lot of sameness in these Westerns and it's hard to pack a new thrill into the performance or a new word into the write-ups of them. There is always the intensely heroic good man and the awfully bad man. Then there is the good cause which must be upheld though half of the actors are killed in doing it and the reward of the hero is the beautiful girl. We contend that the real actors in this sort of pictures are the horses and the white headed Herefords. In Saturday's picture the hero is Ken Maynard who plays the part of "Hell-Fire Austin." If you like Westerns, you'll like this one for 'tis said to be filled with "swift action and dynamic drama." As usual there will be the comedy trimmings to the program. Bargain prices still prevail until 6 p. m. The show is continuous from 2:30 on.

"The Penguin Pool Murder"

This Sunday and Monday attraction is something out of the ordinary. The leading characters are usually comedy stars, and here they appear in the main event. They are Edna May Oliver and James Gleason. The latter is a smart police inspector and the former a schoolmarm. Gerald Parker was murdered. Who did the dastardly crime and dropped the body into the penguin pool? That's for you to see and learn. The whole show is not nearly so lugubrious as the title indicates, but it is a riot of wise-cracking and mystery. Also you will see Louise Fazenda in "Key Hole Kate," there will be a popular cartoon and reel.

This must be a week of out-of-the-ordinary plays for Tuesday night only there appears on the screen at the Grand a presentation that "vividly portrays the world famous glamour of the brilliant crime frustrations conducted by the French Surete." There is lots of Romance and Revolution packed into this sketch. The delicious Gwili Andre is the heroine. Other players come from New York, Liverpool, London, Russia and Bavaria. We looked the list over—there do not seem to be any Frenchmen.

Another one of those dandy "Magic Carpet" series, a comedy and a Tom and Jerry Cartoon.

Wednesday and Thursday

"Child of Manhattan" is the moniker of the Nancy Carroll-John Boles picture which is booked for Wednesday and Thursday of next week. May Tinee in the Chicago Tribune had the following to say about this picture:

"Now I don't know what your reactions will be, but I think that in "Child of Manhattan" Nancy Carroll gives her best performance since she surprised and charmed us in "The Shopworn Angel." "Her present vehicle is a romantic little drama distinguished by considerable shrewd comedy, a generous measure of suspense, plenty of the good old heart interest, much excellent acting, and commendable direction which missed only two bets. John Boles, who CAN sing, should have been made to sing—at least one song. Charles "Buck" Jones over-acts. As to that last, though, I'm not so sure. Perhaps this accentuated characterization and line delivery are intended as burlesque. If so—okay by me—though I still don't see why there was any necessity of it.

"The story concerns the immensely wealthy widower, Paul Vanderkill, who fall head over heels in love with a little dance hall hostess. Madeleine is ignorant, she is low born, but the grace and sweetness of her, the gallant heart and clean eyes of her bowl him over for keeps. In return Madeleine loves him truly and gives herself unreservedly, without benefit of clergy—for Vanderkill feels he cannot marry her on account of his social position and a young daughter.

"Comes a day when the girl in her luxurious apartment discovers that a "blessed event" is imminent. Paul insists then an a secret marriage, and happily the two make elaborate arrangements for the expected guest.

He comes. He dies. And Madeleine, loving Paul as she does and feeling that now she has no right to the name given her in her extremity, disappears from her husband's sight.

From here on the yarn is spun into a pattern that is arresting, etc., etc."

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

By Elmira Scheer

This week is "Retrospect Week." The Seniors are putting on quite an extensive campaign to sell their annuals, because, as Mr. Abell says "We've got them, and we've got to get rid of them." Well, we are doing our best. Every one out here is dodging the Seniors, but you can't blame them since every Senior has his favorite sales talk which he likes to exhibit at every opportunity. We do expect to put out an excellent "Retrospect" this year, and as they are selling for only $1.25 everyone can surely afford one. Any senior will be glad to take your order. A large thermometer has been erected in a conspicuous place in the assembly to record the number of "Retrospects" sold this week, and the seniors are watching the red line anxiously. Maybe you don't believe it, but we want to sell these "Retrospects."

The student body of the Sullivan Township High school wishes to extend deepest sympathy to the students of the Bethany High school at the death of their classmate, Tommy Bone.

We have several radio artists right in our midst, but nobody really appreciated them until we heard their broadcast over WDJ Monday afternoon. The program was put on as an advertisement for the "Retrospect" and the whole student body was ushered in the assembly at 2:30 to listen to it. Pete McDavid announced the following program:

Boys Quartet — Hugh Grote, Dean Harshman, John Pence and Bill Fleming — "Home on the Range" and "Passing By."

Mabel Colclasure and Rhoda Belle Duncan "A Little Street Where Old Friends Meet" and "Just a Night for Meditation."

Beatrice Hill—"Venetian Love Song" and "The World is Waiting For the Sunrise."

Hugh Grote and Dean Harshman—Popular Medley.

Bill Fleming—"Asleep in the Deep."

Hugh Grote "Little Mother O' Mine."

They received phone calls from Dave Cummins, Jessie Buxton, Grote's Garage, Meeker's Confectionery and Friends in Council.

Even the pictures that are shown every other week are not free from "Retrospect" advertising. Several very clever slides were shown this week demonstrating how necessary it is for every student to own a "Retrospect." The pictures were on the "Puritans" and the "Life of Washington." They were both very good, and the one on the "Life of Washington" was especially appropriate, as we give quite a little thought to the "Father of Our Country" during the Months of February.

Well, Bement beat us again. I'm afraid it's getting to be a habit with them. Everyone was hoping to give Bement a thorough drubbing in revenge for the defeats we have already sustained at their hands, but we took our beating good-naturedly. We don't want any one to say that we aren't good losers.

The Inter Mural tournament has progressed to the semi-finals. In the preliminary games the scores were:

Long John's, 14; Cardinals 22. Polecats, 19; Depressions, 16. Sharpshooters, 15; Sinkers, 10. Speed Demons 10; Zippers 11.

Several startling upsets have been staged, and the gym is a scene of excitement all during the noon hour. One day several members of the band came down and added a little melody to the riotous cheering. They played school songs, and everyone stood up and sang as well as they do at a real game. Joe Purvis attracted attention from the game by his maneuvers in leading the band. It looks as if Mr. Moore has a dangerous rival in Joe.

We had a new set of twins out here Monday. Two of the teachers came to school dressed in identical frocks. When teachers insist upon looking as nearly alike as possible, how can you expect mere pupils to tell them apart. I wonder if any of the Freshmen English students reported for cooking classes.

Grace Spaugh has been absent from school on account of illness. We're all glad to see you back again, Grace.

Woman Lost 20 Pounds In 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo. writes: "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and further more I've never had a hungry moment."

For you health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at any drug store—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back. Adv.

Diet Didn't Do This!

HAPPY little girl, just bursting with pep, and she has never tasted a "tonic!"

Every child's stomach, liver, and bowels need stimulating at times, but give children something you know all about.

Follow the advice of that famous family physician who gave the world Syrup Pepsin. Stimulate the body's vital organs. Dr. Caldwell's prescription of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs is a mild stimulant that keeps the system from getting sluggish.

If your youngsters don't do well at school, don't play as hard or eat as well as other children do, begin this evening with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This gentle stimulant will soon right things! The bowels will move with better regularity and thoroughness. There won't be so many sick spells or colds. You'll find it just as wonderful for adults, too, in larger spoonfuls!

Get some Syrup Pepsin; protect your household from those bilious days, frequent headaches, and that sluggish state of half-health that means the bowels need stimulating. Keep this preparation in the home to use instead of harsh cathartics that cause chronic constipation if taken too often. You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store; they have it all ready in big bottles.

STOCKHOLDERS OF RECORD WILL BE ASKED TO PAY

port compiled by a Springfield firm of public accountants who made an audit of the bank's affairs after its close.

During the hearing Tuesday records and bank books were introduced by the attorneys for the Receiver. These attorneys are Thomas Samuels of Decatur and George Sentel of this city. After these records were placed in evidence, Ralph Turnbull of the auditing company presented his report and was questioned relative to it.

Former cashier J. F. Gibbon was also a witness during the hearing. He testified that all of the loan business of the bank was handled exclusively by J. A. Webb.

At the close of the day's hearing, Attorney McLaughlin and Raymond D. Meeker, representing Mr. Webb, asked for a two weeks' recess in order to enable them to go over the records presented. This request was granted and the hearing will be resumed Wednesday, March 8th.

Old Stockholders
Another important development was the filing of a supplemental bill on stockholders liability. This bill names all persons who owned stock at any time since the bank's reorganization.

Summons were issued to bring such former stockholders into court. There are a great number of such stockholders. They bought stock at time the bank was reorganized and later resold it to other parties. The fact that they disposed of their stock in this manner, does not relieve them of their liability, according to recent court decisions.

When summons was served on these former stockholders it naturally was not a pleasant sensation. There are reports that efforts will be made to resist any liability being saddled on them.

Checks Delayed
The dividend checks on stockholders liability money recently authorized by court will doubtless be delayed a few weeks until judgment against stockholders can be placed on record in the court. This judgment will except those who have already paid their liability.

THIS MATTER OF KEEPING NAMES FROM NEWSPAPERS

Several young men living in the northwestern part of this city were caught stealing coal from Wabash cars.

For some reason or other the local officials handling these cases are said to have made a promise that the names were not to be made public. They have lived up to that promise, although they have no legal right to make any such promise and the dockets on which these cases are entered are public property.

Only because these promises were accepted in good faith by the coal stealers, does The Progress refrain from using the names in this issue.

One of these young men called at the office and stated that: "We were told that it was against the law to put a man's name in the paper when he got into trouble, if he asked to have it kept out." There is no such law. The Progress publishes names which appear on court records whenever it feels justified in doing so. Court officials have no moral or legal right to interfere with such publicity.

What the petty thief fears more than a little fine and arrest is the publicity that will result. Nearly everybody in town knows who the men were who were arrested and fined.

Newspaper publicity is a deterrent to crime. In this particular case, the names of the culprits are being temporarily withheld, because they were evidently given to understand that such would be done, and not through any fear or favor that The Progress may care to show.

Officials can best serve the public in crime prevention, not by withholding names, but rather by assisting in giving misdemeanors the wildest and most thorough publicity. Any favor shown a law-breaker, be he coal thief or otherwise, is not helping the public any. The public is entitled to the facts when a law violation occurs. Officials who try to shield law-violators are not playing fair with the public.

Bement Again Walloped the Reds; Monticello Finds Them Easy

Bement 35 Sullivan 28

By Jim Scott

Last Friday evening the Boogie man, Rex Millikin and his Bement tossers renewed their mastery over Clark Dennis' Reds by whipping them 35 to 28 in a rough hectic tilt thus completely snuffing out whatever hopes the local may have entertained in regard to an Okaw cage crown. In succumbing for the third time to these purple garbed tarters, Sullivan passed up an excellent opportunity of getting back into the title scramble as Arthur High quite unexpectedly took it on the nose the same night from Atwood's mediocre five. Monticello's 30 point rout of Bement the week before had set the Reds up as prime favorites but once again they came through with a careless, wild exhibition and were practically counted out in the third period when Dwyer and Dunscomb were ejected with their fourth foul.

The fracas was a replica of the previous Bement shalackings, marked by a maximum of rule infringements, fast aggressive ball, and wild passing and loose defensive work on the part of the tossers. The two contingents warred on such even terms throughout the opening half that the heat of the onslaught seemed to impart a kind of competitive spirit among the boisterous near-capacity throng and more than once they forgot their proper cage etiquette.

They're off
The Scarlet were off to an auspicious start but Bement steadied and chinking with precision at the free throw stripe assumed an 8 to 5 lead at the initial stanza. At the opening of the second period the Redskins uncorked the most violent scoring spurge this winter has ever witnessed. Taking elongated Bill Kinsel's tips from center they swept down the hardwoods like a runaway juggernaut to register 5 baskets in the first minute of play, which, believe us, is offense as James Naismith intended that it be. McDavid, Grote, and Dwyer tallied in the first 32 seconds and then after Grote had missed a charity throw Dwyer and Kinsel charged in with two more before the first 60 tick-tocks had elapsed. Trailing 15 to 8 at this point the visitors remained cool and unconcerned apparently confident that as a jinx they would be on top at the end. This sudden whirlwind scoring spurge was the lone bolt in their offensive guns and after its exposure the visitors forged ahead by augmenting their parade to the free throw stripe by close in baskets. The midway interlude found the Bementers a single point in the van of their erstwhile pace-setters. In the third chapter the local defense fell asunder permitting the Piatt county snipers to romp in for easy baskets that settled the argument.

Bement Shows Class

Bement appeared as the best coached team that has shown on the local floor for some time. Refusing point-blank to fire from long range they employed the same formation that gave them so many close shots in the first two meetings between the two contenders. This play, which was destined to aid them in again lifting a Redskin scalp, has curly-haired, husky Chapin "Sadie" Barnes who incidentally was "playing" his swan-song to prep competition as on the morrow he was to celebrate his 20th birthday, established on the free throw stripe. From this point he pivoted back and forth and served as a "feeder" to his mates driving in from either side. The Tribe was unable to fathom a way to block this scoring vein and whenever they did succeed in keeping a close check on the cager who drove in, then Barnes would spring into the air to bring his specialty, a one-handed push shot, into play. But it was Jack Gregory, however, who stood out in the Purple's play. With little assistance this versatile gentleman—and we mean just that—supplied his team with the necessary counters to hold the lead at the half recession. His contributions during the first half were 3 baskets and 5 gift shots. Bement should not be so greatly weakened by the loss of Barnes as all season Millikin has been grooming Jack's younger brother, Marvin Gregory for a starting berth. The rookie was inserted in the second half and came through with a sterling floor game and also was not one bit reticent in driving in under the hoop. Diminutive "pest" Welch, monickered after Purdue's great half, dumped in three baskets in the latter portion of the game to show purple heels to fast fading Redmen.

Lots of Free Stuff

The conflict was about roughest of the season with 42 free throws awarded by referee Marfel. The winner's offensive formation offered many dribble in shots and as a result the hosts were fouling to prevent the forthcoming basket. Bement converted 15 of their 28 attempts while the Dennismen flushed a deadly potency on their more limited number hitting 10 out of a possible 14. Gregory had 5 chances in the maiden half and made them all good while Pete McDavid sank his 4 donations coming throughout the tide of battle. Kinsel rang up a half dozen counters from his 8 opportunities while Barnes finished with an even-stephen rating on his 10 heaves. At the half all of the Red regulars save Kinsel were charged with 3 personals apiece and final tabulations credit them with 19 rule infringements.

McDavid Shines
Captain McDavid was the more lustrious of the two bright spots in an otherwise drab group, garnering 12 points for his bit to the teams total and directing the play throughout. Two of his baskets were long offerings which splashed without hesitation into the network at crucial moments and the other pair arose from his aggressiveness around the hoop. Bill Kinsel, a remarkably improved cager since the start of the season, arose from his sick bed and was outshown only by the calm headed McDavid. Kinsel, as a rule, bested Barnes on the center jump but the Purple ball-hawks usually secured possession from that point. No foolin', Bill is rapidly becoming a scoring threat and against the Bementers he came through with a pair of baskets and a half dozen free throws. The other and more renowned Bill, "Mopie" Bill Dwyer, if you please, showed flashes of sensational play in the inaugural half, leaping hither and yon to intercept passes and charging relentlessly down the floor. He was the leading factor in the abbreviated second quarter offensive fireworks but after that he was given to wild passes and needless fouling which detracted from his otherwise aggressive workout. Bill fouled out just after the third quarter was under way.

Visiting Rooters
Bement was accompanied by a band of rooters perched along the western stands. As both quintets were guilty of pushing, holding, etc., the patrons especially those Bement backers, seemed to catch the fever and let go with a burst of strong lingo. The Sullivan fans were beside themselves in exultation as their favorites rolled in their five consecutive baskets to start off the second stanza and bellowing forth their synthetic support the rebound of which greatly irritated the Bement fandom who, as we have mentioned, were on the opposite side. Suddenly one of their more implacable backers irked by Dwyer's 2 short order goals, let fly a few curses at the popular Sullivan hero as he passed within earshot. Jumping out on the floor this individual, reputed an ex-pugilist was bent on thrashing Bill but fortunately he was saved from a disillution to his fistcuff prowess by Sheriff Halac Lansden who strode across the court. Official Eddie Marfel then called for time and warned the crowd that after all it was only a prep game and no occasion to give vent to one's ungovernable temper. "Let's be sportsmen" he urged.

Sportsmanship

Speaking of sportsmen, Jack Gregory gave one of the best exhibitions of that fast dying art ever portrayed on the Sullivan floor. Jack never complained when he was roughed up a bit while driving under the hoop and when his fellow townsmen would howl 'bloody murder' at a Redskin, he would censure the outburst by walking up to one of his two friends, Pete McDavid or Elmer Dunscomb, clapping their hands to show that no enmity existed between them.

In a preliminary scuffle the Bement reserves upheld their end of the card by nosing out the Redskin yannigans in a close brush, 22 to 20. The first half was played between the two frosh teams while the delayed second half—a new netting had to be installed—was enacted by the second teams of the respective schools. A belated rally staged by the local second team seemed to overtake their rivals seconds who were coasting on a lead handed them by the first year men but the gun called a halt to proceedings before the tieing basket could be counted. Harold Kintner, nephew of the Decatur coach, played the entire game for the visitors and proved the star of the performance.

McDavid pried off the scoring as he caressed the meshes with a high arched shot from near center. A double foul was called on Kinsel and Strohl with both boys making good on their single attempts. Barnes sank the latter half of his two gift throws. Gregory literally threw the ball through on an overhead bank shot from the side. McDavid regained the lead for his team as he took a rebound and pushed the ball in from under the goal. Gregory crashed through with a follow-in basket. Barnes hit one of his two donations and a moment later returned for another conversion on a pair of chances at the free throw stripe.

Second Quarter

McDavid touched off a spirited but short-lived rally with a ringer

from the side. Grote speeded under the hoop to drop the ball into the stringing. Dwyer bored in close to hoist a rebound. Showing more aggressiveness than a mother-in-law whose ace has been trumped, sprang high into the stratosphere to register a single-handed push shot from the circle. Kinsel terminated the five basket barrage as he counted from close in. Marfel called time out, pleading with the crowd for a more sportmanlike conduct. Strohl made good on a gratis heave. Gregory repeated "Woppie" performance and then encored by sinking a pair of penalty throws. Kinsel retaliated by cashing in an a brace of free throws. Barnes, from his pivot spot on the free throw marker, flopped the oval to Ganley who romped under the rim for a score. Gregory tossed in both portions of his twin contributions making it 5 out of 5 for the half. Almost single handed Jack had brought his forces back into striking distance and then to cap off his stellar offensive display he shot them into an 18 to 17 lead for the opening half by netting one of the famed push shots released while on the run.

Second Half

Barnes scored his free offering. McDavid swung the stringing with a beautiful shot to knot the count. Dwyer was banished with his fourth violation and was replaced by Richardson. Barnes capitalized on Bill's parting misdemeanor by laying in a pair of counters. "Pest" Welch spun in a long attempt. A next found himself all alone under the basket and signaling for the sphere he promptly pushed in a sleeper to add significance to his sobriquet. Kinsel garnered twin donations. Barnes snatched in a rebound and sent it back into the circle. Dunscomb wronged Barnes and was ejected from the fray by this fourth offense. Geo. Poland was rushed in for relief duty.

Fourth Quarter

With the Red defensiveness asleep at their posts, Gregory stole under the goal and with a demure gesture tallied the basket which later proved to be "what it took" to rout the Redmen. Ganley uttered naughty words so Captain Pete McDavid sank his free throw award as due punishment. Kinsel fired in bank shot from back of the circle. The enraged Ganley again displayed a prolapsed moral and once again Pete converted a free toss which was to serve as a mouthwash for his (Ganley's) diction. The near-capacity crowd was beginning to awaken as the score board read, Bement 29, Sullivan 25. Gregory made good his charity toss. Barnes' ringer as he dribbled across in front of the tallyboard, put the issue on ice. Welch rushed under the goal unchallenged by Red sentinels to push in another bucket. McDavid punched in a gratis attempt. Kinsel duplicated Pete's feat. Ganley, the outspoken, looped in another and then McDavid's final free throw dropped in to fill the scoring register.

Sullivan Loses To Monticello 26 to 12

Swinging along towards an Okaw Valley basketball championship, Monticello's purple Sages plastered Clark Dennis' Reds with their third consecutive conference setback by a 26 to 12 count in a battle waged in the mammoth Moore Memorial field house Tuesday evening. Clamping a close watch on Captain Pete McDavid and Galloping Bill Dwyer, Carl Lutman's tossers licked out with a violent second half uprising to rumble over the crippled Redskin band who had checked them with a lone field goal in the opening half. The losers were forced to war without the services of two regulars, Elmer Dunscomb and Bill Kinsel is suffering from an intecution while Dunkie has been dismissed for a minor breach of training rule and according to Coach Dennis is not likely to be reinstated. It is sincerely hoped that the local mentor will relent and restore Dunk's cage togs so that the clever little defensive man can lend his much needed efforts to the forthcoming and all-important district meet.

With Richardson pinch hitting for Kinsel and George Poland wearing Dunscomb's pants the tribe put up a fine display of defensive ball in the first half to restrict the Sages to one lone field bucket, tallied by lithe Harry Combes just before the intermission gong sounded. The hosts, however, had forged ahead 7 to 5 as each sniper had been awarded exactly two free throws and 5 points had arisen from these 10 free offers. But even in this more prosperous half the Scarlet did not unfold an offense meritorious of victory, as the Purple's tenacious man-to-man defense stopped them cold at the center of the floor. Then, instead of pausing in an attempt to work the ball in or even getting lined up for a long shot barrage, the local crew was fring on the run and from rather freak postures via long range.

In the second half the Pepsinites bounced back like an Indian rubber ball fully renovated with energy that put all their lightning speed on display. Whenever the Reds were attempting to work the ball down the court they were harassed at every step and were forced into committing many glaring faux pas. The Sages were intercepting their passes and even taking attempted goals off the finger tips of some rattled tribesmen.

As soon as they received the ball all five purple clad speedsters broke down the floor with such a rush and such a celerity that the slower moving visitors could not keep pace and as a result the Sages invariably had a man loafing around the hoop while another was bearing down on one lone panicky red and black garbed sentinel. A great majority of their baskets were off-springs of these dribble-in maneuvers. In the final period the locals were plainly dinked as their breastworks heaved in and out like bellows as they vainly chased Rawlings and other Pepsin representatives who showed them their heel contours as they romped into the registering post.

Trying desperately to retard these speedsters caused the Dennismen to again issue an abundance of misdemeanors, 14 in all. Monticello made good 8 of the 17 contributions while the boys from the Moultrie seat were able to garner only 2 of their 9 offerings.

With Dwyer and McDavid handcuffed, bouncing Georgie Poland stepped in to enact the leading role. Brick not only lead the team's scoring with 5 points but also devoted much time in bringing the ball down the floor. In the first half his defense was flawless while throughout the game he was leaping high in the air to flag down the enemy rebounds. Billy Richardson also turned in a commendable exhibition—his best in weeks. Bill was quite a ball hawk throughout the fray and his alertness and aggressiveness earned him two ringers. He usually out jumped Rawlings but Combes and Richards most generally charged in to claim possession. In the warm-up session prior to the tilt Hugh Grote was ringing them in with ludicrous ease but during the fracas he was kept under cover and got only two attempts, both from anything but a shooting posture. McDavid, who never knew when to quit trying got several shots in the first half but they were all hap-hazard affairs thrown while heavily shackled from some distant locality.

Third Quarter

Richards scored as he came sweeping below the rim. Dwyer rang up a penalty toss. Combes rushed in to make his dribble in attempt. Poland blew a dribble in shot but Richardson battered in the rebound to bring the calculation 11 to 8. Rawlings flashed in a follow in shot. Combes propelled a rebound into the netting. Harry then intercepted a Red pass as they charged down the court and relayed it on to Miller who flung in his sleeper.

Fourth Quarter

Combes clicked on one of his duo offerings at the free throw vein. Rawlings lifted the oval into the netting as he crashed under the bankboard. McDavid got his digits on a rebound and swung up over his head in a looping "andy-over" shot which found the tons. Miller pushed in twin gratis heaves. Poland romped across the court to cast in a push shot. Richards retaliated with a one-handed attempt from the circle. Rawlings drove below the basket for his third ringer of the half to increase the margin 26 to 12 just before the final gong exploded.

Speed Demons defeated the Ring Dings 27 to 19. Fritz Poland led the winners while Howard Poland and Palmer were high for the losers.

Twenty Grands lost a thriller to the Bruins 25 to 23. Trailing by ten points at the half time the Inhalers rallied and if Moran had not stepped over the center of jumping circle the score would have been tied. Fultz made a basket which did not count. The ball went out of bounds to the Inhalers but they were unable to score as the game ended.

Cutters had a chance to tie the Twenty Grands but the Forgotten Men ruled otherwise and defeated the cutters 39 to 17. Bolin and McDonald were high for the winners while Carnine led the Cutters.

Parsons again converted at the free throw stripe. Combes tallied the Sage's only field goal of the first half on a single winged push shot from the circle.

Third Quarter

Richardson scored as he came sweeping below the rim. Dwyer rang up a penalty toss. Combes rushed in to make his dribble in attempt. Poland blew a dribble in shot but Richardson battered in the rebound to bring the calculation 11 to 8. Rawlings flashed in a follow in shot. Combes propelled a rebound into the netting. Speaking of Sports

(By Jim Scott)

The Red's cage season, crammed with fast thrilling action, large crowds, and frequent "out-burst" from agitated players and spectators which add color to any sport, is in its dying stage. In just one more week the curtain will be lowered and the regular schedule of '32-'33 will be history. The Dennismen will then, like some 800 other prep fives enter into the gala carnival of elimination tournaments which in the end will leave only one team—the state champion. Needless to say, to again capture the Mattoon district title, is the ultimate in Redskin desires. But more about that later.

In tapering off the season's schedule the local preppers will stage the busiest week of the season participating in four games in the next 8 days. Tomorrow night, Friday, Dennis will ship his proteges up to Tuscola where they will attempt to better their conference standing at the expense of Nick Carter's improved novelists. The following evening will find the Reds again on the road in quest of their third victory over Jobey Dunscomb's Windsor Five. Dunscomb's inexperienced tossers that fell an easy prey to the locals in the finals of the Moultrie County tourney have been gaining strength with each issue and are now beginning to measure up to a typical fast-moving Dunscomb coached ensemble and on their native court should prove stiff competition to say the least. One of the leading factors in the rapid progress made by the Windsor forces is Bailey, a plucky Sophomore guard. Last week he flung in 6 baskets to lead the orange and black to a victory over Tower Hill's strong aggregation.

The following Tuesday, Tuscola's Dime Novelist will return here to lock horns with the locals in a conference skirmish. Then on Tuesday night, the tribe will write finish to the regular season when they take on Arcola's lowly contingent on their home inclosure.

Grade School Team In Tourney At Moweauqua

The Sullivan grade school basketball team went to Moweauqua Saturday to play in an invitational tourney.

They won their first game which was with Stonington 26 to 5. In the semi-finals they were bested by Moweauqua 36 to 13. This put them in the running for third place and Pana nosed them out of that 26 to 24. Findlay won consolation from Tovey.

Assumption which recently won the local invitational again proved victorious. It played Moweauqua in the finals and it took two overtime periods to decide the winner, the score being 27 to 23.

Bethany Socked Twice

The grade teams of Jim Scott's home town seemed unable to get beyond the figure 9 in their scoring Tuesday night and Coach Whitchurch's boys took them into camp twice. In the first team game the score was 14 to 9 for Sullivan; in the second team game the score was 11 to 9.

Tuesday evening prayer meeting at 7:30.

A child who only ate once a week could never grow strong and healthy. But he can be just as strong and healthy as the Christian who takes Spiritual food only once a week. Regular periods for physical and spiritual nourishment are necessary for strength and health. How many chapters have you read in your Bible this week? How much time have you spent in prayer? Have you spoken to any one about Christ? If you want a blessing do something so God can bless you. God never has, and never will bless the idle, indifferent Christian. If you would have a blessing seek God with your whole heart and life singing "I'll go where you want me, I'll do what you want me to do, I'll be what you want me to be."

GOSPEL MISSION

Over the Post Office

Time of services the same. You are always welcome.

Ps. 108:12 "For in the name of the Lord I will destroy them."

Destroy who? Man's enemies. Our greatest enemies are not those from without, but those within. If we leave open the gate of trust, then the enemy fear slips in to torment us with doubts and uncertainties. The Psalmist said "The Lord is on my side, I will not fear what man can do unto me." Man may cut your salary, he may even cause your job to be taken from you, but if the Lord is on your side, now really don't you believe he is able to take care of you. Can he not supply your needs as he has promised he will do? Remember his promises are unbreakable. There is just one way for you to have the Lord on your side and that is for you to go over to his side. If we pitch our tent toward Sodom, we may expect the enemy fear to camp with us, but if we will look unto the hills from whence cometh our help, we have the assurance the Lord will destroy that enemy fear.

Small faith says "I believe the Lord will help me" sound faith says, "I know in whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep all that I commit unto him against that day."

The churches of your community do not forget that they have a definite task in the life of the community. Their task is to hold up the supreme goals for which all of life should be given. The churches are the link between our common life and the will of God. The success or failure of churches lies in their ability to lead those who worship to surrender their lives to the will of God. This and this only is what every true church is trying to do. Choose your church and support it loyally. You are invited to make this church your church home.

FRANK MAILANDER DIED ON THURSDAY

Frank J. Mailander, 58, clothing merchant in Monticello died on Thursday of last week from heart trouble. Mr. Mailander will be remembered by many people here by the campaign which he made in the spring of 1932 for the Democratic nomination for the legislature. He visited this city quite often and made many friends here. He was defeated in the primary by Thompson J. Anderson of Monticello.

Mr. Mailander was for many years an outstanding Democrat of Piatt county. His loss removes from the scene two of Monticello's steadfast Democratic leaders, the other being Frank Dilatash who died last summer.

Farmers Who Get U.S. Loans To Cut Acreage 30%

Regulations Announced Under Which Dept. of Agriculture Will Loan $90,000,000 to Finance Crop Production.

Reduction of 30 per cent in the acreage planted to cash crops will be required this year of farmers who procure crop production loans Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde announced today in making public the regulations governing the 1933 loans.

In making available for crop production loans this year $90,000,000 of Re-construction Finance Corporation funds, Congress specified that the Secretary of Agriculture might require, as a condition of any loan, "that the borrower agree to reduce his acreage or production on such basis, not to exceed 30 per centum as may be determined by the Secretary." The Secretary's regulations, however, stipulate that acreage reduction will not be required of farmers who, in 1933, plant more than 8 acres of cotton; 2 1/2 acres of tobacco; 40 acres of wheat; 20 acres of corn; 2 1/2 acres of truck crops; 12 acres of sugar beets; 8 acres of potatoes; 30 acres of rice; 8 acres of peanuts.

Farmers seeking crop production loans this year are advised to obtain application blanks and copies of the regulations in their home counties, rather than from Washington. Field agents of the Crop Production Loan Office are now designating representatives in each farming county to inform prospective borrowers of the requirements governing loans and to distribute application blanks and other necessary forms. These agents will assist farmers in filling out applications, without charge.

Accompanying the required 30 per cent reduction in acreage planted to cash crops, above the established minimum, the 1933 regulations limit the amount available to any farmer to $300. In 1932, crop production loans were made to 507,632 farmers, averaging $126 each. No loan in excess of $100 will be made to any applicant who is in arrears on as many as two previous loans made by the Secretary of Agriculture. As last year, interest is fixed at 5 1/2 per cent, to be deducted when the advance is made. All notes are due Oct. 31, 1933. Advances to borrowers may be made in installments, the regulations state, inasmuch as expenditures for crop production are usually made over a considerable period.

One million dollars of the $90,000,000 fund is available for livestock feed in drought or stricken areas.

Charging a fee for the preparation of a borrower's application is expressly forbidden this year in Section 3 of the Act of Congress authorizing the crop production loans. Congress further declared these loan funds "to be imposed with a trust to accomplish the purposes provided for by this resolution—and it shall be unlawful for any person to make any material false representation for the purpose of obtaining any loan or to assist in obtaining such loan or to dispose of or assist in disposing of any crops given as security for any loan made under authority of this resolution, except for the account of the Secretary of Agriculture, and for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this resolution."

Teeth for Section 3 are provided in a clause which orders a fine not exceeding $1,000 or imprisonment not exceeding six months, or both, for any person found guilty of violating the above provisions.

The remaining regulations announced by Secretary Hyde are similar to those in force last year. An absolute first lien on all of the crops grown by the borrower in 1933 is required by the act. In counties where fertilizer is not commonly used, the rate of loans must not exceed $3 an acre for general field crops, and $12 an acre for truck crops, including potatoes. In counties where fertilizer is commonly used, according to the testimony of representatives of the Department of Agriculture, the rate must not exceed $6 an acre for general field crops, $10 an acre for tobacco, and $20 an acre for truck crops, including potatoes. Not to exceed $1 an acre of loans made at any of these rates may be used for repairs and miscellaneous expenses of crop production other than seed, fertilizer, feed for workstock, and fuel and oil for tractors.

In addition to the reduction required this year in acreage of cash crops, borrowers must agree to plant a garden for home use and a sufficient acreage of feed crops to supply feed for their livestock. Acreage taken out for cash crop production may be planted to any soil-building crops.

Loans will be made, the regulations further declare, "to farmers who are unable to obtain loans for crop production during the year

1933 from other sources. These loans may be made to such individuals as are found by the Secretary of Agriculture to have acreage fit for seeding and who are without means to purchase the supplies necessary for crop production during the year 1933—No loans will be made to any applicant who has a means of livelihood other than farming.—Loans will not be made for the purchase of machinery or livestock, or for the payment of taxes, debts, or interest on debts. Loans will not be made for the feeding of livestock other than workstock used in crop production.

An application for a loan, accompanied by the necessary crop lien, will be passed on first by county advisory committees. If the county committee and the field inspector certify the application, it will be forwarded to one of the several regional field offices for final approval and disbursement. The location of the regional office for Illinois is in St. Louis.

THE OTHER MAN

by RUBY M. AYRES

"From Jerry?" She looked surprised, and the sudden relief sent the color rushing back headlong to her white face. "What did he want with you? I haven't seen him for some time."

"He came to talk about you." "About me?" She shrugged her shoulders. "Was he very melodramatic? Did he beg of you to give me up and not to ruin his life?"

"Something like it." O'Hara's voice sounded thick and unnatural. "Something like it." He caught his breath on a hard sound before he broke out savagely: "He told me you were his mistress."

Barbara stared down at the gray ash on the end of her cigarette.

His mistress! Jerry's mistress! She wanted to laugh, and she wanted to cry. It was a lie. Thank God, it was not the truth, and yet—it might so very nearly have been.

But it was a lie all the same—thank God!

The gray ash fell, and she looked up into O'Hara's face.

"Well—what did you say?" she asked. She was confident of what he had said; most likely he had kicked Jerry downstairs—poor dear Jerry!

"I told him I should do what I have done. I told him I should come straight to you and tell you."

"Oh!" For a moment she felt paralyzed; this, then, meant that Dennis believed it—believed it!

She drew her hand from his and stood up.

"Why have you come to me?" she asked slowly. "Do you want me to swear with my hand on the Bible that I am a spotless saint?"

"No—no."

"Would you believe me if I did swear it?"

Dennis fell back from her with a smothered groan.

"My God, I don't know. Men don't lie about such things."

Barbara's white lips formed a question.

"Do they generally talk about such things?"

He came back to her, his face white, his eyes tragic.

"It sounded like the truth. I'm no saint, but you and that man—my God, Barbara—if it's true—"

"You mean—you believe that it is?"

He made no answer, and she said in a voice that was only so very still because it was so unutterably tragic: "Very well, then, go on believing it."

Like a woman in a dream she heard Dennis trying to explain, to excuse himself, to defend himself.

"I knew the kind of life you lead. You always knock about with men. I've always heard—it was Pauline who defended you—always; she would never hear a word."

Barbara's stiff lips smiled. "Ah—Pauline!" The thought of Pauline was like a gentle hand laid on a terrible wound in her heart, and yet it was very gentleness was agony.

And Dennis blundered on, his sheer honesty and distress making every word an insult.

And Barbara laughed, a harsh steely laugh that was like a knife cut in the tragedy of the room.

"You seem to have an entertaining night, altogether. Did you sit up till the small hours of the morning tearing me to pieces?"

She caught her breath harshly. "Fine gentlemen, both of you—and you both pretend to love me."

Dennis said fiercely: "I did love you—God knows I did love you."

Already in the past! "I did love

you," not "I do!"

She saw his hand go out to her, then fall again to his side.

"He swore it! He said he'd been here with you alone, night after night—is that the truth?"

"Yes."

She heard him sob as he turned away, and there was a tragic silence. Then he came back once more.

"That's nothing—" and she knew that he was trying to convince himself rather than to apologize to her for his suspicions—"it is nothing, I know, nowadays. Girls often go to men's flats—don't they? It isn't what I should like Pauline to do—"

Barbara turned away. "Pauline!"

"—But she's different from you," he went on hoarsely. "She's led such a sheltered life, and you—"

Then suddenly he was gripping her arms with frenzied hands. "Tell me—tell me the truth if you have never told it to me before. Tell me!"

Barbara closed her eyes and swayed in his grasp. She knew she had to speak, to say the word he prayed to speak, to say the word he prayed to hear, and in a moment she would be in his arms again, her head on his shoulder—the divine resting place—and yet—

"I'm so wonderfully happy that I want to share my happiness with you. . . my best friend. Barbara darling. . ."

Poor little Pauline! Poor little loyal Pauline who believed in her and loved her even though she had betrayed that love and belief.

And then came a pressing thought besieging her, deafening her, and refusing to be silenced.

"Now is your chance. To do a decent thing—to make up for all the shabbiness of your life. Let this man go—send him back to his wife and to the life that is his by rights."

"God, oh God," Barbara whispered. She tried to beat down that whispering voice, tried not to hear it. Then she felt Dennis' face against her shoulder, pressed to it as if he were an unhappy boy, and felt his arms folding her closer, closer. "Barbara—if you ever loved me. . . oh, my dear one."

She tore herself free. She stood back against the table, panting a little, white to the lips.

"It's true," she said. "It's true—what Jerry told you. It's true, true true!"

It seemed such a long time since she had spoken those words—she was sure that a whole lifetime had come and gone since she tore herself from Dennis O'Hara's arms, and waited for him to speak. She had not moved her eyes from him—she knew it might be the last time she would ever see him, and she wanted to remember him faithfully—the obstinate chin and sensitive mouth—behind him—and that was all.

Then presently she found herself kneeling by the fire and wondering hopelessly why she could not cry. She could have kept him, but she had let him go. Why?

"Because I'm a damned fool," she told herself with shaking lips. But she knew it was not; she knew it was because of a child she had once held in her arms for a little while that she had not found it possible to injure a child of Pauline's.

Mellish came to the door. "Did you call me?" she asked.

"Bring me some brandy, will you? I'm so cold."

"There's a nice fire, too," Mrs. Mellish said.

"Yes," Barbara agreed. "Bring the brandy to my bedroom, please. I'm going out."

"Ghastly! Ghastly!" she thought and hunted for rouge.

Mrs. Mellish brought the brandy the honest eyes—the brown hair, and the broad shoulders against which her head had rested for the only happy moments she had ever known.

Barbara smiled a little and held out her hand.

Although she knew it was all over she felt that she must make one last appeal to him—an appeal which she knew would be disregarded.

"In spite of everything—I'm the same woman I was last night, Dennis," she said.

Afterward she wondered if he really heard—or if she really spoke. She heard him cross the little hall, open the front door, and shut it again.

"I'm all right. I shan't be in to lunch."

Out in the street she hailed a taxicab and gave the address of a flat off Park Avenue.

"If only I didn't have to go on living," Barbara thought; then she laughed as she wondered whether Pauline would ask her to be godmother to Dennis's son.

The taxi stopped, and she got out and paid the fare; then, without hesitation she walked into the entrance of the flats. A porter came forward.

"Can you tell me which flat is Mr. Stark's?" Barbara asked.

"The second floor, madam—I'll take you up in the lift."

"Thank you. I'll walk. I'm not in a hurry."

She went slowly up the stone stairs. Douglas would be surprised to see her, or wouldn't he? It didn't matter much either way—probably he wouldn't be up.

She rang the bell and waited. After a moment her husband's manservant came to the door.

Barbara said, "Good-morning, Richards—is Mr. Stark in?"

"Yes, madam—just going out."

"I'll go in. You need not announce me."

She walked across the hall with unflinching step and into the sitting room. It smelled of spirits and cigar smoke and was overheated. A man stood by a sideboard emptying a tumbler.

Barbara said, "Good-morning, Douglas."

"God Almighty!"

Douglas Stark was a good-looking man, a little puffy under the eyes, and a little red in the complexion.

"What do you want?" he demanded gruffly to hide his emotion.

"Only to say that—if you—if you like—I'll come back—no, no—no—" as he moved toward her.

"Wait. It's on condition we go abroad—at once, and travel—for as long as you like—months—years! I'm sick of New York. Sick to death. Well—will you go?"

"Will I—hell!" He made a sort of excited lunge toward her, but she deftly avoided him.

"We're not married yet, you know. Besides—I hate sentiment."

He looked at her admiringly yet disbelievingly.

"You hate sentiment—pooh! How long is it since a man kissed you?"

For a moment Barbara wavered and looked back into the past—such a little way back—only to last night; then she laughed.

"You should know!" she cried. "It seems like years and years."

NEW FAMILY MOVES TO THIS COMMUNITY

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Grace and family of the Dalton City neighborhood moved Friday into the D. W. VanGundy place on Route 32 north of this city.

In this family, besides Mr. and Mrs. Grace, are six children as follows: Paul and Thomas at home and Geraldine and Lyle who go back and forth to Dalton City daily to attend the high school there. They moved too late to start the second semester in the STHS. Then also there are Margie and Virginia, who attend Newcastle school. Mr. and Mrs. Grace are the parents of eight children. One son and one daughter are married and live in Peoria. The Grace family has for years been reading The Progress so they do not come to this community as strangers.

Dewey VanGandy and family, who have been occupying the tenant house on the VanGundy farm moved to the McKown place near Allenville. D. W. VanGundy and the Bill Holston family who lived in the big house moved to Sullivan some weeks ago.

WASHINGTON CROSSES the DELAWARE (December, 1776) by CLINTON SCOLLARD

That night upon the Delaware Their horns the wild Valkyries blew As though the legions of despair Swept the impending heavens through.

The Fates and Furies rode the air That night upon the Delaware.

The ice-pack gnawed the sodden banks, Sundered and rocked the middle stream;

There ran a murmuring through the ranks As at some dread, foreboding dream.

Amid the crunch of splintering planks The ice-pack gnawed the sodden banks.

The trees seemed wan and wizened ghosts, And groped the mists with shriveled hands;

Weird was that gathering of hosts, The massing of those tattered bands.

On those inhospitable coasts The trees seemed wan and wizened ghosts.

Yet valorous their victory That gray and grim December dawn;

What quenchless fires of destiny Burned in his breast who led them on

For us, and for futurity, How valorous their victory! —New York American.

Internal Dissension an Annoyance to Washington

On August 23, 1929, President Washington wrote a long letter to Thomas Jefferson, the secretary of state, dealing with certain intrigues between the Spaniards and several southern Indian tribes, and he added this thought: "How unfortunate and how much to be regretted is it then, that while we are encompassed on all sides with avowed enemies and insidious friends, internal dissensions should be harrowing and tearing our vitals." He expressed the fear that party politics, which then was rearing its head for the first time in our history, would weaken and wreck the Union.

Three days later he wrote to Alexander Hamilton, his secretary of the treasury, pointing out the destructive character of party feeling. "Differences in political opinions are as unavoidable as, to a certain extent, they may perhaps be necessary; but it is exceedingly to be regretted that subjects cannot be discussed with temper on the one hand, or decisions submitted to without having the motives which led to them improperly implicated on the other; and this regret borders on chagrin when we find that men of abilities, zealous patriots having the same general object in view and the same upright intentions to prosecute them, will not exercise more charity in deciding on the opinions and actions of one another."

The occasion for this advice was the fact that Hamilton and Jefferson had disagreed.—American Bankers Journal.

Washington Statuette Presented by Austria

The equestrian statuette of George Washington, fashioned of Austrian porcelain, which was presented to President Hoover recently as a gift from the Austrian government to the U. S. government in commemoration of the first President's 200th anniversary.

Tomb of Washington The tomb of Washington is a severely plain structure of brick, with an arched gateway in front, above which a slab is inscribed, "Within this inclosure rests the remains of Gen. George Washington." Above the door of the tomb are the words "I am the Resurrection and the Life. He that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."

I HOPE I shall always possess firmness and virtue enough to maintain what I consider the most valuable of all titles, the character of an "Honest Man."—George Washington.

Speaking of Sports

back. So small is the Heath High school that the squad is provided with only 8 cage uniforms.

Here is a list of well-known referees and the districts they will handle. Lyle Clarno and Wright of Chicago, the Urbana district; Albro of Peoria and Fred Young of Bloomington, at Pekin; Raymond Firebaugh of Champaign and Johnny MacWherter of Springfield at Decatur; Wilson Sanford of Champaign and Arnold Beem of Shelbyville at Monticello; Lawrence Rotz of Decatur and Art Bergstrom of Casey at Tuscola;

Dribbles—This Joe Voegel, Notre Dame forward who is giving big Ed Krause a race for high point honors, is a former all-American prep school guard from Spalding institute of Peoria. . . One of the strongest indeed quintets in the State is the Bloomington commercials, composed of ex-Little Nineteen luminaries. . . Their roster includes Ken Clothier of St. Viator, Clyde McQueen of Bradley, John Callans of Wesleyan and Les Moore and Roland Zook of Normal. . . Zook is now coaching at Stanford high. . . Nat Norman, the famed cage pro and now a writer of syndicate articles on the finer points of basketball, is coach of the City college of New York basketballers and has his players take a nap before each game both at home and on the road. . . Ponderous Scott Smith, Bethany guard, became so enraptured in a poignant love affair that Coach Cunningham bid him choose between basketball or belle. . . Smith shook off his garb of unconsciousness long enough to say, "I'll have my basketball, coach!" . . . Howard Poland is temporarily ineligible. . . Angel, loose-jointed first string sub from Arthur, dropped off the cage squad to hold his job in one of the town's barber shops. . . In the first half of the Stonington-Bethany tilt last Friday the winners connected on only one of their 25 field goal attempts. . . Some leader this boy, Pete McDavid. . . not only does he serve as captain of the Dennis sporting outfits but also has the distinction of being class president for the past four years. . . The Reds have yet to drop a game on their home court. . .

Ginny Gano of Mattoon is serving as quarterback on the first string picked from 50 Illini grid candidates who are out for Spring rehearsals. . . Charley Andrews of Clinton has dropped off the wrestling squad and will devote all of his spare time towards securing a backfield post on Zup's 33 edition. . . Hubert Tabor's Benton five are far in the van in the Big Eleven conference with 11 victories and no defeats. . . All Southern Illinois fans are confident that the tall boys will bring the state title back to Little Egypt. . . however, they were sure of that last year! . . . Metropolitan scribes are billing Stanley Ketchmark of Rutland who plays center for Streator as the State's outstanding cager. . . tch, only a month ago we were informed that Benton's Wilbur Henry was the lord of the hardwood domain. . . Gregory Kabat, Wisconsin's '32 grid captain, has 'ropped out of school and thus do the Badgers lose their ace shooter. . . As far as we can learn Doc Grabb's leading rival in the way of point getting honors is Musso of Collinsville, younger brother of Millikin's burley football leader and guard on the uckless Blue quintet. The younger Musso has averaged 15 points per scuffle. . . It was one lucky Ohio State team that escaped from the Ulni gym Monday night with their state still free of a conference black mark. The Buckeyes are lead by a great center, Harold Hosket, a Senior. He stands 6 feet 3 and operates on the pivot line. . . A month or so ago Purdue lost their star tosser, Ray Eddie, who slipped on the ice while carrying out ashes. . . the other day Bethany darn near lost their golfer, T. L. Hudson, by the same route. . . Although the ice made quite an indentation on his ribs he expects to be back on the greens before the month has elapsed. . . "Do gentlemen also prefer male blonds?" asks Turner. Arthur's ex-black haired guard, of himself as he watches sandy-thatched Watkins operating in his old defensive post. Elmer McIlwain, Bethany editor, secured a block of seats at the Sullivan-Bethany clash for his Sullivan card club and after the tilt was over the bridge devotees hastened to his home where the party staged their own little scrap. . . Leo Johnson, fiery little Millikin mentor, has extended Earl Freeman several invitations to attend his U. . . Why? . . . One guess only. Suh! . . . Oye of Arthur is death on gift throws—they say the lad has hit 85% of all his endeavors at the free throw strine this season which is certainly effective punning. . . He was "off" against Sullivan sinking only 4 out of 6. . . Kenny a sweet-faced Arthur frosh shows promise. . . And to cite you further proof that the Coatesmen are a coming leader we have only to point to the fact that their

Weather

You never saw nicer weather than what we Illinois folks have had this week, although it may be raining by the time you read this.

The sun has been bright all the day long. When it awakens the earth with its first gleams in the morning, few if any clouds bar its way and at eventide it sinks like a ball of gold over the western horizon. Balm breezes blow and dry up the moisture soaked roads and fields. Tulips and early spring flowers are pushing their tops through the soil and flirting with the springtime.

Here and there you see some energetic gardener raking up the dead leaves and twigs and burning them. Last year at this time considerable early garden had been put out. March put a quietus on it. The same may happen this year. But why think of a zero March when we have summer in February?

Soon township election campaigns will be under way. Supervisor, town clerk, assessor and other sorts of candidates will be beating the bushes for votes. Supervisors who have been faithfully and painstakingly handing out pauper relief and Red Cross supplies will be accused of favoritism and other such bunk. There are people who are naturally ungrateful and when you start giving them something for nothing you never can give them enough. One sad result of the present economic unpleasantness will be that people learn to live without working and will depend on charity for support. They will learn to know that the government, their neighbors and acquaintances, will not let them freeze or starve. A little garden work this summer will produce a lot of food supplies.

We rural people of central Illinois have our problems. But food is always plentiful. We are not like the folks in Florida whose houses are built on sand, nor like the people of Mountain states whose hopes are built on rocks and scenery.

We sing of prairie Illinois—God pity the big cities—man built them. God made the country and the less man spoils it, the more apt it is to support him with all his needs.

We know of no farm that is going begging for a renter. Here's an idea: Taxes are high. Good schools are desirable. They have made state gas tax money available for relief. Why not make it available for school use? Practical education, as embodied in the vocational courses in high school, is one of the best things parents can give their children. The dollars you save for them may be wiped out during a depression, but the learning you pack into their brain boxes is theirs. There is no sadder sight than an ignorant rich man, who suddenly finds himself poor.

If somebody had told you last February that business conditions would not improve, but would continue to get worse, you'd felt awfully bad and thought that the end was in sight. Well, conditions did get worse, and still we're all plugging along. We are now in the fourth year of the depression and it's about time the American people got some sense and pulled themselves out.

You never saw or heard of a bigger bunch of numbskull nineties than the people of a nation in depression times. In times of prosperity everybody is cocky and puffed up with importance. In a depression—well you know how it is!

Everything considered, we feel we're giving you a pretty darn good paper this week. Don't you? New subscribers are coming in right along. If you like The Progress tell your friends and neighbors. If you don't tell them so. The only thing that hurts our feelings is when you don't say anything about us a-tall.

WHY FLAGS WAVED

"Do you know why the flags are waving today, why the sun is shining and why the birds are singing so sweetly?" asked H. C. Shirey, the grocer, Wednesday.

"Why it's George Washington's birthday," was the reply.

"No, you're wrong!" said Joe "This is the 40th anniversary of my arrival in Sullivan."

He came here from the land of his birth—a short distance east of Lovington. We know not how long he was on road, but the journey was doubtless long and hard through black mud and by water across Eagle pond. At times the supplies ran low and great hardships were endured for days at a time, but finally he saw his goal, Sullivan, ahead and rejoiced. After 40 years he is still rejoicing, although he contemplates a journey back to the old country that gave him birth some time when business conditions get better.
