

WEATHER

We are having too much rain. We need about ten days of dry weather — hot if you please.

The farmers have a lot of growing soybeans that they want to hay. The beans in pod and the husky stems need plenty of sun and wind and favorable drying weather. Of course, if hay cannot be made there is still a chance of harvesting the beans this fall.

Showers are plentiful. It rains the slightest provocation with rhyme and without reason. It looks as if Jupiter Pluvius, the god, had finally heard the prayers of the earth's parched children, and, remorseful for his neglect, he is now over-doing rain-making job.

This weather is fine for pastures. Late hay and grass is growing luxuriously. The sunshine which the soil absorbed during the summer, mixed with the present rains is releasing much fertility for growing things.

Corn fields are slowly ripening. A few hot days would help. Late corn is still plenty green. There have been several nights recently when there was danger of frost. Some light frost in lowlands, along creeks, has been reported but no damage done.

Cucumbers are plentiful; so are melons of all kinds. Tomato vines are full of fruit, but no really choice ripe tomatoes are available. Hot weather would help some. The fall garden flowers are in their glory. What some people seem never to realize is that flowers will grow where weeds grow, if given a little encouragement and attention.

Farmers are still waiting for corn-hog checks. Reports from the committee indicate that the money-mills at Washington grind slowly, but surely. Fretting and getting impatient does not seem to help the matter any.

They had a good joke on O. E. Lowe the chairman of the Corn-Hog committee recently. He was sending telegrams to Springfield urging action. When he got back to the office he found awaiting him a telegram saying in effect: "You Moultrie county folks mind your own business; don't bother us." Of course the wording was just a little more polite. And did just a little more polite. And did and stormed all afternoon, but before he went home the office force confessed that they had faked the message — and all was again serene.

Do you remember Herbert Hoover? He stepped out of retirement this week and through capital's favorite weekly, the S. E. P., he tells the world what is wrong with President Roosevelt's administration. And that's O. K. The Democrats were not backward in telling what was wrong with Mr. Hoover's administration. Friendly criticism is always constructive.

From several parts of the county come reports that cut-worms, the pest of spring time, are working in great numbers. Perhaps this in next spring's crop, or is it sure bountiful enough to give us two crops of cut-worms in one year?

Among other pests that have turned up to worry farmers is clover dodder. This is a parasite plant. It feeds on the clover plant. Seeds look like clover seed. Infected areas should be rigidly quarantined to prevent the spread of the pest.

An insurance man tells us that automobile insurance rates are much lower, due to the efforts of the Horner administration at Springfield to make automobile stealing unprofitable. Lower rates mean less commissions for insurance men — but we are sure every automobile owner appreciates what has been done.

About the busiest man in Moultrie this week was Albert Walker, the superintendent of schools. Getting the school machine started working smoothly and efficiently is a big job. The school year started off with a pep-institute Monday at which the teachers were given an injection of inspiration and plenty of advice.

The kids are nearly all glad to be back in school. The teachers are glad that they are back on the roll.

No Sewers, No Drainage City Council Learns

Federal Government Rejects Plea for PWA Sewer Funds; State Highway Department Puts Lid on Ambitious Drainage Program

The hope that some people had that Sullivan might be able to build its much-needed sewer system with a loan from PWA was dashed Monday night when the city council received a notice from Washington which amounted to a rejection of Sullivan's request.

The federal officials who hold the strings to the PWA money bag found much to object to in the application as made. It is suggested that as an initial step, the city raise $30,000 through general bonded indebtedness and comply with some other regulations that are apparently impossible.

The city had applied for a loan for building a sewer system that was to be available to users on a monthly fee basis.

Recently the city was offered $79,000 for building a butane gas plant. It did not want this loan and told the government so. The loan was then formally rescinded and the gas plant project is dead.

The council Monday night also learned that its plans for a drainage sewer to drain the water off the state routes that pass through here have struck a snag.

Last fall District Engineer Chas. Apple of the state highway department told city officials that the city's share of the gas tax money would have to be used to widen and improve route 32 and 132 where they pass through this city.

After discussion, the widening plan was temporarily abandoned in favor of a plan of drainage to take surplus storm water off these routes after rains.

As the city has no sewers into which such drains could be run.

Catholic Church Sponsors Mission

St. Columba's church of this city will sponsor a mission commencing September 13th and ending Sunday morning, Sept. 16th. The mission will be conducted by Father Zeller from Cleveland, O., a member of the Congregation of the Precious Blood. Father Zeller has had much experience in this field and will not doubt have a message for all of us.

The Mission is a time of introspection. Everything from time to time needs overhauling, whether it be a ship, our home, or our automobile. In like manner our soul needs attention. It is very complicated and unless it is attuned to the divine commands and precepts, it will undoubtedly lead us away from God. A Mission then is a time of introspection. If used to advantage we can more easily attain the end for which we were created.

Mass will be celebrated each morning, followed by an instruction. Evening devotions will be at 7:30 o'clock, commencing with Question Box, Rosary, Sermon and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The public is extended a kind invitation to all the exercises. Perhaps you would like to have explained some doctrine or Catholic practice. Father Zeller will be glad to answer all those questions for you.

Town Board Meets And Makes Road Levy

The Sullivan township town board met Tuesday in regular session. The books were audited by Justices of the Peace Lambrecht, Edwards and Evans.

The amount levied for road and bridge purposes was $8,000, but the tax rates is not to exceed 22c on the $100 assessed valuation. This is the same rate as was levied last year.

Township finances were found to be in excellent condition.

Rally Day Sept. 16 At Baptist Church

Preparations have been in progress for four weeks for the biggest Rally Day the Baptist church has ever known. Improvements in the platform equipment are being made; a guest speaker has been secured; and a colorful pageant, "The King's Highway" is being rehearsed with care.

It is hoped that we may be successful in securing 200 attendants to the Bible School at the 9:30 hour. The orchestra of the Bible School will then make its debut. Each regular teacher will be in the leadership of his or her class with a well prepared lesson. Extra attendants will be drawn into service to take care of emergency problem. Any shut-in, lame or blind person desiring to be brought to and from any service during the day will be cheerfully called for and returned safely home. Every man, woman and child attending the Bible School service will receive a badge.

In the afternoon service held at 2:30, Dr. A. E. Peterson, executive secretary of the Illinois Baptist State Convention will bring the message. This is Dr. Peterson's first visit to the church in many years and the entire membership is eager to give him an excellent hearing.

The Baptist Young People's Union, the Young People's society of the Church is eager to make this a day of great registration. Their session will not be one of great length on Rally Day because of the necessity for making room for the pageant which comes so closely upon their service. Young people of all ages are welcome, however, come.

"The King's Highway" is a colorful pageant using approximately 35 characters in the cast. The Mother, a seeker, is trying to find a safe and sane program of guidance for her children. She is not easily satisfied but asks many questions of Christian Education, Bible School and Life until she has had a complete demonstration of which Christian Education has in the curriculum. The pageant is all-egorical thruout. This should be a fitting climax for a thoroughly prepared day.

Seeks Re-Election

In the 1932 election the 19th Illinois Congressional district turned from its old custom of sending a Republican to represent it in Congress and sent a Democrat, D. C. Dobbins, of Champaign.

Mr. Dobbins, a close student of public affairs, and an outstanding member of the bar of central Illinois, was a fortunate selection. Though a first term member, he won an enviable standing among his colleagues and served on many important committees.

This year he seeks re-election. He won the Democratic nomination without opposition. He has the undivided backing of his party organizations throughout the district. His record in Congress, his support of President Roosevelt and his eminent fitness to continue in that office, is his platform for re-election.

The opposition, hopeful that the old-time Republican voters will flock back to their party standard, is zealously campaigning to encompass the defeat of Mr. Dobbins. The opponent to Mr. Dobbins in this race has as his main plank opposition to President Roosevelt and the new Deal.

To Vote On Bonds; Const. Convention

Besides voting on the candidates for state, congressional, senatorial and county offices, voters will be asked to pass on two propositions submitted by the state on November 6th.

One of these propositions is to authorize $30,000,000 in bonds to cover amount of money already spent by the state for relief purposes. This money was apportioned to the counties where needed. The bonds are to be retired by retaining the portion of gas tax due counties that have been given the relief and paying it on the indebtedness. If the voters fail to approve the $30,000,000 bond issue the state is obligated to raise the amount and interest through direct taxation.

The second proposition pertains to the calling of a constitutional convention. The question to be voted on is this: "Shall a convention be called to prepare a revision, alteration or amendments to the Constitution of the State of Illinois?"

This constitutional convention proposition is one that meets with much favor throughout the state as the present constitution, adopted 64 years ago, seems hardly adequate to meet the needs of the present day.

Arthur Depositors Get 70% Dividend

The First National Bank of Arthur, closed since the bank holiday of March 1933, is paying its depositors a 70% dividend.

J. R. Drake, the receiver of the bank, last week notified the depositors to call for their checks.

At the time the bank closed it had deposits of $177,825. The dividends to be paid at this time total $124,477.

Arthur feels very good about this situation and the efficient way in which Mr. Drake has handled the matter.

Thoroughly familiar with banking through his long association with the ownership and management of the Hardware State Bank at Lovington, Mr. Drake was named receiver for three national banks—that at Monticello, at Atwood and at Arthur.

At Monticello he was able to distribute a 50% dividend in December of last year; Atwood has paid about 60 per cent and Gerold Elder of this city is in charge there as Mr. Drake's assistant.

The release of this amount of dividends has been greatly appreciated by the depositors of the closed institutions and has put the money back into circulation at a time when very much needed.

THE RACE IS ON! There Off! Hundred of dollars waiting for those who come in under the wire at the finish line on October 6th.

Hugh Righter really got down to business and brought in a nice list of new as well as old subscriptions, more power to you Hugh, that's all it takes to go out and win that $500.

Leola Sharp of Bruce has a good number of friends who are anxious to see her go to the front and are showing it by bringing their subscriptions in to the shop for her.

Some of the folks from Lovington are sure pulling for Bernadine Bolin of Allenville as they are bringing their votes in to the office for her.

Paul Ewing is using his Ford to good advantage as he is burning up the roads around Arthur and says $500.00 looks awfully good to him. Don't blame you Paul! you could just about buy a new car with that mch money eh?

Lois Cowger and Mrs. R. Bouck are a bit slow in getting up there but who knows but what one of them may be one of the leaders next week.

Change of opinion is often only the progress of sound thought and growing knowledge; and though sometimes regarded as an inconsistency, it is but the noble inconsistency natural to a mind ever ready for growth and expansion of thought, and that never fears to follow where truth and duty may lead the way. —Tyron Edwards

We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths; in feeling, not in figures on the dial; we should count time by heart-throbs. He most lives who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best. —Bailey.

How Far May Government Go?

As this is written, there is trouble in the textile industry. Mills where cotton is turned into cloth and allied industries are tied up in a gigantic strike.

The strikers want shorter hours, more money and better working conditions.

The mill owners say that if these conditions are granted they cannot operate at a profit, for prices on their products will have to be raised to where the general public cannot afford to buy.

Into this breach the government has projected itself and attempted to reach a compromise. Up to this time, it has failed and indications are that the unions will call out hundreds of thousands of other workers to bolster up the original strikers.

Strikes are common. Always, there are some in various parts of the country. Through them labor has succeeded in wresting from capital many concessions and improved working conditions.

Here is the vital and interesting part in this present strike. Who will feed and clothe the strikers if the strike is prolonged?

Can the union finance their own strike and keep their strikers from starvation and hardship, or will these strikers go on government relief?

Obviously the unions are not rich enough to long continue a relief program. If no agreement is reached to end the strike, starvation would be the weapon of the mill owners in their fight.

If, as the strikers contend, the government must step in and give relief to the strikers and their families while they are out of work, it will place the government in direct opposition to the mill owners, for if sufficient government relief is forthcoming, the strikers will not return until their demands are met. The mill owners say that in such case, new demands will immediately be made and, with the government backing them, there is no assurance that strikers will ever be satisfied with wages and conditions that will make for successful operation.

In this present difficulty, the country is thus brought face to face with a problem of major importance.

What is its solution? If the government throws its full weight back of the strikers, is there a possibility that the mill owners will lock up and cease operation? If that is done, will the government undertake to commandeer the mills and operate them? Should this be done, will the workers be satisfied? How will the mill owners be compensated for their property? Will the taxpayers be called upon to finance the deficit which is almost certain to occur in government operation?

These questions all rise relative to this textile strike. The big question is this: if this textile strike should reach a solution of government operation, what is to prevent similar action in all other lines of industry?

Government relief is financed by the entire country. Everybody who pays taxes — and all do — contribute. Are the people generally willing to pay for the support of people who had jobs and voluntarily quit them to go on strike?

Or looking at the question from another angle—are the people of this country willing to see women and children starve during a strike, in the calling of which they, perhaps, had no voice, and of which they are but the unfortunate victims.

Strikers contend, and perhaps rightfully so, that feeding the strikers is showing them no greater partiality, than in the past has been shown the mill owners, when the government through injunctions and military force threw the weight of its resources on the side of the capitalists.

We sincerely hope and trust that the present trouble will be settled soon and amicably — that the workers will go back to work under improved conditions which will give them a greater share of the profits of the business that employs them — provided always, that such profits have been excessive and out of proportion to the amount paid for labor. We hope that the mill owners can operate so as to insure them a reasonable return on investment.

The questions raised by this strike will, however, some time have to be definitely settled as they pertain to government interference and government assistance for the contending parties.

Relief For Big City Printshops.

The Progress has hesitated taking a rap at emergency relief. The relief workers have a difficult time and we have done everything possible to assist and have gladly and willingly given columns of space to keep the public in touch with the local work.

We have no fault to find with this local work. The people in charge are working hard and conscientiously at their tasks; we ask no relief; we ask only to be of assistance.

Here is a feature of this work we do not like. It is perhaps selfish for us to say this, but saying it will get it off the chest and give us an opportunity to work up indignation about something else.

The newspapers are asked to contribute liberally of their space, but the printed supplies are sent here from Chicago and other large print shops, that have no interest in the local proposition.

That is the first count in the indictment. The other is this: under a code, the print shops are told what they must charge as fair compensation for work done. The big print shops entirely ignore this code and furnish stationery at prices that are altogether out of line and absolutely contrary to every feature of code administration.

This means that through the code enforcement, the small town shops have been hog-tied and hampered while the shops that furnish emergency relief supplies ignore entirely the code and its provisions and — like Uncle Sam in his envelope printing business—are the champion chiselers under the NRA.

The government evidently believes in the old adage—Do as I say—not as I do.

Publication Of Delinquent List.

The Moultrie county delinquent tax list appears in this issue. In size it is about the same as last year's list. The list was published about two weeks earlier last year.

The delinquent date was on August 1st and, according to law, publication is to be made as soon thereafter as the treasurer can comply. There is a time limitation within which the list must be published. Lists in neighboring counties have been published in recent weeks.

Treasurer Newbould delayed the publication as long as possible, giving the taxpayers every possible legal opportunity to make payment.

In most counties no such favor is shown those delinquent on August 1st. Even though payment is made after that date and before publication the item of delinquency is published and the publication and office charge entered against it.

The reason for this is that it takes a lot of time to set a delinquent tax list in type and in some cases pages of the list are printed as much as two weeks before they are issued with the paper. This is especially true in counties where the list is exceptionally large.

Co-operating with Treasurer Newbould, The Progress set copy for the list as soon as it became available, with the understanding that all items paid by the Saturday preceding date of publication would be "pulled" out of the list. The items so "pulled" constituted many hours of work, but we were glad to co-operate with the Treasurer to accommodate the taxpayers.

Mr. Newbould and his deputy Clarke Lowe have always endeavored to run their office so as to give every consideration to the people whom they were chosen to serve. In fact, we believe Mr. Newbould worries more about unpaid taxes than do some people who owe them.

The law makes it obligatory that the delinquent tax list be published so that the record may be kept straight and title to real estate remain unimpaired.

Editorial Shorts

Upton Sinclair long identified with the Socialist party, ran on the Democratic ticket in California and won a nomination for Governor. He may be elected. Republicans are elated, but we doubt if they feel that way.

Sinclair is a sign of the times. People think radical and vote radical. They know that there has been something unfair and rotten in a system of government that has reached a stage of unemployment and depression which has prevailed since 1930. Consequently they are ready to experiment—to try anything. They want action. Results are a secondary consideration.

Huey Long is a national figure. They may rap him, newspapers may poke fun at him and abuse him, but the red-headed boy from the Louisiana canebrakes is having a hilarious time and thoroughly enjoying himself.

Is there something more to Long than the general impression gives him credit for, or is he just a pimple, a blood eruption on a body politic that is sick and tired and ever seeking some new fad, some new diversion?

Sullivan Streets face bad days. If we have an open, wet winter, they will be exceedingly difficult to travel. The expense that property owners have been put to in improvements will be lost. The excellent grades that Supt. Birch had cut will be a thing of the past. Mud will be hub deep, knee-deep, and the city lacks any money now to remedy this condition.

The council could not see the advisability this spring to use a few thousand dollars out of its available light plant surplus to oil-condition the streets so they would "stand-up" in bad weather. Sullivan's dirt streets problem is an evil that cries to high heaven for a solution.

No newspaper can continue to exist solely as an advertising medium. Its very interest to the people at-large is the only characteristic which makes it valuable to the advertiser, and that interest will remain only so long as the newspaper is honest with itself and with the people whom it serves.

The place to take the true measure of a man is not in the darkest place or in the amen corner, nor the cornfield, but by his own fireside. There he lays aside his mask and you may learn whether he is an imp or an angel, cur or king, hero or humbug. I care not what the world says of him; whether it crowns him boss or pelts him with bad eggs; I care not a copper what his reputation or religion may be; if his babies dread his homecoming and his better half swallows her heart every time she has to ask him for a five dollar bill, he is a fraud of the first water, even though he prays night and morning until he is black in the face and howls Hallelulah until he shakes the eternal hills. —W. ### Sunday School Lesson

by Rev. Charles E. Dunn

Hezekiah Leads His People Back to God. Lesson for Sept. 9th. 2nd Chronicles 30. Golden Text: 2nd Chronicles 30:9.

Hezekiah ascended the throne when Judah was in the throes of a spiritual depression. A young man in his 26th year, he was the good son of unworthy Ahaz. Probably his mother Abijah atoned for the wickedness of his father. From her he doubtless inherited a large share of his good qualities. "A good mother," wrote George Herbert, "is worth a hundred schoolmasters."

Hezekiah's long reign of 29 years is of great importance. It witnessed the invasion of Judah by Sennacherib's Assyrian army which seized 46 cities and over 200,000 prisoners but was unable because of a providential affliction, perhaps a pestilence, to capture Jerusalem.

But we are more particularly interested in Hezekiah's religious reforms. They are described in the 18th chapter of the 2nd book of Kings where we read that "he removed the shrines, broke the obelisks, and cut down the sacred poles; he demolished the bronze serpent made by Moses." And the chapter in 2nd Chronicles before our lesson says "he did that which was right in the sight of the Lord."

The lesson describes the king's invitation to all Israel and Judah to come to the temple at Jerusalem to keep the passover. Hezekiah saw that everything in both kingdoms was sinking from bad to worse. He therefore decided to assemble the separated peoples in festival worship of their common God. It was a wise and generous proposal inspired by a gracious spirit. Unfortunately this gesture toward unity met with ridicule. But there was a large enough group in favor of the plan to make possible its successful fulfillment. Indeed "there assembled at Jerusalem much people to keep the feast," a very great congregation. Thus the passion for the larger view triumphed.

Early Postal Rates Were Based on Bulk of Letter

Today the postage stamp is such a necessity that few people realize in what manner the payment of postage was handled in early days. Postal rates were based on the bulk of the letter and on the distance it had to be carried, and if it was forwarded an additional fee was required. Prepayment, observes a writer in the Chicago Tribune, was not compulsory and letters ordinarily arrived "collect," a condition promoted by etiquette on the ground that a prepaid letter implied that the addressee was unable to pay. In large offices the mail was marked with handstamps provided by the postmaster.

There was the "town-mark" with changeable date line, rating stamps with the ordinary values, as 5, 10, etc., and other handstamps to mark exceptional letters "paid" or "free," as required. In small offices these conveniences were missing except for the "town-mark," and letters were endorsed by hand and in many cases the dates were written in the town-mark. In the smallest hamlets all of the postal markings were hand written. Among collectors the "pre-stamp" period includes everything down to the adoption of stamps, and the covers are known as "pre-stamp" covers. For the next few years until prepayment by stamps was compulsory, the covers without stamps are called "stampless covers." These covers are not collected to any extent by general collectors, but are a necessary part for a specialist who is showing the postal history of a country or of a state or town.

Caterpillars Lay Many Eggs; Hatch Next Year

There are various species of caterpillars, notes an authority in the Indianapolis News. For example, the tent caterpillar, which, full-grown, is about two inches long, black body with a well-defined white line down the middle with a row of blue spots along each side, dull reddish brown in color, which strips leaves of apple, wild cherry and other trees. The eggs are laid in a compact mass encircling a twig and remain there placed until the following spring. They hatch as soon as the foliage is out.

The eggs of the yellow and black striped caterpillars, which appear in the late summer, are laid on the leaves in midsummer; winter is passed as a pupa in the soil, and there is one generation annually. The gypsy moth caterpillar is two and one-half inches long, hairy and dark or black in color. The eggs stage lasts until the May following the laying of eggs in the tree in July or August.

Larvae often are poisoned by spraying with arsenate of lead. Tall trees frequently are banded with burlap where the caterpillars will hide and thus may be killed. Evergreen, fruit or shade trees may be protected by banding the trunks with fly paper.

The Calendar

In the days of the ancient Greeks it was customary to have the first day of every month announced in one of two ways. One way was through the cries of heralds, and the other was by means of placards which were posted on the walls of the city. These placards were called "kalends" or "kalendae," from the Greek word meaning "I call or proclaim." The Greeks also kept a book of accounts referring to the day of the year, and this was known as a "calendarium," and from it we have derived our word, calendar. In the excavations of Pompeii there was found a great block of marble which had been used as a calendar. This book was four-sided, and on each side there was a record of three months of the year, each side headed with the proper sign of the zodiac, and containing information concerning agriculture and religious matters for the season.

Nutation Twists Vines

The tendency of certain vines to twist and bend is due to a characteristic known as nutation. The tendency to grow makes the change in form. In the cases of hollow-stem vines like the morning glory, for instance, this growth tendency or the stimulation of it, travels around the stem, with the result that the stem is constantly twisting as it lengthens. In the case of certain plants, such as the crocus and the tulip, the petals are very susceptible to temperature changes. When it is warm the outer side of the petal grows faster, causing the blossom to open, but with lower temperature the petals are drawn together. This, of course, explains the opening and closing of the flowers night and morning.

Train Bird to Catch Fish

One of the cleverest of all divers is the cormorant, which can be trained to catch the fish for its owner, and is often used in this way by Chinese. In Britain cormorants live in colonies, usually on small rocky islands. The haunts are not pleasant places to visit, for an appalling stench surrounds them. The nests are built of seaweed, which soon decays in the hot sun; pools of sea water are formed in hollows by storms and soon become thick and green.

Late Farm News

The Corn-Hog Control Association is in receipt of information stating that the final date for acceptance in Washington of Corn-Hog contracts is September 30th. There are still a few lagging contracts of this kind in this county. The Association has hopes that some of the checks for farmers may come through by September 15th.

Some farmers who expected to put out a big wheat acreage find that they cannot do so. Under their corn-hog contracts they cannot increase acreage of any major crops which includes wheat. Their acreage must be governed by that of 1932-1933.

The Producers Creamery, started in Champaign as a co-operative venture by the farmers will begin operation soon. It is expected that trucks will begin gathering Moultrie cream September 13th. The Producers will pay Chicago prices. A meeting will be held in Bethany on the 11th and here on the 12th to explain this matter to farmers.

DECATUR MONARCH, MAYBE!

By Jim Scott.

For a period of some nine weeks, the Bruce Sluggers were bounding along stopped neither by opponents' skill nor wet grounds. Then two weeks ago the ball-pounding Mattoon Boosters put an end to the former and last week old J. Pluvius emerged from retirement to wash out not only the Sunday contest with Mattoon but also the widely ballyhooed Labor day struggle with Lucky Martin's Monticello All-Stars.

If Mr. Pluvius will be kind enough to quit pitching little balls of rain down on Kinsel bowl, then Sunday the Sluggers will be out to see what they can do with the Decatur Monarchs, a colored nine to whom they dropped an early season contest and later defeated in a return engagement. This, as the says goes, is the rubber game.

Population Increases
Bethany's population mark staggered upward a few notches last week with the advent of five new families.

Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Baird and their seven children of DeWitt have moved into the house belonging to the late Laura Scott. Rev. Baird is a Cumberland Presbyterian evangelist. The Free Methodists have employed Rev. Bell of Clinton as a replacement for Rev. Harold Goldsboro, who departed Tuesday to take over the St. James' pastorate. The new Christian minister, Rev. David F. Lehr and his family of Assumption, have moved into the parsonage vacated by the McCallisters. Now, just as soon as the Cumberland Presbyterians select a leader, Bethany will boast a regular little colony of seven preachers.

But to return to the quintet of newcomers, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Heckler, the former Sullivan's new section boss from Mt. Zion, were unable to find a home in the county seat so are now residing here. The fifth family, whose names we failed to learn, are living in the Bill Martin house. Employed at the Brown Shoe Co., they too, were unable to find a domicile in Sullivan.

High School Opens
The school bell rang at Bethany high again Tuesday morning and the student body summoned by its call was adjudged one of the largest in the institution's history. The following is the enrollment by classes: freshmen, 39; sophomore, 32; juniors, 32; seniors, 26; post graduates, 5.

The members of the teaching staff are the same as last year with the exception of petite comely Miss Irene Oehmke, a graduate of the University of Illinois, who has charge of English and music. ## REVIEW BOARD REDUCES FIGURES OF ASSESSORS and mules; 10,040 swine; $36,370 in monies; $119,550 in mortgages and bonds.

An interesting fact is that showing number of horses and mules to be 4,803. Two years ago it was but 4,166.

Reduce Assessors' Totals
The total of all property as assessed by the assessors was $11,301,970. The Review board cut this to $11,224,415, showing a loss of $77,555.

Assessors figures were increased by the board in Marrowbone, Sullivan, Jonathan Creek, East Nelson and Whitley townships; they were decreased in Lovington, Lowe and Dora.

These changes were as follows: Marrowbone—Assessor $1,256,705; review board $1,272,605. Sullivan—Assessor $2,390,095; review board $2,435,385.

Jonathan Creek—Assessor $1,134,155; review board $1,138,310. Lovington—Assessor $1,824,790; review board $1,794,200.

Whitley—Assessor $1,097,130; board $1,100,270. Dora—$1,239,635; board $1,134,565.

Last year the assessment was increased. This year's decrease brings the grand total valuation for the county to within $8,000 of what it was in 1932.

All of the above figures do not include railroad valuations which are assessed by the state commission at Springfield and are usually not forthcoming until time for tax extension.

Puffin, Birdland Clown, Has Comical Expression

Equally at home in the air, or land, and in water, the puffin has been called the clown of birdland. There is no bird with so comical an expression of one which appears so unconcerned as you approach says Tit-Bits Magazine.

There are colonies of many thousands in the British Isles, the largest being found on St. Kilda. It would be difficult to estimate the numbers on the steep slopes of that desolate, sea-girt isle.

The puffin makes its nesting home at the end of a short burrow in the ground, and at the end one large white egg is laid. The young puffin is a pretty little black fluffy ball, and during the time it lives in its underworld nest the parents bring quantities of small fish, for when it comes to diving they are a match for almost any fish they meet. Each parent brings in its beak anything up to ten fish.

Gannets or solan geese, large sea birds, are clever divers, and while searching for prey they fly at a height up to 300 feet. When the fish is sighted the birds close their wings and streak down at terrific speed.

Entering the water they make a tremendous splash, but seldom come up without their catch. Some fishermen declare that the gannet dives directly on to its prey and does not use its feet when traveling under water, but as gannets have been captured in nets at a depth of 90 feet this statement cannot be accepted. Many diving birds use wings and feet under water, and there is little doubt that the gannet does so, for it travels at high speed when chasing its prey. A bird under water must have power to twist and turn rapidly if it is to catch the fish.

American Fleet Occupied Toronto for Eleven Days

The history of Toronto dates from 1749 when Fort Rouille, commonly known as Fort Toronto, was established as an Indian trading post and stockade by order of King Louis XV of France. Following the victory of the British troops over the French at Quebec in 1759, as a result of which Canada was ceded to Britain, a fur-trading post was established in 1760 on the site of Fort Rouille. Thirty-three years later General Simcoe, of the British forces in Canada, who established the first parliament in upper Canada, at Niagara-on-the-Lake, landed at Toronto, christened the place York, and selected it as the location of the new capital of the Province of Upper Canada, now Ontario.

The War of 1812-14 prevented the desired progress being made by the provincial capital. At one time an American fleet of ten armed vessels, carrying 50 guns, landed and occupied York for 11 days. By 1815 the population of York was 2,500; in 1834, when the name was changed to Toronto, the population was 630,000.

Golden Rose Decoration

The Golden Rose is a decoration bestowed by popes of the Roman Catholic church on celebrated persons, dignitaries, churches and sanctuaries which have evidenced loyalty to the Holy See, almost from the middle of the Thirteenth century. The rose is wrought gold and is of single form. The model is described as a thorny branch. The rose itself is studded with jewels, usually sapphires. It is perfumed, anointed with incense, and laid on the high altar the fourth Sunday in Lent, where it remains during high mass, after which it is bestowed by the pope, accompanied by a letter describing the service or loyalty it commemorates.

Burial Place of Columbus

The body of Christopher Columbus was first laid in the Carthusian Monastery of Santa Maria de las Quovas at Seville, but in 1542 it was removed with that of his son, Diego, to be interred in the Cathedral of San Domingo Hispaniola (Haiti). When that island was ceded to the French in 1759 a transfer was again made to the Cathedral of Havana, and after Spain's loss of Cuba in 1898 the bones of father and son were taken back to Seville and placed in the cathedral.

Paris Mushrooms

The Paris mushroom is that variety known scientifically as agaricus hortensis, and it differs in appearance and taste from the common or meadow mushroom. The difference, however, is slight. Most of the large cities of Europe obtain mushrooms from the French capital. Successful mushroom production demands considerable knowledge and skill and there are many hazards in the business. The Parisian growers are leaders in this highly specialized profession.

Most Interesting Island

The world's most interesting island, from a scientific standpoint, is in the Indian ocean about 400 miles east of Madagascar. It is known as Reunion Island, having an area of about 1,000 square miles. It has cliffs 15 to 20 feet long. Shells of huge tortoises, 8 feet long and 18 inches across, have been found, but these seem to be extinct.

METHODIST CHURCH Leland L. Lawrence, minister Sunday Church school 9:30 a. m. Charles Jenne, Genl. Supt. Morning worship 10:45. Sermon by Rev. Lawrence. Young People's Friendly Circle 6:30 p. m. Evening worship service 7:30. Installation of Epworth League Officers. Sermon by Rev. Lawrence. The annual conference starts next Tuesday in the First Methodist church in Champaign. Many of our members ought to attend this conference. Charles Shuman has been elected delegate to the conference, and Mrs. Charles Shuman is alternate. Bishop McDowell will preach Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons at 4:00 o'clock. Dr. Merton Rice will give the Conference lecture Thursday night at 7:30, his subject, "My Country 'Tis of Thee." Bishop McConnell will preach Sunday morning. Our Illinois Conference has not had such a great program in years. Its action this year on important matters of public interest will be heard round the world. Here is a chance for you to see what Methodism is doing to make her voice heard.

THE GOSPEL MISSION Over Post Office. 9:30 a. m. Sunday school. 7:30 p. m.—Evangelistic services Sunday. 7:30 p. m.—Bible Study, Thursday. Is. 50:11 "Behold, all ye that kindle a fire, that compass yourself about with sparks; walk in the light of your fire, and in the sparks that ye have kindled. This shall ye have of mine hand; ye shall lie down in sorrow."

We have here the suggestion, that to ignore the light of the gospel and walk in the light of our own intelligence, will bring us to the place where we lay down our earthly existence, and take up that of eternity, to meet at the place of crossing sorrow. Man has become very wise in kindling a little fire all of his own, and in the light of the sparks of that fire pass judgement, favorably, on all his conduct. Ignoring the light of the gospel and influence of the Holy Spirit which were placed in the world as a guide for man in shaping the course of life. This manner of life not only ends in sorrow to the individual, but the sparks from his little fire fly upward, others are attracted by his false light, who likewise are deceived into a way that leads only to sorrow. How careful we should be that our lives are lived according to the light of the gospel. Then we, which are the light of the world will be sending out a true light, that will light men into a way of joy rather than sorrow. And instead of scattering abroad we will be gathering unto the Lord.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH C. E. Barnett, Pastor

The message of the pastor, at the morning worship hour 10:30 will deal with the "Declaration and Address" of Thomas Campbell written 125 years ago. Thus we will celebrate the 125th anniversary of this declaration and address, which was the result of a conference of persons of different religious views, and which has become famous among the Disciples of Christ as concerns the history of the movement. It will do us good to refresh our minds along this line. Sunday is also "Youth Day" among the Disciples of Christ. It is our custom to observe this day, giving youth a prominent place in our plans and programs. We shall do so at the evening service, 7:30, recognizing and honoring the young people who may be going to colleges and universities. The young people will bring the messages, with a brief word by pastor. In the Sunday school, superintendent C. R. Hill is presenting plans for a steady and permanent increase in attendance and for the fall program of work. Each Sunday the session begins at 9:30 a. m. Sunday evening in the Endeavor will be election night. Margaret Garrett will be leader, the topic for discussion is "Courage". "Be strong and of a good courage"—Joshua 1:9, Scripture text for the meeting, Acts 20:23. There is no substitute for the church. Go to church.

Feathered Saluki Enjoys Greatest Honor in Persia

Throughout the lonely desert stretches of Persia, the feathered (Shami) Saluki, still enjoys the high esteem his ancestors earned in the song, art and verse of the sporting khans of 6000 B. C. Not treated as the despised "dog," the Arabs speak of him as "the Noble," honoring his possessor with the title "gentleman." He receives thoughtful care, stretching himself at ease on the carpet of his master's tent. With the exception of his long silk ears that reach the corners of his mouth, and feathered tail, the Saluki at first glance resembles the modern greyhound. He is, however, lighter in build and shorter, with a straight back, presenting in profile almost a perfect square. His extremities and under-body colors are of paler shades than his short, close body coat, which may be golden cream, white, fawn, black, black-and-tan, blue or silver gray. The tail is always white-tipped. His brown, golden or hazel eyes are his greatest attraction—mild, intelligent in their expression that is termed "almost human."

He is not to be confused with other oriental greyhounds such as the Barukhza (Afghan) hounds that are larger and heavier and of shaggy appearance, feathered over their entire body with the exception of their tail, almost void of feather and carried like a saber. Both these breeds are said to be capable of great endurance and speed, being credited with a speed of 32 yards per second in spite of the handicap of loose sand. Of faithful and gentle dispositions, either is always a valuable companion.—Los Angeles Times.

Croquet an Ancient Game; Roque Calls for Science

The old game of croquet is played on any space 90 by 45 feet. The apparatus consists of eight balls with mallets, two stakes and ten wire arches, the center arch being formed by two wires. Passing the ball through an arch gives the player another turn. Striking an opponent's ball gives player the right to take two shots, or to place ball behind opponent's and strike so as to send the other out of position. After he has done this he is said to be dead on that particular player and may not repeat this performance until he has sent his ball through an arch. A rover is a ball which has completed the circuit but has not touched the home stake; it may play on every other ball on the field and is not considered dead to any other ball, except that he cannot hit the same ball twice in one turn. A scientific form of the game, called roque, is played on courts 36 by 72 feet, with angles cut off by 8-foot corner pieces. The space is enclosed by heavy timbers, which may be used in making carom shots as on a billiard table. In this game the balls are 3 1/4 inches in diameter and the wickets or arches are only 3 1/4 inches. This is a game for two persons, while croquet may be played by any number up to eight.

Birds Fly Upside Down

Ravens turn somersaults in the course of their aerial sports, for they are playful birds. At the moment of turning upside down, as if to celebrate the fine feat of flying, the birds utter a loud croak. The barrier goes into spins while in the air, its body rapidly turning on its axis. As if intoxicated by its complete power over the air, it also indulges in turning upside down and in making sensational spiral dives. When snipe are engaged on their courting flights, after circling high aloft one will occasionally swoop down to within a few feet of the earth and then turn completely on its back, carrying on upside down for several hundred feet. Lapwings, in the frenzy of their spring fever, can also perform this extraordinary feat of flying when inverted.

Dalton, Mass.

Dalton, Mass., is a town of natural beauty, and two of its scenic gems are Waiconah Falls and Wizard's Glen. According to tradition, the fate of Waiconah, a beautiful Indian girl, who had two lovers, was determined by the direction taken by a canoe through a rapids a short distance below the falls. If the craft went one side of a sharp rock, which still divides the stream, she was to marry Nessacus; if the other side, her husband was to be Yonnongah. Nessacus won, and Waiconah became the queen of the powerful Mohawk tribe.

sing tax on hogs has not brought equal benefits to all hog growers, particularly to feeders, because of the imperfections in the plan and difficulties in operating it, there is no question about the net benefits to the industry.

FALL PLOWING PROTECTS CORN FROM SOD PEST
Large numbers of at least three species of adult webworms have been in flight during the past two or three weeks and Moultrie county farmers who plan to plant corn on sod ground next spring should get the field plowed just as soon as possible this fall, says Farm Adviser J. L. Stormont.

Sod webworms destroy considerable acreage of corn each spring where it is planted on sod land, and only early fall plowing will protect the 1935 corn crop from these pests in such fields, it is said. This preventative measure is particularly important in light of the heavy flight of the adult webworms in recent weeks.

These destructive insects are the young of moths which fly during the previous season, explains J. H. Bigger, field entomologist of the State Natural History Survey in a report to the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. The moths lay their eggs during August and September and the young worms hatch in the fall. They feed until frost after which they hibernate in the sod until spring. When warm weather returns they start feeding again, this time on the newly planted corn.

Corn planted on heavily infested sod ground that was plowed under only a short time before planting is often practically destroyed by the sod webworms. However, if the land is plowed in the fall before the eggs are laid, or at least early enough to starve out the worms before winter, the corn planted on this ground will be reasonably safe from the pests. Plowing in the spring will not control them.

I. A. A. STRONGLY FAVORS CROP ADJUSTMENT PLAN
"Any effort by organized commission men, processors and their allies to ditch the Agricultural Adjustment Act and the principle of acreage control will be vigorously resisted by the organized thinking farmers of America," says the I. A. A. Record editorially in its September issue, just off the press.

"Crop adjustment machinery developed under the AAA must be retained," continues the Record editorial. "The drought may temporarily make reduction of basic crops unnecessary. But until foreign markets are restored and domestic buying power improves, farmers know that they must plan their production or take the consequences in ruinous prices. Only an announcement of the possibility of abandoning acreage reduction next year was sufficient, recently, to send grain prices tumbling at the terminal markets. This fact is a complete answer to critics who attribute all of the gain in farm prices to the drought.

"A simplified adjustment program through grain acreage control such as that outlined by President Smith heretofore in the Record, has met with the general approval of farmers wherever the proposal has been considered. Informed farmers will not surrender the most effective legislative weapon they have yet been given to raise farm prices. The processing tax has been called the farmer's tariff. More and more farmers are coming to appreciate the truth of this comparison. While the proces-

Globe Stove Circus

SATURDAY

There NEVER has been anything quite like it in this community. Not just another sale! Not just another demonstration—BUT a real FUN circus.

While we have arranged this big event to show our beautiful new line of Glow Maid ranges and Glow Boy circulating heaters, it REALLY is going to be FUN day at our store. It's just a friendly party to show our appreciation to our old friends and to give us an opportunity to get acquainted with new ones. You don't have to buy a thing. We just want you to come down as our guests and have a good time. BUT—the store will be simply filled with bargains for those who want to shop.

Most Startling, Amazing, Baking Demonstration YOU have Ever Seen

Imagine baking in a coal-wood range without a chimney and only a 60-inch PAPER smoke pipe!!!

Well, that's just exactly what you will SEE when you come down to this Globe Circus.

We will have one of the beautiful new Glow Maid ranges all set up and operating. It will NOT be connected to a chimney and will have only a short PAPER smoke pipe.

Yet there will be NO smoke or gas and you will see us bake Glow Maid Candy Stick cookies while you wait.

No one has ever DARED such a demonstration before. It will be the talk of the town.

Prizes Galore SEE OUR WINDOWS!!

Remember we said this would be "FUN" day — a real Circus. So we're giving prizes for the Fattest Man — the Tallest Man — the Shortest Man — AND THE LARGEST FAMILY visiting our store Circus Day. It's all in fun—so let's have a lot of it.

And don't forget — there are prizes for the kids in the morning, too. Every child in the country will want one of the new Globe Balloon Maps of the World. A few will be given as prizes.

Look! Look! How Old is Your Old Stove?

Here's your chance to sell it at a big price!! We are going to pay $1.00 a year for every year of the age of the oldest range or heater (in actual use) reported to us on Circus Day. That means if it is 25 years old we will pay $25.00 ($1.00 for each year) to apply on the purchase price of a new Glow Maid range or new Glow Boy heater. If it's 35 years old, $35.00; fifty years, $50.00, etc. Your stove MIGHT be the oldest. By all means enter it in this contest.

See the Glow Maid Bake and Cook Without a Chimney!

Not only see this remarkable demonstration but EAT the Glow Maid Candy Stick Cookies hot from the oven. Something new and something different in cookies. If you want the recipe we will gladly give it to you. Whether you are interested in a new range right now or whether you're not—you can't afford to miss this remarkable show. We'll be expecting you.

Redskins Open Grid Practice; Dennis Hopeful

Squad of 50 Includes Five Vets and Two Newcomers, Robinson and Butler. Play Lincoln There Sept. 29.

Under the guiding hand of Clark Dennis, some 50 young Sullivan high footballers are prancing thru laborious rehearsals in the hopes of resurrecting some of the school's gridiron prestige which hit a peak in the golden autumns of '31 and '32 when a big, rough Red eleven galloped along to a couple of Okaw Valley championships.

The heavy precipitation kept the squad indoors Monday and Mister Dennis has not yet distributed the paraphernalia when we found him lounging on a divan in the janitor's quarters, swapping pigskin gossip with Nick Tarro, who will look after the Bethany reserves and Pres Jenuine, who resigned as Greenup coach to become a salesman for a sporting goods firm.

In the presence of Tarro, you might have expected Dennis to present a lamentable tale of his squad's disabilities. But listen: "Our prospects," said Clark "are much brighter than last year as we have plenty of experienced lads while last season we had only two. This year's team will carry more weight. We'll concentrate on the defense."

Five Regulars Back
In other years Denny has almost always been handicapped by the lack of an experienced center, but today he owns in Burl Jividen, a seasoned pivotman, who last year transferred from Lovington.

The other regulars returning from the '33 edition are Finley Pifer, quarterback; John English, fullback; and Jack Condon and Jimmy McLaughlin, ends.

Those lost from last year's eleven are Horn, Poland, Scheer, Pickett, Brackney, Hollonbeck and Bolin.

Consequently a batch of reserves are in for a promotion. Ed Lanum, a monstrous tackle who did a lot of relief work last fall, will undoubtedly come into the uppy or first string group. Other likely regulars from the reserves are Lawrence Filson and Onal Epperson, guards, Loren Jenne, tackle Wayne Elder, back and Chris Nicolay and Marion Pifer.

Look to Robinson
Bill Robinson, a shifty little sophomore from Arthur, will of course find a place in the backfield picture. Along with Vandever, he led the Coatsmen to victory over the 1933 Sullivan representation which incidentally turned in but two triumphs, both of which were scored outside the Valley circuit.

Bob Butler, a 170-pound Ina youth who came up to join his old teammate, Frank Schack, in the business of taking the local cagers to new heights this winter, may also prove a welcomed addition. However, Bob is a senior and a total stranger to the sport.

And the renowned Schack himself is taking his first crack at the game and will probably be given an end assignment, where his pass snatching ability can be utilized.

Horn to Report?
Then too, there is a young man who last year won a letter at Tuscola high. There is also a possibility that Junior Horn may report and take over a backfield berth. Horn tips the scales at around 185 and is reputed to be even faster than Dwyer.

The Redskins will undertake a most pretentious schedule, the feature of which is an intersectional tilt with Lincoln, a Big Twelve grid stronghold that will have two of its products on the Illinois eleven this fall.

The schedule follows:
Sept. 22—Lovington here (tentative).
Sept. 29—Lincoln here.
Oct. 6—Newman here.
Oct. 13—Atwood here.
Oct. 19—Arthur here (Homecoming).
Oct. 26—Shelbyville there.
Oct. 27—Reserves at Roosevelt.
Nov. 2—Bethany there.
Nov. 10—Bement here.
Nov. 17—Monticello there.

¶ A freight car is being repaired every fifteen minutes of every working day as part of the improvement program upon which the Illinois Central System is spending $10,000,000 this year.

Old English Sheep Dogs Among Best for Herding

If the choice of a dog rested solely on the density of its coat, the length of its hair and the animal's immunity to cold weather, the first choice naturally would be the Old English sheep dog, writes Albert Stoll in the Detroit News.

For here we have a breed that is "all wool and a yard wide," reminding one of a Shropshire sheep that needs shearing. He may possess beautiful, intelligent eyes and an expressive face, but you are unable to determine this until the long hair is lifted from his face.

But with it all the Old English sheep dog will match any other breed as a companion, watchdog and faithful friend.

This is the breed of dogs over which much controversy has waged regarding its tail. Some authorities maintain that continued docking of its tail through the ages has resulted in producing a tailless dog and that many of the puppies are born without tails.

Biologists scoff at this and point out that we cannot breed tailless dogs in this manner any more than we could produce legless dogs by cutting off the legs of the animals. However, Old English sheep dogs have docked tails. This is the style and puppies, "should they be born with tails," are shorn of most of this appendage.

The breed came to us from the country after which it is named. It was considered the best herding dog ever produced, possessing a formidable voice, great stamina and strength and seldom experiences fatigue. The dogs are of medium size, standing about 22 inches high at the shoulders. In color the standard calls for any shade of grizzle, blue or blue merle with or without white markings.

Holland Prepared to Use Water in Event of War

The sea is at one and the same time Holland's foe and friend, says a correspondent in the Kansas City Star. The ever-present menace of breaking dikes hangs constantly over the heads of the country's placid burghers. Perpetual vigilance is a necessity. Without it more than half of Holland's population of 8,000,000 might at any time be swallowed up by the sea.

At the same time, the canals, which have been built in the progress of reclaiming the land, provide Holland with the cheapest and most effective system of transportation. About two-thirds of the country's transportation of goods is by water. As a means of protection against invasion from an outside enemy, the sea also is Holland's most effective ally. In 1672 the armies of France, England and a part of Germany, at war with the republic of the Seven States of the Netherlands, marched on Holland. They would have succeeded in taking the capital but for a flood artificially created to stop the invasion of the enemy. At the beginning of the great European war in 1914, everything had been prepared to flood a part of the country in the event of being compelled to take part in the war.

How Big Is London

What is the area of London? No, don't trouble to answer! Whatever reply you make, nobody can say you are right, for no one knows the exact size of London. The County of London, which includes the London boroughs, has an area of 115.89 square miles. The London county council, however, is effective over an area of 118.95 square miles. The London postal district covers 222 square miles. The Metropolitan police are even more ambitious, for they keep an eye on nearly 8,000,000 people over an area of almost 700 square miles. The Metropolitan water board supplies the housewives from Hadam, in Herts, to Sevenoaks, in Kent—a total acreage of 367,361. The electricity supply of London is distributed over an area of 1,941 square miles. The City of London has an area of only one square mile—known as "the most valuable square mile in the world." The Tower of London is not in London! It stands in Stepney.

To Be London Policeman

In order to become a member of the Metropolitan police force of London, the candidate must be a subject of pure British descent, over twenty and under twenty-seven, at least 5 feet 9 inches tall, physically fit, and of good moral character. Detectives of the criminal investigation department are recruited from the ranks of the uniformed constables and every candidate must have done at least one year and not more than seven years' duty in uniform. An examination has to be passed.

"Stir" an Old Word

The underworld word stir, meaning "prison or jail," is recorded as early as 1851, and was probably used before that time, says Literary Digest. It is undoubtedly a contraction of the gypsy term variously printed as straben or sterpen or stariben, meaning "prison." The word stir is found in several slang dictionaries printed 30 or 40 years ago, and is defined in the New Standard Dictionary as "Thieves' slang, A prison."

School opened the 4th as every one should know and one week has passed (finally). The usual number were lost but all have been found again. The junior class caused quite a bit of trouble in the program but the schedule is all straight now.

Before long we will probably forget that we ever did anything but go to school.

to show their 'intestinal fortitude' to show their 'intestinal fortitude' and go out for football. The prospects look pretty good this year. To the students' disappointment and the working people's joy, the football games are scheduled for Saturdays.

The game with Lincoln there, the latter part of September is one of the most "looked forward to" events of the football season.

Anyone would be proud to attend school in our new building. At least the fresh paint makes it look new and the basketball floor will just wait until you see it. The new parking space isn't put to much use right now but watch basketball and football fill up all the available spaces.

There are about 274 students enrolled this year. The Seniors have 54, the Juniors 61, the Sophomores 77 and the Freshmen 82. The Freshman classes are always large but by the time they are ready to graduate about half of the number remains. Incidentally, here's a list of this year's "greenies."

DONKEY BALL SATURDAY AFT. AT CITY PARK

(Con. from Page 1)

Each team shall take the field for ten minutes and then change sides.

4. The number of changes are two and three, depending on the time the game is called, and shall be decided before the game starts.

5. The batter shall take his regular stance in the batter's box, the same as he would in any other ball game. After hitting the ball or if the pitcher throws four balls he shall then mount his burro and proceed to ride down to first base.

6. If the ball is knocked to the outfield, the fielder must catch the ball if a fly ball while mounted on his burro. If not in position to make the catch he shall ride his burro within three feet of the ball, get off his burrow, get the ball, then again mount the burro before throwing the ball into the infield. He can also ride the burro to the infield, and make the putout by throwing or handing the ball to the nearest player, and he shall touch the man out, (touch the man not the burro) unless it's a force out.

7. After a ball has been hit by the batter the infielder is allowed to dismount his burro to catch a ground ball but must again mount his burro before making a throw.

8. All fly balls must be caught while sitting on the burro excepting by the pitcher and catcher.

9. The pitcher cannot make any putouts on any base. He can catch fly balls in his position.

10. The runner is allowed to take as many bases as he can until he is properly put out, as in any other ball game.

11. If any fielder shall throw the ball while off his burro the runner shall be declared safe.

12. Spurs shall not be allowed.

Last Monday, Sept. 3rd the nurse, Miss Daily, showed a film on teeth and their proper care; also with the aid of a small son of Mrs. Paul Smith demonstrated to the two classes how to properly care for and bathe a baby.

Overcoming Discouragement

LACK OF COURAGE! How many worthy enterprises have failed of achievement because men have listened to this subtle argument! What a destructive influence it seeks to exert over the affairs of mankind; yet it is really nonexistent—a negative condition. Can there possibly be insufficient courage for him who refuses to give up his right to this ever available, unlimited spiritual gift of courage? During times of financial stress it is often necessary to draw deeply upon it, if one would prove invalid the mortal claims of lack that appear on every hand.

A lesson in courage was gained by observing a young vine that had been carelessly planted in a rocky area against a brick wall. It had very little earth around its roots, and because of overhanging eaves, was deprived of rainfall. Yet, in spite of this, it had established itself. At first, progress aboveground was very much retarded, but at length a single stalk had climbed about two feet up the wall, when it was pulled down and broken off by a little child. One who had been observing the vine's persistence felt quite regretful to see its growth apparently thwarted, but a further lesson was learned when, within a short time, there grew from the broken end two branches where only one had been before.

For this little vine the business of turning out stems and leaves had to be taken care of. Instead of withering in the dry and stony ground, it thrust long roots down below the stones in search of moisture. From these deep roots the plant was well sustained, even through hot, dry summers. So the apparently unfavorable environment proved unable to prevent sturdy growth.

Those who are endeavoring to establish a business enterprise during a financial depression might well take a lesson from the vine. In such seemingly arid times, when business does not flow readily to the young concern, much courageous persistence is needed to continue spreading its roots beyond the disappointingly dry territory; thus the courage born of faith in God's sustaining laws will inevitably lead to profitable contacts. Strong, consistent, upward growth proves that the radical stand for progress yields good results. The withstanding of adversities may bring the experience which aids one in grounding his business so firmly on the knowledge of the truth that drought or storms are powerless to harm it. Pride in merely making "a good showing" must give place to the greater wisdom of first establishing a sound basis, for the overhead should not be more than the flow of business can sustain at all times. Even if a first achievement seems to come to grief, progressive expansion cannot long be checked if the foundation is well laid.

In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy has written (p. 199): "The devotion of thought to an honest achievement makes the achievement possible. Exceptions only confirm this rule, proving that failure is occasioned by a too feeble faith." Any business, to be truly successful, must be built on an ideal of honest and loving service to mankind, and not carried on for personal exaltation or selfish ambition. Thus established, it is indeed the "Father's business," and under the protection of the divine law of progress.

The disciple James writes, "If ye fulfil the royal law according to the scripture, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself, ye do well." Since all legitimate business is based primarily on this ideal of service, this royal law should be the tap-root that stimulates growth. Christian Science teaches that such a service has within itself all the essentials for prosperous expansion.

Under divine law there is no unfair competition by which one business succeeds at the expense of another. The service that each one can offer is a God-given ability, and is as individual to each as is the perfume of the rose or color of the sunflower. Although growing side by side, one plant cannot deprive its neighbor of the characteristics that belong to it. Is it cause for discouragement that grains of wheat can never become majestic oak trees? They can, however, develop into acres of grain, and who can say that these are of less importance than a forest of oak?

God's divine law, which protected and prospered an honest enterprise in ancient times, is just as effectual today, and the commandment given to Joshua is still as imperative: "Only be thou strong and very courageous, that thou mayest observe to do according to all the law, which Moses my servant commanded thee: turn not from it to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayest prosper whithersoever thou goest."—The Christian Science Monitor.

NO SEWERS, NO DRAINAGE CITY COUNCIL LEARNS

the city council in collaboration with a Springfield engineer made very ambitious plans for some big storm sewers for the city. It appears that the state highway department does not want to finance such a sewer system and has approved only that part of the program which would lay drains to the low places on the routes. As the city now has no sewers into which it could run the drains, there is very little prospect of getting anything done.

The city does have a snug sum of gas tax money coming to it. If Mr. Apple's objections to using this money for any other purpose but improvements on Route 32 and 132 could be overcome, this money might be made available for a street improvement program this fall. This has been done in other cities and Sullivan is sorely in need of such improvements.

One of the city officials commenting on CWA and PWA activities report that all Sullivan has ever gotten in the way of such federal aid was one man, one half day's work in Wyman park. Many local projects were approved but for some reason or other nothing was done.

When the town board met in East Nelson township for its regular September meeting, the resignation of C. A. Lane as supervisor was not presented, and consequently could not be acted on. While at present living in Sullivan, Mr. Lane retains his farming interests in E. Nelson township and will doubtless continue to serve until the expiration of his term next spring. There had been some talk that he would resign and that Orla Kimbrough would be named to fill the vacancy.

Many and varied are the services performed by the railroad on its never-ending round. Travelers eat, sleep and take their ease on swift-moving trains. Goods of every kind and description — grain and livestock, fruits and vegetables, coal and oil, cement and lumber, machinery and machine-made things—are transported here, there and everywhere. In truth a list of the services performed by the railroad would be as long as a list of the activities in which people everywhere are engaged.

Such services are not and cannot be mechanical only. They are the product of an organization which on the Illinois Central System is alert to its opportunities to serve. Every member of this organization joins me in inviting inquiries respecting its services.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

Rail fares are now the lowest of any form of transportation. Some examples. Decatur 55c, Lincoln $1.20, Peoria $2.09, Mattoon 33c.

The Illinois Central has not had a passenger fatality for nearly six years. During that time 185,000,000 persons have ridden 3,750,000,000 miles on 2,000,000 passenger trains.

During 1933, the Illinois Central operated 297,000 passenger trains, which carried 29,000,000 individuals 547,000,000 miles, or the equivalent of 450 times around the world.

Barry's chair went back with a rasp. "I'll be with you," he said briefly and was close on Petry's heels as he went back to the corral. It was the same corral where Comet had formerly been kept, and from which he had whickered a shrill welcome whenever Barry had approached. The sound came at that instant, as clear as a bugle call.

Comet in the corral first. "Barry!" "Yes?" He stopped and looked back, his eyes warming. "I haven't even attempted to thank you. You understand, don't you?" He gathered her hands into both of his and held them close together. "I don't want to be thanked. Just seeing you back here ought to be thanks for anybody."

"It was a great day. No matter what came of it, it can never be anything less than that. The signal was given and the water rushed down the sluiceways to make his wilderness blossom. Everybody cheered, and Uncle Bob gripped my shoulder and said, 'Barry you and I believed in this when other people laughed. When I go, this is to be yours.'"

Barry swung close, his fingers reaching for her hand. "You're precious to me, Anne, whether you want to be or not. Please promise that you won't try it. Not unless it's life or death."

DEMOCRATIC WOMAN LEADER HERE ON VISIT
Miss Nelle Taylor of Tuscola, recently appointed district committee woman for the 19th congressional district was in Sullivan Saturday conferring with Miss Mamie Patterson chairman of the Moultrie women's organization and other political leaders. Miss Taylor was formerly county superintendent of schools of Douglas county.
On her visit she was accompanied by her brother, Hon. Charles Taylor one of the old Democratic war heroes of central Illinois.
HORN BROTHERS BACK FROM SOUTHERN TOUR
James and Leo Horn, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Horn returned Friday evening from a tour of the southeast. They went as far south as Miami, Florida and visited with the Dave Roadman family, former Sullivan residents. They also stopped off to see Bill Fleming at Cornelia, Georgia. They visited many points of interest along their 3500 miles route.
James has resumed his duties in the bank and Leo is getting ready to enter the University of Illinois.
FIVE ACRES OF ALFALFA YIELDS 9 1/2 TONS HAY
G. R. Ridgeway of Allenville who owns a farm west of this city reports that 5 acres of new alfalfa gave a yield of about 9 1/2 tons of hay this year. Of this tonnage his renter Leon Graven got half.
While the wet weather is apt to make another crop, Mr. Ridgeway is doubtful whether or not he will make another cutting this fall.
—Mrs. J. H. Hughes, Catheryn and Evan spent Wednesday of last week in Sullivan visiting friends and attending the Farmers picnic.

GOING TO SCHOOL — OR ARE YOU BEING SENT?
(By J. J. Martin)

Occasional items in the various local papers, tell us the beginning of our next year's school is near at hand. We wonder if our boys and girls are fully ready for their entrance? Are their sails trimmed, main braces set, colors flying or a full head of steam in the boilers? Is this the year you are going to school, or are you still being sent; have you hitched your destiny to the Morning Star or are you aimlessly floating around in the fog? Do you desire to emulate our great men, the Washingtons, Jeffersons, Lincolns, Roosevelts, Fultons, Franklins, Edisons, the Linds, the Alcotts, the Jane Adamses, or are the prize fighters, ball players, golfers and bridge champions your main heroes?
You will likely be called on to read the "Ancient Mariner". Dickens works... Evangelism and others similar. Get all you can from these, but allow us to suggest you make an occasional sandwich with something like the following for filling: The Psalms of Life, The Village Blacksmith Maude Muller, The Tempest, To a Water Fowl; Behind Time, The Festival Board, Abon Ben Adam, Excelsior, Grataing and other short poems and prose. The first list is probably suitable for those dreamers who have time to spare on their hands; the others surely furnish meat for the workers; for those who want "To be up and doing," "Where at the flaming forge of life," must work out their own salvation. "Let us, then, be up and doing," will not doubt save us from the pangs of a wasted or mismanaged life as shown in Whittier's Maude Muller:
"Alas for maiden, also for judge For rich repiner and household drudge God pity them both, and pity us all Who vainly the hopes of youth recall.
For the saddest words of all tongue or pen, The saddest are these — It might have been."
Boys and girls, buckle down to your work. Aim high and you will shoot farther than with low aim. If you think the ones we have suggested as patterns — if they are too long past, savor of too much "Has beans" — old fogys, pick out some real live ones — real flesh and blood persons for your standards. We know Sullivan has good business men, fine doctors, smart lawyers, splendid editors and excellent farmers. Use the best of these as your guides or criterions for your future advancement, remembering as you forge ahead the motto the little boy fixed for his bantam hen — a big ostrich egg swinging before her neck, placarded as follows: "Look at this and do your best."
—The Loyal Women's class of the First Christian church will meet Thursday, September 13th at 2:30 p. m. with Mrs. Ella Blair.

HOUSEWIVES WORK DAILY IN PLACES OF GREAT DANGERS

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 5—Although not generally recognized as such, the kitchen in the average Illinois home is the most dangerous place in the house, according to Gladys J. Ward, home management extension specialist at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. The room is literally filled with equipment and utensils capable of inflicting serious, and sometimes fatal, injuries unless carefully and properly handled.

This opinion is borne out by a home safety survey which shows that at least half of the accidents that happen in the home occur in the kitchen. Fully 40 per cent of these accidents result from falls 18 per cent are cuts and scratches, and an equal number are in the nature of burn, scalds and explosions. Furthermore, kitchen accidents occur most often when the homemaker is tired or hurried.

On one side of the kitchen, points out Miss Ward is the stove, a necessary piece of equipment but a possible menace to those who come near it, especially young children. Of the 306 deaths from burns in Illinois last year, an appreciable number can be traced to the kitchen stove. Often they were caused by the use of kerosene or gasoline when starting or reviving the fire.

On top of the stove may be a pot or pan of boiling liquid or grease with the handle carelessly left extending over the edge of the stove. Reached by hand of a curious child or accidentally hit by a hurrying adult, the steaming contents may strike pain and permanent scars to the youngster or person nearby.

Close at hand is the kitchen sink equally helpful in the preparation of meals but likewise the cause of many accidents. Water and grease splashed over the side of the sink and not wiped up promptly is a common cause of many serious falls.

Teachers Who Will Instruct the Children of Moultrie in 1934-35

The following is Moultrie county's list of teachers for the 1934-1935 term as compiled by county superintendent Albert Walker.

Practically all of these teachers were here Monday to attend the institute and on Tuesday morning they got busy on the job of instructing the young of the land. These people are doing a great work. If they can encourage and inspire your children to make good—to be ambitious and energetic, they will have given them more of value than any money, lands, lots and other hereditaments which you may bequeath them. Give the teachers your hearty co-operation. They deserve it.

Vitamin Family Serves Mankind in Many Ways

Vitamin A is necessary for growth and reproduction; it maintains resistance to infections of different kinds, and promotes good health. Vitamin A is found in cod liver oil, butter, cream, milk, egg yolks, liver, kidney, salmon, and all green and yellow vegetables.

Vitamin B stimulates the appetite, helps lactation, prevents nerves becoming frayed, wards off diseases of the digestive tract, and helps ward off fatigue. The vitamin is destroyed by high temperature, and is found in whole grains, beans, peas, liver, wheat germ and yeast.

Vitamin C, first became famous because it was found to prevent scurvy. Since then it has been found necessary in building strong teeth and bones, promoting growth, good disposition, and general good health.

Probably the most famous member of the vitamin family is brother D, known to his friends as the Sunshine Vitamin. It is found in direct sunlight, and the best known substitutes are cod liver oil, salmon, egg yolk, and specially treated milk.

Vitamin E, not so well known as some of the others, is necessary to reproduction. It is found in whole grain cereals, milk, meat, and green vegetables.

The last of the vitamin family about which much is known is Vitamin G. The baby brother of the family, he helps the others in promoting normal growth and functions of the body. He helps to prevent pellagra and other skin troubles with which we humans are affected.

USE COMMON SENSE WHEN YOU USE YOUR AUTO HORN

Springfield, Ill., September 4th. Judicious use of automobile horns was urged by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes in a safety bulletin issued by the state automobile department today.

"Automobile horns were devised to promote safety in driving," Secretary Hughes said, "but lately complaints indicate their mis-use has become a nuisance and danger.

"Sound your horn when you are passing another automobile going in the same direction, unless you are sure the other driver knows of your approach or you are certain of passing him with sufficient margin to insure safety.

"However a horn should not be used to annoy other drivers. The blast of an automobile horn at the moment a car is passing in the opposite direction, is usually unnecessary and is not only an annoyance but a danger. It may jolt a sensitive driver's nerves sufficiently to affect his driving, and cause a collision.

"Another wide spread mis-use of the horn is at street intersections, equipped with stop lights. It is most annoying for a driver who is attempting to obey the law by waiting for a signal to proceed to have a driver behind him blow his horn the instant the amber light is on."

Crawfish Lures Bass

The crawfish, or crayfish as it is sometimes called, is one of the most important forms of bait for freshwater fishermen, being particularly attractive to bass. The crawfish resembles a lobster in form, although, of course, very small. Like the lobster, it is a hearty eater and is not at all select in its diet.

"Brand-New"

Before the streets of cities and towns were illuminated with lamps or electricity, it was customary for people to light their way at night by carrying burning torches, writes G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times. In England these torches were termed "brands," from which is derived our modern word "fire-brand."

Lighting the U. S. Capitol

Experiments in electric lighting in Washington began at the Capitol on November 20, 1878. The Forty-sixth congress appropriated $2,400 to light the building with electricity. After many tests, lamps were installed October 4, 1879. Edison electric lights were inaugurated at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue on October 15, 1881. F street between Ninth and Fifteenth was lighted by electricity in 1882. It is true that the Capital was slow in installing electric street lights.

Devil's Tower

Devil's Tower is a huge shaft of columnar igneous rock on the banks of the Belle Fourche river. It is located 25 miles northeast of Moorcroft, Wyo., and was made a United States national monument October 4, 1915. # Five Veterans Carry Hopes Of Bethany Eleven

Cunningham Begins 8th Season With Squad of 40. Five Home Contests to be Played at Night.

(By Jim Scott)

Bethany—While Coach Guy Cunningham of Bethany is not a member of that well-known chorus of grid coaches who about this time of year are singing its Blues song, he nevertheless is far from optimistic over his current eleven. "We're a little heavier than last year, but prospects as a whole are not so good," said Cunningham, who this week is rounding into his eighth year at the local institution.

Seven of last year's lettermen—Grab, Reedy, Shaffer, Clark, Travis, O. Mathias, and Burrows—have been graduated while eight returned and were on hands for the first practice drills held Tuesday afternoon.

The regulars are: three backs Harold Moon, Melvin Weakly and Bob McCord; Pat Cordray, a blimp like center with three years' experience; and Mervin Mathias, an end. The fleet-footed Moon will handle the punting and passing while Cordray will probably serve as captain.

Marvin Davis, Lloyd Smith and Howard Oathout also won monograms last fall, but did not play regularly.

Chrisman A Comer
Two of the best looking prospects among the newcomers are Chrisman and Bandy, the latter a junior transfer from Hammond. Chrisman is a well-built 155-lb. freshman and brother of Fred Chrisman, who was quite a performer at Assumption high some years back.

Of the some 40 aspirants the following others are expected to make serious bids for a starting position: Garrett, V. Oathout, Ward, Rule, Mallinson, T. Weakly, P. Green, Moody, Stocks, David, Orris, Marshall, Green, Lindley, McConnell, Dawson, Lumsden, Soper, Moon, Schwartz and Dick.

At least the Orange and Black will enjoy a good season at the gate, for Cunningham has booked six home contests, all of which will be waged under the lights.

The Schedule:

Sept. 21—Shelbyville at Bethany.
Sept. 28—Blue Mound at Bethany (x).

Many Names Originated With Hebrews, Teutons

Names are so intimately associated with personalities that their traditions, their derivations, and their evolutions from one language into another provide an absorbing topic—especially to parents seeking appropriate names for the most recent additions to the family circle.

In the dawn of history, in the Old Testament era, notes a writer in the Chicago Tribune, names conferred by parents on the eventual patriarchs of the Hebrews were descriptive phrases, which have been handed down from generation to generation. Thus Joseph was so called because he was not the first child, the old Hebrew translation of the name being "Addition." When Benjamin was born, his mother, Rachel, feeling that his birth must cost her own life, called him Benoni, meaning "Son of sorrow," which his father modified to Benjamin, interpreted "Son of my right hand."

Thus many names in use today originated in the old Hebrew tongue, being varied somewhat in spelling and pronunciation as they were adopted by other nations and races.

Many more hark back to the Teutons and reflect meanings closely associated with the deities and the warlike spirit of the people who first used them. These include many references to battle and to animals. The various traits of the latter—strength or cunning or speed—were commemorated in Teutonic titles. Few names in this category were suggested by complexions, which frequently inspired the Celtic clans—"the ruddy," "the yellow," "the dark," "the white," being applied in numerous instances to distinguish a man or a maid.

E Pluribus Unum, Motto on U. S. Seal and Coins

"E Pluribus Unum"—One out of many—is the Latin motto which appears on the obverse of the great seal of the United States. It is thus the "official" motto of the government, and by act of congress is also inscribed on the coins.

The motto was originally proposed on August 1, 1776, by a committee of three which had been appointed by the Continental congress to prepare a device for a state seal. The committee consisted, incidentally, of Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson.

Their suggested seal was not accepted, however, and it was not until June 20, 1782, that the motto was adopted as part of the second and successful device, which was submitted by Charles Thompson, secretary of congress.

It was in 1796 that congress directed the employment of "E Pluribus Unum" on the coinage. On the great seal it was inscribed upon a scroll issuing from an eagle's mouth. It also so appears on many coins.

The motto itself is an ancient turn of phrase, to be found in a number of the classical authors.

Smoke Frozen in the Sky

Messages in smoke, frozen on the face of the skies, may be a familiar feature of daily life soon. The airplanes producing these messages will work at a height of 20,000 feet, so that the pilots will have to wear electrically-heated suits. The intense cold at this altitude will, however, have certain advantages. The smoke will be at least partially frozen on coming in contact with the air, and this will enable the messages to remain legible for a longer period. Also, at 20,000 feet up, atmospheric disturbances will be less, which will be an additional help in keeping the image clear.

The Sar

The Norwegian expedition of 1910 proved definitely that the Sargasso sea does not contain a mass of marine plants so dense and thick that sailing ships venturing therein are held indefinitely without the power to free themselves. The position of the Sargasso sea varies with the wind and currents, but is approximately 20 to 35 degrees north and 30 to 70 degrees west. There is no record of any other places where derelict vessels might be detained, though there are areas in the Pacific, Indian and Antarctic similar to the Sargasso sea in the Atlantic.

First Greyhound Race

The museum at the Guildhall, London, contains a cup which proves that even eighteen hundred years ago the Londoner was fond of greyhounds. The border at the top is made of a circle of them chasing each other around the rim. Its unusual shape suggests that it was given as a prize probably for some sort of greyhound race. So it is possible that greyhound racing took place in London about 100 A. D., when the cup was made.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

"Fool's Gold"

Gold is not usually found with coal or coal formations. The yellow crystals and flakes are probably iron pyrites, a sulphide of iron commonly found with coal and most minerals. Its crystallizations are well marked and often of much beauty, while its brilliant luster and golden color have given it a fictitious resemblance to gold. Hence its name, "fool's gold."

Fireflies Operate Own Light Plant in Stomach

Without fire and without electricity, the tiny flashing lanterns which are the fireflies and the fox-fire fungus of wood, brighten northern summer nights and twinkle through tropic evenings.

The little fireflies secrete two juices which, when they are mixed together, glow. The juices are made in their stomachs as a part of their ordinary digestion, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Scientists have taken similar substances from different kinds of animals, and by mixing them, have created the same glowing light that the firefly does in its ordinary living.

Another kind of "cold light" is foxfire, or "punk," as children often call the small pieces of fungus-covered wood which one sees glowing almost anywhere in the woods at night. Fox-fire wood shines with a light caused by substances similar to those in the firefly's abdomen, but whereas the light of the firefly is rather golden, the light of the "punk" has all the colors ranging from violet to orange, with green predominating.

Other night-shining creatures are those which make the Mediterranean and other tropical seas wonderfully luminous at night. These tiny swimmers, which are too small to be seen without the aid of a microscope, float on top of the water, making it flash with gold as each little wave laden with millions of them rolls after its neighbor. And the light they give is mostly a violet light, containing no red at all when it is tested by the spectroscopic, which separates out all the colors of white light.

Capt. Daniel Boone Rose to the Rank of Colonel

Daniel Boone was commissioned a captain in the Virginia militia and rose to the rank of colonel. Most of his fighting was against Indians in the British service during the Revolution.

Zachary Taylor held the rank of major general at the close of the Mexican war. As President he was also commander in chief of the army and navy. William Stark Rosecrans was a brigadier general in the Civil war. George H. Thomas was a major general at the close of the Civil war and three years later declined the brevet rank of lieutenant general offered him by President Johnson.

Oliver Hazard Perry was a lieutenant when he won the battle of Lake Erie. Congress made him a captain as part of his reward, and after the war he attained the rank of commodore.

Oliver Otis Howard and John A. Logan both attained their highest rank, that of major general, in the Civil war. Joseph Eggleston Johnston resigned his commission as brigadier general in the United States army at the outbreak of the Civil war and rose to the rank of general in the Confederate service.

Joseph Warren was a major general in the Revolution. Stephen Decatur attained the rank of commodore after the War of 1812.

Mass Movement of Buffalo

Among the more prodigious and headstrong animal migrations is that of the western buffalo—an epic recorded by buffalo hunters and others who followed its last wild trek. Seton mapped the migrations of what he called the Saskatchewan and the Red river herds. The territory involved is northern Montana, North Dakota, with a small area running across the Canadian border.

Early in the Nineteenth century the Red river buffalo herd went north by the Souris and the Qu'Appelle valleys, and came south along the Red river. But on account of the growing Selkirk settlement, they abandoned the Red river and in 1820 went south by the Pembina hills route. This movement of buffalo, it is deduced from the journal of an old-timer in the Red river valley, represented a migration of 40,000,000, before ranchers moved into the Northwest.

Disgraceful Birds

There are exceptions in the birds' world, one being the graceful hoopoe, for this bird keeps its nest in a disgraceful condition. Birds that build no nests and live in vast colonies, such as the guillemot, have the most appalling stench surrounding their young. This also applies to the gannet and cormorant, both of which build nests, but this does not seem to inconvenience them, for the sense of smell in these birds is poorly developed. Most nests are kept clean, especially those belonging to hedge-building birds. The homes of thrushes, tits, finches, and others are almost as clean after the young have been reared as when they were first built.

First Use of Milk Bottles

The bureau of dairy industry says that the earliest date of which it has record for the use of glass bottles for milk distribution is 1878. In that year Alexander Campbell of Brooklyn, N. Y., used glass jars, which were the forerunner of the milk bottle. The same type appeared in Philadelphia in 1885. The first bottle which resembled the modern type was Thatcher's common sense bottle, which was patented in 1889.

Greeting President at Hyde Park Home

HYDE PARK, N. Y. . . . President Roosevelt has deserted the Potomac for the Hudson River's scenic beauty, to sojourn for 30 days at his home here. Photo shows the President being greeted by a group of children upon his arrival home. . . . Executive offices of the "Summer White House" have been established at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a short ride from Hyde Park.

Speaking of Sports

(By Jim Scott)

The Pittsburg Pirates are appearing in Peterson park, Mattoon Sept. 24, in an exhibition game with the strong Mattoon Boosters.

The Boosters have played hosts to the Freebooters on two previous occasions, losing, of course by scores of 6-4 and 6-3.

This attraction will undoubtedly lift the Mattoon club out of the scarlet, for the Bucs charge only $500 for their half of the entertainment and the last time the two clashed, gate receipts totaled $1675. The admission fee to the park will be 50 cents with another 50 cent charge for a grandstand seat.

Claud Hennings, at Mattoon second baseman, is responsible for these gala exhibitions, he being intimately acquainted with Secretary Wallace and other high moguls of the Pittsburg organization.

Hennings, a seasoned campaigner, doesn't appear to be on the other side of 34, but appearance, in this case, is deceptive, as he has a grown daughter, who was runner-up in the city's recent homecoming queen contest.

Football critics have rated Jack Beynon, the Illinois quarterback, as one of the greatest forward passers the game has ever known.

It follows then that the new rules relative to the forward pass should prove a decided aid to the Illini in their drive for a conference championship.

Time and repeatedly we have watched Beynon's dart-like passes carry the Zupmen on a long downfield march, but as the eleven moved into the shadows of the enemy goal post it was no longer advisable to pass and without this deadly weapon the attack would invariably bog down to a few ineffective attempts at line plunging.

Such will not be the case this year as the new rules will make for a wide open game in an atmosphere of passes.

The most important of the new rules is the one stating that the first incomplete forward pass into the end zone shall be scored merely as another down. Last year said pass was a touchback, the ball reverting to the opponents on the 20 yard line.

A second pass over the goal line or, of course, one over the strop on a fourth down, goes as a touchback.

They've abolished the five-yard penalty for the second incomplete forward pass in the same series of downs.

Another change redefines a punt permitting a man to hold the ball and another to kick it. This will result in many screen formations with a resultant quick kick which should prove a lulu.

Merz Brandenburg of the Mattoon Boosters, won his freshman football numerals at Illinois then later transferred to Charleston Normal, where he played last fall.

Merz, a slender six-footer, is an end. . . . Mattoon high has given some notable figures to this world of football. . . . And the one who shined most brightly in high school—Johnny Koessler, turned out to be the least lustrous of the group.

Johnny was once a night unstoppable phantom. . . . He crossed the goal line five times in a post season game with Waller high of Chicago, whom the Green and Gold drubbed at something like 60 to 0. He too earned freshman numerals at the State university only to wind up among Charleston's horde of mediocreties. . . . Zeke Bonura of the White Sox attended Loyola university, New Orleans, and was an ace performer in football, baseball, basketball and track. . . . He tossed the javelin around 214 feet.

Pete Susko, the Senator's new first sacker, once held down a similar assignment with Springfield of the Three-I loop. . . . Steve Mesner, a 16-year old third baseman is ranked with best in the Western Association.

Sandwiches will keep many hours if placed in a covered earthen jar which in turn is set in a pan of cold water.

Put wax paper over watermelon that has been cut. It will keep fresh and moist for a long time.

Fresh berries keep much longer if they are turned out of their boxes into a plate so that the air may circulate about them freely.

Lemons will not decay if they are kept in cold water that is regularly changed every day.

Beef, especially steaks should be chosen by tests of elastic red meat and firm white fat.

You can prevent eggs from cracking by pricking with a pin before you boil them.

Letters H, I, J and K of Phoenician Origin

Four letters of the alphabet, H, I, J and K, have had interesting developments. The first of them, H, was called het in the Phoenician alphabet, from which it passed into the Greek language. The Greeks of Asia, however, lost the aspirate value of H. The western Greeks retained the aspirate, and it thus passed into the Latin alphabet and down to us.

The next two letters, I and J, are historically the same symbol. The letter J first appeared with an independent value of its own as recently as the Fifteenth century. Originally J was only a modification of the Latin I. The letter I, although inherited from the Phoenician alphabet, underwent considerable change in meaning and value to acquire its modern value. In the Phoenician I was yod and had the corresponding value of the English Y. The dot over the small i was a development of the Fifth and Sixth century, A. D.

Perhaps the least change since earliest times of any of the letters of our alphabet is the symbol K. In the Phoenician K was named kaph, which in Greek became kappa. Throughout K has represented an unvoiced guttural sound. In Latin K was to a great extent displaced by G, but K never was dropped completely. The letter C also replaced K in Anglo Saxon through Latin influence. In English the use of C with the sound value of K is called the hard C.—Chicago Tribune.

Ranchmen in Oregon Use Wells as Weather Guide

In the desert-like regions of Oregon, the cattlemen put their ears to the ground when they wish to find out if rain is coming. These arid lands have no surface water and the necessary liquid is secured from artesian wells, drilled through hundreds of feet of basaltic rock to the underlying gravel. When the weather is settled these wells are quiet, but, on the approach of storms, strong air currents are driven off from the underground openings. In this way the wells provide accurate natural barometers for the ranchers. What really happens is that the atmospheric pressure decreases in the region, causing a low pressure area, a term frequently used by the weather experts. This is always associated with rainy conditions. The atmospheric pressure in these deep Oregon wells is, ordinarily, the same as that on the surface, but when a low pressure appears at the surface, the air in the well is then at a high pressure. The high pressure air of the well then rushes out into the upper air until the pressure is equalized. Anyone placing his ear close to one of these well openings will hear a strong hissing noise, and sometimes feel a distinct rush of air against the face. At such times a piece of paper placed over the opening will be blown up to some height in the air. The more pronounced this uprush of air the sooner and more severe will be the storm.

Switzerland Has Much Snow

Switzerland is an inland mountainous country in the central portion of the Alps and has an area of 15,976 square miles. The northwest of the country, bounding France and Germany, consists of some of the parallel ridges and valley of the Jura mountains. Between Lake Constance on the Rhine and the Lake of Geneva on the Rhone, are the Lakes Neuchatel, Zurich, Lucerne, Brenz and Biennne, which all drain to the Ar. Lake Geneva and Lake Constance each exceed 200 square miles in area. Owing to its elevation much of Switzerland is under permanent snow.

Racketeering, Extortion

Racketeering and extortion are by no means a product of our own particular civilization, says Literary Digest. The American Museum of Natural History, New York, has just acquired a series of Mexican codices dealing with the period following the Spanish conquest, revealing the extortionate practices of Martin Cortez, son of the conqueror of Mexico, in dealing with the subjugated Indians. The codices consist mainly of appeals by the Indians against gouging.

Old Quebec

The old French city of Quebec of the Seventeenth century and the ancient capital of Canada, and modern Quebec, the provincial capital, are two distinct and yet united cities. They form a green center of art, sacred and secular history, architecture and religion. Not far from the old city is the village of St. Anne de Beaupre. The shrine of St. Anne has been a point of pious pilgrimage ever since the first establishment of Canada.

If Earth Stopped Rotating

The Coast and Geodetic survey says that the usual daily and semi-daily rise and fall of the tide undoubtedly cease if the earth ceased rotating. There would, however, be a semi-monthly and semi-yearly tide of small amplitude due to the monthly revolutions of the moon around the earth and the yearly revolution of the earth around the sun.
